THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 6. 1898. NO. 1.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

MARRIED AMID FLOWERS

CHARMING HOME WEDDING OF MISS ROCAP AND W. M. JENKINS.

The Ceremony Was Performed at the Home of the Bride Tuesday Evening—Couple Left for the Southern States.

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season was that of Miss Martha Rocap, of this city, and William Eastman Jenkins, of Patchogue, L. I., which was solemnized last Tuesday at the home of the bride, 615 Central avenue.

The house presented a most charming appearance, being decorated with evergreens, palms, holly and cut flowers. The parlor, where the ceremony took place, was a veritable bower of greenery, the large bow window in the extremity of the room being converted into a pretty alcove of trailing vines, through which the light shone with fairy-like effect. Pink roses and ribbons of the same color gave an effect of pink and green to the decorations.

The wedding ceremony was private, only the relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends being present. Precisely at 7 o'clock the strains of the wedding march were heard, announcing the coming of the bridal party. Little Marion Rocap made a charming flower girl. Miss Gladys Woodruff and Miss Katharyn Hay unwound the white ribbons leading the aisle, and the bride and groom then entered. The bride was dressed in pearl gray peau de soixe silk, and carried a bouquet of pink bridal roses.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held, and Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins received the congratulations of their many friends. During the reception, which lasted from half past seven to half-past nine o'clock, the guests were served with refreshments in a manner that was unique and novel. The bride followed the old-fashioned custom of cutting the bride's cake. Mrs. Charles E. Rocap and Mrs. W. H. Moore served the coffee and chocolate, assisted by Mrs. John Titsworth, Mrs. L. C. Rogers, Mrs. George Titsworth and Mrs. Arthur Titsworth. The wedding presents were numerous and of great beauty and value.

The bride and groom departed on the 10 o'clock train upon their wedding journey. The honeymoon will be spent in the southern states, and upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will reside at the bride's home in Central avenue, and in the spring they will leave for Patchogue, where they will spend the summer months.

ANOTHER MISSION FOR PLAINFIELD.

A Danish Lutheran Mission to be Started Next Week.

The mission work which has been carried on among the Danish people of this city by Rev. Chr. C. Hengen, of Philadelphia, for some time past, has met with such a measure of success in the way of attendance and general interest that it has been decided to organize an evangelical Lutheran Mission. The meeting for organization will be held in the German Lutheran church on Grove street next Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The mission will gradually enlarge its work among the Scandinavians and Danes in this city. The first step will be to increase the services from one to two a month.

The promotors of the movement have issued a notice inviting all Scandinavians and Danes to co operate in the work of establishing the mission.

Colored Knights Elect.

Goodwill Lodge, No. 8, colored Knights of Pythias, elected the following officers at their last meeting: Chancellor-commander, W. G. John son; vice-commander, Wm. Downs; prelate, L. L. Croom; master of work, C. C. Cannon; keeper of records and seals, R. Cruse; master of finance, Frank DeHart; master of arts, James Scott; master of exchequer, Herbert Smith; representative to grand lodge, one year, Grant Cannon; alternate, L. L. Croom; trustees, L. L. Croom, James Scott and William Downs. The installation services will be held this evening.

A New Manager

J. Elston Woodland, a well-known Plainfield young man, has been appointed manager of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company, vice Mr. Dawson, resigned. Mr. Woodland has been associated with the company in Newark and is well-fitted for the place. Mr. Dawson, who has made a host of friends in this city, will return to his home in New York. His friends will regret to learn of his change, but wish him success in his new venture.

WAVED TROUBLES ASIDE

NOW HIS PARTNER HAS ASKED FOR A RECEIVER FOR THE FIRM.

The History of the Firm of Verrette & Maccaroni, Brickmakers, Has Been Warm and Exciting—The Culmination.

The troubles which have beset the firm of Verrette & Maccaroni, the proprietors of a brickyard at New Providence, have been engaging the attention of the public for several months past. Tuesday they culminated in an application for a receiver for the firm, made by Verrette through his solicitor, William Newcorn, of this city, before Chancellor McGill.

The history of the firm has been a troublous one from the time of its organization. Last summer there were frequent strikes of the employes and the parties were in the courts several times in attempts to settle their differences. The present proceedings are based on a bill for accounting and the appointment of a receiver. In it Verrette alleges that on the first day of last June he and Maccaroni formed a partnership in New Providence and erected the plant for manufacturing brick.

The agreement when the enterprise was started, he claims, was that each of the partners was to share equally in the expenses and the profits. Trouble soon arose between the two men, as Verrette was dissatisfied with the course pursued by Maccaroni, claiming that he was being defrauded of his share of the profits. The bill for a receiver calls attention to this fact, alleging that over 800,000 brick have been burnt by and disposed of by the firm, and that Maccaroni has pocketed the cash resulting from the sales of the brick and has persistently refused to make an accounting to his partner.

The debts which the firm has contracted since its organization have been allowed to remain unpaid, and have accumulated into a considerable sum. When spoken to regarding these obligations Maccaroni waved them aside with a flourish of the hand.

Thanked the Board of Governors.

A regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, met at the Public Library Friday afternoon and listened to reports presented by Miss Elizabeth Haviland, treasurer; Mrs. John Bushnell, recording secretary, and Mrs. George Randall, corresponding secretary. The women received a vote of thanks from the board of governors thanking them for their efficient work in making the Spielkartenfest a success.

A Mock Trial Decided.

The Plainfield Debating Society held a mock trial in Justice Nash's office New Year's Day afternoon. The case was that of Harry Limbarger against Harry DeMesa, in tort. The suit was for alleged damages in a collison between the plaintiff's bicycle and the defendant's horse and carriage. William V. Nash, Jr., was the young lawyer for the plaintiff and William Sweeney for the defence. The plaintiff finally secured a verdict.

Greeting From State President

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel was held last Tuesday. Nothing of any importance was transacted. A New Year's greeting from State President Brett was read, and he members decided to continue the fifteen-minute praise and prayer service each Tuesday evening previous to the regular meeting.

Discharged From the Hospital

Mr. McGloin, of Chimney Rock, who sustained an injury to his eye recently, and who has been under treatment at the hospital, was discharged Monday. Mr. Ameit, of Martinsville, who is now at the hospital being treated for an injury received from the kick of a horse, is doing well and will be able to leave the hospital soon.

Builder of Washington Ill.

Hon. Alexander R. Shepard, of Washington, D. C., an uncle of Mrs. Helen M. Harned, wife of the proprietor of the Harned Academy, Park avenue, is very ill and is thought to be dying with apoplexy. He was the man who converted the National Capital from a city of swamps and mud banks into its present beautiful condition.

Honorable Mention.

The following named persons, members of grade 1 A, room K, of the North Plainfield Public School, have not been absent nor tardy during the past four months ending December 25th: George A Bailey, Frank Cashen, Leslie Powlison, Cassie Deter and Margaret Rickert.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace Church for the month of December are: Raymond Cobb, Ed. Daniel, D. Murphy, H. Messerschmidt, Kendall Mason, Reginald Chandor and the Misses M. Smith, E. VanDeventer, E. Nri and S. Ball.

MAYOR CHARLES J. FISK'S ANNUAL MESSAGE.

FULL TEXT OF HIS ADDRESS TO THE INCOMING COMMON COUNCIL OF 1898.

The City Jail Condemned—Startling Suggestions for the Street Department—Needs of the Fire Department—The Question of Street Lighting.

The annual message of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, which was read at the first meeting of the Common Council of 1898, held last Monday, was of unusual interest to the Councilmen and to the citizens of the city as well. The report is given in full as follows:

January 3rd, 1898.

Honorable Common Council, City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen:

In order to conduct the affairs of a growing municipality, such as the city of Plainfield, in a business like manner that will give the city such needed improvements as are necessary, maintain the high standard of efficiency in each of the various departments, and, at the same time, to so manage affairs that the taxes put upon the people are at such a rate that they will not be considered extravagant or oppressive, will require the best thought and judgment, both collectively and individually, of each member of you honorable body. As seven members forming a majority of the Common Council of 1898, have been newly-elected and have not the advantage of knowing exactly the present condition of the different departments of our city government, and wishing to aid them to the best of my ability in forming their judgment as to what is the best action to take, as the different questions are brought before them I have decided to give a general review of the work of the Common Council during the past year, subdivided under the heading of the different committees of the Common Council, coupled with such recommendations and suggestions as, in my judgment, would bring about the best results and meet with the approval of the taxpayers.

A careful examination of the reports of the different city officers and various committees of the Common Council for the past year, will show not only that the city today is in a sound financial condition, but also that all the various departments are well organized and in good working order.

FINANCES.

The Treasurer's statement shows a reduction in cash balances in general fund in comparison with the close of the year 1896, which is accounted for by the fact that the taxes for the year 1897 have not been paid as promptly as were the taxes of 1896.

Take the case of State and county taxes; the amount paid over to the Treasurer for the year 1897 was only $44,874.73, while the amount levied, and which the city was required to pay to the County Collector, was $61,127.88, showing that the percentage of taxes paid in was not quite seventy-five per cent. (75).

This same fact holds good in regard to taxes levied for city purposes. It was, therefore, necessary to borrow about $19,000 on short-time notes in anticipation of the collection of taxes, which will be paid off as the taxes are collected.

The other funds, viz: fire department, poor and sewer, interest and bond accounts, all show cash balances on hand in addition to outstanding taxes, after providing for all unpaid notes or other liabilities.

In my message, January, 1897, I recommended the changing of the dates of beginning and ending of the fiscal year; also the date on which taxes should become delinquent. The Council for some reason did not deem it wise to act on this suggestion. Nevertheless in my opinion this recommendation should be acted upon. The saving to the taxpayers in the matter of interest would be nearly $1,000. As the matter stands now the City is required to borrow in anticipation of payment of taxes in order to meet its obligations, and the taxes are not paid until the end of the year for which the assessment is made. If the beginning of the fiscal year was say July 1st, and the taxes were made payable in August or September, the city would then be able to collect the money before it was required to be paid out, and do away with the necessity of borrowing money. The city of Elizabeth, since making such a change as I suggest, has, I have been informed, always has money in hand, and has saved all discounts. By an arrangement with the Collector of Taxes, by which his salary was fixed at $2,000, to cover all services including collection of delinquent taxes, instead of $1,500 as heretofore, with a commission for collection of delinquent taxes, the Council made a saving in the salary and commission account of over $900. The penalties paid by delinquent taxpayers, and turned into the city, amounted to $2,637, showing that the expenses of the Tax Collector's office were all paid by the delinquent taxpayers, and that the city received a credit of $637 in addition.

A further saving should be made in the salary account by reducing the salary of the City Clerk at least $300, which was the additional amount allowed when it was necessary to have some one to keep the Treasurer's books. This being no longer required since the election of the present Treasurer, the salary should be reduced.

STREETS AND SEWERS.

This department of the city work I will take up under the separate head ings.

STREETS.

I have examined carefully the reports of the Committee relating to streets for the year ending, 1897, and also the report of the Street Commissioner. In addition I have made an independent examination of the present condition of the streets, and have had a report in detail of the exact condition of each street. A copy of this report I have placed in the hands of the Street Commissioner, where it will be at the disposal of the newly appointed Committee.

The reports of both the Committee on Streets and Sewers and the Street Commissioner set forth in detail what had been done, and I concur fully with them in their conclusions in regard to street work. These reports should be carefully read and considered by the next Committee. That the matter of street cleaning and general repairs has been necessarily curtailed on account of lack of funds to properly carry them on there is no doubt. The extraordinary repairs and recadamizing of some of the main streets was absolutely necessary. The enforcing the laying of sidewalks where the public welfare demands it may work hardships in individual cases, but the people demand a good sidewalk and are entitled to it. The enforcing of setting curb in my opinion should only be pushed in sections of the city when required for the preservation of the streets, and then done in a way that will be as easy for the property owners as possible. On many streets grass turf is all that is required, and in the outlying districts serves every purpose and is much more picturesque. In other cases a curb is required to make the streets look uniform, but is not an absolute necessity. I would recommend that in future setting of curb only be enforced where absolutely necessary, and that as much time be given the property owners as possible when in your opinion the public good demands that you should order curb set.

I suggest and recommend that the Common Council, through their Committee on Streets and Sewers, create a department to be known as the Department of Street Cleaning and Repairs, to include all street cleaning and ordinary repairs and take charge of all removal of garbage, ashes or other offal or refuse matter, and to be directly under the charge and full control of the Street Commissioner; that the city be divided into twelve districts, as suggested in the attached schedule; the work of cleaning the streets and keeping them in repair in the respective districts, in accordance with specifications to be furnished by the Street Commissioner, and to be subject to his approval, to be let out by contract to the lowest bidder who will give a satisfactory guarantee and file a bond to secure faithful performance of his contract. The contractor to have the exclusive permit to collect all garbage, ashes, etc., in his respective district, for which he be allowed to charge the householder or tenant an amount, say fifty cents or twenty-five cents a month for garbage, and five cents or ten cents a barrel for ashes, and fifty cents a load for rubbish. The city to furnish the necessary dump for ashes, etc. All garbage or offal matter to be delivered to the crematory.

Some plan as above suggested properly carried out will ensure clean, well kept streets in all parts of the city, and I have no doubt can be accomplished at a large savin of money in comparison with the present system.

All extraordinary repairs, such as completely re-macadamizing a street, or putting down new macadam, to be

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

FEELING AGAINST HAND

SO HIS APPLICATION FOR A HOSTELRY WAS WITHDRAWN.

He Wanted to Start Another Hotel in Dunellen—Mayor, Council and Many Citizens Opposed It—Judge Strong's Remarks.

The petit jury of Middlesex county met at the court house in New Brunswick Tuesday morning and a large number of witnesses, indicted people and lawyers were also present. Judge Strong presided. Licenses and criminal matters were disposed of.

The application of Fred W. Hand to keep a bottling establishment in Dunellen was considered. H. B. Willis presented a remonstrance on the ground that the applicant is a resident of North Plainfield, not of Dunellen, that he intends to put Michael Watson, a man to whom the court had refused a license, in charge of the place, that the place would attract disorderly persons, that an increased police force would be required, and that there are already two hotels in Dunellen.

The remonstrance was signed by Mayor Peter W. Brakeley, all the members of the Borough Council and a number of other representative citizens. Mr. Willis was about to enter a more elaborate protest against the place, when Judge Strong interrupted him by saying that of his personal knowledge of the liquor supply for that locality that he would reject the application and that it would require a very strong case on the part of the applicant to overcome his almost conclusive conclusion.

Howard MacSherry, who represented Mr. Hand, asked permission to withdraw the application. This was allowed. It is the second time that the application has been before the Court. Then followed other applications and several trials

WORK AT M'CALL MISSION

Mrs. Le Gay, the Founder of the Plainfield Auxiliary, Made an Address.

The McAll Auxiliary of this city has been in existence for twelve years, and has done a noble and successful work, interesting itself in and contributing to the well-known McAll Mission which was begun in Paris in 1872. The regular meeting of the Auxiliary was held yesterday in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and the members and their friends, who attended in unusually large numbers, had the pleasure of listening to an address from the founder of the Plainfield organization, Mrs. Le Gay, of Paris, who has borne an active part in the work of the mission.

Mrs DeGay's address dealt largely with the work done by the three mission halls which the Plainfield Auxiliary supports in the large city of Limoges, a city entirely under the control of Roman Catholic priests, at the time the halls were opened, but where a great work is now being done, especially among the soldiers stationed there. She also told something of the good done by the other stations of the McAll Mission, and of her own work, the conducting of mother's meetings, which have had a vast influence in refining and Christianizing the rough women among the lower classes of Paris.

Mrs. LeGay complimented the Plainfield women on their successful work and urged their continuance in it, as France is now far more open to Protestant influences than ever before.

Social Sisters Met.

The Sixteen Social Sisters Whist Club was entertained last Tuesday by the president, Miss Dora Ulrich, at her home on East Fifth street. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with red and white, the club colors, and also with a profusion of holly and evergreens. Miss Helen Hockridge won the first prize, and Miss Grace Ulrich, who acted as substitute, captured the second prize. After the prizes were awarded the members enjoyed a dance.

An Approaching Marriage.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman Randolph for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Idelette De Burr Randolph, to Jed Mills Smalley, of Craig place. The marriage will take place Wednesday evening, January 12th, at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, 228 Somerset street.

Contest for a Cane.

John Butscher, of the Plainfield Catholic Club, was awarded a gold-headed cane Friday evening for having bowled the best score in a match at the club. The score was 198 and was bowled in a match between two picked teams. The cane was presented by John Comerford, of the club.

The Silent Eight.

The Silent Eight Old Maids' Sewing Circle held a meeting at the residence of Miss Pangborn on Chatham street Tuesday afternoon.

THE PASTOR'S SALARY.

SEVERAL OF THE TRUSTEES WANTED TO REDUCE IT.

The Congregation of the Scotch Plains Baptist Church Decided Otherwise—The Action Caused by a Large Deficit.

The members of the historic Scotch Plains Baptist church are considerably disturbed in mind and temper over the question of the amount which they shall pay their pastor, Rev. J. S. Braker, for his labors in the church. The matter came to a climax at a special parish meeting held Tuesday, when a motion was made to reduce the salary of the pastor. The result of the vote was the defeat of the motion and a substantial victory for the pastor.

The suggestion to reduce the pastor's salary arose not from any dissatisfaction with Mr. Braker, who is popular with his congregation, but it was thought to be necessary by some members of the board of trustees in order to enable the church to meet the expenses of the recent sesqui-centennial celebration of the church. This cost $400, and a history of the church prepared in connection with the celebration cost an additional $150. The revenues received from the congregation have not been as large as was anticipated, and the result has been a deficit in the church treasury. Several of the trustees favored reducing the pastor's salary from $1,300 to $900, without consulting the members of the congregation, but a strong minority protested so loudly that it was decided to call a special parish meeting to decide the matter.

The church corporation is the owner of a very large estate, and many of the church members demand that the money to defray the outstanding debts be taken from the estate. This the trustees are unwilling to do, claiming that the principal should not be impaired, and that one of the conditions under which the money was given was that it should be used in the spread of the gospel. Centennial celebrations, they say, are not strictly in the line of gospel services.

Entertained Their Classes.

Mrs. John H. Carney, Miss Margaret Schuck and Miss Della Voehl entertained their Sunday-school scholars with a pleasant social affair at the residence of Mrs. Carney, 40 Craig place, last Tuesday. The guests were treated to an amusing exhibition of legerdemain by Professor Sherwood and his assistant, Mr. Boelin. George Voehl gave a number of selections with his Edison phonograph, and John H. Carney closed the programme with a comic selection upon a flour seive. Refreshments were then served.

Those present were: Fred Voorhees, Fred Conroy, Louis Stites, Frank Stites, Robert VanNest, Walter Layton, Willie Higgins, Fred Monford, George Conover, Edward Shroop, John Carney, Grover Shuck, Bennie Ratledge, Percy Gaddis, Sherman Haberle, Walter Vail, John Valiant, Harry Shuck and Robert Kirch.

Died at the Hospital.

Peter Boyd, colored, aged 40, died at Muhlenberg Hospital Tuesday after an illness lasting about two weeks. Mr. Boyd was employed by G. A. Chapman, of Stelle avenue, as a butler. He was a widower and leaves several children, brothers and sisters. Undertaker A. M. Runyon & Son took charge of the body today.

A High Position.

The Press is informed that Jocelyn Johnstone, formerly of this city, has been appointed secretary to the President of the Municipal Council of Greater New York. Mr. Johnstone was formerly an Episcopal clergyman. He was rector of the Church of the Redeemer in this city.

University Extension Lecture.

Prof. Summers, of Yale University, will deliver the first of the second series of lectures in the University Course at the Crescent Avenue church chapel Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The subject will be, "What is a Free Man in a Free State."

A Visiting Fireman.

Captain Burtis, of No. 15 Engine Company, New York, called on Chief Doane, of the fire department, Saturday. He was the guest that day of William Townley, driver of the Alert hose carriage.

Invitation Accepted.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, S. of V., met last Tuesday and decided to accept the invitation extended by the G. A. R. post, to install their new officers jointly next Tuesday evening.

Ministers Meeting.

The meeting of the Ministers Association will be held this month at the home of Rev. J. W. Richardson, and the latter will read the paper.

MR. ELKIN'S QUEER FOWLS.

A Cross Between Minorcas and a Bird from the Falkland Islands.

R. L. Elkin, a prominent farmer near Lancaster, N. Y., has devoted several years to raising domestic fowls of different breeds, and has now on hand a few fowls which are attracting the attention of the public on account of their unusual color, size, and form, and their aptitude to imitate, which makes a near approach to intelligence and bids fair to dispense with errand boys, shepherd dogs, and telephones. They are a cross between the Minorca and a fowl which was sent him by his friend, Col. John Mills, now United States Consul at Falkland Islands, which in many respects resembles the parrot, though not so clumsy.

The fowls weigh about three pounds, have sharp claws, a long beak, slightly carved, large yellow eyes, a white crest, dark green plumage, and an intelligent expression. They fly rapidly and although domesticated they have a tendency to roam for hours at a time. He calls them "minims" because of their size. From the time they come from the shell they are easily handled and are fond of human society, always manifesting a disposition to imitate human action and make articulate sounds approximating the language of the parrot. They are non-sitters, but their eggs will hatch in fourteen days. They will only roost in trees or on the roof of a house. On the approach of a stranger they make a shrill clatter like the guinea fowl, and when anything unusual is about to occur they make a loud noise, which sounds like the words "Look out!" Their timely warning is invaluable in many instances. If a dog or any other animal ventures into their inclosure he meets with such a reception as to insure a speedy departure, with no inclination to return. The sharp curved beak and sharp claws have inflicted many wounds on intruders.

Unerring instinct seems to give them as accurate idea of the time of day, and when the regular routine of farm work has been performed in sight of them they seem to realize any delay in the same work on a succeeding day. Mr. Elkin's bluegrass pasture in which his milch cows graze contains about fifty acres and extends up to the barnyard. He asserts positively that the cowboy, who always fed them after milking, was late coming from the field one evening last week, and he saw two of the fowls fly away in the direction of the cows, one of which was lying down. They lighted upon her and induced her to rise by a gentle touch with their claws. The same inducement was applied to the whole herd until they were marched to the milk pail. These acts are the result of observation and the fowls bid fair to become more valuable than the dog to herdsmen.—Louisville Dispatch.

Neighborly Thoughtfulness.

"John," she said thoughtfully, "tomorrow is the birthday of that little Jones boy next door."

"What of it?" he demanded.

"Oh, nothing much," she replied; "only I happened to recall that Mr. Jones gave our Willie a drum on his birthday."

"Well, do you think I feel under any obligations to him for that?" he asked irritably. "If you do you are mistaken. If I owe him anything it's a grudge."

"Of course," she answered sweetly, "that is why I thought that perhaps you might want to give the Jones boy a big brass trumpet."

"The most resourceful woman in the world!" he exclaimed, delightedly. And the Jones boy got the trumpet.

Told Him the Truth.

Simplex answered an advertisement in which somebody offered to sell him the secret for preventing trousers from getting fringes around the bottom.

"What did they tell him?"

"To wear knickerbockers."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

At the Athletic Games.

She—"What a wonderful jumper that man is!—but why do they keep ringing that big gong while he is making his jumps?"

He—"That's Jeroiamon—he's from Brooklyn, and he can't do his best unless he imagines he is getting out of the way of a trolley car."—Puck.

A Rude Hint.

Charlie Borem—Did you know, Miss Witty, that this is the longest day in the year?

Miss Witty—Is it? That's strange. I had just begun to think it was the longest evening.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Distinction.

Jack—Is it true that Tom Dashing and Dollie Newrich are engaged?

Harry—Well, her people speak of it as an engagement, while his relatives call it an entanglement.—New York Journal.

A Shattered Idol.

Alice—What a gallant person Mr. Dunkler is! He never addresses me without beginning "Fair miss."

Dorothy—Oh, that's force of habit. He used to be a street-car conductor.—Cleveland Leader.

"It's untrue," said Willie Wishington, "that it is impossible for a man to attain perfection."

"Who has reached that stage?"

"I have. Miss Cayenne informed me this morning that I am a perfect bore."—Washington Star.

Bill—"And what did the old man say when you asked for his daughter?" Jill—"Ordered me to leave the house." "And what did you say?" "I asked him if he took me for a housemover."—Yonkers Statesman.

BAYADERE STRIPES HAVE RETURNED

Blouses to Be Very Much Worn—Decorations Will Be Elaborate.

The blouse is here with emphatic declaration, and a blouse of some sort seems to be a fashionable necessity for all the woman who are slender enough to wear it with grace. Stout women are advised by one authority on fashion "to avoid it as they would the plague;" but a slight, pouched effect in the front of the bodice is often becoming to generously proportioned figures

The latest winter blouse has a basque formed of either square tabs or scant frill, the former being the favorite model, as it adds less to the size of the hips. The effect of a long waist is essential to the good style of a blouse, and the narrow jewelled belt is another important feature. But this is rather expensive, and a very satisfactory belt can be made of black satin ribbon wide enough to wrinkle a little on a white or colored satin lining, and fastened with an oval cut-steel buckle.

The Russian blouse is properly a street garment, worn over a fancy bodice of silk or lace, and fastens up the front or not, as you choose, being sometimes turned back two inches on either side to show a pretty colored satin lining or velvet facing. It is decorated elaborately with braid and beaded trimmings and edged with handsome fur, and is altogether charming on the right woman. If you are very slight, the blouse is cut loose, to fall a little over the belt all the way around, but if not, it may be plain and close in the back, cut in one piece, loose in front, with the square tabs below the belt made long or short as they are most becoming.

Among the many devices for open-work effect in the blouse bodice is cloth cut out in leaves and various scroll designs, all edged around with fine gold or bronze braid, and made up over colored silk. A brown cloth over green is very elegant made with the front of the skirt and the back for a little way down from the waist of the embroidered cloth. Tabs of embroidered cloth fall over the plain cloth sleeves at the top, and all the edges are finished with a tiny band of sable.

Bayadere stripes, have come back from the past and are shown in various Vandyke, oval, and plain designs in both wool and silk, and especially among the new silks for evening dresses and fancy blouse waists. It is wise, however, to beware of this variety of stripe, as it is becoming to very few women.

TO DIE, NOT TO LIVE.

A RABBI GIVES THE ONLY REASON WHY JEWS GO TO PALESTINE.

They Have No Desire to Make Their Homes There and the Russians and Roumanians Long for the Advanced and Civilized Countries of the West.

The Jewish Congress which met in Switzerland in the latter part of August, with the object of securing Palestine for recolonization by the Jews, has attracted widespread attention in this country, and has given rise to much comment and speculation. In reference to the matter the Rev. Dr. I. M. Wise, rabbi of the Plum Street Temple, Cincinnati, had this to say:

"The ancient kingdom of Judea was overthrown in the year 70, A. D., and the people became merged into other nations. Judea had ceased to be a nation, and all heroic attempts to restore it to nationality were signal failures. Those who voluntarily left Judea previous to the fall, or were carried away as prisoners, became subject to the laws of the land in which they lived, though remaining faithful to the laws of Moses. These wanderers from Judea were to that their brethren to the east and west of them were steadfast subjects of the land to which they had been migrated, and still remained steadfast to their religion, so that the conviction soon grew upon them that their religion was not dependent upon the preservation of a national Government.

"Of Jerusalem, its temple, altar, and the ancient cult they had only memories, but of their religion and the obedience of their brethren to the laws of the land of their adoption they had living examples. The religion, and their history therefore, became the center, to which the scattered particles of the nation gravitated. For eighteen centuries the Jews have lived and thrived on their religion and their history without social or national auxiliaries.

"So long as the Jews enjoyed equal rights with the other inhabitants of the country they were loyal citizens and true to their religion. When driven to desperation by persecution and intolerance they sought consolation in their religion and the ideal that a redeemer would come to lead them back to Palestine. But notwithstanding their hopes and prayers for such a consummation, they never evinced any particular desire to go back. They migrated from land to land, but not to Palestine. Some extra pious souls went there to die, but very few went there to live.

"In Russia and Roumania, where the Jew was never treated as a human being, and his every ideal trampled under foot, the morning of redemption dawned under Alexander II. But under Alexander III. the Jews were again driven to madness and despair. Like their fathers of old, they fell back upon their Messianic ideals, in theory, and emigrated to all countries—except Palestine. One million Jews have left Russia since 1881, of whom certainly not more than 25,000 went to Palestine.

"These facts prove that the Jews even of Russia and the Balkan States do not wish and will not go back to Palestine under a Government of their own or any other Government.

"The so-called Jewish Congress in Basel was, properly speaking, neither a congress, nor Jewish. It was really a convention of some voluntary advocates of a plan for the relief of the Jews in the Orient. It was not Jewish because it represented neither the sentiments nor the religious propensities of the Jews as a body. The entire proceedings of the convention, as given through the press of this country, are that there were 200 delegates present, Dr. Herzl and Dr. Nordau were elected presiding officers and a telegram was sent the Sultan, thanking him for the kind and just treatment accorded his Jewish subjects.

"Throughout the civilized World there is no desire on the part of the Jews to return to Palestine, under any circumstances, and those who have had the best opportunity to return, and for whom the whole movement was originally planned, viz., the Russian and Roumanian Jews, are the last to take advantage of any such offer. On the contrary, they strive to get as far away from the Orient, as possible and seek the free, advanced, and civilized countries of the West.

"The whole plan is a dream of romantic and impractical minds, and will be forgotten as soon as the newspapers become tired of using it."—Cincinnati Gazette.

The Queen a Critic.

The Youth's Companion relates an amusing story of W. H. Preece, the well-known electrician, about the early days of the telephone. That the Queen might test the new invention, he put Osborne, Portsmouth and London in communication, and arranged that a band should play while her Majesty was at the other end of the instrument.

The Queen was detained, and before she arrived the band had been sent away. But a happy thought struck Mr. Preece. Why not himself act as the band? He stepped to the instrument and hummed into it "God Save the Queen," and asked if her Majesty recognized the tune.

"Yes," she said; "it was the national anthem—but very badly played!"

One Objection.

"How intense are the fires of love!" ejaculated the poet.

"Yes," answered the father of six marriageable daughters; "but they do take an awful sight o' coal."

NIGHT IN NEW YORK.

THE TWELVE O'CLOCK DISTRIBUTION OF BREAD TO THE POOR.

Henry George Watched the Hungry Crowd at Fleischmann's Bakery and Then Wrote His Impression of a Civilization That Permitted Such a Scene.

In the New York World of recent date, Henry George wrote as follows concerning one unfortunate phase of Metropolitan life:

As suggested in your letter, I went before 12 o'clock to the Vienna bakery where slices of dry bread are distributed at that hour to those who ask for it. I found a large crowd of men standing on Broadway around the side door of the bakery waiting patiently for the distribution.

HENRY GEORGE.

I learned on inquiry that the bread left over from the bakery's trade is cut up and thus given away so long as it lasts. Between November and April a cup of hot coffee is also given at the same time to help these poor people to stand the cold, but at present all they want for is dry bread.

A more striking evidence of the poverty which exists in the midst of wealth could hardly be imagined than their numbers and their patience in waiting for this morsel of food. It may, perhaps, increase beggary to give five cents to the man who stops you on the street and tells you he is starving.

Perhaps he may spend it in rum or in some other way that will do him no real good. Yet in the face of this crowd gathered at this bakery a man must feel degraded and ashamed if, having a cent in his pocket, he denies such an appeal for help from those who are miserable enough to ask it.

Such misery is but an incident that shows the general condition of labor. When, in such a city as this, we see so many who suffer from actual want of work—and there are great bodies not driven to such a pass, who are torn by the keenest suffering and anxiety—it is the proof of a state of things that cannot be paralleled in any heathen community in normal times. Savages often suffer from hunger and disease when failure of crops, incursions of an enemy or any great disaster cuts down their aggregate supply of wealth. But here we have suffering from actual want in the very midst of abundance, when the community at large has enough and to spare. On every hand there is the cry of "over-production."

While standing and waiting at midnight for dry bread in the heart of the wealthiest city on the continent and in the shadow of the richest churches is the proof of a crying injustice in the distribution of wealth—an injustice from which men, women and little children are dying in many forms, not the less surely because we may not stop to notice them. It is a proof of the general scarcity of labor where the means of supplying labor is most abundant.

Behind this there must be a fierce struggle for existence—the failure of business men, clerks driven to the weary struggle for employment, suicide, death in a thousand or other forms, crime and vice, in all degrees. For the one man who stands here at midnight waiting for dry bread, thousands of men, women and little children must be suffering for want enough to maintain them.

And the natural corrollary of these men begging at midnight for a dry crust to appease their hunger is a serious manifestation of our multi-millionaires who are given unearned millions by the same general cause.

On Both Sides.

A gentleman had a colored servant who could not be taught to serve things at the left hand of guests at the table.

At length the gentleman hit upon an ingenious expedient. Coming home with worn single breasted, and he said better that he must always hand the plates and other dishes to the guests on the buttonhole side. This plan worked admirably for some time; but one day there came a foreigner, who wore a double-breasted coat. Poor Peter, in dismay, looked first at one side of it and then at the other, and finally, casting a look of despair at his master, he exclaimed:

"Buttons on bofe sides, massa!" and handed the plate right over the gentleman's head.

When and Where.

"If you've any complaint to make, Private O'Flaherty, ye'll make them at once, and in my company, and not behind me back when you're alone and every one else's present."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Friendleigh—I'm thinking of dabbling a little in stocks. What's a good thing to put your money in?

Broker—Your inside pocket.—Boston Traveller.

FOLD OF BUCK KILGORE.

His Jumping Match with a Texas Woman in War Times.

There are men in every quarter of the Union who will regret to hear of the death of Judge Constantine B. Kilgore at Ardmore, I. T. For eight years "Buck" Kilgore was a notable man in Washington. In person he was the typical Texan. Above six feet tall, above sixteen stone in weight, above the average Congressman in ability, above the average man in sincerity, straight as an Indian, and strong as an ox, "Buck" Kilgore was a marked man wherever he appeared. It was the kicking down of the door leading from the legislative chamber to the House lobby that gave him notoriety. It was characteristic of the man. He wanted to go into the lobby; the messenger shut the door in his face. He knew he had a right to go into the lobby without asking the consent of Tom Reed or any other man. He raised his foot, clothed in an enormous cowhide boot and kicked the door down and went his way. The notoriety that attached to him on account of the act was always distasteful to him.

During the war he was ordered home to assist in gathering up some deserters. One evening about dusk he was out in the country in quest of a deserter who had been off the "layout" for a year. He was very hungry and very weary. He called at a house by the roadside and there he found a woman just taking from the spit a nicely broiled chicken. The savor of the fowl made him ravenous. He had a Mexican dollar in his pocket, which he had carried for years and to which he was much attached, but he was bound to have that chicken and he pulled out the dollar and proposed a trade—the coin for the fowl. The lady said the chicken was for a sick friend and that she could not sell it.

"But," she continued, "I'll jump you for it."

"What do you mean?" said "Buck."

"I mean that we will see which can jump furthest from this doorsill out into the yard, and the one of us that beats shall have both chicken and dollar."

"All right; that suits me exactly," said "Buck." The dollar was placed on the dish beside the chicken and his gun was leaned against the wall by the door, and "Buck" slung his arms and made a tremendous leap of over twelve feet. He recovered with difficulty, and when he turned to the door there was the lady with the cocked gun in her hands, with the butt against her shoulder and her finger on the trigger.

"Now, you just flirt the gravel down that road, young man, or I'll make buzzard's food of you before hell can singe a hair," she ordered.

There was shoot in her eyes and "buck and ball" in the gun. So "Buck" "flirted the gravel," his bosom swollen with impotent rage and his mouth overflowing with eloquent profanity.

By this time it was dark. Over in a field "Buck" spied a gin house. He went to it and climbed in to the loft, laid down on the floor and was soon fast asleep. After a time he was awakened by voices down below. He listened and made the discovery that one was a female voice, and a moment later he found that she was relating the "jumping" episode to her companion, who gave vent to peal after peal of laughter. There was the chicken and his dollar which he could see by the light of the fallow dip. Peering about he saw his gun also. There was a hole in the floor of the loft, and just as the man took hold of the dish to eat the chicken "Buck" plunged through the hole and seized the gun. Before they recovered from their astonishment "Buck" roared out: "Madam, you just flirt the gravel back home, and as for this gentleman he and I will flirt gravel to the office of the Provost Marshal. He is the deserter I have been after for a week."

There was shot in "Buck's" eye now. The woman left, "Buck" recovered his dollar, ate the chicken, and before midnight surrendered his prisoner to the Provost Marshal. It was worth a journey across the continent to hear "Buck" tell the story.—From the Courier-Journal.

JEWS IN THE TRANSVAAL.

Steps to Be Taken for Their Better Treatment by the President.

The Transvaal is one of the few countries with pretensions to consideration as civilized Powers that debar Jews from all participation in the legislative and municipal government. Moreover they are disqualified from filling any public office to which a salary is attached, while their schools are the only ones which receive no subsidy from the State. It is largely due to this that the efforts of the Boer Secretary of State, Dr. Leyds, to secure support at Paris and Berlin against the British Government have met with such signal failure, the immensely powerful influence of the Rothschilds and of other wealthy Jewish financiers who control the money markets of Europe being exercised against the Transvaal. It is to secure legislation removing all the disabilities under which the Jews now labor in the Boer Republic.

"We have parted forever," said the young man, sadly. "She is never going to even write to me again."

"Are you sure of that?" asked his sympathetic friend.

"Yes. She told me so in each of her last three letters."—Washington Evening Star.

"What is unconventional, Uncle Jim?"

"Unconventional? Well, it is being too good natured to get vexed with people who haven't any manners."—Detroit Free Press.

PROVED THEIR CAPABILITIES.

How a Colorado Man and Wife Secured Political Jobs.

Ex-Gov. Thatcher of Colorado, tells this: "I had been in charge of my office but a few days when I received one day a large bear that had been recently killed, accompanied by a note saying me that it was 'mighty fine for meat.' This note did not give the name of the giver. A few days later a dozen wild turkeys arrived at the executive mansion. The next day came a large box of fine mountain trout, along with some fresh berries. By this time I was a little curious, but had no way of learning who they came from. One day I received an extra large box. There was a large ham, some pies, bread, jams, and jelly, with small pieces of different meats finely cooked. This time the note informed me that an answer would call on me in a few days. I was anxious to see the person, and when one Saturday a long-haired man from the mountains came in I was somewhat surprised. 'Well, Governor, what do you think of my ability as a hunter and of my wife as a cook?' asked the stranger. Without any more talk he said he wanted the job of furnishing my household with fresh meats and his wife wanted the position of cook. As they had shown their abilities, I gave them the positions at once. He never failed to keep a good supply of meats on hand, and his wife furnished good home cooking. If all the office seekers were like that man a Government official's life would be a happy one."—Omaha Bee.

ENGLISH PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The British Government More Secretive Than Our's.

The British Government sells all its publications. It gives nothing away. If you want a copy of a bill that has been introduced into the House of Commons, or a report that has been presented to the House of Lords, or any public matter that the London County Council or the Board of Aldermen of the city, you have to pay postage if it is sent through the mails, in our country nearly all official documents of this kind are given away, and are sent free through the mails under a frank. The British plan seems to be the more sensible. It saves millions of dollars every year that are wasted in the United States to furnish public documents that are thrown into the waste-paper basket as soon as they are received. The charge for official publications is only sufficient to pay the cost and a small margin for wastage. The British Government Printing Office is self-supporting, and the postal service pays a profit of $10,000,000 or $12,000,000 annually into the Treasury. On the contrary, on our side of the Atlantic, it costs $5,000,000 or more to pay for printing, which no one is the wiser, and the Post Office Department declares an Irish dividend of $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 every year, much of it is due to the transportation of "pub. docs."—Chicago Record.

Thoughtful.

"Didn't she seem at all affected when you told her how her refusal had wrecked your hopes?"

"No."

"Not even when you told her that you had become desperate and were going on an expedition to the North Pole?"

"Not a bit."

"Didn't she offer you any little parting token—any little memento of the past?"

"Yes. She did that. She said that if I wanted her to she'd work my monogram on a pair of our muffs."—Washington Star.

Deserved by Appearances.

An old darky was arrested for stealing a silver dollar. The dollar was found on his person and produced in court.

"You stole this money?" asked the judge.

"Dat's what dey says, suh!"

"Well, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Well, suh, nuttin' much, 'ceptin' dat I was driv ter it."

"Driven to it?"

"Yes, suh. You see, judge, dat dollar had a bird on it, an it look so much like a game chicken dat I thought it wus in a hen roos' an des nachully bagged it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Reliable.

"Yes know Casey, the contractor," said Mr. Dolan.

"Oi do," replied Rafferty.

"Is he what ye'd call reliable?"

"He is the most reliable man Oi iver knew. Whinivver he tells ye yez saythin' ye kin depind an it's not bein' so."

A LAY OF THE SUMMER.

Oh! I'd like to go with Nansen
To the Pole,
Where the grand bears are dancin'
And they roll
In a chilly, frapped ocean
With a rhythmical motion
That is droll!
Where Mrs. Seal chasing
Wears her furs,
And Mr. Seal though sporting,
Never demurs
Where the wind is wild, and frosty
O'er the country found by Greely
Hirsty
O'er the country found by Greely
Ever stirs!
Oh! I'd like to be a blooming
Esquimaux,
All his frozen airs assuming,
When you know you kind
Then farewell to moods so melting,
With a snowball I'd be pelting
Small
All of Greenland's icy mountains
I would do
Drinking drinks that frozen fountains
Only brew.
There I know they'd ne'er be freein'
Out that query, "Is it hot enough for you?"
Out that query, "Is it hot enough for you?"
—Baltimore News.

THE GREAT ENGLISH ROTHCHILD

In Consignment to the Duke of Wellington He Sent $15,000,000.

The greatest financial genius of the Rothschild family, though there have been many of great talent, was Nathan Meyer, of the second generation who established the house of N. M. Rothschild & Co., in 1798, in London. So few to the sanders and grovelled in the sand for money, he influenced all transactions, big or little, wherewith to turn the banker's penny. He was the most daring speculator of his time on the stock exchange, and the most successful. He had carrier pigeons and fast sailing boats to bring him the earliest news from the war centers of Europe, and so help him to manipulate stocks. He followed Wellington's army to Waterloo in person and had relays of swiftest horses and a fast sailing brig in the harbor at Ostend to be ready for the London stock exchange after the battle twelve hours ahead of any public announcement of the victory, and made $25,000,000 by one of the most tremendous series of speculations ever recorded, when the Duke of Wellington, then commanding in Spain, drew on the English government for $15,000,000, and the English treasury was short. Nathan bought the drafts at a big discount and at once got the money. His stories about this remarkable man are almost endless and show how strangely he was alike equal to the most tremendous schemes and the pettiest tricks of avarice.—Harper's Round Table.

DON'T TOUCH ELECTRIC WIRES.

Quick to Allow Your Umbrella to Come in Contact with One.

The standard maxim of the electrician, "never touch a wire; it may be dead, but if it isn't, you may be," is presently illustrated. It was actually touching the wire with the hand is concerned; but several recent accidents have taught the public that they must be just as careful to avoid contact between electric wires, and any conductor which will hold in the hand. Not long ago a mechanical engineer who was inspecting the third rail system at Hartford, accidentally touched the conductor with his umbrella, which had a steel rod. The umbrella was badly burned, and its owner had a lesson in electrical conductivity that he will not soon forget. A similar incident is reported from a New Jersey town. Two brothers, standing arm in arm, were looking in a window when each received a shock. He raised a little, and as the steel tip came in contact with an arc light wire above a shock was received that knocked both men over. In another accident the same was true. A man carrying a steel rod umbrella, touched a live wire, which was lying almost out of sight near the edge of the pavement, and was instantly killed. His hand was burned to a crisp, and there were live wire marks all over his body. The umbrella had transmitted the full power of an electric lighting circuit.—St Louis Globe Democrat.

THE PARROT'S LOGIC.

Poor Poll Wondered if the Cat Had Also Given a "Party" and Not Asked Her.

A drummer for a big soap firm was entertaining a number of men with some first-class stories. No one can tell a story like a travelling man. This particular drummer told of a woman who owned a big green and red parrot, of which she was very proud because of its all around intellectual powers. One day a man rang the door bell and opened it. The lady would like a load of wood. Receiving a negative reply he started away, but no sooner did he reached the curb than he heard a woman's voice from the second story window telling him to unload the wood. In three minutes the wood was on the sidewalk and the man was at the door. The lady of the house denied having ordered it to be dumped there but finally an idea struck her that the ordering might have been the parrot's work. So she paid the man, went upstairs, and in the shortest space of time had twisted the bird's neck and tossed him out of the window.

The parrot lay still for awhile, and then, with an uncertain effort, got on its feet and discovered himself a near neighbor to a dead cat. He squared around and looked the animal over and in a mosy sympathetic voice said:

"Hello, sport! Whose wood have you been ordering?"—Washington Post.

Rosa Bonheur's Philopena.

French papers tell an interesting story of Rosa Bonheur and the Grand Duke Michael of Russia. In the course of his last visit to Paris the Grand Duke attended a dinner, and had the honor to sit on his right hand. They became the best of friends, and the Grand Duke declaring that he had enjoyed conversing with a woman so much in a long time. Before rising from the table they had, in the course of a philopena, and Mlle. Bonheur won. "What can I send you as a souvenir, which will really give you pleasure?" asked his imperial friend. "I cannot deny my wishes," was the reply. "Any little thing which I can use as a model will be welcome." Several months went by and Mlle. Bonheur had begun to believe that the promise had been forgotten, when a few days ago three slightly white bears arrived as the payment of the penalty.

A little French child saw a herd of cows for the first time, and, after watching them chewing their cuds, remarked, he said deprecatingly to the farmer: "Oh, mister, do you have to buy gum for all those cows to chew?"—Chautauqua Assembly Herald.

"Dah's only one kind er good luck," said Uncle Eben, "dat kin be trusted an dat's de good luck o' bein born wid sense."—Washington Star.

NEW TARGETS FOR THE ARMY.

Old Bull's-Eyes to Give Way to Figures of Men, Stationary and Movable.

When a trained marksmen of the Transvaal routed the regular troops of Great Britain at Majuba Hill by shooting with such marvelous skill as to pick off the redcoats like so many deer on a hill, a great outcry was heard in the British army circles against the folly of teaching soldiers to shoot by placing him opposite a target and telling him to place a bullet as near to the bull's-eye as possible.

The United States Army officers have but come to the same conclusion as did the British after the disaster at Majuba Hill. As a consequence of this awakening there will shortly be issued a set of targets to be used at the various rifle ranges that will revolutionize the old system of training soldiers to become marksmen. Instead of the bull's-eye in the center of a square target, the object to be aimed at will be a black mark representing, as nearly as possible, the figure of a man as it appears when he lies prone on the ground, rifle presented, in the act of taking aim.

A second target will show the figure of a man taking aim while in a kneeling position. The figure is mounted on a square background of white, and is carefully drawn to measurements so as to present a mark as nearly possible to that at which the soldier would have to shoot were he fighting for his life in actual conflict. This figure will be used as a target at medium distances, from five to six hundred yards.

Still another target represents the full figure of a man standing and firing. This is for long distance practice and will enable a marksman to see exactly the effect produced by his skill in firing. Every shot that hits the figure would kill or maim were the target a living mark.

The largest target of all, and the one therefore, that will be used at extreme range, is intended to represent the figure of a mounted man. This is more particularly designed for carbine practice by cavalrymen. The troopers will be taught to shoot at the target from horseback as well as on foot, and, as in the case of the standing man target, will be instructed to aim at the centre of the mass, the idea being that killing the horse of a cavalryman does no less damage to the fighting effectiveness of an enemy's force than shooting the rider.

A project of introducing moving targets based on the same system as that described above is being considered by the military authorities.—New York Herald.

JUSTICE IN ALASKA.

An Appeal to Congress for a Court in Circle City, in the Yukon Valley.

A cry for justice comes to Congress from Alaska, says the New York Sun. Away up in the Yukon Valley is a place called Circle City, where there is a population of 5,000 loyal citizens of the United States. Sitka, the capital of Alaska, where the federal court is held, is so remote that the people in the Yukon country can not go so far to obtain judicial assistance or protection; and they want Congress to give them a court in their own region. In a letter addressed to the Governor of Alaska, by Mr. George W. Morgan, who describes himself as the chairman of the grand jury at Circle City, the writer says that "it would take one year for a witness to leave here and attend court in Sitka, thereby causing not only a great loss of time, but great expense to himself, as he would not be able to get employment during that year." It appears from a petition accompanying this letter that the grand jury of which Mr. Morgan was chairman was a select body of citizens appointed at a meeting of the residents of the mining district "to inquire into the causes of the several homicides committed in our midst," and that in fact there is no justice whatever there except wholly outside the law through the agency of miners' meetings. This is an evil which ought promptly to be remedied by congressional action.

A $3,000 SADDLE.

Much Silver Used In Its Adornment and More Added Each Year.

The finest and most costly saddle in America is owned in California, where it was manufactured. It is owned and was designed by Dixie W. Thompson, a wealthy cattle man of Ventura county, whose home is in Santa Barbara. The saddle is of typical Mexican pattern, with a high pommel, well hollowed seat, and the most elaborate trappings. The work was done in Santa Barbara under Mr. Thompson's supervision, and is such as would thank for the price. The saddle is of fine embossed leather, set thick with silver buttons and rosettes, the pommel incased with silver, the corners of the apron tipped with it, the stirrups faced and edged with silver half an inch thick, solid, study and carved. The saddle tree is hung with silver rings to answer the vaquero's requirements. The girth is woven from horses' manes by native artisans, and is full eight inches broad. The reins, martingales, and whips, are composed of solid silver in woven strands. The bridle, reins, and accessories, weighing about twelve pounds, are worth about $250 in the value of coin silver used. Each year Mr. Thompson adds something to the beauty and value of the saddle, and it has already cost about $3,000.

The X rays are now used in the Queen's kitchen. They are an instant and infallible detective of stray fish bones, plum stones and what not that may accidentally get into the royal food. The ray lifted a great weight of responsibility from the cook's mind.

WHAT ROYALTY ENDURES.

Discomforts That Court Etiquette Imposed on the Czar and His Suite.

Those who imagine that it is coolness de rose for crowned heads little know the immense inconveniences and discomforts with which they are frequently obliged to put up by very reason of their exalted position. No more striking demonstration of this could well be found than is to be met with in the recital of the Russian Imperial family's trials at the time of the visit to Balmoral. The Emperor and the Empress, with the little Grand-duchess Olga, who was then about eight months old, left Peterhoff in the imperial yacht Standart, crossed the German Ocean and ran up the River Dee, coming to anchor about seventeen miles from the castle. They were met by the Prince of Wales, and his suite. A drizzling rain was falling as the imperial party disembarked, and a hardy half mile had on their places in the landau—the Empress in the most dainty of white, lace-trimmed gowns, and the Emperor and his suit in their magnificent gold embroidered uniforms—when an order came that the hoods of the carriages to be thrown open, and despite the steady downpour into which the drizzle had now turned, the imperial cortege set forth in this manner. After some slight protest on the Empress' part, Her Majesty raised an umbrella, as did also the lady-in-waiting, who had the bare of baby Olga; and so, between alternations of drizzle and pouring rain, the seventeen miles were accomplished, gaping crowds lining the entire way to witness this most uncomfortable pageant of royalty.

There was, however, consolation in the thought that, once the castle was attained, their trouble would be over. Vain hope! At the castle entrances stood a Court Chamberlain, who as each carriage drove up informed its occupants that Her Majesty requested the immediate attendance of its occupants in the great drawing room; and, all drenched as they were from the watery drive, they passed into the Queen's presence, the little Grand-duchess alone being carried at once to her apartment.

Seated on a large round ottoman in *the centre of the room, her black dra*pories standing out about her in somewhat of the form of a bayadere with the Princess Beatrice up in a half-circle beyond, the Queen awaited the arrival of her imperial grandchildren, and most cordial and affectionate was her greeting when they appeared. Just as all were congratulating themselves upon their release from this ordeal at hand, dinner was announced, and, taking the Emperor's arm, the Queen led the way immediately to the dining-room. Nor were the troubles of the guests ended with the dinner, for no sooner had the Queen and Empress retired with their ladies than the Prince of Wales led the Emperor and his suite to the smoking-room, where for a good half hour they stood gazing with longing eyes at the low Turkish divans and tempting easy chairs, in which their uniforms—unbending as steel harness with their resplendent gold embroideries—utterly prohibited their reclining. Surely the hour at which court etiquette permitted of their retiring must have been hailed with the most devout thanksgivings from them all.

THE SPARROW'S REVENGE.

The Poor Pigeon Had to Suffer for a Crime of Which He Was Not Guilty.

This story shows with the sagacity and pugnacity of the English sparrow, and also shows how curiosity may get an innocent creature into trouble. The Riddle mansion that stands in Glen Riddle, Delaware County, has for some time been the favorite place of resort of families or sparrows, and the birds had become a regular pest. One day last week Miss Riddle decided to get rid of the birds, and mounting a ladder she tore out at least a dozen nests from the eaves of the porch. She found the birds returning later and finding their homes wrecked, held a noisy meeting on the roof, and then dispersed.

A stray pigeon that had been roosting around the place for several days came to the old nesting place of sparrow

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force. Editor and Proprietor

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Mayor Charles J. Fisk's annual message, which was presented to the Common Council last Monday, offers much food for thought. The mayor reiterates some of his suggestions of past years and makes a number of new ones. His attitude toward the present condition of the city jail is very commendable and it is to be hoped that the Council will take early action in doing away with the present jail which has been such a disgrace to the city. Mayor Fisk has shown that his ideas in regard to the jail coincide with those of The Press for the past year.

The suggestions of the Mayor, as expounded in the message, are particularly startling in regard to the work of the street department. The Mayor evidently does not believe in the reorganization of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, for he provides a new and rather novel method of combining the collection of ashes and garbage and the keeping of the streets in repair. While he makes no mention of the future ownership of the crematory, he drops a hint here and there that leads the reader to infer that he hopes to see the city purchase the garbage disposal plant. The crematory seems to be a success as far as itself alone is concerned, and it is to be hoped that the city will find a way to place it under municipal control.

It seems an excellent policy to give better fire protection to the West End, as suggested by the Mayor in the portion of his message relating to the fire department. Whether the plan he suggests would be the best for the interests of the city the fire committee should consider. The need of opening the memberships of the different companies to allow a certain number of carefully selected men to be added to take the place of those who can now claim exemption should be the subject for action on the part of the Council at once.

Mayor Fisk has little to suggest regarding improvements in the police force aside from the immediate change in the city jail. There are many other topics touched on that will furnish food for thought for Councilmen and citizens as well. Many of the suggestions may never be heard of again, but some of the important recommendations are likely to bring forth early action on the part of the Common Council.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

The Common Council of 1898 was organized Monday night. Three of the Councilmen bolted the decision of the conference and joined with Mr. Hetfield in placing the name of Mr. Moffett as a candidate for the presidency of the Board. Mr. Baker, the candidate of the conference was elected, however. Judging from present appearances, Mr. Barrows will act as leader on the floor for the regular Republicans. Mr. Hetfield has already shown a determination to meet him as leader of the opposition. Last night's meeting was, taken altogether, a peaceful one, but exciting times are promised for the future.

The Boards of Health of the cities of Elizabeth and Rahway have ordered the ice companies in their respective cities to keep skaters off the frozen surface of ponds where they expect to cut ice this winter. It is feared that disease will be transmitted in that manner. The action of the Board is in accordance with a state law. The Board of Health of North Plainfield took similar action sometime ago and it has been enforced in the borough. At New Market, however, where a large crop of ice is annually gathered, there is no such restriction and scores of young people go to the pond every day of the skating season.

City Clerk MacMurray will continue in his present office for another year, at least. Corporation Counsel Marsh offered his long-expected opinion last Monday and stated that according to the special law Mr. MacMurray was entitled to one year longer, and according to the old law to two years more of service. A question is being raised as to the constitutionality of the special law.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. In use for over 30 years.

UNREASONABLE TAXATION.

The scheme of Mayor Fisk, as suggested in his annual message, regarding the taxation of bicycles, horses and carriages, for the improvement of the public highways, has not met with general approval. On the contrary, the public sentiment is rightly against such a method of taxation. The plan has been characterised by one prominent citizen as Utopian, another suggests that a tax on pedestrians' shoes would be just as reasonable. The wheelman are united against such a measure, as they consider that bicycle travel improves rather than injures the surface of a road. There is little need for worry on that score, however, for while the present council, it would be impossible to pass any such ordinance despite the best endeavors of the Mayor. It is not likely that Mayor Fisk will attempt to push such a scheme when he finds how unpopular it is among the people of the city.

The Mayor's idea of compelling all residents to place lights on their carriages is a measure worthy of the support of all. Many of the citizens have done so already but there is a large number of carriages and hacks that are as dangerous at night to wheelmen and pedestrians as the bicycle without a light. With such an army of wheelmen in the city, the danger from carriages is greatly increased. The introduction of rubber tires makes the danger tenfold more and the attention of the Common Council is called to the matter and it is hoped that action will be taken in regard to the matter at an early date.

A NEW CANDIDATE.

A new candidate has appeared in the field for the position of postmastership, which falls vacant in June. The new candidate for the National appointment is Elias H. Bird, the present Tax Collector of this city. The news of Mr. Bird's candidacy came as a great surprise to most Plainfielders, who had little idea that he was in the race for the appointment.

CHANGED THE CHECK.

A CLERK DISAPPEARED WITH $6000.

E. C. Perkins, of Central avenue, was a Trustee of the American Estate Association which Lockley Hoaxed—The Story Told.

The American Estates Association, of New York City, of which Edward C. Perkins, of 723 Central avenue, this city, is one of the trustees, has suffered heavily from the rascality of Joseph Lockley, one of its trusted clerks.

Lockley is only twenty three years of age, but was considered a model clerk by the officers of the Association.

The facts brought to light last Saturday, however, show that he has been systematically raising the checks which were given him in payment of salary.

The misdeeds of Lockley date from Nov. 1st. December 5th he made his big stroke. He received a check for $30 for salary, written out by Lockley and signed by Manager Reilly and trustees E. C. Perkins and Thomas P. Fowler Lockley did not draw a line after the word "Fifty" and it was a simple matter for him to add three hundred and sixty and seventy five one hundredths, making the check for $5,360 75.

The company's loss will be about $6,000.

The guilty clerk has fled and has not yet been caught.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Ca'arrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Tole'o, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Marshals Entertained at Dinner

Thursday evening Chief Marshal Wilson, of the borough, gave a dinner to the members of the police force. The dinner was in every particular a pleasant one, and the guests enjoyed the hospitality of the host and hostess exceedingly.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THIEF IN THE CHURCH.

HE WALKED OFF WITH SEXTON BROKAW'S HAT AND COAT.

While Brokaw Was Attending to the Fires at the Park Avenue Baptist Church Yesterday Noon the Thief Was at Work.

Sunday noon, after the service in the Park Avenue Baptist church, a sneak thief entered the church parlors and deliberately walked off with a new overcoat, hat and gloves, belonging to Sexton Edgar S. Brokaw. He also took several boxes of candy which were being kept in a closet for those who failed to receive their presents the night of the Christmas entertainment.

After the service Mr. Brokaw went to the cellar to look after the furnace and attend to some other matters. While he was there the deed was committed. At first Mr. Brokaw thought that someone had been playing a joke on him. When he had wasted an hour searching for the missing articles, however, he came to the conclusion that it was no joke. Pastor Richardson said that he saw two boys playing about the church after the service, and he is of the opinion that they are the guilty ones. Neither one of the boys are known.

The missing gloves were a present to Mr. Brokaw, and the coat and hat were recently purchased Mr Brokaw had to return home without an overcoat. He managed to borrow a hat. He is longing to lay hands on the man or boy who has his coat.

RED MEN ELECT.

Miantonomoh Tribe Chooses Their Officers for the Ensuing Term.

Last Friday evening the members of Miantonomoh Tribe, I. O. R M., elected officers as follows: Prophet, Robert Slorah; sachem, Joseph Johnson; senior sagamore, Robert Hanglighter; junior sagamore, Joseph Green; keeper of records, Charles Holstein; collector of wampum, A. J Stiglitz; keeper of wampum, William A. Westphal; trustee, three years, D. C. Allen; representative to Great Council, George McGinnis; alternate, M. Leahy.

After the business of the evening was transacted there was a speech by William Newsom, songs by Charles Holstein and a violin solo by Joseph Johnson. A smoker was then enjoyed, and thus the members saw the old year out and the new one in.

PREPARING FOR LEGISLATORS.

Custodian Bonnell Has the Two Lawmaking Halls in Excellent Condition.

When the lawmakers come to Trenton to open the 122d session of the New Jersey Legislature on January 10th, they will find the legislative halls in excellent condition.

Custodian John H. Bonnell has a number of men at work cleaning up the Assembly and Senate halls as well as the corridors. All the chandeliers and other brass work have been highly polished, and no doubt will be the shining marks at the coming session. Handsome new carpets have been laid in both houses; the desks are being varnished; the Assembly chamber has been newly kalsomined and everything will present a bright and pleasing appearance when the session opens.

GOLF SEASON OVER.

Links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Closed for the Winter.

The golf season in Plainfield has come to an end for the winter. The golf links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club are now closed for the winter and will not be used again until spring. The announcement was made by the golf committee of the club. While it will not be possible to have the new links of the club open in the early spring, the old links will be used until the new ones are ready.

Officers to be Installed.

On the evening of January 24th, the newly-elected officers of Mispah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will be installed by Right Worthy Lady Governess, Mrs. Rice, and Right Worthy Vice Lady Governess, Mrs. Keitle, of Roxbury, Mass. The occasion will be one of great interest to all of the members and a large attendance is desired.

Joined Another Church.

Miss Lucy Swain, who was the complaining witness in the trial of Rev. P. S Gibson, the former pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, for adultery, has joined the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church. She joined on confession of faith last Sunday. She formerly was a member of the Mt. Olive church, but eight months ago her name was dropped from the roll.

After using a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm you will be sure to buy the 50 cent size. Cream Balm has no equal in curing catarrh and cold in head. Ask your druggist for it or send 10 cents to us.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

I suffered from Catarrh three years; it got so bad I could not work; I used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and am entirely well; I would not be without it.—A. C. Clarke, 341 Shawmut Ave., Boston.

IN THEIR OWN HOME NOW

TRINITY REFORMED CONGREGATION GO TO THEIR REMODELED EDIFICE.

The Occasion Marked by the Largest Attendance of Sunday School Members Ever Recorded—Interesting Discourse Given.

Camp stools filled every available space in the new and beautiful lecture room of Trinity Reformed church Sunday morning when the congregation worshipped there for the first time. The twelve classrooms were also thrown open and occupied to accommodate the large congregation present.

A volunteer quartette, composed of Miss Krymer, Mrs. Willett and Messrs. Cutter and Martin, assisted materially in the responses and congregational singing.

The pastor said that the real dedicatory services would not be held until the auditorium was finished, but he would in a very informal way rededicate the present lecture room, which he did by reading appropriate Scripture and a portion of the liturgy, and finally by very appropriate prayer and sermon, basing his remarks for the sermon on the first verse of the 126th Psalm, as follows: "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."

After the service many remained with the over-time well-appointed place with its conveniently arranged rooms for church work. It was very gratifying to hear nothing but words of praise for the building committee and all those who labored so hard to accomplish what their eyes beheld.

In the afternoon the Sunday school assembled. As evidence of how much the new room is appreciated there were 345 scholars present. It was the largest attendance in the history of the school and Superintendent Anthony and his corps of teachers were happy beyond expression.

At the evening service there was again a large congregation and Rev. Dr. Echeverria delivered an excellent discourse on "The Past—What of it?" The text was taken from Ecclesiastes 3:15—"God requireth that which is past." A large chorus choir was in attendance and assisted materially in the singing. Miss Krymer, one of the choir, sang a solo very acceptably.

NATIONAL RECORD BROKEN.

George Proctor Smith Excelled Y. M. C. A. Record in Shot Putting.

An entertainment of an athletic nature was held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday afternoon, and was enjoyed by a large audience There was a shot-putting contest in which the competitors were George Proctor Smith, Frank Marcley, Walter L. Long and E. A. Hayward. Smith won the prize, breaking the local and National indoor Y. M. C. A. records for the twelve pound shot. The State record was 37 feet, 7 inches; the National record was 37 feet, 5 inches. Smith's put was 37 feet, 11 inches. Marcley was second and Long third. A basket ball game followed between the first team and the business men's team. The first team won by a score of 31 to 9. The score at the end of the first half was 11 to 3. The business men were outclassed. They did not play as well as usual. The first team was composed of E. Moraller, Long, Marcley, Smith and M. Moraller. The business men's team was composed of Doane, O'Donnell, Price, Suffren and Johnston.

New York Philharmonic Club.

The second of the subscription concerts to be given in the Casino next Tuesday evening, Jan 11. The soloists on this occasion will be Mme. Antionette Trebelli, soprano; Mr. Herman Brandt, violin; together with the Misses Silberfeld, the wonderful pianists, aged 8 and 12 years. Those present at the previous concert will remember the wonderful performance of the elder of these Sisters, and the playing of the younger will cause even greater wonder. She has a repertoire of over fifty selections of the great masters. A limited number of tickets for the two remaining concerts can be obtained at Armstrong's and at Hall's pharmacies. Price $2. Tickets will not be offered for either single concert.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Her Hand Badly Cut.

Mrs. John H. McVey, while cutting bread with an extra sharp knife in her husband's restaurant, 123 North avenue, on New Year's Day, allowed her left hand to get in the path of the blade, and as a result the index finger was cut to the bone.

Mrs. Dietrich, of Grove street, is seriously ill at her home.

BILIOUSNESS

bosses many a body and burdens many a mind. You can't enjoy the food you like because you are bilious. You take all sorts of precautions, and yet the bilious attack leaps on you like a tiger from ambush. You know the feeling! The blood seeming on fire with a dull heat; the boring pains in the eyes; the head seeming to open and shut; the horrible nausea. You know the irritability which precedes and the languor that follows the attack. It's miserable, isn't it? Why not cure the trouble? There's a pill that will cure biliousness. Dr. J. C. AYER'S PILLS are an acknowledged specific for this derangement.

A. Swanger, Tezarkana, Tex., writes: "For fifteen years I have used Ayer's Pills, and find them very effective in bilious complaints. I have yet to see the case where they have failed to cure."

If You are Bilious DO NOT FAIL TO Try AYER'S PILLS

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of grat tude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving postoffice and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

A Missionary Speaker.

Under the auspices of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, Rev. M. B. Fuller, of India, will address the meeting Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock, in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. corner Fourth street and Watchung avenue.

Rev. Mr. Fuller is superintendent of the Alliance work in India, and was actively engaged in the distribution of the Christian Herald fund in the famine districts.

He is a cultivated gentleman and an interesting speaker. He sails for India Saturday to resume his work there. A good time may be expected in the meeting.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, 5, 8:30, p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:30, 3:30 and 7:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA AND EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., 3 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:20 a. m., 1:00, and 2:30 p. m
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m
Through fast mail for West and South, close 4:30 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 4:30 a. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 14th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 14, 5 37, 6 08, 6 40, 7 07, 7 35, 8 00, 8 30, 9 23, 9 55, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 01, 1 30, 2 01, 2 30, 3 01, 3 30, 4 01, 4 30, 5 01, 5 30, 6 01, 6 30, 7 01, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Express trains, 5 37, 7 35, 10 22 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street at 6 00, 7 15, 8 00, 9 00, 9 45, 10 00, 10 45, 11 00, 11 45 a. m., 12 00, 12 45, 1 00, 1 45, 2 00, 2 45, 3 00, 3 45, 4 00, 4 45, 5 00, 5 45, 6 00, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Express trains, 9 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00 p. m. Sunday, 9 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Leave Newark at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Sunday—8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 6 00, 7 10, 8 16, 9 34, 11 08 a. m., 12 11, 2 02, 3 36, 4 56, 6 04, 7 14, 8 14, 9 34, 10 49 p. m. Sunday, 9 00 a. m., 12 11, 2 02, 4 56, 6 04, 7 14, 8 14, 9 34, 10 49 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 5 00, 6 30, 7 37, 8 40, 10 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 36, 3 10, 4 30, 5 40, 6 50, 8 00, 9 20, 10 35 p. m. Sunday, 10 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 36, 3 10, 4 30, 5 40, 6 50, 8 00, 9 20, 10 35 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 5 00 6 30, 7 37, 8 40, 10 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 36, 3 10, 4 30, 5 40, 6 50, 8 00, 9 20, 10 35 p. m. Sunday at 10 00 a. m., 12 30, 1 36, 3 10, 4 30, 5 40, 6 50, 8 00, 9 20, 10 35 p. m.

Passengers for Easton, Phillipsburg or Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R. at 7 15 p. m.—For Flemington, Somerville, Bound Brook, Bridgewater, Harrisburg, Potterille, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Sunbury and Shamokin.

4 55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Sunbury and Williamsport.

8 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

9 25 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Tamaqua.

9 25 a. m. Sundays—For Easton.

10 00 a. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Reading, and Harrisburg.

4 30 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

8 30 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, etc., and at Junction for D., L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 8 27, 9 12, 10 27 a. m., 2 16, 4 56 p. m. Sundays, 8 56 a. m., 5 00 p. m. Ocean Grove, 8 56 a. m., 2 30 p. m.

Arrive at Long Branch, 9 56, 10 42, 11 58, 3 46, 6 26, 10 27 a. m., 1 13, 5 51 p. m. Sundays, 10 27 a. m., 6 56 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 8 27 a. m., 12 15 p. m.

For Freehold, 8 27, 9 12, 10 27 a. m., 2 16, 4 56 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 2 16, 10 14 a.m. to Lakewood; 11 55, 2 01 p. m. Sundays 2 30 a.m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 37, 7 35, 8 30, 10 22 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m. Sunday, 5 37, 8 30 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

For Trenton, 5 37, 7 35, 8 44, 9 48, 10 22 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m. Sunday, 5 37, 8 30 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

For Bristol, 5 37, 7 35, 8 44, 9 48, 10 22 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m. Sunday, 5 37, 8 30 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

For Philadelphia, 5 37, 7 35, 8 44, 9 48, 10 22 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m. Sunday, 5 37, 8 30 a. m., 12 30, 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 37, 7 35, 8 44 a. m., 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m. Sundays, 5 37, 8 30 a. m., 2 01, 4 30, 6 01, 7 30, 10 22 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, daily at 9 24 a. m.; 2 21 p. m. Sundays 9 24 a. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Baggage to be called for and checked at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the local agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H.P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect November 14, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. 1 and 5 22 p. m. daily. Sundays 61 and 9 28 p. m. Local for Manch Chunk.

9 50 a. m. daily except Sunday, for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

10 36 a. m., 3 34 and 7 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 09 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 25 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 56 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin and principal intermediate stations.

6 26 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

7 32 and 9 28 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, fast line for Buffalo.

2 15 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 46, 7 15, 42 and 9 40 a. m., 2 29, 4 45 and 7 10 p. m. Sundays, 6 46, 9 00 a. m., 2 29, 4 45 and 7 10 p. m. Express 7 28, 8 27, 10 02 a. m., 12 17, 5 02, 7 07 and 9 06 p.m. Sunday 7 26 a. m., 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 46, 7 80, 10 26 a. m., 12 16, 2 32, 4 26, 6 26 and 7 30 p. m. Sunday 8 00 and 9 10 a. m., 2 32 and 10 p. m.

For further information consult Ticket Agents.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMACHER,
Asst General Passenger Agt
Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and 3 and streets.

makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

NEW BRUNSWICK POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

CITY SOLONS ORGANIZED

T. BAKER MADE PRESIDENT OF THE COUNCIL.

The New Council Showed Signs of Some Activity—Committees Appointed —Mac Murray to Remain in Office.

It remains to be seen whether the present members of the Plainfield Common Council will pass through the year on "flowery beds of ease," as many friends from the Third ward made a somewhat unusual effort last Monday toward starting Messrs. Barnes, Baker, Andrews and Clerk MacMurray in the right direction, by presenting each one with a large and beautiful basket of the choicest flowers, tied with white and pink satin ribbon. No one present could recall such an expression of admiration had been evidenced before, and it was a pleasant feature in opening the Council for 1898.

For the fifth consecutive time Clerk T. T. MacMurray called the Council to order and announced the first business to be that of selecting a president. Mr. Buckie nominated Mr. Baker for the position, and Mr. Hetfield placed in nomination Mr. Moffett. Clerk MacMurray appointed as tellers Messrs. Hetfield and Andrews. The re sult was votes cast, of which number Mr. Baker received six and Mr. Moffett four. Mr. Baker was thereupon declared president of the Council, and Messrs. Buckie and Homan were appointed as escorts to conduct President Baker to the chair.

Mr. Baker thanked all the members for his courtesy extended, and said he would do his best to serve the Council in a way that will merit their approval. He asked for the support and co-operation of the members, in serving the city for which purpose they were elected.

The president then presented an opinion submitted by Corporation Counsel Marsh regarding the office of City Clerk as to the termination of the present incumbent's time. In the opinion it was stated that it was not considered that Clerk MacMurray's term would expire until 1900. The opinion was a lengthy one and quoted many acts of the Legislature to sub stantiate it. After it was read Mr. Baker stated that there did not seem to be a vacancy in the clerk's office for one year at least and possibly two years, and he announced that Mr. MacMurray would continue in the office.

On a motion offered by Mr. Hetfield the opinion was received and filed.

At this time Mr. Buckie nominated W. V. Mundy for the position of Jailor, and he was re-elected. Mr. Barrows moved that The Daily Press and Courier News be appointed as the official papers of the city, and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Barrows moved that the rules for 1897 with the substitution of the committee on printing and stationery, for that of the committee on collection and assessment of taxes, be adopted as the rules for the Council of 1898.

Mr. Barrows stated that at the next meeting he would offer a motion that the rules of order governing the Council for 1897, be adopted for use by the Council for 1898.

President Baker then announced the standing committees as follows:

Finance—Messrs. VanHerwerden, Andrews, Hetfield.

Streets and Sewers — Messrs. Barrows, Buckie, VanHerwerden.

Police—Messrs. Buckie, Homan, Barrows.

Fire and Buildings — Messrs. Runyon, Moffett, Newman.

Claims—Messrs. Andrews, Hetfield, Liefke.

Lights and Press—Messrs. Newman, Liefke Hetfield.

License—Messrs. Liefke, Barrows, Homan.

Laws and Ordinances — Messrs. Hetfield, Runyon, Andrews.

Printing and Stationery—Messrs. Moffett, Runyon, Barnes.

Auditing—Messrs. Homan, VanHerwerden, Moffett.

½ Size ½ Price.

The popularity of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the great demand for a cheaper package, has been recognized by the proprietors in their new half-size bottle, costing 50 cents.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

At this point Clerk MacMurray read a petition from G. F. White asking for three electric lights to be located on Sycamore avenue between Green brook and Front street. This and all of the deferred 1897 business was referred to the proper committees. The bill of Patrick Christmas for sewer work to date amounting to $410, less 18 per cent. held back, was referred to the finance committee. It was reported that the bond of Constable Aaron Matlox is incorrect and Counsel Marsh referred it back for correction. Mr. Marsh also reported regarding the case of Mrs. Milliken against the city for damages caused by the location of the sewer beds. Mr. Marsh stated that Mrs. Milliken's counsel has offered to settle for $5,000, but he would not advise the city to settle for that amount. Mr. Barrows offered a motion that the communication be received and that the claim be disallowed.

The report of Overseer of the Poor Marx was received and referred to the alms committee, as was also the report of the City Treasurer.

Mr. Barrows asked the Council for $1,000 for the use of the committee on streets and sewers until the regular appropriations should be made.

In reply to Mr. Hetfield's question as to how much money there is in the treasury to the credit of the above committee, Mr. Barrows stated that there is not one cent.

Mr. Barrows moved that a special committee be appointed to take into consideration new quarters for a city jail, police court, city offices, etc., and to report at a future meeting of the Council. Mr. Barrows moved that the president appoint the committee, and the latter stated that he would do so later.

Mr. Hetfield took exception to Mr. Barrows' motion on the ground that the committee would conflict with the regular police committee, and he thought it was unnecessary. Mr. Buckie, as chairman of the police committee, stated that he was perfectly willing to have such a committee appointed to work in conjunction with his committee.

After Mr. VanHerwerden moved that the bond of Mrs. Catherine Lounsbury be received and filed, Mr. Barrows moved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, January 17th. The Council then adjourned and the members gathered about in groups to discuss the situation as regards the first meeting of the new Council.

The members seemed to be very well satisfied with the appointment of the committees and many of the committees arranged to hold meetings to arrange for the year's work.

RECORDER THOMAS TIED THE KNOT.

The Reporter-Judge Officiated in a New Capacity.

New Year's afternoon at 5 o'clock there occurred the marriage of Miss Anna Richter, of Somerset street, to William Gartner, of the same address. The marriage was performed by Recorder Thomas, of the borough, and it was his first ceremony. The bride is a sister-in-law of Paul Postler, of Somerset street, and the groom is employed as a baker by Mr. Voehl, corner of Harmony and Somerset streets. Those who stood up with the bride and groom as witnesses were Paul Postler and Charles Steuerwald.

After the wedding, supper was served and a general social time enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Gartner received a number of useful and beautiful presents. Among those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dresselt, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spelgal, Mr. and Mrs. Eymer.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I always recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Hand Caught in the Safe.

Monday morning at the North Plainfield Public School, School Commissioner R. M. Fountain, of Jackson avenue, met with a painful accident while he was closing the door of the big safe in the superintendent's office. His left hand caught in the door as it was swung to and Mr. Fountain is now carrying his hand about bandaged, and it will be some time before he will be able to use it.

A New Year's Gift.

The Chickering piano used in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church was very satisfactorily tuned New Year's Day by W. R. Brokaw, who has a store at 129 East Front street, and best of all, Mr. Brokaw donated his services to the church, a very pleasant New Year's gift, and duly appreciated by the church people.

TO INSPECT SCHOOLS.

TWO PHYSICIANS APPOINTED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

They Will Inspect the Schools Monthly and Look After the Physical Condition of the Pupils in the Public Schools.

Plainfield has taken the lead among the cities of New Jersey in providing the latest safeguard against the spread of contagious disease among its school children. At the first meeting of the new Board of Education of the city, held in the High School building last Monday, the Board decided to adopt the recommendation of its president, Dr. Probasco, and the secretary of the Board of Health, Dr. Murray. The plan as adapted to this city by these physicians from the methods now in use in the principal cities of the country, provides for salaried physicians to inspect all the schools thoroughly once a month, and twice a year to test the eyesight and hearing of all the pupils in the school.

All the members of the Board were present at the meeting. Mr. Lovell, who was re-elected to the Board at the last election, took his seat as usual. The first business of the evening was the election of the officers of the Board for the new year. Mr. Lovell was made temporary chairman, while Dr. Probasco was re-elected to the presidency of the Board. F. C. Lounsbury was elected as secretary for another year. F. B. Clark was appointed to the position of clerk for another year, his salary to be the same as heretofore.

The usual list of bills was then read and approved. The report of Collector Bird showed that taxes to the amount of $27,912.95 had been collected, together with interest amounting to $57.77, making a total of $27,970.72, of which $15,000 was deposited in the First National Bank and the remainder in the City National Bank. Collector Bird also reported that he had received $1 504.89 from the County Superintendent as the annual State appropriation to the Board and had deposited it in the First National Bank. Mr. Lounsbury reported the receiving of $6 25 for the sale of old desks.

The question of the two inspecting physicians was brought up, having been laid over at the last meeting, and all the members expressed themselves as being much in favor of the proposed plan. Mr. Lovell offered a resolution, which embodied the suggestions of Dr. Probasco in regard to the matter, to the effect that two physicians be appointed for six months, and that they receive compensation at the rate of $200 per annum each. The resolution provided for the monthly inspections and for an examination of the eyesight and hearing of the pupils in April. The expense was to be included in the incidental expense account as the budget had already been completed.

The resolution was carried and after some discussion Dr. W. H. Murray and Dr. Harold Tomlinson were appointed to the positions, and the appointments confirmed.

The finance committee reported that the mortgages had been paid off on all the school buildings, and only the bond debt remained, a saving of one per cent. on the amount of the indebtedness.

President Probasco announced that the standing committees would remain the same as they were last year, which was as follows:—

Teachers and text books—Messrs. Probasco, Jenkins and Abbott.

Books, stationary and supplies—Messrs. Abbott, Lounsbury and Probasco.

Buildings and repairs—Messrs. Lounsbury, Probasco and Lovell.

Fuel—Messrs. Jenkins, Lovell and Abbott.

Finance—Messrs. Lovell, Jenkins and Lounsbury.

The annual report of Superintendent Marson was received. Two thousand copies of the report and the financial statement were ordered printed and distributed. The Board then went in executive session.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Fell Through the Ice.

Maude Emmons, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Emmons, of Prospect place, fell through the ice on Tier's pond Saturday afternoon while playing with some of her schoolmates. Alfred Springer, of Grove street, who happened to be near the place, saw the accident and at once assisted the young girl to terra firma. Outside of a drenching, nothing serious resulted.

Resigned His Position.

Leonard Spangenberg has resigned his position as manager for the Plainfield Sanitary Company, taking effect December 31st. Andrew Love, Jr., has been appointed to fill the position.

More

Medicinal value in a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla than in any other preparation.

More skill is required, more care taken, more expense incurred in its manufacture. It costs the proprietor and the dealer more but it costs the consumer less, as he gets more doses for his money.

More curative power is secured by its peculiar combination, proportion and process, which make it peculiar to itself.

More people are employed and more space occupied in its Laboratory than any other.

More wonderful cures effected and more testimonials received than by any other.

More cures and more increase year by year are reported, by druggists.

More people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla today than any other, and more are taking today than ever before.

More and STILL MORE reasons might be given why you should take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

The One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills and Sick Headache. 25 cents.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range. Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

STYLE AND FIT GUARANTEED.

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos, to make room for new stock.

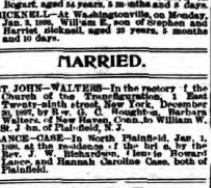
ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

32 and 34 WEST 18th STREET, NEW YORK.



ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists, or by mail; sample 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

DIED.

BOYD—In this city, on Tuesday, January 4, 1898, Peter Boyd, in his 67th year.

MARKHAM—Suddenly in this city, on Tuesday, Dec. 28, 1897, Mrs. Harriet A. Markham.

BOGART—In this city, on Friday, December 31, 1897, Baldwin Bogart, son of Baldwin B. Bogart, aged 34 years, 5 months and 3 days.

BICKNELL—At Washingtonville, on Monday, Jan. 3, 1898, Willard, son of Stephen and Harriet Bicknell, aged 20 years, 5 months and 10 days.

MARRIED.

ST JOHN—WALTERS—In the rectory of the Church of the Transfiguration, East Twenty-fourth street, New York, December 30, 1897, by Rev. G. C. Houghton, Barbara Walters, of New York, to Rev. John Wilson W. St. J hn, of Plainfield, N. J.

LANCE—CASE—In North Plainfield, Jan. 1, 1898, at the residence of the bride, by the Rev. J. M. Richardson, Lizzie Howard Lance, and Hannah Caroline Case, both of Plainfield.

Santa Claus Was There.

The members of All Souls church held the annual Christmas entertainment Saturday afternoon, when a very entertaining programme was presented by the members of the Sunday school. Elmer Walker played the part of Santa Claus and distributed presents to the scholars. After the entertainment supper was served to all present.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt, candid answer, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public with out cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. BECKWELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 123, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to talk to you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell anything inferior. I am able me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the purchaser of the consumption generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the largest portion of the work. I am personally attend to the setting of all work, and rest upon these facts, that good Work and Good Materials, at fair prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I shall aim to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. B. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Bilious and Nervous Diseases. They purify the blood and give Healthy action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade inspected Nursery Stock. Best outfit and pay given. Planting season now at hand. We have a large and complete line of the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. We pay weekly and expenses if necessary. Write for terms, stating age, etc.

Reference, Rev. A. Thomas, Rector Christ Church, West Chester, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work, we can give you employment with GOOD PAY, and you can work all or part time and at home or traveling. The work is light and easy. WRITE AT ONCE for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY, ROCHESTER, N. Y. 99 4m

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Range, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles. Removed from 205 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence: 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9jly

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a Mann's Green Bone Cutter will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F. W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass. 9 2 15 23 11 12—7 mos.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED.

MR. AND MRS. P. M. DEMAREST HELD THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

At Their Home on Craig Place Their Relatives and Friends Gathered From Far and Near in Honor of the Event.

With the passing of the old year, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest completed the fiftieth year of their married life, and surrounded on every hand by their family and friends they celebrated their golden wedding in a manner befitting such an event. The golden wedding was held at their home on Craig place Friday night and proved a very happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest looked a very young couple to celebrate such an event. Both were hale and hearty and took part in the frolics attendant on the celebration with as much readiness as did their grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest received their guests in a corner of the parlor. Over their heads was the inscription, "'47 '97," in flowers on an evergreen background. The guests were presented first to the happy couple and then to N. Henry Joralemon, of Orange, and his daughter, Miss Margaret Joralemon. Mr. Joralemon was the best man at the wedding, fifty years ago, and his wife, a sister of Mr. Demarest, was the bridesmaid. Mrs. Joralemon was detained at home by illness, but sent her daughter to the golden wedding to assist in her place.

Three sisters of Mrs. Demarest, Mrs. Dennison Steele, of Toledo, O., Mrs. William S. Shaw, of Chicago, and Mrs. S. M. Baker, of Brooklyn, were present and to them the guests were also introduced. The guests were introduced by the ushers, Albert Demarest, a son, Warren D. Church, a grandson, and Daniel Williamson, a friend of the latter.

Of the living children of the couple Mrs. E. Church, of the borough, Albert Demarest, of this city, Mrs. Newton Drake, of the borough, and Mrs. Spencer L. Fraser, of Chicago, were present with their families and assisted in receiving the guests. Other relatives were present from Toledo, Chicago, New York, Orange and Patchogue. A number of friends from the city and borough, who have known Mr. Demarest and his good wife since they settled here twenty-four years ago, were also present. There were about seventy present at the wedding.

Mr. Demarest has resided in the city and borough for the last twenty-four years and has been identified with the growth of the city as a merchant. He is now associated with his son Albert Demarest, in the grocery business on Park avenue.

While the older folks talked and chatted the young people danced, and later in the evening some of the older ones joined in the dance. Three musicians occupied a corner and played constantly through the evening and until the new year was three hours old. At 11 o'clock an elaborate supper was served.

Twice during the evening Frank Church Demarest, the bright little three-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Demarest, stood up in a chair and entertained his hands over the heads of his grandparents, lisped out the following marriage service:

Under this roof in stormy weather,
I join this man and woman together.
Let only He who rules the thunder
Put this man and woman asunder.
Amen. Amen.

Adam Demarest, of New Orleans, a nephew of the couple, had a surprise prepared. He read a humorous selection, written after the manner of the Psalms, and closed by presenting Mr. Demarest with a bag of supposed Klondike gold nuggets, which proved to be candy wrapped in gold foil.

At midnight the new year was ushered in with plenty of noise and clashing of tin pans. Several of the younger men marched all over the house making every imaginable noise to celebrate the arrival of 1898.

It was nearly 3 o'clock before the guests departed homewards after a delightful evening. In departing they wished the host and hostess a old and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Demarest received a large number of handsome and valuable presents which were displayed in one of the upper rooms.

A Good Entertainment.

J. Stuart Blackton, humorist, cartoonist and lightning artist, and Will Lyle, banjo specialist, of New York, were the entertainers at the Star Course entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms on Saturday evening. Both of late were newspaper men in their line and kept the large audience in a continual laughter from start to finish. It was one of the best entertainments ever given at the hall and was of a high order.

To the Hospital.

The many friends of Miss Mattie M. Frill, of Watervelt avenue, will learn with regret of her serious illness. She was taken a few days ago with peritonitis. Her condition has become so critical that it was deemed best to remove her to the hospital, where she was taken Thursday evening.

—The dance given on Saturday evening in Washington Hall by Eugene O'Reilly was very successful.

A LOVING CUP FOR HIM.

JOHN BROOKS LEAVES POTTERS WITH ESTEEM OF ALL EMPLOYES.

A Solid Silver Expression of Their Regard for the Man Who Has Been Connected With the Company Thirty Years.

Superintendent John Brooks, of the Potter Press Works, ended his long term of service for the company Friday, and the regard in which he is held by the men over whom he has been placed, was shown by the presentation of a handsome silver loving cup to their retiring superintendent.

The entire affair came as a surprise to Mr. Brooks, who saw nothing about the works when he returned from lunch at 1:15 o'clock. The men were all at work at their benches and the usual order of things was apparent. The superintendent went to the upper floor, and the men were immediately assembled in the east end of the large machine shop and a small platform was improvised.

The machinery was stopped and a message was sent for the superintendent to come below.

Thinking that an accident had occurred to the machinery, he hurried to the first floor and there found the employes to the number of 300 gathered about the platform upon which the loving cup was place d. Beside it stood Fred Sears, who has been in the employ of the company longer than any other of the men. He made an appropriate presentation speech.

Mr. Brooks replied in a few well chosen words, thanking the men for the expression of their regard.

The cup was inscribed as follows: "Presented as a token of esteem to John Brooks, the retiring superintendent, by the employes of the Potter Printing Works, Plainfield, New Jersey, Dec. 31, 1897."

Mr. Brooks has been in the employ of the Potter Company for thirty one years, and has been in the factory in this city ever since its establishment, eighteen years ago.

He leaves to take charge of the works of the Cornwall Printing Press Company of this city.

SANTA VISITED THE JUNIORS.

Franklin Council Combined Business and Pleasure Last Night.

The members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held an important meeting Thursday at which time the following officers for the ensuing term were elected: Councilor, T. E. Curtis, Jr.; vice councilor, F. Shepard; assistant recording secretary, C. E. Johnson; conductor, George Bisterfi; warden, E. R. Pope; inside sentinel, William Demarest; outside sentinel, Henry Palmer; trustee Harvey Thorn; representative to State Council, Ephriam Compton; representative to Funeral Benefit Association, David Bodine.

After the transaction of the evening's business the Christmas celebration took place, an annual event in this lodge. There was the usual Christmas tree, brilliantly illuminated and filled with small but useful and ornamental presents. The room was darkened and thus the effect from the tree was fully appreciated.

Santa Claus appeared in the form of Harvey B. Thorn, who kept his fellow-members in a state of continual laugh er. The fun was occasioned from the fact that the recipient was obliged to open his package before leaving the room. The married men received gifts that they can put to good use in their homes, while the bachelors were presented with gifts that will be useful in their business. It was nearly 12 o'clock when the festivities came to an end, and all were sorry that the time had passed so quickly.

WEDDED AS THE YEAR WANE'S.

Miss Cora VanArsdale Becomes Mrs Charles Harding.

The marriage of Miss Cora VanArsdale, daughter of Peter VanArsdale, of Jackson avenue, to Chas Harding, of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark, occurred Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride. Rev. H. J Johnston performed the ceremony beneath an arch of floral bell in one corner of the parlor. Thomas Whitlock, of Bound Brook, and DeWitt Conover, of Somerville, stood up with the bride and groom. The bride was gowned in white organdie over white silk.

After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs Harding left for Philadelphia, where they will spend a few days On their return they will reside in Newark. Those who witnessed the marriage were: Mr. and Mrs. Harding and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. VanArsdale, of South Branch; Mrs. M. VanArsdale, Mrs. Woods of Pluckamin; Mr. and Mrs. Whitlock, of Bound Brook; Miss Ten Eyck, DeWitt Conover, Mr. and Mrs. B. Conover, of Somerville; Mrs. Schenck, Miss Schenck, Mrs. Powell Miss Smith and Miss Vroom, of Plainfield. The wedding march was played by Miss Vroom, an intimate friend of the bride.

The T. A. B. Dance.

The T. A. B. Society gave a successful invitation dance in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street New Year's Eve. The attendance was large and the event proved a most enjoyable one to all.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA RENDERED BY THE BAPTISTS.

MORE OF THE CHURCHES CARRY OUT PROGRAMMES APPROPRIATE TO THE HOLIDAYS.

"The Christmas Excursion" the Title of the Brilliant Efforts of the Baptists—In Each of the Churches Old Santa Claus Made the Children Happy.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

A well arranged and pleasing Christmas programme was presented to the primary department of the First Baptist church Sunday school Tuesday afternoon under the direction of the superintendent, Mrs. Powlison. The lecture room, where the entertainment was held, was attractively decorated with greens and flowers by the teachers of the department. The programme consisted of recitations as follows: Opening address, Beulah Rogers; "Letter to Santa," Randolph Chandler; "Suppose," Earl Oakley; "Two Lights," Miriam Hall; Clair Francisco, Bertha Manning; "Electric Santa Claus," Josephine Serrell; "Kris Kringle," Grace Manning; "A Tidy Housekeeper," Elizabeth McGee; "Why," Herbert Stine; "Foxes Christmas Party," Wallace Pearce; Anna Morrison; George Rogers; "Why I am Glad for Christmas," Ethel Webster; Marguerite Serrell; Beulah VanWinkle; May Batchelor; "We Four Little Girls," Miriam Hall and Hazel Corlinne. A song, entitled 'Shoemakers.' was rendered by George Rogers, Russell Miller, Walter VanWinkle and Will wood Weber. There was a vocal duet by Ethel VanWinkle and Marguerite Serrell.

Santa Claus appeared later in the person of G. F. Brown, and he pleased the little folks by presenting them with useful gifts, in addition to boxes of candy.

In the evening the senior members of the school and their friends gathered in large numbers to enjoy one of the best entertainments ever held at this church. It was a Christmas cantata entitled "Santa Claus' Home, or the Christmas Excursion," by Fannie J. Crosby, with music and dialogue by W. Howard Doane. It was given under the direction of Mrs. L. H. Biglow, Jr., assisted by Mr. Biglow and O. Chapman, together with the regular choir committee. The decorations were in charge of Miss Elia Serrell. The different characters represented and those who took them are as follows: Santa Claus, Geo. F. Brown; Frost Queen, Miss Margaret Harold; Snow Flake, Miss Alice Needham; pictures in Santa Claus' house, Elsie Brokaw; Hanko and Panko, dwarfs, Jerry Manning and Eugene McLoughlin; Maid servant, Miss Serrell; quartette, George Smith, William Holmes, Mr. Douglass and Harry Drake. Mr. Wm. L. H. Biglow, Jr., Mr. Walt, Harry Drake; Mr. Scribbler, Herbert Case. Those who took part in the cradle scene were Mrs. DeWitt C. Brokaw, Beulah VanWinkle, Miss Ella Serrell, May Batchelor, Cathy Roesp, Will Flanders and chorus.

The music throughout was very pretty. While it was necessary to leave out some unimportant parts, the balance of the cantata was perfectly rendered. Howard Doane presided at the piano, and was assisted by P. Ludwig Conde on the violin, and Walter Serrell with the flute.

At the close of the cantata each scholar received a box of candy in remembrance of the joyful occasion. There was a very large attendance of people and the room was hardly large enough to accommodate all that desired to attend."

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The members of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school and their friends had an opportunity for a thorough good time Thursday at their Christmas festival. The lecture room was appropriately decorated with evergreen roping and wreaths, and at the right of the improvised platform a wild shadow Christmas tree blazed with electric lights.

The first part of the evening was occupied with an exhibition of magic by Professor Plate, of New York. A bewildering succession of pretty or comic tricks was given, the entertainer proving himself a clever, original and delightful magician.

After about an hour of entertainment, enjoyed by old and young alike, the bells of Saint Nick's sleigh were heard, and the old saint, represented by J. Hamilton, entered the room and distributed the gifts from the well-filled tree. A doll or some other pretty gift was given to each member of the primary department, candy and oranges were supplied to all the classes, and a number of special gifts were presented to prominent Sunday-school workers. A mechanical toy, representing a bicycle racer hard at it, fell to the share of Thomas A. Cuming, a small music box was an appropriate gift for Deacon T. J. Runyon, precursor of the school, while a tiny bank recalled to David Runyon's mind the business which occupies his less frivolous moments. Most important gift of all, however, was that presented to Rev. J. W. Richardson, a generous purse, presented by his appreciative parishioners.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

The children's Christmas entertainment for the members of the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school occurred Thursday afternoon in the large hall of the Y. M. C. A. building. The programme was arranged and presented under the direction of Mrs. Randall, and was opened with a song entitled "St. Nick," by Bessie Randall, Anna Holder and Anna Randall. This was followed with recitations by Anna Holder, Bessie Randall, Elsie Tier and Mae Anthony. A recitation entitled "Why we keep Christmas" was composed and recited by Lucy Corlell, while Gussie Kreitling sang an appropriate selection. Presiding at the piano was Miss Nettie Kreitling, who played in her usual efficient manner. Following the rendition of the programme refreshments were served to those present, and a general good time was enjoyed by all.

In the evening the older folks were entertained with a selected concert of a high order by the members of the Queen City Band, under the leadership of Benjamin LaVere. During the evening Mr. LaVere gave a cornet solo. The work of the band was appreciated exceedingly by the audience. Each scholar in the Sunday school received the usual box of candy as a remembrance of the happy event.

During the evening Superintendent E. E. Anthony was greatly surprised, when Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., on behalf of the Sunday school presented him with a handsome arm chair. There was an exchange of compliments, and Mr. Anthony thanked the donors heartily for their beautiful gift.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

One of the best Christmas entertainments of Thursday was the one held at Grace M. E. church. The church was crowded to the doors with members and friends of the church and Sunday school. The following programme was presented under the direction of Superintendent John Valiant:

Topsy-Turvy—by Stella Vermeule. Ball Decent, Bessie Farley, Grace Powell, Tillie Uhrhan, Edith Major, Flossie Conrow, Grace Gaddis, Mabel Garey, Lotta Benner, Eva Titus, Lizzie Titus.

Recitation—"After Christmas"...Mildred Long

Solo—"Rock a Bye"..... Ethel Noe

Recitation—"Christmas Morning"..... Willie Woodruff

Ten little sundowners—Edith VanDyke, Winnie Carroll, Bessie Titus, Flossie Conrow, Bell Decent, Nattie Veehl, Grace Gaddis, Stella Vermeule, Mabel and Lotta Benner.

Recitation—"Mamma's Gift"....Harry Gaddis

Dialogue—Christmas Bells....Anna Hoagland, Ethel Noe, Bessie Taft, Edna Sebring, Grace Titus, Stella Kline, Mildred Long.

Watching for Santa Claus.....Charlie Powell

Dialogue—Christmas Bells.....Edith Bodine, Jennie Nesbin, Pearl Ammerman, Anna Hoagland, Edna Sebring, Ethel Noe, Mildred Long, Grace Titus, Jennie and Alice DeMott, Ethel Most, Stella Kline, Bessie Kline.

Recitation—"Santa Claus and the Mouse."

.....Alice DeMott

Solo—"Santa is Coming".....Edna Sebring

Dialogue—The Happy Little Wife.

Grace and Charlie Powell

Tableau—Christmas Time—Childhood, Edna Sebring; youth, Grace Titus; middle age, Lottie Benner; old age, Alice DeMott; peace, Ethel Most; love, Edith Taft.

Rev. Mr. Johnston, on behalf of L. A. Hummer's Sunday school class, presented the teacher with an umbrella. Harry Martin, who has not missed a Sunday at school, was presented with a book. Mrs. Powell and Miss Most received presents from their classes. Dyckman Winckler appeared as Santa Claus and distributed gifts.

SHOPLIFTER CAUGHT.

A Prominent Society Woman Detected Stealing in a Local Store.

The employes at J. W. Gavett's store had an encounter with a shoplifter Thursday. The woman, who is well known in social circles in this city, was seen to conceal a piece of china under her cloak and soon after ward left the store. One of the clerks of the establishment followed the shoplifter across the street and into the postoffice, where she stopped to place the stolen article in her handbag. The clerk stepped up and coolly inquired of the woman whether she wished to pay for the article or to have it charged.

The blunder that she had been detected in the theft caused the woman much embarrassement. She sent the article back to the store later in the afternoon.

Danced in the New Year

The members of the Park Club and their friends welcomed in the new year Friday night with one of their enjoyable dances. It was a formal club dance rather than one for the junior members alone and was consequently attended by the older set. Despite the storm the dance was well attended. The patronesses were Mrs. J. T. Scott, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mrs. W. J. Boome and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed. The ball room of the club looked very pretty in its holiday attire of evergreens and holly.

NEW GOLF LINKS NOW.

PLAINFIELD'S POPULAR CLUB MAKES A RADICAL CHANGE.

Present Clubhouse and Grounds Not Large Enough and 101 Acres of Fine Farm Land Have Now Been Leased.

The members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club were out in force last Thursday. For some time past there has been in the air rumors of radical changes in the arrangements for the coming year and everyone was interested.

George A. Chapman, the president of the club, presided over the meeting and explained at length what the trustees had done. The interest in golf has increased to such an extent that the present course on Plainfield avenue has become inadequate. Saturdays and holidays last summer it was overcrowded and there was no remedy for it. A great many persons were unable to enter the club simply because there was no room for more players. After carefully investigating all the available farms in the neighborhood, the trustees finally leased the farm of Dayton L. Mellick on Woodland avenue, just south of the cemetery. This covers about 85 acres of land and includes a house and barn. Adjoining this on the south they have leased 16 acres from John Melick. Each of these leases is for five years from March 1st, 1898, and includes an option to the club to purchase the properties for $10,000 and $1,215, respectively.

Several amendments to the constitution were adopted. Heretofore any member of a non-resident member's family had the privilege of playing on the course. This privilege has been withdrawn and in place of it any member of an active member's family may be elected to associate membership, paying annual dues of $3. In this way all persons using the course will contribute something to the expenses.

Provision was also made for non-resident members with dues of $12 a year and no initiation fee. Several other minor changes were also made. The new course will be laid out as soon as possible, but the old course will be maintained until the new one is ready.

PLAINFIELD'S PLEASURE PROVIDERS.

Tenth Grand Ball of the Twilight Social Club a Great Success.

No other event in Plainfield ushered in the year 1898 with more pleasure than did the tenth grand ball of the Twilight Social Club, held in the Crescent Rink Friday evening. Notwithstanding the very inclement weather that prevailed that evening a large assemblage was present, and all had an enjoyable time dancing the always acceptable waltz and the other dances that went to make up a well-arranged order. The music was by Rogers, and it is needless to say it was all right. The supper served was par excellence, and many availed themselves of the opportunity of attending to the wants of the "inner man." After supper the dance was resumed and was kept up until morning, when all departed for their homes, well pleased with the pleasures afforded. The club committee who so successfully carried out the affair and to whom credit is due are F. S. Moore, E. C. Searing, Theo. Smith and L. Feiring.

A NEW YEAR'S WEDDING.

Hymen Completed the Mission That Cupid Had Started.

A quiet home wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, 75 Manning avenue, New Year's afternoon at 5 o'clock, when C. Howard Lance and Miss H. Carrie Case were united in marriage by Rev. J. W. Richardson in the presence of a small gathering of near relatives. The bride was attired in a travelling gown of green cloth, with pearl trimmings and chiffon. They were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends with many useful and valuable gifts. The bride and groom left on the 3:31 p. m. train for an extended wedding trip.

A Phantom Dance.

A phantom dance was given to the members of the Alhambra Club and their friends by the Misses Buckle at their home on Westervelt avenue, Thursday evening. It proved to be a sheet and pillow case party. The first part of the evening was spent in guessing the identity of the phantoms. Miss Bertha Thorn and Sydney R. Ellsworth received the first prizes as the most successful guessers. There were about thirty present. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Miss Mabelle Force furnished the music for dancing and for the march.

Somerset Council's Officers

The following officers were elected at the meeting of Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last Friday evening: Councilor, Wm. Fangborn; vice councilor, W. R. Conover; conductor, James Harned; warden, John Kitchen; assistant recording secretary, Fred Koller; inside sentinel, Jacob Ketterling; outside sentinel, William Scribner; representative to State Council, Walter Walker; representative to Funeral Benefit Association, W. Pangborn.

DESTROYED AND ROBBED

UNKNOWN MISCREANTS SMASH WINDOWS TO GOFF'S SALOON.

Four Bottles of Rum Were Stolen From the Window—The Loss to Windows Was $120—Not Insured.

A dastardly deed, prompted apparently by malice, was committed early Sunday morning when two large plate glass windows in the saloon of John J. Goff at the corner of Liberty and West Third streets, were shattered by heavy missiles thrown into them from the sidewalk.

The noise of the breaking glass did not awaken any of the family, and the deed was not discovered until about 3 o'clock, when Policeman Saunders, who was on that beat, was informed by a passerby of the damage which had been done.

From the window on Liberty street four bottles of liquor were taken, but the stock in the other window was untouched.

Some persons living in the neighborhood said when the damage was made known that it had probably happened between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning. They were returning from a ball at that time and heard the sound of falling glass after they had entered the house.

The damage to the windows will amount to $150. They are not insured and the loss falls entirely on the owner of the premises. It is said that the police have a clue to the identity of the guilty parties.

TURKEYS AND ENJOYMENT.

THEY REIGNED SUPREME SATURDAY

Open House Was Held at Hope Chapel New Year's Day—Seventy Turkeys Were Disposed of at the Annual Supper.

New Year's Day was one of the most auspicious events in the history of Hope chapel, although it was an annual event. It has always been the custom to give a turkey dinner at the chapel each year on New Year's day. Last Saturday the doors were opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and closed at 8 o'clock in the evening. Between those hours the chapel was filled to overflowing with friends and friends. People of every nationality and color were present and all were made welcome.

The interior of the chapel was prettily decorated with greens, while over the platform was suspended a sign which was illuminated with electric lights. The tables were arranged about the room in a convenient manner, and there was scarcely a time when they were not being used by the people present.

In all about 70 turkeys were on hand, the chapel as presents, in addition to several roasts of beef. Between twelve and fourteen hundred people were fed and made happy. Last year Dr. Carman, of East Ninth street, made the members of the chapel a present of the largest turkey roasted and this year the old time favorite went to the chapel a thirty one pound turkey, dressed, cooked and donated for the occasion.

David Bowden was the efficient chairman of the general committee of arrangements, and he was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. W. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Langlidter, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, and the active members and teachers of the Sunday school classes of the chapel.

During the afternoon there was vocal and instrumental music and a jolly good time was had by all.

A Charming Dance.

A charming little dance was given by the graduating class of Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school on the school Thursday evening to about forty of their friends. The rooms were decorated for the occasion with evergreens and red bunting and holly. The arrangement was very artistic. The patronesses of the dance were Mrs. J. W. Reinhart, Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. George W. Goddard. A very pleasant evening was passed. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Elsie Martin and Miss Harriet Goddard.

Many persons cannot take plain cod-liver oil.

They cannot digest it. It upsets the stomach.

Knowing these things, we have digested the oil in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites; that is, we have broken it up into little globules, or droplets.

We use machinery to do the work of the digestive organs, and you obtain the good effects of the digested oil at once. That is why you can take Scott's Emulsion.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

EVENTFUL YEAR IN CITY AFFAIRS ENDED.

COMMON COUNCIL OF '97 COMPLETED ITS CAREER DECEMBER 29th.

Was Much to Do to Finish the Year's Work and the Council Worked Late to Do It—Speeches Followed—Important Reports Received From Committees.

required an adjourned and a ...ial meeting of the City Council ...ther such to close up the business ...s of the city for the past year ...Dumont and all of the ...men except Mr. Tolles were ...

On a motion of Mr. Barrows the ...t part of the minutes of the last ...eting was expunged from the city ...rds as illegal, owing to the fact ...the Council had adjourned.

The bond of Constable Aaron Mat...son was received and filed, also the ...d of Mrs. F. C. Lounsbury re...ding her property against any fur...ther sales, as provided for at the last ...eeting of the Council.

Mayor M. French asked the Council ...ether the sidewalk grade between ...ilton and Grant avenues on the ...rth Fourth street. The matter was ...ferred to the new street committee ...s appointed next week.

A communication from the Plainfield ...ectric Light Company stated that ...ir lights had been placed as directed ...the Council. The annual reports ...the Collector, Treasurer, and Judge ...re received and filed. The report ...f the Police Board was read in place ...Chief Grant's report, for the reason ...at all of the salient points in the ...ief's report is to be found in the ...yor's report.

Chief Jr.-O. Doane, of the fire de...rtment, reported 43 alarms during ...e year, of which number 29 were box ...s, 10 telephone calls and there was ...e break, making a decrease of 18 ...r last year. The loss on buildings ...ounted to $61,671 42; insurance, $70,400; loss ...ntents, $10,453.70; insurance, $65,...0. There were 10 fires caused by ...lative chimneys; 7, cause unknown; ...incense; 4, sparks from a locomo...ve.

The annual report of Chief of Police ...d showed the total number of ar...sts to be 560, and the fines collected ...d amount to $1 813, as against ...rrests made last year and $1,290 ...llected from fines. The total ex...nses of the department were $14,...0.37 out of which amount $12,601 47 ...as paid for salaries

City Judge DeMeza reported that ...ases had been brought before him ...ring the year, of which number 199 ...re committed, 194 fined, 219 sen...ces suspended, 49 discharged, 11 ...ailed, 11 out on bonds and 1 sent to ...sylum. He also reported that he ...d paid over to the City Treasurer ...1,...

Building Inspector Doane reported ...at 91 permits had been granted ...ring the year. The reading of ...ief Doane's report of the fire de...rtment was dispensed with, and the ...tion was taken with the re...rt of the committee on streets and ...ys. However the report of the ...mittee on sewers, was presented ...Mr. Frost. It was as follows:

...ORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF SEWERS ...the Honorable the Common Council of the ...y of Plainfield:

...Gentlemen:—We have the honor to submit ...r fourth annual report for the year ...ding Dec. 31st, 1897.

...There has been 428 feet of eight-inch sewer ...ipe laid during the year, making 2,573 ...et of completed sewer at a total cost of ...$6,000.

...There have been 372 houses connected with ...sewer since the beginning of this year, ...ving a total of 1,607 connections. These ...nnections have been distributed throughout ...e about 1,500 people as and probably ...ore. Allowing $7.00 each for clean...g cesspools and $2.00 each for 400 vaults, ...ere is a total of $3,644 00 which, added to ...e total cost of construction of 1,700 cess...ols and vaults—there will be a total of ...e cost of maintenance for one year ...ove and beyond the expense of cleaning ...ese vaults, with their accompanying soil ...d personal discomfort and unsightly ...ess. Against this the maintenance ...arges on account of 34 miles of sewers ...d the interest on the construc...n for the past year is $6,000, making ...e total which will be assessed each suc...eding year still the basis of one dollar ...r capita of population in 1897 is ...ve dollar cents.)

...The flow of sewage per 24 hours ...ay be about or short of 500,000 gallons, ...e population at present receiving the ...efit of the sewers.

...The present disposal of the sewage ...ough a 24-inch main has been successfully practi...ed without the rear and without any ...ance that is frequently per...ived in backyards or city backyards ...ere vaults are not available.

...The amount of expenses of the en...neering division is appended. Considerable ...ubt in the farm was done which will ...ve to be corrected in the future, and ...ere will be the need of some years to ...me for the testing of the beds and of ...e results will entail for; the use...l department and for other than the ...ewer, who should always be an ...ineer, who has been thoroughly demon-strated, ...e importance of cultivating the land ...r profit by the city as a farmer has ...oved too costly for repetition. The ...ther request to get the cost of the ...ewer and marketing from the re...ipts. The present system of interest ...the beds, McMahan, is a very in...sable man and, with the use of ...ich he has been favored by the city) ...ay, and additional help from ...e months of the year, can ...ve for the disposal of the sewage; ...d the between Front street and Dun...n should be leased temporarily ...ll needed for its primary purpose of ...wage, and its care meantime ...uld be charged to the sewer mainten...ance account.

If the fee for inspection of house connec...ns is raised to $2.00, the proceeds will al...most, if not quite, meet the cost of maintenance of this new system; the fee is so small that there cannot be any reasonable objection to it as it; leaves the cost of maintenance on the parties directly benefited.

Respectfully submitted,
Geo. H. Frost,
Ralph I. Tolles,
Elliott T. Barrows.

Plainfield, Dec. 29th, 1897.

Hon. Common Council, of the City of Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—Your committee on streets and sewers beg to submit their report for that part of the work relating to streets for the year ending December 31, 1897.

Next to the security afforded by fire and police protection, nothing comes closer to the people in municipal life than the condition of the streets. Formerly only those owning horses felt its influence, but with the advent of the bicycle and the majority of our people riding it, there is a continual cry against uneven, wet and muddy streets.

The march of improvements during the past few years has been particularly unfortunate to the streets of our city. Sewers, house connections and trolley roads have practically ruined the macadamized streets through which they were laid; and, at the present rate of limited appropriations, it will be some years before they are back to their former state.

The question of road building has assumed national proportions; the United States Government having created a "Road Division" to the Department of Agriculture and started to co-operate with local committees for better roads; and all over the country, even from the farming districts, comes the cry for better traveling facilities. The building of the road is but the first step; to invest in telford and macadamized streets and then allow them to dis integrate and go to ruin, is most unbusinesslike and a waste of public money. There are two great foes of macadamized streets, narrow tires and reckless sprinkling, but the former can not far exist where tires and sprinking must be controlled by the municipalities through which they run. The tire question is a State one, but it is feasible, and we believe it would prove a popular measure to have the city sprinkle its own streets. The active co-operation of each householder in cleaning and raking their street frontages will also be a great way towards relieving the city of a part of the burden of street cleaning, and will tend to create a sentiment as large for better streets; the town street should be the public park. There is no higher evidence of taste, refinement, enterprise and intelligence of a community than well-kept streets. Ill kept, badly laid public streets speak of public poverty and narrowness, and an absence of that spirit which should possess every citizen loyal to his city's interest and wisely attentive to his own.

Plainfield has seventy miles of streets and roads, twenty-five miles of which are macadamized and Telford, balance dirt; ten of the latter being unaccepted. To clean the macadam and scrape and roll each dirt street once each spring and fall would cost about $6,000. Surely all will admit that this is as little as should be done for looks and cleanliness, yet the last year we were only able to set aside $2,000 for that purpose.

In mapping out the work for the year, the committee were unanimous that a certain amount of re-macadamizing should be done. Central and Grant avenues were promised the previous year, but had to go over to 1897. These, with Front street from Grant avenue to Berckman, Grove, Somerset, Elm place and parts of Park avenue, Watchung avenue and Washington street, a total distance of 4 1 10 miles, were re-macadamized, at a cost of $6,962.81, nearly one-half the total appropriation. West Ninth street was macadamized by the property owners from curb to curb, and is today the best conditioned street in the city, a monument to the public spirit of the citizens. The work was done by contract with Captain Hand under the supervision of the Street Commissioner, at a cost of $972. the city allowing $360 in lieu of street repairs

Money spent on dirt streets is the most discouraging feature of street work. A fair example of its results is seen in the section surrounding the Lincoln School on Berckman street. There was spent here, on Midway avenue, Berckman and East Second streets, $569.64, and apparently nothing to show for it. To open Watchung avenue there was spent $397.48, including storm inlets and extension of storm sewer.

These two items represent nearly one-sixteenth of the total appropriation. This part of Watchung avenue will have to be macadamized early in the coming year, and while the city cannot afford to allow more than ten cents for sixteen feet in the centre, or fifteen cents from curb to curb per running foot, yet as this is opens one of the main highways to the city, it would seem advisable to depart from the policy of the last two years and appropriate a specific sum for the purpose.

Other streets that should be macadamized during the coming year are: Front, West of Grant avenues and East of Berckman street, West Fourth street, East Fifth street, Westervelt and Sandford avenues, and parts of Eighth street, Plainfield, Park, Madison, Putnam, Watchung, Crescent and Belvidere avenues.

The amount appropriated for repairs and maintenance of streets at the beginning of the year was $16 000. Subsequently, from unappropriated balance, a further sum of $1,400 was allowed for storm sewers and culverts and $100 for trimming trees. Of this appropriation, $17,286 35 was expended for street work, which, together with $1,738 23 spent by the City Street Railway for crushed stone as their share of repairs on streets over which they run, and $340.27 spent by citizens to extend the macadam in front of their residences to the curb, make a total of $19,374.85 disbursed under supervision of the Street Commissioner. The amount spent for street, storm sewer and culvert work, exclusive of street cleaning, was divided amongst the wards as follows: First $4,144; Second, $3 118 23; Third $2 607 69; Fourth, $4.945 31

As this shows that the Fourth ward received almost one-third of the appropriation, it should most effectually refute the aspersion cast upon the street committee, that this ward was neglected by its not having a representative on it.

In order to demonstrate whether Plainfield was receiving full value for money spent upon it, the committee at the suggestion of Freeholder Hubbard, secured Mr. Fisk, Union county road builder, to superintend a part of the work on East Front street; his time was given, the city paying his expenses, some $21. For this we desire to publicly thank him. After using our plant and noting our soil condition, etc, we are assured by him that we can do street work at the low est possible price.

For many years past each street committee has had to face the problem of disposing of surface water, thanks to the confidence and liberality of the present Council the incoming of one has been relieved of a large part of this burden.

The topography of Plainfield is such that in some sections grades necessarily run to depressions, while in other large tracts are drained to one point, which, with shallow gutters and small culverts, renders certain streets impassable and cuts them nearly to pieces after every storm The corner of Eighth street and Grant avenue contains sixty two acres. The condition was here relieved by enlarging the culverts and re-laying them in cement. The corner of Grant avenue and Second street drains one hundred and forty-four acres. Here a twenty four inch sewer was run under the gutter to below Front street, where it empties into an open trench leading to Green brook.

Culverts at Second and Front streets were enlarged and re-laid in cement.

Front street, opposite Compton avenue, Front street near Rock avenue, Albert street and the intersection of Second, Madison and East Sixth streets were drained by intake basins leading into storm sewers. Two surface cesspools were placed in East Second street between Washington and Richmond; the latter should be connected to a storm sewer as soon as possible. All these improvements have given satisfaction and a detailed statement as to cost will be found in detailed report of the Street Commissioner.

At the request of property owners on Central avenue, between Randolph road and Elizabeth street, an ordinance was passed establishing the grade of the street at that point. This necessitated a depression, and a surface cesspool should be placed as soon as sidewalks are laid.

There are still two bad sections which should be treated this coming year, Plainfield avenue under the railway bridge drains 54 acres. Water from here is forced through Second street to Grant, which should be cut off at Plainfield avenue and thence drained into Green brook. After each heavy storm water stands to the depth of four to five feet under the railway bridge at Clinton avenue.

As the R. R. of N. J. has neglected to clear the outlet drain, though repeatedly notified to do so, the work should be done by the city as soon as possible.

All who use the streets are aware of the dangerous and uncomfortable open depressed gutters, and it should be the policy of this city to culvert them as fast as possible. During the year new ones were laid on both sides of Park avenue and Second street, Elm place and Orange street, Putnam and Kensington avenues, Eighth and Central avenue, Eighth and Park avenue, Ninth and Park avenue, Watchung and LaGrande avenues, and Watchung and Fifth street.

[illegible] pipe gutters were placed at the [illegible] foot of First and Second places on Ninth street, and Westervelt avenue and Orange street All this work, as well as the laying of crosswalks, was done by our employes at a lower price than formerly paid under the contract system. All petitions for crosswalks during the year were granted to property owners who had already laid their sidewalks. But one only was broken during the year by the use of the steam roller.

Total number of walks laid, forty-three; divided amongst the wards as follows: First, 6; Second, 11; Third, 9; Fourth, 17. Total cost, including repairs and renewals of old crosswalks, $881 11.

There seems to be an impression that this necessary article is ordered with no thought other than looks, but on the contrary they were ordered only in such streets as needed them to preserve the sidewalks and gutters, or to fill gaps where the majority of the property owners had previously laid them. There were 14,284 feet laid during the year, divided among the wards as follows: First, 2,198; Second, 5,639; Third, 6,245; Fourth, 5 262.

It seems almost incredible that there should be any opposition to the policy that the traveling public have the right to a clean, good and fare sidewalk One vacant patch neutralizes the whole. Severe criticism was occasioned in some quarters, and largely from those who were not called upon to lay. In many cases property owners of their own accord laid large sections without being called upon to do so by the city. This in several instances amounted to over five thousand feet each. Up to the present year, streets, like Fourth, west of Plainfield avenue, Grant avenue, Eighth street west of Plainfield avenue, Plainfield avenue south of Seventh street, Stelle avenue, Madison avenue, south of Ninth street, and Watchung avenue east of the brook were almost entirely without side walks. These are now nearly laid or under contract. Total number of feet laid during the year, 33,347, divided among the wards as follows: First, 1045; Second, 6 743; Third, 9,979; Fourth, 5 580.

There are some 2,000 feet on Watchung avenue and East Ninth street in the hands of the committee to be laid by the city, but we feel that the larger part of this will be done by the owners rather than have the extra expense occasioned by the city's action.

The committee had thirty-four meetings during the year, with a full attendance.

We feel that the continued criticism as to the condition of the streets is unjustified, and for that reason we have made our report long and full of detail, trusting that as the needs of the streets are known, the public will support the incoming Council as to liberal appropriations to overcome what is apparent to all.

In closing, we beg to thank the Council for their uniform courtesy and liberal and loyal support during the year.

Respectfully submitted,
George H. Frost,
(Signed) R. I. Tolles,
E. T. Barrows.

Chairman Serrell of the committee on assessment and collection of taxes, submitted a report of the work accomplished by the committee during the year. It was as follows:

Plainfield, N. J., Dec. 27th, 1897.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—Your committee on the assessment and collection of taxes begs to submit the following as its report for the year 1897, just drawing to a close.

At the outset of its work your committee's attention was directed to the report rendered to it of a special committee charged with similar duties during 1896, and following along the lines thus laid down it has endeavored to advance the work of adjusting property valuations; and taking collectively the work of our able assessor with that of the committee and the natural increase of valuations, it finds that while $7,301,600 was the amount of the valuations during 1896, the valuations for 1897 amounted to $7,788,800, an increase of $504,841.

Your committee realizes that an equitable comparison and adjustment of property valuations, in labor of a magnificent scale is usually supposed, and that it must necessarily be the work of several years of careful, consistent and impartial, painstaking effort.

During March, April and May, and as the result of resolutions adopted by the Council your committee wrestled with the problem of equalizing property valuations, the valuations for 1897 amounted to $7,788,800, an increase of $504,841,

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on every wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

done directly by the city or under separate contract. All new work should first be paid for by the property owners, as was the case in Ninth street in report of committee. No new street, unless under special circumstances, should be accepted until graded and macadamized by the parties make the application.

A fund should be created, to be known as the Street Cleaning and Repair Fund. All moneys derived from licenses for hacks, carts, peddlers, street railroad companies, etc., should be credited to this fund; and in addition, if the laws of the state will allow it, a small tax should be levied and collected for every wagon of every description, every horse and every bicycle owned in the city. All such money to be credited to the above fund, and used in keeping the streets clean and in repair. A rebate might be allowed where a broad tire is used.

To keep a macadam street in proper condition it must be sprinkled in dry weather. Before granting permits for this purpose, I suggest that you consider some method of having at least the most important streets sprinkled by the city, or under supervision of the Street Commissioner, and using the horses now owned by the city for use in the fire department for this purpose.

An ordinance should be passed requiring all wagons and carriages, as well as bicycles, to carry a light after dark. Of course this could only apply to wagons or carriages where the owners are residents of the city.

The question of providing a more permanent payment for the streets in the business section of the city, and the means of raising the necessary money required for this purpose should receive your early consideration, as well as the question of putting all wires in this section underground.

SEWERS.

The sewage system and the sewage disposal beds should be put directly under the charge of the Street Commissioner, and he should be held strictly responsible for the care of beds. His authority should be absolute, and he should be given power to hire and discharge all help required to keep everything in perfect order. The success of the system depends wholly on proper care and this can only be accomplished in the way recommended above. The present Street Commissioner, Andrew Gavett, who holds his office under the present laws until March, 1899 is an engineer and understands the whole system. He was engineer during construction and is the proper person to have charge. All trouble of every kind can be obviated if the beds are kept clean and are properly looked after by a competent man.

The part of the farm not used can be rented or left in grass and what hay is cut used for the Fire Department horses. The city should not go into the business of farming; only such crops should be planted and raised on the beds as will help in having them properly worked. The business of the city is to take care of the sewage in a way that will properly dispose of it without causing any nuisance or offensive smell, even to the adjoining neighbors. That this can and must be done there is not the slightest doubt, and it is the duty of the committee in charge to see that it is done.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Fire Department is a credit to our city; the equipment is the best and the discipline is of the highest character for a volunteer department.

Without any further delay, there should be a proper distribution of the apparatus. A fire department building should be built or provided in the west end of the city, near Third street and Grant avenue, and one hose wagon and the old hook and ladder truck located there. The balance of the apparatus can be housed in the present fire headquarters house on East Second street, and the West Second street house taken and converted into a police station and jail, with dormitory and courtroom.

This committee must take up at once the matter of increasing the active force. The Chief reports 81 privates and 12 officers, making 93 in all, but the facts of the case are that to day there are only 24 that can be called upon, the rest having served their time and are entitled to exemption papers at any time they wish to ask for them. On May 7th of this year there will be only 7 active members who have not served their time, and in October only 3. If the Council decide to open the doors again and allow the companies to fill up their ranks, it should be done with great care and only such applicants allowed to be elected and confirmed as will agree to do active fire duty.

Another manner would be to select from the present force a number of well-tried and competent men and pay them $1 or 50 cents for each fire. This, I understand, is the arrangement that has been made in Jamaica, N. Y.

The wagon now used by the Alert Hose Company should be purchased by the city at a fair price, say $300. If the Council decide to move one of the present companies down near Grant avenue, as suggested, the new members for that company should be selected from men residing in that district, or a new company should be formed to be known as the West Ends or No. 3.

The fixed expenses of the Fire Department can be easily arrived at, but the extra expenses and small matters which in the aggregate run up to a considerable amount, should be carefully watched, and the committee should not allow expenditure of any money or the purchase of any article, however small, until it has been passed on and considered by them.

As suggested under the heading of streets, the horses used in the Fire Department could be used in sprinkling the streets. If in no other manner, the city could arrange with the respective companies to take up the matter of street sprinkling for which they could charge the property owners the same price that has been paid to the men that have had the privilege, a certain proportion of the amount received to be paid over to the city for use of horses to be used in paying expenses of the Fire Department.

The ordinance relating to the Fire Department refers to the rules and regulations of the Board of Engineers. If there are any such rules or regulations I have never seen them. At any time this may be an important matter and the Board should be directed to adopt such rules and regulations as are necessary for proper discipline of the department, and submit same at an early date to the Common Council for approval.

The report made by the Chief of the Fire Department should be carefully read by the new committee and his recommendations for any improvement tending toward better service in the department given due consideration.

POLICE.

An examination of the report of committee on police, together with report of the Chief of Police, shows that this department is well organized and in condition to give the city the best service. At present the appointment of sixteen regular men is authorized; in addition it has been necessary to employ nearly all the time one special officer and sometimes two. I would recommend that the Council authorize the appointment of at least one additional man on the regular force.

The matter of station house and jail should no longer be delayed. Such a building is a public necessity and should be provided at once. The present jail is a public disgrace to the city, and should not be allowed to exist twenty-four hours in a civilized community. As already suggested, under the heading of Fire Department, the building now used for fire purposes on West Second street could be altered for this purpose, and a proper building erected in the West End of the city for fire purposes.

I recommended in my former message the installment of the Gamewell Police and Patrol System. As soon as the city is in funds that can be used for this purpose, some such system should be introduced, as it not only adds very materially to the service, but as the city grows, will very much reduce the expenses of the department.

I would suggest and recommend that the ordinance entitled, "An ordinance relating to city physician," approved June 4, 1890, be amended by adding a section providing that the city physician shall act also as police surgeon and at the request of Chief of Police an officer in charge shall attend to all calls at the police station for prisoners or others taken there requiring medical attendance.

LIGHTS.

The question of better street lights, particularly in the business section of the city, has been discussed a number of times during the past year. Any thing that can be done to bring about an improvement without too much increase in the amount of money to be raised for this purpose, would meet with my approval; and I would suggest that the Council investigate the merits of the Welsbach Street Lighting Company Burner. This light, I understand, has been adopted in certain parts of New York city, in Freehold, N. J., in East Orange and a number of other places, and gives very good satisfaction The Company have an office at 31 Nassau street, New York, where they have samples of the different lamps and burners. They claim that the single burner will give a clear white light of over 60 candle power. They will take contract to furnish lamps and burners and provide on the lamps a place for the names of the streets.

LAWS AND ORDINANCES

The work already begun of codifying the ordinances of the city and having some printed and bound in book form, should be pushed forward and completed at the earliest possible date. Your committee designated as the committee on laws and ordinances should be instructed to examine carefully all laws relating to the government of cities of the second class. They should also watch all future legislation closely and call attention to any measure introduced in the legislature affecting cities of this class. They can arrange with our representative to have copies of all bills introduced in the Legislature sent to them at once and so put themselves in position to take action to prevent legislation that would be detrimental to our city. To prevent the recurrances of the expense of printing ordinances that are introduced and passed by the Council but are not in accordance with the statutes, I recommend that all important ordinances proposed to be adopted be referred to this committee or to the Corporation Counsel to be passed on as to legality before being ordered advertised.

AUDITING.

Your auditing committee as now organized simply formally pass upon claims already audited and approved by the respective committees. In addition to taking this action I would recommend that in the future they audit regularly each month the books, vouchers and accounts of the Treasurer, Tax Collector and other city officers, and certify to the Council as to their correctness.

ALMS.

The reports of the committee and Overseer of the Poor will show what has been done in this department during the past year. There are a number of matters that require serious consideration in regard to the future policy to be pursued in relieving the needs of the poor, and the management and care of the Alms House. I will not enter into a discussion of these matters at this time, but as soon as your committee has been appointed, I request that it will meet with me and discuss the question fully before taking any definite action.

TAXES AND ASSESSMENT.

The question of taxes and assessment pending the report of the Commissioners appointed under the act known as the "Martin Act" and other information I have been endeavoring to collect, I will not take up in this communication. However, I expect to make this important question which will require serious and careful consideration, the subject of a special message to be submitted for your consideration in the near future.

In conclusion, I would remind the members of the Council that in accepting a nomination and election from the people that they voluntarily become servants of the people, that they have accepted a public trust. The people look to them to conduct the affairs of the city in a businesslike, just and careful manner. The people have the right to criticize and suggest, and it is the duty of a public official to listen and pay attention to their suggestions, criticisms or complaints, to weigh all in the balance and decide what is best for the interests of the community. The people expect and are entitled, that you should use your judgment and thought in all matters brought to your attention. No party influences or personal ambitions should be allowed to bias your judgment. What is for the best interests of the city is for the best interests of all parties, and as has been very often quoted, "He that serves the people best serves his party best."

Assuring your honorable body of my earnest co-operation in all matters that are for the best interests of the Inhabitants of the city of Plainfield, and holding myself in readiness to meet with you and give you my best thought and judgment in regard to any matter upon which you may wish to consult me, I remain

Yours very truly,
Charles J. Fisk.

IN MEMORY OF A LOVED ONE.

Funeral Services of the Late Mrs. Joseph N. Bogart Held.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Joseph N. Bogart were held Monday afternoon from the house, 305 East Sixth street. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends who held the deceased in the highest esteem and regard. The services were conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who spoke words of comfort and consolation to the bereaved ones. He also spoke in the highest praise concerning the deceased whose model Christian character was an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact.

Several vocal selections were rendered by the choir under the direction of Horace J. Martin, and the rendition of "Jesus Lover of My Soul," a favorite hymn of the deceased, was very effective.

The display of flowers was beautiful. There was a large wreath from friends in the Havemeyer building, New York, and a floral tribute from the Sunday-day-school scholars of the Trinity Reformed church. Two pillows, with the inscriptions "Mamma" and "Rest," were also contributed by the children and friends.

Interment was in Hillside Cemetery, and those who served as pallbearers were M. C. Dobbins, F. C. Adams, H. S. Mason and H. C. Corsa.

Don't Run Any Risks about health. Avoid coughs, colds, fevers, pneumonia, and all other similar ailments by keeping your blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable and do not purge, pain or gripe. All druggists.

Blood Vitality.

Dr. Campbell Succeeds in Restoring Iron to the Blood in its Natural Form, Thus Increasing the Supply of Oxygen and Curing Disease—Marvelous Process.

Modern science teaches us that the blood is the vehicle by which the nutriment of the food is taken from the stomach and carried throughout the entire system.

While it is being carried by the blood, it becomes oxidized and is thus converted into a form that can be taken up by the tissues.

If this nutriment was not oxidized it would filter through the kidneys as really occurs in Bright's disease, and no benefit would be derived from it. Oxygen is absolutely essential to this process. Its existence in turn is dependent upon the iron or Hæmoglobin in the blood without which ansmia would result, and no benefit whatever would be derived from the food.

Physicians long ago recognized that to discover a method of renewing this Hæmoglobin would be to discover the true method of curing disease.

Little advance was made until Dr. Campbell, an eminent English physician, learned that the component parts of the blood of the bullock were identical with human blood and sought to extract from it the natural iron or Hæmoglobin.

Success crowned his efforts, and for the first time man has it in his power to renew at will the vital element in his own blood.

Dr. Campbell enclosed the fruit of his labor in small, pointed globes of pure gelatine called Capsuloids, within which the most remarkable results have been obtained in the hospitals of London and elsewhere in curing all diseases of the blood; rheumatism, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous prostration and St. Vitus' dance.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 258 Fulton Street, New York City.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine

until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them at the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This new is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are 100 to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half at least depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Only succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $25 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world in a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to secure higher places and thus earn better pay. During the 40 years of its existence, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK

THEATRICAL.

Lincoln J. Carter's "The Heart of Chicago," said to be an unusually strong melodrama, will be the attraction at the Stillman Music Hall Friday night. "The Heart of Chicago" is said to be exceptionally well put on and to present some extraordinary stage pictures. The story of the play opens on the night of the great Chicago fire, and shows Madison street before, during and after the fire, reproduced from photographs. The next important scene represents the roof of the Masonic Temple and also shows a panoramic view of the city to the south and west. The roof garden scene affords opportunity for the introduction of a number of clever specialties. An absolutely new railroad scene is also a feature of the play.

A Family Gathering.

Last Tuesday the relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Powlison, of Somerset street, gave them a surprise visit and spent the evening in a social manner until about 10 o'clock when refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. B. C. Ammerman and Mrs. Magdeline VanArsdale, of Pluckamin; Mr. and Mrs. P. P. VanArsdale, Mrs. VanArsdale, Misses Anna and Bessie VanArsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Morris VanArsdale, the Misses Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Powlison, Miss Huff, Miss Vroom, Raymond Carpenter, Ernest and Leslie Powlison, Arthur Malcomn and Philip VanArsdale, of this city.

Miss Edith Horton, of Craig place, is back from Oswego, N. Y.

Manufacture Blanks.

President Honeyman, of the borough Board of Health, received Monday a supply of blanks from the health department at Washington. No instructions accompanied the package. The Plainfield Board of Health received a similar package and the members are in the dark as to their use. Evidently it is expected that the boards will submit a weekly report to the chief authorities, but the blanks do not explain themselves.

Councilman Buckle at Wake.

Councilman and Mrs. J. F. Buckle entertained the Jolly Whist Club at their home on Westervelt avenue, Friday evening. After a pleasant season of whist the members were served with refreshments and the next year was ushered in with sociability.

Cecelia Club Meeting.

The first rehearsal of the Cecelia Club will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It is absolutely necessary that every member should be present or if unable to attend the rehearsal should notify the secretary of the fact.

Court Opened Yesterday.

The January term of the Union County Circuit Court, opened at Elizabeth Tuesday and a number of Plainfield lawyers were in attendance to argue the cases in which they have been retained.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. L. Jolliard, of Flemington, spent New Year's Day and Sunday with Mrs. Jolliard's brother, Edward E. Hann, of Somerset place.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1898. NO. 2.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

A TRIPLE INSTALLATION.

IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES OF SEATING NEW OFFICERS IN THEIR PLACES.

G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Unite in Performing Their Duty and an Interesting Time Resulted.

The annual joint installation of the officers of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, auxiliary, to the G. A. R., and John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, took place Tuesday at the G. A. R. headquarters on East Front street. The rooms were crowded with members and friends of the three organizations who enjoyed the ceremonies and programme of music and recitations presented. This event is always looked forward to by the members with a great deal of pleasure, and the exercises of last evening were conducted in a thoroughly successful manner by those in charge.

Assistant Adjutant General Frank O. Cole, of Jersey City, installed the officers of Post 73. After a stirring rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner," rendered by Joseph D. Sloan, and another vocal solo was given by Alfred Springer, accompanied on the piano by Miss Springer. The work by Comrade Cole was of a high order, and every word was committed. The officers installed were as follows: Commander, E. C. Rose; senior vice-commander, J. B. Clarkson; junior vice-commander, Wm. Hand; quartermaster, Andrew Doe; surgeon, Dr. Berg; adjutant, C. B. Bigelow; chaplain, Rev. L. E. Livermore; officer of the day, Wm. G. Smith; officer of the guard, Wm. Day; sergeant major, H. C. Corse; quartermaster sergeant, Francis Whitely; council of administration, Wm. C. Smith, M. C. Dobbins and Wm. Hand.

The installation of the officers of the Sons of Veterans came next. They were installed by Past Commander D. B. Stephens, of Post No. 73, in a most creditable and efficient manner. The officers are as follows: Captain, E. A. Thatcher; first lieutenant, Geo. Bedford; second lieutenant, Raymond McVoy; chaplain, Louis Bolon; first sergeant, Frank Clarkson; quartermaster, Charles Graves; color sergeant, Clifford Compton; sergeant of the guard, E. F. T. Smith; principal musician, Clarence Rittenhouse; corporal guard, William Sutton; camp guard, Frank Perry; picket guard, John Naylor; camp council, H. C. McVoy, G. H. Bedford and W. V. Sutton.

Last, but not least, came the installation of the officers of the Woman's Relief Corps by Past President Mrs. Hannah Westphal. Like the above work, Mrs. Westphal performed her duties in an efficient and careful manner. The officers installed are as follows: President, Mrs. James Radin; senior vice, Clarence Leland; junior vice, Mrs. Andrew Cox; chaplain, Mrs. Corwin; conductor, Mrs. Reiderli; assistant conductor, Mrs. Bates; guard, Mrs. Devine; assistant guard, Mrs. Sutton; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Walker; secretary, Miss Ada Nash. Mrs. Westphal was assisted in her work by Mrs. James B. Atwood, of Trenton, who acted as conductor.

Interspersing the ceremonies there were excellent speeches by Inspecting Officer Frank O. Cole, Major Vally, of Jersey City; comrades Livermore and James B. Atwood, of Post No. 73. There were also two recitations given in a pleasing style by Miss Mertie Randolph, and Mrs. Fesmeir also gave an admirable recitation, all of which received hearty applause. Another feature was the singing by the Soldiers' quartette, as Commander Rose introduced Clifford Braider, Harry Dolliver, Frank Smalley, Arthur Smith and Harry Jessup. They gave a selection that was appreciated and applauded. The exercises of the evening came to an end with remarks by several of the comrades present, who gave good soul stirring talks.

President Mrs. James Radin, of the corps, and Captain H. S. Thatcher, of the Sons of Veterans, made a few appropriate remarks, and after the close of the exercises all present congratulated the officers elect.

Rescued From a Wagon.

Harry C. Vail, of 306 Orange place, had a bad tumble from a wagon on East Third street Monday morning. Vail was driving a spirited horse and had a hold far up upon the reins when the animal gave a sudden plunge and pulled its driver from the seat. Vail fell into the road but escaped with a few serious bruises.

Accepted the Bridge.

The bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders met in this city Tuesday afternoon and accepted the Watchung avenue bridge. The members said that they were very well satisfied with the work.

PRETTY WEDDING OF '98

MARRIAGE OF MISS LAURA MULFORD AND JOHN M. LEWIS.

The Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents on East Fifth Street —They Appeared at the Altar Unattended

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of last Tuesday when Miss Laura Mulford, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mulford, of East Fifth street, and John M. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, of Grove street, were united in marriage by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, also of the bride and groom.

The wedding took place at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed in the parlor where the bridal couple were surrounded with a profusion of stately palms and pretty floral decorations, while about the room there was a pleasing arrangement of southern smilax which added very much to the general beauty of the decorations.

The bride and groom were unattended. The ceremony was a simple but very beautiful one. The bride wore a traveling gown of dark cloth, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The happy couple were showered with congratulations following the ceremony, after which a delightful wedding supper was served by Stephenson, the caterer. The table was prettily decorated with smilax and roses, and was greatly admired by all.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left the city for a bridal tour. On their return they will reside in this city. The groom is a valued employe of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark, and both he and his bride have the best wishes of a host of admiring friends for a life of happiness and success. They were the recipients of many valuable tokens of esteem from their relatives and friends.

Among the valued presents to the bride and groom was a handsome house and two lots located on Richmond street, near East Second. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will probably reside there on their return. The gift was from the bride's father.

CHARITY OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

Mr. Goodell Says the Methods Were Exactly Suited to the Day.

The threatening weather prevented a very large attendance at the public meeting of the Citizens' Organized Aid Association, which was held Tuesday in the lecture room of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, but those who were present enjoyed a very pleasant and interesting evening. Col. Mason W. Tyler, president of the association, presided.

The treasurer's report was read by H. P. Reynolds, reporting a balance on hand of $153.21, and a contributing membership of 120.

A hearty round of applause greeted the appearance of President Goodell, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, Mass., who was now introduced by Col. Tyler as the speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Charitable Institutions of the Middle Ages." The Dark Ages, he said, were dark enough, but in them we find an institution which was exactly suited to the days—guilds which were formed for the one purpose of doing good. Every craft had its guild in those days, and it was unusual to find a man who did not belong to one. It was the guilds for charitable work that Mr. Goodell wished to consider, and as the best way of presenting the subject, he described the meeting of such a guild, held nearly seven hundred years ago. Nearly all the branches of charity in vogue at the present day had their early counterparts in these mediæval guilds.

Saw the Fire Department.

Last Monday, when the Somerset County Board of Freeholders were in town accepting the Watchung avenue bridge, they were escorted to the fire department headquarters where they were given a good idea of how a first-class department is conducted. The visitors were much pleased with what they saw.

Revival at Garwood.

The revival meetings which are being held in the Garwood Union chapel are creating much interest among the people, and the attendance this week is larger than before. The meetings are now being conducted by a band of workers from the East Third Street mission, of this city.

Justice Mosher's Court.

Justice Mosher Tuesday issued summons in the cases of Probasco against Chase and Zimmerman against Claassen, both on contract. The cases will be heard on the 20th inst.

HUM OF COUNTY TROLLEY TALK NOT HARMONIOUS

FRANK BERGEN MEETS ADVERSE SENTIMENT, BUT WAS NOT ENTIRELY SQUELCHED.

The Elizabethan Quoted Figures to Show That County Ownership Was a Good Thing—Plan on Point of Being Turned Down When J. E. Martine Turned Sentiment.

Plainfield had its first glimpse last Tuesday of the war that is now raging through most of Union county over the question of a trolley road connecting Elizabeth and Plainfield. Although the terminus of the proposed route, it was not until last night that Plainfield had a chance to personally hear arguments presented in favor of and against the scheme of county ownership for a trolley line on the county road as proposed by Frank Bergen. The first skirmish appeared to be in favor of Mr. Bergen, or rather in favor of giving his plan a more careful consideration.

Although the night was a stormy one the meeting at Music Hall was attended by a representative audience, numbering about 300. Both sides were represented. In the seats were many leading citizens, former officeholders and present city officials. The politicians were well represented. In the gallery was a crowd of small boys who deemed it their special privilege and duty to make all the noise they could. Of course they always applauded at the wrong time and threatened to break up the gathering by their untimely disturbance.

The meeting was called to order at 8:35 o'clock by Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert. He gave a rough outline of the object of the meeting. Mr. Bergen then took the floor. He sketched his connection with the scheme from the time of the application of a trolley company to secure a franchise for a trolley line on the county road, the meeting which resulted in the appointment of the Committee of Eleven and its report. While waiting for the stereopticon to be adjusted, Mr. Bergen told something of the management of street railway companies in England.

He explained that heretofore all the valuable franchises of the county had been given away and now that the most valuable of them all was being considered, it was time the county changed its policy and tried to get something in return for it. Several plans were next exhibited on the screen showing the proposed route of the trolley line. Pictures were shown of the manner in which Mr. Bergen proposed to widen the street. Then followed some statements shown on the screen for the edification of the spectators. They stated that the report of the commissioners on railroad taxation showed the street railways to be capitalized at $130,630 a mile on the average. The cost of a single track road was from $6,000 to $15,000 a mile. A franchise to construct a road from Elizabeth to Plainfield would be worth $500,000 to a corporation at the ordinary terms. Then followed statements about the advantages that the county through which the line would pass and from whence it would draw its revenue. The assessed valuation in the county was quoted at $37,997,600, the debt at less than $500,000. County bonds bore interest at 4 per cent and sold at 105.

Several pages showing the cost of the improvement placed it at $387,853.40, the estimate of the Committee of Eleven. There are 61½ miles of trolley road in the State, single track measurement. The average cost was put at $13,000 a mile, which Mr. Bergen declared was only one-eleventh of the capitalization. An accident to the stereopticon prevented its further use.

Mr. Bergen then gave some figures regarding the running of trolley lines. He placed the average income at $9,420 a mile and the net profits at $4,000. The county ought to get some of that, he declared. The only argument used against his scheme, he continued, was made by a man in Cranford, then by Col. Hine at Westfield, and then by J. Martin Roll at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders. The argument was that the people wanted the trolley in one and did not care what it cost the county.

The assessments throughout the county were going up, he said, and the tax rate was not lowered. It was necessary for the modern municipality to have money to carry on the public improvements. His method was a way to somewhat relieve the taxpayers and allow the improvements to go on.

Personally, said Mr. Bergen, it made no difference to him who built the trolley or controlled it. His money was sunk underground and a trolley line of any description would bring with it the boom that he had been waiting for. If a trolley line was to be built, it was his idea that it ought to be built right and as much as possible to the advantage of the county.

Former Mayor Gilbert asked for remarks from the house and former Councilman J. B. Dumont, who had been one of the dissenting members of the Committee of Eleven, was the first to respond. The scheme, he declared was an experiment and everyone should see that the county does not pay too dearly for it. He criticised the bill that Mr. Bergen was trying to put through the house, giving the Board of Freeholders power to construct the road and then lease it. There was nothing to secure the county against loss, he said. The trolley road might be built and then no one could be found who would be willing to lease it. Then the county would have to sell it at a great sacrifice and with great loss. Then the building of the road would cost half a million. The comparisons of the other roads given by Mr. Bergen, he said, were not fair, as most of them were for street railways in cities and not in suburban districts. The estimates of Mr. Bergen he pronounced far too low.

He took up the bill again and declared it took away the power of the property owners by allowing the Board of Freeholders to put the trolley road in what streets they saw fit, without any way of stopping them. The Plainfield people had always taken care of their streets, and were perfectly capable of continuing to do so. Then the provision that the property benefited should be assessed and the assessment collected as county taxes was not a good thing, according to his ideas. He spoke of the great trouble in collecting the county tax and the loss to the city that way, and then the trouble in collecting assessments. This trolley road, he declared, would not end the scheme, but the county would have to build trolley roads from Elizabeth to Rahway, and Elizabeth to Summit and other places in the county, all the roads centreing about Elizabeth.

J. W. Murray, Sr., spoke strongly against the scheme, saying that by following it every property-owner would be mortgaging his property. He did not believe in the county entering into business affairs.

The next speaker was Chandler Riker, of Newark, president of the Plainfield Street Railway, and president of the Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Street Railway, which is trying to secure a franchise for a trolley road between Elizabeth and Plainfield. He explained that the Plainfield Street Railway was capitalized at just what it would cost. The stock in that company had not paid a 2 per cent a year on investment. When the trolley road in Plainfield was built, he declared, no one in Plainfield would undertake it so he and his associates had come in. They had built the road through a Plainfield contractor as economically as possible, then it had cost them over $15,000 a mile. Plainfield had received more for taxes and street repairs from the company than the investors had. The receipts for the last year were $50,500, of which $4,200 had been paid out as taxes and street repairs.

Mr. Riker then spoke directly of Mr. Bergen's scheme. It was foolishness, he said, to talk of leasing a trolley road without determining the fare and headway. Mr. Bergen's estimate regarding the cost of the widening of the street, $37,000, was far too low. He said it would cost nearer $300,000. The building of the trolley road, he declared, would cost not less than $20,000 a mile even if Mr. Murray or Mr. Bergen, of this city, should be the contractor. The total cost of the road would be nearly $900,000. Then he asked who would lease such a road. It would never be a success.

He closed by saying that Mr. Bergen and his company might build and run a road on the county road, while his company would build one not on the county road. Surely, he said, the county trolly line ought to be able to stand competition.

Mr. Murray had been endeavoring for some time to gain recognition of the chairman. He now made a motion to the effect that the meeting agree with their representatives of the committee, Messrs. Dumont and Ivins, and express their disapprobation of Mr. Bergen's scheme. L. W. Serrell, Jr., seconded the motion. Despite all this opposition of his plans, Mr. Bergen sat quietly and at intervals smiled on the audience.

It seemed that the prevailing senti-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

A COLONIAL DAUGHTER.

THE DEATH OF MRS. J. T. FRITTS OCCURRED TUESDAY EVENING.

She Was Able to Trace Her Ancestors Back to 1600—In Sympathy With Religion and Philanthropic Endeavor.

Margaret Suydam, wife of Dr. John T. Fritts, died at her home, 423 Park avenue, at 6:20 o'clock Tuesday evening, after a long illness.

Mrs. Fritts was a daughter of Andrew Suydam, of Franklin Park. Her ancestors were Hollanders and were among the first settlers in this State. She was able to trace her lineage back as far as 1600.

She was married to Dr. Fritts at Whitehouse in 1867. They came to this city in 1877 and have lived here continuously ever since, making their home for the first five years on West Second street.

The deceased was a member of the Crescent Avenue church, of this city, and was in sympathy with all religious and philanthropic work, although her devotion to her home kept her from taking any active part. She has been ill for nearly a year, and for the past three months was confined to her room.

She was nearly 52 years of age at the time of her death. Two daughters, Miss Lillian and Miss Mary Fritts, a son, Andrew Fritts, and her husband, Dr. John T. Fritts, are the members of her immediate family surviving. She also leaves three brothers, John and Jacob Suydam, of White house; and Joseph Suydam, of Kansas City, Mo.; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Schomp, of Beadington; and Mrs. Ditmars, of Whitehouse.

The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends, who knew Mrs. Fritts only to admire her unselfish Christian character and her devotion to her home.

The funeral will be held from the house on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of the Crescent Avenue church, officiating. Interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

POLICEMEN DICIPLINED.

One Charged With Insubordination and the Other With Drunkenness.

Two members of the police force of this city appeared before the police board Tuesday evening to answer to charges preferred against them by the board. They were Patrolman Maurice Higgins and Patrolman James E. Totten. Both pleaded guilty and were fined. The amount of the fines were not given out by the board.

Higgins was charged with being insurbordinate and refusing to obey the orders of his superior officers. He was also accused of using language unbecoming an officer. It is understood that Higgins was detailed to a beat that is unpopular with the men. He did not want to go and over that the trouble occurred.

Totten was charged with being drunk while off duty. It was claimed that he was unable to return to duty one night and was reported to be confined to his home by illness when he was really recovering from the effects of a spree.

ACCEPTED BY JOINT COMMITTEE.

Last Step in the Establishment of the Watchung Avenue Bridge.

The joint committee of the Freeholders of Union and Somerset counties, having charge of the erection of the new bridges across Green brook held a meeting in this city Tuesday, and inspected the work on the bridges. The Watchung avenue structure was found to be complete in every particular and it was accepted by the committee. The Sycamore avenue bridge was not approved because the hand rail on the sidewalk had not yet been placed in position. Otherwise the work upon the bridge was found to be perfectly satisfactory, and the structure will probably shortly be approved. The committee includes Freeholders Hubbard, Robinson, Tier and Clark, of this county.

Kelly Kline Turned Down.

William A. Kline, the colored Republican leader, of this city, who has been working for the office of doorkeeper of the Assembly, failed to receive the nomination, which went to an Elizabeth politician. Kline feels sore over his defeat, as he had practically been assured of the place.

Opened a Civil Engineer's Office.

Robert A. Meeker, for several years the street commissioner of this city, has opened a civil engineering office in rooms 7 and 9 in the Marsh building. Mr. Meeker is an expert engineer, and will doubtless build a large business in this section.

—Suit has been started in the case of Isimitza Lapenski against Annia Gwyette, on contract, in Justice Mosher's court, returnable on the 17th.

A FAMOUS CASE DECIDED

PETER P. ROBINSON GETS DAMAGES OF $50 AGAINST L. V. F. RANDOLPH.

The Action Tried Before Judge VanSickle in the Supreme Court—The Judge's Impartial Charge to the Jury.

The case of Peter P. Robinson, a Plainfield cartman, against former Mayor Lewis V. F. Randolph, of East Front street, president of the Atlantic Trust Company, was tried in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth Monday before Justice VanSickle and a jury of twelve men. The suit has attracted much interest in this city where Mr. Randolph is prominently known. Robinson claimed that the former Mayor cruelly beat his horse without provocation on Watchung avenue. The suit was finally decided in favor of the plaintiff, damages to the amount of $50 being allowed.

Robinson was the first witness, and told his story in a straightforward manner. He was subjected to a long cross examination by Mr. Lindabury, and some of his responses made a great deal of amusement.

Robinson swore that he noticed ridges on his horse for several days, and that ever after it was shy of the whip, and he could not trust the animal with members of his family.

The plaintiff denied that ridges were the bones of his horse protruding through the skin, and that it was a horse with every joint stiff.

Robinson was corroborated in his statements of the severity of the whipping administered to his horse by Richard Wortman, Thomas E. McDonald, Mrs. Eleanor Frank, Drummond B. Williams and others.

In opening the defense, Lawyer Lindabury stated to the jury that it was an indictable offence for any person to obstruct the highway in the way Robinson did on this occasion, and Robinson came into court a confessed breaker of the law. The defense would be a justification of the acts by Mr. Randolph.

Mr. Randolph was called as the first witness and after describing his occupation, told of the trouble he had had with Robinson. He was mildly vehement in his descriptions at times, speaking with an earnestness that attracted the attention of all in the court room. He said he was in imminent danger of being run down by a trolley car of having his horse frightened by the coming up of a trolley car from behind them. So when he found that he could not pass Robinson he was obliged to do something. He got out of his carriage and whipped the colored man's horse. Mr. Randolph identified the whip he had used, saying it was the lightest carriage whip he could buy. When Mr. Lindabury told him he might lay the whip down, Mr. Randolph suggested that possibly the jurymen might like to examine it. So he tossed it carelessly on the carpeted floor. It made such a noise when it struck that everyone inside the railing laughed.

After the recess the trial was resumed. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, former Mayor George W. Rockfellow and A. V. Noled were put on the witness stand and swore that from knowledge of the character and kindheartedness of Mr. Randolph they believed that he was a man who would not be unkind or brutal to an animal. The evidence of these witnesses was adduced not to prove character, but to establish the fact that the defendant was a man of kind disposition.

The lawyers summed up, Mr. Angleman's remarks being particularly sarcastic. The Judge then charged the jury. He said that if Mr. Randolph had gotten out of his carriage and hit Robinson's horse intentionally, the jury could give exemplary damages. If he did not use any more force than was absolutely necessary to get the horse out of the way, then Robinson was entitled to normal or actual damages. But if the jury believed the Former Mayor's story that it was necessary to get the wagon out of the way by reason of the danger from the approaching trolley car, it was their duty to bring in a verdict of no cause of action.

The jury retired and was absent for half an hour. Then the jury asked for instructions, which the Court refused to give, and they retired for fifteen minutes more. They announced their verdict as given above.

To be Sold at Foreclosure.

The William Drake farm, on the road from New Market to New Brunswick, is to be sold under foreclosure proceedings conducted by Lawyer Brady, of this city, on behalf of Mary E. Holton, February 16th next. It consists of some ninety-five acres of land in the best section of Piscataway township, and has been owned by Mr. Drake for over forty years. The sale will occur at the New Brunswick Court House.

BACHELORS ARE FIRST.

They at Last Defeat Park Club Benedicts at Bowling.

EX-MAYOR'S RED NECKTIE BLAMED.

Mr. Hegeman Should Have Attired Himself in More Sedate Colors—Fair Sex Out in Numbers to Encourage the Contestants—Pete Matthews Happy —The Score in Detail Given Below.

"There was a hot time in the old town" Saturday evening at the Park Club, when the Bachelors and Benedicts rolled the deciding game in a series of three. It has been many a day since the club's alleys presented such a lively scene. The fair sex was out in such numbers that there was scarcely room to accommodate all of them. As each side was so anxious to win the deciding game, it required one hour and a half for them to practice, consequently it was 9 o'clock when the great contest started.

The ever-popular former Mayor B A. Hegeman, Jr., was present to look after the interests of the Benedicts. Although his score of 127 was not so small, many said it was the result of his gorgeous attire. The brilliant red necktie was accounted the fatal hoodoo that was to be blamed for the failure of his side to win out. Even the appearance of the newly-married bowler, William J. B. Thiers, was not sufficient to overcome it and bring the score of the Benedicts up to what it should have been.

Another thing that, no doubt, worked against the Benedicts was the appearance on the blackboard of the famous "Yellow Kid," of the Bachelors, that figured in bygone contests. During the game the Benedicts tried real hard to keep up their courage by giving their tuneful yells of the most approved style.

Although the married men overcome the Bachelor's lead and were one pin ahead in the seventh, they lost heart during the frames, but just at the wind-up they made a grand effort to win out. The men on the Benedict team that were depended on at the last were found lacking and the game went to the single men by the score given below. There were many amusing features about the game that called forth any amount of fun, and the crowd gave its aid by constant applause to both sides.

The best score was rolled by Blanchard Randolph, better known as "Clinton avenue." He put up 223, and his bowling throughout the game was of a championship order. He made plenty of strikes and brakes were few and far between. "Papa" Thiers was next with a score of 197; following him was Snyden with a score of 196. Peter Matthews' score of 139 was not the largest, but it was better than last week, and then his enthusiasm made up for it. Allen Laing completely collapsed and failed to keep even with his frame.

At the close of the contest the Bachelors gave three rousing cheers for their opponents and all was over. The result makes the Bachelors champions of the series. Below is the score in detail:

BACHELORS.		BENEDICTS.
Matthews	139	Lyman	129
Heinrichs	149	Hall, F. H	136
Laing	127	Hall, F. O	172
Dupee	149	Worth, W	136
Marsh	160	Brown	121
Randolph	223	Douglass	127
Dryden	196	Hegeman	127
Halford	154	Worth, G	125
McCutchen, W	139	Hall, F. O	172
Worth, G	161	Thiers	197
	1697		1496

BY FRAMES.

Bachelors	142	323	483	636	792	915	1062	1200	1362	1697
Benedicts	135	271	443	587	738	875	1044	1186	1321	1496

FLIRT AND THIEF SHE IS.

SORROW OF CHANCE ACQUAINTANCE.

A Telephone Lineman Took a Walk With a Dusky Damsel and Lost Money and Jewelry.

There is a party of linemen in the employ of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, who are now making this city their headquarters. Saturday night, one of the linemen, his name it has been impossible to learn, was robbed of some $64 in cash and a valuable gold ring in a rather remarkable manner.

Saturday evening the lineman, having nothing in particular to do, walked out to see the town. Being in a particularly jovial mood, he became acquainted with a passing dusky damsel and suggested to her that they enjoy the beautiful night by taking a walk together. After strolling about the city for some time, they found their way out to West Third street. While he talked to the dusky belle, her deft fingers went through his pockets and abstracted his pocketbook, containing $64 in bills, and a gold ring that he had placed there for safe keeping.

He reported the matter to Sergeant Kiely. A search was made for the woman, but she could not be found. It is supposed that she is now in Trenton.

A Doll Festival.

Will be given by the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school in the new lecture room of the church Friday evening of this week at 7:45 o'clock. The proceeds will go toward buying necessary furniture for the comfort of the little folks. No admission will be charged, but an offering will be taken.

WHO CLEANS STREET?

BOROUGH SOLONS ARE ANXIOUS ABOUT SOMERSET STREET.

Senator Reed to Investigate the Street Railway Company's share in the Expense —Other Borough Business at the Council.

The regular January meeting of the Borough Council, held last Friday was attended by Mayor Wilson and all of the members. As usual the session was called promptly at 8 o'clock.

The clerk's monthly financial report was presented as follows:

	Balance	Deficit
Borough	$ 1,867.31
Lights	1,693.67
Roads		$ 14.18
Fire	264.34
Poor		470.81
	$ 3,825.32	$ 484.99

Total balance $3,450.53; paid county and State $2 084 12; cash balance $1,366.41. Mr. Arnold also reported the collection of $252.60 from fines, etc.

The monthly report of Collector Spencer was read as follows, showing amount of money collected since last report: 1888, $21.10; 1889, $48 77; 1890, $98 61; 1891 $153 93; 1892, $173.65; 1893, $131 00; 1894, $115 15; 1895, $208 27; 1896, $140.64; 1897, from December to January 1st $17.846 58; January 1st to date, $1,795.96. The following money was collected from township duplicates: 1885, $71.55; 1886, $50 33; 1887, $67.02; 1888, $529.06; 1889, $295.75.

The officers of West End Hose Company notified the Council that William Barry had been expelled from the company for non-payment of dues and fines.

Residents of Sycamore avenue asked for two electric lights to be located on that avenue between Green brook and Myrtle avenue.

Mr. Wolston, chairman of the street committee, stated that during the past month $134 60 was expended on streets, which work included cleaning streets, filling in, cleaning snow from walks, etc.

A discussion arose as to the difference in grades in the borough. This was accounted for by the fact that the borough streets had been surveyed by two different surveyors. Regarding the question as to who is to pay for the cleaning and keeping in repair of Somerset street, Mr. MacLaughlin moved that Counsel Reed investigate the same and give an opinion whether the street railway is to pay one-third of all work, or whether the company is to pay for the cleaning of the street as well as their share of keeping it in repair.

Mayor Wilson appointed James Baglin and Jacob Sneider as special marshals, and they were confirmed by the Council. The Mayor also appointed Andrew Love and L. E. Barkalew members of the Board of Health for a term of four years.

Mr. Love was appointed to succeed himself, and Mr. Barkalew was appointed to succeed Mr. Curtis, whose term has expired. The Council confirmed the appointments.

At this point some correspondence which had passed between W. J. Boome and George F. White regarding the question as to who is expected to open Sycamore avenue, was introduced by Mayor Wilson. It seems that Mr. Boome and Mr. White have had a misunderstanding regarding the work to be done on the street and the Council was appealed to for assistance. Mr. Reed, who is in a measure interested, made a few remarks on the subject, as did also Councilmen MacLaughlin, Woolston, and Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., who is also interested. After much discussion on the matter it was finally referred to the street committee and they will report at a subsequent meeting.

The Mayor asked Counsel Reed concerning the laying of sidewalk in front of Mr. McFarland's property in the West End, and the former advised the latter to instruct the collector regarding the sale of property for the payment of the walk which has been laid.

Mr. MacLaughlin offered a resolution that a warrant for $17,190 19 be drawn to pay the State and county tax. This resolution was adopted, as was also another one offered by the same Councilman to the effect that the action of the street committee in laying a crosswalk at the corner of Somerset and Regent streets, be confirmed. The last resolution was somewhat unusual, but the members enjoyed the joke.

Mr. Woolston offered a resolution that a warrant for $800 be drawn to pay the interest on the $30 000 loan secured for the opening of Watchung avenue, and due Feb. 7th. Another resolution by Mr. Woolston provided that when the Council is in funds crosswalks be laid on Chatham street, Manning avenue, Race street and Brook avenue.

There being no further business to come before the Council the members went into executive session at the suggestion of Mr. Rogers.

To Inspect Gun Carriages.

Capt. James C. Ayres, of the Ordnance Department, United States Army, will make twelve visits during the months of January, February and March, to the works of the Pond Machine Tool Company, in this city, on official business pertaining to the inspection of disappearing gun carriages, that are now being built in the shops here.

WANTED $3,000; GOT $1

END OF A DISPUTE IN COURT BETWEEN TWO JEHUS.

John Keely Awarded a Nominal Sum and Will Have to Pay the Costs of Prosecution Against William Callahan, the Defendant.

The famous quarrel which occurred between John Keely and William Callahan, two hackmen, in this city February 14th of last year, was exploited in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth Friday and a verdict for one dollar was rendered for the plaintiff.

The history of the case is a long and interesting one. The quarrel occurred at the Central Railway station as the 6:20 train from New York arrived here. The wagon of Keely was said to have collided with Callahan's horse as a passenger was being assisted into Callahan's cab. The defendant asserted that this was done intentionally, and that it was one of a series of similar indignities which he has suffered at the hands of Keely.

The story of Keely was that the affect that defendant had two viciously assaulted him on the evening in question and that he had given no provoca ion whatever for the attack, except that he had gotten into a position next to the curb, where the defendant wished to station his hack.

The case was cited for the October term of court, last year, but on motion of the plaintiff it was allowed to go over until the present term. It came up for final trial at Elizabeth yesterday before Judge Magie and a jury of twelve men. Several witnesses were called on both sides, and everything rested upon the attempts of the parties to prove that the other side was the aggressor.

The case was given to the jury at 2:30 o'clock, and after being out fifteen minutes they returned with a verdict for the plaintiff for one dollar

The verdict was a substantial victory for the defendant, as by it the costs are thrown upon the plaintiff, the statute in the case being to the effect that in cases of assault and battery in the Supreme Court, where the damages awarded are less than $50, the plaintiff pays the costs only to the amount of his verdict.

Keely sued for $3,000 damages.

S. S. Swackhamer, of Codlington & Swackhamer, was the attorney for the plaintiff, and McNabb & Clark appeared for the defendant.

CARNIVALS PLANNED.

New Officers Also Elected at Gesang and Turn Verein.

The following officers for the Gesang and Turn Verein were elected at the annual meeting held last Thursday evening: President, Henry Haurand; vice-president, Wm. Gartner; corresponding secretary, Paul Foerler; financial secretary, M. Menzenbach; treasurer, Louis Morraller; flag carrier, Charles Scherer; adjutants, Charles Steuerwald and Augustus Schomp; marshals, Fred Bechtel, Jr., and Walter Koppel; finance committee, Henry Haurand, C. Felbert and Walter Koppel.

There are now about 125 members in the society, and during the past year nearly $400 was received as dues. On the evening of February 7th a masquerade carnival will be held and on the evening of January 15th the members and their friends will enjoy another carnival.

A HORSE STOLEN IN WESTFIELD.

Left Under a Hotel Shed—Thief Caught by Newark Authorities.

Andrew Dickson, of Willow Grove, drove to Westfield with a companion Saturday night, and while the two were transacting business about the town the horse and carriage were allowed to stand in the sheds at the rear of Grogan's Hotel, on North avenue.

Dickson and his friend finished their business about 11 o'clock and were preparing to return home. On going after their horse and carriage they found both missing from the shed. The authorities were notified and a description of the stolen rig was telegraphed to surrounding towns.

At an early hour yesterday morning the police of Newark arrested the thief and recovered the stolen property on the road between Elizabeth and Newark.

Dickson went to Newark and identified the rig, and the prisoner was then sent to the Elizabeth jail where he is now held.

His name is not known, but the proprietor of the horse and carriage recognized him as a man who has worked as a farmhand about Westfield recently.

Entertained Friends.

Miss Libby Joseph, of Manning avenue, entertained a few friends at her home last Thursday. The entertainment consisted of a "Yankee Musical," and the guests had a delightful time in a novel way. Andrew Carpenter was present and played a number of musical selections and the guests were supposed to give the names of the selections. This feature caused much fun. Refreshments were served during the evening and it was a late hour when the happy young people retired for their homes. Miss Bessie Giles, Miss Mabel Moore, J. E. Arnold, Jr., and John Dilts won the prizes offered by the hostess for the guessing contest.

NEW FIRE-ALARM BOXES

DECIDED ON AT FIRST MEETING OF FIRE COMMITTEE.

The Recommendations in Mayor Fisk's Message Were Informally Discussed, But No Action Was Taken on Them.

If anybody expected anything sensational to be done at the first meeting of the new Councilmanic fire committee last Friday, they were grievously disappointed. It was the first meeting of the committee and they had to get acquainted before they took any action of the usual run of business. The committee is composed of Messrs. Runyon, Moffett and Newman, all of whom were present. Mr. Runyon is chairman. Of course there was an informal discussion of the recommendations of Mayor Fisk in his message, but no action was taken on any of them. Exactly what the ideas of the committee are in regard to the suggestions it is impossible to state, as they are reticent on the subject

The only business of importance was the location of two new fire alarm boxes to give better fire protection in the West End. In the western part of the Third ward the only alarm box is located at the corner of West Seventh street and Spooner avenue. It leaves a large territory unprotected. The committee decided in favor of locating a box at the corner of Sherman and Grant avenues. Another box will be located at the corner of West Front street and Rock avenue, for the protection of that section of the city.

A FAMILY MARRIAGE.

An Elderly Couple Quietly United at the Bride's Home in Dunellen.

Thursday evening at the home of the bride in Dunellen occurred the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Ann Wagner to John W. Wagner, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Dunellen. The bride is fifty-four years old and the groom is sixty-four years old. The marriage was celebrated in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace W. E. Mattison, of North Plainfield, who tied the knot according to the laws of New Jersey. Thomas F. Boyle and Mrs. Mary H. Wagner, the wife of the bride's son, stood up with the bride and groom.

The groom was born in Rome, Italy, and came to this country when a young man. He served in the late war and made a splendid record. The bride was a wife of her present husband's brother, who died some time ago, but her maiden name is the same. The groom is engaged in contract work in Dunellen, and he and his wife will reside at that place. After the wedding a pleasing supper was served and the rest of the evening was passed in a social manner.

SCHOOL FOR LANGUAGES.

Another Educational Institution to be Established in Plainfield.

The announcement is made that Miss Hellwig and Mr. Lacasse have formed a partnership in order to found a school of languages in this city. This institution is a timely one, as the interest in the study of foreign languages has been steadily increasing, owing to traveling and its demand in business. Every opportunity will be offered at the school to those wishing to study either privately or in classes. Evening classes will be organized at low rates.

A special feature of the school will be the social gatherings and circles for reading French and German classes, together with lectures.

Both the principals, assisted by Mme. Lacasse, will continue teaching at their respective schools, Miss Scribner and Miss Green's, the Plainfield French Kindergarten, of which Miss Hellwig is co-partner, and the New Jersey Military Academy, together with their private pupils and classes.

NEW ROAD-HOUSE

George Thatcher Has Secured License For One on Terrill Road.

George Thatcher, the well known minstrel, decided some time ago to open a road-house at the corner of South avenue and Terrill road, just across the city line. He rented the place formerly conducted by John Benner, and remodeled and thoroughly renovated the house and grounds. Friday morning he made application at the Union County Court as Elizabeth for a hostelry license for the place, and his application was granted.

Library Books Secured.

Four teachers of the Borough Public School have arranged to secure books from the Plainfield Public Library by paying $25 for the rest of the year. Some people claim that the borough teachers should be allowed the use of the library free the same as the Plainfield teachers.

Completed Its Trunk Line.

The Somerset Telephone Company has at last completed its trunk line into Newark from Bound Brook by the way of Greenbrook and Washingtonville. It has connected with the exchanges of the Newark Telephone Company and the Hudson County Telephone Company.

DENOUNCED BAZAARS.

SPOKE AGAINST THEM AS A METHOD TO AID CHURCHES.

Rev. M. S. Fuller, of India, Addressed the Christian Alliance on the Work in the Missions and Methods of Raising Funds.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance are always eager for fresh news from the foreign mission field, and their regular weekly meeting last Thursday in the W. C. T. U. rooms was well attended, in spite of the threatening evening, in order that the members might listen to an address on missions, from Rev. Mark B. Fuller, of India.

The meeting was opened with a song service and devotional exercises, Miss Cara Peck presiding. Rev. Mr. Fuller was then introduced, and delivered an address which deeply interested his hearers, and put the facts of missions before them in a striking manner. He said that the work of the missionary was not to convert everybody; it was to bring the gospel before each one in such a way as to put the responsibility for his salvation or condemnation on himself. The worst feature of the problem, he went on to say, is that Christian people do not feel their responsibility to do their part by giving the gospel; they have become used to the thought of the unsaved millions, and their prayers are of the sort that say "God bless me and my wife, my son John and his wife, us four and no more." Most people, though few would admit it, think that these heathen nations are not of much account, anyway; one American is worth more than two Chinamen or Hindus. But they have souls to be saved, and there is Christ's command staring His people in the face. In India the harvest is waiting to be gathered.

In every part of the country some mission work has been done, but it is very little, when one thinks of the thousands yet unreached. Mr. Fuller said that a missionary felt like a sparrow on a housetop, when he looked out over the work to be done. He told of the various mission stations in India, and describing the tours made by the workers, sometimes visiting several villages in one day. In contrast with this he told of an American town of 700 people, with thirteen churches, and expressed the wish that things might be evened up somewhat. He hoped soon to see more money in the missionary treasuries, but expressed himself very strongly against the practice of holding bazaars, suppers, etc., for the raising of money. He said no decent man would want his family, were in distress, to be helped by such affairs, and yet he would rather help raise money for a poor man's funeral than for the church of Jesus Christ. In closing, Mr. Fuller spoke of the Alliance principles as peculiarly appropriate for mission work, and urged his hearers to spread them abroad in their various churches.

WORK IN ARABIA.

Mrs. Zwemer, a Returned Missionary, Told of the Needs in That Country.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting in the lecture room of the church Friday afternoon, at which there was an excellent attendance of members and their friends. Mrs. S. M. Zwemer, a returned missionary from Arabia, addressed the meeting, telling in a simple but touching manner of the degraded condition of womankind in that heathen land.

The speaker emphasized the need of more missionaries, stating that at the present time there are but two missionaries along the Persian Gulf for a distance of 800 miles. Mrs. Zwemer, with her husband, is stationed on the island of Bahren, and they are the only white people among 50,000 Arabs.

A contrast was drawn between Mohammedanism, the religion of the Arabs, and Christianity. The five cardinal points of the former religion were described as the creed, prayer, fasting, alms and the pilgrimage to Mecca. Mohammedanism does not produce holiness of life. Its disciples pray at certain hours of the day, always in public places, with their faces toward Mecca, with never a thought of their petitions being answered.

The fast of thirty days means that the Arabs abstain from food during each day, and at night indulge in riotous feasting. They exhibited a costume, which one of the girls donned, thus showing in effective manner the dress of the Arabian woman.

At the close of the lecture the band expressed its thanks to Mrs. Zwemer for her interesting talk, and prayers were offered for her success in the work in which she is engaged.

Counterfeit Coin in Morristown.

A large number of counterfeit 25-cent pieces are floating about Morristown, and the authorities seem to think the difficulty is local. The several banks of the city have them offered in large numbers every day. They are all of the dates of '94, '95 and '97, of a whitish-lead color, yet a very good imitation. The letter "w" in the motto, "In God we trust," is also always imperfectly made.

HOSPITAL TOMMY GONE

DIED LAST WEEK AFTER TWENTY YEARS AT THE HOSPITAL.

Thomas Fitzgerald, the Kind-Hearted Old Engineer, Was a Great Favorite With All Who Knew Him—Sketch of His Life.

During the past twenty years no person has entered Muhlenberg Hospital that has not in some way heard of the kind-hearted Thomas Fitzgerald, familiarly known as "Tommy." When his death was reported Friday morning, there was a host of friends and acquaintances that were greatly shocked and grieved at the news.

"Tommy" was admitted to the hospital nearly twenty years ago as a patient, and ever since he has served as an employe, working faithfully so long as he was able. Early in his career he worked at the Elizabethport shops of the Central Railroad, under the late Samuel M. Moore, who was master mechanic of the road at the time. John O. Stevens was superintendent of the road at the same time. Later "Tommy" took the position of fireman on the Central Railroad, working in that capacity on the engines "Clinton" and "Essex," wood burners.

In 1852 he came to Plainfield and worked on a gravel train, under the late Stephen O. Horton, and was afterwards employed as a track-walker from Dunellen to Cranford. His position he held until his eyesight weakened, then he entered the hospital for treatment, and has been there ever since. He worked at the latter place as an engineer until his sight became so poor that he was hardly able to see. At the time of his death he was totally blind, his wife's condition he has been for several months past. Every comfort that could be given him was provided by the hospital attendants, and his death was peaceful and calm. So far as can be learned he leaves no relatives. He will be very greatly missed by all at the hospital, and those who have been associated with the institution will also miss him. He was a great favorite among the members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the board of managers.

THEATRICAL.

The next attraction at Stillman Music Hall, Thursday night of next week, will be the first appearance of Washburn's minstrels, an organization of first class minstrelsy and up-to-date features, under the direction of Leon W. Washburn, the well known circus manager and minstrel. In this enterprise Mr. Washburn has brought to bear all his wide experience as a public entertainer, and has gathered together as many minstrel talent, the equal of any company now traveling. There are no complete shows in one, replete with new, novel ideas, and introduces some of the best talent in the country. Wherever they have appeared they have won golden opinions from press and public, and their advent here is the first genuine minstrel company of the season will undoubtedly be welcome.

Robert Hilliard, the well known New York artist, will appear in a new play entitled "A New Yorker" at the Stillman Music Hall, Saturday, the 15th inst. Mr. Hilliard will be supported by a host of good people, including Louise Thorndyke Boucicault, Gladys Wallis, Jennie Weathersby, Dore Davidson, Cuyler Hastings, and Gertrude Gheer, an English actress from Drury Lane Theatre, London.

JUNIORS INSTALLED.

Franklin Council Placed the Newly Elected Officers in Command.

At the regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., held last Thursday, the following newly-elected officers were installed by Past Councilor G. S. Martin, for the ensuing term: Junior past councilor, A. G. Adams; councilor, T. E. Currin, Jr.; vice-councilor, E. F. Sheppard; assistant recording secretary, G. E. Johnson; conductor, George Bedell; warden, E. R. Pope; inside sentinel, William Demarest; outside sentinel, Henry Palmer; trustee, for 3 months, Harvey Thorn; representative to State Council, two years, Ephraim Compton; representative to Funeral Benefit Association, one year, David Bodine.

A. G. Adams G. S. Martin and T. E. Currin, Jr., were appointed a committee to draft a set of resolutions on the death of their late brother, William E. Bicknell.

BOOKS FOR THE HOSPITAL.

Former Mayor Saunders Provides Patients With Good Reading.

In addition to the valuable library of books of reference on medical and surgical subjects received by Muhlenberg Hospital last February from William L. Saunders, the hospital has just received from the same donor six of the most recent publications of W. B. Saunders, of Philadelphia. The titles of the books are: Anders' Practice of Medicine, Macdonald's Surgical Diagnosis and Treatment, Senn's Tuberculosis of the Urinary Organs, Penrose's Text Book of Diseases of Women, Sutton and Giles' Manual of Diseases of Women, Mallory and Wright's Pathological Technique.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

FORMER VOORHEES, OF OAK TREE, INSTANTLY KILLED

He Did Not See the Approaching Locomotive Until Too Late—The Remains Were Taken To South Plainfield.

A farmer named Richard Voorhees, living at Oak Tree, was struck by a train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at that place Friday a. m. and instantly killed.

The accident occurred at about 9:25 o'clock. Voorhees was crossing the track at a place known as Kelley's crossing on his way to the house of a neighbor, where he was to work for the day.

As the unfortunate man stepped on the track a fast east bound express train whirled around the curve. His attention was attracted by something lapping near the crossing as the train had to roll not see the approaching locomotive until it was upon him. He was struck and thrown several feet from the tracks. He was deaf and did not hear the train.

Several bystanders rushed to the assistance of the injured man, but life was gone when they reached the place where the body lay. The remains were taken to South Plainfield on the train. A. M. Runyon & Son, of this city were notified and took charge of the body.

Voorhees was a man about sixty years of age. He was in good circumstances, being the owner of a farm, on which he lived with his family.

ADDITIONS TO THE LIBRARY.

List of Books That Have Been Added During December.

Abbott, Theology of an evolutionist.
Allen, Ballads.
Allen, America and the Americans.
Adams, Curious creatures in zoology.
Ashdown, Polychromatic decoration.
Bates, Parodies and artists.
Bellot, Antiquarist's rule book.
Beller, Nursery book.
Bolton, Hand book of the tridacne.
Bowker, Copyright of America.
Bliss, Study of literature.
Bennet & Palmer, Jerusalem.
Brooks, Great cities.
Bell, History of elementary mathematics.
Bessey, Lessons in botany.
Campb. L, Structural and systematic botany.
Campbell, Mosses and ferns.
Cassell & Co., Stories of industry, 3v.
Church, Chantry priest of Barnet.
Cohen, Practical zoology.
Crawford, Corleone, 2v.
Cleary, Flowers of field, hill and swamp.
Conby, Common minerals and rocks.
Crowest, British music.
Brown, Meeting place of geology and hist.
Brooks, Story of steam.
Bug stories.
Education.
Child, Old secret life in Spain.
Bain, Men I have known.
Bain, Critical period of Amer. hist., il. ed.
Bain, Old Virginia and her neighbors, 2v.
Fitzgerald, Book of sacred songs.
Ford, Story of an untold love.
Firth, Triumphs of modern engineering.
Fuller, Strawberry culturist.
Gaskell, Physics.
Garnier, Eng. landed int.
Gelkie, Field geology.
Goodrich, Wild acorns.
Gore, Lux mundi.
Gore, Jack Alden.
Gough, Sunlight and shadow.
Gray, Lessons in botany.
Gray, Manual of botany.
Harrison, This country of ours.
Harrison, Chemistry of photography.
Henderson, Gardening for profit.
Hill, Postulates of revelation and ethics.
Hole, Fall of the Congo Arabs.
Hole, Garden and the gardener.
Hooker, Books.
Heller, Mr opinions and Betsey Bobbit's.
Hosmer, Outlines of forestry.
Hough, Story of the cowboy.
Hough, My literary pastimes.
Jones, Industrial curiosities.
Jordan & Evermann, Fishes of North and Middle Amer.
Kipling, Captains courageous.
Kirby, Entomology.
Lakes, Klondyke facts
Lee, et al., Humour of France.
Long, Ornamental gardening.
Lubbock, Use of life.
Mahaffy, Egypt under the Ptolemies.
Mahaffy, Rambles and studies in Greece.
Maspero, Life in ancient Egypt and Assyria.
Mathews, American patriotism, poems.
Miller, Upon the tree-tops.
Mitchell, Hugh Wynne.
Monroe, Bibliography of education.
Norris, Picturesque Australasia.
Nisbet, Humour of Germany.
O'Donoghue, Humour of Ireland.
Osborn, From the Greeks to Darwin.
Owen, Skeptical dramas.
Page, Reprints of French renaissance.
Pain, Old gentlemen of black stock.
Pain, Social life in old Virginia.
Peck, Mushrooms.
Perkins, Sir Joshua Reynolds.
Pratt, India, 1st supplement.
Quinn, Money in the garden.
Pear culture for profit.
Inorganic chemistry.
Rideout, Three Margarets.
Russell, Sing-song
Russell, Eccentric personages.
Sala, Autobiography.
Sandeau, Sacha in peasy.
Small, Hand book of new public library in a village.
Spalding, Study of common plants.
Stephenson, Hist. of "Punch."
Stockton, Story-teller's pack.
Sub Rosa.
Taylor, Humour of Spain.
U. S. Agric. Dep. bureau. Commercial diet.
U. S. Agric. Dep.
U. S. Biology div. Insect life and index. v7
Upton, Our early presidents.
Vallbye, et al., Modern Fr. masters.
Vizetelly, Humour of Russia.
Wade, Timber.
Wall, Fungi.
Werner, Humour of Holland.
Whibley, Humour of Italy.
Whibley, London, past and present.
Wilde, Lady Windermere's fan.
Williams, Professor Johnny.
Woolsey, Photographic amusements.

—Dr. McKane and Rev. C. W. Hand spoke at the Christmas festival of the Peoples Mission, Chronicle building, Bedford, a few days ago, and were well pleased with the work of W. H. Kerns, editor of the Westfield Leader.

A FENCE NOT A FENCE.

REMARKABLE TESTIMONY IN A CASE IN THE UNION COUNTY COURT.

The Plaintiff T. Norton Company Sued Their Landlady for Six Cents Damages—Both Sides Satisfied With the Verdict.

Last April the Paul T. Norton Company, of Elizabeth, rented from Mrs Martha L. Suydam, of Newark, the store situated at 133 East Front street, in this city. The lease, which was drawn in the office of the Norton Company, provided the rent should be paid one year in advance, and that the term should commence when the building was in a tenantable condition, connected with city water, sewer connection made, and the landlord to "remove all outbuildings and the division fence from the rear yard and grade the latter so as to enable trucks to be backed in from the adjoining alleyway, etc."

These repairs and alterations were alleged to have been made by Mrs. Suydam, who thereupon demanded the rent of the Norton Company, who, claiming that the terms of the lease had not been complied with, refused to make payment of the same. Mrs. Suydam, through her attorney, Irving L. Brady, of this city, levied upon all the goods of the Norton Company in their Plainfield store, he advising her that the lease had been fully complied with and that the rent was due and could be collected. Through their counsel, Craig A. Marsh, of this city, the Norton Company immediately replevined the goods and brought suit at this term of the Union County Court at Elizabeth. In such as the repairs and alterations had all been made under Mr. Brady's supervision and direction, and he would therefore be the principal witness for the defence, Senator Colonel J. Reed, of this city, was retained as associate counsel.

The trial, which occupied the court's attention during almost all day Wednesday, was very exciting and at times amusing. All the damages asked was the sum of six cents.

The question as to whether the fence had been removed or not was the principal point of the case and to establish their contentions both parties produced photographs, and a drawing made by Surveyor H. L. VanEmburgh.

The defendants insisted that the fence had been removed and what now remained was not a fence, but a partition or wooden structure; that even if it was a fence, it was not the "division fence" referred to in the lease.

Another point was whether the yard had been graded so as to enable trucks to be backed in, and much evidence was given on this point.

The Court left it to the jury to say whether the landlord had made the repairs called for in the lease, and directed the jury to find for the landlord if she had, otherwise to find for the tenant. On motion of Mr. Marsh, the Court also left it to the jury to say which side should pay the costs of the suit, or whether each side should pay its own costs.

The jury, after being out six hours yesterday afternoon, decided the first question in favor of the landlord and the second in favor of the tenant. The verdict being for Mrs. Suydam, but Mrs. Suydam to pay the costs of the suit on both sides.

Both the landlord and the Company say they are satisfied.

'SEE TREE BURNED.

Percy Ohl Lost One at His Place on Park Avenue.

Quite a serious loss occurred to Percy Ohl, Friday, at his home on Park avenue, when a valuable bee tree was almost destroyed by fire, causing the loss of about 200 pounds of honey. The fire was not discovered in time to save it. The honey was stored away in the tree, about forty feet from the ground. The hive was an extra large one, the space or hole occupied and filled, being over eight feet in length and ten inches in diameter. Bee trees are getting scarce in these parts, but Mr. Ohl has always been able to find one among his willows every year. He feels the loss of the bees more than he does that of the honey.

A FAITHFUL WORKER PASSED AWAY

Miss Alice Van Horn Died January 5th in Brooklyn.

January 5th at 11:30 p. m. occured the death of Miss Alice Van Horn, daughter of William Van Horn, of 314 Park avenue, after a long illness with Bright's disease. Since Christmas Miss Van Horn had been visiting relatives in Brooklyn, and it was at that place that she died. She was well and favorably known in this city where she had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She was a member of Warren Mission chapel Sunday-school and a faithful attendant when well.

IN ME MORY OF ALICE VANHORN

Dearest classmate, thou hast left us.
Left us for thy home above.
Where sin and sorry never enter.
Where reigns eternal love.

We will miss thee on each Sunday.
When we all together meet.
We will think of thee in Heaven.
Sitting at the mercy seat.

One of Her Sunday-School Class.

A DISCIPLE OF CHRIST

REV E. EVERITT JONES QUIETLY PASS EDAWAY THURSDAY EVENING.

He Has Been a Faithful Worker in the Ministry for Thirty-Three Years—Preached in New Market Ten Years.

In the midday of a life well spent as a disciple of Christ, Rev. Edward Everitt Jones, aged fifty-four years, passed away at his home on Grove street last evening after a year of suffering from a complication of diseases. It was just a year ago that Mr. Jones and his family moved to this city, and during that time he has been more or less confined to his home. He was well known in this city and throughout the State of New Jersey, where he has held various charges. He was in the ministry thirty-three years, and all but ten years of that time he lived in New Jersey, where he preached in the Baptist denomination.

He was a man of strong character, and possessed many Christian qualities that were greatly admired by all who knew him. During his illness he exhibited that strong Christian fortitude so much admired. He was as patient as disease would allow, and his faith was strong to the end.

Rev. Mr. Jones was born in Philadelphia, June 15th, 1843, and his early years were spent in that city. He graduated from the Philadelphia High School when a very young man. He then entered Bucknell University, where he prepared him elf for the ministry, and graduated in 1865. October 26th, 1865, he was married. His first charge was at the Rahway Baptist church. He afterwards went to Bridgeport, Pa., where he labored faithfully, and from there he was called to the New Market Baptist church. He remained at the latter place ten years and his work resulted in large additions to the membership and an increased interest in spiritual matters. He then went to Coatesville, Pa., and served the Baptist church at that place faithfully. He took a charge at Middletown, this State, and remained there some time. His health was not good and he resigned the pastorate to take a much needed rest. At the end of two years he accepted a call to the Baptist church at Clinton, Hunterdon county, where he remained until his health became so poor that he was forced to give up entirely. It was then that he and his family came to Plainfield, where they have resided ever since.

Mr. Jones has held several positions in the different associations connected with the Baptist church in this State, and for seven years he was clerk of the East New Jersey Association, while for six years he was clerk of the New Jersey Sunday-School Convention. He was a kind and loving husband and father, and in the home he will be greatly missed. He leaves a wife, a son, Burton Jones, and two daughters, Mrs. Percival Cooke, of Lewisburg, N. C., and Miss Jones. The children have all been home during their father's illness.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE

Peter E. See, of the Borough, Died Jan. 6th of Heart Failure.

The death of Peter E. See, of 116 Somerset street, occurred Jan. 6th at noon. The news of his death was a great shock to his many friends and acquaintances. Death was due to heart failure.

Mr. See was well advanced in years and was not able to do any work. He has, however, been able to go out for short walks, and it was only this morning that he was seen on the streets. He was an old resident of the borough and for many years conducted a grocery store at the corner of Somerset street and Manning avenue, afterwards selling out to W. H. VanWinkle.

Mr. See was well known throughout Somerset county and was respected by all.

PLAINFIELD TROLLEY CASES IN COURT

Three Cases Settled and Two Yet to Be Settled or Tried.

The Plainfield Street Railway cases brought against the company for injuries received by Catharine Manning, James Cashen and Jacob Mints, respectively, have all been settled by the company paying damages agreed upon. Craig A. Marsh for plaintiffs, and Riker and Riker for defendants. The case of Rev. Dr. Simpson, for the killing of his valuable St. Bernard dog, is likely to be settled before this term of court ends.

The case of Sturtevant against the Consolidated Traction Company for $10,000 damages, will be tried at the next term. Craig A. Marsh for Mr. Sturtevant, and Joseph Coult, of Newark, for the Traction Company.

Election of a Corporal.

The Plainfield High School Cadets held their first drill since the Christmas vacation, Thursday afternoon. The company was in charge of Captain Henry W. Brower and did unusually good work. Abbott Brainard resigned as first corporal and the other corporals were promoted according to rank. Charles Fountain was elected fourth corporal to fill the vacancy at the end of the list.

TROLLEY IN FANWOOD.

CITIZENS INSTRUCTED TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE TO GRANT FRANCHISE.

A Meeting of the Citizens of Fanwood Township Committee Was Held Last Week—Representatives Explained Plans.

The Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Street Railway Company had an inning at the meeting of the citizens and the Township Committee, in Fanwood last Thursday. The meeting was called by the Committee to give the citizens an opportunity to express their opinions upon the question of granting the company a franchise to run the tracks through the township.

The meeting was well attended, and matters had not progressed far before it was evident that the sentiment of those present was strongly in favor of granting the franchise. A resolution was finally passed instructing the Township Committee to grant the company's application.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by T. J. Nichol, chairman of the Township Committee. Col. E W. Hein, secretary of the railway company, was the first speaker. He explained how the company had modified its plans in deference to the wishes of the people, giving up the idea of running their tracks upon the county road and taking North avenue between Westfield and Fanwood, and South avenue between Westfield and Cranford. There were several conditions, he said, which he presumed the people would insist upon in giving the company a franchise. They were—cheap fare, frequent trips of cars and a location of the tracks convenient to the village. There was an objection sometimes made against granting franchises to fill the pockets of a corporation. His company was willing to compensate this objection by paying to the township a share of its gross profits, amounting to five per cent. The speaker then read the franchise and a map was presented to the clerk of the meeting, showing the proposed route through the township.

The question of when the road should be completed was then brought up, and Col. Hein stated that the company would agree to have the tracks laid by July 1st. As to the rate of fare, admitted he charged 5 cents into any part of the township. School tickets for children would be sold thirty for $1.

Nothing was said in the meeting about the county trolley scheme of Frank Bergen.

The Committee announced to the trolley company's representatives that it will shortly hold a meeting and grant the franchise.

Before adjournment Col. Riker, the president of the company, appeared in the meeting and thanked the citizens for their confidence in his company. The best service possible would be given the town, he said.

Ex Sheriff George Kyte has been working to secure the consents of the owners of property along the proposed route of the trolley, and it is stated that he now has the consents of the owners of a majority of the land on the proposed extension of East Second street, from this city to the Fanwood line.

A NEW POSTAGE STAMP.

Commemorative of the Holding of the Trans-Mississippi Exposition.

For the third time in the history of the Nation, in recognition of the importance of a brilliant enterprise, Postmaster General Gary has decided to order a series of special postage stamps, commemorative of the holding of the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition at Omaha in 1898. The stamps will be issued in denominations of 1 cent, 2-cent, 5-cent, 10 cent and $1, making it possible for the public to use these stamps for all outgoing foreign as well as domestic mail matter and packets of merchandise.

In issuing these special stamps it is not designed by the Postmaster-General to withdraw from sale the current series as was the case during the World's Fair.

The new issue of special stamps will be of marked artistic order in design, symbolical of the great Trans Mississippi region and its tributaries. The designs contemplate portraits of distinguished persons identified with the country, appropriate historical events as illustrated by existing paintings or engravings.

The stamps will be different in color from the regular series. In shape they will resemble the Columbian stamp issued in commemoration of the World's Fair. The new ones will be twice the size of the present postage stamp.

TRIED TO TAME WILD STEERS.

Mayor Mellick, of Pinckamin, Has Turned His Hand at Something New.

Tunis D. Mellick, who bears the title of Mayor of Pluckamin, has been trying to tame two wild steers which have been prowling about his farm for some days. Not being very skilled with the lariat, the Mayor drove his own herd out to entice the steers, but they would not be coaxed. The steers are still there.

Mrs. H. A. Weber, of Liberty street, is ill with pneumonia.

GIBSON'S FRIENDS MET.

PLANNING TO FORM A NEW CHURCH FOR HIM.

Last Week They Met, Passed Resolutions of Sorrow at Gibson's Recent Treatment, and Then They Took Up a Collection.

The last link that bound Rev. P. S. Gibson to his former charge, the Mt Olive Baptist church, has been severed. January 5th the former pastor moved out of the parsonage next to the church to allow the next pastor, when he shall be selected, to take possession. The friends of Gibson claim that the trustees have shown a very unchristian-like spirit in compelling Gibson to give up the parsonage, when he had no other place in which to lay his head.

It is this act, as a final culmination of the others that have preceded it, that has caused the dissatisfaction among the friends of the colored preacher that may result in the formation of another colored church in the city. There are those in Pastor Gibson's former flock that say that, after all that has happened, they feel that they can never return to the old church. They are now scattered among the other colored houses of worship in the city, but only waiting for a movement to start to form a new church with Gibson at the head of it.

Gibson is very resigned, apparently, over the action of the people of his former charge. He declares that it is not for him to start a new movement in opposition to the church from which he has been driven out. But he is not responsible for the acts of those who still believe in his innocence, he continues, and what they do, he has nothing to do with. If they consider it their duty to separate from their brothers and sisters who demanded his dismissal, it is their own lookout and a question for them alone to settle. If, however, they decide to start another church and invite him to be pastor-ss, he will accept, for he is a minister of the Gospel and must earn a living. Then he would be glad to be with those who appreciate his hard position and sympathize with him in this hour of affliction. Yes, he would rather earn his salt among his true friends than among strangers.

So far the movement toward the organization of a new church has reached no head. It has been heard in whispers among the followers of Gibson. It is a more pronounced form January 5th, however, when the word was passed about that Rev. Mr. Gibson had been turned out of the parsonage and was a weary wanderer on the face of the earth without a place on which to lay his head. His pocketbook was empty and he had no way in sight in which to replenish it.

Philip Johnson and Hampton Probasco, two colored adherents of Gibson's, took matter in hand and called a meeting of the friends of Pastor Gibson at Reform Hall in the evening. The friends of the dusky preacher claim that they number about 125 in all, but the short notice served to bring only fifty of their number out to the meeting.

Johnson called the meeting to order and acted as chairman and secretary. There were great expressions of sorrow at Brother Gibson's plight. The friends were informed that something more substantial than expressions of sorrow were needed. The hat was passed and a collection amounting to nearly $10 was taken. This was donated to the needy minister.

The meeting also passed a resolution expressing great regret and sorrow at seeing their old pastor turned out in the cold without money to pay his way.

SARAH LANE PARDONED.

A Somerville Colored Woman Who Attempted to Shoot ex-Senator Corle.

Sarah S. C. Lane, a colored woman who was sent to State's prison from Somerset county in 1896 for a term of three years for attempting to shoot ex-Senator Calvin Corle, of Somerville, was pardoned by the Court of Pardons at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Lane is about eighty years old, and it was this fact and her previous good character that led to her release. Mrs. Lane belonged to the better class of colored people. Her husband was a well to-do man residing at Neshanic. Corle was made his executor when he died. He found it necessary to sell the homestead, and to this the widow objected. She bought the place in at the first sale, and as she had no money to pay on it, it was sold again. Then she refused to leave the house, and after using all legal methods, constables were sent to the house, and they carried her out in a chair. Her furniture was set out in the yard. The woman became angry at Corle, and one morning as he came out of the Second National Bank, in Somerville, she drew a revolver from the folds of her dress and attempted to shoot him.

Administrator Appointed.

J. Fred MacDonald, of East Front street, has been appointed administrator of the estate of Harry Williams, who was drowned while on his way to Portland, Me., some time ago. The estate amounts to several thousand dollars.

PARKS WON AT WHIST.

DEFEATED THE ELIZABETH ATHLETIC CLUB FOR STATE TROPHY.

The K. A. C. Team Won at Elizabeth Last Week—The Parks Turned the Tables Last Night—The Score by Rounds.

The Park Club whist four redeemed themselves January 6 for their defeat of last week by defeating the same team by four points after a very closely-contested game. The match was in the series for the championship of this section for the New Jersey Whist Association's trophy.

Last week the Parks met their first defeat of the season for that trophy at the hands of the team from the Elizabeth Athletic Club. That game was played at the clubhouse in Elizabeth. Last night the Elizabeth Athletic Club played a return game in this city. Their team was composed of Messrs. Weeks, Lane, Maxfield and Saltonstall. The Park four was composed of Messrs. McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers.

The first round was very closely played, both sides being on the alert not to allow their opponents to gain the slightest advantage without a lively fight. The round ended with the Parks one trick in the lead, the score being 3 to 2. The fight in the second round was equally close. The Parks played in their old time form while the Elizabeth team were at their best. The superiority was again evident as they gained another point in the lead. The result of the second round was 3 to 2 in favor of the Parks.

The third round was the hardest fought of all, but the Parks had the lead and they were benton keeping it. They were anxious to retrieve themselves for their former defeat. Two tricks was the small majority by which the Parks won the last round, the score for the round being 4 to 2. The total score was 10 to 6 in favor of the Parks. The Elizabeth team acknowledged themselves fairly beaten and departed to the county seat after enjoying the light refreshments that Steward Jones prepared.

The Parks are still in the lead for the trophy, having lostonly one game, and they will probably win out in this section and have a chance to meet the winners in the other sections of the State to fight out the last round for the trophy.

J A DEMAREST'S SUCCESSOR.

Appointment of the New Consul at Brockville, Ont., Made.

A Washington dispatch says that yesterday among other nominations sent to the Senate was that of Charles W. Merriman, of Wisconsin, to be United States consul at Brockville, to succeed J. A. Demarest.

It is perhaps but natural that the above announcement, while by no means unexpected, will be received by the people of Brockville with considerable regret. It is quite well known of course that in compliance with the American doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils, our present consul was likely to be relegated to private life with the incoming Republican administration, but in this instance the "offensive partisan" axe has been held in mid-air sufficiently long to engender a hope, at least in the minds of many of our citizens, that it was not likely to fall at all.

Had this been the case, and we say it without any disparagement whatever to the gentleman named for the position, considerable satisfaction would have been felt by many of our people. Both Mr. and Mrs. Demarest, during their five years' residence here, have made extensive and warm friendships, the partial severance of which is likely to be keenly felt on both sides. It is safe to say, however, that the ties thus formed are not likely to be wholly broken, and no matter where their lot may be cast, the present consul and his excellent helpmeet will carry the best wishes of a host of Brockville friends.—Brockville Recorder.

Something Wrong.

The Holland submarine boat still lies at the Nixon shipyard docks, in Elizabeth. Very little progress is being made towards her final completion. There is evidently something wrong with her electrical apparatus.

Thin in flesh? Perhaps it's natural.

If perfectly well, this is probably the case.

But many are suffering from frequent colds, nervous debility, pallor, and a hundred aches and pains, simply because they are not fleshy enough.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites strengthens the digestion, gives new force to the nerves, and makes rich, red blood. It is a food in itself.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

AFTER WARDEN'S SCALP.

The Republican members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders held a caucus last Thursday to decide who shall be elected warden of the county jail. It is said that George Wright, Chief of Police of Rahway, and former Chief Dodd, of Plainfield, are candidates for the place, but that neither of them, so far, have secured the necessary number of votes to get the nomination. It is hinted that Freeholder Hulskamper, of Elizabeth, is the "dark horse" in this race, and that he will very likely be chosen. Warden John C. Blore, who has held the place for three years, will not surrender until the courts order him to do so, as he feels that under the Veteran Soldiers' act he cannot be removed without cause.

SENATOR REED'S RECOGNITION.

Senator Voorhees, president of the Senate, recognized Senator Reed very nicely in the makeup of the committee of the upper house of the Legislature. The Somerset county Senator is made chairman of the committee on boroughs and townships of the Senate and chairman of treasurer's accounts and the sinking fund of the joint committees. These positions will give Mr. Reed opportunity for the exercise of great influence in the legislative circles. In addition to the chairmanships named, Mr. Reed is also a second member of the judiciary committee.

LABOR LAWS FOR WOMEN.

The State Federation of Labor proposes to submit several bills to the Legislature, one of their chief efforts being to secure the appointment of two women as inspectors of factories. The presence of so many women and girls in the factories makes such appointments necessary.

Another point is to secure the passage of a law requiring the big department stores to furnish seats for their female employes. Although many are opposed to the employment of women, they believe that they should be granted certain privileges, and propose to see that they get them.

PLAINFIELD A MODEL.

The observing editor of the Morristown Chronicle, one of the best newspapers in New Jersey, read some of the reports submitted by city officials at the recent meeting of the Common Council, and he was so favorably impressed that he wrote the following editorial comment:

It might be a wise step for the committee recently appointed by the Board of Trade of this city to visit Plainfield with a view of inspecting the various methods which are doing so much in the way of adding to its attractiveness as a place of residence, as well as establishing a healthy home trade.

Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, is in favor of taxing all the bicycles owned in that city. As he has said so in his annual message, it is proper to infer that he doesn't want to be re-elected mayor.—Elizabeth Journal.

$2 for Leaving a Horse Untied.

McCormick Caufield, Harry Roberts, and William Vevius, all of this city, were arraigned before Recorder Thomas Monday afternoon charged with leaving their horses untied in the borough. Each man was fined $2 and the money was paid. This makes six persons in all that were arrested and fined Monday and $14 was collected.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

KING OF BUNCO STEERERS LIVED IN PLAINFIELD.

NOTABLE CAPTURE OF ONE OF THE MOST NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS IN THE COUNTRY.

Resides With His Wife on Carlton Avenue—His Bosom Partner, Who Also Lives Here, is Still at Liberty, But is Much Wanted by the Police.

Two Plainfielders, charged with buncoing the farmers of the eastern and New England States out of many hundreds of thousands of dollars, have been the object of a relentless pursuit for the last two weeks by two detectives from Jersey City. Monday night, one of the men, George Spencer, who has been living on Carleton avenue for the last year, was arrested in Philadelphia. The other man, Louis Ludlum, of 1002 Putnam avenue, has escaped. The police of the eastern states consider the arrest one of the most important made for many months.

Spencer has been indicted in seven teen different States on the charge of buncoing rich old farmers out of their thousands of savings. He has, in each case, jumped his bail. He is now particularly wanted at Lowell, Mass., of a similar charge, where he gave bail for $18,500 in cash and then disappeared. The detectives have been on his trail since then and have now, with the assistance of the Jersey City authorities and Chief Grant, of this city, run him to earth.

For a number of years the police of the different cities through New England and the eastern states have learned of many cases of a successful working of a bunco scheme, the three-card monte trick and the gold brick game being the preferred methods employed. It was evident that there was an organized gang of the bunco-steerers who had entered the business and conducted it in a wholesale manner. They did not confine their operations to the east alone, but frequently visited the rich farming districts of the west, usually with success. The bunco-men were constantly on the alert. They conducted their affairs so that it was almost impossible to locate them.

Behind these expert swindlers was a syndicate worth, it is estimated, over $1,000,000. They had studied the business and did their jobs thoroughly. They are accounted the most clever swindlers in the country. There was a gang of eight men, it is claimed, who worked together throughout the country. They spared no expense to carry out their schemes. In the gang were two men who are particularly noted throughout the country as being the leaders of the bunco men. One was George Spencer, also known as John Reed, who is looked on by the different detective bureaus of the country as the king of bunco steerers.

The other was "Little Lou" Ludlum, his trusty lieutenant, who knew the game from A to Z. They have worked together and have been the brains of the gang. They directed the movements of the rest and have worked the biggest hauls themselves with the assistance of others of the gang.

Both men have been caught and indicted. They were placed under bonds which they proceeded to jump without delay. Their pictures are in the Rogue's Gallery of the principal cities of the country.

They went about the work of buncoing the farmers in a very systematic way. They spared no expense to make their plans as complete as possible. They even went so far as to publish a paper which they circulated through the districts in which they intended to work. The paper told of various items of news relating to the farms and their owners in the neighborhood.

The last offence of the bunco-men brought them into trouble. It was in the vicinity of Lowell, Mass. One farmer lost $3,500 and the other $2,600. The swindlers were pursued. Ludlum rode down the constable that tried to stop him and escaped. Spencer escaped by covering his pursuers with a revolver, but was afterwards captured at a neighboring town, word having been sent ahead by telephone. Spencer was put under $18,500 bail, which was put up in cash. He disappeared, leaving the bail.

T. J. Whitney, a State detective from Massachusetts, was put on his trail. He found that Spencer had gone to Jersey City and notified the police of that city. Chief Murphy, of the Jersey City force, took the case in hand. Detectives B. H. Piersen and Michael McNally, of the force, were detailed on the case.

Spencer was not caught in Jersey City. He was traced to this city, however. Chief Grant was put on the case. With the assistance of the Jersey City detectives, he started an investigation. Both Spencer and Ludlum were discovered to be residents of this city. They did not remain here, however. The detectives continued on their trail. They set a lively chase through the neighboring states. It was learned that they were preparing to take their departure for Europe. The pursuit had grown too hot. They wanted to reach some place of safety.

The pursuit began eight days ago. The bunco men did not dare to remain in any city for any length of time. They paid a flying visit to this city. Their preparations for the trip abroad were hurried. Monday they went to Philadelphia. The detectives were close on their track. They telegraphed to the Philadelphia authorities. Spencer was arrested Monday night by Chief Detective Miller, of the Philadelphia force. Ludlum went another way and escaped arrest. He is still being pursued.

Ludlum lived on Putnam avenue, corner of Richmond street, in the house formerly occupied by John Mortimer. His wife lived with him. There were no children. The house was handsomely furnished. Ludlum made a number of acquaintances and was well liked by all who knew him. He always had plenty of money.

Spencer lived in greater style on Carlton avenue. His family consisted only of his wife. They had a large corps of servants, a coachman, a footman and a butler. The house was magnificantly furnished. They kept several horses and carriages. Spencer always promptly paid his bills and seemed to have plenty of money.

Chief Grant has been working on the case for the last week. He secured all the information about the families of the two men. Through information he secured, the Jersey City detectives were greatly aided. They spoke very highly of his assistance.

A reporter of The Daily Press called Tuesday at the house occupied by Ludlum and his wife at 1002 Putnam avenue. He was ushered into a richly furnished parlor, and in a few minutes Mrs. Ludlum appeared.

She refused to make any statement whatever regarding her husband's business or his present whereabouts.

The house of Spencer, on Carlton avenue, was next visited, but the colored maid who came to the door said that Mrs. Spencer had gone out for a walk early in the morning and had not yet returned.

She had not seen Mr. Spencer in the house since the day he rented the property last fall.

His wife had stated to the help that her husband was ill in another city, and had gone away, ostensibly to visit him on several occasions.

A despatch from Philadelphia says: Reed, alias Greenhalge, was arrested here under the name of Geo. Spencer. A woman was arrested with him, but was not held. His trunk and other effects were taken to Police Headquarters and examined.

Reed was arrested at the Reading terminal station on the arrival of a train from New York. Whitney traced him to New York, and finding he had fled, notified the police here. The woman who was arrested was traveling as his wife.

DECORATED IN HOLLY AND ROSES

A Charming Afternoon Tea Given by Mrs. John F. Harman.

Mrs. John F. Harman gave an afternoon tea at her home, 505 West Eighth street, from 4 to 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The house was beautifully decorated with holly and roses, the blossoms used in the hall and dining room being red and those in the reception room white, the guests were received by Mrs. Harman, were pink. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Gray, her brother's bride; Mrs. David H. Rowland, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mrs. George A. Strong, Mrs. William E. Lowe, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Frederick H. Mead and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks.

Tea was served in the dining room to all the guests. The following young ladies assisted in serving it: The Misses Edith Tracy, Nellie Whiton, Gertrude Wais, Florence Abbott, Gertrude Baker, Lotta Lowe and Mabel Pierson.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we see the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Off on a Hunting Trip.

S. B. Wheeler and John Darby, in company with their valuable dogs, left Saturday morning for North Carolina where they will spend a time hunting game. They went by the way of Washington over the Royal Blue Line.

FIELD WORKERS' TO MEET

SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS WILL GATHER IN THIS CITY.

The Local Arrangements in Charge of Plainfield Sunday-School Superintendents—Elaborate Programme Arranged.

The sixth annual conference of the International Sunday-school Field Workers' Association, will be held in this city January 18th, 19th and 20th. The sessions of the Conference will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building with two exceptions: Tuesday evening, First Baptist church; Thursday evening, First Presbyterian church. The local arrangements are in the hands of the Sunday-school superintendents of Plainfield. The executive committee consists of Alfred Day, Deer Park, Ont., president; Marion Lawrance, Toledo, O., vice-president; Miss Mary F. Huber, Louisville, Ky., secretary and treasurer; Prof. H. M. Hamill, Jacksonville, Ill., C.D. Meigs, Indianapolis, Ind., Rev. C. J. Kephart, D. D., Trenton, Mo., Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, Trenton, N. J.

Below will be found the official and complete programme for the conference:

Tuesday Evening, January 18th.

8:00 Greeting—Welcome to City—Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D.
From the State Association—Dr. Geo. W. Bailey, Wenonah, President.

8:15 Responses from Members.

8:45 Address: International Work—B. F. Jacobs, Chicago, Ill., Chairman International Executive Committee.
Wednesday Morning.

9:00 Bible Reading—W. J. Semeiroth, St. Louis, Mo.

9:25 Address by the President—Alfred Day, Deer Park, Ont.

9:45 Report of the Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Mary F. Huber, Louisville, Ky.

10:15 Conference on Practical Methods.
(a) Economy in Administration.
(b) Securing Individual Subscriptions—Dr. Geo. W. Bailey, Wenonah, N. J.
(c) Developing County Revenues.
(d) International Rally Day—C.D. Meigs, Indianapolis, Ind.
W. dnesday Afternoon.

2:15 Topic—Statistics—
Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, Trenton, N.J., Chas. L. Weaver, Chicago, Ill., W. B. Jacobs, Chicago, Ill.—Committee.

3:15 Conference on County Organization—Conducted by Geo. H. Archibald, Montreal, Que.

4:00 Topic: City Organization.
(a) Function of City Organization.
(b) How to enlist the co-operation of city schools.
(c) Organizing city districts.
(d) Union Teachers' Meeting.
Wm. Randolph, St. Louis, Mo., Rev. Alex. Henry, Philadelphia, Pa., L. T. Woodcock, Chicago, Ill., Jerome F. Johnson, Washington, D. C., H. J. Heinz, Pittsburg, Pa.—Committee.
Wednesday Evening.

8:00 Addresses—Work for Sparsely Settled Sections.
Rev. S. S. Eddy, Syracuse, N.Y.
Alfred Day, Deer Park, Ont.

9:00 Address—The Spiritual Side of Convention Work—Rev. Aquila Lucas, Sussex, N. B.

Thursday Morning.

9:30 Topic—Association Newspaper Methods.
(a) Business Management—A. H. Cross, Toledo, O.
(b) Editorial Management—Open Conference.

10:30 Topic: The Home Department as a Feature of State Work.
Rev. U. Myers, Catawissa, Pa.
Rev. L. D. Stultz, Westville, N. J.
Dr. J. G. M. Fisher, Marysville, O.

11:00 Reports of Committees.
Thursday Afternoon.

2:00 Devotional Service—Israel P. Black, Philadelphia, Pa.

2:15 Topic: House-to-House Visitation—Marion Lawrance, Toledo, O.

3:15 Topic: Primary Organization.
(a) A Message from the Central Committee of the International Primary Union.
(b) The State Primary Department—Mrs. Anna Johnson Semeiroth, St. Louis, Mo.
(c) The State Primary Council.
In New Jersey—Rev. E. Morris Fergusson.
In Pennsylvania—Mrs. J. W. Barnes.
Thursday Evening.

8:00 Address—The Educational Possibilities of Association Work.
Prof. H. M. Hamill, Jacksonville, Ill

8:30 Brief farewell addresses.

Immediately after the Conference, the following additional meetings are to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building:

Tuesday, January 18th, 10 a. m.
Annual meeting of the New Jersey State Executive Committee.

Wednesday, January 19th, 3 p. m.
Meeting of the Central Committee, International Primary Union.

Friday, January 21st, 9 a. m.
Annual Meeting of the New Jersey State Primary Council.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Ca'arrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Executor of "Tommy's" Estate.

E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, has been made executor of the estate of the late "Tommy" Fitzgerald, who died at the hospital Friday.

Coughs That Kill

are not distinguished by any mark or sign from coughs that fail to be fatal. Any cough, neglected, may sap the strength and undermine the health until recovery is impossible. All coughs lead to lung trouble, if not stopped.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Cures Coughs

"My wife was suffering from a dreadful cough. We did not expect that she would long survive, but Mr. R. V. Royal, deputy surveyor, happened to be stopping with us over night, and having a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with him, induced my wife to try this remedy. The result was so beneficial that she kept on taking it till she was cured." R. S. HUMPHRIES, Sussey, Ga.

"My little daughter was taken with a distressing cough, which for three years defied all the remedies I tried. At length, on the urgent recommendation of a friend, I began to give her Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After using one bottle I found to my great surprise that she was improving. Three bottles completely cured her."

J. A. GRAY,
Trav. Salesman Wrought Iron Range Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is put up in half-size bottles at half price—50 cents.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections and general decline and weakness, loss of flesh and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death. Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 96 Pine street, New York, giving postoffice and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

Large Attendance at Trinity Church.

Rev. Dr. Schenck was greeted by a large audience Sunday morning, and also again at the evening service. He repaid the large congregations present by excellent discourses. The Sunday-school had an attendance of 328, within two of high-water mark.

To Take New Offices.

McNabb & Clark have engaged a suite of offices in the Marsh building on Park avenue, and will give up their present quarters in the City National Bank building in a short time. Their new offices are on the second floor on the Park avenue side of the building.

Justice Mosher's Court.

A summons was issued from Justice Mosher's court on Saturday in the case of Bush against Wolf, on contract. The case will be heard on Friday.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:30, 5, 8:30 p.m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:30 and 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:40 a. m., and 4:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA, Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m.
Close—1:30, 9:30 p. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 8:30 p. m.

WARRENVILLIN

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

O. M. HETFIELD, P M

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 34, 8 02, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06, 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 36 p. m. Sunday, 12 06 night.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 6 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 15 night. Sunday, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 15 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 6 48, 7 18, 8 18, 9 48, 11 18 a. m., 12 48, 2 18, 3 48, 5 18, 6 48, 7 48, 9 18, 10 48, 11 48 p. m. Sunday, 12 48 night.

Leave Newark 6 15, 7 15, 8 03 [illegible] 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 a. m., 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 p. m. Sunday, 7 15, 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 a. m., 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6 48, 7 18, 8 18, 9 48, 11 18 a. m., 12 48, 2 18, 3 48, 5 18, 6 48, 7 48, 9 18, 10 48, 11 48 p. m. Sunday, 12 48 night.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday at 8 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 6 48, 8 18, 9 48 a. m., 12 48, 4 56, 6 48, 9 18, 11 48 p. m. Sunday, 12 48 night.

Leave Easton at 7 05, 9 25, 11 35 a. m., 4 04, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 25, 11 35 a. m., 7 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 54 a. m.; 5 05, 8 35 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 48 a. m.—For Bethlehem, Easton, Phillipsburg, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin and Mt. Carmel.

7 18 a. m.—For Easton, Phillipsburg, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin and Mt. Carmel, connecting at Junction for Flemington, Lehighton, Mauch Chunk, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Mauch Chunk.

8 18 a. m.—For Easton, Phillipsburg, Lambertville, Trenton, Bristol, Morrisville, Tullytown, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Sandcoke, and Upper Lehigh points, Reading & Columbia R. R. for Mauch Chunk.

9 06 a. m.—Way for Easton, Phillipsburg, Junction for stations on D., L. & W. R. R.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, Lehighton, Mauch Chunk, Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Manch Chunk.

4 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Pottsville and Upper Lehigh points.

6 48 and 9 18 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Mauch Chunk.

9 18 and 9 15 p. m.—Way for Easton connecting at High Bridge for Flemington.

9 18 p. m.—For Flemington, Lehighton, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Manch Chunk.

11 48 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Mauch Chunk.

7 48 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Manch Chunk, Pottsville and Upper Lehigh points.

9 06 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Manch Chunk, Pottsville and Upper Lehigh points.

9 54 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Harrisburg.

4 56 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Hazleton, Manch Chunk, Pottsville and Upper Lehigh points.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 8 28, 8 [illegible] 9 28 a. m., 12 28, 4 28, 5 28, 6 28, 7 28 p. m. Sunday, 8 28, 9 28 a. m., 2 28 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and Intermediate points, 7 28, 10 28 a. m., 1 28, 3 28, 5 28, 6 28, 7 28 p. m. Sundays, 8 28 a. m., 4 28 p. m.

For Atlantic City at 11 28 a. m.

For Freehold, 9 28, 8 [illegible] 10 28 a. m., 4 28 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 9 28, 10 28, 10 45 a. m., to Lakewood, 1 28 p. m. Sundays 9 28 a. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Washington, 12 [illegible] 48, 10 54 a. m., 2 37, 4 08, 6 08, 7 37, 9 37, 11 37 night. Sundays, 3 37, 6 08, 9 37, 11 37 p. m.

For Trenton, 8 15, 7 15, 8 54, 9 37, 10 54 a. m., 12 15, 2 37, 4 08, 6 08, 7 37, 9 37, 11 37 p. m. Sundays, 8 37, 8 54, 9 37 a. m., 12 15 p. m., 3 37, 6 08, 9 37, 11 37 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington, 12 [illegible] 48, 10 54 a. m., 2 37, 4 08, 6 08, 7 37, 9 37, 11 37 p. m. Sundays, 3 37, 6 08, 9 37, 11 37 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, daily at 9 54 a. m. Sundays, 9 54 a. m., 8 15 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance of starting, to the ticket agent at the station.

I. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

In effect November 14, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 44 a. m. 1 and 9 25 p. m. daily. Sunday 8 02 a. m. and 9 25 p. m. Local for Bound Brook.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and intermediate stations.

11 54 a. m., 3 34 and 7 39 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 22 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 58 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin and principal intermediate stations.

6 25 p. m. daily. Local for Easton.

7 32 and 9 36 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 32 p. m. daily except Sunday, fast line to Buffalo.

3 15 p. m. Sundays, local for Easton.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 48, 7 18, 43 and 9 40 a. m., 2 20, 4 43 and 7 10 p. m. Express 8 08 a. m. and 12 05 noon and 7 10 p. m.

7 26, 8 27, 10 02 a. m., 12 17, 5 01, 7 07 and 9 03 p. m. Sunday 7 25 a. m., 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate points 6 48, 7 26, 10 05 a. m., 12 16, 2 22, 5 25, 6 20 and 7 30 p. m. Sunday 8 00 and 9 10 a. m., 5 20 and 10 p. m.

For further information consult Ticket Agents.

Gen'l. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.

S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.

Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMACHER,
Asst. General Passenger Agt.

Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and 23d street.

SANTA LATE, BUT JOLLY

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES HELD AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

An Appropriate Programme Rendered—Miss Miller Presented With a Handsome Easy Chair—Gifts for the Children.

The members of the Sunday-school of St. Joseph's church and their friends met Sunday afternoon in the Sunday-school room of the church and enjoyed their annual Christmas festivities. There was the usual large attendance and a very pleasant time was furnished. The first part of the programme consisted of the following selections:

Recitations, Percy Bailey, Edward Neely, Marie Keaney; chorus, "Over Nelson's Stairs Plain;" recitation, "Christmas in Cromwell's Time," Eugene Beglin; recitation, "Three Little Toadstools," Chas. Hartfelder, Annie Daly, Percy Hand; recitation, "Christmas Morning," Florence Smith; "Bell Song," Laura Smith, Florence Smith, May Neely, Agnes Bailey, Kittie Conshee, May Denham, L. Conshee, Irene Dushane, Mary Seal, May Carney; recitations, Willie McCullough, Francis LaPorte, Thomas Hand, Agnes Bailey, Grover Gates, Clara Smith, May Neely, Ettie Conshee, Stella Mang; chorus, "We Can Tell" and "With Hearts Truly Grateful." The music was under the direction of James Bailey and Miss Justina Smith. The latter presided at the organ.

The latter part of the entertainment was devoted to Santa Claus in the person of James Bailey. He presented each scholar with a box of candy, thus making them happy. He was assisted by Father Miller with a handsome easy chair on behalf of the teachers and scholars of the school. Father Miller thanked one and all for the gift.

After the above was enjoyed those in charge served the children with ice cream and cake, and thus a very happy time came to an end.

PLAYED CARDS AND DINED.

Miss Florence Huntington Entertained in a Pleasant Manner.

Miss Florence Huntington gave an afternoon tea from 4 until 7 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and a progressive euchre party Saturday evening at her home, 234 Franklin place, in honor of Miss Emma Sahler.

The house was prettily decorated with greens and the tea table was trimmed with red. Those who assisted in receiving were Miss Minnie Wood, Miss Ehrle, Misses Elizabeth and Maud VanBoskerck, Miss Lillian Sahler and Miss Grace Cooley. The tea was served by Mrs. Ginna, Mrs. D. T. Ginna, Mrs. A. H. Attebury and Mrs. Lucius Rice.

At the progressive euchre party in the evening a number of prizes were awarded as follows: First ladies' prize, Miss Maud VanBoskerck; second ladies' prize, Miss Wood; booby prize, Mrs. A. H. Attebury; first gentlemen's prize, Karl Pfeiffer; second gentlemen's prize, A. H. Attebury; booby prize, O. G. Waring.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Berlin, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

The last free lectures in practical cooking, under the auspices of the Standard School of Cookery, at Y. M. C. A. Hall, take place Friday and Saturday, 2:30 p. m. Bring spoon, napkin and note book.

Free Medical Advice

Do you understand just what Dr. J. C. Ayer's medicines will do for you? Are they helping you as fast as you think they ought? Write to our doctor. He will answer all questions, and give you the best medical advice, absolutely free.

Address the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

A BLUE LINER IN PERIL

Running a Mile a Minute a Tire Left a Driving Wheel.

THERE WERE NO SERIOUS RESULTS.

The Steel Missile Punched the Steam Pipes on the Locomotive and Caused Some Damage to a Combination Car—Three Men Were Slightly Injured—Train Delayed One Hour and a Half.

The breaking of a tire to one of the huge driving wheels on a Blue Line locomotive at Netherwood Sunday noon resulted in the injury of two passengers, the fireman and the partial demoralisation of the locomotive itself and one of the coaches. That the results of the accident were not more serious, is one of the things for which the passengers of that train can be very thankful.

Every morning a Royal Blue line limited train leaves the Jersey City terminal of the Jersey Central Railroad at 11:42 o'clock to make the trip to Washington in five hours. The train is not scheduled to stop until it reaches Wayne Junction. Yesterday the train made a stop which was not on the schedule. It is considered one of the fastest trains on the road. It usually passes through Plainfield at 12:15, going at the rate of seventy miles an hour.

Sunday, as usual, the train was drawn by engine 450, the one which was on exhibition at the World's Fair. It was in charge of engineer Charles Houston, of Somerville. Frank McManus, of Jersey City, was the fireman. The train was in charge of Conductor John Merkata, of Bound Brook, one of the oldest conductors on the road.

With one hand on the throttle, Engineer Houston sat in the right hand side of the cab gazing steadily at the tracks ahead. The train was right on time as it passed Fanwood and also at Netherwood. McManus was occupying the other side of the cab. The train had just passed the Netherwood station, and the passengers were getting their first glimpse of Plainfield, when something happened. Above the roar of the train, Houston heard a smash. The sound of escaping steam followed. With great promptitude the engineer applied the emergency brakes. The speed of the train slackened and the train finally came to a standstill just east of the Park avenue bridge.

Engine 450 has two driving wheels on each side in which it differs from the so-called "bicycle" engines. For some inexplicable reason the tire to the rear driver broke into several pieces and went careering off on their own account. The speed of the train at the time of the accident gave them great velocity and force. The tire altogether weighed nearly a thousand pounds.

Fireman McManus heard the crash and the next instant he was thrown against the top of the cab with great violence. He fell in a heap on the floor of the cab, partially dazed. His head was considerably bruised. One portion of the tire crashed into the part of the locomotive directly above and behind it. Water and steam pipes were cut and that part of the machinery wrecked. The steam from the broken pipes rushed out with much force, half-blinding the fireman when he attempted to look out and see the cause of the trouble.

Directly behind the locomotive was the combination baggage and smoking car, the smoking compartment being first. U. Nessi, chef at the Hotel Castleton, New Brighton, S. I., was sitting in the front seat on the left hand side. It was Nessi's first trip over the road and he was admiring the beautiful country. His face was close to the window. There was a crash ahead and Nessi looked that way. Suddenly something big went by the window. With it the glass and part of the sash disappeared. A shower of fragments of glass struck Nessi in the face His nose and cheeks were cut by the glass. A quantity of it went down his back. A fragment of the steel tire had carried away the window.

After striking the window the steel fragment rebounded and struck the car again about in the middle. John Wymer, of Sunbury, Pa., was occupying a seat on the left side of the car behind. He saw something strike the window by the little Frenchman and heard him yell. Wymer made a dive for the other side of the car. As he dove the steel fragment came through the side of the car and knocked the seat out from under him. His left leg was cut below the knee. A hole was torn in the side of the car four feet high and two feet wide. The seat was wrecked.

The excited piece of steel still went on. It darted for an eastbound coal train that was passing. A small coal car was wrecked by the contact. The fragment of the tire continued its flight over in a neighboring field where it half buried itself in the soil.

The passengers heard the crash and became greatly excited. The little Frenchman in the first car was so frightened that he could not say a word at first. Everybody was shaken up by the sudden application of the brakes. When the train stopped most of the passengers jumped out to see the cause of the trouble. Engineer Houston remained at his post as cool and composed as if nothing had happened. His fireman was still dazed.

As soon as the news of the accident reached the North Avenue station, Owen Smith, who was in charge of the telegraph station, sent word to Jersey City. Engine number 1027, of the Atlantic City Railroad, was started from Jersey City to take the train to Philadelphia. Engine 450 was not in condition to continue and was sent back to Jersey City for repairs. The combination car was taken out of the train and left on a siding. The passengers were transferred to the other coaches. The two Blue Line coaches and the Pullman parlor car, which composed the rest of the train, were sent on to Washington at 1:20 o'clock, drawn by engine 1027.

Nessi recovered sufficiently before the train started to tell a reporter his story and explain what an unpleasant thing glass was to have down the back. He did not care to sit down. The wounds on his face bled freely at first. They were not serious. He closed his eyes in time to prevent any of the fragments of glass from entering them.

IN MEMORY OF A CHRISTIAN,

HEAVENLY REST CHURCH TABLET.

Dedicated to the Late Charles S. Lewis Who Died Worked Earnestly for the Episcopalians.

Sunday morning at the Church of the Heavenly Rest the service was of unusual interest. It was a memorial service in honor of the late Charles S. Lewis, lay reader at the church. Rev. Edward S. True, rector of All Saints' church, Scotch Plains, was in charge of the service. A beautiful tablet had been placed in the wall near the front of the church, bearing the following inscription: "In memoriam, Charles S. Lewis, born July 10th, 1838, died September 28th, 1897. As the founder of this church, and for many years a trustee, he showed by his courage and exemplary Christian conduct, a character for us to emulate."

Dr. True made a short address following the presentation of the tablet by William Moore, Francis Moore, A. H. Leivers, Mr. Morgan and Charles Graves, trustees of the church. The doctor's remarks were very interesting and he spoke kind and loving words regarding the life of the departed brother who accomplished so much for the church During the service several hymns were rendered by the congregation that were favorites of the departed.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's ,Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents, sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Funeral of a Young Woman.

The funeral services of the late Miss Alice VanHorn were held Sunday afternoon from Warren chapel and was largely attended. Rev. Dr. W. H. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Ave nue church, had charge of the services and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved ones. He also spoke of the Christian character of the departed and of her patience through suffering. There was a large and beautiful display of floral tributes from many friends. Interment was in Hillside cemetery

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping cough will do well to read what Dr. B. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject, He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Funeral of Peter E. See.

The funeral services of the late Peter E. See were held yesterday afternoon from the house on Somerset street. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated and spoke words of praise regarding the true and upright life of the departed. This morning the body was taken to Sleepy Hollow, near Tarrytown, N. Y., where the interment will take placetoday.

Endeavor Officers.

The following are the officers of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Church of Christ: President, Mabel VanMiddlesworth; vice-president, B. W. Hand; treasurer, Henry VanMiddlesworth; recording secretary, Annie V. Fenner; shairmen of committees, lookout, Maggie Moore; social, Mrs. L. E. Wooley; Sunday-school, John H. Stants; flower, Miss E. Fenner.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous

Dyspepsia

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. $1 per bottle. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

A LOCAL Disease

A Climatic Affection

Nothing but a local remedy or change of climate will cure it.

Get a well-known pharmaceutical remedy.

Ely's Cream Balm

It is quickly Absorbed. Gives Relief at once. Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals the Sores. Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. No Cocaine. No Mercury. No Injurious drug. Full Size, 50 cts. Trial Size, 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

STYLE AND FIT GUARANTEED

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for our stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

2 and 5 WEST 18th STREET NEW YORK.

DIED.

FREE—In North Plainfield, Thursday, January 4, 1894, Sarah Free, in the 72nd year.

VAN HORN—At Brooklyn, N. Y., Wednesday, January 3, 1894, Alice M., daughter of William and Margaret VanHorn, aged 18 years.

JONES—In North Plainfield, Thursday Jan. 6, 1894, Mrs. Ewen Jones, aged 54 years.

McDONNELL.—In this city, January 10, 1894, John O. McDonnell, aged 5 years, 6 months and 26 days.

FRITTS—On Tuesday, Jan. 11, 1894, Margaret Burdan, wife of J. J. Fritts and daughter of the late Andrew Furdam.

Who can fail to take advantage of this offer. Send 10 cents to us for a generous trial size or ask your druggist. Ask for Ely's Cream Balm, the most positive catarrh cure. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y City.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave. Chicago, Ill.

A Plainfield Author.

The January number of Godey's magazine contains a very interesting little story by W. Hull Western, of Fairview avenue, entitled "Nobody's Fault." It is a little skit on a newly-married couple's first "difference." It is very amusing.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS COPYRIGHTS,

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt, answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & Co., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and are thus brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address

MUNN & Co., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. BOWNE LOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable,

Townsend's Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engraved your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I pay cash for Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and thanks to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I can under a very small expense in running my shop, pay more attention to the finish of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I can under a very small expense in running my shop, pay more attention to the finish of my work to the customer, and I personally attend to the setting of all work and look upon business as first class. Good Work, and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my patronage, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-chancery, Notary Public. Office Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILL

[illegible] and Nervous [illegible]. They purify the blood, and act with wonderful power upon the system.

CURE DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES

SALESMEN WANTED

To sell our high grade Inspected Nursery stock. Many new specialties offered this year for the first time as well as the standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms, stating age, etc.

Wormer, Bro. & Thomas, Maple Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work, we can give you employment with GOOD PAY, and you can work all or part time, and at home or traveling. The work is easy to learn, and we will explain it for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y. 9 94

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all causes.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9[illegible]7

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

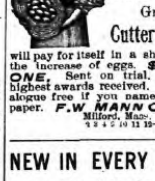
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.



What a Lot of Eggs the hens lay when fed a Green Cut Bone. With a Green bone Mann's Green Bone Cutter will pay for itself in a short time in the increase of eggs. $5 BUYS ONE. Sent on trial. 180 highest awards received. Catalogue free if you name this paper. F.W. MANN CO., Milford, Mass.

3 24 5 10 12 19—7 mos.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

THE NATIVE HAWAIIAN.

His Life Free of Labors and Free From Care—Sort of a Holiday Existence.

The native Hawaiian is a gentleman of leisure. Life to him is a perpetual holiday, and, as a native of paradise, why should he fret about the dull cares of this world? Nature has spread a bounteous feast for him, and like Adam of old, he has only to pluck the fruit which grows without toil, eat and breathe.

The national food of the native is poi, fish, and pork. Poi is made from taro root, a water plant, boiled and beaten to a pulp of the consistency of gruel, and allowed to slightly ferment, when it is very nutritious. The native's table is a mat spread upon the floor or ground, on which the poi, roast pig and fish are placed in separate calabashes. Squatted or sitting cross-legged about this sumptuous feast the Kanakas proceed to regale themselves, scorning the use of knives and forks. Their dessert is the papaya, oranges, bananas, bread-fruit, strawberries, and other fruit of the tropics.

The primitive Kanaka home is made of grass. There are many grass houses left on the islands. The home is very simple, but at the same time neat. The house is without any means of heating or cooking. The former is never necessary and all the cooking is done in the imu, or pit dug in the earth, where the pig, fish and beef are baked with heated stones, while the boiling is done in pots over a camp fire made for the purpose.

About one half of a grass house is raised to about two and a half feet, cushioned with a mattress on it for a bed, while the remainder is the bare earth. The raised part affords a seat during the day and a bed at night. Here the entire family and visitors, without regard to age or sex, sleep side by side.

The grass-house is said to be not only proof against those troublesome insects, the mosquitoes, but capable of turning rain.—Godey's Magazine.

CRAB THAT ACTS AS DOORKEEPER.

It Has the Instinct of a Watch Dog and Never Rarely Makes a Mistake.

In the West Indies the natives train a rare species of crab to act as a servant. This animal is about the size of a football. One of its claws is nearly as big as the rest of the body. The crab has a fashion of raising this limb in such a way as to give the impression that it beckons or threatens.

In appearance it is a very formidable brute, possessing enormous eyes and feelers. It takes up its position at the front door of the house, and acts in every way like a watchdog, and every bit as faithfully. It is possessed of wonderful strength, speed and stamina easily overtaking an enemy not possessed of sprinting powers.

Its instinct is very acute and it is rarely at fault in spotting a person who approaches the house with any evil intention. Woe to the intruder if he gets into the clutches of the merciless doorkeeper. It will require a sledge hammer to extricate him from the embrace.

This crab is of a very affectionate disposition toward members of the household, and plays with children with the gentleness of an English retriever. It is highly prized by natives on account of its usefulness as a house defender, and is very costly to buy.—New York Journal.

BLACK DEAF AND DUMB WONDER.

Claims to Be a Hebrew and Writes the Language of Moses.

There was in Hartford recently a young African negro who claimed to be a Hebrew. He was deaf and dumb and black. He was trying to accumulate enough money to go back to Africa. If he is what he represented himself to be and if what he claims is true, he is quite an interesting character. He carried a pad of paper and a pencil and answered all questions by writing them in Hebrew and Loschen Khodish. What incited the wonder was that he wrote Loschen Khodish very rapidly. It is the language of the books of Moses, and is made a special study of, spoken and written with ease only by the rabbis and highly educated Hebrews.

This negro was sent to one of the rabbis of Hartford, who is perfectly satisfied that he is a Hebrew. He said that he came from a large town in Africa, where there are a tribe of about 20,000 black Hebrews who speak Loschen Khodish and are quite prosperous. He said that his father is a rabbi in that town and that is why his father took the trouble to teach him to write these languages, which needed an extra amount of labor on account of his being deaf and dumb. He said his people do not only write Loschen Kodesh, but it is their speaking language as well. His great surprise was that no Hebrew knows of his countrymen in Africa.—Hartford Courant.

A Canard.

Pluggs—See here, Muggs, what the deuce do you mean by going around saying that I'm a liar, eh?

Muggs—I never said so, my dear boy. Not at all. All I said was that you could be thoroughly depended upon to tell the truth whenever there was any money in it.

Selfish.

Perkins — Why do you consider Vokes selfish?

Jorkins—He thinks that everything is for the best, and considers himself the best.—New York Journal.

Wilton—Do you agree with David that all men are liars.

Wilby—How can I tell? Just think of the number of men that I never saw!—Boston Transcript.

SELLS RICE FOR A LIVING.

a Woman Whose Clients Include Some of Europe's Great Physicians.

Verily one half the world does not know how the other half lives. Equally true is it that never before were there so many curious ways of making a living as there are at present. There have been physicians in Paris for several centuries, but not until quite recently did any of them think it necessary to make a contract by the terms of which they are to receive a certain number of mice during the current year. The general public was rather surprised when it heard of this contract, for the reason that the physicians, who act in this matter as a committee of the Faculty of Medicine, agree to pay a good price for the mice, whereas there are many persons in Paris who would be only too glad to make the doctors a present of these pernicious little animals. Physicians, however, know what they are about. They want mice, but they don't want ordinary, everyday mice. Only cultured, well fed, dainty mice will suit them, and they have given the contract to Mme. Alexandre, because they know that she is the only person in Paris who can supply on demand any number of such desirable animals.

Yes, Mme. Alexandre's business in life is to furnish mice to Richet, Chantemesse and several other leading specialists in Paris and elsewhere. She also keeps rabbits and guinea pigs, but mice are her specialty. It is fifteen years since she first began to supply animals to the Pasteur Institute, the Municipal Laboratory and several other such places. She has deadly any competitors, and she has more orders than she can well fill. She feeds her mice exclusively on bread and milk. Her clients insist that the animals must be white and plump, and she finds this diet the best for them. When they arrive here they are old they are ready for the doctors, and she seldom has any on hand after that age. She disposes of these hapless victims, not only to her regular clients in Paris, but also to several persons in London and Geneva. The little mice are well able to stand a long journey, and they are as fresh when they arrive in London as they were when they left Paris.

Madam is never short of mice. At present she has about a thousand on hand, and as these animals multiply very rapidly she will have double that number in an incredibly short time.—New York Herald.

ANGORA GOATS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Profitable Flocks of Them Raised in Cape Colony.

One of the most lucrative industries in the Karoo districts of South Africa is Angora goat farming, and, although it has only been established for less than forty years, the Cape kids fair to become the most important centre of mohair production in the world. Early attempts to import this goat from Angora were attended with great loss of money and great disappointment, nearly all the goats dying either on the way to the Cape or very soon after landing, in fact, of the early importations only a very small number survived. But in 1879, a large importation was successfully made by three different firms or individuals, who landed a large number of pure-bred Angora goats at Port Elizabeth.

The Angora in the colony is not now pure-bred; the original imported rams were crossed with carefully selected pure white Boer goat ewes, and from the succeeding in-breeding the present flocks have sprung, and a fine glossy, silky fleece secured. Indeed, it is acknowledged that mohair can be produced in Cape Colony as perfect in quality and as beautiful in lustre as any produced in Angora itself.

The goat itself is a pretty-looking little animal, looking, with its long white wavy fleece, more like a sheep than a goat. The head, too, no characteristic of the goat, is almost hidden in the long hair about the neck and face. The head is small and narrow, with drooping or "lop" ears. The small body is thickly covered with a beautiful long fleece of white, lustrous, silky hair, which in well-bred goats nearly reaches the ground; and, in addition to this long hair, there is an inferior undercoat of hair, or second coat, which has its own separate market value.—Black and White.

A Positive Parting.

"We have parted forever," said the young man, sadly. "She is never going to even write to me again."

"Are you sure of that?" asked his sympathetic friend.

"Yes. She told me so in each of her last three letters."

The Limit Found.

"There," said the man of schemes, "is a limit to the toleration of the public."

"And you found it?"

"Yup. I met a total frost when I started out with a lecture on 'How I Intend to Find the North Pole.'"—Indianapolis Journal.

Serves Him Right.

Bobby—Uncle Joe, what is a bigamist?

Uncle Joe—A bigamist? He is a man who gets sent to jail for thinking he is smart enough to manage two women at once.—Truth.

"Why are you decorating, Mrs. Murphy?"

"We b'y, Dinny, is coming home the day."

"I thought he was sent up for foive year."

"Yes, but he got a year off for good behavure."

"Sure it must be comfortin' for yez to have a good b'y loike that."—Puck.

BLOUSES DECIDEDLY IN EVIDENCE.

Attaching a Fashionable Feature as Trimming on Gowns.

(By special arrangement with the N.Y. Sun.)

The new dress skirts are in every way commendable for comfort and grace as well. The linings, which it be really up to date must match the outside, are made with a knife-plaited frill set in on the edges entirely without stiffening, and quite separate from the dress skirt except at the waistband Skirts are scant in comparison with those we have been wearing, but they are cut in such a way as to give them the pretty, becoming flare around the feet. The new sleeves are proportionately small, quite close, in fact, with very small puffs or frills at the top The length-wise shirring is not so much used as it was. Every search after exclusive designs and some really new variety in style is met again and again by some form of the ubiquitous blouse. To be sure, it may have a guimpe attachment which is charming, but it is a blouse still, diversified by trimming in all the elaborate, intricate patterns which can be fashioned.

It is of no use to protest against this style of bodice, for apparently there is nothing else to have except the close-fitting coat bodice, tailor made, and the boero, which is to be worn again this season, with the additional blouse vest. It appears some of the latest cloth gowns, either high in the neck or cut V, or round in shape, to show the under bodice. The lower edge is usually cut out in blunt points or squares. The arm-holes are finished with narrow, plain epaulettes, and the whole jacket is braided in the most fascinating manner. Revers of velvet are the finish on some of the new boleros, but with braiding all over they are very pretty, with only a row of buttons down either side of the front.

Stitching is decidedly a distinctive feature of dress trimmings, and is applied to velvet, cloth, satin, and the thinnest materials. Cloth gowns are stitched in straight lines or curling designs all over the blouse bodice and around the panels in the skirt, very much like some of the patterns worked out on the old-fashioned bed quilts. Shirring on cloth and velvet is done in a very clever manner for all sorts of trimming, and velvet which has been gathered on the machine and the stitches in which have been pulled out, leaving only the effect, is sold by the yard. Narrow bias bands of satin stitched on in rows on the skirts and bodices are unmistakably the fashion this season, as fashion is represented at the moment, and the only argument against them—for they are very effective—is the possibility that they will become very common, in poor satin and careless work. To be pretty the satin must be of good quality and perfectly put on.

THE CZAR AND THE DOLLS.

Emperor "Nicky" Had a Strong Desire to Understand Their Mechanism.

As every one knows, M. Faure was bearer of some extraordinary Paris dolls to the little Grand Duchess Olga when he went to St. Petersburg recently, but now comes the droll story of the reception given them by the Emperor himself. The baby Grand Duchess, it seems, was not more entranced than her august papa with these sweet dollies who carried on a squeaky dialogue as between mother and child, but after an hour passed in their society nurse was obliged to take the little Princess to bed, and the Emperor was then left alone with the two clever artificial ladies. In an adjoining room the Empress, M. Faure and some ladies and gentlemen of the court were talking, when suddenly a strange noise like that of an infernal machine was heard, followed by a loud exclamation of dismay. Everybody rushed to see what it was. There was the Czar safe and sound, but with a dismal face, looking at the dolls, which he had partly undressed, to find ou. the secret hidden in their bosoms, while the dolls were chattering away as though they would never stop! The gentle Empress quite lost her temper; snatching up the doll nearest to her, which the precious ladies were standing she gave it to a gentleman near her, "Please take it away," she cried, "it is too bad. Indeed; the Emperor spoils everything he touches," but as "Nicky" looked very penitent and the situation was so funny, she could not help laughing. "You see how it is," said the Emperor, "I am not permitted to talk with my own daughter's doll!" At this sally the company laughed heartily, and peace was at once restored. It is hoped that Miss Olga's new possession will be no interference to her studies or, at least, the French people will send another doll for the Emperor's own entertainment.—Boston Herald.

THE USE OF THE GREAT TOE.

It Serves the Negroes of the West Indies in Climbing.

The negroes of the West Indies use the great toe constantly in climbing. Several years ago, while spending some time at one of the famous resorts in Jamaica, a writer in the Overland Monthly says: I had an opportunity to observe the skill with which the black women, and girls, carried, most of the menial labor, carried stone, mortar and other building materials on their heads to the top of a five-story tower, in a part of the hotel not then finished.

Much of the unerring accuracy with which they (women and girls) chased down the steep hills, or, bearing long ladders, with heavy loads skillfully poised on their woolly pates, was due to the firmness with which they grasped each rung of the ladders with the great toe. They did not place the ball or the hollow of the foot on the rung, but the groove at the juncture of the great toe with the body of the foot, and they held fast by making the back of the other toes afford the other gripping surface. In much the same way the Abyssinian native cavalry grasp the stirrup. A splendid type is one-armed Santo Domingan black, astride the near ox in a wheel yoke, guiding a lead mule with a rein held between his great and second toes, while his only arm was devoted to cracking his teamster's whip.

Settled the Question of Age.

D. W. Caldwell, the late President of the Lake Shore, and John F. Miller, general superintendent of the southwest system of the Pennsylvania, were friends all their lives, but there was one thing on which they could never agree, and that was as to which was the older. One day they were driving up to Caldwell's country home in a buggy.

"Jack," said the Lake Shore man, "you have always insisted that I am older than you."

"Why, of course, I was born in—

"That's all right, John; if you are younger than I am suppose you open the gate."

Without a word Mr. Miller climbed from the buggy, opened the gate, and Mr. Caldwell drove through. And then he did not stop, but went on to the house, leaving Mr. Miller to follow through the dark and mud as best he could. When the house was reached the soil was scraped off Mr. Miller and nothing more was said. He had proved that he was the younger man of the two.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Redmen on the Matrimonial Question.

Two items are furnished by our red brothers on the wood apropos of the matrimonial question. One, Black Hawk, the wife of Black Hawk, the noted Cheyenne chief, cut her throat because she felt that her husband needed a younger wife. In Vancouver, Skookawak, another Indian chief, finding that his squaw was growing old, tied her to a pony's heels and then started the pony. This proved effectual, and he is now ready for a younger squaw. The methods of the chivalry of the forest differ materially from the white man's. When the latter wants another squaw he doesn't bother about the old one. Nor does the old one cut her throat. The slow advance of civilization among the Indians is shown by their repugnance to paying alimony.

Measurable.

"And," asked the sociologist, "when you are alone at night under the starry sky, are you never filled with immeasurable longings?"

"W'y," admitted Dismal Dawson, after the idea had been a little more explained, "I do have them feelings, I guess; but they can't be called immeasurable. About a quart in maure would cover 'em—er half a gallon anyhow."—Indianapolis Journal.

A LILIPUTIAN ENGINE.

Can Be Carried in the Vest Pocket—A Perfect Working Piece of Mechanism.

The smallest steam engine in the world is one that was made by an American boy when he was sixteen years old. It can easily be carried, and with room to spare, in an ordinary vest pocket, and it weighs less than half an ounce.

Yet, notwithstanding its microscopic dimensions, it is a perfect machine, and when the few drops of water its boiler holds are converted into steam the engine will run at the rate of 2,000 revolutions per minute. In type it is a high-pressure beam engine, and it is constructed principally of gold and silver. All told there are over 150 pieces in its make-up, some of them so small as to be almost invisible without the aid of a magnifying glass. The diameter of the cylinder is one-sixteenth of an inch; diameter of flywheel five-eighths of an inch. The boiler is made of silver in five distinct plates, or sheets. There are no rivets in either the boiler of any other parts of the engine. The separate parts are all held together by screws. Nothing about the entire construction of this curious piece of mechanism is more remarkable than the accuracy with which they are made to form and detail and hold the separate parts of the machine together as firm*ly as though they were riveted, and* yet each of these screws is so small it can only be picked up by the aid of a magnifying glass and a sharp-pointed pair of pincers.—New York World.

WANTED HIS JADE DECORATION IN.

Then He Couldn't Understand Where the Other Eye Was in the Profile.

Mr. Landor, in his entertaining book, "The Land of the Morning Calm," tells this story of the eminent Prince Min of Corea, who induced Mr. Landor to paint his portrait. The artist thus describes the scene:

For three hours he sat motionless and speechless like a statute.

"It is finished," I finally said, and he sprang up in a child-like fashion and came over to look at the work. His delight was unbounded, and he seized my hand and shook it most emphatically.

After this he suddenly became grave, stared at the canvas, and then looked at the back of it. He seemed horrified.

"What is it?" I inquired of his royal highness.

"You have not put in my jade decoration," said he, almost in despair.

I had, of course, painted his portrait full face, and as the Coreans have both eyes in a row, wearing their decorations in the shape of a small button of jade, gold, silver, or amber behind the left ear, these, of course, did not appear thereon. No explanation of the theory of European art would satisfy the sitter, so to pacify him I executed a rapid sketch of his profile, bringing in the ornament.

"That is all very well," he said, "but where is the other eye?"

Getting in on the Ground Floor.

Travelling Passenger Agent Tom Campbell says that a Swede came into a lawyer's office one day and said:

"Is hare ben a lawyer's place?"

"Yes, I'm a lawyer."

"Well, Mais er Lawyer, I tank I shall have a paper made."

"What kind of a paper do you want?"

"Well, I tank I shall have a mortgage. You see, I buy me a piece of land from Nels Petersen, and I want a mortgage on it."

"Oh, no. You don't want a mortgage; what you want is a deed."

"No, Maister; I tank I want mortgage. You see, I buy me two pieces of land before, and I got deed for dem, and Nels he come along with a mortgage and take the land; so I tank I better get mortgage this time."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

An Easy Way to Capture a Tarpon.

A peculiar incident happened to the steamer Florida, says the Star, which runs from Pensacola to Choctawatchie. On her trip up the steamer had a lighter in tow and one lashed alongside, and in some mysterious way a tarpon or silver fish got fast between the steamer and the lighter which she had alongside, and in trying to free itself it jumped aboard the steamer. The monster weighed 175 pounds and measured 6 feet, 4 inches in length. This is one of the gamest fish in Southern waters and caught with a hook and line, and is the first one that has been caught in this vicinity in fifteen years.

No More Crawling.

One of the results of the advanced ideas of the present King of Siam has been the abolition of the crawling indulged in by courtiers in the monarch's presence. It used to be the custom at Bangkok for no one to advance towards the king except on all fours, and when, forty years ago, the Siamese ambassadors were received by our Queen, it was in this ridiculous fashion that they came, bearing presents in what hands they could spare, from the difficult process of peregrination.

A Medical Item.

"What do you consider the most absolutely certain way to distinguish toadstools from mushrooms?"

"Cook them, get some other man to eat them, and then watch his symptoms."—Chicago Tribune.

Heads His Father's Mss.

"Johnny," said the teacher to the humorist's little boy, "how do we know when autumn comes around?"

"Why, pop begins to write stove-pipe and plumber jokes."

TO BECOME AN ELECTRICAL ENGINEER

Must Start With the Simplest Part of the Business and Work Upward Slowly.

The winner of a prize essay on "How to Become an Electrical Engineer" says the boy whose ambition points that way should be kept at school until he is 17 years of age, spending the last few years at a commercial college where he will get a good general education, including geometry, algebra, trigonometry, freehand drawing, physics, inorganic chemistry, magnetism and electricity, practical plane and solid trigonometry. He should then start in a small shop, where not more than twenty to thirty hands are employed; never, on any account, in a large shop. To begin with, he will get all sorts of odd jobs, playing handyman to the black-smith, assisting the boiler and engine, but he will be picking up indispensable knowledge all the time. In a few weeks he will be put on fitting and erecting, learning to use all the machines, such as slotting, planing, drilling, slotting, shaping, etc. One advantage of being in a small shop is that a man has to learn to make his own tools, an accomplishment which is apt to come in remarkably useful on occasions. Other points in training will be learning to run a lathe, turning, boring wheels, pinions, coupling blocks, turning crank shafts and innumerable other jobs. Parents may think that this is not electrical engineering, but the electrical engineer must first be a thorough mechanical engineer. Four or five years may be spent in such a shop, and classes in mathematics, machine drawing and design, steam, applied mechanics, inorganic chemistry, mechanical engineering, statics, dynamics and physics should be attended meanwhile, and the use of slide rule should be acquired. The next step should be to enter an electrical shop. Before doing so, however, he must decide on his specialty, for electricity has expanded so widely in its application that the would-be electrical engineer finds it to his advantage, when he is about sixteen years of age, to take up one branch and stick to it. It may be the manufacture of dynamos or other electric power plants, electric lighting, electric heating, the manufacture of electric motors, the wiring of buildings and tramway work. The more of these he masters the more he concentrates himself on the chosen line, the better will be his chance of success. The young electrical engineer should constitute as a guiding principle the fact that the principal object aimed at nowadays is to get the best results with the least cost and in a specified time.

THE EARLIEST MINERS.

Astonishing Record Gone Back to Late Years B. C.

The earliest miners and metallurgists of whom we have record were the Ayron people of Euro-Asia Minor, who, though pastoral and warlike in habits, were familiar with the mines and worked with them—at least with the metals, gold, silver, and copper. The Chaldeans and Assyrians, as we now know from the cuneiform inscriptions which go back 3,000 years B. C., were undoubtedly expert in the use of metals, while the Egyptians had an extensive knowledge of the arts and sciences. Even the brick and other inscriptions recently discovered artisans are seen at work with curious details of their furnaces and tools. Potters, it seems, attained eminence in their art, and the Egyptians had certainly a knowledge of chemistry, as the samples of glass blowing the stone implements, tools, forceps, blowpipe, etc., prove.

Gold was largely used by the Egyptians between 4,000 and 5,000 years B. C., as we find from specimens discovered and ingenious weighing balances. Many centuries older than the pyramids, which date from fifty to sixty centuries back, we have some knowledge of engineering in Memphis, which could only have been constructed without tools and necessarily an acquaintance with metals. The word "Kasdim" is of Semitic origin—the Hebrew word "metal" to forge. Indeed, the early acquaintance with the precious ores and the malleability of metals.—Self Culture.

AN OLD BELL-RINGER.

He Had an Unbroken Service of Eighty-One Years.

Lincolnshire possesses the oldest bell-ringer in England. At Tetney lives Matthew Laking, who was born in 1757, and is therefore ninety-six years old. He started bell-ringing fifteen years of age, and has therefore an unbroken service of eighty-one years in the parish belfry. It means that Matthew Laking rung a merry peal for the death of George III. in 1820, and celebrated the accession of George IV. in the same year, officiated at the monarch's death in 1830, and again took part in the accession of William IV. and his death in 1837. Beginning with the accession of Queen Victoria, he has been connected with every subsequent important epoch in her life, and on the jubilee day formed one of three in ringing a peal of thanksgiving. Although born just outside Tetney, he has practically lived in the village all his life. A world of local reminiscence is himself, he has had to retire from his ordinary avocation as a laborer through advancing years.

Familiar Instance.

"You see," argued Uncle Silas, the rugged and uncompromising free silver advocate of Buckheart Township, "how the trusts an' monopolies are runnin' everything. In the cities, I'm told, they can't even open the big front safe in a bank without a blamed combination!"—Chicago Tribune.

DANCING TO CURE AILMENTS.

A Medieval Custom in a Little Town in Luxemburg.

Modern civilization is fast improving away customs off the face of the earth, yet a unique one can still be seen in the little old world town of Echternach, in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. Every Whit Tuesday a multitude of persons from far and near, young and old, weak and strong, rich and ruined, take their stand up the Parisian side of the Sure bridge at 9 o'clock, and after listening to a short address to the abbey and thrice round the tomb of St. Willibrod, the dance is on. The procession is headed by the town beadle, dressed in red and followed by small boys; next the musicians, chanting litanies; then a large body of clergy, 700 strong, and last the rank and file. There are held in rows of seven, kept in line by handkerchiefs, sticks and umbrellas interspersed with the motley crew musicians playing dance tunes of every conceivable instrument, while the dancers sing the classical tunes as they perform a polka step, one step forward and two back.

More than 1,000 years ago, when Echternach, the hero saint of Luxembourg, died at Echternach, a terrible plague broke out on all sides; they were cured with a dancing madness a very destructive alike to themselves and their owners. The people danced in order to prevent their animals dying also. The effect was marvelous; the cattle resumed their sanity, and, people, the people continued to dance on their own account for all kinds of ills, but especially for hysteria and St. Vitus' dance. Everybody danced and the old and infirm unable to foot it themselves performed in carts drawn up by proxy, with an equally good result. From time to time efforts were made to stop the ceremony, but this usually led to a return of the cattle disease that the saint was not at all pleased at having his slumbers disturbed, and that it had to be resumed, and the number of pilgrims increases yearly.—From Gentleman.

COLLEGE BOYS IN GERMANY.

Very Different Conditions Under Which They Study in That Country.

Student life in Germany is very different from what it is in the United States. The Faculty of the university assumes the responsibility for the morality or the intelligence of the pupil. When a boy enrolls his name, after his entrance examinations and has to see he is his own master, and is in whatever he likes until the time arrives for another examination, when he must present himself and endure the ordeal. If he succeeds he goes on with his class. If he fails his name is dropped from the rolls and he goes to another university, matriculates another trial at a different university. He is not compelled to attend lectures, he is never called upon to recite, as the students in American colleges are, two or three times a day in the classroom. His professors never ask him questions until he becomes a member of what is called a "seminar," which is a selected class for original research under the direction of a member of the Faculty.

At some of the lectures you will find only a dozen students, where there are perhaps 200 or 300 pursuing the course of which it is a part. At other lectures you will find the room crowded with attentive listeners numbering twice as many as are on the professor's roll. The attendance is governed by the interest of the students in any particular line of inquiry and the ability of the professor to make himself interesting.

WILLIAM TELL OUTDONE.

A Dangerous and Daring Feat of a Kansas Sharpshooter.

Tom Smith, the famous Kansas rifleman, has again been giving exhibitions of his skill at Wichita. The feeling so far outdid anything attempted by the late William Tell, sr., that several Kansas is daily expected that the opera named in honor of the Swiss patriot will be changed to that of "Tom Smith." Smith stood in position with an apple on his head and a gun pointed over his shoulder.

Carefully sighting the gun, he pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the trigger of another gun about thirty feet behind him; the second weapon having been fired in this way. Smiles, discharged its bullet at the trigger of a third gun thirty feet in front of the marksman. The shot from the third rifle struck the trigger of a fourth gun at the back, and a little more than a second later, finally, the shot from the fourth gun went through the apple on Mr. Smith's head.—New York World.

A Remarkable Timepiece.

Japan possesses a remarkable timepiece. It is contained in a frame three feet wide and five feet high, and displays a secondary landscape. In the foreground plum and cherry trees and such plants appear in bloom; in the middle is seen a hill, from which flows a cascade, admirably imitated in crystal. From this point a threadlike stream meanders, encircling rocks and islands in its windings, and finally loses itself in a stretch of woodland. In the distance sky a golden sun turns on silver wire, striking the hours on silver gongs as it passes. Each hour is marked by a creeping tortoise. A bird of exquisite plumage warbles at the close of the hour, and as the song ceases a mouse sallies forth from a neighboring grotto, and, scampering over the hill to the garden, is soon lost to view.

A FAIR CUBAN REBEL.

The Plucky Fight of Insurgent Senorita Cisneros.

Though barely nineteen years of age, the little Cuban patriot girl Evangelina Cossio Cisneros has managed to leap into world-wide prominence. When confined in the Casa de Ricohidas, in Havana, she was charged with the common political crimes of destroying and trampling on a picture of Gen. Weyler and conspiring against the Crown of Spain. Incidentally there is a charge against her of attempting the life of Gov. Berez of the Isle of Pines. There was a prospect of from ten to twenty years of imprisonment in a penal colony facing her in case of conviction on the charges. So grave was the situation of this young girl that even the Pope joined the many titled people abroad who became interested in the little woman in an appeal for mercy to the Queen Regent of Spain.

Senorita Cisneros is without doubt a hot little rebel from the Spanish point of view, for at the outbreak of the present rebellion she put herself at the head of her father's band of rebels and started them to join the army of Gomez. This was after her father, Senor Cossio, had been arrested and sent to the Isle of Pines as a suspect. In July of last year she was betrayed by one of her band and sent to join her father as a political prisoner.

MISS CISNEROS.

Being vivacious, spirited, of attractive face, figure and manner, the Governor of the island, Berez, became infatuated with her and tried the conquest of the spiritual little rebel. It proved a sorry job for him. A few of his own prisoners, availing themselves of the knowledge of Berez's infatuation, used her as a tool to draw him into an ambush, where he was seized, while the main band captured the garrison. The timely arrival of reinforcements alone saved the fort from capitulation to the patriots. Then followed the incarceration of the plucky little miss, who refused freedom at the price of vassalage to Berez, which was offered her. She was sent to Havana in chains and committed to the prison for political felons. The engraving picture shows her as she was before her arrest and is reproduced from what is probably the only photograph of her in the United States.

MAY RECLAIM GREAT SAHARA.

Proof That Irrigation Can be Employed to Make the Desert Productive.

Whatever the outcome of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition from a political point of view, it cannot but result in good for Egypt and the surrounding country, for members of the expedition have made a discovery of far reaching importance not only to Egypt but to the desert country that stretches away from it.

This discovery shows that there is water in the desert at varying depths beneath the surface. The expedition has been successful in the sinking of wells in the desert between Wady-Halfa and Abou-Hamed. The presence of water at such a distance from the Nile has never heretofore been suspected, either by Europeans or natives, and this discovery bids fair to revolutionize not only the desert tribes, but the entire conditions of desert life.

The problem of converting the great African deserts into fertile territory seems to be at length in a fair way toward solution, not by letting in the Mediterranean by Count de Lesseps and other engineers, but by the sinking of wells, for in all probability water can be found everywhere in the African deserts provided one digs deep enough.

The knowledge that explorers have gained in recent years goes to show that the desert of Sahara is not the mere useless waste of sand most persons were formerly content to suppose. The Sahara is not everywhere flat and is by no means entirely desert. Mountain ranges cross it which in places attain heights of five thousand feet above the sea level and enclose verdant valleys dotted with groves of trees.

The Sahara has an area nearly as large as that of Europe, but Europe supports a population of more than 400,000,000, while the Sahara does not contain more than 2,500,000 souls.

The sands do not cover the areas assigned to them in the ordinary maps, which are of too small a scale to show the interchange of different kinds of surface.

A Difference in Color.

Mr. Cumso—Fangle, what is the difference between a hectic flush and a bobtail flush?

Mr. Fangle—A hectic flush is red, while a bobtail flush leaves some one blue.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

METHODS OF THE JAPANESE.

You Are Never Sure of Getting What You Pay for.

An American manufacturer, writing from Japan, says that those alarmists who would make the world believe that the Japanese can do everything don't know what they are talking about, and that the people of the Flowery Land, unless they change their entire nature, or at all events their methods, can never become formidable commercial rivals with any civilized Power. The real fact is that the Japs do nothing; they only half do it, and therein lies the cause of their failure.

The Japs think of nothing but the present; of what he can make now, and how, by making his commodities a little inferior, he can add a few more cents to his profit. There is no such a thing as standard quality. You are never sure of getting the quality you are asked to pay for. So much is this so in Japan that a man seldom buys an article without unwrapping and examining it on the spot. The correspondent continues:

The Japanese mind is so small that it is difficult to weigh it with American scales; in fact, it may be said that it is made up of trifles, and it is the attention—the labored attention—the fag gives to these trifles which makes him practically incapable of ever becoming anything more than a unit in whatever he may be concerned in. As an illustration of what I mean, I will give examples which are of daily occurrence. You want to buy an article, and you ask the dealer the price. The answer is, say, 1 cent. Then you ask how much the articles are by the dozen, fully expecting that you will get them for 10 cents. You are not a little amazed when the merchant tells you thirteen cents for a dozen. You get mad, call the man a fool, and insist that you ought to get a reduction by taking a quantity. Not so with the Jap; that is not his way of doing business. It is the same with the manufacturer. You give him an order for a hundred of a kind, and then wish to make it a thousand. Immediately he demands an advance in the price. Should he, however, reluctantly agree to take the increased order at the original price, you will probably get the first hundred articles fairly up to sample, but as the delivery goes on the quality is sure to fall off. And this smallness is not confined to small people. It permeates the whole country.—Boston Transcript.

A TREE THAT SLEEPS.

The Transformation Takes Place in About Twenty Minutes.

Near the western border of Dupont Circle, in Washington, D. C., stands a tree that goes to sleep promptly every night at 7 o'clock. The tree is known as the Albizzia Julibrissan, having been christened so by an Italian botanist in honor of the Albizzi family in Florence. The tree, however, is an original of Japan and is known there as the Japanese silk tree, probably on account of the silky appearance of its blossoms. Soon after 7 o'clock in the evening a general motion is noticed in the foliage, which ere long resembles the bipinnate leaves. Each leaflet begins to stand up on edge and pairs with the one opposite. They clasp each other tightly and then close up with the other on the petiole, so that it soon becomes a coverlet over half of the preceding one. The entire transformation takes place in about twenty minutes, and usually at about 7.20 the respiratory organism of this tree hangs limp or droopy on the petiole.

Small branches kept in a dark room promptly close at 7 P. M.—New York World.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"I admire the machine very much," she said, as the agent trotted out a new "97" model for her inspection. "It matches my riding costume splendidly."

"Yes," responded the dealer, "our concern rather prides itself upon the enameling of its machines."

"Well, I'll take it, if you will guarantee me the enameling."

"What is that?"

"That the color won't fade."

After some thought he gave the guarantee, and she gave up $100.

The Parson—Why, Willie, don't you know that good little boys never fish on Sunday?

Willie—Yes, sir; that's just the reason I'm a-fishing. I stand more show of doin' a big when the good fellows are to Sunday-school.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. Pneumony—I'll have two pounds of that sage cheese, and I'll have a pound of impunity, too.

Grocer—Marm?

Mrs. Pneumony—One pound will be enough, I guess. Dr. Koddle says that sage cheese can be eaten with impunity.—Boston Transcript.

"Here, young fellow, I want you to keep your horse off my lawn."

"Say, you're a hard-hearted old boy."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, dat poor old horse is just a practicin' de Kneipp cure, dat's what."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Casey.—I called wan av thim boods a liar and he says to me, says he, "tu quoque." Now twat might that mean?

Walsh—It means "you are another."

Casey—An I let um get away without hittin' um. Ah, that is twat a man gits for havin' no education."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"There is one queer thing noticeable at all picnics."

"What's that?"

"The man who makes the most fuss about carrying the basket always eats more than anyone else."

RECLAIMING LOST COAL.

Profits Now Made Out of Waste Heaps in the Pennsylvania Anthracite Region.

The Reading Railroad Company has set in the work of reclaiming the great masses of anthracite coal now buried in the mountains of coal dirt scattered all over the Schuylkill coal basin. During the season just closing 50,000 tons of good coal were reclaimed from the coal dirt near Kalmia colliery alone. Plans are now afoot for abandoning at a coal mine, having been worked out. It was one of the very best of the Reading Coal and Iron Company's properties in the west end, and its product was vast in the many years of its active operation. Now the company has turned its attention to reclaiming the coal in the dirt banks at that old colliery. Suitable washery machines were put in, and quantities of first class coal are being taken out of what was considered a great black mass of worthless dirt.

There is no way of estimating the weight of these mountains of coal dirt in the three Pennsylvania anthracite coal basins, but they are all valuable, especially where there is a plentiful supply of water. In recent years the discovery has been made that pea coal is a first-class fuel. They now take out coal classed not only pea coal, but buckwheat and rice as well. The company is able to make at least $1 clear profit a ton on this washed coal, which would make $50,000 clear profit on the Kalmia washery alone. Individuals have gone into the business, and the Reduction Breaker of Girardville are doing very well, shipping as high as sixteen cars a day. In a short time, it is probable, many more will be engaged in washing out good coal from these dirt heaps, some of which are 200 feet in height and cover ten acres.

At one big dirt bank a very rich find has just been made. During the war the demand for lump coal for United States vessels of war was so great that several of the Reading Railroad collieries could not stop to bother with small coal. The rush for lump and steam coal necessitated the sending a small coal out of the way in order to hurry up the shipments of the big coal. This small coal went out on the bank and was soon covered up by the dirt from the breakers, and buried out of sight, to remain there for thirty five years. It has now been discovered and it is thought, may prove worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. It requires very little work to run coal through the newly patented washeries. Hence machinery is not used in washing and separating coal, and only at the big banks, but also at the mines. Coal just mined is brought up into the breakers and thoroughly washed, and is put on the cars bright, clean, and sparkling.

This new hunt for lost coal is not confined to the mountains of coal dirt alone. Along the entire line of the abandoned canal and Schuylkill River, between Schuylkill Haven and Port Clinton, contain thousands of tons of coal, varying in size from buckwheat to nut. At different places along the Schuylkill and old canal south of the old navigation landing at Schuylkill Haven thousands of tons of fuel have been taken out, and there is not a week day that men, women, and children are not seen digging and sieving the culm.

A SCHOOL OF HOUSEKEEPING.

Boston's Idea of What the Girls Should Know.

Boston is soon to have something entirely new in the way of a schoo. It is to be called the School of Housekeeping, and is expected to do much toward solving the household problem.

At this new school housekeeping is to be regarded as a science and to be studied as such. It is to be a school where employers and employes may together learn the business of housekeeping, and it will aim to have its graduates well versed in every branch of domestic service.

The School of Housekeeping has originated with and will be in charge of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston.

It is to comprise a home, a family, classes in the theory and practice of housekeeping for employers, and a course of practice teaching in housework for employes. Two houses are to be used for this experiment in model homemaking. One house will be occupied by six or eight boarders, who will constitute the family, while the other will be used for class and demonstration work for employers and employes.

Every graduate of the School of Housekeeping, when she receives her diploma, will understand thoroughly the care of the range, the care of kitchen, cellar and ice chest. She will know how to make a fire without gas and how to care for bedrooms, beds and bedding. She will understand all branches of cooking, and will have been thoroughly trained in waiting on the table and in answering the door bell properly. Each such graduate will be a model servant, and she will also be entitled to a position through the office of the Domestic Reformed League.

Throughout the course of instruction lectures will be given on such subjects as "The Laundry and Its Practical Work," "Home Sanitation," "The Philosophy of Cleaning," "The Art of House Furnishing," etc. Among the lecturers will be such well known women as Professor Lucy M. Salmon, of Vassar College, and Professor Katherine Coman, of Wellesley College.

The school will receive no women under sixteen or over thirty years of age. References as to character and general intelligence will be required.

THE FATHER OF PROHIBITION.

Struggles Which Neal Dow Made for Seventy Years.

The fight that Neal Dow made in Maine for prohibition began seventy years ago, and the law which he fathered has been in force in the State forty-six years.

Ten years before he became Mayor of Portland, in 1857, the wife of a friend went to Mr. Dow and begged him to dissuade her husband from excessive drinking. He undertook the task but failed. Then he tried to reform the saloonkeeper, who answered him:

GEN. NEAL DOW.

"My business is to sell liquor. I care not for the feilows that buy it."

"By heavens, you shall care!" Dow replied, and he worked until his famous bill became a law.

When he became Mayor his enemies plotted to undo him in every possible way, even storing liquor in the city buildings, claiming it was bought by Dow and calling a mob together to destroy the liquor.

The celebrated "June riot," in Portland resulted, in which the militia took part.

Though over sixty when the rebellion started, Neal Dow raised a regiment of 2,500 sturdy woodmen, and afterward a battery of artillery, and went to the front, where he became a General. He was wounded several times and finally imprisoned in Libby. After a year he was exchanged as a prisoner for General Fitz Hugh Lee.

In recent years his time has chiefly been spent in his library at his Portland home. Up to the time of his prostration his shoulders were squared as a soldier's on parade, and he walked without difficulty.

His wife died in 1883 but a son and daughter live at home. He has two other daughters married. He conducted an immense correspondence for many years with many of the most notable people in the world.

THE OIL LAKE IN ALASKA.

Mr. Johnston Says It Contains Tens of Thousands of Barrels of Petroleum.

Mr. R. C. Johnston of Los Gatos, Cal. has just returned from Alaska, where he discovered a lake of petroleum near Prince William Sound, south of Cook Inlet. Last year he went north prospecting and in a small creek near the sound he and his partner struck gold in paying quantities, but they were greatly hampered in working it by the abundance of oil in the water.

Finally they decided to trace the source of the oil, and they found a real lake of crude petroleum fed by more than fifty springs. Johnston found good anthracite coal near at hand. He has organized a company and proposes to immediately develope the find. He says:

"There is a fortune in it for everybody concerned, and the beauty of it is there is only a mile and a half of piping to lay from our lake of oil to where we propose to build ten 20,000-gallon tanks for the purpose of close to tide water, with a fall of seventy feet to the mile, obviating the necessity of pumping. The lake is 300 by 50 feet in size, with tens of thousands of barrels of oil in sight. The supply of oil and coal is practically inexhaustible, and the middle of September will see the work of development actively under way."

Johnston's discovery is in close proximity to one of the numerous arms of Prince William Sound. It is the company's intention to take out 500 barrels of petroleum next month as a starter, and by next spring have a line of tank steamers in operation to convey oil to Seattle, where the refinery is to be built.

A Roving Queen.

Queen Natalie of Servia, the divorced wife of the ex-King of Milan, is one of the many victims of unhappy royal alliances. Strong-willed and full of ambition, she was the exact opposite of her vacillating, pleasure-loving husband. Now, while he spends his time at the baccarat tables of Paris, his unhappy Queen is leading a rambling life on the Continent. Queen Natalie is still a woman of great beauty, and attracts attention by the picturesque if old-fashioned habit of wearing her luxuriant dark hair down her back.

An inmate of the Soldiers' Home at Augusta, Me., has been smuggling in bottles of whiskey in a hole he carved in his wooden leg. The last time he disappeared they searched for him until they found him lying dead drunk in a graveyard, with his wooden leg unstrapped and the empty flask in the hole in the leg.—Boston Herald.

"One thing surprised me out in Yellowstone Park."

"What was that?"

"I didn't see any signs around 'Keep off the geysers.'"—Chicago Record.

A STRANGE PUNISHMENT.

The Criminal's Body Is Eaten for Fear His Soul Will Return.

The most cruel form of criminal punishment is that found in vogue among the Battaks or Battas, who inhabit that portion of the island of Sumatra south of Atcheen. Dr. Sir Tuk, a German discoverer, was established to learn how civilized the Battaks are in every respect except in their treatment of their prisoners.

There hanging and electrocuting have not the school of a show. Both these methods and that suggested by the recently famed society for the Betterment of the Human Species, would all be voted inadequate for the proper punishment of criminals guilty of capital offences, which offences, by the way, are much more numerous than in the United States, thieving being looked upon by the Battaks as one of the most heinous of capital crimes.

"The Battaks no sooner convict a criminal," says Dr. Von der Tuk, "than the sentence is carried out. The convict is placed face downward on a large flat stone, and the body is then chopped into pieces by small stone axes. The authorities then distribute these pieces among the families of the village where the crime has been committed, and the villagers eat these pieces with the greatest relish, there being a belief current among the Battaks that if the body of a criminal is merely buried the soul may come back to the body and resurrect it."

The enemies of the Battaks captured in war receive the same fate as do their criminals. Women are seldom or never executed among them.—New York Journal.

THEY MET FIRST IN YOKOHAMA.

Though Here in New York They Had Lived for Years on Adjacent Floors of a Flat.

"It is a familiar saying," said a New Yorker, "that people may live next door to each other in New York and never know each other at all, and it's quite true. A case in point is the case of people living in even closer proximity in flats. I have lived for years in a flat and have never known even by sight the people living above or below me. In the case of a flathouse, however, you are pretty sure to learn the names of the tenants. You hear them spoken in the elevator shaft by the grocer and the butcher, or you may see them yourself on the letter boxes in the vestibule of the building; but that in most cases would be as far as your acquaintance would proceed. I did once become acquainted with my neighbor in the floor below, but it was by chance and in Yokahoma.

"Your name is familiar," I said to him.

"'And yours to me,' said he; and when we came to compare notes we found that they had become so through the names on the letter boxes in the flathouse at eleven hundred and 'leventy-'leven West 'Leventy-'leventh street, New York, where we both lived.

"For years we had lived only fifteen feet apart, but we became acquainted 10,000 miles away."—New York Sun.

THE SWISS GOOD-NIGHT.

A Touching Custom Among the Herdsmen of the Mountains.

Among the lofty mountains and elevated valleys of Switzerland, the Alpine horn has another use besides that of sounding the far-famed Ranz des Vaches, or cow song; and this is of a very solemn and impressive nature, says Our Dumb Animals. When the sun has set in the valley, and the snowy summits of the mountains gleam with golden light, the herdsman who dwells upon the highest habitable spot takes his horn and produces clearly and loudly through it, as through a speaking trumpet, "Praise the Lord God." As soon as the sound is heard by the neighboring herdsmen they issue from their huts, take their Alpine horns and repeat the same words. This frequently takes a quarter of an hour, and the call resounds from all the mountains and rocky cliffs around. Silence at last settles over the scene. All the herdsmen kneel and pray with uncovered heads. Meantime, it has become quite dark. "Good-night!" at last calls the highest herdsman through his horn. "Good-night" again resounds from all the mountains, the horns of the herdsmen and the rocky cliffs. The mountaineers then retire to their dwellings and to rest.

His Fame With Both Utensils.

General Robertson tells a story of the late General Benjamin F. Butler which is new to me, and as the old hero himself told it to General Robertson it may be new to you as well. It happened one time when General Butler was in Portland. A great reception had been arranged in his honor, and the largest hall in town was engaged to hold it in. The place was gayly decorated, and one white muslin banner especially attracted the general's attention. On it was painted in large black letters:

"General Benjamin F. Butler, the hero of Five Forks."

And beneath the big letters somebody had written:

"And goodness only knows how many spoons."—Washington Post.

She Had the Pleasure of His Company.

"What's Mrs. Breesely in such a stew about?"

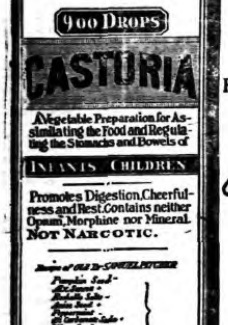
"She asked the pleasure of Lieutenant Slick's company to tea and he appeared on the scene with forty of his men."—Detroit Free Press.

Didn't See the Point.

Little Knut—Mamma, didn't the missionary say that the people in Tamba-Tamba don't wear any clothes?

Mother—Yes, that's what he said.

Knut—Then why did papa drop a button in the plate?



SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF

CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A. The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

PHILHARMONIC MUSIC.

A CHILD PIANIST OF MARVELOUS TALENT A FEATURE.

The Second in the Series Given Under the Auspices of H. O. Newman, Who Deserves Great Credit for His Endeavors

The New York Philharmonic Club gave the second of its series of three subscription concerts in the Country Club Casino Tuesday evening. The audience was large and representative of the best musical taste of the city, and the different artists were given a cordial reception, repeating the success scored by the club at its first concert this season.

The distinctive feature of the evening was the appearance of Mlle Antoinette Trebelli, the soprano singer. She is a daughter of the world-famed Mme. Trebelli, who was accounted the greatest of alto singers.

Her first selection was "Polonaise from Mignon," by Thomas. Her voice was of rare sweetness and range, and showed a perfection of artistic training She was enthusiastically encored and sang "Les Adieux de la nocteuse Arabe" of G. Bizet. Later in the evening she sang a series of three exquisite songs, "Solveig's Song," by Grieg; "Midi au Village," by Goring Thomas; and Valse "Chegigia," by Mattei.

Miss Bessie Silberfeld, the child pianist, who made such a favorable impression at the former concert, appared again and repeated her former success. Her younger sister, Miss Minnie Silberfeld, 8 years of age, also performed to the admiration of the audience.

The younger child gave three piano solos, "Prelude in A Minor," S. Bach; "Romanze" from "William Tell," Rossini; and "Progress Rondo," Semmacher; and as an encore, "Rondo Scherzo," by the same composer. Her performance was quite remarkable, considering her age, as that of her sister, who gave with excellent execution "Hark! The Lark," Schubert-Liszt; "The Maiden's Wish," Chopin-Liszt, and an encore, "The Agitated Ocean," by Pacher.

The violin solo, "Fairy Dance," by Herman Brandt, the violin virtuoso of the club, was a remarkable performance, revealing the wonderful possibilities of violin music in the hands of a talented artist. As an encore he gave "The Album Leaf," a composition of his own, which also was well received.

The usual faultless work of the club was apparent in the opening sextette selection composed for and dedicated to the club by H. Hoffmann. "The Spanish Dance" was another of the club's selections which was unusually pleasing, and the quartette "Variations" op 76, No. 3, J. Haydn, by the two violins, the violin and violincello was much favorable comment.

The members of the club are Eugene Weiner, director; H. Brandt, violin virtuoso; Paul Merde, viola; Sebastian Laendner, violin; Louis Heine, cello-virtuoso; and H Lehmann, double bass.

Miss F a M Clark was the piano accompanist.

The concerts are given under the management of H O Newman.

—Car No. 14, of the Plainfield Street Railway, is in for repairs. New trucks are being placed on Car No. 4.

PASSED AWAY QUICKLY.

Warren Marsh Died From Heart Failure Wednesday Morning.

After completing nearly four years more than the allotted three-score and ten, Warren Marsh, one of the oldest residents of the city, passed quietly away at his home, 340 Franklin place, Wednesday. Death came suddenly and without suffering.

Mr. Marsh was born in this city February 28, 1824. His father and his grandfather had both lived and died in this city. He was educated in the public schools of this city. He entered in business and finally rose to be one of the leading builders and contractors of the city. Many of the principal buildings of the city were erected under his direction. He retired from an active business life fifteen years ago. He leaves a widow and three children, Miss Ada G. Marsh, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, and Warren H. Marsh, of First place.

Mr. Marsh came down to breakfast Wednesday as cheerful and apparently feeling as well as ever. He ate a hearty meal. Mrs. Marsh went to the home of their son, Warren H. Marsh, to see their grandchild who was ill. Mr. Marsh went upstairs. At 9 o'clock he was found by his daughter upstairs unconscious. Dr. E. W. Hedges was immediately summoned.

Every effort was made to restore consciousness, but before the physician arrived the end came. Dr. Endicott and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges afterwards arrived and assisted in a careful examination to see if a spark of life remained. Death was caused by heart failure, brought on by old age. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence.

NEW PRESBYTERIANS.

Increased Membership in Crescent Avenue Church and Hope Chapel.

The following members have recently been received into membership of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church: Lee Ashley Grace, Norwood avenue; Mrs. Virginia Fitz Randolph Grace, Norwood avenue; Brockholst Kip Miller, 744 Watchung avenue; Mary Eloise Murray, 313 West Fourth street; George A. Strong, Central avenue; Harriet Elna Strong, Central avenue; Agnes Fales Strong, Central avenue; Mrs. Kate Stövers Wright, West Eighth street.

The membership of Hope chapel was increased Sunday morning by the admittance of five by expression of faith and two by letter. The growth of this society in its tenth year has been quite remarkable.

Death of a Youth.

John Charles McDonnell, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDonnell, o' Park avenue, died at his home Sunday after a long illness. He was nine years of age. He has been very ill with pneumonia and it was feared that the end was at hand. He was a great favorite with all who knew him, as he was a smart, plucky little lad.

New Trial Refused

An argument for a new trial was made before Judge McCormick at Elizabeth Monday, in the case of Harriet Dell, the pauper. The argument for the motion made by Addison Swift for the city of Elizabeth, was refused. Pope & Runyon represented the borough of North Plainfield.

PROBLEM OF MANKIND.

FIRST OF UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURES BY PROF. SUMNER.

His Subject was "What is a Free Man and a Free State"—Alleviation of Sufferings of Mankind Must be by Action.

A lecture of more than usual interest was that given last Monday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church by Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale University, in the course of University Extension lectures. The lecture was the first in a course of six to be given by Prof. Sumner.

The subject was "What is a Free Man and a Free State." At the opening Prof. Sumner quoted the following from Huxley, which he said would be the ruling principle of the lectures to be given:

"There can be no alleviation of the sufferings of mankind except in absolute veracity of thought and actions, and a reasonable facing of the world as it is, with all the garment of makebelief thrown off."

Prof. Sumner then spoke somewhat as follows:

"The ills of life are the abiding problem of mankind. There has been a sort of philosophy of good and bad luck, good and bad spirits, and it has to a certain extent ruled man. It has been the question what will we do to get good spirits to come and assist us? All sorts of systems have been employed to solve the great mystery. The above theory having failed to alleviate suffering, men turned their minds to matters of State, and they believed that political power would aid them, then a Republican form of government was sought, and many kings were done away with, for it was thought that kings were plundering the people. With the abolition of kings there came no relief, and a constitutional government was sought to relieve the discontent of the people. That did not help to remove the prevailing ills and pains.

"The next thing was a Democratic form of government. That was believed to be the key to the mystery, and a source of comfort to the people. The great passion of the people of the nineteenth century has been luxury and comfort. No one can deny it. This passion has got into the masses, but the Democratic form of government made it just as hard to provide for a family, and the next step was toward universal suffrage. That was held out as a panacea, but that has not brought the desired relief hoped for, and at the close of the nineteenth century we find an irritable and angry lot of people, and that disappointment has produced ills.

"Discontent is no proof 'of wrong, but rather of well-doing. Liberty is a chance. It is a case of up or down, high or low. It is the same about education. Knowledge is power and nothing else. What will a person do with knowledge after they get it, is the question.

"The more economic power we have the less we will be perplexed over our troubles. In these days we are not as equal as in the Colonial days, when all were educated on the same scale, when all lived in great rural comfort. Do you suppose that anything can keep that equality, any Democratic or Republican form of self government? We must learn what liberty cost, then we will know how to appreciate it fully."

The second lecture in the course by Prof. Sumner will be on the subject, "What is Democracy?"

FUNERAL OF A REVERENED.

Impressive Obsequies Held Over Remains of the Late Rev. E. E. Jones.

The funeral services of the late Rev. Edward Everitt Jones, who died at his home on Grove street last Thursday evening, were held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in the First Baptist church. The edifice was crowded by the relatives and friends of the deceased. Among the audience were many people from Rahway and New Market, in both of which places Mr. Jones had held pastoral positions.

The music, which was appropriate and deeply rendered, consisted of a contralto solo by Mrs. T. M. Ward, of Elizabeth, and selections by the church choir.

Eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. Robert Lowry, D. D., and Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D. Both speakers dwelt on their knowledge of the personal traits of the deceased, and related many anecdotes illustrating his fine Christian character.

The hymn "Shall We Gather at the River," composed by Dr. Lowry, was then read, and Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, delivered the closing prayer.

Before being dismissed the congregation was given an opportunity to take a last look at the features of their departed friend. The floral offerings were very beautiful, consisting of elaborate designs of lillies, white and pink roses and violets.

Lived Nearly a Century.

Mrs. Sarah Earl, of Roseville, died at the home of her son in Roselle Sunday evening. She was born in Hackensack, Bergen county, ninety-six years ago. Mrs. Earl was the mother of twelve children, six of whom survive her.

A Doctor's Discovery.

Realizing the Necessity of Iron in the Blood, He Prescribes Capsuloids in a Stubborn Case With Marked Success.

A newspaper man while talking to a local physician casually asked his opinion of Capsuloids, the new medicine, the use of which introduces an entirely new and original method of restoring natural iron or Hæmoglobin to the blood. The doctor replied: "I believe it is the true method of curing disease. Iron has ever been a strong factor in my practice. Precious to the discovery of Capsuloids the best form of iron physicians had at their command failed of its purpose because of its insoluble nature. On the other hand it discolored and ruined the teeth, rasped the stomach, and not infrequently did more harm than good. I recently had a case that illustrates this point.

"Nearly eight months ago I was called to see two girls, twins, aged fourteen, suffering with anæmia or pale blood. Their mother told me that they had been very pale for nearly two years and no medicine seemed to do any good. I tried every medicine but all to no purpose. I read of Capsuloids and learned that they contained dissolved Hæmoglobin or natural iron extracted from the blood of healthy bullocks. This seemed to me an ideal form of iron medicine and I prescribed Capsuloids for these two girls. In one week I could see the change, in two weeks the mother was delighted, and to-day these girls are as rosy cheeked, bright-eyed and merry as any two girls in the country."

Since their discovery Capsuloids have gained world wide fame for the marvelous manner in which they have cured diseases of the most stubborn nature.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, or six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Pershing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

COUNTY TROLLEY TALK.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

ment was against Mr. Bergen when James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," rose in his seat and turned the course of events. He explained that while he had once been opposed to municipal ownership of any public work, he now favored it. He had thought that it gave the party in power too much, but now that the secret ballot made their deposition easy, if they did not look after the interests of the people, he favored it. He spoke against voting down the proposition. He said that such an intelligent proposition deserved more careful consideration before it was condemned.

He looked at Mr. Riker and then turned the tide against him to his listener's great amusement. He believed that there was money in such a trolley line or else Mr. Riker would not want to extend his lines over the same territory. If Mr. Riker wanted it, then there was money to be made, he declared. He inquired if the Free holders did not now have the power to extend the county roads without the permission of the property owners. Mr. Dumont answered that they did not, whereupon Mr. Bergen replied from the platform that they did. J. W. Murray jumped up and tried to say something only to be asked to sit down by the chairman, Mr. Gilbert.

Mr. Bergen replied to the motion by saying that the Committee of Eleven had already instructed him to strike out the clause in the bill providing for the assessing of property for benefits received and the addition of one providing that work should not be started until a lease had been secured and proper security deposited.

Mr. Gilbert then put the motion and all in favor of the motion were requested to rise. J. W. Murray, L. W. Serrell, Jr., John B. Dumont, and John Ross rose in their seats. There was an audible smile from the rest. Mr. Gilbert then stated that the negative vote would have the same effect as being in favor of Mr. Bergen's scheme. About half of the men in the main part of the hall rose. Mr. Serrell rose to say something but the chairman did not see him and declared the meeting adjourned as there was nothing else to be done.

Pipe and Sociability.

Robert Clark, Jr., gave a smoker and reception to a number of his friends, at his home in Washingtonville, last Monday.

The smoker was given in celebration of the lighting of a handsome cherrywood pipe which had been presented to him by a friend.

The pipe itself was a unique thing, being carved by hand. The bowl was eight inches high and held fully half a pound of tobacco.

After filling it with choice perique tobacco, Mr. Clark invited his friends to join him in a smoke, and they gathered about and smoked from the different stems until the tobacco was reduced to ashes.

The party then enjoyed a number of games, followed by instrumental music and singing. The guests were then served with refreshments.

Must Make Room for Scholars.

An important public meeting of the citizens of North Plainfield will be held in the Public School Friday evening, January 14th, at which time there will be a discussion of the question of providing more room for the scholars who desire to attend the school. For some time past the school has been growing and the room has been insufficient to accommodate all.

—Peter McDonough has been cutting ice for a week at the South Plainfield pond and has now filled his ice house there. The ice is ten inches thick.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to work money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of that depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you. If you prepare yourself to take them. succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places crying for good men and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to succeed in his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This ad is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present desire for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail. 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are 99 to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BANK OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Local Financial Institutions Annual Elections Tuesday Afternoon.

The First National and City National, Banks held elections Tuesday for board of directors. At the First National Bank 1,717 votes were cast, representing 2,000 shareholders, and at the City National Bank 1,220 votes were cast, representing 1,500 shareholders.

The directors of the First National Bank are as follows: J. W. Johnson, Charles Potter, William McD. Coriell, M. Estil, I. W. Rushmore, P. M. French, W. R. Codington, F. S. Runyon and William Stillman.

The City National Bank directors are as follows: Charles Hyde, J. T. Closson, J. F. MacDonald, J. B. Coyard, H. G. Runkle, W. F. Arnold, J. K. Myers, Walter Scott.

The directors of the First National Bank organized as follows: President, J. W. Johnson; vice-president, H. M. Estil; cashier, F. S. Runyon.

Died in a Railroad Station.

F. Brougham, a commercial traveller for the King Paint Company, of 33 South Fifth street, Brooklyn, was about to board a train for Flemington at Somerville Monday afternoon when he was stricken with apoplexy. He fell forward on his face as he entered the car. He was picked up by the trainmen and carried to the waiting-room of the New Jersey Central station, where he died in a few minutes.

—There will be an entertainment in the Marconnier chapel next Tuesday evening.

WON TEN; LOST NONE.

Smart Record That the Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Team Held.

Ten victories and no defeats is the present record of the basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Monday evening the team won its tenth victory by defeating the crack team from the Newark Institute by a score of 19 to 4. The game was played in the Plainfield gymnasium and witnessed by a large crowd.

It was evident at the beginning that the visitors were slightly outclassed. They put up a hard, clean game, but their team work was by no means as effective as that of the home team. The latter played a close, steady game, and had the lead at the end of the first half by a score of 5 to 2. The Newark men were not used to the gymnasium and were somewhat inclined to foul. Their umpire overlooked several very plain fouls, or was a good game, however, and the Newark boys made it sufficiently close to be interesting. Egan, as usual, had everything his own way at centre, although he had a big man opposed to him. The visitors made a desperate effort at the last to catch up, but it was in vain.

License Granted.

In Union County Court, Saturday, Judge McCormick presiding, an inn and tavern license was granted to John Vogel, of Linden. New applications of Fred Correll, of New Providence; Fred Badelt, of Summit; William W. Scott, of Springfield, and Stephen G. Emmons, of Union, were laid over.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1898. NO. 3.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

DUNCOER'S WIFE SUED.

MRS. LUDLUM'S SERVANT GIRL WANTS A FULL MONTH'S SALARY.

The Wife of the Noted Crook Leaves Plainfield for Good, But Encounters the Law at the Instigation of a Servant.

The link that has bound "Little Lou" Ludlum, the alleged bunco-steerer, to Plainfield, has been snapped. Ludlum is no longer a citizen of Plainfield in any sense of the word. Wednesday the household goods of the Ludlum family were moved by Wm. Rudd's van to a storage warehouse in New York. Mrs. Ludlum has left Plainfield and departed to the great metropolis, twenty-four miles away. As to the whereabouts of Ludlum himself there are many who would be glad to know, for that expert swindler has so far succeeded in baffling the efforts of detectives who are on his trail.

Like other mortals bunco-steerers are human and are apt to meet with the same troubles that bother the rest of mankind. While the existence of Mr. Ludlum in Plainfield was a very quiet one, the startling intelligence of the character of the man made them the subject of endless talk. While the departure of Ludlum was talked of, his wife was the object of much curiosity. Under the circumstances, it was but natural that she should wish to leave the town. The quiet tone of her departure was somewhat marred, however, by trouble from an unexpected source.

The days ago, Alma Olsson entered the employ of Mrs. Ludlum as a domestic. She was engaged for a month and was to receive $14 for the month's service. All went well until several days ago when Mrs. Ludlum informed the girl that she would not need her services much longer as she intended to break up housekeeping and leave the city. Mrs. Ludlum thought that her domestic was only entitled to pay for the time that she had actually worked. The employe differed. She claimed to have given up two chances for situations elsewhere to remain with Mrs. Ludlum during the month and so therefore thought herself deserving of the full month's wages. There was a dispute. Mrs. Ludlum was obdurate and the servant departed yesterday without waiting for Mrs. Ludlum to discharge her.

Miss Olsson consulted McNabb & Clark. They straightway had a writ of attachment issued in Justice Nash's court and served immediately on the goods in the Ludlum house. It was known that Mrs. Ludlum intended moving today.

Before the writ was served Mr. McNabb called at the Ludlum residence with the intention of settling the matter before the legal proceedings were taken. He was met at the door by one of the neighbors who informed him that Mrs. Ludlum was not at home. He politely refused to leave his name. Then the writ was served and possession taken of the goods.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Ludlum called at the law offices of McNabb & Clark. She was very indignant over the fact of the serving of the writ. She explained that the household belonged to her sister, Mrs. Edith Kerns, and that she had merely lived with Mrs. Kerns and was now taking care of the goods. She showed the receipts for rent showing that the house was rented by Mrs. Kerns. She told her story of the trouble with the domestic. She said that the move was very unexpected and she had had no idea of leaving Plainfield. She did not appear greatly worried, but treated the young lawyer very agreeably.

Mr. McNabb refused to accept anything but the full amount, which Mrs. Ludlum paid, at last. The writ was immediately quashed and all proceedings stopped. The furniture was stored yesterday in New York.

The Social Sisters.

The Blanche Social Sisters' Whist Club were entertained last Tuesday at the home of Miss Nellie Winckler. An enjoyable game was indulged in as usual. The first prize was awarded to Miss Sadie Holmes; the second to Miss Cora Young. Refreshments were served at a late hour, after which several piano solos were rendered by Miss Ben Williams and Miss Mabel Force. The evening's pleasure was concluded with a dance.

Her Husband Will Not Support Her.

Mrs. Libby Fulton, wife of Louis Fulton, has made application to Overseer of the Poor Marx for assistance, claiming that her husband will not support her. She formerly lived with him at the home of his parents, on West Fifth street. She claims that she was driven out of there. Fulton will be arrested on the charge of non-support. They have been married for four years.

—The Cecelia Club will meet in Vinton chapel, at the First Methodist church, this afternoon, instead of in the Y. M. C. A. building as usual.

MONEY FOR A MASONIC HOME.

Jerusalem Chapter Will Help to Build the Institution.

Tuesday Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., held an important communication and a large number of the members were present. After working the E. A. Degree on one candidate, the question of contributing money toward the erection of a Masonic Home in New Jersey was introduced. The matter was clearly explained to those present and as a result the lodge will give a large amount of money as its share in erecting the home. It was stated at the meeting that one lodge in Newark contributed $600 for the home, and this proved an incentive for the Plainfield members.

USED AN AXE IN ANGER.

A ROW IN "DUSKY FLATS" THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN MURDER.

Eva Jackson Attacked Mrs. Thompson Because the Latter Ordered the Dusky Belle to Stop Calling on Her Beau.

Miss Eva Jackson, the belle of "Dusky Flats," who has figured in many an escapade which caused her to be sought after by the police, was arraigned in Justice Mosher's court last Tuesday to answer a more serious charge than has ever before been preferred against her.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, who lives in the tenement know as "Battle Row," on West Fourth street, was the complainant and the charge against Eva was one of assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Thompson and Eva have been good friends most of the time. The latter has been accustomed to call upon a dusky Beau Brummel who lives in "Battle Row," and when she visited there it was her custom to stop and spend a little time with Mrs. Thompson also. Tuesday morning the landlord of the tenement notified Eva's male friend that her visits to the house must cease or he would be made to leave the premises. When the girl made her customary call early yesterday afternoon she first stopped into Mrs. Thompson's rooms.

"You can't come heah no mo' Eva," was the greeting she received.

Words followed and when Eva learned that she had been forbidden to visit the "Row" she became wild with anger. Mrs Jackson tried to tease her.

"I'll done kill you," cried the girl, and catching up an axe from near the stove she raised it above her head and rushed at the other woman. Mrs. Thompson tried to break the force of the blow, but the blade of the weapon fell square upon her head.

In the county jail she exhibited a deep dent in her skull made by the axe.

The Justice committed Eva to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Martha Washington Council Seat Their New Officers.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M., held a interesting meeting in the S. of T. rooms last Tuesday, at which there were members present from Newark, Elizabeth and Rahway. Among them were State Council Secretary J. R. Rollinson, of Rahway, and District Deputy State Councilor H. L. VanCamp, of Newark. After the regular routine business was transacted the recently-elected officers were installed for the ensuing term by District Deputy State Councilor VanCamp as follows: Councilor, F. A. Welsh; associate councilor, Miss Batie Johnson; vice councilor, Mrs. Millie Buus; associate vice councilor, Mrs. Hannah Thompson; assistant recording secretary, G. S. Martin; conductor, Mrs. Mary Welsh; warden, Mrs. Mary Hoffman; inside sentinel, Mrs. Ellen Smith; outside sentinel, Mrs. Sarah J. Higgins; trustee, 18 months, Mrs. Sarah J. Higgins; junior past councilor, Mrs. Amanda McComas; associate junior past councilor, Mrs. Agnes Randolph.

Speeches for the good of the order were made by State Council Secretary Rollinson, District Deputy State Councilor VanCamp and others. Refreshments were served.

To Inspect Railroad Property.

Next Saturday afternoon Division Superintendent George Frecht, of the Central Railroad, will come to Plainfield in response to a request made by Councilman Barrows, and in company with Street Commission Gavett he will make an inspection of the company's property, with a view to making some needed improvements.

—Beginning this week, the Plainfield High School cadets will meet at the Crescent Rink for drill.

—It is understood that Max Wiertz, of the Union County Country Club, will open a restaurant on North Avenue in one of Woolston & Buckle's new stores.

THE TROLLEY EXTENSION

HOW WILL THE COUNTY LINE GET INTO THE CENTRE OF THE CITY.

The Proposed Plan is to Go Through East Second Street, But the Question is, Can the Right of Way be Obtained.

In the general excitement over the invasion of the trolley roads, Plainfield has taken little part. While most of the neighboring towns have been the scene of numerous skirmishes between the promoters of the different trolley schemes, Plainfield has been a spectator. Last week the fight over the new trolley system for Union county made its appearance here for the first time. Frank Berger held a mass-meeting, at which he explained the plan by which he wants the county to build the trolley road and remain its owner. So far, the principal opponent of Mr. Bergen, the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway, has done nothing in Plainfield.

The fact of the matter is that Plainfield and Elizabeth have been educated in trolley matters. The people of both cities concede that, under certain restrictions, the trolley is a very good thing and an advantage to the city. The other towns along the line of the proposed route have never had any experience with a trolley road before, and they are bound to get all the enjoyment out of their first inter view that is possible. They have not seen a practical illustration of the advantages and disadvantages of the trolley in their own towns and they have been basing their objections on theory.

It seems probable that the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway will, in time, connect the two cities at the ends of the county. Their energies are now devoted to the towns along the route. Plainfield and Elizabeth will be merely asked to allow the present trolley companies to extend their lines.

The Plainfield Street Railway is controlled by practically the same capitalists that are interested in the county trolley line. So there will be but little trouble about the cars of the new company running over the line of the Plainfield company. The Elizabeth and Westfield company is planning to run its line to Scotch Plains and thence to Plainfield by the way of East Second street. There are two routes to reach the present line of the Plainfield railway that the trolley company would be willing to take. They suggest a direct line through Second street to Watchung avenue and there to connect with the present tracks, or a line through Second street to Richmond street, thence to East Third street and thence to Watchung avenue, connecting with the other line at the North Avenue station. The reason for the Third street line is that East Second street is very narrow between Church street and Watchung avenue and might better be given up for a wider thoroughfare.

The Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Comp ny claims to have secured all the necessary consents from Scotch Plains to Plainfield by the way of Second street, and also from Scotch Plains most of the way to Cranford. The permission from the property owners in Cranford is said to be still lacking.

Whether all these plans will come to naught, as would probably be the case should the Bergen scheme be carried, remains to be seen. At present it is of considerable interest to Plainfield ers to watch the moves of the trolley company that is working to connect Plainfield with the county seat.

DONE IN HIS NAME.

King's Daughters Accomplished Much for Charity.

The King's Daughters Association, composed of members of Miss Linda Butler's Sunday-school class at the First Baptist church, met at the home of Miss Butler last Tuesday and listened to a synopsis of the work accomplished during the past year. The association is a small one, but the members have succeeded in doing a great deal in mission work by making useful articles and distributing them where they were needed. After the business of the evening was transacted, the members enjoyed the hospitality of the hostess, who served delightful refreshments. The meeting was a very helpful one and the members start another year with bright hopes for success.

Officers to be Elected.

The regular meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance will be held in the rooms of the W. C. T. U., corner of Fourth street and Watchung avenue, Thursday, at 7:45. Rev. James Morris, State Superintendent of C. and M. A. work in New Jersey, with a special charge and mission in Passaic, will conduct the annual election of officers for the local branch, and address the meeting.

TAXING A CORPORATION

AN IMPORTANT MEASURE INTRODUCED BY SENATOR REED.

Telegraph Poles and Wires to be Accounted Personal Property and Taxed for Support of the Local Government.

There were only brief sessions of the House and Senate of the State Legislature Tuesday, and only five bills were introduced in both Houses—four in the Senate and one in the Assembly. None of these measures were of any great importance, and both Houses adjourned until Monday evening, in order that the committees may have opportunity to get to business.

Among the Senate bills probably the most important is that introduced by Senator Reed, of Somerset, concerning the taxation of telegraph companies. It provides that in "every taxing district in this State all telegraph poles and wires found therein shall be considered and held, for the purpose of local taxation, to be personal property, and shall be assessed as such to the company or companies owning or operating the same. When ever in any such taxing district the taxes assessed against any such telegraph company upon its poles and wires shall become delinquent and so remain for the space of thirty days, it shall be the duty of the collector of taxes for such district to cut down all such poles and sever such wires at the points where the same enter and leave his district, and after advertising such sale by notice printed at least once in at least one newspaper circulating in such taxing district, and posted in at least three public places therein at least two weeks, to sell such poles and wires, either separately or together, at public auction to the highest cash bidder, and out of the proceeds of such sale to retain a sufficient sum to pay the delinquent taxes and interest and costs thereon, including the cost of advertising, besides the sum of 50 cents for each pole cut down, to which he shall be entitled in addition to any other fees and costs allowed by law in cases of delinquent taxes on personal property; if any surplus remain after the payment of such taxes, interest, costs and charges, such surplus may be paid over to the company which owned such property upon its furnishing proper receipt therefor. The taxation authorized by section 1 of this act shall be in addition to any tax which now is or may hereafter be assessed against such company by the State Board or Assessors or any other State officer, by virtue of any other law, and the remedy provided in section 2 in case such taxes become delinquent, shall be in addition to any other remedies now or hereafter provided by law."

The Democratic Senators held a caucus Tuesday morning to consider the appointment of Joseph Rice, who was named as a Democratic manager of the Trenton Hospital. A year ago they opposed his confirmation because he was a sound-money Democrat in the McKinley campaign. Senator Barber, of Warren county, renewed his opposition, but Senator Daly, of Hudson, who is the head of the Bryanites in the State, expressed regret that he had opposed Rice's confirmation last year, and induced Senator Barber to withdraw his opposition. Senator Daly is mentioned as the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Gov. Griggs said that next Tuesday would probably be the last day on which he would appear at Trenton as Governor. He thinks Attorney-General McKenna will be confirmed as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court Friday and that his own nomination to be Attorney-General will be sent to the Senate by President McKinley at once and be confirmed by next Monday. Next Tuesday evening the newspaper reporters and correspondents are to give a dinner to Governor Griggs and President of the Senate Voorhees. The other guests will be only Senator Sewell, Speaker Watkins, President pro tem Skirm and Capt. Robert Tuttle, the Governor's private secretary.

The special committee to investigate Hudson county held a meeting at noon and chose as chairman Mr. Giedhill, of Passaic, the Republican leader. Later the committee held a long conference with Gov. Griggs and obtained information upon which the Governor based his recommendation for an investigation. Messrs. Bradley and Squire of the committee were asked to wait upon William H. Corbin and request him to act as counsel to the committee, which will meet in Trenton Thursday afternoon to arrange the preliminaries of the inquiry.

Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued summons in the case of Sutphen against Williams, returnable the 24th. The cases of Hymes against Trust and McClure against Eastman have been settled out of court.

CONVICTION MUST STAND.

Severity of Sentence Was the Reason Given for the Application

Supreme Court Judge VanSyckel Tuesday heard argument in a city case on application of the defendant counsel to set aside the judgment of the city court. Mr. Kiernan, of Elizabeth, appeared for the defendant, and the city was represented by Craig A. Marsh. The application was based on alleged defects in procedure and on the severity of the sentence, which had been a fine of $100 and imprisonment for a term of 30 days. Judge VanSyckel decided in favor of the city, and the application of the defendant's counsel was denied.

BOTH CLAIM THE GOODS.

Justice Mosher Called Upon to Settle a Dispute Between Colored People.

A battle royal was waged in Justice Mosher's court room Tuesday after noon between two colored women over the ownership of a number of linen sheets and pillow cases and a white skirt.

Mrs. John Taylor, a colored woman living at 313 Plainfield avenue, was the complainant in the case. She swore out a search warrant charging Mrs. Fannie Richardson and Mrs. Lottie Howland, who occupy apartments in the same house, with having goods belonging to her in their possession.

Constable George Rockafellow searched the premises and brought a number of articles to the court.

Mrs. John Elliot, the mother-in-law of Mrs. Taylor, also appeared as one of the complaining parties.

Each of the parties, when placed under oath, swore to the ownership of the goods, and attempted to prove it by various means. Mrs. Taylor, who is much shorter than Mrs. Howland tried the white skirt on to prove to the court that it was the right length for her. The other claimant was ordered to don it, and it proved too short. After a lengthy inquisition, the Justice made what seemed to him a proper division of the goods, giving them nearly all to the two complainants.

Three pairs of lace curtains, which were still missing, will be searched for, and all parties were ordered to appear before the Justice Thursday afternoon.

FATHER MURPHY MUST LEAVE.

The Popular Priest Transferred to Paterson by Bishop Wigger.

Rev. Francis J. Murphy, for several years assistant rector at St. Mary's church, yesterday received his orders from Bishop Wigger transferring him to St. John's cathedral, in Paterson, where he will officiate as first assistant rector. Father McCormick, one of the present assistant rectors of St. John's parish, will come to Plainfield to fill the place caused by the transfer of Futher Murphy.

The announcement that Bishop Wigger had ordered Father Murphy's transfer was made in The Press Monday, but, as exclusively stated at the time, the Bishop was not succeeded with to permit Father Murphy to remain in Plainfield. He consented to give the matter further consideration and make an effort to select another priest for the Paterson church, and if he could do this he would permit Father Murphy to retain his present position.

The removal of Father Murphy from Plainfield will be a source of regret to the Catholics, but now that it is known that he must go, the members of the church are congratulating themselves that he is to be succeeded by Father McCormick.

Wagons Came Together

A collision took place last Tuesday about 6 o'clock, on Front street in front of Music Hall, when a wagon, in which was seated Lawyer H. O. Hance, and another vehicle occupied by Lawyer Reuben Knox, both of the borough, came together. Mr. Knox's wagon was upset and he was thrown out. Fortunately he was not injured. Mr. Hance fared somewhat better, and made his escape without any trouble. The cause for the accident was that Mr. Hance attempted to turn around in the street, and seeing that he could not do so, he backed up and struck Mr. Knox's rig broadside.

Red Men Danced.

An enjoyable dance was given in Washington Hall last Tuesday by the Pauchaunaupuchque Council, Improved Order of Pocohontas. Although the attendance was not as large as was hoped, a very pleasant evening was spent. Charles Delehaunt acted as floor manager. William Dagnall was in command at the box office. Judge V. W Nash had charge of the soda water booth. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Leland, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Devine. The music was by Naylor.

—Next Monday evening the new officers of Mispah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will be installed by the grand lodge officers.

FIELD WORKERS MEET.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION IN SESSION.

The Meetings Being Held in the Y. M. C. A. Building—Welcome to Delegates by Dr Yerkes—Business Matters Yesterday.

The opening session of the sixth annual conference of the International Sunday-School Field Workers' Association was held in the First Baptist church Tuesday evening. The church was well filled with an audience composed largely of Sunday-school workers.

The conference began with a devotional service lasting from 7:30 until 8 o'clock. Rev D. J. Yerkes, D. D., pastor of the church, then delivered a greeting to the delegates on behalf of the city of Plainfield.

It was eminently fitting, he said, that a conference of Sunday school workers should be held in this city, because of the International lessons were not invented here they were at least first put into practice by Dr. Vincent, a Plainfield man. He extended the welcome of the city and hoped that the pleasant experience of past conferences would be repeated.

The welcome from the State Association was given by Dr. George W. Bailey, of Wenonah, the State president. New Jersey might not be at the head of the procession in Sunday-school work, he said, but she was far enough up to keep in step with the music.

Responses were made to the speeches of welcome by Mrs. W. F. Crafts, of Washington, D. C., for the south; by George H. Archibald, of Montreal, Can., for the north; by Rev. E. P. St. John, of Springfield, Mass., for the east, and by W. J. Semelroth, of St. Louis, for the west.

All the speakers gave encouraging reports of the development of Sunday-school work in the field for which they responded

The congregation then arose and sang "Blest be the tie that binds," and an offering was taken to be used in distributing over the country the printed reports of the present conference. During the taking of the offering Miss Harris, of the church choir, sang a pleasing solo.

The address of the evening was delivered by B. F. Jacobs, of Chicago, Ill., chairman of the International executive committee. He said that he was very anxious to give his hearers an adequate idea of the field of Sunday-school work. It is probable that none of us understand the importance of this branch of Christian work. Upon the success of it depends the safety of our Republic. Bible study is neglected everywhere except in the Sunday-school.

He described in detail how the work was being organized and carried on in the different states, and related personal experiences. The great foes which the Sunday-school workers must contend with are ignorance, selfishness and unbelief.

The conference was continued in the large hall of the Y. M. C. A., yesterday. At 9 a. m. a Bible reading was given by W. J. Semelroth, of St. Louis, Mo. Alfred Day, of Deer Park, Ont., the president of the association, delivered his annual address at 9:30 o'clock, and at 9:45 the annual report of the secretary and treasurer of the association was rendered by Miss Mary C. Huber, of Louisville, Ky. The financial report showed receipts for the year of $364 63 and disbursements of $262 18, leaving a balance of $102.45. The report described in detail the work done during the past year, including the distribution of the reports of the last conference held at Louisville, Ky., the dissemination of literature, the organization of district conferences. The International Standard of organization for Sunday-school work, which is by counties, counties, cities, towns, States and provinces, was presented for the consideration of the conference. The exchange of association papers was strongly urged. The report was referred to a committee, of which W. J. Semelroth, of St. Louis, was chairman.

An interesting conference on financial methods was next held.

An interesting feature of this part of the programme was a paper by Chas. S. Meigs, of Indianapolis, on International Rally Day. The idea prevails in too many minds, the report said, that rally day means money day and nothing more. The Sunday-school workers should be made to understand that the money end of rally day is the little end of it and the ingathering and upbuilding is the big end and bulk of it. The report urged that the conference pass a resolution requesting the international executive and lesson committee to provide fifty-one lessons instead of fifty-two for each year, and that said committee arrange for the annual international

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8

TENDER THOUGHTS IN HOUR OF SORROW

Impressive Remarks at the Bier of Mrs. J. T. Fritts.

THE FLORAL TRIBUTES PRESENTED.

Rev. W. H. Richards, D. D., Spoke Comforting Thoughts to the Bereaved Ones and Referred to How Death Brought Into Closer Touch the Present Uncertain Life With Eternal Reward.

The funeral services of the late Margaret Saydam Fritts, wife of Dr. John T. Fritts, were held at the house, 423 Park avenue, Friday afternoon.

The house was thronged with relatives and friends who came to pay a last tribute of love and respect to the memory of Mrs. Fritts. The services began with a hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," sung by a male quartette composed of George Schoonmaker, Herbert Schutt, William N. Runyon and M. C. VanArdale.

Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, of which Mrs. Fritts was a member, was the officiating pastor. After reading a number of selections from the New Testament he delivered a short sermon which was full of comforting thoughts to the mourners. When God was revealing himself to men, the pastor said, he took one and another of the relations of men with one another, and made them more sacred. By perfecting these various bonds between men, he succeeded in drawing them nearer to Himself. God taught men to know Him especially in those ties which bound members of the family together. The progress of God's revelation is marked by the development of the meaning of the terms, "father," "mother," "brother."

The one relation of special importance and significance which needed to be purified and uplifted was that of motherhood. When God said "Can a woman forget her own child?" He was simply preparing His people for the understanding of God's mercy for his own children. And of all the revelations which Christianity has made to man the tenderest and most sacred has been the showing forth of the sacredness of motherhood, and this in turn was a preparation for us to know the love of God. It is through His mother that Christ is united to us by a bond of kinship. Nothing has brought us to so clear an understanding of the love of God for men through His Son, Jesus Christ, as our understanding of the mother's love.

We are come together today in a house saddened by sorrow, and if those who are sorrowful were asked what it was that made this place a home they would say that it was the constant, unfailing love of the wife and mother. It is the memory of what she has been that has made and will keep this a sacred place. Can we doubt that God, who has made our hearts and our homes, has a governing purpose in taking this dear one from us? The love that has made this place a home—can it not have some effect on this or other home? When such a loved one goes over to the other side, does it not commence to grow home-like over there? When those whom we have loved and trusted are carried to the home beyond, their silent lips seem to say to us: "Let not your hearts be troubled; I have gone to prepare a place for you." Let us be led and influenced by the gracious life of the departed, so that we may understand more and more the love of God and accept it.

After a prayer by Dr. Richards, the quartette sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and those present were given an opportunity to take a last look at the face of Mrs. Fritts. The casket was surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, including a number of elaborate pieces. At the head of the casket was a large floral pillow, inscribed with the word "Mother," and next to this was a cluster of exquisite lilies, each one of which was filled with violets. The latter piece was presented by the Compass Whist Club, of which Mrs. Fritts was a member. Hanging on the wall nearby were two portraits of the deceased, one taken at the age of eighteen, just before her marriage, and the other taken only two years ago.

The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

HE LIKES PLAINFIELD.

A Newark Official Saw the Sights, to Be Favorably Impressed.

Comptroller John S. Gibson, of Newark, was in Plainfield Thursday, partly on business and partly on pleasure. After he had concluded his business Chief T. O. Doane gave Mr. Gibson an opportunity of seeing some of the beautiful places in Plainfield, and the latter was completely infatuated with the city. He could not praise too much the things that he saw, and remarked several times the great advantages he considered to be the good fortune of Plainfielders. Mr. Gibson was formerly editor of the Dover Iron Era, and previous to taking his present position he was business manager at the office of the Newark Daily Advertiser.

DIDN'T CARE FOR CHILD.

EDWARD WOLF HALED TO COURT TO PAY A BOARD BILL.

Said to Have Entirely Neglected His Three-Year-Old Daughter During the Past Eight Months—Decided Against Him.

Edward Wolf, a paper hanger living on Washington street, was summoned to Justice Mosher's court Friday morning to answer to the suit of Mrs. Jennie Bush, of North avenue, who claimed that Wolf owed her for over eight month's board for his three-year old daughter and that she was unable to secure payment of the debt.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff, she was present when Wolf's wife died, over two years ago, and at once took charge of their little girl, who was then only an infant. Wolf promised to pay her the sum of $1 50 a week for her care of the child, and she had faithfully performed her part of the contract ever since. When the child was taken ill she purchased medicine for it and made no extra charge to the father.

At first Wolf paid the board money promptly, and often came to see his child, but as time went on his regard for her seemed to lessen, until finally he stopped coming at all. His failure to visit his child was not the only fault charged to Wolf. He also ceased making payments of board money, and ignored entirely the woman who was rearing his child.

Some weeks ago Councilman Walter H. Hetfield became acquainted with the facts in the case, and volunteered to make an effort to secure justice for Mrs. Bush. As her attorney he brought suit against Wolf for the amount due Mrs. Bush, which was $49.

When the defendant was placed upon the witness stand he admitted owing the amount claimed in the state of demand, but seemed indignant that he should have been sued for it. A lively passage at arms occurred between him and Councilman Hetfield, and at times the defendant grew so excited that it was with difficulty that the Justice succeeded in restoring order.

"Why did you not go to Mrs. Bush and tender her the amount of the debt?" asked the lawyer severely.

"Why didn't I? Why because I didn't have time," returned Wolf.

"Did you have the money to pay the bill with?"

"No, not very often; I was out of work most of the time."

The Councilman made a sarcastic remark at this point about the inconsistency of the witness' statements, and Wolf in a towering rage shook his fist and yelled:

"I may not have swallowed a whole encyclopedia, as you have, but I ain't afraid of you. See?"

After quiet had been restored in the courtroom, the summing up took place, and the Justice rendered judgment for the full amount and costs.

Y. M. C. A. BUSINESS AFFAIRS.

Board of Trustees Heard Several Reports from Committees.

The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. held their meeting in the association building last Thursday. In the absence of the president, W. D. Murray, Vice-President E. L. Bonney occupied the chair. Reports were rendered by Stephen Cahoone, chairman of the educational committee, Nelson Runyon, chairman of the committee on rooms, and A. C. LaBoyteaux, of the committee on religious work, and by the general secretary, the physical director and the assistant secretary. The committee on membership met early in the evening and, after passing upon a number of applications for membership, recommended the election of the applicants to the trustees.

The board extended an invitation to the Jr. O. U. A. M., to attend one of the young men's meetings held by the association Sunday afternoons. The exact date of the meeting will be fixed by the committee on religious work. The matter of appointing delegates to the State Y. M. C. A. convention, which assembles at Orange February 10th, was referred to the president, and he will make the appointments.

New Building Projected.

The heirs of Robert Anderson are contemplating pulling down the present building and erecting a handsome four-story brick building on the east corner of Watchung avenue and Front street, four stores being on the ground floor, three on Front street and one on Watchung avenue. The other stories to be divided up into flats with all the most modern conveniences and thoroughly up-to-date for housekeeping.

Flourishing Institution.

As an evidence of the popularity and standing of the Dime Savings' Institution, it is only necessary to state that the deposits of the depositors amounted to over $425,000 January 1st, and that during the year 1897 deposits were paid over $10,000 in cash, as interest on their deposits.

More Good Reading.

About seventy odd volumes have been given to the Public Library by Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard, of 111 East Ninth street. They will nearly all be placed in the circulating department.

BOROUGH MUST HAVE MORE SCHOOL ROOM.

Public Meeting of Citizens Endorse the Proposition.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TO ACT.

Former Mayor Saunders Introduces Resolutions Authorizing the Officials to Prepare Plans to Relieve the Crowded Condition—Many Speeches Made by the Interested Taxpayers.

The assembly hall of the North Plainfield Public School building was well filled last Friday with the citizens of the borough who were called together to consider ways and means for increasing the school accommodations for the large increase in the number of children attending the school. The meeting was in every sense a harmonious one from start to finish. The unanimous sense of the meeting was expressed in two resolutions, offered by former Mayor W. L. Saunders. The first resolution was to the effect that it was the sense of the meeting that increased accommodations are required for the borough, and the second resolution was that the school trustees prepare plans and specifications, together with suggestions regarding ways and means to secure such increased accommodations, and report at a future time. The two resolutions were unanimously adopted by the meeting.

The meeting was called to order by President Samuel St. John McCutchen, of the Board of Education, who was made chairman, and he gave a brief outline of the object for which the meeting was called. He dwelt on the necessity of adding after the very young children who are eligible to attend the kindergarten department, and considered that it is essential to see that the children at the age of four should be given the proper start. He said that at present there are thirty-six sittings in the kindergarten department with an average attendance of ninety-one, and it has been found necessary to divide the department into two grades. Mr. McCutchen then gave a number of figures to show that the attendance in three departments in the first and second grades is much larger than the seating capacity. As a result a new class had been formed and there is now no room for the class. The speaker thought it very important to see that light, heat and ventilation be considered in making any further improvements. He stated that a child should have at least 300 cubic feet of room in a school so that every advantage for the health can be looked after. Mr. McCutchen then said that there are two things that have been considered by the Board. First, that a building be erected in the rear of the present building with five or six rooms, where the increased number of scholars can be accommodated temporarily. Second, have the present building as a High School, and establish a primary and grammer school outside in some needed district. He spoke of the Board coming before the citizens in 1893 and asking for more accommodations. At that time the attendance was 544, and at the present time it is 936. Mr. McCutchen said that he did not realize in 1893 what the growth of the school might be.

At this time Mr. McCutchen invited those present to speak freely on the subject under discussion, and Dr. Carroll was the first one to respond. He thought that the tax question should be considered in the first place, but he did not doubt for one minute but what the accommodation is needed. By asking questions he brought out the fact that it is the kindergarten and intermediate departments that are crowded and not the High School and grammar departments. In reply to other questions it was stated that there are now school bonds to the amount of $27,000 out, $9,000 on the original building, and on the addition there is somewhere about $16,000. Last year $2,500 was paid off.

James Carson, of Belmont avenue, urged the people to give the Board of Education such an amount of money as is needed, and that they erect a school building at the corner of Fairview and Westervelt avenues, which he considered to be the best location for the borough for an additional school building. In his judgement he thought $10,000 would cover the expense. Mr. Carson spoke several times during the evening and he criticised John Goodwin, who took an opposite view. He also opposed J. W. A. Bauersachs, who held that a school building was needed in the Prideville district, in the vicinity of Harrison street.

John Goodwin spoke two or three times and he wanted to impress on the minds of all the necessity of keeping the tax rate low, but at the same time give the children of the borough sufficient accommodations. He stated that he was the father of the free school-book system in this State and gave several illustrations to prove his statement. He showed the position of the man who rolls in wealth and the man who is obliged to work hard for the money he earns. He told how hard it was for him to get an education; how he was obliged to carry wood into the district school building and clean the school in order that he might receive instruction. He said that if another building was erected in another part of the borough it would mean another superintendent and a janitor. This he said could be avoided by placing a building in the rear of the present structure.

C. W. McCutchen was the next speaker and he received the hearty endorsement from all present in what he had to say. He stated that he considered the public school an institution that would raise the actual value of the property in the community in which it was located, and he deemed it to be to the best interests of the borough to keep the standard of the schools high and to give the best of accommodations. He said that as a resident of Bull Frog city, he agreed in a measure with John Goodwin, and thought the tax rate should be looked after. He also said that in view of the fact that the borough's energetic Mayor was having the property owners lay stone walks around vacant lots, and the Board of Education was asking for a new school building, that it is very important that the taxes should be kept as low as possible. His main point was, however, that sufficient accommodation be given the children, and he knew the citizens would stand by the Board.

Questions of where the building should be located entered largely into the discussion, and it was the sense of the meeting that the building should be located somewhere beside the place now owned by the borough. Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., spoke with no uncertain sound on this point and he was not alone in his opinions. He did not consider it to be to the interest of people after the very young children who are eligible to attend the kindergarten department, and considered that it is essential to see that the children at the age of four should be given the proper start. He said that at present there are thirty-six sittings in the kindergarten department with an average attendance of ninety-one, and it has been found necessary to divide the department into two grades. Mr. McCutchen then gave a number of figures to show that the attendance in three departments in the first and second grades is much larger than the seating capacity. As a result a new class had been formed and there is now no room for the class. The speaker thought it very important to see that light, heat and ventilation be considered in making any further improvements. He stated that a child should have at least 300 cubic feet of room in a school so that every advantage for the health can be looked after. Mr. McCutchen then said that there are two things that have been considered by the Board. First, that a building be erected in the rear of the present building with five or six rooms, where the increased number of scholars can be accommodated temporarily. Second, have the present building as a High School, and establish a primary and grammer school outside in some needed district. He spoke of the Board coming before the citizens in 1893 and asking for more accommodations. At that time the attendance was 544, and at the present time it is 936. Mr. McCutchen said that he did not realize in 1893 what the growth of the school might be.

At this time Mr. McCutchen invited those present to speak freely on the subject under discussion, and Dr. Carroll was the first one to respond. He thought that the tax question should be considered in the first place, but he did not doubt for one minute but what the accommodation is needed. By asking questions he brought out the fact that it is the kindergarten and intermediate departments that are crowded and not the High School and grammar departments. In reply to other questions it was stated that there are now school bonds to the amount of $27,000 out, $9,000 on the original building, and on the addition there is somewhere about $16,000. Last year $2,500 was paid off.

James Carson, of Belmont avenue, urged the people to give the Board of Education such an amount of money as is needed, and that they erect a school building at the corner of Fairview and Westervelt avenues, which he considered to be the best location for the borough for an additional school building. In his judgement he thought $10,000 would cover the expense. Mr. Carson spoke several times during the evening and he criticised John Goodwin, who took an opposite view. He also opposed J. W. A. Bauersachs, who held that a school building was needed in the Prideville district, in the vicinity of Harrison street.

John Goodwin spoke two or three times and he wanted to impress on the minds of all the necessity of keeping the tax rate low, but at the same time give the children of the borough sufficient accommodations. He stated that he was the father of the free school-book system in this State and gave several illustrations to prove his statement. He showed the position of the man who rolls in wealth and the man who is obliged to work hard for the money he earns. He told how hard it was for him to get an education; how he was obliged to carry

FARMERS' FEUD LIVESON.

MIDDLESEX MEN DISPUTE OVER USE OF A LANE.

Neighbors Intercede in Vain—They Try to Heal the Wounds, But the Fence and Randolphs are Not on Good Terms.

An effort to settle the Fox-Randolph feud has failed. Each family swears that there shall never be a compromise.

Fox and Randolph are well-to-do farmers living near New Market, and owning farms that adjoin. Michael is the Christian name of Fox, and Ansel is that of Randolph.

It is not an old feud. It all arose over the right to use a lane. The two farms were originally one. When the division was effected, years ago, part of one farm was so situated that it could be approached only by a lane leading through a field of the other. The lane is now on Fox's farm, and the trouble arose over the right of Randolph to use it.

The lane had been used by Randolph for years and no objection had ever been raised until one day when Randolph went to the old accustomed path he found a fence built across it. He tore down the fence. Fox, equally as prompt, built it up again. This tearing down and building up alternated for several days and finally the case found its way into the Court of Chancery.

The testimony advanced by Randolph was to the effect that the right to use the lane was preserved to the owners of his farm by the original separating deed, and that Fox, while owning the land, could not shut up the lane.

Fox insisted that the use of the lane had been simply by courtesy on his part and that there was no actual right for Randolph to use it. It was further brought out that Fox had not objected as long as Randolph and his family used the lane only at intervals, but that when Randolph's son fell in love he and his sweetheart made a regular lover's lane of it, and their constant spooning frightened the cattle who were grazing in the field and made it impossible to keep the stock fat.

The Court of Chancery confessed itself incapable of dealing with the question and it was taken before the Supreme Court on a civil suit for damages brought against Fox by Randolph for closing up the lane. The case was tried and nominal damages of six cents were allowed the plaintiff, a very satisfactory verdict, however, as it determined and established Randolph's right to use the lane. Since then the lane has been kept open, and so has the breach between these two Jersey tillers of the soil.

A self constituted committee of arbitration, composed of property owners and men friendly to the principals in the feud, called upon them and endeavored to effect a settlement and persuade the men to make up their differences. The committee presented the case with much eloquence, showed how more had been spent in lawyers' fees than would have bought the strip in dispute twice over, and similar reasoning of this kind was advanced to help along a reconciliation. It was all of no avail. The Fox-Randolph feud seems destined to make this part of Jersey as famous as the Hatfield-McCoy vendetta has made another State.

FUNERAL OF WARREN MARSH.

Service Conducted by Rev. W. R. Richards—Beautiful Floral Offerings.

The funeral of Warren Marsh was held from his late residence, 340 Franklin place, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. During the services there were selections by a quartette composed of Mrs. F. T. Clawson, Mrs. Utter and Messrs. Gavett and Bunyon. The floral offerings were very beautiful, completely covering the casket. The house was filled with the relatives and friends of the late Mr. Marsh. The interment was at Hillside Cemetery.

—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schultz, of East Second street, will take up their residence on Watchung avenue this week.

CHANGE IN THE GAME LAWS

LOCAL PROTECTORS ADVOCATE THEM

Important Action Taken at the Annual Meeting—Several New Deputy Wardens Wanted

The Plainfield Fish and Game Protective Society held its annual meeting for the collection of dues and the purchase of game at the office of Justice William Newcorn, on West Front street, Wednesday evening.

The report of the secretary showed that 805 rabbits have been imported into this section by the society and liberated within the past year, and 120 more will soon be received. The directors were instructed to order fifteen or twenty dozen quail from Kansas, and to correspond with the State committee on game and fisheries lately appointed by Governor Griggs, with a view to securing the passage of a bill shortening the game season. The society will favor the abolishment of the September shooting season, and will try to have the rabbit season end December 15th instead of in early January.

Application will also be made to the game and fish warden of this State for a quantity of young bass to stock the streams in this vicinity, and an experiment is to be made in the breeding of pheasants. The breeding of a cross species between the Chinese and the English pheasant has lately met with much success in this climate, and local sportsmen have decided to give the idea a trial.

The need of a number of deputy game wardens in this vicinity was discussed, and it was decided to apply to the State warden for the appointment of several such officers.

Several applications of new members were received and referred to the proper committee. The society now has 55 active members and about 70 passive members. The latter are farmers and others who own large tracts of land, which they give into the charge of the society. They are charged no dues, and in return their land is made a game preserve and none but members of the society are allowed to hunt upon it. The club protects the ground from pot hunters and releases game upon it each year.

Death of a New Market Man.

Frank Gaskill, aged 49 years, a resident of New Market, died at his home Friday after a long and tedious illness with consumption. Mr. Gaskill was a blacksmith and for many years was employed by L. M. French, of the borough. He was well known throughout this locality and he had a host of friends and acquaintances. Four children survive him, Misses Lillie and Millie Gaskill, Mrs. Charles Meeker and Mrs. Wm. Coriell. The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house.

GIRL ACCOSTED IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

A Jack, the Chaser, Seems to be Abroad in Plainfield.

OFFENDER IS A SWARTHY ITALIAN.

Maggie Reed Stopped in Front of the Netherwood Hotel, But Terror Made Her Run Fast—She Escaped the Ruffian by Taking Refuge in the House of David Hand in that Neighborhood.

The people of Netherwood are much stirred up over the dastardly act of an Italian in attacking Miss Maggie Reed, the fifteen year-old daughter of John Reed, proprietor of the Netherwood brick yards.

The attack occurred at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon on the road which passes in front of the Netherwood Hotel. Miss Reed had been to the house of a neighbor, and was returning to her home, near the hotel. The girl had no thought of danger as the houses are numerous in that vicinity. As she was passing in front of the hotel lawn she saw the form of a man dodge behind one of the clumps of shrubbery that odorn the lawn.

When she passed the spot the man sprang forth and made an attempt to hold Miss Reed.

She tore herself from him, screaming, and ran. Her assailant followed, shouting to her in Italian.

The terror-stricken girl made her way to Berkeley avenue and reached the home of David Hand. The man followed her almost to the door, muttering in Italian, and occasionally calling in English for her to stop.

Mr. Hand happened to be at home when the frightened girl burst through the door. She pointed out of doors and managed to tell the story of her pursuit.

Hand, who is a powerful man, rushed forth and gave chase to the Italian, who began to retreat after the girl entered the house. The fellow took to the woods and soon succeeded in eluding his pursuer.

The girl was weak from fright and exhaustion, and it was some time before she was able to walk home, protected by an escort.

She was able to give a good description of her assailant, who was evidently a laboring man, being dressed in the overalls and jumper of a mechanic. He was short and dark, and was evidently an Italian. The description tallies closely with that of the man who made a similar attack on Miss Maggie Kennedy on Rockview avenue last Thursday evening, and both deeds are thought to have been the work of the same ruffian.

LITTLE CHURCH FOLKS HAVE A DOLL FESTIVAL

PICTURE GALLERY OF TABLEAUX.

The Affair Was the First Social Venture Held in the New Lecture Room of Trinity Church.

The children of the primary department of the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church held a successful dolls' festival in the church P. L. evening. The entertainment was the first one given in the new lecture room.

The first part of the programme consisted of a picture gallery made up of tableaux by the primary children, the different pictures shown were: "At school," Mae Anthony, leader; "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me," "Little Pilgrims," "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread," "Blessed to the Son of David" and "Feed My Lambs."

After a piano solo by Miss Nettie Kreitling, who presided at the piano throughout the evening, Miss Bessie Randall gave in excellent manner a recitation, "He and I."

The second part was the dolls' festival proper. The different children in taking part came upon the platform accompanied by their dolls and recited selections appropriate to their parts. The programme was as follows: Introduction, Hattie Randall; "A Tiny Girl," Elsie Tier; "Dollie's drive," Lena Bohan; "What dollie has," Annie Bodine; "Going for the doctor," Minnie Nischwitz; "Doctor Tweedle," Willie Nischwitz; "Rose Ann," Isa Yall; "Doll's dressmaker," Luella Day; "The fate of a doll," Lulu Vall; "The doll's teacher," Hazel Martin; "Grandmamma's doll," Anna Randall; "Dolly's Wedding," Lena Bodine; "The proud doll," Ida Tier; "Mother," Hattie Randall; "Daughter," Anna Holder; "Nurse," Bessie Reighton; "Jessie, little invalid," Carrie Krewson; "The wedding," Anna Martin; "The dressmaker," Bessie Randall; "The recovery," Anna Holder; "My Minna," Gussie Kreitling; "A cane for nurse," Lucy Corriel; "Good night, dolly," Dora Wilson; "A case of insomnia," Mabel Vanderhoof; "Slumber song," and "Good night," Hattie Randall.

An offering was taken amounting to $14.10.

To Devote His Time to Public Duties.

Surrogate-elect H. N. Spencer, of the borough, has decided to give up his store business on Somerset street when he takes his new position. Just what disposition will be made of the business he has not yet decided. He may lease the store to some outside party who may still continue the same line of business.

The germs of consumption are everywhere.

There is no way but to fight them.

If there is a history of weak lungs in the family, this fight must be constant and vigorous.

You must strike the disease, or it will strike you.

At the very first sign of failing health take Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites.

It gives the body power to resist the germs of consumption.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

DISCIPLINED BY PRIEST.

CATHOLICS DON'T LIKE ITALIANS TO ATTEND PROTESTANT MISSION.

An Priest Refused to Perform the Church Marriage Service When He Learned That a People Had Joined by Civil Ceremony.

The Westfield Italian colony is much agitated over an attempt that is being made by the Italian Roman Catholic priest at Elizabeth, to prevent his countrymen from attending the Italian Protestant mission which was established there by the Westfield Y. M. C. U. The mission has been in operation in the town for over a year, and has a native pastor whose work has resulted in drawing a large number of Italians to the mission. The mission has attracted the attention of the Roman Catholic priests, who have been making inquiries at the drift of the number of Italians who attend the mission. On Thursday, December 5th an Italian couple, Thomas Maurizio and Congetta Cuoco were married by Justice of the Peace Collins.

Both were Roman Catholics and for a time they began to question the efficacy of the civil marriage ceremony by which they were united. Friday morning they went to Rev. Luther Smith, the priest of Holy Trinity church, to be remarried. When it learned of the civil marriage, Father Smith refused to perform the ceremony. Not daunted by this he at once telegraphed to the Italian priest at Elizabeth, and he came to Westfield and married them again. There was a large attendance of Italians at the church to witness the marriage, and at the close of the ceremony the Elizabeth priest lectured the company severely upon their attendance at the Protestant mission. It is said he had been reported to him that the pastor of the mission had induced his Italian flock to destroy all the pictures of the Virgin Mary in their homes. This he denounced as a heresy of the worst type, and warned all present not to enter the mission again, under penalty of being placed under the ban of the Catholic church. The influence of the priest's words was very marked, and it is thought that he may have dealt the mission its death blow.

SHAME DROVE HER TO POISON.

Rose Mack, Ordered From a Rogers Ave. Home, Drank Carbolic Acid.

Rose Mack, allowed to be one of the handsomest girls in Elizabeth, took carbolic acid Thursday with suicidal intent, and was taken to the City Hospital, where it is reported she is dying.

The girl, who is twenty years old, went to Elizabeth from Plainfield. There she had been mixed up in an affair which nearly resulted in wrecking the happiness of a home. In Elizabeth her record was not generally known, but the police were aware of it, and several times they had occasion to threaten her with arrest if she did not mend her ways.

In some way she became acquainted with the Misses Snyder, of 24 West Grand place, who had never heard of her past. Wednesday night she induced them to allow her to remain in their house, unknown to their parents.

At noon Thursday Mrs. Snyder discovered she was in the house and ordered her to depart. The girl took a bottle of carbolic acid from a mantel and walked out of the house and drank the poison.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Librarian's Report for December, 1897.

Vols. added during the month by purchase	160
Vols. added by gift	41
" " by Peabody collection	1
" " by binding	12
Volumes in library	13,986
Number of card-holders	4,000

HOME CIRCULATION.

Fiction	1,202
Juvenile	711
Travels	115
History	32
Biography	23
Poetry	8
Drama	4
Fine Arts	62
Science	29
Philosophy	8
Religion	240
Miscellaneous	253
Periodicals, etc.	42
Total	2,729
Number of vols. over number circulated at last report, Dec. 1897	1,257
Number of vols. in building	3,986

EMMA L. ADAMS, Librarian.

Sunshine.

Just a bit of real sunshine and dream dropped into our office this week. A thing of beauty is Vick's Seed and Floral Guide, with its wealth of delicate tints, blue, pink and gold, and the Golden Day Lily and Sunbank Aster emblazoned in bold relief. The many half-tone illustrations are as life-like as is possible to make by photography. One can almost smell the fragrance from the flowers, and the radishes and asparagus in the dishes look very tempting. No wonder but this catalogue is the best put out by James Vicks Sons, of Rochester, N. Y., during the forty-two years they have been in business. And next year will be their Golden Wedding anniversary, and it is their intention to give a handsome souvenir to each customer for 1898. If interested in good gardening write at once, simply mentioning this paper, and receive a copy of this elegant seed catalogue free.

IT IS A CONTRACT CASE.

AN INTERESTING LAWSUIT STOPPED VERY SUDDENLY.

H. C. N. Johnson Left a Quantity of Stone on a Westfield Lot and It Was Used in the Construction of a Building.

An interesting lawsuit was stopped very suddenly in Justice Newcorn's court Friday, when it was discovered that the action was properly one of contract instead of in tort.

The plaintiff in the case was H. C. N. Johnson, of this city, and the defendant was John C. Howard, a builder of Summit. Johnson, who is a dealer in bluestone, sold a quantity of that material to Adam Huffman, of Westfield, last June. After Huffman received the stone he discovered that there was a larger quantity than he needed, and an effort was made to dispose of the extra stone.

Howard, the defendant in the suit, was then about to erect a large brick storage warehouse on North avenue, Westfield, and Huffman allowed him to take a quantity of the stone for use in this contract. When Johnson called upon Huffman for payment of his account, the latter presented him with an order upon Howard for the value of stone taken by the latter.

Johnson accordingly went to Howard for payment of the bill, but he was informed that the builder had no use for the stone in question, but that he could have it at any time by sending for it. Johnson, however, allowed the stone to remain and a few months later when he went to cart it away, it had been used in the construction of the building, and was firmly held by bricks and mortar. Howard, when asked to settle for the stone, referred Johnson to the owner of the building for payment.

Johnson later on rendered a bill to Howard for the value of the stone, and subsequently he brought action against Howard for trover and conversion.

When the case was called this morning the defense made a motion for a non-suit, on the ground that the rendering of the last bill by Johnson changed the case to one of contract. The motion was granted and a new summons was immediately issued, on contract. The case will be tried the 24th inst.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last evening, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, the Supreme Councilor of the Universe, to remove from our midst our beloved and esteemed brother, William E. Bicknell; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we mourn the loss of our brother and bow in humble submission to the will of our Supreme Councilor, be it

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family of our late brother, and also placed on the minutes and published in each of the daily papers; and the charter of the order be draped for thirty days.

A. G. Adams,
G. S. Martin,
T. E. Currin,
Committee.

Plainfield, January 11th, 1898.

An Exchange of Property.

H. J. Martin, who has for sometime resided on West Front street, will move back to North Plainfield April 1st, and occupy the house he formerly lived in on Jackson avenue. He has just traded his property in this city for that in the borough. The house to be occupied by Mr. Martin will be thoroughly remodeled and all of the latest improvements will be introduced. The trade was made with H. E. Riser, of this city, who owned the property on Jackson avenue. The other house and lot owned by Mr. Martin on West Front street, adjoining the above property, he has disposed of to W. H. Bobt, the carpenter.

Received an Honorable Discharge.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, has resigned his office as ensign in the third division of the New Jersey Naval Reserve owing to the press of his duties at Stevens Institute and the fact that he graduates from that institution this year. His resignation was accepted and he has received his honorable discharge from Governor Griggs.

An Approaching Wedding

One of the largest weddings of the season will take place in the First M. E. church the evening of February 22d, when Miss Emma Gamberton, of Pearl street, will be united to George Hobbs, a large lumber dealer, of Newark. Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony. The residence of the bride and groom will be in this city.

Died on the Pacific Slope.

E. H. L. Randolph, who formerly resided in this city on West Seventh street, died in Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 17th, where he had gone for his health. Mr. Randolph was thirty-three years of age and is survived by his mother, his wife and their four children, all of whom were at his bedside at the time of his death.

Discharged From the Hospital.

Edward Marcellus, of East Third street, who was kicked in the face sometime ago and lost one eye, was discharged from the hospital Friday. He will receive a new eye in a short time.

BURGLARS CRACK DUNELLEN'S POSTOFFICE SAFE

STOLE $300 IN STAMPS AND 68 CENTS IN MONEY AND ELUDED CAPTURE.

Were Seen By Wilbur Miller, Who Reported His Suspicions of Burglary—A Minute Later the Robbery Took Place—Interior of Postoffice Demoralized.

A flash of fire, followed by a loud explosion, awakened quiet Dunellen Thursday, and soon afterward the citizens learned that the postoffice at North and Washington avenues was broken into and robbed of $300 in stamps and 68 cents in small change.

In various drawers about the room there were small amounts of money, but that was not disturbed, neither was any of the books or mail.

It was a few minutes before 4 o'clock Thursday when Wilbur Miller, an employe at the roundhouse of the Central Railroad, was passing along North avenue in front of the postoffice. It was dark and very foggy. He was able to see a man standing just inside of the postoffice door, while at one end of the building stood another man. The latter was tall, while the other was rather short. At the time a train was passing on the Central, and this sound prevented the thieves from hearing the footsteps of Mr. Miller. When the latter appeared, the man in the office remarked, "Cheese it, here comes a man!" The man on the stoop walked away around the corner of the building and all was quiet.

Mr. Miller felt sure that something was wrong. He hastened to the railroad station to inform the operator and Arthur Vail, car-cleaner, that he thought there were robbers in the postoffice. While the three men were discussing the question, they heard the loud explosion. Then followed a crash of glass which was blown out of the front windows. The report awakened people living within two and three blocks of the building, and it was not long before a crowd assembled to learn the cause.

Mrs. James Anderson, living over the postoffice, was the first one to appear on the scene. She saw no one about at the time, but she noticed several men coming from the railroad station to the postoffice.

In the meantime Arthur Vail went to the homes of Constable Wyhuskey and Postmaster Charles Coriell. They arrived quickly, but there was no hope of catching the thieves.

The thieves left behind the tools consisting of a brace, wrench, screwdriver, etc., and quantity of fuse. Outside the building an overcoat was found hanging on a hedge fence. It is of a brown color and all that was found in it was a Rand & McNally railroad guide of Pennsylvania.

Postmaster Coriell made an investigation inside and found that the handle of the safe door had been taken out and that the door was open. By removing the handle the thieves were able to put a large quantity of powder inside, after which they used the fuse. Close by the safe stood a large old fashioned desk. That was blown to pieces and the wall next to the safe was burned considerably. The strange part of the affair is that the partition fixtures were not damaged in the least, although there is considerable glass broken in the front.

Close by the stove hung an apron belonging to Miss Staats, an assistant in the office. When Mrs. James Anderson came down stairs after the explosion she noticed that the apron was burning. She quickly put the fire out. The lamp behind the partition was found in the middle of the floor, but there was no light.

The tools used by the burglars were from Willard Apgar's turning mill and Paxson VanArsdale's blacksmith shop. They were found scattered about the floor. The lock on the outside door was found in the middle of the road. It was broken in several pieces.

Mrs. Wallace, the owner of the building, who sleeps upstairs, heard the report and looking out of the window saw smoke pouring from the windows. At first she thought the build ing was on fire.

At an early hour Detective Dougherty, of the Central Railroad, was at the scene of the robbery, and he secured information that will help him to investigate the affair.

Postmaster Coriell at once notified the postal authorities, and later in the day an inspector came to Dunellen.

The safe occupied a position in a corner back of the partition and could not be seen from the street.

Constable Wyhuskey is also working on the case and will endeavor to ferret out the mystery. Soon after the robbery telegrams were sent to all of the nearby towns notifying the authorities to be on the lookout for the thieves. There seems to be a general impression that there were three of the robbers, and that while one was working at the safe, one stood at the door and another one was on duty outside.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the New Market Baptist church, told a reporter Thursday morning that he was awakened between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning by two or three men, who ran by his house at full speed, but he thinks that they were after a train and had nothing to do with the robbery.

FENDER SAVED HIM.

A School Boy Struck by a Trolley Car on Somerset Street.

What might have been a serious accident was averted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the corner of Manning avenue and Somerset street. Fred Pasch, Jr., eight years old, living at 46 Race street, was coming from the Borough Public School and was crossing the street at the corner of Manning avenue. Young Pasch claims that the motorman did not ring his bell. The end of the fender struck the lad and threw him to one side, instead of drawing him under the car. He received a few slight bruises, and was not seriously injured. The car was not going very fast, and when the boy was struck there was hardly sufficient force to do him any severe injury. At the time the trolley car was going in the direction of the mountains.

Death of Lewis T. Compton

Lewis T. Compton, of West Front street, died at 4 o'clock Saturday after a long illness. Mr. Compton had been complaining for over a year although he was able to go about considerably. He was well-known about Plainfield, where he lived for the most part of his life. He was a brother of C. K. Compton, of the borough, and Mrs. J. A. Clark, of West Front street, with whom he lived. One child survives him, his wife and two children died some time ago.

A Suit Settled.

For nearly two years there has been a suit pending in the Union County Courts brought by Dougherty against J. E. Martine. Dougherty is a glass dealer. The case was settled Wednesday, just as it was called. Counselor W. K. McClure represented Mr. Martine, and Steele & Meehan represented the plaintiff. The settlement was made according to the terms offered by Mr. Martine at the commencement of the suit.

Entertained His Sunday-School Class.

Horace J. Martin, of West Front street, entertained his Sunday-school class at his home Friday evening. All the members were present and the feature of the evening was a gramaphone exhibition given by H. J. Martin, Jr. The rest of the evening was devoted to playing games, after which refreshments were served to all.

UNION COUNTY'S JAIL WARDEN.

Three Candidates for the Place—Blore Will Try the Veteran Act.

There is a pretty three-cornered fight being waged now for the wardenship of the county jail between Chief of Police George Wright, of Rahway; former Chief of Police Charles A. Dodd of Plainfield, and Freeholder William H. Hulskamper, of Elizabeth.

The Republican members of the Board of Freeholders, who have the appointment, held one caucus on the subject, but could not unite on a candidate. Mr. Dodd, it is said, made the strongest showing at the caucus, and it is alleged would have been chosen had not the supporters of the other candidates united to force an adjournment.

Another caucus will be held next week, and meanwhile some tall wire pulling will be done by rival candidates. Freeholder Hulskamper is somewhat handicapped by being Journal Clerk of the Assembly, as his opponents say he wants too much. It is rumored, however, that he has five votes sure out of the thirteen Republican members of the Board of Freeholders.

The term of the present warden, John C. Blore, has expired. Mr. Blore is a veteran of the war, and no matter who the caucus decides upon Mr Blore will fight for retention in office under the Veteran act. The Republicans claim to have the opinion of County Attorney Godmestan that the Veteran act does not apply to Mr. Blore's position. The position is for five years, and the salary is $ 50 a year with an additional $400 for an assistant and $300 for a matron.

Reception and Supper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hovell gave a reception followed by a supper, at their home, 826 East Front street, last Friday. Guests were present from Newark, Elizabeth, Westfield, Cranford and this city. Supper was served at 12 o'clock. The music was furnished by Frazee's orchestra.

Entertained the Bachelors.

Charles Dunlap, of East Fifth street, entertained a few of his bachelor friends at his home last Friday. Euchre was the principal event of the evening. Refreshments were afterwards served.

KLINE MAKES DISCORD.

COLORED REPUBLICAN DIDN'T GET WHAT HE WAS PROMISED.

He Wanted to be a Doorkeeper in the Assembly, but at the Last Moment He Failed to Secure the Appointment

If there is any value in signs, a lively fight is on among the Republicans in this county over the failure of William A. Kline, the colored Republican leader, of this city, to obtain an appointment as doorkeeper of the Assembly.

Kline has been a loyal party man, and has worked unceasingly for the machine in this city for a number of years, and has made a host of friends among the politician by whom he was regarded as a trustworthy lieutenant. On two previous occasions he has tried for the appointment of doorkeeper and was defeated by a hair.

This year he was practically assured of the place and went to Trenton with strong indorsements. His pull failed to work for some reason, however. He was unceremoniously turned down and the appointment went to an Elizabeth man.

When the news reached this city the indignation of Kline's friends, both white and colored, knew no bounds. It was openly hinted, moreover, that his defeat was due to the machinations of a few Plainfield Republicans who were animated by personal spite.

The incident has been the one topic of conversation in local political circles for the past few days, and it is said that Kline's friends are grinding up their knives preparatory to taking a h ck at the scalps of the conspirators who were responsible for his downfall.

BIG TROLLEY CONSOLIDATION.

The Jersey Traction and the Newark and South Orange Companies Unite.

The directors of the Newark and South Orange Trolley Railroad Company have completed a deal whereby its road becomes consolidated with the North Jersey Traction Company lines. As nearly the same men were interested in both companies the consolidation was easily made.

The details of the deal have not been made public, but it is acknowledged that the company will control every street railroad in North New Jersey except the lines owned or controlled by the Consolidated Traction Company. Its lines will be extended continually so as to reach every city, town and village in the northern part of the State, and to eventually connect with the trolleys of the northeastern section of Pennsylvania, which now centre in Easton. The deal in time may effect the Plainfield system.

The combined capital of the company under the consolidation is $5,000 000, each company having been capitalized at $2,500,000. The stock of the South Orange Company is owned by nine persons and two estates. The same owners control the stock of the North Jersey company.

It is said that the consolidation, under which the lines of the Suburban Traction Company are also controlled, was made to offset plans of the Consolidated Traction Company to get control of the South Orange line.

THE LIBRARY DIRECTORS.

Teachers' Cards Issued to North Plainfield Instructors.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Public Library was held January 3d, to attend to such business as ordinarily comes before a regular meeting and also to consider the question of the new building. Directors M. W. Tyler, Wm. H. Larrabee, J. B. Dumont, J. Evarts Tracey and Wm. M. Stillman were present.

The library committee reported that they had arranged to let the teachers of the North Plainfield High School department have four teachers' cards for the annual charge of $25. The action of the committee in this particular was approved.

The art committee reported that the shelving for the Cloisonne collection had been completed according to the contract and presented bill therefore of C. Stimpson, contractor, for $240.45 The report was approved and the bill ordered paid from the legacy given the Library by the late James S. Nason.

The sum of $350 was appropriated from the general fund for the purchase of books under the direction of the library committee.

Turkey to be Served.

The members of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church are asking their friends to reserve the evenings of January 27th and 28th, for they are going to give a fine turkey supper at that time in the new lecture room of the church. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock p. m., and the price of admission, including the supper, will be 35 cents.

A Dozen Street Party.

Miss Emma Vetterlein, of Duer street, entertained a few friends last Friday at her home. The evening was pleasantly passed in a social manner, and the serving of refreshments added to the enjoyment of the guests.

PLIGHTED LOVE FOR LIFE

FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN THE BOROUGH THURSDAY EVENING.

Miss Idolette DeBurr Randolph and Jos. Mills Smalley the Contracting Parties—Bride's House Lavishly Arranged

An auspicious society event of last Thur day was the marriage of Miss Idolette DeBurr Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F Randolph, of Somerset street, to Jed Mills Smalley, of Craig place, which was celebrated at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The happy affair was attended by a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends from this city and numerous other places. The home presented a scene of beauty. The use of the rarest flowers and southern smilax, arranged artistically about the rooms, was the admiration of all.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the First Baptist church. It was simple and beautiful. The bridal party entered the parlor while the popular Mendelssohn wedding march was being rendered by Prof. Nathan Guttman's orchestra. The party formed a semi circle midway between the parlor and reception room beneath an arch of roses and smilax, where they were met by the officiating clergyman.

The bride, an attractive brunette, was richly gowned in white brocaded satin trimmed prettily with pearl ornaments. She carried a bouquet of hyacinths and white roses. Her maid of honor, Miss Minnie Smalley, niece of the groom, wore a gown of green satin, trimmed with lace and green chiffon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The best man was City Judge George DeMeza, an intimate friend of the groom.

While the ceremony was being performed and during congratulations the orchestra played choice selections. Mr. and Mrs. Smalley were the recipients of the warmest expressions of best wishes, success and happiness from those present, giving strong evidence of the popularity of the bride and groom.

One of the delightful features of the event was the wedding supper which was complete in every particular.

The bride's father is one of the chiefs of the Postal Telegraph Cable Company at their New York office. The wedding was attended by nearly all of the chiefs of the above company.

The groom is the proprietor of a successful meat business on Somerset street, and both he and his wife are held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Smalley left the scene of the festivities, amid a shower of rice and old shoes, for an extended southern trip. While they are away they will visit Mr. Smalley's brother, W. L. Smalley and family, Mr. and Mrs. August G. Trust, and several other friends living in different parts of the south. On their return they will reside in North Plainfield.

The bride and groom were handsomely remembered by their relatives and friends who showered them with a large number of beautiful and useful gifts, consisting of silverware, goldware, furniture, glassware, etc. A handsome present was a large armchair which was given K. by the employes of the Plainfield Beef Company and the Union Beef Company.

Among the guests who witnessed the marriage were the following: Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Randolph, parents of the bride; Mayor John F. Wilson, Councilmen J. G. MacLaughlin, L. B. Woolston, Murray Burtis, George T. Rogers, William J. Schutt, T. J. Carey; Collector H. N. Spencer and wife, Borough Clerk James K. Arnold and wife; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, Senator Reed and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Day, Mr. and Mrs. David Smalley, Mrs. A. I. Smalley, Miss Elizabeth Smalley, Miss Lizzie Day, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin, Mrs. Gillem, Miss Emma Gillem, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Tolles, Herbert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vail, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Roberts, Arthur Cannon, Alex. Milne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Miss Coriell, Fred Sandford, Miss Jeannette Simpson, Miss May MacLaughlin, Harry MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. L. Warren Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Emmons, of Plainfield; Prof. I. N. Lamond, J. W. Lamond and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Cadmus, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader, Miss Jeneseu, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. William Butts, Dr. Wagert, Mr. and Mrs. TenEyck, Mr. and Mrs. Dugy, Prof. Robert Connor, of Greater New York; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Conklin, of Huntington, L. I.; Mrs. A. C. Randolph and daughters, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. J. Crooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, of Westfield; Miss Minnie Ammerman, of Madison; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Randolph, Jr., of Rahway; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. David Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Sandford, of Cranford.

Miss Angie Kuhl, of Somerville, has been spending a few days with Miss Elsie Jobs, of Third place.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

GREAT IS THE COMMUTER.

The New Jersey commuter is always recognized as a person of dignified mien, even if necessity does sometimes compel him to stride with more alacrity than grace to catch a train, but his importance to New York as a contributor to the commercial standing of the metropolis, is thus prominently set forth by the Newark News:

Has New York ever stopped to calculate what it loses every time a fog on the North River holds up the New Jersey commuter? This is really an important matter, although heretofore wholly overlooked, and the Bureau of Municipal Statistics should be set to work on it. The result of the inquiry is bound to add immensely to the glory of the New Jersey commuter. Say, as a starting point, that a morning fog holds up the North River ferries for twenty minutes. This means that the tens of thousands of New Jersey men and women are delayed that long in reaching their respective places of business. Therefore the marts of trade do not start 'fo on time. The rules of business does not throb. The wheels of industry do not revolve. Speculation slumbers on. The ticker is mute. The ocean roars against the shore, but navigation is locked up. The whole scheme of trade and commerce lies dormant till the commuter gets there. It is high time that some attempt was made to figure out just what this costs New York in dollars and cents. And when this is done the strongest argument of all will have been advanced why a bridge should be built at once over the North River.

TELEPHONE IN COMPETITION.

It is well known, of course, that the modernized telephone service has made great inroads into the business of telegraph companies, but it will be surprising to know that there is recent complaint from the west that the growing use of the long-distance telephone is acting disastrously on the receipts of the railroads. Other interests are finding cause for worry for the same reason. It is said in Boston that the vocation of the commercial traveler is being driven to the wall. The country retailer can now order daily, instead of awaiting the periodical visit of the "drummer" to learn prices and other facts. This lessening of the services of the "drummer" reflects disastrously upon the country hotels. The city hotels also feel the effect of the telephone. They lost some patronage when the going out of the "drummer" lessened the city visits of the country merchants, and, with the improvement of the telephone, the rural dealer has even less occasion to come to town.

MUST HAVE ADVERTISING.

In every town there are merchants of the cobwebbed variety who believe that advertising does not pay. Men of such stale opinion should take a lesson from the experience of the department stores of Denver, Col. A short time ago the proprietors of these stores combined together to compel the Denver newspapers to lower their advertising rates. The newspapers refused and a boycott was instituted by the department store proprietors. It is related that the fight stirred up the community greatly, the result being that the department stores were almost deserted by purchasers and the proprietors had to surrender or go out of business. They had plenty of bargains in their stores, but no way of inducing the people to come and inspect the goods. Last night the merchants announced that they were beaten and would make new contracts at old terms as soon as possible.

DR. JOHNSTONE'S PROMOTION.

The many friends of Dr. Jocelyn Johnstone, formerly rector of the Church of the Redeemer in the borough, will be pleased to hear of his advancement as one of the officials of the Greater New York government. Dr. Johnstone is now clerk to President Guggenheimer, of the Municipal Assembly, composed of the aldermen of the various boroughs. It is a responsible position, but the incumbent's well-known ability bespeaks his satisfactorily filling the position.

It is not likely that the Borough Council will hold a special meeting this month to make provisions for the appointment of G. F. Brown as collector of the borough for the unexpired time of Collector Spencer, as it will be only a short time before the regular February meeting.

The Orange Journal is authority for the statement that Congressman Fowler will be a candidate for election for another term in the lower house of the National Legislature.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

WANT A NEW-FANGLED NAME.

Piscataway town is not a name that poets would juggle with in rhyme, but for the prosaic people of the community for which it serves as a designation in Middlesex county it serves very well. As a sample of New Jersey nomenclature it is quite eminent. But the people of Piscataway are not going to be filled with big ideas since the advent of the trolley in their midst, and now some are agitating the question of changing their town name to Cambridge. That's quite English, doncher know. There are those, however, who are willing to compromise and call it "Piscataqua." There is, of course, a rural tinge to Piscataqwaytown, but for all that it is not so bad, and we are glad to observe that the latest advices state that the sentiment of the majority is not strongly in favor of a change for a new fangled appelation.

MURDER IN UNION COUNTY.

If George Manshanda tells the truth and the law takes its right course, Union county may at last have a hanging. If the swiftness of Jersey justice is obtained in this case, as it should, Sheriff Kirk will have the disagreeable duty of executing the murderer. But in these days of clever devices by lawyers one can never tell but what justice will be dilly-dallied with or even cheated, and if the alleged murderer of old man Pitts should be convicted he may yet enjoy life for two or three years, though it will be behind the prison bars.

GREATER PLAINFIELD.

For the last three years there has been spasmodic agitation of the con solidation of city and borough, but no one has ever been able to formulate a plan that will bring the majority of the two communities into harmony on the subject of a Greater Plainfield. Now that the Legislative season is at hand, and whatever is accomplished towards making one town out of the two must come from that body, it is opportune for the diplomatically endowed to assert their influence to bring about consolidation.

There are two cities in the metropolitan district that have Mayors of the same name, and Plainfield is one of them. Mt. Vernon is the other one, but the chief executive of the New York State municipality uses the final e in his cognomen—Fiske Incidentally it might be stated that many persons think that this is the correct way to spell His Honor's name of Plainfield, but it is not.

The exemptions allowed to soldiers and firemen in Rahway covers property aggregating $60,000, according to a statement made by Councilman U. M. Osborn.

THIRTY YEARS FOR TEMPERANCE

Anniversary of Sons of Temperance Celebrated Appropriately Last Night.

The thirtieth anniversary of Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, was celebrated last Monday in Washington Hall in an appropriate manner In addition to a large attendance of the members and friends, there was also several visiting delegations from nearby towns.

After the opening devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. L. E. Livermore, W. B. Ayres, on behalf of the division, presented Rev. B. W. Hand with a badge in honor of the celebration of his birthday. Rev. Mr. Hand then made an address of welcome, which was followed with a vocal selection by the Americus Glee Club, of Metuchen. Following this there was an address by Grand Worthy Patriarch J. V. McLeod, of Elizabeth, after which Beulah VanWinkle entertained the audience with a recitation The next number was an exhibition of a graphaphone by Robert Love, and selections on the concertina and organ by H. T. Jessup and Harry Jessup. This was followed with a recitation by Miss Alice Scribner, and a vocal solo by W. C. Smith. Another interesting address was given by Grand Worthy Associate Compton, of Metuchen. The other numbers on the programme consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Honeyman and Miss Try Mattox, and recitations by Miss Mattox and W. R. Mattox. The last number was a selection by the Americus Glee Club, after which all present were invited to the banquet hall where supper was served.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Former Plainfielder Dead

W. F. Bogartus, of New York, formerly of East Front street, died at his home in New York city last week after a short illness. His succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. His death came suddenly. He leaves two daughters who are well known in this city. The funeral was held from the house last Wednesday.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICIALS FIXED

There is Talk of Abolishing Three of the Positions.

ECONOMY SEEMS TO BE IN THE AIR.

The Pay of Police, Fire Department and Other Officials Settled for the Year by the Common Council—It Took Over Two Hours for the Committee of the Whole to Decide the Matters.

The first adjourned session of the City Council for 1898, held Monday evening, was, very unexpectedly, a long and tedious one. It did not appear to be generally known beforehand that the question of salaries would be considered, and it was while settling this matter that two hours and ten minutes were consumed in the ante room. Heretofore the salary matter has come up at the first meeting in February, but for some unknown reason this was changed this year. There was a full lobby, that is at the start, but by the time the Council returned from its recess there were only a few left to witness the closing ceremonies.

Mr. Hetfield was made chairman of the committee of the whole, and he reported after the recess. The offices of veterinary surgeon, treasurer, collector, city clerk, auditor and overseer of the poor were not considered as regards salaries, and the matter was laid over until the next meeting. The office of inspector of buildings is governed by an ordinance and the salary of this office was not touched, although it may be decided later to abolish the office, as was also the case of sergeant of police. The salary of $66 67 was fixed for the latter position last evening, but Messrs. Hetfield, Leifke and Van Herwerden voted against it and there are strong chances that this office may be abolished.

The other salaries fixed are as follows: Chief of police, $90 per month; roundsmen, $62.50 each per month; patrolmen, $60 each per month; chief of fire department, $700; first assistant, $600; second assistant, $100; Drivers Fehring, Daly and Townley, $55 per month; Drivers Ross, Brown, Bush and Bailey, $50 per month; engineer, $75 per year; street commissioner, $1,200 per year, with $300 extra for supervision of the sewer beds; city physician, $365 per year; city judge, $600 per year; corporation counsel, $1,000, including all services; janitor of Council rooms, $200 per year.

It may be decided also to abolish the office of auditor. This matter will be considered later. The $300 allowed the street commissioner will come from the appropriation and will cover the expense of looking after the sewer beds. Last year this work cost the city $600. The salaries were adopted unanimously with the exception of those mentioned above. Mr. Moffett was the only member of the Council absent.

According to laws governing second-class cities, Mr. Barrows offered a resolution that The Daily Press and Courier-News be selected as official papers for the city, providing the Mayor concur in the matter. President Baker appointed Messrs. Buckle, Homan and VanHerwerden as a special committee to confer with the Police Board regarding the selection of suitable places for a jail and city offices.

Residents of West Ninth street asked for a crosswalk on Arlington avenue across West Ninth street. Residents of South avenue petitioned for an extension of electric lights on their avenue. Both resolutions were referred to the proper committees. The bonds of Constables J.C Kirkner, George Rockafellow and Amos Moffett were received and filed.

Mr. VanHerwerden returned the bill of Patay Christmas for sewer work, and offered a resolution providing for the drawing of $521.50 to pay for the extension of the sewers.

Mr. Barrows made and explanation regarding the condition of Watchung avenue between Front street and the brook, and spoke of the necessity of having the street macadamized, inasmuch as the new bridge is completed and the avenue is now being used and there is little prospect of the property owners doing the work at present. The Council voted to macadamize the avenue at an expense of $300.

Mr. Buckle offered several resolutions to the effect that special policemen may be removed without trial or charge; that where a policeman is ill for thirty days he be placed on half-pay till he recovers; that one policeman be added to the force, making seventeen in all; that the city physician be empowered to act as police surgeon. The first resolution was laid on the table, and the matter was referred to the Corporation Counsel for an opinion regarding its legality. The other resolutions were adopted.

On a resolution offered by Mr. Runyon, the Council voted to locate a fire alarm box at the corner of West Front street and Rock avenue.

This concluded the business of the evening and the Councilmen were glad to retire. The next meeting of the Council will be held the first Monday evening in February, when some more important business will be considered.

LEFT HOSPITAL TO DIE AN HOUR LATER.

CHARLES SKIDMORE THE VICTIM.

He Was Assisting to Lift a Box Out of a Wagon When the Fatal Attack Came.

Within an hour from the time of his discharge at Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday afternoon, Charles Skidmore fell dead at the home of his employer, C. M. Dewey, of East Fifth street. The cause of his death was embolism.

Last September Charles Skidmore came to the New York office of Mr. Dewey and wanted a position and a home. He had been a sailor all his life and had saved nothing for a time of need. He had just been discharged from the St. Lukes hospital, New York, where he had had a portion of the intestine next to the stomach removed.

Mr. Dewey took him as a coachman and man of all work, but Skidmore was not able for some time to do any work. About four weeks ago he was sent to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Saturday afternoon Skidmore returned. He said that he had not wanted to leave until the next morning but the nurse thought he ought to go. He looked very pale and his body trembled.

He was assisting in the removal of a box from White's delivery wagon when he wavered. The next moment he fell to the ground. Restoratives were applied and Dr. Hedges summoned.

TAXATION IN SOMERSET.

Some Interesting Statistics on Relation to Public Expenses.

Secretary Arthur P. Sutphen, of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture, has sent his annual report to the secretary of the State Board at Trenton. In it he gives some very interesting facts relating to taxation and expenses in the county. In 1896, he says, the tax levy for Somerset was four pounds, sixteen shillings and six pence, which was raised for "governmental purposes." The earliest record of taxing for county purposes was in the year 1797, when a ten hundred pound was ordered to be raised by tax; in 1823, $3,000; in 1847, $10,000; in 1873, $70,000; in 1897, $75,000, together with an additional appropriation of $16,000 for county roads, making an appropriation of $91,000.

"We are safe in saying," continues the report, "that during the existence of the county more than one third of the moneys raised for county purposes have been expended in building and repairing bridges. Previous to 1870 this county was free from debt (unless the loan it owed as the surplus can be called a debt.) Our debt at the last annual election was more than $75,000.

"This county is so situated with the Raritan river, the north and south branches, the Millstone, Passaic and Lamington rivers coursing through her territory, that it is impossible to build and repair our bridges at a less cost, for a number of years, at least.

"Our court expenses and lunacy bills have very materially increased during the past few years, so much so that the appropriation of $75,000 will be insufficient for the county expenditures during the fiscal year. To complete the county roads now contemplated, will cost the county probably not less than $60,000, which, with the money already borrowed for the completion of the roads, will incur a county debt close to $150,000, (not including the surplus revenue.) The question is, do the people of the county, the taxpayers, the farmers, want this debt? Are they ready for it? And that is just what this Board of Agriculture is organized for, to consider all these matters of vital interest to the farmer."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Ca'arrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional dibease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A Large Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of John J. Regan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Regan, of West Fourth street, took place at St. Mary's church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The church was filled with those who came to show their sympathy for the bereaved family. The funeral cortege was a very long one. The pall-bearers were six boys from St. Mary's school. Appropriate floral tributes covered the casket. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Vigor & Verdicts

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR fulfills all the promises made for it, is the verdict of those who have tried it.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

"I have sold AYER'S HAIR VIGOR for fifteen years and do not know of a single case where it did not give entire satisfaction." — F. M. GROVE, Paunsdale, Ala.

"When disease caused my hair to fall out, I found AYER'S HAIR VIGOR a most excellent preparation, one that does all that is claimed for it." — L. RUSH, Connellsville, Pa.

Vigor

"AYER'S HAIR VIGOR does all that is claimed for it. It restored my hair, which was fast becoming gray, back to its natural color—dark brown." — W. H. HASELHOFF, Paterson, N. J.

Did It

"My head became full of dandruff, and after a time my hair began to fall out. The use of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR stopped the falling out and made the scalp clean and healthy." — Mrs. C. M. AYRES, Mount Airy, Ga.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Little Miss Roberts a Hostess

Last Saturday afternoon Helen Roberts, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday in a fitting an appropriate manner. The little miss invited several of her young friends and the time was pleasantly passed in playing games an having a jolly good time. "Uncle" Dan Roberts and Mrs. Roberts were present and thoroughly enjoyed the festivities with their granddaughter. The young hostess received many useful presents as reminders of the event.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 1 1y

Senator Voorhees an LL D

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred on Senator Foster M. Voorhees Thursday by the faculty of Rutgers College, New Brunswick. Senator Voorhees was a student at Rutgers, and was graduated from that college in 1876.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30 a. m., 12:05 p. m., 2:05, 5, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 11:30 a. m., 12:30, 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8 a. m., 2 and 6:10 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:30 and 4:00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA Direct.

Arrive—8:10, 11:30 a. m., 1:00, and 3:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:30 and 4:00 p. m.
Through mail for West and South, close 1:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:00 p. m.
TODAY IN BRIEF.
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

U. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 15th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3 14, 3 37, 8 03, 8 30, 8 58, 10 18, 10 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday 3 14, 3 37, 8 03, 8 30, 9 58, 10 18, 10 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 4 45, 7 15, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sunday—At 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Passengers for Newark leave Chambers street, 15 minutes earlier than foot of Liberty street.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 15, 7 15, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m.; 12 30, 1 15, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 30, 1 15, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 6 45, 8 38, 9 54, 11 41, 6 45, 8 15, 9 21 p. m. Sunday at 8 38, 9 54, 11 41, 6 45, 8 15, 9 21 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 02, 7 06, 9 00, 11 06, 1 04, 7 06 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 25 a. m., 5 09 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 38 a. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, meeting for Easton, Phillipsburg, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

11 41 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

6 45 p. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 15 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

9 21 p. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, & c with Buffet parlor or sleeping car.

1 04 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

4 06 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, Tamaqua, Shamokin, (buffet parlor to Scranton.)

7 06 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

8 00 a. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 38 a. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

9 54 a. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

6 06 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

8 00 p. m.—Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, &c.

Leave Plainfield at 9 37, 9 54, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday, 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 37, 8 37, 9 54, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday, 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

For Keyport, 3 37, 8 37, 9 54, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sunday, 8 37, 9 30, 11 03 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

For Freehold, 8 37, 8 54, 10 37 a. m.; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 8 37, 8 54, 10 14 a. m. to Lakewood; 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m. Sundays 8 00 a. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 3 37, 8 37, 9 54, 10 14 a. m., 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37 night. Sundays, 9 37, 8 54, 9 30, 10 14 a. m., 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 30, 9 15, 10 37, 11 59 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, Chestnut street wharf, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, South street wharf, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Trenton, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Bordentown, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Burlington, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Riverside, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Riverton, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Palmyra, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Delanco

...makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

PEOPLE HOLD THE POWER

THAT IS THE ESSENCE OF DEMOCRACY, SAYS PROF. SUMNER.

...s Repulsion of Popular Government Seen in the University Extension Course by a Student of Economics.

Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale University, the well-known writer on historical and economic subjects, delivered the second of his series of six University Extension lectures in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Sunday evening.

"What is Democracy?" was the subject of the lecture. He defined democracy as the doctrine of political equality and the policy of majority rule. The etymology of the word signifies a government in which the majority of power is in the hands of no people.

The doctrine that all men are equal is probably as big a falsehood as was ever put into language. If it is true, it is true everywhere, and applies to Chinamen and Hottentots. This line of reasoning shows the fallacy of the dogma. In practice we must make an exception of many persons. Democracy exists best inside of a caste.

Among the dangers of democracy are: First, Jacobinism, which is the absence of laws and a constitution to regulate democracy, and places every person who happens to be in the majority at unspeakable at the mercy of the minority. The second danger is the idea of leveling, which is so prevalent among certain writers at the present day. The tendency of this class is to trample on everything that is nice, elegant and aristocratic. The one virtue of life in this theory is to be seen one of the common people. The test in practice means the steady depression of the individual and the community.

The third danger to which democracy is open is sanscullottism or the theory that there are some people who need indulgence. This theory is wrong. With liberty should go responsibility. If a man's plans fail he should not be rescued from the result. There are many institutions now carried on to save men from themselves.

Populism is another danger to democracy which has lately sprung up. This is the arraignment of those who have not against those who have. The masses who have little begin to ask themselves why since they are the majority they do not vote to have certain things and compel the rich to grant them.

Democracy in this country is inevitable from the conditions existing, and we could not avoid it if we would. The dangers accompanying democracy are not inconsiderable, and we have created certain safeguards which are our institutions. These institutions are all undemocratic but they act as checks to its dangers, and in them lies the safety of the country, not in its democracy.

The institutions which are so important and which we should cherish as the veto power of the President, the construction of the United States Senate, the Constitution and the power of the federal judiciary to declare laws unconstitutional.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Bobay, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The deep ruts in Washington street, between Front and Second streets, are being filled up by Street Commissioner Everett's men.

"For Coughs

I regard Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as superior to any cold or cough medicine made. I have used it for years and am never without a bottle in the house."

J. T. COOKE, Publisher,
Waynesboro, Va.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral
HALF-SIZE BOTTLES, 50c.

THE PARKS AGAIN WHIST CHAMPIONS.

The National Trophy Brought Back to Plainfield.

BALTIMORE CLUB EASILY BESTED

The Baltimores Have Been Playing in Great Form and the Game Was Watched With Great Interest—Parks Played Carefully From the Start and Were Victors by the Score of 24 to 17

After devious wanderings, the American Whist League trophy has returned to Plainfield. Saturday it was captured in Baltimore by the whist four of the Park Club, of this city, after a close contest with the Baltimore Whist Club, and brought back to this city. It was the fifteenth contest for the trophy.

It will be remembered that the Park Club captured the trophy from the New Jersey Whist Club, of Newark, last November. Then the American Whist Club, of Boston, came to this city and played for the trophy. They won and carried the trophy home with them. The next challenger was the Philadelphia Whist Club, who won the cup in their turn. They succeeded in holding the trophy for several contests to be finally defeated by the Baltimore Whist Club. Now the Baltimores have been winning the last four matches until the Parks came along. Before the Parks came, the Baltimore team defeated the New Jersey Whist Club.

The match in Baltimore was a decidedly close one. The Baltimores have been playing in great form of late and counted on defeating the Jersey champions. The home team was somewhat handicapped by the loss of two of the regular players for part of the game. They do not give that as a reason for their defeat, however, but admit that they were fairly outplayed.

The Parks played a careful game from the start. At the end of the first round the Parks were two tricks in the lead, the score being 9 to 7. In the second round the Parks increased their lead by a few tricks. The last round was hard fought, but the Parks showed their superior ability and came out the winners, taking the game by 7 tricks, the score being 24 to 17.

The Baltimore team was composed of Messrs. Whelan, Boeler, Thomas and McCay.

The next match for the trophy will be played next Saturday, when the challengers will be the American Whist Club, of Boston. Only two more games are to be played in the east and then, no matter who holds the trophy at the time, it will go to the western section to be contested for.

DOG BITE DOESN'T HEAL.

Richard Baldwin Had the Wound Property Cauterized at Last.

Richard Baldwin, of Plainfield avenue, was bitten by a favorite hound three weeks ago. The dog acted queerly and Baldwin was told that the animal was going mad. He called the dog and started to tie him when the animal turned and seized Baldwin's right hand in his fangs. The flesh was torn on the back of the hand and first finger.

Baldwin dressed the wound with some simple remedies and supposed that it would heal at once. It did not, however, but became worse. At last Baldwin consulted Dr. Probasco and had the wound cauterized and treated. That was ten days ago. The wound still does not heal and is very painful.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 15, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Somerset County Teachers' Meeting.

A meeting of the Somerset County Teachers' Association will be held Saturday, January 25, 1896, at the public school building in Raritan The morning session opens at 10:30 o'clock. The programme is as follows: "Professional Ability," Hon. Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent; "Life of Comenius," Miss G. Q. Gentber; "Work of Comenius," Miss O. C. Bartolette; "Aims in Geography," William Vandersaal.

A Kindling Wood Factory.

The Plainfield Ice and Coal Storage Company has sold the old Coddington mill and property on Somerset street to William Herman, of the borough, for $2,500, and the purchaser will convert the building into a kindling wood factory. This property was in the Coddington family for over forty years, and it was then sold to the above company. Sometime ago the house and blacksmith shop were sold to Bilyeau & Kliner, who still are in possession of it.

An Infant to be Baptized.

Next Sunday morning, at 11:30 o'clock, in the German Reformed church on Craig place, Emma Katy, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Becker, of Somerset street, will be baptized. Those who will stand up at the ceremony with the parents are Mrs. Emma Rymer, Mrs. Emma Miller and Mrs. Katy Walter, of Greater New York. Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the church, will officiate.

WANTS CHANCERY TO END HIS NUPTIAL VOW.

HENRY H. COREY ASKS FOR DIVORCE.

Has Been Separated From His Wife for Some Time—Under Arrest for Non-support Now.

A petition for divorce has been filed in the Court of Chancery at Trenton by Wm. Newcorn, solicitor for Henry H. Corey of this city, against his wife, Alice V. Corey, on statutory grounds. The allegation sets forth that they were married at Croton, Conn., April 23d, 1882, and resided in Connecticut and Rhode Island until they moved to Plainfield in 1891. They first resided on East Front street, but moved to Maple avenue, North Plainfield, a year ago. They separated several months ago. Corey is now stopping at the Hotel Tuilleries and his wife is boarding on West Front street.

The co-respondents mentioned in the bill are Wallace Vall, of this city, and Joseph Gavin, of the borough.

Senator Charles A. Reed is also counsel for the petitioner. City Judge DeMeza represents the defendant.

Saturday evening Corey was arrested as he was leaving Music Hall. The charge made against him was that of non-support of his wife brought by Overseer of the Poor Marx. He was released on bail furnished by William Newcorn. Monday he appeared before City Judge DeMeza and pleaded not guilty to the charge. His trial was set for Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. He was held under $200, which was renewed.

A NURSE MIGHT SAVE TWO LIVES.

An Aged Borough Couple Sick Without Receiving Proper Care.

A deserving case that is attracting the attention of charitable people is that of Mr. and Mrs. John Heubner, of 63 Harrison street, North Plainfield. Both are ill and confined to their beds and woefully in need of the care of kind and ministering hands to attend to their wants. Mr. Heubner is a carpenter by trade and a member of the Carpenters' Union and has received considerable financial aid from that organization. At present one or more members of the union alit up each night with the afflicted couple. The King's Daughters' nurse has visited them and helped to make them as comfortable as possible. Overseer of the Poor David Weaver has also contributed to their comfort by providing medical attendance and provisions. What the aged couple need most, however, is a nurse to be in constant attendance and give them the care that is necessary for the recovery of their good health. It is a deserving case and ought to be looked after.

ALMOST A CENTENARIAN.

Mrs. Margaret TenEyck Passes Away in Her Ninety-fifth Year.

Mrs. Margaret TenEyck, of 247 East Third street, died at her home Monday morning in the ninety-fifth year of her age, after a long tedious illness accompanied by the feebleness attendant with old age. Mrs. TenEyck lives with her daughter. She was a well-known resident of this city, where she has resided for many years. She was a model Christian woman and held a membership in Trinity Reformed church. For a long time past she was unable to go out and was closely confined to the house. Of late her condition had been very low and her death was expected momentarily. The funeral services were held Wednesday from the house and interment was at Flemington.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

DIME Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

BOSTON, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

STYLE AND FIT GUARANTEED

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

DIED.

KLINER—At Washingtonville, N. J., Wednesday, Jan. 15, 1896, John Henry, son of Henry and Antonetta Kliner, aged 1 month and 10 days.

VAN DEVENTER—In this city, Wednesday, January 15, 1896, Evelina Van Deventer, aged 83 years, 9 months and 13 days.

MARSH—In this city on Wednesday, Jan. 15, 1896, suddenly of heart failure, Warren Marsh, aged 67 years.

HOGAN—In this city, Jan. 13th, 1896, John J. Hogan, aged 7 years, 1 month and 13 days, eldest son of Peter Hogan and Nora Hogan, of 443 West Fourth Street.

GASKILL—On Friday, Jan. 14th, 1896, B. Frank Gaskill, aged forty-nine years and ten months.

PITTS—In North Plainfield, N. J., Saturday, January 11, 1896, Irvin A., son of Walter J. and Emma L. Pitts, aged 7 months.

COMPTON—In this city, January 15, 1896, Lewis C., the youngest son of T. L. and Catherine Compt, aged 21 years.

TEN EYCK—In this city January 17, 1896, Margaret TenEyck, in her 95th year.

YANKIN—Theodore Jane Nankin, in his 30th year.

DEALERS IN HOT AND COLD STUFF.

Postmaster Hetfield and Arthur Gallup to Sell Coal and Ice.

A new firm to deal in ice and coal has just been formed by Postmaster John H. Hetfield and Arthur T. Gallup, of the Potter Press Works. This firm has leased the large ice house near Grant avenue, and through an arrangement made with a Lake Hopatcong Ice Company, they will be supplied with ice. Next summer the firm will erect a trestle near their ice house and build coal sheds so that by next fall they will be able to start the coal business.

It is the intention of the firm to open an office in this city at a convenient place. The firm will not do much in their new business until Mr. Hetfield's term expires at the postoffice, which will be next June. Mr. Gallup will resign his present position at the Potter Press Works.

NEIGHBORS CANNOT AGREE.

Freeholder John H. Tier Causes the Arrest of William C. Butler.

Freeholder John H. Tier appeared before Justice of the Peace Moeher Monday and preferred a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill against his neighbor, Wm. C. Butler.

Mr. Butler was released upon his own recognizance until this morning, when he appeared with his counsel, Nelson Runyon, and waived examination to appear before the Grand Jury. The bail was fixed at $500.

According to the story of Mr. Tier Butler came upon his property yesterday afternoon and when ordered to leave refused to do so. He then struck the plaintiff six blows on the head and shoulders with a heavy cane, using threatening language, it is alleged.

More Voices in the Choir.

The music at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Sunday, was excellent. The heretofore very acceptable choir has been augmented by the addition of four cultivated voices, and the results are most satisfactory to the growing congregation.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES,
FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to do the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master in Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park Avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle, PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS

For all Diseases and Nervous Complaints. They Purify the Blood and give Healthy Action to the entire system.

Cure DYSPEPSIA, HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION and PIMPLES.

SALESMEN WANTED!

To sell our high grade, Improved Nursery Stock. Many new specialties introduced this year for the first time. Entire outfit free. Standard varieties of fruits and ornamentals. No previous experience necessary. Write for terms. Mention this paper. Jones Bros. & Thomas, Maple Avenue Nurseries, West Chester, Pa.

WANTED AGENTS

BOTH MEN AND WOMEN. If you are willing to work, we can give you employment with GOOD PAY, and you can work all or part time, and by mail or traveling. The work is RIGHT AND EASY. WRITE AT ONCE for terms, etc., to

THE HAWKS NURSERY COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y. 94 928

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

cornr Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approved Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and none unless known. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 231 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale, PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 309 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9jly7

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public with out cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses and specifications, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

"ALASKA SABLE."

CATCHY TITLE BY WHICH THE FUR OF THE SKUNK IS KNOWN.

The Animal Farming a Profitable and a Growing Industry—Good Skins Worth 80 Cents Each—How the Animals Are Bred—Unknown to the Old World.

All persons who have any practical acquaintance with the business of farming skunks are requested to communicate with the Department of Agriculture. That institution has been beset with appeals for information on the subject, and its scientific experts lack satisfactory data on which to base reports. They have tried to get facts from several concerns now engaged in this interesting occupation, but there seems to be a lot of mystery about it. Those who are in it find it so profitable apparently, that they do not want to offer any inducement or help to possible competitors. What they know they prefer to keep to themselves.

Nevertheless, the skunk-farming industry is a growing industry in this country. The demand for pelts is far greater than the supply, and prices are correspondingly good. The latest quotations for skunk skins make them worth 80 cents apiece wholesale, for "black, prime, cased." This is for the first quality, the fur being all black and the skin cured by turning it in side out and drying it on a board. White skins are worth 10c; "full striped" (a white stripe running clear down the back), 25c, and "broken striped," 45 c.

Skunk skins are one of the biggest items in the fur market. They go under the attractive name of "Alaska sable." It is not believed that there are many skunks in Alaska, the latitude being too high for them, but a good many thousand of the pelts are taken in the British possessions, passing through the hands of the Hudson Bay Company. A vast number of ladies' muffs are made of this kind of fur, which frequently is passed off for that of the big, long-haired Abyssinian monkey.

Eighty cents apiece may not seem a very high wholesale price for the best skunk skins, but the profit in the farming business referred to lies mainly in the fact that it involves no expense worth mentioning. The most barren land is suitable for the purpose, fenced in, and the animals may be fed on offal.

There are quite a number of skunk farms in operation. One of these is run by a fur company near Ithaca, N. Y. Another was started not long ago by some hatchet-faced Yankees, who got hold of a big patch of rocky and otherwise worthless land, inclosed it and stocked it with a few healthy skunks, leaving them to do the rest. This is one of the beauties of skunk farming—it requires almost no attention. The company of hatchet-faces started its stock with refuse from the abattoir, which costs them nothing. The little animals are by no means hard to manage, being as tamable as kittens. In fact, the Mephitis Americana is remarkable for its lack of fear of man. This may be due in part to its confidence in its own weapon, but it will never use this except under great provocation. In other words, it must be truly frightened, or actually hurt. It is the neighborhood of human habitation. The little spotted skunks are often kept as pets by miners in the far West, the undesirable glands being cut out.

One point which the government experts want to ascertain is how the skunk farmers kill their stock. Old trappers say that a skunk will never be upset in its peculiar secretion if its back is broken by a quick blow. The reason for this doubtless is that the rear part of its body is paralyzed by such a blow. On the other hand, it is known that the most instant death by shooting, even if the animal's head be blown off, will not prevent the use of the function.

Valuable uses are found nowadays for the most noxious things. Some of the most precious medicines are deadly poison. So it is not surprising to learn that the peculiar secretion of the skunk is a remedy for asthma.

It is rather an interesting fact that the skunk and the mink are the only true fur-bearing animals that have ever been semi-domesticated. Minks have been bred for their skins in semi-tame minkeries, just as is being done with the skunks in what might be termed skunkeries. Skunk and mink both belong to the family of Mustelidae. In this family are included all of the animals which are classified in a strict sense as fur-bearing. Among them are the ermine, the marten, the weasel, the wolverine, the badger, the otter, the otter, the ratel of Africa and India, the tayra of South America, the teledu or burrowing badger of Java, the sea otter, the sand badger of India, Siam and Tibet, the ichneys of South Africa, and the "fisher" of North America.

The skunk itself is an animal unknown in the Old World, being exclusively American.—Co. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

An Intelligent Definition.

A Kansas girl, the daughter of a Greenwood county rancher, was sent East to school. "What do you know, my child?" the head teacher asked her. "Oh, farming," the new pupil replied. "Well," tell me what is a farm?" "A farm is a body of land surrounded by a barbed wire fence," the little maid said.—Kansas City Star.

Spite.

She—I just married you to spite George Billings.

He—Oh! Then it wasn't just to spite me.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MEMORY IN AGED PEOPLE.

Instances of Removed Recollection After a Lapse of Years.

About seventy-five years ago, upon a rainy day, a small boy, who had reached the mature age of six, was sitting with his mamma and bemoaning absence of entertainment. Mamma wore on her finger a beautiful ring that was a family heirloom, and she answered pathetically the jewel glittered on her white hand. The small boy regarded the bright bauble for some time in silence, and then sweetly requested mamma to take it off and let him play with it. It was a weak thing to do, perhaps, but she complied. I dare say there are mothers at the present day who can sympathize with her, for human nature is the same, though fashions change, and when the "dear child" looked up in her face pleasingly he was met with papa's eyes, and papa was dead. So he got the ring and lost it, as might have been expected. He always insisted that he had "put it away to keep," but he could never remember where.

The years went on. The gentle young mother went out into the great unknown to find the light of her life that shone in "papa's eyes," and the century and the boy, having been young together, grew old in company, too. Finally age began to tell on them; the century got troubled with a complaint designated "fin de seicle, and the boy lost his memory for the things of to-day, but became abnormally reminiscent in regard to the past. His thoughts often turned back to the young mother, long dead, and in the decline of life he had as clear a mental picture of her as his boyish eyes had ever seen. One evening, having pushed his spectacles on top of his head and hunted everywhere for them vainly, he sat musing before the fire when suddenly a flood of light illuminated that dark corner of his memory where hung the picture of that small edition of himself losing or "putting away" the ring. He sprang to his feet with the shrill cry: "The ring! The ring! I slipped it down the crack in the window casing. The one that looks out on the orchard!"

Upon investigation the ring was brought from its long hiding place, which was the exact spot the old man had described.—Buffalo Express.

NEW CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Horse Blood Mixed With Alcohol Used by a "Frisco Doctor.

Dr. Fred W. D'Evelyn, head of St. Luke's hospital, San Francisco, has recently made public the result of fifteen years' experiments, by which he claims to have found a positive cure by inoculation of horse blood for drunkenness, as well as for transmission of hereditary taint of alcoholism. D'Evelyn began his investigations while a surgeon in the British army in Zululand, and he selected the horse as a clean animal with plenty of blood.

His cure is on the same line as Jenner's vaccination remedy, and he asserts it will not only kill the craving for drink, but it will relieve the children of the drunkard from hereditary taint, which he calls constitutional alcoholism. The substance which he obtains by injecting alcohol into the blood of a horse he calls equin.ne, and it is this he introduces into the human system. The doctor thoroughly introduces alcohol into a horse and then draws off the blood into a sterilized vessel, where it is mixed with chloral to influence the clot.

After settling twenty-four hours, it is subjected to a freezing process, then shaken for half an hour and decanted. The result is a slightly sticky, pale, straw colored fluid which he calls equisine. What vaccine has been to smallpox, equisine will be to hereditary or acquired alcoholism, he says.

Equisine is prepared in small plaques made of absorbent paper, which is dipped in fluid and then baking it in a pot air chamber. The skin of the arm or leg of a patient is scarified and the plaque applied, moistened with boiled water. Twelve hours later the plaque is again moistened and applied, and is worn for five days. In adult cases of alcoholism, the plaque is applied once a week for eight or nine weeks. The doctor claims to have been successful in all cases where sedatives or narcotics were not used.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The Good Little Boy.

A little boy who had been blowing bubbles all the morning tired of play, and suddenly growing serious, said: "Read me that story about heaven; it's so gloriouth."

"I will," said the mother, "but first tell me, did you take the soap out of the water?"

"Oh, yeth, I'm pretty thure I did."

The mother read the description of the beautiful city, the streets of gold, the gates of pearl. He listened with delight, but when she came to the words, "No one can enter there who loveth and maketh a lie," bounding up, he said, "I guess I'll go and thee about that thoap."

A Novel Throne Room.

The famous German traveler, Otto Ehlers, tells about a singular Chinese potentate whom he visited in Laos States, while on his way from Siam to Tonquin. The prince leaves the cares of affairs chiefly to his wife. He has no throne placed in the public audience chamber, but he can receive visitors and watch the preparation of his meals at the same time. The subjects seem to be content with his manner of administration, and admire the Democratic spirit manifested in his choice of a throne room.—Ohio State Journal.

As to the best way to go to the Klondike, accounts differ, but a good many who have been there say the best way is to go slow.—Chicago News.

KEEPING STILL.

Of all the men whom I admire
There's not a one who longs to aspire
To stand as high, and none who can,
As does the truly "quiet man."

If any being on the earth
Gets credit far beyond his worth,
That one can be none other than
This unobtrusive "quiet man."

No matter what's within his head
His silence is interpreted

To be a sign that wisdom lies
Behind his inexpressive eyes.

If so he drops a word or two,
His friends will search them through and through

To unearth a deeper in tent
Than e'er the speaker thought or meant.

If so, by chance, he takes a stand,
Assumes position of command,

Surprised approval greets him then,
And yea shall hear from other men:

"Some weighty reason lay behind,
An act so foreign to his kind."

When things go wrong his moveless state
Is credited to scorn of fate.

So softly to himself he swears,
I'm thought he murmurs pious prayers.

He's so misjudged his flaws at length
Are twisted int points of strength.

Poor humankind awaits command
From all it doesn't understand,

And he may work his own sweet will
Who has the art of keeping still.
—Chicago Journal

A LITTLE WHITE CAP.

BY MARGUERITE L. SUMNER.

The cap had a character of its own. It was not the fact that its wearer was young and slim, that her cheeks were pink and her hair was golden, that made it unique; but this doubtless added to its interest. Not another nurse in the big hospital had a cap like it although all were made of the same material, after the same pattern. This one of Theodora's always seemed fresher, whiter, than any other, and strangest of all, it arranged itself to suit the changing mood of its owner.

Whenever the matron approached Theo, her cap would take a defiant jump and perch on the side of its owner's head in such a provoking way that worthy woman fairly fumed with wrath. There was very little love lost between Theodora and the matron. The latter was tall and angular, with a pointed nose and hard mouth. She seemed to have an unnatural antipathy to Theo, perhaps because her words had so little effect on the other's lighthearted ness.

When Doctor Ford, the youngest, the merriest, and at times the sternest, of the hospital staff of physicians, first made acquaintance with the cap, it was actually falling off in order to join in its mistresses sympathy with old Mrs. Brown, in the charity ward, who was blind and pain-racked. They were standing together when the matron rustled up, and the doctor's eyes twinkled as he saw Theo's cap rise in antagonism.

"Nurse Yorke, you have more than done your duty here," she said. "Be kind enough to stop coddling the patients and you will accomplish more You are due now in the diet kitchen."

The cap stood up serenely high and calm.

"Yes, madam, presently. Doctor, this woman ought to have an opiate."

There was an unmistakable sneer in the matron's voice as she said,—

"You have taken an odd fancy to the patient. Nevertheless you may go at once to the kitchen or lose your recreation hour."

The cap never stirred, neither did Theodora's fine gray eyes.

"Very well," said the matron. "You see my trials, doctor."

She turned abruptly, and shaking her skirts, rustled away.

"A most disagreeable woman," muttered the doctor.

Theodora's cap nodded assent, then bent over the patient once more.

Doctor Ford's attention was again called to this cap when, a few days later, a little cross from loss of sleep, he entered the children's ward, and caught a flashing glean of white fat down the room, dancing merrily to the motion of a golden head over two flying feet, while a sweet voice sang a comical nursery rhyme.

Baby eyes of blue and gray and brown, black and hazel, were fixed upon the dancer. All had for the moment forgotten their pain. Had the doctor not been tired, this scene would have pleased him. Now he walked over to the girl and said sternly,—

"Nurse Yorke, what is the meaning of this frivolity? I have observed you frequently of late; you are sympathetic, that is about the only qualification for a nurse that you have. I am surprised that you undertook the work."

Theodora was sensitive; quickly the hot blood crept up to her cheeks, but she was also proud; from her gray eyes she flashed him a look which he could not soon forget. Then she walked down the ward, the back of her cap expressing injured dignity. The doctor gazed after her.

"Pshaw! Pshaw!" he murmured "That cap utters a scathing rebuke."

He felt his moroseness vanishing to give place to amused interest.

On his next visit Doctor Ford found himself watching furtively for a glimpse of certain little white cap. But when he saw it he started in surprise. Its wearer was leaning at a windowsill, the cap tilted disconsolately down toward her eyes. The doctor startled both into words.

"I beg pardon!"

"Doctor Ford!"

"You are in trouble."

The cap took an oddly fierce position on the shapely head.

"Oh, no—only pricked by pins. The matron and I don't get on."

"What now?"

"She goes out of her way to annoy me; sends me where I am really not required to go; makes me smart under her cutting words. Yet I have my small revenges," laughingly.

"Yes, trust woman for that! She is a bundle of petty revenges at her best."

The doctor's eyes were grave. It was whispered about that he was growing cynical where women were concerned.

"Let me give you a chapter of Mrs. Whitten's life," he resumed. "A few years ago her only son, a wild fellow when I knew him, but the pride of his deluded mother's heart, went away to sea; the vessel was wrecked and all on board were lost. Your matron told me not long since that the only comfort of her lonely life was the thought that her boy died a pure, good man."

The doctor glanced at his listener. How had that cap managed to assume such a pitiful pose? His glance fell lower; Theodora's eyes were tender, luminous. Suddenly he straightened himself.

"Pshaw! Well, that story may make you pity her a little in private—and give an added zest to your revenges."

"Doctor, do you think so poorly of women as that?"

"I do from necessity. I have never had occasion to hold another belief."

"I am sorry."

When she went away the cap was drooping; the doctor stood and watched it out of sight.

Not long after this a patient in the last stages of consumption was brought to the hospital as a charity case. Now if there was one disease above all others which the matron feared and dreaded, it was consumption—perhaps because of her hereditary in her family. At any rate she had as little to do with consumptives as possible. This new case was assigned to the one private room in the ward. The sufferer was in a frightful condition; dissipation and the dread disease had done their worst for him.

Mrs. Whitten, after hearing the story, suavely delegated Theodora to take charge of the new patient.

"You like charity people," she said scornfully.

The girl went, her cap bravely erect; entered the little room amid the curses and raving of its inmate, went to the bedside, took the burning hands in her soft, cool ones, and bent her clear eyes upon the young fellow. Gradually he grew quiet, wept a little, tiden poured into her sympathetic ears his miserable story. After that he soon settled again into a delirium from which he never awoke.

Theodora mounted guard over the room, allowing no one save the physician to enter it. Mrs. Whitten, full of curiosity, heard about that the man was Theodora's lover.

After a few days the matron decided to step in and look at the dreadful new patient. Going to the room, she was met at the threshold by Theodora.

"I will step in and see your interesting friend, Nurse Yorke," she said, sneeringly.

"I should prefer you would not enter, madam."

"Stand aside, nurse!"

But instead of doing so the girl stepped outside and closed the door.

"How shall you enter?" she cried, while her eyes, determined, blazing, held the other's hard ones.

Reckless and formidable the cap seemed actually to stand upright. The matron turned.

"You have defied me, Nurse Yorke—take the consequences."

She had not cared greatly about entering, but wished to irritate the girl. Now she had an excuse to be rid of her.

With wide open eyes Doctor Ford had witnessed from a distance the strange encounter and its ending.

Was it true, he thought, that this pure-eyed girl loved that sodden wretch, as had been hinted about the hospital?

Biting his lip he strode away after seeing Theodora disappear within the room, her white face pale and drawn.

"Just like them all—some hideous skeleton to hide," he muttered through shut teeth.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S ADVICE.

The Reporter Had a Proud Moment of Triumph.

Sir John Macdonald was the guest of honor at a banquet in Montreal one evening and was expected to make a speech of much political moment. The Star sent a short hand man with instructions to take down Sir John's words exactly as they were uttered. It was a great banquet and wine flowed freely. After the speech the reporter hastened to the office to transcribe his notes. For the life of him he could not make out what Sir John had been talking about. He hurried off to the proprietor, who glanced at the notes carefully with him and straightened it out. Thanking Sir John most gratefully, he was about to rush back, when the statesman, taking him by the hand, said: "My dear friend, you are young. The world is before you. I am old and have seen much of life. I am full of temptations. Let me venture as one full of experience, to offer you a few words of advice"—it was the proudest moment of the reporter's life. He was all expectancy. "Be sure, always be sure, my young friend, that when you try to report a speech you are quite sober."—New York Press.

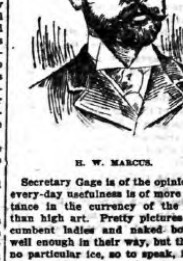
If you wish to be miserable you must think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch, you will make sin and misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you; you will be as wretched as you choose —Charles Kingsley.

VARIEGATED MONEY

NEW BILLS WITH A COLOR FOR EACH DENOMINATION.

A Scheme to Prevent "Raising" by Counterfeiters, and Mistakes by Careless Men Invented by an Ocean Merchant—Soon to be Put in Circulation.

New paper money, printed in different colors, will soon be in circulation. Some of the designs have already been prepared, and others are being executed at the Bureau of Engraving. All of these will undergo criticism and more or less alteration before final acceptance. President McKinley has expressed his approval of the idea in a general way, and Secretary Gage is anxious to issue the notes and certificates as quickly as possible. Being a financier himself, he fully appreciates the defects of the currency now in the hands of the people. It may be artistic, but the various denominations are not easily distinguishable from each other, and even the numerals on them are obscure and hard to make out. This makes counting troublesome, and a person has to look sharp if he would avoid giving a $5 note for a $1.



H. W. MARCUS.

Secretary Gage is of the opinion that every-day inefficiency is of more importance in the currency of the nation than high art. Pretty pictures of recumbent ladies and naked boys are well enough in their way, but they cut no particular ice, so to speak, in connection with hard and vulgar cash. The most important point in a piece of paper money is that it shall be easily recognized. Its denomination must be apparent at a glance, and its kind also, whether treasury note, bank note or certificate. Of course, safety against counterfeiting is not to be lost sight of. It is believed that all of these requirements are met by the new designs. Anybody who has a handful of these bills will be able to separate them in an instant into their different classes, so as to count them offhand and without scrutiny. At the same time, the greater simplicity of their patterns will render them actually more difficult to imitate successfully. The very elaborateness of the notes now in circulation confuses the eye.

For illustrations, take the $1 bill. The designs for this denomination are already finished in very handsome fashion. There are only two, one for the face and one for the back, because all $1 bills will have the same patterns, whether certificates, bank notes or treasury notes. When you see a bill with a big spread eagle in the middle of the face, you will recognize it as a $1, without even looking at the large numeral beneath. How, then, are you to understand what kind of a $1 bill it is? The answer is, simply by the color in which the big numeral of denomination, the treasury seal and the number of the bill are printed. If it is a treasury note, these will be in red; if a silver certificate, they will be in green; if a bank note, they will be in blue. There will be no other differences, except that each kind of bill will have its legend. Busy people do not want to stop and read the legend in order to find out whether a bill is a bank note or a certificate. They do not have to do so, inasmuch as the color shows that.

The fiber paper is to be retained in the new issues. It is deemed an extra safeguard against counterfeiting, though criminals have found several ways of getting over the difficulty. One of these methods is to wash the ink from one dollar bills with chemicals and print the designs of higher denominations on the paper thus obtained. Another is to imitate the appearance of the fibers by printing blank paper with plates engraved with irregular curlliqueues, rubbed over with red ink. The paper thus treated is passed off for genuine bills containing designs upon. As far back as 1869 the treasury printed its notes on paper which had a single band of fibers, instead of two bands as now. The single band was placed on the left of denominations under $20 and on the right hand end of the denominations, the object being to prevent raising. The trouble was that people could hardly be educated up to the idea.

It is considered by the treasury experts that a bill is handsomer for not being engraved all over. That is the idea, at all events, which is to be carried out in the new money. They say that a few scattered designs, very elaborately executed in the highest style of art, are most difficult to counterfeit successfully. The notes of the Bank of England are astonishingly simple, having nothing on them but some rather plain lettering, the water marking of the paper being relied on chiefly as a protection against imitation. One of the queerest pieces of money in the world is an Irish note for £1. It has the words "One pound" printed across it in big letters.

A POPULAR MONOPOLIST.

Also a Single-Taxer; Likewise a Free-Silver Man and a Democrat.

Tom L. Johnson, chief executive of the late Henry George campaign, is perhaps the most interesting figure in our politics. An acquaintance characterized him as "The Great American Paradox." "Do as I say, not as I do," appears to sum up the man's whole life.

TOM L. JOHNSON.

To understand some of the antithetical phases his career presents it is only necessary to show what he is and consider what he professes to believe. He is, in the first place, largely engaged in the steel-rail manufacturing business, which his numerous detractors say demands the highest protection from foreign importations, yet he is an uncompromising free trader. He gained the title of the "Trolley King" because he always buys certain bonds and issues, and thus secures a majority, yet he is a bitter opponent of the trolley, and in some of his speeches has bitterly assailed monopolists. He owns much real estate; yet he is the most powerful supporter of Henry George's single-tax theories. He is a sound-money man, yet in the last Presidential campaign he was an enthusiastic supporter of Mr. Bryan. Last, he is a citizen of Ohio, but a resident of Brooklyn.

Mr. Johnson's friends deny that he is inconsistent. They say rather that he is the fruit of society, not his. "He finds a certain condition of affairs in society," one said the other day, "and believes another state would be best for humanity. He advocates this other state, but at the same time because of that he need not stand by and lose any opportunity that presents itself to him naturally."

Mr. Johnson's first name is "Tom," not "Thomas," as many suppose—but Loftin Johnson. He was born in Scott County, Ky., July 18, 1854, and at the christening the minister who administered the name forgot a appendix. He was educated in the public schools of Evansville, Ind., and when seventeen years old went into the office of the Central Passenger Railroad at Louisville, Ky. Every detail of the management of a railroad was mastered, and at eighteen years he invented a steel rail that is in use now. He successively Secretary and Superintendent.

In 1876 Mr. Johnson started upon his street-railway career. With a partner he made a device for steel rails he purchased the Indianapolis Street Railway Company, and shortly after consolidated with the lines there. Three years later he bought the Brooklyn Street Railway of Cleveland, Ohio, and in 1883 Chicago also adopted him as its Indianapolis, consolidated all the lines in that city. Here he first became known as the "Trolley King."

He now owns the elaborate trolley system, with Allentown, Pa., as a center, which has made a network of that section of the Keystone State. He and his brother "Al" purchased the controlling interest in the Nassau Electric Company of Brooklyn, made a five-cent fare to Coney Island, and now own interests in most of the lines there. In addition he has large holdings in Detroit, Chicago and Boston.

Mr. Johnson is also one of the largest steel-rail manufacturers in the country. In 1884 he established the Johnson Steel Company of Johnstown, Penn., which fought the Steel Trust. It has been Henry George's most powerful ally. He has befriended the social reformer, and to-day they live across the street from each other at Fort Hamilton, and a private telephone runs from the library of the one to the library of the other.

Personally, Mr. Johnson is a man to inspire confidence. The test of his popularity was made in 1885, when he ran for Congress in a strong Republican district in Ohio and was defeated by a small majority, and in 1890, when he was elected. This victory was repeated in 1892, but he was defeated in 1894.

His Exception.

Barker—I claim that every woman has the right to wear any kind of clothes she likes. If she wants to appear upon the streets in bloomers, or even tights, that should be her privilege.

Dunning—Do you mean to tell me that you would extend this privilege to all women?

Barker—Well, to all except members of my own family.—Chicago News.

"IN GOD WE TRUST."

The Legend on Coins of the United States.

Preston of the mint has often about the origin of on the coins of this country, d We Trust," that he has made ment of the result of his re-far as the department records the first suggestion for the rec- of the Deity on the coins of United States was made by M. R. ers, of Ridleyville, Pa., who himself "Minister of the Gospel" letter dated November 13, 1861. He letter to Secretary Chase suggested as were: "You are probably a Christ- What if our republic were now beyond reconstruction? mind not the antiquaries of succeed- rather rightly reason from our that we were a heathen Nation? Then is, that thought of the first importance to us shall have next to the thirteen stars a ring in with the words 'perpetual union' within this ring the all-seeing surrounded with a halo; beneath this ring the motto, 'In God we trust.' This would place us under the divine protection we openly claimed. From my I have felt our national shame acknowledge God as not the least of our national disasters. To you I address a subject that must be Secretary Chase was impressed with as mentioned, and moved in the mat- so that "An act was passed April 22, 1864, changing the composition of the two-cent piece and authorizing the design of the 2-cent piece, the de- of which were to be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and which upon the 2-cent bronze piece that motto, 'In God we Trust,' first ap- coin." The legend was ordered on other coins by subsequent acts, and by 1873, it was ordered to be in- scribed on such coins as admit of it.—Inter-Ocean.

LAUGHTER AND INSANITY.

Cure Would Be Worse a Patient Laugh After an Operation.

"It is a very curious fact," said a mental asylum doctor recently, "that, taken as a general rule, all luna- tics laugh about twice as much as sane people.

"One of my worst patients at the present moment exhibited the first sign of insanity by laughing continu- ously and without stopping for over a week.

"It is just when severe illness, which had been accompanied by much mental depression; and his friends are so delighted with the apparent im- provement in his spirits that they had no idea of the real state of affairs un- til a doctor was called in, and pro- nounced the patient completely mad. Laughter after a surgical operation is a symptom always greatly dreaded by doctors and nurses.

"But queer impulse to laugh which some people experience in the first mo- ment of a sudden calamity is in real- ity a most interesting example of in- sanity that any one could receive.

"Some people fall into a habit of laughing at their own thoughts when alone; this should be always strictly checked, as it is an unhealthy sign, and may lead to brain trouble later on."—London Answers.

A JAPANESE DUEL.

In Order to Appease His Anger He Stab- bed Himself.

The following story will show how fighting is conducted in Japan:—Two officers of the Emperor's staff happened to meet on the imperial staircase and as they passed each other their swords became entangled and a war of words soon ensued. "It is only a duel," said one, lastly, "and at best it is only a mere duel between the two swords." "We will see about that!" cried the other angrily, and with these words he drew his weapon and plunged it into the body of the other, eager to obtain the last advantage, hurried away on some imperative piece of business and was returning to his antagonist, found him nearly at the point of death. Seeing this he drew his sword and plunged it into his own body, saying as he did so, in a tone:—"You would, not had the start of me if you had not been engaged in the service of the Prince. I die contented, however, since I have had the glory of convincing you that my sword is as good as yours."

The Book Salesman.

A commuter dropped into a bookstell- er the other day and asked for a copy of "The Lady of the Aroostook." The clerk seemed to be in some doubt about the title, and after a moment's consulta- tion with another salesman he came back and said, blandly: "We sorry we don't got 'The Lady or the Roos- ter,' but we can give you 'The Lady of the Tiger.'"—Bookman.

Bank of England notes are made from new white linen cuttings—never from anything that has been worn. So nearly is the paper prepared that the exact number of dips into the pulp vat for each workman is registered as a dial by machinery.—Tit-Bits.

"Opportunities," said Uncle Eben, "is pretty shar' ter come ter ebry man. It's a mighty good idee, jes' de way he let him ter hustle roun' an' send out a few invitations."—Washington Star.

"OUR DUCHESS."

HOW CONSUELO SPENDS HER DAYS IN HER ENGLISH HOME.

Few of Our American Girls Work Harder Than She, in Order to Fill the Position Which Her Marriage Created, but She Is Equal to the Duties.

Fancy a Duchess living in a palace which has not the conveniences of a fifteen dollar per month flat in New York. And a cold-water flat at that!

Of course it must have seemed funny at first not to have bath rooms, gas or electric light, or steam heat, or regis- ters; but the Duchess has completely dropped into the English mode of do- ing and thinking. But no wonder, for, from the Duke's point of view, he has but two great objects in life to achieve. The first is to make the Duchess for- get as soon as possible that she was born in America, and the second to be Prime Minister of England. And as to the latter subject his greatest card is his Duchess Consuelo's money and fine head. In fact, for, despite her youth, she is one of the most remarkable women of her set, combining her mother's wonder- ful executive ability and social gifts, with her father's stability of charac- ter.

Few American girls work as hard for existence as the Duchess of Marlbo- rough works to fill her position and so- cial duties, for she feels that she has the calcium light eyes of two great critical monotors on her actions con- stantly—her husband and English so- ciety.

Her day begins about 8 in the morn- ing, when she awakens in an old-fash- ioned canopied bed whose tapestried hangings were new in the days of good Queen Anne. Within easy reach hangs a bell cord by which she summons her own maid. Instantly there is brought to the adjoining dressing room by two strong-armed English dressing maids a bath tub, and such a bath tub! Can you imagine a circular sheet of hammered or repousse silver, five feet in circumference, the design an ara- besque of mermaids. Cupids and sea- weed, all linked together in a frolic- some scroll?

The cold water bath all in ten min- utes, glowing like Aronoc, the Duch- ess slips on a pink wool robe, while her second maid attends to manicuring, and no activity is Consuelo the ten pearly rose buds, as well as fingers, gains in for their share of the manicur- ist's attention.

Maid No. 1, who is the most awe- inspiring personage in all the Duke's household, now appears again on the scene to attend to the fashion of the Duchess's beautiful dark hair, and while this is going on the Rahji, as the Duchess's East Indian personal at- tendant is nicknamed, sachems at the door, bringing on a curious Oriental tray like affair, the breakfast.

Usually the Duke and Duchess breakfast tete-a-tete in the morning room upstairs, which connects the Duke's with the Duchess's suite of apartments on the second floor, over- looking Green Park, but the day I saw this was evidently a corridor where sturdy retainers were wont to lounge in waiting. This room is now the most attractive in the palace, and here, it may be said, is the only home life—as Americans understand it—there two busy young people know in London.

At 10 o'clock the saddle horses are brought into the courtyard, and the Duchess, accompanied by a guest and groom, or perhaps the Duke, go for their morning constitutional in Hyde Park, rain or shine. The morning ride is never omitted, and the return is made at 11 o'clock, when she dresses in a smart morning gown for shopping and the thousand and one little affairs connected with the management of the household, which she talks over with the steward each day at high noon.

At 2 p. m. luncheon is served in the banquet hall, the head and footer in attendance besides the waiters.

Three o'clock finds the Duchess gowned most becomingly for the drive in the park, which is followed by a round of visits, officiating at bazaars (a charity feature greatly affected by the British aristocracy during the fashion- able season), receptions, musicales, tea at five o'clock, either at her own home or the house of an acquaintance. She is in her French dinner gown at eight o'clock, presiding at the head of the ta- ble in the old banquet hall of Spencer House, which has been in possession of the Spencer-Churchill family (the Duke's family name) since before the days of the Restoration.—New York Journal.

The Alaskan Squaw.

Alaskan squaws are not sensitive on the subject of their age; on the con- trary, they take some trouble to make it known to the world. They wear a piece of wood or bone in the lower lip, the size of the ornament indicating the age of the owner. When a girl marries her lower lip is pierced, and a peg of wood or a piece of bone the size of a pea inserted. As she grows older this is increased in size until it is almost as wide as her chin, and one-fourth of an inch high. The result is naturally most unsightly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Japanese Sake.

Next to our grape wine, it is believed that Japanese sake, or rice wine, is the oldest alcoholic beverage known to man, its use in Japan dating back over 1,000 years.

At Port Moresby, New Guinea, six young native girls pleaded guilty be- fore a white magistrate to a charge of theft. As they were rather young to send to prison the magistrate took each offender in turn across his knee and spanked her

TRY THE FOOD ON A MAN.

Why Women Who Want to Tutorest the World in Cooking Should Begin.

"Kitchen and cooking, women and home, are among the most meaningful words in life," said Dr. Mary E. Green to-day. And the women acknowl- edged, with an acquiescent sigh, that she hit the pith of the problem.

The New York Household Economic Association, at the Carnegie Building, has deep in the study of "How to ele- vate household labor to the dignity of a profession."

"Women," continued the trenchant speaker, "have lacked respect for the law of nature."

The Economites shook themselves together.

"Oh! Yes they have! They have fear- ed thunder and ignored the microbe. They shriek at the sight of a toad and get off a car backward."

Dr. Green was piling up her accusa- tions.

"They expect hot, foul air to come down from the top of a room and go obediently out of the window. Yes," she nodded vigorously, "and they poke a fire on top"—this with supreme dis- dain—"and then wonder why it doesn't burn."

The women gasped as she neatly hit off their little weaknesses. But worse was to come.

"Women are mere servile imitators. To most of them the chemistry of foods is an abstruse science."

Dr. Green was rounding up the case for the prosecution. Firing a search- ing eye upon the culprits before her she demanded with awful finality:

"As to bread-making and the baking of it, how many of you know what constitutes good and healthful bread?"

There was a silence. Not an aspir- ing young housekeeper among them dared make reply.

"I went to the council of Women's Clubs in Nashville," Dr. Green con- tinued, "and what do you suppose they talked of? Suffrage and patriot- ism and a woman's relief corps and lit- erature and—not one word about homes. If they had considered the diets of different nations they would have learned what part food played in their national character and religion."

This was a new point of view.

"I wonder," said Mrs. William G. Shieler, the president, "if we all tell the washerwoman when she had a brain-fag husband if it was because she doesn't know how to feed him? We are all ignorant of these matters. It's a delicate matter to tell that to women who look as if they had nice homes and"—weakening a little as she gazed around—"perhaps company is of course accepted. But New York is behind the times. Our school in domestic sciences is just beginning, and it's so badly needed."

Mrs. Larned, of the Syracuse school, volunteered the best method of secur- ing pupils.

"Mistress and maid must work to- gether. We tried separate ones, but find the working girls were glad enough to learn dancing or embroidery and that the cooking class was a fail- ure."

"In Boston," suggested a woman from the City of Culture, "the mistress frequently stays at home to cook the lunch and lets the maid go to the cook- ing school to take a lesson as a sort of recreation."

This method did not altogether com- mend itself to New Yorkers, and there was a general raising of eyebrows.

"The maid ought to have an extra evening off at least for the cooking class," urged Mrs. Larned. "And make the study entertaining for her. Use a little strategy. For instance, let her have her young man come to take her home."

"I should say," finished Mrs. E. L. Alexander, "let the young man come early and eat what she cooks"

And the resolutions passed.

"Well!" finished the association to men was incorporated in the constitution.—New York World.

An Inapt Illustration.

It is related by an English publica- tion that a Scotch clergyman, remark- able for the simplicity and force of his style, was one day discoursing on the text, "Except ye repent, ye shall likewise perish."

In order to impress upon his hearers the importance of heeding to the solemn truth contained in the passage, he made use of a figure of a very sim- ple but striking character.

"Yes, my friends," he emphatically urged, "unless ye repent ye shall surely perish," placing one of his fingers on the side of his nose by which slight- ed on his Bible, and having his right hand uplifted, "just as sure, my friends, as I'll flatten this blue fly!"

Before the blow was struck the fly got off, upon which the minister, at the top of his voice, exclaimed:

"Ah, well! There's a chance for ye yet, my friends!"

CORRECTED.

Miss Knowall—You see, Professor, my brother sings mostly by the ear.

Professor French—Zat es impossee- ble, mademeiselle; he sing altogezzer by zee mouth.

ROYALTY'S TRADES.

MANY OF THE CROWNED HEADS OF EUROPE SPEND TIME AT LABOR.

A Number of the Most Humble Trades Seem to Take the Fancy of the Noted Workmen—King Humbert a Shoemaker and President Faure a Locksmith.

We know a good deal about the sov- ereigns of Europe, but how few of us are aware of the fact that almost every one of them is skilled at some trade and could doubtless, in case of neces- sity, earn a livelihood thereby! An ingenious Parisian journalist has de- voted a good deal of time to this sub- lect, and we are indebted to him for much of the following information:—

President Faure, of France, accord- ing to this gentleman, is an admirable locksmith, have spent many leisure hours in practising his trade. No new invention appertaining thereto escapes his eye, and no one is better able to judge as to its usefulness. In han- dling the necessary tools the President is said to be exceptionally deft; indeed, those who have seen his work describe him as a first class locksmith.

The tastes of Czar Nicholas lie in a different direction. Farming is his hobby. There is nothing about the Russian method of agriculture which he does not know, and the knowledge has come to him, not from books, but through long and steady practice. Be- fore he became Emperor he spent some years in the Caucasus, and while there he devoted much of his time to farm- ing. The imperial estates there are of vast extent, and nothing pleased the heir to the crown more than to wander over them, watching the superintend- ent and farm hands at work, and occa- sionally taking a hand at the plough himself.

Typesetting is said to be the favorite pastime of the German Emperor. "This restless dreamer," says our informant, "is a skilled compositor. Like the monks of old, who used to spend many an hour in illuminating manuscripts, he loves to spend his leisure in picking out type from the cases and in placing them in forms. To give birth to words in this fashion is his supreme delight.

King Humbert of Italy is a shoe- maker. No better judge of leather than he, and apparently few more skilled at cutting leather and at fashioning shoes therefrom. We are told that he pites his tools with unusual dexterity, and that he takes special pains to make shoes of an elegant appearance. Utili- ty, however, is never sacrificed to beau- ty. He believes in strong shoes, and hence those which he makes will wear to the last thread. He is an artist to the very tip of his fingers in this re- spect, as is clearly shown by the fact that he will never condescend to repair shoes. That is a work for a jour- neyman, not for a creative artist.

Like Mr. Gladstone, King Oscar of Sweden is fond of executing fine fret- work. In his dominion there are per- haps more lofty pine trees than any- where else in the world, and nothing delights the monarch more than to take a holiday and go out into the for- est with his destructive axe in hand. Some of the results of his work as an ex- pert woodcutter, and this is no small distinction, as any one who has tried to fell a tree will readily admit.

"The Prince of Wales," says our French guide, "is a fine weaver, and frequently manages to kill time by fashioning baby devices of wool and thread. He has already woven several fine carpets and quilts, and, as he shows as much zeal in the work as ever, he will doubtless weave a great many more."

Rope making is the Duke of York's hobby. He has a spacious workshop, in which he makes stout ropes for ships, as well as hammocks and straw matting. These he distributes among his friends, and it need hardly be said that the demand for work from the royal workshop is constantly increas- ing.

"Every member of the royal family of Great Britain," we are told, "is more or less skilled at some trade. Such was Queen Victoria's wish, and surely it was a wise one. Though her children and grandchildren may never have to earn their bread, no matter what po- litical revolutions may occur, it is well for each and all of them to know some useful trade at which they can pass their idle moments profitably."

Another famous man who is a sover- eign in his own way is also a trades- man. Tolstoi can make as good a pair of shoes as any man in Russia, and there are few tailors who can excel him in making a well fitting suit of clothes. —New York Herald.

Wonderful Tattooing.

Tattooing extraordinary has been practised in the case of a young French soldier, who has lately excited much interest in the military hospital at Bor- deaux. His body has been almost en- tirely covered with the most beautiful designs. Besides sundry commonplace scenes and devices, there is a large and elaborate reproduction, extending right down the back from the shoulder blades to the loins of a picture in a French illustra- ted paper showing the degradation of Captain Dreyfus. The young soldier is a well meant patriotic enthusiam must, in this instance, have caused him con- siderable pain.

Where Cyclists Have Right of Way.

"Cyclists in China lead an untram- melled existence. There is no system of road regulations outside the towns whatever, for the simple reason that the roads are undefined, being neither bounded by fence nor hedge. While the farmer has the right to plow up any road passing through his land, [illegible] of course, have an equal right [illegible] to it, too, of traversing [illegible] quarrel at large."

OTTER HUNTING IN CALIFORNIA.

The Danger and Difficulty of This Sport Makes It Almost Impossible.

The otter is becoming very rare in southern California. Forty or 50 years ago it was taken in goodly numbers, but now it is confined to the outer isl- ands of this region, where high winds prevail and the water is too rough they go inshore in a double end- ed small boat, constructed with a view to riding heavy seas. This craft is rowed along outside of the kelp, the man in the bow, with rifle in hand, watching the kelp bed carefully for the round, cat- like head of the otter that is liable to appear at any moment. The little animal is very shy and is away at the slightest alarm. They lie in the kelp and play with their young, tossing them in the air or riding with them on the waves.

The danger and difficulty in otter hunting can hardly be appreciated. The boat is never still, rising and falling upon high seas, and the hunter must watch his opportunity to shoot the lit- tle animal before he can escape, and then catch it before it sinks. Numbers of otters are still caught, but the dan- ger and hardships entailed render it an unprofitable business. In Northern California the otter hunters have sin- gular observation poles at various points, and men are raised high above the water, who signal to the rance when an otter appears, or, if it is within reach, shoot at it.—Cor. New York Times.

POPULARITY AND A SLAP.

The Queen Showed She Could Chastise Her Own Children Herself.

One of the incidents that conduced to give the Queen temporary populari- ty in Ireland was this. She and the Prince, with the Prince of Wales and Prince Alfred, were driving in their roomy carriage to Mr. Dargan's Exhi- bition. The streets and windows were thronged. There were only bright faces, and the air was filled with cheers. She bowed very affably; the Prince held his hat a little before his forehead, and hardly bowed. The Prince of Wales, free of his cap with a white band and held it rather graceful- ly, as if to show that he should have bowed were the Queen not present. Prince Alfred looked a little sulky and kept his cap on his head. The Queen did not appear to see him, but she did. She whipped the cap off his head with one hand, and with the other gave him such a slap in the face. It was done in an instant, and without any change of countenance. Thundering cheers mark- ed the approval of the multitude.—Con- temporary Review.

THE WILD TAMARIND.

It Has a Remarkable Effect Upon Non- ruminant Animals.

A curious plant is the wild tamarind, or jumbai plant, of the river sides and waste places of tropical countries, and very strange are its effects upon the non-ruminant animals that feed upon its young shoots, leaves, pods and seeds as described by the British As- sociation by Mr. D. Morris, of Kew Gardens. Horses and mules lose the hair from their manes and tails, has a similar effect upon mules and donkeys, and reduces pigs to complete naked- ness. Horses are said to recover when fed exclusively on corn and grass, but the new hair is of different color and texture from the old, as the animal is never quite the same as it was. One instance is cited in which the ani- mal lost its hoofs too, and had to be kept in slings until they grew again and hardened. Ruminant animals are not, it is stated, affected, the growth of the plant is actually encouraged in the Bahamas as a fodder plant for cat- tle, sheep and goats. The difference in its action upon ruminants and non- ruminants is probably due to changes effected upon it in the chewing of the cud.—Popular Science.

His Pension Gave Him Wealth.

"Jim" Dawes had never made much success in life from the time the boys got the better of him in trades at school until he was located on his claim in Oklahoma. His special talent was for fence-building, and in a coun- try where produce is more plenty than coin, "Jim" was paid for his services mainly in supplies. At hog-killing time he was the recipient of hog-jowls as a compensation for his labor, and sel- dom saw a greater luxury. Through in- fluence and persistence he finally se- cured from the Government a pension of $3 a week, to which he had a legiti- mate claim. Passing him on the street one day a neighbor called out:

"Jim, I've got some fences to be put up, and I want you to come out to the farm to help me. We'll have a hog- killing pretty soon, and there will be some good jowls for you to pay you for your trouble."

"Thank you," responded "Jim," with the easy independence of a man with an assured income. "I don't mind helpin' you with your fences, but I'm eatin' a little further back on the hog now."—Judge.

A Popular Candidate.

First Patriot—Mr. Greathead wants ter be 'lected Senator.

Second Patriot—What kind o' man is he?

First Patriot—Us boys called on 'im last night fer ter talk things over, and I've gotter splittin' headac-e this mornin'.

Second Patriot—I'm fer 'un.—New York Weekly.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COM- MENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text—The people which sat in darkness saw a great light.—Matt. iv: 16. Jan. 16, 1898.

17. "From that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." The expression "from that time" is said to be found in this gospel only here and in chapter xvi. 21, and marks the beginning a section about His nature and person, and that about His work and ours as His followers. The herald being im- prisoned, the King Himself be- gins to show Himself, and first as a light in Galilee to fulfill the words of Isaiah in chapter ix., 1, 2, and as su ely as those were literally fulfilled so shall the words of verse 7 of the same chap- ter be, and the kingdom that was at hand in the days of John and Jesus, but now postponed because of the re- jection of the King, shall yet be estab- lished upon the throne of David in the person of "one greater than the Son of David, and of the increase of His govern- ment and peace there shall be no end. The zeal of the Lord of Hosts will per- form it." Behold a King shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment. And the work of righteous- ness shall be peace, and the effect of it quietness, quietness and assurance forever."

18. "And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon, called Peter, and Andrew, his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishers." In John i., 35-42, we read of the meeting of Jesus with these two, how that one day when John the Baptist cried, "Behold, the Lamb of God!" two of John's disciples followed Jesus, and were invited to the use of Jesus with Him that day. One of the two was Andrew (the other probably John, who wrote the gospel), who found his brother Simon and brought him to Jesus, and Jesus called him Cephas, or Peter. It was the day after that on which Jesus found Philip and Philip found Nathanael, who said to Christ, "Thou art the Son of God, Thou art the King of Israel," and to him Jesus spoke of the wondrous significance of Jacob's ladder.

19. "And He saith unto them, Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men." It is clear that at the time of the events just referred to, as recorded by John, Andrew and Simon, although having evidently received Christ as the Messiah, returned to their occupation as fishermen. This was in accordance with what Paul afterward taught, "Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called" (I. Cor. vii., 20). Our Lord glorified the Father first as a carpenter in Nazareth. When we re- ceive Christ, we must first glorify Him at home and in our ordinary occupa- tion.

20. "And they straightway left their nets and followed Him." The time may come when, if He sees us faithful at home in ordinary things, He may call us to more public work for Him. The whole Christian life should be a stead- ily increasing "following Him," as He more and more fully reveals Himself unto us. We are called when we re- ceive Him (John i., 12), for salva- tion is not giving up this or that, but simply receiving, repenting, or turn round, forsake idols and welcome Him and have eternal life as a gift (Rom. vi., 23). Then day by day life more and more of the power of the lawful things, and they lose their hold upon us until Christ is all.

21. "And going on from thence, He saw other two brethren, James, the son of Zebedee, their father, mending their nets, and He called them." As we have said, John was doubtless the other dis- ciple of the Baptist who followed the Lamb of God that day with Andrew, and as Andrew found his own brother Simon, so John, as we have seen, more than probable that John found his own brother and brought him to Jesus. Per- haps the words, "He first findeth his own brother Simon," may indicate that Andrew was just a little ahead of John in this brother finding business. If the so-called brotherhood of Philip and Nathanael were engaged in seek- ing souls, they will be blessed of God, but when they step aside to the social and entertainment business they are not in the service of Christ.

22. "And they immediately left the ship and their father and followed Him." The following of Christ from this time was soon followed by even a more whole-hearted following, as re- corded in Luke v., 11, when they for- sook all—ship, and father, everything—and followed Him. This also after the resurrection was made to mean even more to Peter, when he was told to feed the lambs and sheep of Jesus what John might do (John xxi., 22).

23. "And Jesus went about all Gali- lee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the peo- ple." When the kingdom shall have come and God shall dwell with men on earth, there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain (Rev. xxi., 4). The inhabitant shall not say, I am sick; the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity. Then the eyes of the blind shall be open- ed and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped, then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing" (Is. xxxv., 5, 6). It had also been written of the Messiah that He should do these things, bind up the broken-hearted, proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to the bound (Isa. lxi., 1).

25. "And there followed Him great multitudes of people from Galilee and Decapolis and Jerusalem and Judea and beyond Jordan." Many followed Him because He healed them, many more because He fed them. When He said things they did not like many for- sook Him (John vi., 26, 66), and after He had gone back to the Father the number of the disciples assembled in Jerusalem was only about one hundred and twenty (Acts i., 15).

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on and has the signature of wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

DUTCH LITERATURE.

Instructive Lecture Delivered Before Monday Afternoon Club.

Rev. Daniel VanPelt, D. D., of New York, gave a deeply-interesting lecture on "The Literature of the Dutch Language," before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino Monday afternoon. Dr. VanPelt opened his lecture with a brief account of the origin of the Dutch language, pointing out some of its resemblances to the English language. He said that in Holland there was a continuous literature with no break from the earliest days of letters to the present time. He gave the names of many men and women, who in translating poems, essays, histories and romances have contributed to the store of Dutch literature. Prominent among these were Marnoech, Vondel, Anna Beinde, Jacob Cats, Da Costa, Juliana de Lannoy, Miss Wolff and Bilderdyk. Erasmus, Spinoza and Grotius were famous Dutch writers, but Dr. VanPelt's subject forbade his discoursing of them, as they wrote in the Latin language. The same object might apply to his mention of the modern romance writer, Maarten Maartens, the nom de plume of a Dutchman with forty five letters in his name, for Maarten Maartens writes in English so that he may address a larger circle of readers. Dr. VanPelt called attention to the fact that women were prominent among Dutch writers at an earlier period than in any other country.

SIPHON OF VICHY PUT OUT A FIRE.

Practical Use of a Bottle of Beverage in the Hands of John Powers.

A fire caused by the explosion of an oil lamp took place in the shoe repair shop of Josheph Sadosky, on Park avenue, opposite North avenue, at 9:30 o'clock Monday evening.

When the lamp exploded Sadosky caught it up and hurled it through the front window of the store.

The burning oil was scattered about the room and it looked as if a serious fire might result. Bystanders secured a key and attempted to send an alarm from fire box 13, but the mechanism of the box was out of order and the alarm never reached headquarters.

John P. Powers, one of the clerks in Armstrong's pharmacy, opposite the scene of the excitement, took in the situation, and catching up two siphons of Vichy water ran across to the fire and extinguished the flames. The carbonic acid gas with which the siphons were charged acted as an effectual extinguisher The damage amounted to only a few dollars.

Wagons in a Collision.

A road wagon, belonging to William Sharkey, and a buggy, belonging to a milkman from in the neighborhood of Dunellen, were the principal participants in a collision at the Dunellen terminus of the trolley Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The horse attached to the road wagon became frightened and ran toward Plainfield. The occupants of the wagon were thrown out. The milk cans and their contents in the buggy were scattered about the street. The runaway came to Plainfield and was caught at the corner of Park avenue and Front street by Frankman Flynn and George Fiske. The horse and wagon were left at Cole's stable where the owner called for them.

WHAT TO DO WITH POOR CHILDREN.

The Question That is Perplexing the Commitmants Alms Committee.

The Plainfield poor and what is to be done with them was the principal subject of a joint meeting held Friday night by the alms committee of the Common Council and a committee from the Charity Organized Aid Association.

While no action was taken at the meeting, nor was any expected, there were some important questions to be discussed. The city has been boarding many of the charges about the city, paying rent for them. Now that the Industrial Home is in a condition to take care of the city's charges, male and female, it is the intention of the alms committee to move them to the home and board them about the city no longer. Some of these charges are widows with a family of small children. They do not want to take the children to the home, but still they must be cared for. Arrangements are trying to be made whereby they can be put out in good homes.

The Organized Aid Association has been working in conjunction with the alms committee, and it is the wish of both to continue. Another meeting will be held at a later date, at which plans will be formulated and some more definite action taken.

In the meantime, the poor of the city will probably be established at the home as soon as possible.

HE LEFT TOWN QUICK.

A Philadelphian Was a Bit Too Saucy and Landed in Jail.

"What is your name?" asked City Judge DeMeza of a robust character in a tattered suit who lined up before the bar in the City Court Tuesday morning.

"James, I mean John Farrell," was the reply. The Judge looked at Chief Grant and the Chief looked back at the Judge. It was strange indeed when a man forgot his own name. It rather prejudiced the Court against him. He told a moral little tale of how he was a boiler maker in Philadelphia. How he had lost his job and was now trying to work his way to Boston where a position awaited him. He had been peddling needles, pins and thread over in the borough. He had strolled down the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad when he met Patrolman Vanderweg.

Now that policeman says that friend Farrell was not respectful in his replies, although the latter denies such a story. At any rate the officer locked him up. The Judge gave him nine minutes and sixty seconds in which to leave town. He waited not on the order of his going.

Miss Titsworth Surprised.

Miss Edith Titsworth was given a surprise party at her home on Madison avenue Saturday evening. The affair was gotten up by Miss Mabelle Smith, assisted by Miss Evelyn Lewis. The conspirators kept their secret so well that Miss Titsworth knew nothing of their coming until they were within the house. About forty were present, and all managed to have an enjoyable time. Games were played and refreshments served.

—It is rumored that there will be several very important business changes made in the city next spring among the merchants.

THEIR CLAIM REDUCED.

PLAINTIFFS DEMANDED $115; ALLOWED $68 BY THE COURT.

The Dispute Was Between Pearson & Gayle and Isaac Lederer Over Amount of Money Alleged to be Due Them.

A suit in which plaintiffs and defendant are prominent Plainfield business men was tried before Judge Atwater in the District Court, at Elizabeth, Tuesday. The case was that of Pearson & Gayle against Isaac Lederer. After taking the entire day for the trying of the case, judgment was rendered for the plaintiffs for the amount of $68. Reed & Coddington represented the plaintiffs, and William Newcorn the defendant.

The plaintiffs demanded $115, which included a balance due on the contract for the rebuilding of Lederer's store, which was partially destroyed by fire, and a charge of $55.55 for the appraisement of the loss by Mr. Pearson. It was alleged that Mr. Pearson was engaged by Mr. Lederer to appraise the loss at a rate of $10 a day and that it took him five days in which to do it. His expenses amounted to $5.55.

The plaintiffs had as witnesses to prove the reasonableness of his charge, John Lynch, of Newark, who represented the insurance companies at the Lederer fire and who testified that he received $100 out of the transaction. Mr. Frentz, of Scotch Plains, who was umpire at the appraisement, received $25 for one day's work. There were six witnesses in all for the plaintiffs.

For the defendant there were four witnesses, who testified to the fact that Mr. Pearson had, in their presence, in anticipation of receiving the contract for the repairs at the building, agreed to do the work of appraising for $10. They also testified that Mr. Pearson received the contract, although there were lower bidders. The defendant claimed that he had paid over $1,300 on the contract, which was not yet completed, and that he had been compelled to pay out some money to fix up for the omissions of the contractors. Mr. Lederer also stated that he had offered the sum of $69, which included the $10 for the appraisement, to Mr. Pearson before the suit, but it had been refused.

The Judge gave his decision at once. He complimented W. A. Coddington and William Newcorn, the attorneys, on the clean, clear and able manner in which the case had been tried. He stated that the preponderance of evidence submitted by the defendant as regards the appraisement had sufficiently satisfied his mind that the agreement had been made to have it done for $10. He therefore reduced the charge from $55.55 to $10 and also made allowance for a small charge called for in the contract that had not been carried out.

BASKET BALL WAR.

A. A. U. Will Fight All Unregistered Teams.

The first gun has been fired in the war between the A. A. U. and the unregistered basket ball teams, who protested and made a stand against the A. A. U order requiring them to register and pay certain fees. The shot came from the A. A. U. and was in the form of an order from the registration committee for the disqualification of the members of the Bay Ridge A. C. basket ball team, and the Fourth Separate Company team, of Yonkers.

The specific offences charged are that the disqualified teams on New Year's Day played games of basketball without sanction from the union, and that they allowed unregistered athletes to compete as representing their teams. From this ruling the only appeal the disqualified men have is back to the A. A. U. The disqualification carries with it disqualification by the L. A. W., the Intercollegiate Association, the Interscholastic Association, the Y. M. C. A. and all other organizations identified with the A. A. U.

The fight has been pending since the A. A. U. first gave notice that the registration of basket ball players would be required, as in the case of hockey players and similar teams formed for athletic competition. Many of the basket ball teams yielded to the order at once and cancelled games arranged with teams which refused to submit. Those who defied the A. A. U. have been waiting to see what terms of discipline would be first used on the independent teams, but all have been shy of earning the punishment for themselves. The action of the committee recently indicates that the A. A. U. will enforce its orders. The result may be a speedy surrender by the unregistered, or it may be a big split in the A. A. U. The chances are that there will be no split, however.

To Entertain Past Regents.

Regent Bromfield, of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will entertain all the past regents of the council at dinner Thursday evening of next week, at his home on East Sixth street.

—The foundations for the new Woolston & Buckle building on North avenue are completed.

Her Face Was Her Fortune

A Brooklyn Girl Marries Through Taking Typewriting Dictation.

A marriage occurred in Brooklyn last week which possessed many interesting features. The bride says that she does not believe she would have been married had it not been for Cupidoids. She had been using one weekly and had used every effort to win her and herein lies the secret of her success. She filled the veins with rich, red blood, made the nerves, imparted strength to the mind and so she determined to try them. The result was all that she had expected, and she is now a very happy, healthy bride, and to those Cupidoids filled her blood with nutrition or Hemoglobin.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Cupidoids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from The Cupidoid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

FIELD WORKERS MEET.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

observance of Sunday-school rally day on the last Sunday in September or some other suitable Sunday about that time of year. That the international committee prepare annually a suitable programme for rally day services. The report was referred to a committee of three, who will report upon it later.

Dr. George W. Bailey, of Wenonah, chairman of the State Association gave a talk on securing individual subscriptions, and the conference also included a discussion of "Economy in Administration and the Development of County Revenues."

TWO LAMPS EXPLODED.

The Residence of H. T. Smith Threatened With Destruction by Flames.

The explosion of a lamp on the dining table and the subsequent explosion of a hanging lamp above it threatened the residence of H. T Smith, on Westervelt avenue, with destruction by fire Monday evening. Only the prompt action of those near the scene prevented a serious conflagration.

Mrs. H. T. Smith, her daughters, Mabelle and Elsie, and younger son, Clifford, were seated about the dining table when the lamp exploded without warning. The flames surrounded the other lamp and in a moment that also exploded. The burning oil set fire to the tablecloth and the rugs on the floor.

William W. Coriell, of Jackson avenue, was passing at the time and heard the screams that followed the explosion. With the assistance of Miss Mabelle Smith, he set to work to extinguish the flames with rugs. Miss Smith's hands were badly burned.

Miss Elsie Smith ran to the home of Assistant Chief Martin, near by, and sent in an alarm by telephone. She afterwards fainted.

The chemical engine and No. 2 hose cart responded to the still alarm, but the fire was about extinguished when they arrived. The damage amounted to $50, which was covered with insurance.

BAND TO GIVE A DANCE.

The Funds to be Used in the Purchase of New Uniforms.

The first ball of the Queen City Band will be held in the Pierce Cycle Academy on the evening of Feb 4th. Queen City Band is the newly organized band which has occasioned so much favorable comment by the excellent music rendered each time it has appeared before the public, and its object in giving the ball is to raise sufficient money to buy uniforms and the effort is one which should be assisted by all lovers of music, for the obtaining of these uniforms is the first step toward the band concerts which the band promises for next summer. It might be well to state that the music at the ball will be by an orchestra of 12 pieces, all members of the band, each one of whom is recognized as a thorough musician.

A KLONDYKE SOCIABLE.

Members of Marconnier Chapel Had a Pleasant Time Tuesday Night.

Some of the pleasant excitements of the Klondyke region were furnished for the edification of the good people of Marconnier chapel last Tuesday. It was a Klondyke social, given by the C. E. Society of the chapel. The most prominent feature was the placer mining that occupied one corner of the chapel. A heap of sand and rocks formed a novel sort of grab-bag from which the visitors were allowed, for the small sum of ten cents, to dig out one nugget, which consisted of some little trinket tied up in paper. This variety of mining proved very popular. Mrs. Eugene VanCourt and S. K. Swenck were in charge.

A refreshment table was under the charge of Mrs. W. R. Randolph and Mrs. Stover. The ice cream department was looked after by Eugene VanCourt. The waitresses were Miss Edith Wyckoff, Miss Effie Stover, Miss Fannie Stover, Miss Randolph and others.

During the evening an impromptu musical programme was rendered, including piano solos by Miss Maud Smith and Paul Zooble.

Later in the evening the remaining cakes were auctioned off by Paul Zooble at good prices. The attendance was good.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Much depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Fit yourself to succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $60 a week places begging for good men and millions of $3 a week men begging for good places. If you are worth $60 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment for a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the highest places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 50 thousand, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above mention this paper.

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine
until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

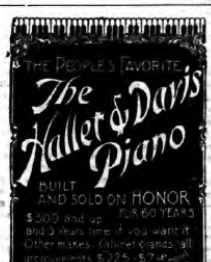
Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail. 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are you to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.



The Skidmore Case.

In justice to those in charge of Muhlenberg Hospital, it is only fair to state that in the case of the late Chas. Skidmore, who died suddenly a few days ago, that he was not sent away from that institution, but on the contrary was very anxious to leave and go home. The superintendent and physician in charge were anxious that Skidmore should remain until he was perfectly well, but the man would not listen to them.

Methods of Evolution.

The second lecture by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls church, will be given in the church Friday evening of this week under the auspices of the Plainfield Branch of the National Alliance of Unitarian and other Liberal Christian Women. The subject of Mr. Nickerson's lecture will be "Methods of Evolution."

Odd Fellows to Visit.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., have been invited to attend a meeting of the Somerville Lodge, I. O. O. F., Friday evening of this week. It is understood that a large delegation from the Plainfield lodge will accept the invitation.

Mr. Dawson's Advancement.

The many friends of R. M. Dawson, recently local superintendent of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, will be pleased to hear of his further advancement by that company. Mr. Dawson is now one of the ten general agents of the company. He was in town today greeting old friends.

—The T. A. B. Society will hold a fair in its hall February 14th to 20th.

Lincoln Land Company.

Articles of incorporation for the Lincoln Land Company were filed in the Middlesex county clerk's office Friday. The company is formed for buying and selling land in every county of this State and elsewhere. The capital stock is $50,000, and the company commences business with $1,500 worth of stock subscribed as follows: Silas D. Drake, $300; Wm. W. Smalley $200; Lewis C. Cook, $200; Charles E. Dunham, $100; Arthur G. Drake, $100; all of Bound Brook; Daniel Whitlock, New Brunswick, $200; Frederick Davey, Weston, $100. The stockholders have the option of buying their own stock and taking it own stock in payment of debts.

The Butchers Dined.

The Retail Butchers' Protective Association held its annual dinner at the Hotel Tuileries, on West Front street, last Monday. Covers were spread for about thirty, and an excellent course dinner was served. Later in the evening speeches were made concerning the best methods of accomplishing the protection of retail dealers. Several visitors were present from New York city.

Surprised on Her Birthday.

Monday afternoon Miss Edna Kennedy, of Madison avenue, was tendered a surprise party in honor of the celebration of her tenth birthday anniversary. The affair was arranged by the celebrant's parents, and it was a complete surprise. There were about twenty young people present and all enjoyed the hospitality of the young hostess.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JANUARY 27, 1898. NO. 4.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

APPEALED TO THEIR LOVE

SIMPLE AND PERSUASIVE WAYS OF EVANGELIST HAMMOND.

Talked to the Children and Easily Interested Them in the Subject of Christian Discipleship to the Adults in the Evening.

A unique evangelist is Rev. E. Payson Hammond, who held meetings Tuesday and yesterday in the First Baptist church, of this city. In New York city, where Mr. Hammond has been holding meetings for the last few weeks, he has attracted much attention because of the originality of his methods. He has traveled over the globe, was an intimate friend of Spurgeon, and resembles that great preacher in the simplicity of his speech. He has become known because of his plainness and simplicity as "the Child's Preacher." The first of the present series of meetings was held in the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday afternoon. It was a children's meeting. A number of visitors were present.

The evangelist began by making friends with the children. Before the meeting began he walked about and chatted with the boys and girls, and easily succeeded in getting most of them up in the front of the room.

The songs that were sung were composed by the evangelist, and each one was introduced by him with a few appropriate remarks.

He gave a short talk on the mission of Christ in the world, and told a number of stories which were listened to with much interest by young and old.

Then he made a direct appeal to the children. He did not picture the horrors of the life of the unconverted. Instead, he appealed to their love. There was something singularly attractive in his face and the children seemed to forget all else. Several expressed a desire to start anew. The childish testimonies were very touching.

The combination of snow and rain proved rather a damper to the evening meeting as far as numbers were concerned. The attendance was small. Dr. Hammond gathered his audience in the corner of the lecture room and held a little meeting there. It was evident that the glamour of a big audience was necessary to put the evangelist in his element. He was as enthusiastic as if he had several thousand listeners. There was something magnetic about him. He is a tall man, quite heavily built, and with a suggestion about him that gives the impression that his heart is large enough to take in everybody. He has a benign expression on his face that makes him attractive, particularly to the children, who recognize in him a friend at once.

There was one little girl who had been at the afternoon meeting and decided to become a Christian. She told in her simple way some of the stories that the evangelist had related in the afternoon.

Rev. C. E. Wyckoff, of New York, was at the meeting. He had come from Irvington, where he has been holding meetings. He wanted Dr. Hammond to come to his assistance, as his voice had given out. Then Rev. Mr. Wyckoff told how he had gone over to South Plainfield to find Dr. Hammond and then had to return to Plainfield and had finally found him.

This afternoon at 3:30 there will be a children's meetings in the church and this evening at 8 o'clock there will be a meeting for everybody. Evangelist Hammond will have charge and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

NOT A CENTRAL SCHEME.

Railroad Officials Deny a Third-Rail Electric Railroad Story.

Several newspapers of recent date have credited the Central Railroad of New Jersey, or its prominent officials, with the intention of constructing a third rail electric system between Jersey City and Philadelphia, with the ultimate expectation of running trains between New York and Philadelphia in an hour. The railroad officials, however, deny the story in toto, and say that the matter has never been under consideration for a moment.

Attended an Anniversary.

About twenty five members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., of this city, went to New York last Tuesday where they were the guests of York Commandery, and there were about seventeen outside commanderies. Troy Commandery, one of the most drilled commanderies in this part of the county, gave an exhibition drill. The music was furnished for the occasion by Sousa's full band. A banquet was served during the evening to the visiting members of the order.

—The second floor of the new Woolman & Buckle building, on North Avenue, has been reached by the building, and the work is progressing steadily.

SOCIAL SUNSHINE THERE.

A Washington Visitor Greeted Pleasantly by Plainfield Young People.

Though the weather was inclement and disagreeable enough outside last Tuesday, a dozen or more young people who gathered at the home of Miss Lillian A. Force, 82 Duer street, succeeded in generating enough social sunshine to make bright faces and happy dispositions predominant. The guests were invited to spend the evening and meet Miss Susie W. Laing, of Washington, D. C., a cousin of the host.

The first part of the evening was enjoyed in the form of a salamagundi party. Walter and Grace Emmons each received a favor for having scored the most points. The popular potato race was the next amusement, and when it was finished Miss Emma Kline and Harry Vetterlein were presented with souvenirs for their dexterity in the game.

After refreshments were served and just before starting for their homes the guests heard the enticing strains of the lanciers on the piano, and that was all the invitation necessary for the young people to indulge for a little while in the movements of that pretty dance.

WILL GIVE ANTI-TOXINE.

FOUR MEMBERS OF A POOR FAMILY DOWN WITH DIPHTHERIA.

Board of Health Comes to the Rescue of the Afflicted Circle and Furnish the Means for Restoring Them to Health

The Plainfield Board of Health is not modeled after a "soulless corporation." Last Tuesday, at the monthly meeting of the Board, action was taken to relieve the distress in one Plainfield home, the misery in which had been brought directly to the eyes of the Board. A family living on East Fourth street is in straightened circumstances. The mother and one child are now ill with diphtheria, and the other two children, who complete the family circle, are infected with the dread disease. The house is quarantined, and there is no fear of the disease spreading. The trouble is with the home itself.

The question of relieving the sufferings of the family was discussed at the meeting last night. It was decided to have the city physician attend the family while the Board will furnish the anti-toxine for the inoculation of the patients. The Board will also provide the necessities of life for the family until they recover and are able to look after themselves.

The Board held a lengthy discussion of the annual report that is to be presented to the Common Council at the next meeting. There was a general discussion of statistics and various parts of the report.

The report of Health Inspector William Addis, Sr., was received and read. It showed that the number of cases of contagious diseases under quarantine at the last report were six. During the month there had been six new cases while the quarantine had been relieved on seven, leaving five cases still under quarantine. There had been one death from diphtheria. The total number of inspections and visits by the inspector had been 283.

$20 FROM A GOSSLER.

A Turkey Supper Contributes Funds to the W. C. T. U.

In spite of the storm last Tuesday, the turkey supper given in the W. C. T. U. rooms was largely attended by members and friends of the union, and as a result the union will realize as profit about $20. The rooms were attractively arranged for the occasion, and during the hours from 6 until 10 o'clock those in charge were kept fairly busy waiting on the customers. Mrs. M. C. Dobbins was chairman of the affair, and assisting her were Miss Anna Bolce, Mrs. John French, Mrs. Honeyman, Mrs. O. B. Leonard, Mrs. Elizabeth Parse, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson Miss Clementine R. Yates, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. VanName. Those who served as waitresses were the Misses Cahoone, Moore, Miller and Yates.

Music was furnished during the evening by Harry Smalley, who rendered a number of selections on the piano.

Minerva Temple Install

At the regular meeting of Minerva Temple, No. 4, held last Tuesday, the officers elect were installed for the ensuing term by the Deputy, Mrs. Bateman Thatcher, and staff. One candidate was elected. There was a good attendance notwithstanding the storm. After the meeting the doors were thrown open, and several brother Knights and lady friend were admitted and a very social time was spent.

Saloon Changes Hands.

Morris Kane, who has been employed as bartender in John J. Goff's saloon, has purchased the business of John J. Sullivan.

ATTACKS BERGEN'S PLAN

L. W. SERRELL, JR., SAYS IT WILL BE AN EXPENSIVE EXPERIMENT.

The Electric Contractor Declared That County Ownership of a Trolley Road Will Cost More Than Claimed Since It.

Lemuel W. Serrell, Jr., of this city, is recognized as one of the best electric railway contractors in the country, and what he says in regard to the construction of street railways is entitled to respectful hearing and careful study. Mr. Serrell seems to be unalterably opposed to the Bergen scheme of county trolley ownership. He sends the following communication to this paper anent the subject:

Mr. Bergen has presented before the citizens of Union county, in a very entertaining manner by lantern slides and figures, his proposed County Boulevard trolley scheme to run between Elizabeth and Plainfield, and in doing so he has made the following statements:

First—The cost of a single track railroad varies from $6,000 to $15,000 per mile, and he makes his average cost of the same $12 000 per mile.

Second—He states that the electric roads in the State of New Jersey, from the report of the Commissioners on Railroad Taxation, show a capitalization of $130,630 per mile, per passage, or eleven times their actual cost.

Third—He states that there are 6131 miles of trolley road in the State, single track measurement; that the total gross earnings of the same are $4,770 171, making the average gross income per mile of track for all the roads in the State $9,420 per mile with net profits of $4,000 per mile.

Let me take each one of the above statements serretum; it is possible to build and equip for one-half hour service suburban roads by the use of light T rail and wooden poles, the rails laid by the side of a dirt road, for about $15,000 per mile, but the quickness with which the small ties used in this construction rot, and the light rails bend, has caused bankers and the investing public to refuse to put their money in such enterprises on the ground that if a thing is not worth doing well it is not worth doing at all. On the other hand, electric railway construction in large cities where the streets are paved or asphalted, the latest improved rails are used, iron poles are set for overhead construction, and everything done to make the construction substantial and lasting; a sufficient number of cars furnished to give a five-minute service upon the line, with closed cars for the winter service and open cars for the summer time, including the cost of the paving that the railroad company has to do under the statute, makes the cost of such work figure practically $40,700 per mile of single track.

The statement made in paragraph 2, that the capitalization is $130,630 per mile on the average, seems unfair to make in an off-hand way. The majority of the mileage of electric railroads in this State is the result of the equipment of old horse-car lines. These old horse-car lines in many cases have been in existence from thirty to forty years. During that time the old fire rails in use have had to be relaid many times, new cars and new horses purchased and large investments of money made in the building and maintaining the same. When electricity was first introduced, those who had faith in its ultimate adoption for rapid transit purposes in our cities purchased these old horse car lines, and in no case do I believe that they secured them for less than the aggregate amount of money that had been invested in them during their previous ownership, including both first cost and maintenance. And when thus secured, those who proposed to equip them with electricity found they had nothing of value to use for that purpose except the franchise. These roads, first equipped with electricity from five to seven years ago, had to pay as high as $40 per ton for rails and $7,000 per car for each car and its motor equipments. The rails used at that time were soon found to be inadequate, while the cars and motors soon racked to pieces; in almost every case these original roadbeds had been rebuilt once, twice, and in some cases, three times, and the car and motor equipments replaced as frequently.

Thus an enormous amount of capital has been invested for which those who have risked it have nothing to show but experience, while, today, with the benefit of all that experience, to properly build and equip an electric railroad in a city such as Newark, costs, as already stated, about $40,000 per mile of single track. These figures are made upon the basis of present prices of materials and car equipments. Mr. Bergen's statement, therefore, that the electric railroads are capitalized at eleven times there actual

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

SOLACED BY HYMEN.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGE OF PANSIE HERRING TO FRANK FLANNERY.

The Nuptials Celebrated in the First Presbyterian Church by the Bride's Brother—Reception by Elegin Daughters

Plainfield's best society thronged the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening to witness the charming nuptial event, the marriage of Miss Pansie Jeanne Herring, daughter of Charles H. Herring, of 403 East Second street, to Francis Hastings Flannery, son of J. E Flannery, of Washington street, two of Plainfield's most popular young people.

At 6:30 o'clock William E MacClymont, organist, commenced the rendition of the following musical programme: "Intiodotion, third sonata from Lobengrin," "Heroines Jocelyn," Goddard; "Scherzo from 5th sonata," Guilmant; "Simple Aven," Thorne; "Allegro Moderato," Lewis; "Cantilene," Woodman; "Tocatta in G," Dubois. While the above was being rendered, the ushers, William Coriell, Harry Williams, Fred Smith, Guernsey Nevius, Percy Dayton, of Plainfield, and William Bunting, of New York, seated the large number of people in attendance.

It was just 7 o'clock, the appointed hour, that the notes of the Mendelssohn wedding march announced the arrival of the bridal party, and as the doors were thrown back the ushers entered the church followed by the maid of honor, Miss Louise Holmes, who was gowned in white organdie over green, trimmed with lace and green silk ribbons. Then followed the bridesmaids, Miss Agnes Blair and Miss Marguerite Vermeule, who wore gowns of white organdie ove. pink trimmed with pink silk ribbons and lace. The maid of honor and bridemaids all carried large bouquets of La France roses tied with pink and green ribbon.

Next appeared the bride, an attractive blonde, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage. Her gown was an exquisite creation of art. It was white organdie over white swiss, and was trimmed with lace and white ribbons. She also wore as well which was caught up with a fleur de lis pendant of pearls and diamonds which was the gift of the groom. As the bride entered the church and proceeded to the altar, she was greatly admired by a host of friends present. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

The bridal party approached the altar from the front of the edifice through the aisle on the far left side of the church, and when the altar was reached the officiating clergyman, Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the church and brother of the bride, and the groom and best man Charles Hazeltine, entered from the study of the church. The entire party formed a circle, and was surrounded with a huge bank of choice flowers and palms that were very artistically arranged about the pulpit platform.

The beautiful service of the Episcopal church was used and the ceremony was performed with a ring. The responses were very clear, and could be distinctly heard in every part of the church.

After the ceremony, while the party were leaving the church, the Lohengrin wedding march was played, and the bride and groom gracefully acknowledged the recognition of their many friends. They left the church by the centre aisle and were taken to the home of the bride's father, on East Second street, where a reception was given to the bride and groom by the members of the Advance Circle, King's Daughters, of the First Presbyterian church, of which the bride is a member. The reception was held from 8 until 10 o'clock, and during those hours the house was thronged with relatives and friends of the happy couple.

The house decorations were very attractive and much admired. The prevailing color in the parlor was green, and this color was obtained through a nice arrangement of palms and greens. In the dining room pink was the predominant color, and choice roses and smilax were used in abundance. Especially attractive were the decorations on the table.

The King's Daughters acted in the capacity of floaters, and most all of the members were present to assist in making the affair complete. The supper was served by Max Wiertz, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Flannery were showered with congratulations during the reception. Their popularity was evidenced strongly by the almost numberless useful and very costly gifts from relatives and friends. They received an upright piano and a photograph from the bride's brother, Rev. C. E. Herring, a handsome china closet from the session of the First

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

THE RIGHT OF PROPERTY.

An Interesting Case Tried in Justice Mosher's Court.

The case of Mrs. Henry H. Corey against Vincent L. Frazee, to try the right of property, attracted a large crowd in Justice Mosher's court room Tuesday.

The case is one which has grown out of the marital infelicities of Mr. and Mrs. Corey. He sold the household furniture at auction about two weeks ago, after bringing suit for a divorce against his wife, and while the proceeds of the sale were in the hands of the auctioneer they were attached by Vincent L. Frazee for the amount of a bill contracted by Mrs. Corey. William Newcorn, who is Corey's attorney, then presented an assignment of the goods to himself, made sometime previous by Mr. Corey and assented to, it was claimed, by Mrs. Corey.

Mrs. Corey then brought suit for the goods, claiming that they were hers, and that she had never consented to an assignment of them to Lawyer Newcorn. S. S. Swackhamer appeared as counsel for Mrs. Cory, City Judge DeMeza represented the defendant Frazee, and Harry C. Runyon appeared for Mr. Newcorn.

The jury remained out until 4 o'clock and could not agree. The justice then discharged the jurors. A new trial will be held.

MAD COW AT SAMPTOWN

THE ANIMAL BITTEN BY A DOG THREE WEEKS AGO.

The Affected Animal Tethered to a Strong Stake in a Field and Acts in a Violent and Terrifying Manner at Different Times

David Blackwood, a Samptown farmer, is the owner of a mad cow. Crowds of people from the surrounding country are attracted to his place every day to get a view of the raving animal.

In a large field a heavy stake has been driven, and to this stake the cow is tethered by a heavy iron chain. When the rabies are violent and the animal writhes and leaps in its madness, the spectators sometimes hold their breath, thinking of what might happen if the chain should snap and the animal be given its freedom.

Farmer Blackwood is certain, however, that the chain will not break. He was able to make the fastenings strong because he suspected that they would be put to just such a strain.

It was fully three weeks ago when a large dog appeared in the Samptown district. The animal roamed about in an aimless way, acting queerly. People said the dog was mad. It went upon the Blackwood farm, frothing from the mouth, and bit one of the finest cows in the farmer's herd. The dog was shot by Blackwood a few minutes later, before it had succeeded in biting any other cows in the herd. The dog is said to have belonged to a family living on West Seventh street in this city. They sent for the body and had it brought to Plainfield in a box and buried.

Farmer Blackwood at once made preparations to keep the cow that had been bitten separate from the others in the herd. He then had the strong stake and chain placed in position and the animal was made fast. At first she showed no signs of madness. A week passed and nearly another. The the rabies seized the animal and she writhed and tore about within the limits of her chain. After several hours of the most violent ravings she sinks down exhausted only to continue her struggle again later on. A number of people from this city have driven to Samptown within the past few days to view the mad animal.

There are no hopes of the cow's recovery, and she will probably be shot before many days.

HOLDS TWO OFFICES.

Surrogate Spencer Will Probably Not Relinquish Duties of Borough Collector.

Surrogate H. N. Spencer, who also holds the office of borough collector, will continue to fill the latter office possibly for the balance of the term. The time now remaining is comparatively short and the officials think it hardly necessary that another man should be appointed to the office. At the spring election provision will be made to elect a man for the position, and that man no doubt will be George F. Brown, the one who would have been appointed had that course been adopted by the Borough Council.

May Change His Location.

J. E. Townsend, of Somerset street, is now negotiating to move his marble and granite yards to a more convenient place on Front street. Owing to Mr. Townsend's increase in business he is obliged to have more room. He will move about April 1st.

P. J. Norton, of Elizabeth, was the guest of Plainfield friends Monday evening.

STORM THAT MADE SLUSH

TUESDAY NIGHT'S FALL OF SNOW WAS NOT PARTICULARLY PLEASANT.

Three Inches of the Beautiful Fell But it was Followed With Rain and Made Bad Walking—Traffic Delayed.

The first snow storm of 1898 in the vicinity of Plainfield was not particularly satisfactory to the majority of the people of this suburban town. While many were not exactly anxious for a heavy fall of snow, yet they preferred a good old-fashioned snow storm to such a combination of rain and snow that the streets are all covered with an inch or two of cold, slippery slush and the usual delights of winter are nowhere to be found. Altogether, the storm of last Tuesday was not a howling success.

It did not take a weather prophet to tell that a storm was coming in the afternoon. But the quantity and quality, that is, rain or snow, was not to be depended on. The snow began to fall early in the afternoon. It came gently at first but increased until it appeared as if it meant to continue for some time. The ground was soon covered, and by 8 o'clock three inches had fallen. Then came hail and subsequently a fine driving mist that converted the snow into soft sloppy slush, that made walking decidedly unpleasant.

Next morning there was barely an inch of the slushy snow on the ground and all thoughts of sleighing had vanished. The sidewalks were slippery and the early-goers found it very unpleasant. Of course, lots of people slipped and slid about in the slush. Some fell, but there is no report of any serious accidents resulting from the falls.

As the 8:48 train was departing, a line of blue sky was visible in the north west, and soon the heavy mist that fell during the early morning stopped, the clouds broke and a lively gale from the northwest carried away the clouds.

The Plainfield Street Railway had its tracks cleared at any early hour next morning. The plows were brought out and the snow cleaned off the roadway at once. The damp snow clung to the wires and made trouble for the telephone and telegraph lines.

SPOKE CONSOLING WORDS.

Funeral Services of the Late Jonathan Doty Held Tuesday.

The funeral services of the late Jonathan Doty were held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30, from the house on Elmwood place, and the attendance of relatives and friends was large. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, officiated and spoke words of great consolation and help to the bereaved ones. He spoke of the strong Christian character of the departed and how faithfully he had served his Heavenly Father.

During the service E. E. Runyon sang two favorite selections of the deceased. Among the floral tributes was a large pillow on which was the word "Grandpa," which was given by the grandchildren. The pall-bearers consisted of the sons-in-law of the departed. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

How to Study Romantic Music.

Last Tuesday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church a good-sized audience assembled to enjoy the musical programme arranged by Miss Sarah Palmer. The lecture was on the subject "Romantic Music and How to Study It," and the lecture was finely illustrated by Miss Marion Dumont in piano solos, Mrs. Lewis, Miss Dumont, Miss Dewey and Miss Bigelow, in quartettes on two pianos, and by Miss Whitney in recitations. The affair was a complete success in every respect, and each rendition was received with hearty applause. Miss Palmer's talk proved to be a great help to the music lovers present.

Steam Pipes Bursted.

A valve to the steam pipes in the printing office of the Sabbath Recorder, in the Babcock building, was blown out Monday afternoon. The accident occurred in the composing room. L. W. Niles, one of the compositors, narrowly escaped being scalded. The floor of the room was partially flooded by the hot water that escaped.

The Carpenters Have Finished.

The carpenters who have been making repairs at the City Industrial Home have completed their labors and the painters are now busily at work painting the exterior and interior of the new addition.

Spencer's Bondsmen.

Jacob Voehl and W. C. Smith, of the borough, who are bondsmen for Surrogate-elect Spencer, who took his office Tuesday, each furnished $2,000, the amount required by law.

—The next regular meeting of the Borough Council will be held Friday evening, February 4th.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION TO GIVE A CONCERT.

A Manager of the Baseball Team Chosen—Provisions Made for the Revision of High School Athletic Records.

With preparations for the benefit entertainment and baseball club, the members of the Plainfield High School Association found plenty to do at the monthly meeting of the association held at the High School Friday afternoon. Carroll L. Runyon, the president, presided. There was a large attendance of members.

The report of the entertainment committee was to the effect that the committee recommended that an entertainment could be successfully held. It was decided to hold the entertainment and President Runyon appointed a committee, composed of William A. DeLong, Jr., chairman, Rhey T. Snodgrass and William A. Fisher, which was given power. The entertainment will be held in Y. M. C. A. Hall on the evening of Lincoln's Birthday, Saturday, February 12th.

The interest in baseball has been large from the beginning of the year. The number of candidates is surprisingly large. The election of a manager to take charge of the team came up at the meeting. As the team will probably be the strongest that has ever represented the High School, there was much interest taken in the selection of a manager. Claude Edwards was elected to the office.

The advisory board made several suggestions regarding by laws for the revision of the records of the association. The recommendations were adopted unanimously. They provided that the records in standard athletic events should be made in sanctioned meets or at a record trial. The record trial should be made in the presence of three timers or measurers and of the witnesses, one of which was to be a member of the advisory board or its representative. The applications for records are to be submitted to the advisory board for their approval.

The standard athletic events are to be the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard run, one mile run, 220 yard low hurdle, one third-mile walk, putting the shot, throwing the hammer, throwing the discuss, pole vault, running high jump, running broad jump, standing broad jump.

It was provided that the bicycle records be of two kinds, competition and against time. The competition records are to be made from a standing start in sanction events. The records against time are to be made from a flying start, with or without pacemakers. The bicycle events of the association were selected to be the one-third-mile, the one mile and the two-mile.

Carroll L. Runyon was made a committee of one to confer with the advisory board and revise the list of records to conform with the new by-laws.

RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

CENTRAL AND CITY OFF CERE CONFER

Grounds Around Grant Avenue Station Will be Fixed Up in Proper Shape.

Saturday afternoon there was a joint meeting of the street committee and representatives of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at which there were present Superintendent Frecht, Engineer Townley, Superintendent Swackhamer, of the bridge department, Superintendent Noalford, of the building department, Chairman Barrows and Mr. Buckle, of the councilmanic street committee, and Street Commissioner Gavett.

The improvements in the vicinity of the Grant Avenue station were first examined. The work done last year, including the twenty-four inch storm sewer, were explained and Mr. Frecht promised that the railroad company would do its share of the work.

The party then visited those parts of the city and borough whose residents use the Grant Avenue station in commuting to New York, and the railroad men were shown the importance of this station.

The work promised is as follows: Curb and flag on Grant avenue from Front to Second streets; walk from South Second street to the station; the driveway from station to Front street to be paved across sidewalk at Front street and curb to be taken out, making an easy approach; station grounds to be improved; retaining wall to be built along south side of West Second street from Liberty street to Plainfield avenue, also along south side of East Third street, east from Watchung avenue.

The meeting seemed a satisfactory one in every way, and it is hoped that the officials of the city and railroad may continue to work together so amicably for the advancement of the interests of both.

Dr. Brett Coming.

At the supper in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church Friday evening, Dr. Brett, president of the State Christian Endeavor Union, will be present.

—For the choicest table apples in the city go to Neuman Bros.

CAN'T AGREE ON THE PRICE.

A DISPUTE ABOUT WATER RATES.

Westfield Only Wants to Pay the Same as Plainfield But Water Company Say Nay.

The contention of Mayor Fisk and others of this city that the business of supplying water to municipalities has grown to be a very profitable business in this section seems to have had its effect on neighboring places and to have developed possibilities of serious disagreements between townships and the company supplying the water.

The latest development of the feeling of dissatisfaction has appeared in Westfield, in the form of a dispute between the Township Committee and the Union Water Company over the yearly rental rate of fire hydrants.

The township authorities claim that the present price of $25 a hydrant is too high, and point to this city for an example, where the price paid is only $15 a year. Several communications have passed between the township and the officers of the water company, but the town's contract for fire hydrants, which expired January 1st, has not been renewed. The company remains firm in its resolve to maintain its former rental price, claiming that even at $25 the company reaps no profit.

The township points to Plainfield and refuses to give more than $15.

In the meantime the contract has expired, and if the company so desires it can shut off the 28 fire hydrants in the township.

This would be a serious matter, as it would deprive the property of all fire protection. Town Committeeman Harden, who is leading in the fight against the company, says that the shutting off of the water would be a good thing, as it would lead to the construction of a water plant under town ownership.

TO MEET AT TRENTON.

Bishop McFaul Selects State Capital for the Hibernian Reunion.

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, has decided that the National Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians shall be held at Trenton and commence Monday, June 27th, 1898. The Bishop said:

"It has been urged that certain American cities are replete with Revolutionary memories, and that this entitles them to consideration in making a selection. Gentlemen, I most willingly concede the force of this argument.

"It will, indeed, be a glorious day when Irish and Irish-Americans, meeting here in America on soil rendered sacred in Revolutionary days by the blood of our fathers, will lovingly entwine the memories of the heroic deeds of Erin and America—deeds crimsoned with their hearts' blood and performed for 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' Therefore, I feel that Providence guided the steps of your honorable committees, seeking for union, to New Jersey. For here are the historic battle fields of Princeton, Monmouth and Trenton.

"I love, indeed, to think that New Jersey was among the first of the sturdy colonies to raise the standard of independence."

TOLD A PITEOUS TALE.

A Woman Impostor Who Has Duped Many Well-to-do People.

The charitably inclined residents of the borough and city have been the victims of an impostor recently that has worked a scheme that usually enlisted the sympathy and subsequent alms giving of nearly all that were interviewed.

The impostor was a woman who gave sometimes the name of Mrs. Davis and at other times the name of Mrs. Smith. Those whom she selected to visit and relate her tale of woe were usually of the well-to-do class. One of her lower limbs was afflicted with a sore. She related with piteous voice and tearful eyes that she was trying to raise money enough to rent a little store in New Market, Metuchen or some nearby town, and that she needed $1 to make up the needed $5 for the first month's rent. Wouldn't the importuned one be good enough to spare her the necessary dollar? and she would bless them always. Her story was told so cleverly that almost invariably she received the solicited sum.

She always gave the charitable person to understand that she needed but $1, but when several of the victims compared notes they found that she had required a good many more dollars than they had any idea of.

FROST PREVENTS WORK.

Not the Former Councilman, but Winter's Hardened Ally.

There is little for the street committee of the Common Council to do until the frost gets out of the ground. At present all the committee can do is to authorize such necessary repairs as they find needed. A meeting of the committee was held last evening, but little more was done than talk over the plans for the coming spring.

The street committee is to hold a consultation with Superintendent Frecht, of the Jersey Central Railroad, with reference to the erection of the new station in this city and the conversion of the old freighthouse yards into a park.

METHODS OF EVOLUTION

INTERESTING LECTURE BY REV. A. C. NICKERSON.

Great Antiquity of the Human Race Was Shown—Immortality of the Soul—Lecture Given in Unitarian Church.

The third lecture in the series on Evolution was delivered by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, in All Souls church, on Park avenue, last Friday, under the auspices of the Plainfield Branch of the National Alliance of Unitarian Women. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall presided and made a few introductory remarks.

The subject of the lecture was "Methods of Evolution." It was a continuation of the one on organic evolution delivered a month ago. In that lecture the over-population of the world by Nature was described. The struggle for existence, which controls the over fecundity, was enlarged upon and illustrations were given of variations in plants and animals showing the processes of evolution.

In this lecture the variations and consequent developments of life on the globe, beginning with the earth itself, and the nebular hypothesis, were illustrated by the geologic story, with quotations from Sir Charles Lyell, and the testimony of archeologists, with Sir John Lubbock for leader.

Traces of man, his life, his weapons, his physical structure were found far back in pre-historic times.

A study of rudiments and of embryology led to the declaration of the similarity of the physical structure of man and the apes, and to an assertion of the general unity of type under lying-all vertebrates.

The difference between the lowest and the highest man was declared to be far greater than the difference between the lowest man and the gorilla.

Since 1789 there has been greater changes in human life than for ten centuries preceding.

Physical life was spoken of as the greatest development of life on the globe. The spirit of man, with its social and moral capacities, is believed to have acquired the property of immortality. The lengthening of infancy, as treated by Fiske and by Drummond, was referred to, and the development of the cerebrum was shown to be the inaugurator of a new kind of evolution.

After some words as to the spiritually fittest to survive, the lecture concluded with some interesting illustrations of adaptation in nature.

The next lecture of the series will treat of "Social Evolution."

WEAK FROM LOSS OF BLOOD

WESTFIELD WOMAN CUT AN ARTERY.

A Shattered Piece of Glass From a Door Struck Mrs. Clark's Wrist With Serious Result.

Mrs. Dudley Clark, of Westfield, had a narrow escape from bleeding to death Friday afternoon, and was saved only by the quickness and presence of mind of a druggist.

The glass in the front door of Mrs. Dudley Clark's house, on Prospect street, was shattered in some way as she was entering the house. A large piece of the glass fell upon her wrist and made a deep gash, severing an artery.

The blood spurted forth from the severed artery and the injured woman grew rapidly weak.

Only a few doors away was the drug store of W. H. Trenchard, and to this place the woman ran.

The druggist saw the danger and placed a compress about the arm, stopping the flow of blood. Dr. R. B. Sinclair was hastily sent for and after tying the artery with catgut he stitched up the wound.

Mrs. Clark was so weak from loss of blood that it was with difficulty she could walk home after the wound had been dressed. If she had been further from the drug store when the accident happened it is probable that she would have bled to death, as the compress was applied just in the nick of time.

New History of Union County.

The new "History of Union County," which has been in preparation for two or three years, has been completed. It has been delayed some on account of the death of Hon. F. W. Ricord, of Newark, under whose editorship it was principally compiled. Besides the history of the county and the cities and towns within it, there are many biographies and life-like steel and half-tone likenesses of many leading citizens. Among the contributors are: Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, Mrs. Mary N. Putnam, Dr. Henry R. Cannon and Warren R. Dix, of Elizabeth; Lewis S. Hyer, of Rahway; Rev. N. D. Cadwell, of Westfield; A. M. Cory, of New Providence; Miss Julia Littell and J. W. Clift, of Summit; Charles E. Buell and Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., of Plainfield; W. P. Tuttle and P. C. McChesney, of Springfield.

ourse Avenue Sociability.

Two entertainments are being planned at the Monroe Avenue church. The first, which will take place the 27th, will be an acquaintance sociable given by the officers of the church. February 4th the Ladies' Aid Society of the church will give an entertainment.

THE HEROISM OF YOUTH

REV. DR. SNODGRASS TOLD OF THE PERILS TO MEET.

The Many Dangers That Lie in the Path of Young People Offer Opportunity for the Exhibition of Heroism.

"Heroism of Youth" was the title of a very pleasing lecture delivered in Vincent chapel Friday evening by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Epworth League and was free. It was well attended. It was preceded by a soprano solo by Miss Templin and followed by another solo by Miss Templin.

While humorous in many places, the lecture was filled with many interesting statements. Dr. Snodgrass opened by designating peril as a condition and a test for heroism. His theory was that heroes are not born; nature furnishes the raw material, but man makes the character. He defined heroism as a contempt of danger, not from lack of knowledge, but from just cause. As one of the all important factors of heroism, he spoke at length of the perils of youth.

The first peril noted was hunger. He explained how an uncared for home drove fathers and sons to the saloon and free lunch counter. The hunger for society was similar and caused men to go to resorts where they would not go had they the society that they craved at home. The intellectual hunger was the reason for the countless questions of the small boy. It also led him to read the thrilling yellow-covered literature.

Imitation was pointed out as another peril that was apt to make people ridiculous and often lead them to do wrong. It led to the many foolish expenditures of those who tried to do as their more wealthy neighbors did and thus lived beyond their means. Dr. Snodgrass characterized the installment store as an abominable institution offering innumerable temptations of this nature.

Power was mentioned as a temptation of youth. False moral standards were noted as another. Questions were applied from the wrong standpoint, the speaker explained. Instead of asking if it was right to do anything, many now wonder if it would be wrong to do it. What is done, should be done with the aim of seeking strength and the building up of the character.

The dangers of a little knowledge were noted, also the ideas of those who believed that they lived but to be amused or served.

In conclusion he declared that while life was a dangerous thing it was a glorious thing and offered great opportunities for being heroes in meeting all these perils successfully.

FOOLED BY A SPECTACLE FAKIR

Uses Chloroform on the Patients, Then Swindles or Robs Them.

A thief in the guise of a spectacle peddler has succeeded in robbing a number of residents in Hunterdon county near Baptistown, a few miles from Flemington, out of a snug sum of money.

Among other women he visited Miss Sarah Hiner, aged sixty years, at Baptistown. He insisted that he examine her eyes for glasses. Miss Hiner objected, but the fellow began an alleged examination, talking continually, and assuring her that she would go blind within a year unless she wore glasses.

Miss Hiner soon felt herself shaking into unconsciousness, and shortly became insensible. When she regained consciousness a few hours afterward the house had been ransacked. Every cent of money she had about the place, about $100, had been stolen.

The thief used chloroform in accomplishing the robbery. At other places the fellow injected something into the woman's eyes which bewildered them. While in this confusion they paid the swindler amounts ranging from $30 to $60, and some gave him all the money they had.

The fellow escaped with about $1,000. There is no clue.

Going South for His Health.

E. Herbert Bonnell, of East Fifth street, sailed Friday by the Savannah Line to visit Florida and subsequently California, and the southwest. Mr. Bonnell is employed as a receiving teller at the Garfield National Bank. He has been ill and has been compelled to make the trip for his health. He was ordered by the cashier at the bank to take a year off if necessary to fully restore his health. His salary will continue as usual. He has for a traveling companion a wealthy young physician who has a place in Florida and is trying to overcome ill health.

Minstrel Thatcher's Readiness.

Everybody knows George Thatcher. His great success in minstrelsy was largely owing to the fact that he studied the wishes of the people and catered to them. The people want a resort conducted on absolutely first-class principles and now the well-known minstrel is going to cater to that want. The Maples, on the hill at Fanwood, which he has now opened, will be run to suit the most fastidious. It will be under the direct supervision of the proprietor, who knows what he wants and intends to have it.

MAPLE TREE SAVED HIS LIFE

ALMOST RODE DOWN A ROCKY SLOPE.

John Burnett Caught in the Wheel of a Runaway Wagon and Had a Narrow Escape.

One stout maple tree was all that stood between John Burnett and a terrible ride down a rocky slope Thursday afternoon. The cause of it all was the breaking of a whiffletree pin.

Burnett lives on a farm beyond the Dugway road, a mile from Washingtonville. He was taking a load of grain home from New Market in a large farm wagon drawn by a stout team of horses. The steepest part of the hill on the Dugway road had been reached when the whiffletree pin broke. The horses were released with the whiffletrees and pole. The wagon began to run backwards. Burnett clung to the reins and was pulled from his seat. He fell into the wheel. In some manner he became entangled in the wheel and was carried back with the wagon.

The heavy load soon increased the speed of the backing wagon. Burnett was unable to liberate himself from his dangerous position. On one side of the road is a steep-bank that leads down to a little mountain stream. The slope is full of rocks and trees. The wagon began to incline in that direction. Burnett saw the danger but could not change the course of the wagon. The wagon approached the edge.

As Burnett expected to be hurled down the embankment there came a crash. The wagon landed squarely against a large maple tree that stopped its career suddenly. The rear of the wagon was broken by the force of the blow. Burnett crawled out of his precarious position to find that the horses had run away. The wagon had gone backward about fifty feet.

The runaway horses went to the Burnett farm, where Edward Burnett, a brother of John Burnett, found them. He saw that there had been trouble and hurried back along the road with the horses. He found his brother sitting against the providential tree. The damage was repaired so that the wagon could be taken to the barn.

John Burnett escaped from his adventure badly bruised and cut about the legs. His clothes were almost torn from his back. He was also generally bruised and shaken up.

DIDN'T EXPECT GUESTS.

A Pleasant Surprise Party Tendered to Robert VanNest.

A pleasant surprise was tendered to Robert VanNest, of Duer street, last Friday. The evening was passed in playing games, and banjo solos by Irving DeHart.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William H. Combs, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. VanNest, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Vermeule, Mrs. Ramsom, Mrs. R. Pope, Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. George Pope and children, Mrs. Charles VanNest and children, Mrs. George VanNest and children, Edith Finney, Nellie Vermeule, Jennie DeCamp, Eva Doeringer, Minnie French, Stella Brooks, Bella VanNest, Jessie VanNest, Jessie Stites, Jennie Everett, Clara King, Clara Southard, Carrie Pangborn, Robert VanNest, Louis VanNest, Fred Voorhees, Walter Layton, Franklin Stites, Will Stites, Louis Stites, Will VanNest, Irving DeHart, Joe Finney and Fred Conroy.

AN OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

Jonathan Doty Succumbs to a Complication of Diseases.

The death of Jonathan Doty, one of Plainfield's oldest and most respected citizens, occurred Saturday after a long and very painful illness. He died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Mosher, of Elmwood place, where he had been living for several years. He formerly resided on West Seventh street. He was by trade a carpenter and worked at it for a number of years. For several years past Mr. Doty was a great sufferer from a complication of diseases, and of late his health declined rapidly. He was a member of the First M. E. church, and was a faithful Christian, regularly attending the services of the church when able.

Will It be Presiding Elder Ruth?

When the Newark Conference meets at East Orange, March 30th, the most important appointment in the gift of the bishop will be that of presiding elder of Jersey City district to succeed Rev. J. B. Faulks. It is rumored that Rev. W. H. Ruth is the probable candidate. This will be good news to the friends of the Westfield pastor, whose ministerial work of a quarter of a century has well fitted him for the position as head of the principal district in the conference.—Westfield Leader.

Scarlet Fever Proves Fatal.

Mary M. Messler, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Messler, died at the home of the parents in Scotch Plains Friday of scarlet fever. This is the first case of the disease that has terminated in Scotch Plains this winter. Interment was made today in the Baptist cemetery at Scotch Plains.

DUER STREET OPENING.

A CHERISHED IMPROVEMENT LIKELY TO BE CONSUMMATED.

J. C. Dyer, the Objecting Property Owner, Agrees to Favorable Terms and an Effort Will be Made to Raise the Money.

Negotiations are now being made which will probably result in Madison avenue in this city and Duer street in the borough being made one continuous thoroughfare across Green brook, and thus consummate an improvement that has long been a cherished object among the enterprising citizens of both sides of the brook.

The objector who has prevented this improvement heretofore has been J. C. Dyer, who owns the property on Craig place necessary to acquire in order to make the opening on the borough side. Now Mr. Dyer's opposition has changed so that he has agreed to sell the property at a sum which it is expected will allow of purchase. Through the efforts of Mayor Wilson and Councilman Wood-ston Mr. Dyer has agreed to dispose of the property for $4,000, though that was the sum the appraisers once put on the lot and which the owner refused to accept and was upheld in his contention in the legal proceedings taken.

That amount does not include the house standing on the lot. If the sale is made the structure will probably be moved to the rear and put on a lot so as to face the new portion of the street when opened.

Of the $4,000 purchase price, it is calculated that half the sum can be raised by private subscriptions from property owners who would be benefitted by the opening. Some time ago Wm. M. Stillman offered to subscribe $500 towards the improvement, and now he has raised the offer to $1,000. This would leave only $1,000 to be raised from other property holders, and it is expected that there will be no trouble in raising this sum. The remaining $2,000 would be contributed by the borough.

It is probable that next week a subscription paper for this purpose will be circulated among the interested people, and it has been suggested that John Vetterlein would be a good man to secure the subscriptions and collect the money, his services to be paid for by Mr. Dyer.

A NEW SIDEWALK.

North Plainfield Citizens Won't Have to Wade Through Mud Anymore.

Pedestrians, who have cleared during wet weather or soon after to pass along the portion of Duer street that passes through the City to Washingtonville, have found a particularly muddy section of the road. The pedestrian had to wade through mud and mire for a distance of about 300 yards. This particular unfortunate section of road lies between the stone-crusher of John T. Wilson, at Wetumpka Falls, and the old Coddington mill.

Some time ago Mr. Wilson, who lives in New Market, thought that a change ought to be made. He made an offer in consequence to the North Plainfield Township Committee to furnish the crushed stone for a sidewalk, free of charge, if the Committee would go to the expense of having it made. The Township Committee did not view it in the same light as Mr. Wilson and refused his offer. The good people of Washingtonville continued to wade through mud and water when they walked to Plainfield.

After personally enjoying a trip through the mud, Mr. Wilson decided to furnish the stone and defray the expense of laying it. Still the Township Committee remained obdurate and still the pedestrians had to search their vocabularies to find words to express their opinion of the condition of the road.

During the recent spell of wet weather, the portion of road in question became a veritable bog through which the pedestrians had to wade. All his offers having been unavailing, Mr. Wilson set his own men and wagons at work last Friday making the sidewalk of crushed stone. It will be 300 yards long.

If you cannot get beef, mutton will answer.

You may choose between milk, water, coffee or tea. But there is no second choice for Scott's Emulsion.

It is Scott's Emulsion or nothing.

When you need the best cod-liver oil, the best hypophosphites, and the best glycerine, all combined in the best possible manner, you have only one choice.

It brings prompt results in all cases of wasting, or loss in weight.

All druggists: 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

JERSEY'S GOOD ROADS.

CHOSEN FOR EXPERIMENT IN FREE RURAL POSTAL DELIVERY.

Road Commissioner Budd's Report Declares That Great Work Is Going On Under the Good Roads Law—No Opposition.

The New Jersey State Road Improvement Association has selected a route from Riverton to Cinnaminson, Moorestown, Stanwick, Bridgeboro, Riverside and back to Riverton, on which the postoffice department will try the experiment of a free delivery system in rural districts. The designation was made at the request of the department, and New Jersey was selected because the State is recognized as in the lead in improved roads.

The annual report of Road Commissioner Henry I. Budd for the year ending Oct. 31, 1897, shows that under the law of 1895 there were 66½ miles of improved roads built in the State, for which the State will contribute $98,000 and the counties and property owners will pay about $200,000. Specifications have been prepared for about 9 miles to be built this year, but to complete the work the State appropriation must be increased to $300 000, and this the Road Improvement Association recommends to the Legislature, and has appointed a committee to secure an amendment of the law increasing the appropriation.

Burlington county leads in the extent of improved roads, having 61¼ miles, or more than one-fourth of the total, and it is in this county that the rural mail delivery system is to be tried. Middlesex county has 37 miles; Mercer, 38; Camden, 27; Atlantic, 22½; Gloucester, 19½; Essex, 17; Monmouth, 9; Somerset, 6½; Morris, 6½; Passaic, 4; and Salem, 2½ miles. Most of the roads are built of macadam, but in South Jersey gravel has been used.

Commissioner Budd says the average cost per mile has been reduced fully one-third, some roads having been built at from $3,000 to $4,000 a mile in neighborhoods where they have been costing from $6,000 to $9,000 per mile, and the wearing ability will be as great and in some cases greater. Opposition to the law has changed to enthusiasm in its favor, the Commissioner reports, and more roads are being applied for than can be built in many years under the present State appropriation.

Nearly all the larger cities and towns have macadamized roads from their centres to the farming districts. Union, Essex, Morris and Passaic have built many miles of road under the county law. The farmers have found by experience that the increased cost is lightly upon them and are a small expense compared with the saving made by the more easy transportation of their produce to market and the inducement it offers to city people to locate in the country.

GIVEN IN MEMORY OF SON.

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL GETS $250.

Councilman Barrows Contributed the Money—A Little Fellow's Request Before He Passed Away.

Councilman Elliot T. Barrows has given $250 to Muhlenberg Hospital and named a bed in the institution in memory of his son, Elliot Cobb Barrows, who died last November.

The day before his death the boy asked that one of his boats (a favorite toy) be sent to the hospital that a sick boy who was there might have something to play with. The request was complied with and the boat has been added to the toys at the hospital to give happiness to the children there from time to time.

The treasurer of Muhlenberg Hospital has received the following Hospital Sunday collections:

Grace church	$ 97.61
Holy Communion church	15.00
Congregational church	15.36
Bethel Baptist church	8.00
Second Avenue Presbyterian church	130.00
Total	$265.97

CLEVELAND BUYS A FARM.

He Will Stock It With Game Birds and Maintain a Shooting Preserve.

Ex-President Cleveland has purchased from Capt. Foster W. Vanderbilt an eighty-five-acre tract of land adjoining the Captain's Rosedale farm, about two miles west of Princeton. Mr. Cleveland, it is said, will make a game preserve of the tract and stock it with quail, pheasants, partridges, and other game birds for the pleasure of himself and his friends.

The neighboring farmers will join him in protecting the birds. This makes three game preserves in that section. The largest is that of Pierre Lorillard, at Jobstown, Burlington county, which is stocked principally with pheasants and English hares. It is several hundred acres in extent and adjoins the pine lands of Burlington county. Just east of Trenton Col. A. E. Kuser, of the Governor's staff, has a large farm, which he usually stocks with quail for the pleasure of his friends the following autumn.

Scribe Elderton Missed.

The omnipresent scribe of the News, M. F Elderton, is now missed from his accustomed haunts. He is enjoying a two weeks' vacation in the sunny south. His place is filled by Harry Milligan, who has now turned his energies to journalism.

THE WIFE WAS DECEIVED

MRS. GEORGE SPENCER THOUGHT HER HUSBAND AN HONEST MAN.

She Was Terribly Shocked When She Learned That He Was the King of Bunco Men—How She Married Him.

"If anyone deserves sympathy it is I."

Such is the pathetic sentiment expressed by the wife of the king of bunco-steerers, known to Plainfielders as Mrs. George Spencer. Immediately after the arrest of the noted criminal, Mrs. Spencer declined to be interviewed concerning her husband, or, in fact, to talk about their domestic affairs in any way. As time has passed, however, and the sudden shock of her husband's ignoble downfall has worn off, the reticent mood of Mrs. Spencer has been slightly dispelled and to a few friends she has confided her troubles and told some thing of her life with the man whom she had faithfully believed to be engaged in an avocation that was perfectly in accord with the demands of respectable society.

According to the story of Mrs. Spencer, her husband is a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—away from home a scheming, suave crook dealing in gold bricks, three-card monte tricks, etc., for the purpose of parting credulous and miserly old farmers from their hard-earned cash; at home, a loving, model husband, assuming to be a commercial drummer taking a short rest from his duties, and indulging his wife in all the things that both money and his own amiable nature could contribute to make her life happy.

It was four years ago at Long Branch. Spencer was there enjoying the sea breezes and the gay life of the ocean resort. The now Mrs. Spencer was spending also a season there, of comely face, pretty figure and affable manner. Casually, a mutual friend introduced them one day. They fell into each other's company frequently and finally Spencer became a suitor for the young woman's heart and hand. They were married and Mrs. Spencer declares that they lived happily till the fateful day this month when Spencer fell into the meshes of the law.

Mrs. Spencer says that her husband always told her that he was a commercial traveler for a liquor firm, and to carry out the deception successfully he sent home a sample case of liquors whenever he came in off the road, saying that it was needless to return the samples to the house for which he traveled. He was a high liver, always flush with money, never a quibbler over the price of an article—obtaining in his personality always the requisites to denote a prosperous and eminently respectable man of business.

When he was arrested in Lowell, Mass., after buncoeing an old farmer out of several thousand dollars, and gave $18,000 cash bail, and then made himself non est, he packed his wife by telling her that the arrest was caused by his becoming involved in a quarrel and assaulting a man.

The last Saturday that Spencer spent in Plainfield, leaving for Philadelphia with the detectives hot on his trail, he perpetrated his first mean treatment of Mrs. Spencer. The latter had some thing over $40 in her possession and he took this sum—probably impelled to do so by the fact a quarter he was rapidly getting into with the law. Then followed his arrest in Philadelphia and the terrible disclosure to Mrs. Spencer.

Her spirit crushed, her faithfulness rebuked, conscious of unenviable notoriety incident to the disclosures, Mrs. Spencer allowed her sorrow to give way to tears and for several days she was in the deepest distress and mourning. Maintaining an elaborate home, Mrs. Spencer found that in a few days she was quarters in need of money, but where was it to come from? Her husband branded a criminal, writhing in the toils of the law, and seeking only to extricate himself from the predicament that his crooked ness had led him into, was as to her in this plight as if he had never lived.

Then came the pressing demands of the merchants to whom the Spencers were debtors. They wanted their money. Without the necessary funds Mrs. Spencer could but put them off and promise liquidation in the future. In view of the heretofore ready settlement of all debts, the change Mrs. Spencer was compelled to undergo was adding humiliation to her already large load of grief. For days to those who saw her she was the picture of despair. One of her colored servants was sympathetically touched and from her scant savings in the banz she drew out $8 and loaned it to Mrs. Spencer for some imperative expenditures. They were not in sight again, but to the girl earning not more than that in two weeks or over it represented a tribute to the respect and confidence Mrs. Spencer that was an oasis of happiness in the desert of the unfortunate woman's ill luck.

A few days ago Mrs. Spencer went to Boston to see whether getting husband now incarcerated in a Massachusetts prison it is impossible to say. Her home on Carlton avenue is still maintained and in the care of servants, and Mrs. Spencer is profuse in her declarations of honesty and ignorance of her husband's true practices until disclosed publicly. It is probable that she will go to live with her parents, who are said to be wealthy.

HE WANTED "STAMPS."

A RATHER UNIQUE REQUEST HEARD IN CITY COURT FRIDAY.

Milton Barnes Admitted Being Drunk and Disorderly, but When Fined He Made a Demand for Trade Indicators.

A young man went into Frank Linke's wholesale liquor store on West Front street last Thursday and wanted to order a dozen bottles of beer. He said that he would take half the number on account. Mrs. Linke was suspicious that all was not right and refused to allow the beer to go. Then the young man walked out.

Now it happened that on the counter there were two quart bottles of whiskey. After the young man had departed, Mrs. Linke noticed that one bottle was missing. She notified the police. Sergeant Kiely happened to find the young man soon after. The missing bottle was found in his pocket. The Sergeant says that the young man was drunk at the time. He arrested the young man and locked him up.

Friday morning the offender was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza. He was Milton Barnes, who has been employed at the Pond Tool Works. He lives in the West End with his wife and children. Barnes pleaded guilty to the charges of being drunk and disorderly. A warrant had already been sworn out in Justice Newcorn's court on the charge of petty larceny. It was decided to let the matter rest in the hands of the city magistrate.

After hearing the story of the trouble at Linke's the City Judge pronounced sentence.

"Ten dollars," said the Judge. The prisoner signified his intention of paying the fine. He still waited before the Judge.

"What's the matter?" asked the Judge.

"I'm waiting for trading stamps," came the reply.

The Judge was, at first, for doubling the fine, but he afterwards relented.

SENATE LODGE INSTALL.

Knights of Honor Beat Their New Officers for the Year.

Senate Lodge, No. 3542, K. of H., received seven new applications and initiated two Thursday. The grand lodge officers, assisted by District Deputy Julius Hancock, installed the following elected officers for the ensuing year: Past dictator, Thaddeus C Smith; dictator, Benj. R. Western; vice-dictator, J. H. Van Middlesworth; assistant dictator, William D. Williams; reporter, R. A. Frey; financial reporter, John H. Doane; treasurer, Edwin G. Smith; chaplain, Thomas R. Western; guardian, Richard Warneck; guide, James R. Phillips; trustees, William D. Williams, J. H. Van-Middlesworth, James R. Phillips.

The lodge will have an entertainment February 17th.

PASTOR AND WIFE GREETED.

Reception Given to Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Downey in the Borough.

Thursday afternoon, Mrs. John Clapp, of Mercer avenue, gave a delightful reception to her friends and neighbors in North Plainfield to meet Rev. and Mrs. William Montgomery Downey. Mr. Downey is rector of the Church of the Redeemer, recently settled in the parish. In spite of the inclement weather a large number of guests were present. Mrs. Clapp was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Miss Clapp, her sisters, the Misses Loyd, and the wives of the church vestrymen and warden, Mesdames Phillips, Alexander, Dupee, A. E. Faber, Jr., and Mrs. Townsend. Mrs. Dupee and Mrs. Matthews presided at the tables. The assistants in the dining room were the young girls of the Sunday-school and church guild, the Misses Audsley, Howard, Phillips, Barlow, Curtis, Faber, Perkins, Hegeman, Waring, Miss Hammond from Newton Centre and Miss Dennison from New Haven. The church wardens, vestrymen and a number of other gentlemen were present. The floral decorations were pink carnations, harmonizing with the tints of pink shaded lamps.

RICHARD ELLIOTT DEAD.

Stricken With Pneumonia and Couldn't Survive the Attack.

Richard Ozro Elliott, aged 45 years, son of the late Richard Elliott, of the borough, died Friday evening at his home, on West Eighth street, after a short illness with pneumonia. Mr. Elliott was born on Pearl street, and lived in this locality all his life. His father was a blacksmith, and many years ago had a shop on Somerset street. Mr. Elliott was a carpenter by trade and always worked at it when able. His wife died a few years ago. Three children, two boys and one girl, survive him. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

The funeral services were held from the house, West Eight street, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Augustus Saltzman, of Westervelt avenue, who received a severe injury to his knee a few days ago, seems to be getting along nicely. He will be confined to the house for a long time, however.

PLANS OF TROLLEY MEN

COMBINATION OF VARIOUS STREET RAILWAYS IN THE STATE.

A Veritable Network of Tracks Will Be Under the Control of Capitalists —Jersey Coast Points to be Touched

It is admitted without reserve by different men deeply interested in street railroads hereabouts, that the merging of the trolley lines in Northern New Jersey is but a question of days. The entering wedge to this stupendous deal was, as told in The Press, the combination of the Newark and South Orange and the New Jersey Street Railway companies.

This was such a decided step in the direction of a general consolidation of trolley interests that there was but slight hesitation on the part of men connected with the corporations above mentioned and the Consolidation Traction Company in saying that the latter concern would be joined with the others as soon as certain plans, now underway, could be executed.

The amalgamated lines will, in all probability, be known as the North Jersey Traction Company, but this point is yet to be decided upon. With the exception of a short break on Springfield avenue, in the village of Irvington, there is a continuous line of tracks, diverging from Newark at the junction of South Orange and Sprinfield avenues, to South Orange, to Springfield avenue, Maplewood and down Springfield avenue to the starting point in Newark. Lines and branches extend to the Jersey City ferry of the Pennsylvania road, by two routes to Elizabeth, Orange and West Orange, Bloomfield, Montclair, Nutley, Passaic and Paterson, Belleville, Harrison, Kearny and Arlington, and to various points by connecting branches in Newark and other places named.

By this it will be seen a veritable network of tracks will be under the control of one concern.

Bernard M. Shanley, it is intimated, will be chosen president of the amalgamated concern and his work will be confined chiefly to developing the suburban lines, while to others will be left the task of managing the city divisions.

Judge Krueger, Edward H. Radel and others interested in the Brunswick Traction Company, are so closely identified with the Newark companies that it is said to be only a question of time when the lines in Middlesex, Somerset and other counties will become part of the North Jersey's possessions. Points along the Jersey coast will then be in touch by trolley with Newark and Jersey City.

By extending the old Suburban Company's tracks from their present terminus at Tremont street, Orange, along Valley street to South Orange, the lines of the Newark and South Orange concern can be tapped and the D. L and W. road can be paralleled from points in Hudson county to the southern extremity of Essex county, as it is conceded that the tracks on Springfield avenue will be extended through Millburn and Summit as soon as practicable.

MARRIED QUIETLY.

Wilbur Henderson Takes a Somerville Belle for His Wife.

A very quiet marriage was celebrated Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Miss Etta Connett, of Somerville, became the wife of Wilbur Henderson, an employe of F. Frost MacDonald's grocery store. The wedding took place at the home of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Grandview avenue, who performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson left the city immediately after the wedding and they will enjoy a short honeymoon. They returned to Plainfield last Monday and will reside on Watchung avenue in the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mason.

Shattered the Knee Bone.

The friends of Augustus Saltzman, of Westervelt avenue, will sympathize with him in his recent misfortune. A few days ago he was standing on the edge of the bath-tub in his house when his feet slipped and he suddenly fell to the floor. In failing he struck his knee against the corner of the tub and severely shattered the knee bone. Mr. Saltzman will now be confined to the house for several weeks. Dr. Fritts is in attendance.

Women Musicians to Appear.

Monday evening, January 31st, there will be an entertainment given in the Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse, at which time the Ladies' Orchestra of this city will appear and give some of their best selections. The Ladies' Banjo and Guitar Club will also give several selections. Other numbers on the programme will be furnished by New York talent.

Demand for Good Roads.

F. A. Dunham, C. E., has just returned from Springfield, Mass., where he attended the annual meeting of the Connecticut Valley Highway Association, of which he is an honorary member. He reports that the State of Massachusetts has built many miles of first-class macadam roads during the past year, and that the popular demand is for work of the same kind.

FOR WELFARE OF CITY.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE NEW BOARD OF TRADE.

Many Timely Topics Discussed by Prominent Citizens—Municipal Ownership of Water Works—Lower Insurance Rates.

The consolidation of city and borough, municipal ownership of the water works, and doing away with trading stamps were among the important questions that interested a large attendance of members at the first regular monthly meeting of the new Board of Trade Jan. 19th. The meeting was held in the old Board of Trade rooms, which were not large enough to accomodate the crowd that turned out to the meeting. The president, F. C. Lounsbury, presided.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk was the first to speak. He brought up the question of the city becoming the owner of the water plant. The city paid $5,000 a year, he said, to the water company, which would pay the interest on the bonds should the city purchase the plant, while the income from the consumers would pay for the plant inside of fifteen years.

Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, of the borough, spoke. He said that the borough of North Plainfield had a very favorable contract with the water company at present, but when it expired, which would be in a year or so, he feared that the borough would not be able to obtain such satisfactory terms. There were other remarks of a similar nature. The matter was referred to a special committee of three, which will be appointed by the president.

The matter of the present insurance rates in Plainfield was brought up by Mayor Fisk. He said that Plainfield had been rated with cities having a volunteer fire department while Plainfield really had a paid department that was the equal of any city of its size. All the money that had been spent, he said, to give better fire protection was not considered. He thought that the rates ought to be lowered. The committee on insurance was given the matter in hand with instructions to investigate and then treat with the insurance companies toward the lowering of the rates. Other speakers agreed with the ideas of the Mayor.

Former Mayor Hegeman told that he had received several communications from a concern that wished to locate in the east, and he inquired as to what inducements the Board of Trade could offer. President Lounsbury stated that a tract of land three and a half acres in extent along the railroad would be given to any locating concern. Mr. Hegeman thought that would be sufficient and that the concern could be persuaded to come to Plainfield. The committee on manufactures was instructed to look into the matter.

The Board was also informed that E. M. French was in communication with another concern that was undecided whether to locate in Plainfield or Newark. The same committee was instructed to confer and assist Mr. French.

Councilman L B Woolston, of the Borough, brought up the question of consolidation. He said that he had been wondering what interest North Plainfield would have if Plainfield should buy the water works. He thought that the borough should have its share. And while they were about it he thought that the question of consolidation could be taken up. He had been informed by the Borough Counsel that the consolidation could be formed without changing the county lines. The taxes could be collected, the city tax going to the city and the county tax going to the separate counties. It would be after the fashion of the consolidation of Greater New York.

The idea seemed to find general favor and it was followed by a motion that the Mayors of Plainfield and North Plainfield each appoint a committee of three prominent citizens from their side of the brook, and that they meet with a committee of four from the Board of Trade and take up the matter of consolidation and push it.

Secretary Harry C. Runyon called the attention of the meeting to the trading stamps. He declared that over $60,0000 went out of the city annually for stamps. It was finally decided that the committee on legislation should confer with committees from the Newark, Trenton and Camden Boards of Trade and try to introduce a bill to stop it.

The question of street lighting was next introduced by Secretary Runyon.

After general discussion, the meeting adjourned.

Miss Clark's Book a Pronounced Success.

Miss Imogen Clark, of Rockview avenue, the author of "Will Shakespeare's Little Lad," has won the favorable criticism of many readers. The Boston Herald says: "The author has caught the true spirit of Shakespeare's time and paints his home surroundings with a loving, tender grace." While The Saturday Evening Gazette give this opinion: "It is written with so gentle and loving a hand that it has the charm of novelty added to its other charms."

WEDDED LAST EVENING.

SEELY-VAN BUSKIRK NUPTIALS CELEBRATED IN A PLEASANT WAY.

The Ceremony Performed at the Home of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass and Followed by a Reception at the Home of Bride.

A pretty wedding was that of Jan. 19th when Miss Etta Van Buskirk, of Orchard place, was united in marriage to S. M. Seely, of Woodbridge. The wedding took place at 7 o'clock at the home of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, who performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a traveling gown of military blue cloth trimmed with white satin and lace, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Emma Wikoff, of LaGrande avenue, was gowned in a dress of dark cloth trimmed with lace and ribbon. The best man was S. B. Brewster, of Woodbridge, an intimate acquaintance of the groom.

Following the marriage the bridal party was taken to the home of the bride on Orchard place, where an informal reception was held. There were about fifty relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties present from Orange, Elizabeth, Woodbridge, Newark and Plainfield.

During the evening a wedding supper was served, and after the bride and groom had received the hearty congratulations of their friends, they departed for Woodbridge, where they will reside. The groom is the owner of a prosperous drug business at the latter place. The bride has, until recently, been a valued employe of Goodhuit & Co., of Front street. Mr. and Mrs Seely were the recipients of costly and useful presents from their many relatives and friends, who wish them long life, success and happiness.

As the bridal party passed through the city in a coach people were much amused to see a large placard on the coach on which was printed: "We are going to get married." It was placed on the coach when the groom and his best man left Woodbridge for Plainfield, and no one thought to remove it afterwards.

DESCENDANT OF COLONIAL FAM LY.

J. H. Kenyon Died Thrsday Morning—A Student of Mechanical Engineering.

At his home on Kensington avenue, Thursday, occurred the death of one of Plainfield's old and respected citizens, J. H. Kenyon, after a long and severe illness. The deceased was a resident of this city for over thirty years. He was a descendant of an old colonial family, and for over two hundred years his ancestors have been of sterling worth both in church and State. Mr. Kenyon's great grand father fought under Gen. Washington and patriotism has passed down to the later generation.

Mr. Kenyon, although dignified and reserved, has always been prompt and sympathetic in all that promoted the welfare of this city as well as the Nation. He spent his life in the study of science and mechanical engineering. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss. His sons are D. P. Kenyon, of Lexington, Ky.; W. H. Kenyon, of Buffalo, N. Y.; and his daughter, Mrs. John Ulrich, of Carlton avenue, this city.

AN OLD VETERINARIAN DEAD.

Joseph R. Linbarger Passes Away After a Long Illness.

In the death of Joseph R. Linbarger, which occurred a few minutes after midnight Jan. 19th, New Jersey loses one of its oldest veterinarians, and the borough a respected citizen. Mr. Linbarger had been sick for eight months, during which time he was confined to the house. He was seventy-three years of age. He died at his home at the corner of Somerset street and Hudson avenue.

Mr. Linbarger was born in Washington Valley and spent all of his days in this section, where he is well known. A portion of the time he lived in Bound Brook, but two years ago he moved to the borough. Besides his veterinary practice he also did considerable auctioneering, and was considered very adept at the business.

Besides a widow, he leaves five sons and one daughter. The sons are David L., of Elizabeth, John A., of this city, Silas C., of San Jose, Ill., Norman and Walter C. The daughter is Mrs. C. B. Waldron, of Martinville.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers from North Plainfield have been recorded in the Somerset County Clerk's office:

Harriet S. Pond to Collis T. Pond, $1; Esther E. Mundy and husband to Henry N. Spencer, $1; Jannie D. Carton to Lowe Borrum, $3,000; John J. Stahl et ux., to Barzilla F. Conover, $1; Barzilla F. Conover to Maggie A. Stahl, $1; W. H. Wyckoff, sheriff, to Lemuel A. Tunison, $300; John H. Sebring et al., to Watchung Water Company, $2,025; Conrad Egel et ux., to Harriet Markhanan, $800.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Louis Edward Eaton, of East Fifth street, and Miss Bessie Vera Cushing, of Brooklyn. Miss Cushing is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, of Park avenue, this city. Mr. Eaton is associated with the Sabbath Recorder Publishing House, in this city.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

NEW JERSEY INDEBTEDNESS.

A close study of the returns reported in the State Comptroller's report, now at hand, discloses some interesting information. The larger cities naturally show the heaviest indebtedness, although when comparison is made with the assessed valuation, some of the smaller municipalities show quite as great disposition to run into debt. The two cities with proportionately the greatest debt are Elizabeth and Rahway. Each owes a fraction less than 20 per cent. of its assessed valuation. Jersey City's indebtedness runs up to a little more than 18 per cent. of its ratables, while Newark owes less than 9 per cent. The debt of Orange is more than 15 per cent. of the assessed valuation of its taxable property. The net municipal debt of Plainfield is $158,306.32, while the assessed valuation is $7,697,000. Plainfield is the thirteenth city in the State in rate of assessed valuation. The assessed valuation of North Plainfield is $2,500,000, but it has no bonded indebtedness.

THERE MUST BE LIBERALITY.

That the property owners on Duer street will be greatly benefited by the opening of that thoroughfare to Green brook, to connect with Madison avenue in this city, goes without saying. But the consummation of the plan will depend entirely on how liberal the private subscriptions are. With the promise of $1,000 by William M. Stillman, and the $2,000 to be raised by the Borough Council, there ought not to be any trouble in securing the remaining $1,000.

The United States Senate Tuesday confirmed the nomination of Governor Griggs to be Attorney-General. The Governor says he will resign his present office next Monday. Then Union County will have the distinguished honor of having one of its citizens in the executive's chair. The Senate yesterday determined that the official title of Mr. Voorhees should be President of the Senate and Acting-Governor. It is a long title for a short term.

Highland Park, across the river from New Brunswick, is torn two ways by the proposition to have the place erected into a borough. The Park is part of Raritan township. It is claimed by the advocates of the borough that the Park is unfairly treated in the apportionment of taxes raised by the township. The boroughites and the anti-boroughites seem pretty evenly divided.

Senator Reed Tuesday introduced his second bill in the Legislature for this session. This latest measure of the Senator's is designed to prevent the adulteration of linseed or flaxseed oils. It provides that the penalty for a violation shall be a fine of from $50 to $500 or thirty days' imprisonment. The State Dairy Commissioner is authorized to prosecute offenders.

Those of the citizens who are fortunate enough to own stock in the City National Bank, are soon to receive the results of the industry of the present management. Dividend No. 42 has been declared and will be payable on or after the first of February. It is the semi-annual dividend and amounts to 4 per cent.

The retail merchants of New Jersey are down on the trading stamp humbug, and they intend asking the Legislature to enact a law suppressing it. When their representatives arrive in Trenton they will find themselves confronted by a powerful lobby.—New York Tribune.

Nicholas C. J. English needs only to take the oath of office now to become the full-fledged prosecutor of Union county. His nomination was confirmed by the Senate in executive session Tuesday.

Talk may be cheap, but when the Board of Trade utilizes it in discussing prospective enterprises for Plainfield it is the stepping-stone for greater prosperity for the community.

Action is to be taken in the Legislature to abolish the State Naval Reserve by merging it with the National Guard.

The poets who depend upon the snow for inspiration for winter sonnets are faring rather niggardly this year.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

A TITLE WOULD BE WELCOME.

In the matter of titled civilians Plainfield is not overstocked, and a few more Generals, Colonels, Majors, et cetra, could be acquired with local pride and distinction. Recognition of this condition leads us to suggest that Senator Voorhees, soon to be Acting Governor, with a new military staff to appoint in lieu of the one under Governor Griggs' regime, all of whom declare their intention to resign with the change of chief executive, could honor Plainfield by naming one or two of her citizens on his staff. And, besides, in the matter of political favors of State selection, the local Republicans do not fare very well, and if the Union county man could drop a colonel or two in our midst, we would become it round-ly, even though the perquisites are all honor and no pay.

In the House of Representatives Saturday Congressman Parker introduced a bill providing for a new U. S. Circuit Judge for this circuit, comprising New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware. It is claimed the work requires a third Judge.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS.

E. E. Anthony Explains Some of the Arrangements for National Delegates.

Miss Mabel Winton, superintendent of the State Junior Department, in a letter to the junior superintendents speaks of the department work in general and also of the faithful labors of the retired superintendent, Dr. Spooner, as follows:

"It is hardly necessary to inform you how efficiently the junior work has been carried on under the supervision of Dr. Spooner, who has labored so earnestly and faithfully. We must be filled with the Holy Spirit if we are to work among the little ones. Urge the juniors to work for the missionary banner and, above all, be sincere in the work, praying that many may be led to accept Christ in the coming year."

E. E. Anthony, chairman of the State transportation committee, speaking of the convention arrangements, in a letter to the societies, says in part:

"At Nashville we have secured a number of the best rooms at the Tulane Hotel, (all outside rooms), rate $2 a day, for each person, nearly all rooms to be occupied by two people only, also space for 150 in private houses, at not over $1 25 per day, within a short distance of the hotel. The Vine Street Christian church, one and one half minutes from Convention Hall and one and one-half blocks from Tulane Hotel, will be our New Jersey headquarters.

"Don't go with any other delegation, but be loyal to 'Old Jersey.' We willsget the best rates consistent with comfortable travelling, and be sure no one will offer anything better.

"Early application is advisable. We are authorized by and are working under direction of the State executive committee, and will spare no effort to make the trip a pleasant and profitable one to all."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Officers Installed

The newly-elected officers of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., were installed Monday evening by Right Worthy Lady Governess, Mrs. Elizabeth Rice, and Right Worthy Vice Lady Governess, Mrs. M. C. Keltie, of Roxbury. Following the installation there were speeches by the officers, recitations by Miss Try Mattox, after which refreshments were served.

Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., held its annual installation of officers last Monday. The officers of the grand lodge were present and conducted the installation ceremonies. The members and their guests then enjoyed a feast, and a number of speeches on the good of the order were made.

Mothers whose children are troubled with bad colds, croup or whooping-cough will do well to read what Dr. R. R. Robey, of Olney, Mo., says on this subject. He writes: "For years we have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and always keep it in the house. It is regarded in our family as a specific for all kinds of colds and coughs." The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THE WHIST TROPHY DEPARTS FOR BOSTON.

An Erratic Run of Cards For the Park Club.

OLD RIVALS IN WHISTIC ARENA.

Playing Tens Place in the Afternoon and Evening—Fight in the First Half Was Close, but in the Second Half the Visitors Took the Lead—Senator Charles A. Reed Was Umpire—The Score.

The visit of the American Whist League trophy to Plainfield was short. Saturday their old rivals in the whistic arena, the team from the American Whist Club, of Boston, came to this city, met the Parks in a hard fought match and won. A week ago the team from the Park Club went to Baltimore and captured the trophy from the Baltimore Whist Club. They brought it to Plainfield. Now the trophy has gone to Boston for one more contest, then it goes to the western section to be contested for by the clubs of that part of the league.

It is said that history repeats itself. Such was the case with the career of the Park Club. Once before the Parks captured the National trophy only to lose it again at the first match to the American Club, of Boston. In each case the run of the cards was unusually erratic and the luck went to the visitors without exception.

The American team came to Plainfield Saturday afternoon and began the match in the afternoon. One half of twenty four boards was played from 2:30 to 6 o'clock. The second half was played in the evening from 7:30 o'clock to 10:30. The game was played at the Revere House. An excellent dinner was served in the interval between the two halves. The visiting four consisted of Messrs. Bove, Fletcher, Whitney and Ward. The Park Club was represented by Messrs. McCutchen, Howell, Rogers and Townsend. Senator Charles A. Reed, of the Park Club, acted as umpire of the match.

The fight in the first half was unusually close. The Americans gained four tricks on the play of one hand, three on another, two on another, and a single point each in six hands. They scored 16 points in the first half. The Parks made three points on two hands and six singles, making a total of 16 tricks also, tieing the score for the first half. The play was close and sharp, with the luck running against the Parks. The Americans played a very strong game and were ready to take advantage of every point.

The second half opened with the hands running very wild and making great changes possible. The fight was even closer than before but the Americans began to more than hold their own. Their highest score in one hand was three points. Then they made two doubles and six singles, giving a total of 13 points. The Parks only won out in four hands, two doubles and two singles, giving them a total for the second half of 6.

The total score of the match was 29 to 22 in favor of the Boston team.

The Parks played a good game throughout and were highly complimented by their victorious opponents. They will not have another chance at the trophy this season, as it goes west after the next game and does not return until the fall playing season opens. The showing made by the Parks for the trophy during this season has been a very creditable one. They have won the cup twice, and on the occasion of their other match for the cup they were defeated by the Americans, of Boston, by just one point, a remarkable game.

Councilman Bunyon a Godfather.

Councilman William N. Bunyon has served in many roles but Sunday he tried something new. He acted as godfather for the youngest son of Charles W. Smith, of Willow avenue, who was christened at the Holy Cross church last Sunday morning. The ceremony took place at the close of the morning service. It was performed by the rector of the church, Rev. Dr. T. Logan Murphy. The godmother was Miss Sarah Langford, of Brooklyn. The child was christened Walter Nelson Smith.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk, in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to frequent severe attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief." Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Literary Note.

The Hon. William Waldorf Astor will contribute an important article to an early number of the Pall Mall Magazine on John Jacob Astor. The article will be illustrated and promises to be of exceptional interest to American readers.

FUNERAL OF J. R. LINBARGER.

Services Conducted by Rev. T. E. Davis, Who Spoke Consoling Words.

The funeral services of the late J. R. Linbarger were held Sunday afternoon from the house on Somerset street at 1:30 o'clock, and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends who had known the departed for many years. The services were conducted by Rev. T. E. Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Bound Brook. His remarks were very comforting to the bereaved ones and especially helpful. He spoke at some length regarding the certainty of death, and he impressed it strongly on all present that however that they might differ on other things they were all agreed that death is certain, and that it is very important that all should be prepared to meet death.

During the service several hymns were sung by Mrs. J. H. Manley, H. J. Martin, Sr., H. J. Martin, Jr., and Willard Martin. The hymns rendered were favorites of the departed.

There were several beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. Those who served as pall bearers were: Jacob Blumm, Andrew Love, Sr., D. D. Smalley, Albert Vail, J. A. Blatz and Jacob Long. Interment was in the family plot at Bound Brook.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.

Craig A. March Will Defend Alleged Slayers of Farmer Pitts.

Garret Mansbande and Louis Roesel were Monday morning indicted by the Grand Jury of Union county for the murder of Farmer Pitts, near Summit, in September last. Judge VanSyckel assigned Craig A. March as counsel for the defendants. Mr. March was in Court at the time, and upon being assigned entered a plea of not guilty in each case, reserving right to withdraw the plea and quash the indictment.

Judge VanSyckel stated that he would afford counsel opportunity to confer with the defendants and investigate the circumstances, before fixing the day for trial. He directed counsel to be in attendance in Court Monday next, at which time the date of trial will be determined upon.

Trinity Church Soon to be Opened.

Marsh, Ayres & Co., the painters and decorators, have finished their work in the sanctuary of Trinity Reformed church, and Midmer & Son have several men at work setting up the organ. As soon as that is completed the new carpet will be laid and the backs of the seats upholstered. Mr. Schlereth, who has the contract for the upholstering of the church, has several persons now at work covering the cushions of the seats. The date for the reopening of the edifice will soon be fixed upon and announced.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3d, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mr. Anthony's Gift.

Two handsome oak chairs, upholstered in leather, and a table, also of oak, add to the adornment and usefulness of the pulpit platform of the new lecture room of Trinity Reformed church. They were very quietly placed on the platform one day last week, and it has just become known that they were donated by the superintendent of the Sunday-school, E. E. Anthony.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 19, 1896.

ELY BROS., Dear Sirs:—Please accept my thanks for your favor in the gift of a bottle of Cream Balm. Let me say I have used it for years and can thoroughly recommend it for what it claims, if directions are followed. Yours truly, (Rev.) H. W. HATHAWAY.

No clergyman should be without it. Cream Balm is kept by all druggists. Full size 50c. Trial size 10 cents. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

More Members for the Arcanum.

Two applications for membership were received at the meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, last evening. After the business of the evening was concluded, S. C. Baker gave an exhibition of a grama phone, also several recitations, and the meeting wound up with a general good time.

Consolidating Committee.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, today announced the committee appointed by him to meet with the Board of Trade committee to confer about the consolidation of the borough and city into one municipality. They are as follows: Former Mayor William L. Saunders, H. K. Carroll and E. S. Hooley.

A Croup Cure

is what many a mother is looking for; something absolutely safe and reliable, that will disarm her terror of that dread rattling, strangling cough, so fearful to the mother, so fatal to the child. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a croup cure that can be relied on. Thousands say so.

MRS. W. J. DICKSON ("Stanford Eveleth") writes from Truro, N. S.:—

"That terror of mothers, the startling, croupy cough, never alarmed me so long as I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house."

"We have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in our family for years. Once when our boy had a severe attack of croup, we thought that he would die. But we broke up the attack by using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."

R. H. COX, Plaucheville, La.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is put up in half-size bottles at half price—50 cents.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free remedy will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Interesting Pictures for Plainfielders.

The Mail and Express Illustrated Saturday Magazine of last week has an article on the Harlem Young Women's Christian Home, with a very good picture of the president of the association, Miss Anna Burr, daughter of Stephen H. Burr, for a number of years residents of Plainfield. On another page is a fine picture of Mrs. Reginald Arnold, daughter of Frank di Zarega, of New York, who is a brother of Mrs. Samuel Huntington, of Franklin place.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

To Go to the Klondyke Region.

Louis A. Miller, an employe of Rheaume & Saxton, of Watchung avenue, has decided to go to the Klondyke regions. He will start in two weeks and hopes to reach his destination by early spring. His family will remain in Plainfield during his absence.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—6:30, 8:45, 11:20 a. m. and 2:05, 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:30, 4:00 and 7:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:30, 11:20 a. m., 1:05, and 9:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:30 and 4:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 1:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—7:30 a. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insures Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty st. and Whitehall Street.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 16th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3 14, 3 27, 6 05, 7 00, 7 45, 8 00, 8 45, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 12 00, 1 15, 2 07, 3 25, 3 32, 4 54, 5 04, 6 00, 7 05, 8 20, 9 15, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday, 3 14, 3 27, 4 59, 8 01, 8 50, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m.; 1 15, 3 17, 3 30, 5 01, 10 22 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, 4 00, 7 15, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 05, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 15, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.; 12 15 night. Sunday, 4 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 30, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night.

Leave New York from Whitehall street, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night. Sunday, 9 00, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night.

Leave New York from Whitehall street, foot of Whitehall street, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night. Sunday, 9 00, 10 00 a. m.; 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.; 12 15 night.

Leave Plainfield 7 45, 9 00, 10 30 a. m.; 12 00, 1 45, 3 25, 4 56, 5 26, 6 55, 8 45, 10 30 p. m. Sunday, 7 45, 9 00, 10 30 a. m.; 12 00, 1 45, 3 25, 4 56, 6 55, 8 45, 10 30 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 45, 7 25, 8 55, 9 30, 10 01, 11 21, 2 23, 3 05, 4 36, 5 25, 5 54, 6 17, 7 10, 8 10, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday, 8 55, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.; 12 30, 1 30, 3 05, 5 25, 6 17, 7 10, 8 10, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 20, 7 50, 9 25, 10 00, 10 45, 11 50, 2 50, 3 30, 4 00, 5 00, 5 50, 6 20, 7 15, 8 15, 9 45, 10 45 p. m. Sunday, 9 25, 10 00, 10 45, 11 50 a. m.; 12 50, 3 30, 5 00, 5 50, 7 15, 8 15, 9 45, 10 45 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 6 45, 8 14, 9 54 a. m., 12 45, 4 56, 6 15, 6 45, 9 30 p. m. Sunday at 8 08 a. m.; 2 04 6 26 p. m.

Leave Easton at 7 15, 9 00, 11 00 a. m., 2 45, 4 04, 7 00, p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 00 a. m., 4 04, 7 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 54 a. m. 5 05, 9 30 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 8 55 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 9 30 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown. 10 30 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 11 30 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 4 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 6 55 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 8 45 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown. 10 45 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

4 56 p. m. on Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 6 55 p. m. on Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations. 8 45 p. m. on Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown. 10 45 p. m. on Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Junction for Flemington and Trenton.

6 55 p. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Williamsport, Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and principal intermediate stations.

4 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Bound Brook

OFF FOR KLONDYKE; THE FIDDLER UNPAID.

Jack O'Brien Takes a Hurried and Unexpected Departure.

EXPENSE FUNDS ARE NOT ALL HIS.

He Suffered in the Box Office Receipts and Left on the 11:28 Train for New York—Orchestra Waited Fruitlessly for Their Pay for Playing for the Dance Which the Gold Seeker Managed.

The big dance which was held at the Crescent Rink Saturday night was a somewhat uneventful affair until the dancers had gone home and the lights came for the settlement of bills and the closing of the building.

Then a good sized sensation was sprung by the discovery that John O'Brien, the manager of the affair, had folded up his tent and sneaked, taking all the funds of the box office with him.

The ball was a successful one and it is estimated that there was between $60 and $70 in the hands of O'Brien. Out of this he was to have paid O'Reilly's orchestra and a number of other holding bills for services in connection with the ball.

O'Brien was in the habit of leaving the rink to escort a lady friend home after affairs of this sort, and when the dancers dispersed and he was nowhere to be seen, the fact caused no comment.

Midnight came and went, and still the manager did not return. A few of the most interested ones rattled their bones on the rink steps until 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and then gave up in discouragement and went home. An inquiry at the North Avenue station revealed the fact that O'Brien had taken the 11:28 train for New York Saturday night.

All doubt as to the fate of O'Brien was removed when it came out that he had met an intimate friend from this city in New York Sunday by appointment and explained the circumstances which had led to his leaving Plainfield so abruptly. He expressed regret that he had been placed in such a position, but claimed that fortune had been so averse to him that it would have been impossible for him to have remained here and paid his obligations. Besides the bills contracted in connection with the dance Saturday night, O'Brien left a few other small obligations. A prize of $2 in gold was offered to the best waltzer at the dance. This money he left in the hands of Prof. Eugene O'Reilly, leader of the orchestra, and the prize was awarded as announced.

O'Brien stated to his Plainfield friend Sunday that he intends to start at once for Vancouver, B. C., from which point he will proceed to Alaska and search for the yellow metal in the Yukon gold fields.

The Pierce Cycle Company is the lessee of the Crescent Rink, and the hasty departure of O'Brien will not cause any loss of rent to the owner of the building.

O'Brien has been in this city about two years and has always borne an excellent reputation for straight dealing.

Broke His a New Record

The many friends of A. W. Brune, who did some remarkable bicycle riding here last summer, will be pleased to learn that he now holds the record over the Philadelphia New York course, a distance of 200 miles. Brune made the record last August, beating Gabriel and Ferry, who went over the entire course. The time was 7 hours and 30 minutes for the trip between New York and Philadelphia and 14 hours, 34 minutes and 30 seconds for the entire trip. Gabriel and Ferry will probably be awarded the record of tandem riding over the Philadelphia and New York course.

"Rheumatism

crippled me for years. I could not walk. I tried many physicians without benefit. On the advice of a friend I tried your medicine. I was completely cured by three bottles of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

T. BOWEN, Horton Summit, Pa.

JUICY POLITICAL PLUM.

AN ELIZABETH MAN TO BE APPOINTED FACTORY INSPECTOR.

William B. Tucker Chosen by the Republican Leaders and Senator Voorhees Will Acquiesce—Other Gossip.

There was quite a contest Saturday afternoon in the Republican county executive committee over the selection of a factory inspector for the district embracing Union county. There were half a score of candidates, but the struggle in the committee narrowed down to Alderman Robert L. Patterson, of Elizabeth; Wm. B. Tucker, a well-known hardware dealer and plumber, and Robert Waterbury. Senator Voorhees, who is to be acting Governor of the State, said that whoever the county committee recommended he would appoint as inspector. Wm. B. Tucker defeated Alderman Patterson by a majority of one, and he will consequently get the place The result was a big surprise to Alderman Patterson and his supporters, as they felt confident of success.

There is another office to be given out shortly in the county, and the new prosecutor, N. C. J. English, will have the naming of the men. One of these offices is that of county detective. The present incumbent is John Keron. The second of the names mentioned on the street include Chief Wright, of Rahway, and Conrad V. Sherring, of Elizabeth.

The clerk of the Grand Jury or assistant prosecutor is another office to be filled. Frank Dunn, the Democratic incumbent, will probably retire with Mr. Marsh. City Attorney Swift, who held the position under Prosecutor Wilson, John F. Brown, Richard V. Henry and John J. Lowden, are talked of, but nothing has been said by Mr. English in reference to the matter.

310 PAY TO TALK.

Increasing Business of New York and New Jersey Telephone Company.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has been steadily growing all along the line. In Plainfield it has become a permanent institution giving excellent service to its patrons. There are now 310 subscribers to the local exchange. The growth during the last month has been unusually rapid. Irving I. Rose, of Westfield, has been among a number of the business men and residents explaining the advantages and cheapness of the service, and as a result twenty new subscribers have been added since the first of January. They are with their numbers as follows: Curtis M Thorpe, 217 a; The C. Chapot & Sons, 227 b; Murphy & Blatz, 238 a; Rudolf Spiegel, 238 m; William Newcorn, 235 b; J. P. Homan, 238 f; William N. Tier, 4 b; John H. Tier, Sr., 4 f; C. Arnold, 240 b; McNabb & Clark, 217 f; George F. Brown, 240 f; Organ land Aid Association, 236 f; B. A. Meeker, 231; S. A. Ginna, 239; Seattle Cedar Lumber Company, 212 b; R. H. McCullough, 240 a; E. L. Gifford, 209 b; Walter C. Dobbins, 236 i; Marsh, Ayers & Co., 217 f.

A CHURCH BAPTISM.

Religious Rites Performed by Rev George Hauser Sunday.

Sunday morning at 11:30 in the German Reformed church Emma Katy, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Becker, of Somerset street, was baptised by Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the church. The child was held by Mrs. Hansen, of Bound Brook, while the parents stood up with their daughter. The church and altar was beautiful in its decorations in honor of the event.

Following the baptism a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Becker, at which time a musical programme was rendered by Mrs Becker, and Mrs. Miller, of Hoboken, on zithers. A social time followed, also a bountiful repast. Among those present were Mrs. Anna Lehner, John Rodin, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Walter and daughter, of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, of Hoboken.

Republican Leaders.

A meeting of the city executive committee of the Republican party in Plainfield was held Friday evening to organize for the year. Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington was elected chairman, Assemblyman R F. Murray, vice-chairman, and J. B. Coward, secretary and treasurer. No action on the future policy of the party was taken.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A Railroad Physician.

The Central Railroad Company has appointed a number of prominent physicians who live along the line of the road to attend to all accident cases, and the territory between Cranford and Dunellen has been assigned to Dr. J. T. Fritts, of this city.

MARITAL WOES IN COURT

HENRY V. COREY MUST PAY HIS WIFE $5 A WEEK FOR SUPPORT.

No Defense Made—Louis Fulton Accused of Non-Support, but He Had a Creditable Story and the Jury Released Him.

Two wives, one who claims to have been deserted by her husband, and the other that her husband drove her from home, appealed to the overseer of the poor, who, in turn, complained to the City Judge. The two trials, the results of the complaints lodged in the City Court, were held before City Judge DeMeza Monday afternoon in the Council chambers.

The first trial was that of Henry V. Corey. The charge was non-support. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was represented in the case by Lawyer William Newcorn, who raised an objection to the trial on the ground that it was out of the jurisdiction of the court as Mr. and Mrs. Corey had lived in North Plainfield when it was alleged that he deserted her. The Judge would not sustain the objection as Corey now lived in Plainfield and therefore came under the jurisdiction of the Plainfield court.

S. S. Swackhamer was the lawyer for Mrs. Corey. She was the only witness sworn. She told her story, the substance of which was that her husband had left her and now paid nothing to her support. No defense was made. The Judge declared Corey guilty according to the evidence and placed him under $200 bond to pay his wife $5 a week. An appeal bond to the County Court of Common Pleas was filed at once.

The other non support case was that brought against Louis Fulton. He was charged by the overseer of the poor with refusing to support his wife. The case was tried before City Judge DeMeza and a twelve men jury. The jury was composed of Chas. Herring, John Ross, Olaf Saugstad, L. S. Pocock, John Ammon, John R. Hartpence, David Pope, Wm. Robinson, Matthew Coon, James Donohue, Wm. Sullivan and James Nolan. Fulton was represented by Codington & Swackhamer, while Mrs. Fulton's attorney was Wm. Newcorn.

The testimony of the prosecution, which was conducted by Lawyer Newcorn, was to the effect that Fulton, who lives on West Seventh street, had not treated his wife kindly and that she had not been given the usual privileges in the home. It was alleged that he had finally told her to leave the place and given her ten cents with which to depart.

The defence included as witnesses the members of the Fulton family and a frequent guest, a young woman from New York. They all testified that Mrs. Fulton had been treated as one of the family, that she had never, except on her own accord, been left out of family affairs and that she left of her own wishes. Lawyer Newcorn tried to show in cross-examination that Mr. Fulton had been showing undue attention to the girl. Ref. W. C. O'Donnell and Adam Neuman were both put on the stand to testify as to the good character of the accused.

After a strong summing up by both sides, the jury retired to bring in a verdict of not guilty without much delay.

Ray of Human Sunshine Gone.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. VanZandt will regret with deep sorrow to hear of the death of their bright three-year-old daughter, Anna, who passed away Sunday. The little girl was like a ray of sunshine to the parents, and her departure is only consolable to the grief-stricken relatives by the knowledge that she goes to an eternal home in which her youthful innocence entitles her to a place. The funeral was private Monday evening.

The New Borough School Building.

The building committee from the Borough Board of Education, who have in charge the arranging of the plans and specifications to be submitted to the citizens of the borough for a new school building, will first report to the Board of Education before a public meeting is called. E. J Waring is chairman of the committee No time is being lost to arrange matters so that a meeting can be called at an early date.

No Trace Yet of Young Demarest.

Clarence R. Demarest, the druggist, of 116 Somerset street, who disappeared Saturday, Jan. 15th, leaving his business affairs in a demoralized condition, has not been heard of since. The store is advertised for sale by R. Cuddy, who holds a chattel mortgage on the stock. Jeremiah Hennessy, the landlord, is endeavoring to collect a bill of $75 for back rent.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

Must Go to the Hospital.

Milkman B. R. Waldron, of Coddington avenue, has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in his affliction. He is suffering with an abcess that has grown on his leg. He is obliged to give up work and go to the hospital, where he will undergo an operation. His route will be looked after by George Taylor, a neighbor, who will supply Mr. Waldron's customers as usual.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

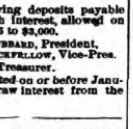
J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. BECKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Ask your Druggist for a generous 10 CENT TRIAL SIZE.

Ely's Cream Balm

CATARRH



COLD in HEAD

contains no cocaine, mercury nor any other injurious drug. It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once. It opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full Size, 50 cts. Trial Size, 10c. at Druggists or by mail.
ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

DIED.

KENTON—At his residence, 421 Kensington avenue, this city, James A. Kenton in his 69th year.

LINDABERGER—Joseph R., at his home, corner of Hudson avenue and Somerset street, Jan. 20th, in the 73d year of his age.

LANGFORD—In this city, Friday, Jan. 21, 1898, Charles, wife of Thomas Langford, aged 39 years, 8 months and 19 days.

ELLIOT—In Keene, Friday, Jan. 21, 1898, Richard Owen Elliot, son of the late Richard Elliot, aged 61 years, 6 months and 25 days.

VAN ZANDT—In this city, Sunday, Jan. 23, 1898, Anna, youngest child of T. R. and Lillie A. VanZandt, aged 3 years and 6 months.

DOTT—In this city, Saturday, Jan. 22d, 1898, Jonathan Doty, in his 72d year.

CAKE THAT TOLD FORTUNES.

Pelletteau Time Enjoyed by the Fifteen Guests at Mrs. Dubois.

A surprise was tendered to Miss Anna A. Manktelow last Monday by her fellow-boarders at Mrs. E. F. DuBois' on Park avenue, in honor of her birthday. At the close of the regular dinner a large cake was brought in decorated with fifteen lighted candles, one for each of the boarders In the cake was a ring, a thimble and a dime. The ring was supposed to go to the one who was to be married first and was taken by Mrs J. P. Laire. Dr. Knott received the thimble, which was supposed to go to the confirmed bachelor or old maid. The dime, a sign of great wealth, went to Mr. Wilson.

Rev. Floyd Appleton made a charming speech to Miss Manktelow appropriate to the occasion and a suitable reply was given. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way, interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections.

A Long Island Survey.

Civil Engineer F. A. Dunham, of this city, and also New York, has just completed a topographical survey of a large tract of land on Newport Harbor, near Long Island Sound, for a prominent and wealthy business man of New York who probably will improve the same for his summer residence. Mr. Dunham reports that the shore of the Sound and especially of the bays adjoining the same are peculiarly adopted for summer residences. The banks being on a elevation of from 50 to 100 feet above tide water and the bathing is safe.

Monday Afternoon Club Lecture.

In connection with the "plan of work" of the Monday Afternoon Club this winter, a series of lectures by prominent men have been given at the Casino, which has been available to the public for a small fee, and it is to be regretted that they have not been better attended by non-members of the club. Next Monday Mrs. David W. Pond will read a paper on The Netherlands 1584 1648, after which those present will be invited to partake of a Dutch tea. Tickets may be had at the Woman's Exchange and Armstrong's pharmacy.

Mr. Dyer's Intentions.

J. C. Dyer, who owns the house and lot on Craig place, that it is necessary for the borough to acquire to accomplish the opening of Duer street to Madison avenue, states that should the purchase be made he will remove the house to a vacant lot on the corner of Craig place and Grove street instead of placing it on the lower end of the present lot and facing on the extention of Duer street. This resolve of Mr. Dyer's is to be commended as it will improve the appearance of the present vacant lot and be a credit to the neighborhood.

Agreeably Surprised.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vetterlein, of Duer street, were very agreeably surprised last Monday when a large number of their intimate friends called at their home to spend the evening. The host and hostess were wholly unaware of the intended visit and it was sometime before they overcame their surprised feelings. The guests at once joined in making a merry time for their host and hostess as well as themselves. Sociability was the feature of the evening, and at a late hour refreshments were served in abundance.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c.

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 122, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and patrons. I do the cemeteries.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business principles. Only the best Work and Finest Material at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

STYLE AND FIT GUARANTEED

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

5 and 7 WEST 18th STREET, NEW YORK.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running own business, as all times and in cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles, has removed from 23½ W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 169, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 2jly2

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American,

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsoria line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

"Oh, no!" said fair Miss Carrie,
"I shall never, never marry,
For I have a steelclad bosom and a deodorated heart.
So to Love I bid defiance,
Cast my lot with men of science,
And devote my life entirely to philosophy and art."

"Darwin, Spencer, Kant and Plato
I shall read to find the way to
Realms the esoteric whichness of the metaphysic why;
And with Schopenhauer and Homer
And like Hegel and Omar
All too swiftly I shall find the precious moments slipping by!"

But in spite of her intention
I but think it right to mention
She has given Kant and Plato and the rest of them the shake,
For this deep-minded creature
Wed an Anabaptist preacher
And she spends her days in darning socks and frying tough old steak!

—Ellis Parker Butler.

MILLIE AND MOLLIE.

"I've come to ask you for the hand of your daughter," said young Bromley, stumbling into the seat offered him by the girl's father.

"Which one?" asked old Dimmock, the coal merchant, laying down the newspaper which he had been reading, and eyeing the young man curiously.

"Sometimes I think it is Mollie, and again I am sure it is Millie," replied young Bromley, genuinely perplexed.

The old coal merchant looked sympathetic.

"You can't have both," said he, after an awkward pause.

"They're splendid girls, good enough for anybody!" exclaimed the young man.

"Well, I rather think!" said the old man, proudly.

"I could be happy with either of them," went on young Bromley.

"I'm disposed to think," observed old Dimmock, "that you have been happy with both of them."

"So I could be no more than once," said Bromley, with the pleasant light of recollection in his eyes.

"Well, can't you make up your mind which girl you want to marry?"

The old coal merchant looked at the young man with the fresh color and the loyal blue eyes as if he would like to have him for a son-in-law.

Young Bromley did not answer for a moment, and then he said, slowly,—

"Which do you think sounds the better—'Millie Bromley' or 'Mollie Bromley?' Sometimes I've looked at it in that way."

"I don't think there's much to choose," returned the old coal merchant, weighing the question with every desire to be fair.

"You know," continued the young man, "there have been times when I've gone to bed pretty much armed with the name 'Millie Bromley,' and in the morning 'Mollie Bromley' has caught my fancy. Millie, Mollie; Mollie, Millie—it's an awful puzzle."

"Of course, you've proposed to one of the girls?" inquired their father.

"Oh, yes, indeed," said young Bromley.

"Then that is the girl you want to marry," exclaimed the old man, triumphantly. "Why, it's simple enough after all. You've taken quite a load off my mind. Which one is it?"

"It was Millie—I think," answered young Bromley, hesitatingly.

"Think! Don't you know?"

The young man flushed and looked reproachfully at the coal merchant.

"Mr. Dimmock," said he, "I'll put it to you as man to man: Wh'ca is Millie and which is Mollie?"

"Don't cross-examine me, sir," rejoined the old man. "If you want to marry one of the girls, it's your business to find out."

"Heaven knows," cried young Bromley in despair, "I want to marry either Millie or Mollie and have her all to myself. It's trying enough for a fellow to be over head and ears in love with one girl, but when there are two of them, it's more than flesh and blood can stand."

"There, there, my boy," said the coal merchant, soothingly, "don't take on so. Either girl is your with my blessing, but I want to keep one for myself. Let me see if I can help you."

And going to the open French window he called,—

"Millie, Mollie! Mollie Millie!"

"Yes, papa, we're coming," sounded two sweet, well-bred voices from the shrubbery.

There was a tripping of light feet along the stone walk under the grape vine, and Millie and Mollie bloomed into the room.

"How do you do, Mr. Bromley," they said together, with the same intonation and the same merry glint in their eyes.

Millie had auburn hair and brown eyes; so had Mollie. Millie had a Cupid's bow of a mouth, little teeth like pearls and a dimple, and so had Mollie. Millie's arms, as seen through her muslin sleeves, were round and white; so were Mollie's.

From the waist to tips of their little feet the figures of Millie and Mollie were the same line for line, and both were dressed in white muslin with lilac bows behind their white necks and lilac sashes at their waists, lilac stockings without a wrinkle, and each wore white satin shoes. Their hair was done over their fair brows and was braided down their backs, on just the same length, and tied at the end with lilac ribbons. Millie tied Mollie's bows and Mollie tied Millie's.

"Well, papa?"

"Young Bromley tells me," began old Mr. Dimmock, after he had taken draughts of their fresh young beauty by looking first at one end then at the other, and then back at both pictures of both with one glance, that he proposed to you last night."

"Oh, not to both, you know, Mr. Dimmock," interjected young Bromley.

"He asked me to be his wife," said Millie, demurely.

He told me that he couldn't live without me," said Mollie, mischievously.

"How is this?" said the old man, turning to young Bromley with a severe look.

The young man blushed furiously and lifted his hands in protest.

"I'm sure," he stammered, "one of you is mistaken. I asked you, Millie, to be my wife in the summer house—and—and—I kissed you. That was before supper, and later in the evening, when we sat on the front steps, I said that I couldn't live without you and that we must get married."

"Before we go any further," interrupted the old coal merchant, "which is Millie and which is Mollie. When your dear mother was alive she could tell the difference sometimes, but I don't know to-day."

"Oh, how dull you are, papa!" said the girls in duet.

"I think that is Millie on the right," spoke up young Bromley.

"Why, Mr. Bromley," said she, "I am Mollie."

"Very good now let's get on," said their father, "where were we? Oh, yes, young Bromley says that he asked you to be his wife, Millie, and declared he couldn't do without you."

"I beg your pardon, papa," said Mollie, he told me that he couldn't live without me."

"Well let's get our bearings, continued the old coal merchant. "Bromley, you asked Millie to marry you down in the summer house, and you kissed her! That's correct, isn't it?"

"There's no doubt about that, sir," said Bromley, agerly.

"And after supper when you sat together on the stoop you told Mollie that you couldn't live without her?"

"That I deny, sir. Oh, I beg your pardon, Mollie, you needn't look so angry. I meant no offence."

"Did you kiss Mollie?" went on the old man, relentlessly.

"No, sir. I—"

"Yes, you did, Mr. Bromley," flared up Mollie.

"I admit," said the young man, struggling with his emotions, "that I kissed her when I said I could not live without her, but it wasn't Mollie."

"Oh, Mollie!" said Millie, "how could you?"

"Now, Millie, do be reasonable," said Mollie.

Old Mr. Dimmock looked mystified.

"It seems to me," he said, with a show of impatience, "that if I were in love with one of those girls I could tell the difference between them. So far as I can make out, young man, you have asked Millie to be your wife, and have tried to make Mollie believe that you could not live without her. Now, to any one who does not know Millie and Mollie your conduct would appear to be perfidious. Of course, as between you and Mollie, I must believe Mollie, for the girl certainly knows whether you kissed her."

The old man eyed both his daughters hard. Millie was biting her nether lip and so was Mollie, but Mollie was trying to keep from laughing.

Old Mr. Dimmock had an idea.

"I would like to clear up this thing to your satisfaction, and my own, Bromley," said he to her. "Let me ask you, whether Mollie kissed you when you told her you could not live without her?"

The young man got very red in the face.

"You mean Millie, of course," he replied, with embarrassment. "Perhaps she wouldn't mind my saying that she did kiss me in the summer house. But she didn't kiss me on the stoop. I kissed her."

"How is that, Millie, Mollie?" asked their father.

"Papa," said Mollie, decidedly. "I could not keep Mr. Bromley from kissing me, but I assure you I didn't kiss him."

Mollie looked her father straight in the eye and then she shot an indignant shaft at Bromley.

Millie hung her head and her face was as red as a poppy.

"I think," said the old man, dryly, "that it's plain I'll keep Mollie, and we'll have that marriage before you make another mistake, young man."

The Catholics.

The proselyting influences of the Catholic church, says a writer, are felt in places where other denominations have never been heard of. I have been in lumber camps in the deep woods of Maine and Canada, and seen the priest going his rounds, converting and making collections. No matter how small the pay nor how great the discomforts of life, the lumberman gives his mite willingly. At the Falls of the Montmorenci is a big lumber mill, where many hands are employed. On pay day I saw a priest go to the cashier's office and receive dozens of small envelopes, signing his name for each in a large book. Afterward the men were paid off. The proprietor informed me that the priest never gave so much a week out of his wages, and the priest was authorized to collect it in that way. I learned that this is the custom all over Canada.—New York Press.

No Cause for Dispute.

Miss Vanderwhack—Now, will you listen to me while I tell you the plain truth, Chollie.

Chollie Fivecloack—I'm all ears Miss Vanderwhack.

Miss Vanderwhack—That's just what I was going to say, only I was going to put it differently . . .

ANTS USED TO SEW WOUNDS.

Remarkable Surgical Methods Practiced by the Natives of Brazil.

The method of securing a wound, which is still prevalent among the Brazilian Indians, can be looked upon as at least strictly antiseptic.

The materials required for performing the operation are found handy almost any where in a Brazilian forest. These are a species of a very large ant, which has mandibles which can bite through almost any substance. The mouth is furnished with transversely movable jaws and does not possess a sting. A bite from one of these ants is perfectly harmless, and is followed by no swelling or other evil results.

The lower lip of the ant, instead of being a simple cover for the mouth, is developed into a strange jointed organ, which can be shot out much further than the upper lip or, when at rest, can be folded flat ofer the face and can be rapidly protruded or withdrawn. It is furnished at its extremity with a pair of forceps, and is able to grasp objects with much strength and firmness of a small pair of pincers. Nothing, unless cased in metal, can resist those jaws.

What the Brazilian Indian does when he receives a gash is this:—He catches some of these ants, and, holding them to the wound, which has previously closed together, lets them bite. They fix their mandibles on each side of the wound, and then he pinches off the rest of the body, leaving the mandibles and jaws to close up the wound. A row of these ants' heads keep a wound together quite as effectively as the needle and thread of surgery, but the pain given to the victim of this rude style of surgery must be considerable.

Rude as this method may seem, however, it has its advantages in being strictly antiseptic and causing no evil after effects. The jaws of the ants are impervious to the poison of serpents after the wound has satisfactorily healed.—New York Herald.

A PROVIDENTIAL DELIVERY.

Thankful His Son Was Discovered and not Mixed with the Clay for a Chimney.

One of our exchanges had something to say recently about "Georgia Clay Eaters." Here is a story, however, which hasn't gone the rounds yet:

In a certain Georgia neighborhood a farmer had two boys who fairly flourished on red clay. All effort to break them of the habit proved futile, and they had been given over as hopeless cases.

One night one of them was missed from home, and search for him proved unavailing. His brother had left him in the clay bank, where he had burrowed out of sight.

Late next morning a farmer went to that identical clay bank for material to build a chimney, and dug him out while loading his wagon.

That night, after giving the boy a good whipping, his father went to prayer meeting, and in delivering his experience said:

"I feel thankful to the Lord for the providence he showed my little clay-eatin' John this mornin', for Brother Jones was makin' of a chimbley, and he loaded John in with the other clay, and if it hadn't been for that providence, John might er been a part of that chimbley now-a-smokin', an' a-smokin', fur from his friends an' loved ones! I want a prayer er thanksgivin' ter be offered up in this here meetin' right now. Brother Johnson, will you lead us?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Byron a Hero of Greece.

With the faults and foibles of Byron Greece had nothing to do; she knew nothing of them; to her he was only "the great and noble." Crossing the Gulf of Salamis one day in a boat, with a rough mountain captain and his men, I pulled out a volume of Byron and was reading. The wind blowing open the leaves, the captain caught a glimpse of the portrait and recognized it. He begged to take the book, and looking for a moment, with melancholy, at the face of the noble lord, he kissed it and passed it to his men, who did the same saying: "Ecton megalos kai kalos" (he was great and noble)—From "Lord Byron in the Greek Revolution," by F. B. Sanborn in Scribner's.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

The city of Santa Fe, New Mexico, is without rats, mice and cats, as the air is too rarified for those animals.

It is said the donors of this novel egg service were the Duchess of York, the Duchess of Fife and Princess Christian. —English Exchange.

Some sheep were frightened by dogs at Grenoble, France, and 242 blindly "followed their leader" over a precipice 150 high.

Russell Sage said to a reporter the other day, "I'll give you a point; Mr. Gould once gave it to me: 'What's past is history; what may be is mystery.'"

In the famous Garden of Olives, at Jerusalem, there are eight flourishing olive trees, but are known to be over 1,000 years old.

During his recent visit to Denmark the King of Siam was taken to the grave of Hamlet, and after standing a moment in reverential silence, he turned to Crown Prince Frederick and said sympathetically: "A relation of your Royal Highness, I presume. Has he been long dead?"

It is strange to read that instead of the usual fruit and flower offerings to a hospital charity service, the congregation at the church of St. John, Streatham, were recently requested to send new laid eggs, and responded in a most generous manner, for no less than five thousand were distributed among various London hospitals.

SAVED BY THEIR WHEELBARROWS.

Floated on Them Until the Water Subsided and Then Wheeled Them Back.

"Speaking of cyclones," said Capt. William Dunbar Jenkins of the Aransas Pas Harbor Company, "one hears all sorts of stories about the cyclones which have from time to time ravaged the Gulf coast. It was in 1886 that a very severe storm blew in the vicinity of Rockport, and it was during the blow that the railway line of sand and shell embankment reared by Col. Uriah Lott, the builder of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass road, was washed into the bay. Col. Lott employed a large number of Mexicans, and many of these poor fellows were camped on the embankment. When morning dawned, after the cyclone, scores of them were missing and it was thought drowned.

"As a matter of fact and considerable surprise, not a single Mexican lost his life. For days afterward they could be seen coming across the sand marsh, each man wheeling his wheelbarrow. When the men realised that they were doomed to risk a watery grave, every son-of-a-gun of them grasped his wheelbarrow and floated away in it. They drifted all grounded as the water subsided, and the Mexicans made for the coast, and in the direction of what remained of the embankment. Work was not again resumed on the roadbed, but large sections of the work are still noticeable along the bay coast."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

Siberia's Snow Flowers.

Travelers in Siberia tell of the wonderful flower that grows there, and which blooms only in January, when the winter is at its height. The blossom has something of the characteristics of a "morning-glory," lasting only a single day. The flower, when it opens, is star-shaped, its petals of the same length as the leaves, and about half an inch in width. On the third day the extremities of the anthers, which are five in number, show minute, glistening specks, veritable vegetable diamonds, about the size of a pin's head—these are the seed of the flower. A Russian nobleman named Anthonkoff took a number of the seeds to St. Petersburg. They were placed in a pot of snow and frozen earth. On the coldest day of the following January the miraculous flower burst through its icy covering and displayed its beauties to the wondering scientists. The plant has been very appropriately named "the snow flower."

Too Many Rules.

The teacher who gives her pupils "simple rules" outside of the authorities for determining questions which puzzle them, is particularly guilty of mathematical questions, is apt to find that her rules disastrously fail to fit all cases.

One time the county superintendent of schools was questioning the pupils of a country school. He wrote on the blackboard these words: "Day by day wings," and asked a class what part of speech each word was. They passed the "the" without serious trouble.

"What part of speech is 'fly'?" asked the superintendent.

"Adverb," shouted all the class in unison.

"What! 'Fly' an adverb?"

"Yessir!" shouted the children with great positiveness.

"What makes you think it is an adverb?"

"Cause teacher told us that all words that end in 'ly' are adverbs!"—Youth's Companion.

Much Sweeter Than Sugar.

The newly discovered chemical substance, sugarine, or benzol-sulfinid, is likely to have an important influence upon commerce in several directions. Unlike saccharine, which never became very popular, sugarine contains none of the obnoxious para acid. It is a chemically pure substance, 600 times as sweet as sugar, and yet obtainable at one-twelfth the cost.

With Intent to Deceive.

"Pilkinghorn is a man of his word, isn't he?"

"Ye-e-s. I don't believe Pilkinghorn would tell a downright lie, but I've seen him eat ten cent luncheons of doughnuts and coffee and then come out of the restaurant picking his teeth, as if he had been filling up with a porterhouse steak."—Chicago Tribune.

Shipping Rose.

Live bees are sometimes shipped on ice, so as to keep them dormant during the journey. This is particularly the case with bumble-bees, which have been taken to New Zealand, where they are useful in fertilising the red clover which has been introduced into the colony.

The Windy City.

He—Why do the Chicago girls have such large feet?

Him—Umph! Why does a sloop have a keel?

He—So she can stand up in the wind.

Him—There you are!—Truth.

Her Criticism.

Mistress—"Well, Norah, how did you enjoy the scenery?"

Norah (who has just returned from a week's outing on the Maine coast)—"To shpake plainly, mum, th' scenery 's not so illigant as it looks."—Judge.

In Limerick.

"She is that allingy," said Bridget to her caller, "if I wint up the lease, bit of tay for the folks at home, sure she misses it at once."

"Fwy," asked the visitor, "don't ye take it out ov the bottom av the . . .

See?

AN ELEPHANT'S FOOT.

The Circumference Proved to Be Nearly Half the Animal's Height.

Any one who has even glanced at the foot of an elephant must be aware that it is a ponderous piece of anatomy, but its actual size is best illustrated by an anecdote.

Two men in the Central Park Zoo of New York were speaking on this subject, and one of them thought the circumference of the foot must measure at least a yard.

His friend laughed at this, but the young man, after a second time gauging the size, insisted that his guess was correct.

"Nonsense — quite impossible!" exclaimed his friend.

"And then, as the younger man still claimed that he was right, they laid a wager and referred the matter to the keeper.

"What is the circumference of the fore foot of that big elephant?" they asked.

"The circumference of an elephant's foot is very nearly half the animal's height," replied the keeper.

"Will you be so good as to measure it?" asked the amazed visitor.

And the keeper got a long cord and went in beside the monster, Bazzle, who stands eight feet, five inches in height.

"Of course I measure while the animal is standing squarely on all fours," he said. "If I were to take the foot up from the floor, it would not be quite so large; a small part of that size is caused by the spreading out of the soft matter of the foot by the pressure of the animal's own weight."

He drew the cord around the monster foot, held it up, and measured it with a tape line. The figures showed four feet, two inches.

The man who had lost the bet paid it, with the remark that he did not think he was paying too dearly for that curious bit of knowledge.—Golden Days.

EFFACED THE MOON.

A Story Which Many Persons Will Believe Quite Characteristic.

The story told about President Lincoln obtaining the dismissal of a client who was under arrest for burglary, and in danger of conviction because the prosecuting witness said he identified him in the moonlight, by producing an almanac to prove the moon did not shine that night, was not the first time the idea was worked to perfection.

John Philpot Curran, the famous lawyer, had a client who was identified under the same circumstances. The prosecuting witness saw the prisoner leaving a house that had just been entered by burglars on a moonlight night. Curran produced 13 almanacs, 12 of which he handed to the jury and one to the judge. The almanacs showed the moon was not visible on the night in question.

The prisoner was dismissed. After the trial Curran's client asked what his fee was.

"Twenty pounds," said the attorney. "Isn't that pretty steep?" queried the client.

"No," said Curran. "I get only £2 of that; the other £18 goes to the fellow I got to print those almanacs with the moon left out."—Chicago Journal.

POISONED BY SWALLOWING SPIDERS

A Minister Died from the Effects of One Concealed in His Food.

Some remarkable cases of internal poisoning from the bites of spiders, accidentally swallowed, have been reported recently in Kentucky. A Methodist minister, the Rev. Silas Spurrier, swallowed a small spider which had been concealed in an apple dumpling. The inflammation from the bites of the concealed enemy rapidly increased and the patient died before relief could be given. The case has attracted excited attention, the rumor that a woman had purposely placed the spider in the dumpling. When investigations were made it was found that the person suspected had left the country. A woman in Frankfort named Mrs. Pardie also swallowed a black water spider accidentally, with fatal poison. From the bites spread itself through her system until her head and face were badly swollen. She finally recovered.—New York Tribune.

The President's Flag.

It has been the custom for many years to denote the President's presence in the city by flying from the White House the American flag. When the President was out of the city the flag was taken down. The President's own flag is never used except when he goes on board a naval vessel. The President's flag is about the size of the regulation ensign. The body of the flag is blue. In the centre is an eagle, exactly like that on a half dollar. The eagle is embroidered in white. The arrows and olive branch are worked in similar material, and the stars are arranged above the bird. The shield on the breast of the eagle is worked in red, thus giving the national colors —red, white, and blue—and forming a beautiful flag.—St Louis Globe Journal.

He Was Excused.

"You wish to be relieved from jury duty," said a Judge quoted by "The Green Bag," "but you haven't given a good reason." "It is to save money for the people," replied the unwilling talesman. "I have dyspepsia, Judge, and I never agree with anybody. If I go on this jury there will be a disagreement, and the county will have to go to the expense of a new trial." "Excused," said the Judge.

Rusty Hardup—Yes, Willie, we're both just like bakers.

Willy Nothcent—How so, Rusty?

Rusty Hardup—We need dough.

THE THRIFTY CADDY

IT IS POSSIBLE TO EARN AS MUCH AS $10 A WEEK ON THE LINKS.

How Made Such Good Use of Their Opportunities He Was Enabled to Secure a Comfortable Income from Tractions and Thereby Rising a Notch High.

The rapid spread of the game of golf in this country has opened a new field for the enterprising American boy.

It is good, healthful work for a lad or it keeps him out in the open air and he often gets as much fun and more work out of a game than the dayer himself. His earnings are sometimes as much as those of most of his fellows in stores and offices, too. The usual rate of pay is from 10 to 15 cents an hour, and with the tips he gets from players he caddies' earnings often amount to $8 or $10 per week in the golf season. In some places the caddies, as a class, are the envy of the round, but that is not so big a fee as the time pay system, as the best skilful players, who are apt to give the caddies most work, take the longest time to go over the course. In the neighborhood of the big cities where most of the golf links are located many business men play the game, playing over the links early in the morning, or on their return from business after 4 in the afternoon. In such places most of the caddies are schoolboys who can do this work outside school hours as the links are practically deserted during the middle of the day, except on Saturday, which is, of course, a holiday for the school boy as well as the business man. There are any number of thrifty caddies who are paying all their school expenses this winter with the money they earned running after balls during the long summer days.

Some funny experiences fall to the lot of the caddy. A story is told in one of the golf clubs near New York of a member who fell into the unfortunate habit of using a great many swear words when he had shots which were earning the game. His wife remonstrated with him for it, and being somewhat ashamed of himself he promised that he would put a dime into stone every time he swore on the links, and bring them all home to her. On the first day of the new arrangement the man toiled home at night, and emptying his pockets, made a goodsized pile of coins on the parlor table, his wife sat. "Oh, John!" she said reproachfully, "all those?"

"Oh," said the player, wearily, "those are only the little silver ones —waving his hand toward two caddies who were pushing wheelbarrows full of coppers in the background—"the others are there the others." This, it need not be said, is somewhat apart from the caddy's ordinary duties.

The new player is a source of fun and sometimes of profit to the caddy. A New York editor, who combines golf with a very great deal of work, started one year on the Shinnecock links to play a match game after a very little practice. His opponent was soon ahead of him, and in his anxiety to catch up the editor became nervous. Swinging his stick with unusual force he struck at the ball, but missed it, and brought it down against the ball, but on his own ankle. Dancing about with the pain, the usually dignified editor still remembered to look about to see if any one had noticed him, and then, tossing a dollar into the caddy's hand, he said: "You were looking the other way just then, you know."

Sometimes the caddies practice on their own account, and some of them become expert players. One way in which they occasionally add to their incomes is by teaching the game to new members. I know of a young man who made such good use of his opportunities for the past few seasons that he has retired as a caddy, and has made a good income thus season by teaching the game. Occasionally sometimes come to the boy on the links who is willing to pay very well ago a Wall street broker called my attention to an unusually bright and spry boy in his office.

"He's a treasure," said the broker. "I wouldn't trade him for two ordinary city boys. And where do you suppose I found him? On the golf links up in Jersey. I found that he could cover more ground in a short time than some professional sprinters, and I made up my mind he'd be just the fellow for a stock runner. He's just as quick with his brains as he is with his heels, too, and I believe he's so well up in his present position, I'll have to make him a clerk before long or somebody will get him away from me."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

The First Person Singular.

"That's the most egotistical man I ever saw," said one usher at a theatre.

"Yes. He won't even sit anywhere except in Section I."—Washington Star.

More Wisdom.

"What is your idea of fame?"

"Fame? Well, in its finest phase, I think it is the incredulous surprise which a man's home folks exhibit when he does anything noteworthy." —Detroit Free Press.

The Quarrelsome Fellow.

Mrs. Pryce—Tell me, dear, do you ever quarrel with your husband

Mrs. Lamb—Never! But he often quarrels with me, the hateful thing!

Friend—Yes, I noticed that in his conversation.—Yonkers Statesman.

WED PRETTY GALS

ONS GIVEN WHY CHINAMEN AT-TEND SUNDAY SCHOOL.

ons Admissions of a Laundryman Who Appreciates Instruction—Foolish Love of an American Girl for one of These Benighted Heathen's.

The marriage of a Chinaman to his lady school teacher in New York ently has caused many persons to ve very decided views about teach-g the Chinese in our Sunday hools. Many prominent ministers d others are decidedly opposed to the ea of employing young girls to ach Chinamen. Those who have rsonally investigated the subject say at the Chinese care nothing for our ligion, and merely profess to do so r the sake of certain material advan-ges gained. Among these may be ckoned the learning English, which to em is a valuable acquisition, and of urse with the young women who ork them, and in the end marrying em. That they accomplish what they t out to do is evident from the fact at there are more than a hundred arried to American women New York and Brooklyn.

At one of the recent Sunday school stertainments which was gotten up r their benefit, one of the Chinamen ld to his friend:—"Idols no good. ows 'em away. Melican man's God ve."

"Will you love Jesus?" asked a ember of a new comer.

The heathen answered with jerky etry:—"Me learnee speakee Ling-h fast; then me love Jesus."

"Lee, do you go to Sunday school?" as the question asked yesterday of a aundryman.

"Yes, ebby Sunday," was the laconic ply after he had paused to artis-ally spray a shirt with his mouth ll of water.

"How long have you gone?"

"Pretty near two years now," was ee's reply.

"How did you come to go?"

"Hin Sing, he keep a store on Fell eet. Him tell me, 'You want good ace go Sunday?' I tell him 'Yes.' He y, 'Velly good place in Fourteenth reet, and you can learn English; lots f pletty girls. No cost anything. I tell him; me go." He take me. I ow Sing hab a nicee little teacher, ame girl.

"My teacher heap old.' I think about ixteen years; she good woman, ough. She ask me my name, then' ow do you do, and 'Good Chinaman ow to-day.' You no play tan.' I say, es I no play.' make me heap bad wit. I lose that night. I no play no ore. By-m-by all over. I plomise to ome back. Sing take me to his teach-r, he say, 'You come see me some me with Sing.' 'All lite,' I say, and o go.

"I say, 'Sing, him nice girl.' Sing y, 'You bet; him heap good girl. I ink she like me velly much. I think to really me if I no alleddy mallied in hina. You no tell her, though.

"I plomised no tell. Sing and I go any times, ebby Sunday. We go see er house. Keep nice house; nice fur-ture; cost lot of money. Pletty girl es Sing nice pleasants—got watch nd many lockets. She like him velly much. Las' summer him Sunday chool hose he say, 'You Chinamen ave nice time here. You well cleated; ow you boys treat teachers well. You e reichen steamer; go down river. ike reursion. All lite; we go catch-he steamer. Go long ride on river; y-m-by we come to place. Nice ounds. Have eat. Then some Chi-amen go lowing in smallee boat. I go wing teacher in big swing. Sing go a boat. Pletty soon I swing Sing's ice girl. After while she say, 'Mis-er Sing,' she say, 'you tell me some-hing. 'All lite,' I say. 'You know ing,' him teacher say. I say, 'Yes; es my cousin.' What you think,' she ay; 'him make good husband; good to e wife, treat her well?'

"I say, 'I think. I say, 'Yes'm, him ake good husband;' him send money ery month to wife in China.'

"What! Him mallied alleddy?' she ay, as' she turn white alle same nice ean shirt. 'You tell um truth, Lee!' Yes'm, I no tell lie; go bad place. Sing, him mallied and got two chil-ren!' She say, 'You bad China boy, o go way,' an' she fall back like dead. pt flightened; go away and tell oth-r teachers; bymby she all lite. She o speak to Sing. Sing fin' out, he ell me. He say 'What you tell?' I ay, 'Because him truth.'

"Nex' Sunday Sing's teacher no come o school. Sing heap mad again. Teach-r never come again. Sing go to him ouse, but she no see him. Sing no ome to me now. Him no more go to chool."

The ministers say the Chinese are specially fond of women teachers. When the Chinese arrives in the Sun-ay schools they bow politely to their eachers. The teachers greet them very effusively, and endeavor to make hem feel at home.

At length the service begins. All the Chinamen are at their tables, each with his teacher, not uncommonly a young girl, by his side. After short re-ious ceremonies the English instruc-ion begins, which is far the most im-portant division from a Chinese point f view. The teacher and pupil sit side by side while the teacher unravels he mysteries of English for the bene-it her pupil. This arrangement has not approved in many instances, nd attempts have been made to seat eacher and pupil on opposite sides of he table, but this innovation was re-ceived with unqualified disapproval, nd wherever attempted caused the ntire school to be boycotted by its hinese pupils.—New York Herald.

TAILOR-MADE GOWNS.

Severe English Styles Altered by Paris Taste.

[By special arrangements with the N.Y.Sun.]

Fashion declares itself from time to time, and the semi-annual revolution in dress comes without any regard for the expense it involves; but the tailor-made gown bobs up on the top wave of favor with every variation. To be sure, it is affected by the changes in fashion, but it has an established place among street costumes which no other kind of gown can fill. The severe English style which distinguished it some years ago has been wonderfully transformed, by the artistic touch of the Parisian dressmakers, and now the French tailor gown, braided and trimmed without limit, rather has the lead, except for morning and traveling wear.

It is certainly the decorating and not so much the material that classifies the gown this season and makes it fashionable for every day wear or perfectly suitable for dressy occasions. Smooth-faced cloths are the favorite materials for the elaborate tailor gowns, as they are a good background for any trimming, but there is a great variety in the mixed fabrics, invisible checks, bayadere striped wool checks, which are made up into simple useful gowns with rows of machine stitching for the trimming.

Some trimming up the back of the skirts is one of the fads of fashion, and again we find five or seven straight rows of braid down the middle of the front, on either side, which turn and trim the skirt around the bottom.

The most elegant, as well as plain, cloth gowns are made of one material, except perhaps the sleeves, which are made of velvet in some lighter contrasting color or silk embroidered in tiny sprays. The tailor gown with a street coat requires a waist of some sort, and when the cloth bodice is not desired, plain satin, matching the cloth in color, is used for a shirt waist or made up a little more dressy in blouse form with innumerable tucks going around. Black satin blouse waists are worn with any dark cloth skirt, and, if prettily made, there is a style about them far superior to the flowered silks so fashionable last season. A velvet blouse is lovely if you can afford the elegance; if not, there is a fine velveteen which answers every purpose.

A point in the new tailor coats is the plain satin lining usually matching the cloth in color. Figured and striped silks are no longer in fashion for this purpose.

There are tight-fitting short coats and blouse coats without end as to numbers, for they are already considered very commonplace by the best dressmakers. It is a style so easily copied in cheap materials that it naturally will be shortlived. Medium length coats and [illegible] coats to the knee are shown [illegible] models.

EX-GOV. HOG'S KISS.

Landed It Full in the Mouth of a Miss at the Cotton Chopper's Convention.

If the members of the Texas Cotton Choppers' Association can manipulate the hoe like they can dispense genuine old-time hospitality they are what Col Hogg is pleased to term in blunderful style. They gave their first annual celebration recently. President Tipton delivered the opening address, welcoming all in the heartiest manner possible. The young ladies, he said, were welcome to the young men and everything else in the town.

At this juncture Colonel Hogg, who was the orator of the day and occupied a seat on the platform, made a swipe at a molasses haired baby which was standing near him. He kissed the baby on the head and it sounded like a Missouri mule pulling his foot out of the mud. The child glared at him and passed on, when the Hillsboro military band discovered some excellent time to play. Turning to the corresponding Col. Hogg nonchalantly observed, that he loved the little kid angels like a pup did potlicker.

At the conclusion of Ex-Gov. Hogg's address Miss Burton presented him with a handsome bouquet and spoke a piece. In accepting the hoe the temperate-tossed executive spoke feelingly as follows:

"By this simple act you have placed me under still deeper obligations to you for many valued and appreciated kindnesses. The hoe is the first implement of commerce, the emblem of high civilization. The man who uses a hoe and lives by the sweat of his brow is too honest to steal, too industrious and independent to be a tramp or criminal. He is the man who makes and maintains good government. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for this assurance of your friendship and esteem," and the ex-Governor grabbed the young lady and kissed her full in the mouth, while the great crowd applauded wildly.—Galveston News.

WOULDN'T TRUST THE JONAHS.

Too Superstitious to Be Rescued With Another Wrecked Ship's Crew.

A remarkable story of coincidence and sailor superstition was told by the survivors of the John Carey on their arrival the other day at Auckland, New Zealand. The John Carey, a trading brig, ran into dirty weather and sprung a leak. She was forced by the Captain and five others to take to the only boat—left uninjured. They were picked up by the Ladybird, another trader, which next day went ashort a total wreck. Two days later a third trader, the Brightwell, hove in sight, and being signalled by the castaways, sent a boat to take them off. The John Carey's men were the first to embark, and, going through the surf, the Brightwell's boat was upset and the occupants were left on board half drowned. At this disaster the Ladybird's crew set up a cry of "Jonah." The J. C.'s people, they said, had been twice wrecked, and to associate with them again was certain death. And so firm was their faith in the old superstitution that when the Brightwell sent a second boat they actually refused to be rescued, preferring to stay where they were and take their chance of another ship coming that way, to sailing in company with a crew of Jonahs! Accordingly the Brightwell sailed away with the six survivors, who must have experienced lively and bitter emotions when, the very next day, a heavy sea broke on board, stove one of the boats, and carried away a portion of the bulwarks! However, the weather cleared, and the much-harassed and half-starved crew of the Carey were eventually landed in safety at Auckland.—Sydney Bulletin.

SMASHING OLD CANNON.

A Peculiar Industry That Shakes the Schuylkill Valley.

Terrific detonations are heard down the Schuylkill Valley on nearly every week day, from morning until night in a secluded ravine near the Reading Railroad the Monocacy Blasting Company, is breaking up big guns with dynamite. Its aim is smashing to pieces other huge castings, to be sold to scrap dealers. The noise of the explosions can be heard for miles. The company received two historic cannons. To be broken into pieces. They were brought from the Brooklyn Navy Yard on special cars and they weigh 96,470 and 96,625 pounds. The guns were used at the Vicksburg siege by Gen. Grant's forces, firing shots of 1,200 pounds.

The Government officials were loath to have the guns destroyed and offered them to a number of Grand Army posts, but the necessary arrangements could not be made to have them accepted. The company has broken many defective cannon bought at gun works. It also smashes nearly all the condemned guns for the War and Navy departments. The dynamite is fired by electricity and a few men do the work.—New York Sun.

Chinese Husbands Preferred in Hawaii.

There are in the United States 40,000 native-born citizens of Chinese parentage. In San Francisco there are 25,000 to 30,000 Chinese, and their children are entitled to the rights of citizenship. The school census shows 1,500 children less than 17 years of age of Chinese parentage, and this is probably a very incomplete census, owing to the difficulty of obtaining from the Chinese. In the Hawaiian Islands there are 21,000 Chinese. Many of the Hawaiian Chinese are married —most of them to Hawaiian women—and in this population of 50,000 there would be not less than 20,000 families. The children of the Hawaiian Chinese are half Hawaiian. The Hawaiians women prefer Chinese to Kanaka husbands.—The Augonaut.

ABOUT THE CUBE FOOT.

How One Who Is Not an Expert Tribunal Can Find It.

To find the cube root of any given number of figures off-hand seems an almost impossible feat, but yet it is simple enough when one knows how to do it—so simple, indeed, that any bright boy can learn to do it in a few weeks.

First he must know exactly what a cube is—namely, that it is the result of multiplying one number by itself, and then multiplying the product by the same number. Thus, 3 multiplied by 2 equals 9, and 9 multiplied by 3, the original number, produces 27, which, consequently, is the cube of 3. The cube root of 27 is the original number 3, and to find the cube root is the reverse of finding the cube. The would-be adept at this art, should first study carefully the following figures:

1x1x1—	1	2x2x2—	8
3x3x3—	27	4x4x4—	64
5x5x5—125		6x6x6—216
7x7x7—343		8x8x8—512
9x9x9—729

A close study of these figures shows that 2 multiplied in this manner by itself results in 8, that 3 multiplied by itself has 2 as a final figure, that 3 multiplied 3 times over has a final figure, that 7 multiplied by itself has 3 as a final figure, and that 4, 5, 6 and 9 multiplied by themselves have their original figures as finals. Hence the "artist" knows that any sum given to him, then final figure of which is 8, must have 2 as a cube root; that if the final figure be 9, the cube root must be 9, and so on.

For example, give him the figures of 74,088, and he can at once tell that 42 is the cube root, for the reason that 74 is next to a cube root, as the cube of 4 is 64, while 5 is 125, which is 126, much more than 74,and 088 has 2 as a cube root. Or give him a more difficult problem, as for example, the figures 324,369. Then he will see at a glance that 324 is more than 216, which is the cube root of 6, but is less than 343, the cube root of 7, therefore the cube root of these three figures is 6. In the manner the final figure is 369 being 9, it follows that the cube root of these three figures is 9, and thus the cube root of the six figures has been shown to be 69. Any one can use this method for himself, and a little practice is all that is needed to make one as deft in such jugglery of figures as the best "lightning calculator."

Of course, a skilled arithmetician could easily frame problems which could not be solved in this off-hand fashion, but such difficult tests are seldom offered by public audiences, and, as a rule, the "artists" are easily able to answer all the questions asked of them.—New York Herald.

NO PRISONS IN ICELAND.

Inhabitants So Honest that for 1,000 Years Only Two Thefts Recorded.

In Iceland there are no prisons, and the inhabitants are so honest in their habits that such defences to property as locks, bolts and bars are not required, nor are there any police on the island. Yet its history for 1,000 years records no more than two thefts. Of these two cases one was that of a native, who was detected after stealing several shillings, but as he had done so to supply his family, who were suffering for want of food, when he had broken his arm, provisions were furnished to them and work was found for him when able to do it, and meanwhile he was protected under special care, but the stigma attached to his crime was considered sufficient punishment.

The other theft was by a German, who stole seventeen sheep. But as he was in comfortable circumstances and the robbery was malicious, the sentence passed upon him was that he should sell all his property, restore the value of what he had stolen and then leave the country, or be executed, and he left at once.

But, though crime is rare in Iceland and its inhabitants are distinguished for honesty and purity of morals, there is, of course, provision for the administration of justice, which consists, first of all, in the Sheriff's courts; next, by appeals to the court of three Judges, and Reykjavik, the capital, and, lastly, in all criminal and most civil cases, to the Supreme Court at Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, of which kingdom the island forms a part. The island of Panaris (one of the Lipari group) is equally fortunate in having neither prisons nor lawyers, and being absolutely destitute of both paupers and criminals.—Boston Transcript.

Molasses as Fuel.

The lower grades of molasses have proved unsalable at any paying price, says the Ladies Home Journal. Many Louisiana planters dumped molasses into bayous, until the authorities forbade it. It is now used as a fuel, being sprinkled by a machine over the bagasse, or the sugar cane from which the juice has been extracted. This, when put into fire, burns with great heat. Its coal value is greater than its value for any other use, and over a hundred thousand tons were so used last year.

Gets Up Early to Pay His Taxes.

Monongalia county has a citizen, Haymond Griggs, whose ambition for many years has been to be the first to pay his taxes each year. One day recently the Assessor's books were finished and closed, and Griggs appeared before breakfast the next morning to make payment, and was delighted to find himself once more the first man to pay. About three years ago, and for the first time in his life, he was beaten by a swifter taxpayer, and it almost broke his heart.—Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette.

Jim—What has become of your wheel?

Jake—Oh, the druggist attached it for money due for plasters and arnica.

VICTIM OF ANOTHER'S WEDDING.

Is Thrown at a Newly Wedded Pair Led to Trouble for a Brakeman.

This is the story of a grain of rice. It was small, unattractive and uncooked, and was one of a shower that was thrown after a newly wedded couple in the railroad station at Wilmington, Del., when they boarded a train bound for New York the other day.

The bridesmaids and ushers followed the newly made husband and wife to the station, secreting on the way the usual bags of rice and old shoes to throw after the unsuspecting couple. The bride and bridegroom took their seats in the Pullman car, and talked to the group of friends until the signal for the starting of the train was given. Then the bridesmaids and ushers hurried to the platform, and as the train moved slowly out of the station the fun began.

Rice fairly rained over the car. It fell on the roof in a shower; it peeked in through the open window upon the young couple, and it fell into the engineroom on the engineer. Just as the train moved away an extra hurricane fell on the platform of the car where the brakeman stood.

Of course every one laughed and the people brushed it out of their clothes, and tried to look as though they enjoyed it.

But a brakeman got several grains of the rice in his ears. He shook them out as he supposed, and thought no more about the matter until next day, when he noticed a sharp pain in his right ear. It became so keen towards night that he decided to go to a doctor next day. The doctor advised the patient to consult an ear specialist.

The specialist decided that a foreign substance had lodged in the ear. He syringed it with water and then with oil. He probed into the ear canal with little hooks of various sizes and shapes. All the time the brakeman was suffering more and more. He said that some insect was in his ear. He could hear it buzzing all the time.

Then the specialist called in another doctor, and they held a consultation. They decided to use a pair of forceps on the brakeman's ear. He said they could do anything they liked with him; anything to stop the pain and buzzing.

So they got a pair of the finest sort of forceps bent about to suit the delicate ear canal, and they reached gently into that ear and felt about until they found a small, hard substance. It was drawn out softly and carefully. It was a grain of rice. It had swelled slightly in the ear-prison.

The brakeman was mad, and made a complaint against the practice of rice-throwing. The trainmaster issued an order to the trainmen giving them special instructions to prevent rice-throwing within the station.—New York World.

20,000 BOOKS DENOUNCED.

Expurgatorius Index Indicates What May be Read by Catholics.

The faithful subjects of the Church of Rome are forbidden in the Index Expurgatorius to read twenty thousand books. These are the works of eight thousand authors. Everything that Renan wrote is condemned, but only the more profane, from a Roman Catholic standpoint, of Voltaire's works appear in the index. Talbot's "Mysteries of English Literature" is under the ban, but his studies on the French Revolution are omitted from the list of prohibited books by the wish of Leo XIII. All of Cousin's works are condemned, but only four of Dumas'. Paul de Kock's romances, Eugene's Sue's "Wandering Jew" and the "Mysteries of Paris" are both forbidden reading. The index contains a complete catalogue of the works of both the elder and younger Dumas, but only two of Victor Hugo's books are found in it—"Les Miserables" and "Notre Dame de Paris." There are two Zolas in the Index—one is the author of "Rome," the other is a theologian of the last century.—Boston Evening Transcript.

A Safe Course.

An excellent reply was that once made by a Yankee pilot to the owner of a Mississippi River steamboat.

The boat was at New Orleans, and the Yankee applied for the vacant post of pilot, saying that he thought he could give satisfaction, provided they were "lookin' for a man about his size and build."

"Your size and build will do well enough," said the owner, surveying the lank form and rugged face of the applicant with some amusement, "but can you know about the river, where the snags are, and so on?"

"Well, I'm pretty well acquainted with the river," drawled the Yankee, with his eyes fixed on a stick he was whittling, "but when you come to talkin' about the snags, I don't know as exactly where they is, but I must say, I'm powerful fond of 'em."

"Don't know where the snags are!" said the boat-owner, in a tone of disgust; "then how do you expect to get a position as pilot on this river?"

"Well, sir," said the Yankee, raising a pair of keen eyes from his whittling and meeting his questioner's stern gaze with a whimsical smile, 'I may not know just where the snags are, but you can depend upon me knowin' where they ain't, and that's where I calculate to do my sailin'."

Looking for an Excuse.

Deacon Hasbeen (laying down his paper)—"I have just been reading that alcohol will remove grass stains from the most delicate fabric."

Mrs. Hasbeen (severely)—"There you go again, Jason, trying to find some excuse for tipplin'! Just remember that you have no grass stains in your stomach."

A QUEEN OF THE SEA.

MAGNIFICENT EQUIPMENT OF THE KAISER WILHELM DER GROSSE.

She Cost in the Neighborhood of $35,000,000, Can Carry Nearly Five Thousand Tons of Coal and Her Crew Consists of About Four Hundred and Fifty Men.

When the dimensions of the North German Lloyd's new liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse became known to the public, long before she started on her first voyage across the ocean, all persons who had followed the development of modern ocean transportation looked for her arrival with great interest, and much speculation was indulged in as to what time she would make and how a ship which was as long as three and a quarter city blocks, with a tonnage of fourteen thousand and a displacement of twenty thousand tons, would ride the autumn seas. Her builders and owners made many promises as to the great ship's speed and her steadiness. These promises have all been fully realized.

A new ship, fresh from the hands of the builder, with everything about it new and neat, is always attractive, but the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, being larger than any vessel ever launched, except the Great Eastern, and having broken the record for speed on her first trip, became doubly interesting.

But when it is known that this gigantic floating palace was built at a cost of about $3,500,000, and that the constructors had orders to produce a ship as nearly perfect as possible, one need not wonder at the result. The capacity of the vessel may be judged by the fact that she can carry about five thousand tons of coal in her bunkers, although she needs less than one-half that amount on a trip. Her working crew consists of about four hundred and fifty men, of whom seventeen are engineers, eighteen are oilers, seventy-five coal passers, ninety stokers. The vessel is lighted by electricity throughout, there being eighteen hundred incandescent lights of twenty-five candle-power each.

The first cabin passengers have the middle of the vessel for themselves, the after part being the second cabin and the forward that for steerage. Each division is arranged so that it does not interfere with the others. The visitor on board the vessel finds himself confronted at every turn with something to admire, but the feature which to the casual observer is the most striking is the great dining-room with accommodations for three hundred and fifty persons, and the smaller dining-rooms with which it connects. This room is reached by the main staircase. Soft carpets cover the floor, easy chairs are fixed about the tables, and the entire room is decorated in light colors. The small dining-rooms are at each end of the great saloon. They are four in number, and bear the names Bismarck, Moltke, Auguste and Luise. Each room is decorated differently, and each contains a life-size portrait of the person for whom it was named, besides other pictures and appropriate decorations.

Ample provision has been made for those who travel second class, and so temptingly have these quarters been arranged that many people will take advantage of the opportunity to save the difference in the prices of tickets. The beautiful cabins, the promenade deck 400 feet long, the luxurious bathrooms, cold storage rooms, the pictures, burnished glass and metal and the great sweep of deck with its four smokestacks as one views the vessel from the bridge, all make a decided impression on the visitor, but he can form no adequate idea of the magnitude of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse unless he explores the lower regions. She is 42 feet deep and divided by sixteen strong traverse bulkheads, all extending to the upper deck, and by one longitudinal bulkhead in the engine room into eighteen water-tight compartments, so that even if the two compartments filled with water the vessel would not sink. There are four groups of boilers, each placed in a separate water-tight compartment, so that in case of collision the vessel would never be without steam to work her main engines and pumps. A double bottom extends over the whole length of the vessel, and this is divided into twenty-two subdivisions.

A Musical Mousetrap.

Acting upon the idea that mice are very sensitive to music a Belgian manufacturer has substituted a musical mousetrap for the common trap. Instead of baiting the apparatus with a bit of cheese or lard the inventor has laden it a double bottom a small music box, which plays automatically various popular tunes of the country. The mice he insists, are drawn irresistibly toward the music box, and in order to hear better they step into the trap and find themselves prisoners!

Unlooked For.

Talker—You shouldn't feel so sore at Jones. He did just right in holding you and preventing a disgraceful fight. What if he had let you go?

Bruiser (caressing a black eye)—Darn it! that's what the fool did.—Judge.

Aunt Maria—Did you have a good time at the ball, Hester?

Hester—Heavenly! I enjoyed the waltzes in particular.

Aunt Maria—Why, I thought you did not know how to waltz.

Hester—I don't. That's the reason why Charlie Sweetser and I took a stroll into the conservatory every time they had a waltz.—Boston Transcript.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr. SAMUEL PITCHER

Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bi Carbonate Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher
NEW YORK.

At 6 months old
35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

ATTACKS BERGEN'S PLAN

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

cost, is not only unfair to both the railroad companies and the tax payer, but is untrue, and if the county attempts to build an electric road at anything like his figures, they will be throwing their money away in the same manner the early projectors of electric railroads did when they did not have proper materials at hand to use.

The statement made in the foregoing third paragraph are equally misleading. An examination of the report of the railroad commissioners, from which these figures were obtained shows that the Consolidated Traction Company of Jersey City and Newark operate 175 miles of road; that there gross earnings are $2 800,581 or $16,000 per mile of track per annum: that the North Hudson County Railway Company in Hoboken operates 60 miles of railroad: that their gross earnings are $907,000 or $18,200 per mile of single track. Therefore, out of the 612½ miles of track laid in the State above referred to, 225 miles of them earn gross per annum $3,770,580 and the remaining 387½ miles of track only earn gross per annum $2 062 491 or $5,300 per mile of track, which includes the receipts of such cities as Paterson, Trenton, New Brunswick and Camden to help swell the average.

Mr Bergen's statement, therefore, that the gross income per mile of track for all the roads in the State of $9,420, with net profits of $4,000 per mile, is misleading in the first place and untrue in the second, and it is my belief that the net earnings of all the railroads in the State, outside of the two mentioned, are not over $1,000 per mile of track per annum, as it is scarcely possible to operate a car for less than $4,000 per annum, and it is necessary to have one car on every mile of track to give a twelve minute service. Out of this small amount of net earnings all interest charges must be paid, and the interest charges on $20 000 per mile of track at 5 per cent is $1 000 per annum. From these figures it will therefore be seen that all of the railroads in the State combined, with the exception of the two already mentioned, are not doing any more than making both ends meet.

In conclusion I would say that the report of the railroad commissioners also shows that the dividends paid upon the capital stock of all the roads in the State, not excepting either the Consolidated Traction Company or the North Hudson County Railway Company, but including them to make the average as large as possible, do not amount to 1 3-5 1 per cent. of the capital stock outstanding, and I am satisfied from my analysis of Mr. Bergen's figures, and the clever way in which he has presented his scheme to the public, that he is a man of many faculties, but he has been too economical of their use to truthfully lay the situation before the taxpayers of Union county for their consideration as a patriotic citizen should.

Lemuel W. Serrell.

Expert Accountants Busy.

The expert accountants are still busily at work going over the accounts and books of the borough collector. There is yet considerable to be done before the work will be completed.

SOLACED BY HYMEN.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

Presbyterian church, a solid silver service from the ushers, and a dinner set of 130 pieces from the associate clerks of the groom. The other presents included a buffet, bedroom suit, parlor tables, chairs, table linen, silverware in forks, spoons, goldware, cut glass and a number of other articles. One room in the house was devoted exclusively to the display of the presents, and the guests expressed their admiration continually.

Mr and Mrs. Flannery left the city late in the evening for a bridal tour through the south, and on their return they will reside in New York, where the groom is employed at the wholesale ribbon house of William H. Robertson, as salesman.

BARKED A FIRE ALARM.

FAITHFUL DOG NOTIFIED HIS MASTER OF THE PRESENCE OF FIRE.

The Barn on the Property Occupied by O. F. Pearson Gutted by Fire Which Was Intense on Account of Paint and Oil

The barn on the property occupied by O. F. Pearson, the painter, at 918 East Front street, was almost consumed by fire shortly after midnight Monday. The origin of the fire is a mystery. For some time past Mr. Pearson has been troubled with chicken thieves, and has kept a watchdog chained near his barn.

Late Monday evening the incessant barking of the dog awakened Mr. Pearson, who, upon looking out of his window, saw that his barn was on fire. He hurriedly put on a few clothes and ran to the home of Theodore French, close by, and securing his fire alarm key sent in an alarm from Box 18.

He went back to his barn to attempt to rescue his horse, cow, wagons, etc. He succeeded in getting the livestock out and some other few things.

Considering the distance, the department arrived in exceeding quick time, and two lines of hose were laid. The chemical engine was not used. By the time the apparatus and firemen arrived the barn was one mass of flames. Stored away in the barn was a large quantity of oils and paints, and this inflammable material made a very hot fire. The firemen directed their energies to the portion of the building where the paints and oils were located, and after a great deal of hard work they succeeded in subduing the flames. The interior of the building was entirely burned out, but the outside part was left intact. To one passing the place now it would scarcely be known that a fire occurred.

The building and contents were covered by insurance, but Mr. Pearson is not yet able to determine his loss or the amount of his insurance.

The firemen deserve great credit for the good work accomplished, as they succeeded in saving the house from destruction after much difficulty The firemen say that the fire was a hard one to fight.

Bad for Borough's Reputation.

There are now nine people in the Somerset county jail and eight of them are from North Plainfield, serving terms of sixty days or less, for trivial offenses, such as drunkenness.

WEALTH AND PLUTOCRACY

AN INTERESTING LECTURE IN THE UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SERIES.

Declares All Social Relations Are Due to Economic Causes—Great Wealth and Luxury Not the Same as Plutocracy.

The third lecture in the University Extension Course being given by Prof. Sumner, of Yale University, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, attracted a large audience last Monday and there was a marked increased interest. The subject was "Aggregations of Wealth and Plutocracy," and the speaker handled it with the same ease and simplicity that has characterized the preceding two lectures. Prof. Sumner spoke somewhat as follows:

"I believe all social relations are due to economic causes. Philosophy always comes along behind economic causes. Great wealth and luxury are not the same as plutocracy. The Cuban question is an economic question. There is a social weakness existing there. It is impossible to take this society of ours and make it over again. Every person has an idea as to how he thinks society ought to be. You can possibly make some slight modification of it.

"We stand today as the product of history. We are carried along with it and can scarcely turn around to criticise it. Years from now people will say the people of New Jersey changed their minds at a certain time on this or that point.

"If you placed a billiard ball on a table and all forces against it were equal, the ball would stand still, but if some of the forces were of different strength there would be a change in the action of the ball. When you make a change you cannot tell what the result will be, however good your intentions may be.

"When you come to give money away so that it will do the most good, it is much harder to earn it, and that is hard enough.

"Tammany Hall is not plutocracy, neither is New York. It is a society where the ruling spirit is wealth. In order to make a plutocracy you must have wealth above the law.

"The power of money over the mind is great. It proves that there are lots of men for sale. Where did you ever hear of a rich man tyranizing a poor man? If such was the case you would find plenty of lawyers and reporters waiting to help the poor man. It is generally that the rich man gets the worst of it.

"The coming crisis, to my mind, will be democracy against plutocracy. You hear all the time about the money power. It is no new thing, for you can trace it back to the colonial days. As the country increases in population the distance between poor and rich widens, and that is what people mean when they say the rich are growing richer, and the poor are growing poorer.

"You hear a great deal about corporations and the Legislature. There is such a thing as a Legislature strike. If we elect a corrupt body, it will act accordingly. Capital has made the modern world. It is powerful in many of the large countries.

"The question is which power is to prevail? Capitalism consists in a union of great talent, men who have great ability to manage great institutions. This union of talent and capital makes it possible for a man to make a million dollars in a lifetime.

"People have got to be inside of organization in order to get the benefits of it. The people that fight organizations are generally cranks and do not work. They are not in sympathy with system and law. It is capital that makes the work go on from the beginning up. We have got to have more capital, which advances our civilization from one step to another. If you place a million men in the field they are only food for powder, until they are organized and have a leader. They are not a power until organized. Political parties are forever preaching organization and harmony. The man who has power to lead and organize can win fabulous sums of money. In Wall street it is diamond cut diamond. People who go into stock gambling must expect to lose as well as win.

"At first sight the department store seems like an error. In early days the grocery store tried to keep everything Later men changed and differentiated their stock and now they are coming back to first principles.

"The point is to make business as efficient as possible and figure expenses down to a single penny There are no chances of fighting the department store. Every step of progress causes a destruction of skill. Get on the side of the department store and win with it. It is our master. We do not control it."

Prof. Sumner closed his lecture by giving some simple, helpful facts about trusts and monopolies, and showed by his remarks that the trust and corporation is not the worst thing in the world. He said that every time he used a postal card he wondered whether the postal authorities had made a contract for blotting paper or something else. He also expressed a desire that the Government furnish the people with good postage stamps.

The Law of Health.

A Girl Who Broke It To Her Sorrow

She was a young woman, and she had broken the law; she did not know it, but it did not save her. Candy eating was a serious. Her stomach and bowels were deranged. Her blood almost water. The doctors said she must cease eating candy all begin taking Tonic, but she could not take the iron which they gave her. It upset her stomach and disagreed with her generally. She heard of Cascadets and took one with each meal, and dropped all other medicine. They cured her. They cured her promptly. Cascadets contain the only active non medicinal ever yet offered to mankind. It is absolutely non-irritating, and agrees with the weakest stomach.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Cascadets are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by the Cascadet Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

GUEST OF HIS CRONIES.

CRACKER BARREL CLUB'S BANQUET TO SURROGATE SPENCER.

A Complete Surprise for Mr. Spencer—Presented With a Handsome Cane—After the Dinner a Social Time Was Enjoyed

Monday evening the members of the Cracker Barrel Club tendered a dinner at the Hotel Tuileries to Surrogate Henry Newton Spencer, of Somerset county. About fifteen club members met at Mr. Spencer's store, on Somerset street, and a few of the promoters brought Mr. Spencer's overcoat and invited him to attend the performance at Music Hall. Mr. Spencer was taken completely by surprise, and when the corner of Front and Somerset streets was reached and the party turned up East Front street the guest of honor was completely put out. The party were feasted by Mr. Rand in a royal manner.

After the dinner a smoker and a reception was held in the Cracker Barrel Club rooms, whereat the annual election of officers was held. Thomas Doud was elected president and Albert Runyon was chosen secretary. In particularly well and appropriate remarks A. V. D. Honeyman presented Surrogate Spencer, on behalf of the club, a handsome cane. Mr. Spencer was very much surprised, but responded cheerfully to the spokesman. He was lustily cheered, as was Mr. Honeyman. When the flow of oratory ran wild, former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., jollied the audience in a charming manner. Speeches were also made by former School Commissioner S. B. Joseph, former Councilmen R. M. Fountain and W. C. Smith, the watchdog of the borough treasury, John Allamerica Goodwin, Assessor Cooley, Game and Fish Warden Bebring, Albert Runyon, J. W. A. Bauersachs, Charles McNabb and others.

The surrogate then was forced to bring his fiddle and to the accompaniment of a skilled pianist singing was next in order. The party was beginning to borrow time from the next day when the adjournment came.

Among the party were A. V. D. Honeyman Dr. J. H. Cooley, Thomas Doud, Albert Runyon, Elias Allen, R. M. Clark, Charles E Buell, School Commissioners R M. Fountain, A. E. Everton; B. B. Weaver, W. C. Smith, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Chas. McNabb, John Worth, Game and Fish Warden C. P. Sebring, ex Freeholder Andrew Lutkins, Geo. Bonnell and D. J. Carney.

The following letter was received from Senator Reed and read by Mr. Doud:

Thos. Doud, Esq.:

My Dear Sir—I regret exceedingly that it is impossible for me to be present in person tonight, as I am compelled to be in Trenton. The Legislature meets and I have committee meetings at which persons from a distance are to be heard. Therefore, I must be present. Please explain my absence and say to Mr. Spencer and all present that I am with them in spirit and take pleasure in the great pleasure in the welfare of our new Surrogate than I do. I sincerely trust he may enjoy a successful term, and I take pleasure in nominating now for reappointment, our friend and fellow townsman, Henry N. Spencer

Truly yours,

(Signed) Chas. A. Reed.

Residential Changes.

Isaac N. Enyard, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, has purchased through the real estate agency of E. C. Mulford & Son., of North avenue, the W. H. Moore house on Sandford Avenue, and will take possession about February 15th. Mr. Brouwer, the same agency H. Alkenhead, of Brooklyn, has rented Dr. Jenkins' house, 929 Watchung avenue, and will take possession March 15th. F J. Rowley, the Somerset street druggist, has rented A. J. Winckler's house corner of Sycamore and Mercer avenues, and will move March 1st. J. A. Layton, of Grove street, has rented Mrs. Harriott's house on East Second street and will move April 1st.

Progressive Phantom Party.

The members of the class of '98 at the Plainfield High School and a number of their friends were entertained at the home of Miss Ellen Osgood, of Myrtle avenue, Saturday evening, with a "progressive phantom" party. It was arranged on the same plan as sheet and pillow-case party. The guests were all attired in white and wore masks. After promenading with each other in the effort to guess the identity of the rest, a list of the names was filled out. Miss Laura Osgood and Rhey T. Snodgrass were the most successful in guessing the identity of the phantoms. The rest of the evening was spent in playing games.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of that depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. To succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worth it. There are thousands of $5 a week places begging for good men and millions of $3 a week men begging for your place. If you are worth $5 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to have his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 20,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE New York.

THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE

The Haller & Davis Piano

BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR FOR 60 YEARS.

$300 and up and 5 years time if you want it. Other makers—Other stands all improvements $225 $275

Free music and stool for the asking.

THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY 33 E. FIFTH AVE.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This ment is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

TRADE MARK

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are 10 to 1 that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

EIGHTEEN YEARS WEDDED.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur Pleasantly Celebrate an Anniversary.

The eighteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, of East Front street, was celebrated last Monday in a pleasant manner by the bride and groom, who gave a progressive whist party to a few of their intimate friends. It has always been the custom each year for Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur to celebrate in a similar manner, and the event of last evening was complete in every particular.

Mrs. F. S. Cutter and Mr. and Mrs. Bettman were awarded the first prizes for ladies and gentlemen, while Mrs. J. M. Bettman and Charles H. Lyman were presented with the second prizes.

After the games refreshments were served to all and thus the anniversary was made one long to be remembered. Those present included Miss Lou Hamilton, of Woodbridge; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Keller, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bettman, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Coddington, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. F. S Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, Miss Louise Wilbur, Miss Nettie Chandler and Frank Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur received the hearty congratulations of their friends for many happy returns of the event.

Postmasters Appointed.

David B. Ashley, at Port Republic, and William H. Manning, at South Plainfield, were appointed fourth-class postmasters Monday.

SOMERVILLE GIVES A FRANCHISE.

New York and Philadelphia Traction Expects to Build to New Brunswick.

The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, which has been endeavoring for several months to down its adversary, the Broadway Traction Company, in a fight for the right of way through Somerville and Raritan, won a victory Monday night by obtaining in Somerville a franchise to build a road through the main street.

This company will begin to build its line through Somerville and connect with its line already laid on the Bridgewater turnpike as soon as the weather permits. The Traction Company has been required to deposit $7,000 with the Town Commissioners as a guarantee, and will pay the town a yearly rental averaging $200 for ten years, after which it will pay 3 per cent. of its gross receipts.

Death of a Physician.

The death of Dr. Stephen W. Van Duyn, of 331 East Sixth street, occurred Tuesday evening after a long illness. Death was the result of paralysis. The deceased had been a resident of Plainfield for some time past. He was a physician and held a large practice in Newark, where he resided before he came to Plainfield. He was well advanced in years and recently he practiced very little. He leaves a widow. The funeral services will be held from his late residence Friday afternoon next at 2 o'clock.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1898. NO. 5.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

COAL DROPS $1 PER TON

THE DEALERS ARE AT WAR OF PRICES AMONG THEMSELVES.

The Change Took Place Yesterday, and Was Accomplished by Independent Action—$5.50 a Ton for Domestic Grades.

The strange phenomenon of the price of coal falling in sympathy with the mercury in thermometers is the thing that startled Plainfield yesterday.

The thermometers registered zero, the price of domestic grades of coal quoted at cost—that's a combination that the business and household astrologers thought among the things impossible on this terrestrial sphere. But it is a fact, nevertheless, and to the Plainfield is the seat of war in the coal trade in which the consumer has chosen the best end of the fight. Competition did it, and low prices is the destructive shaft aimed at that competition. When the competition burnished out then up will go the price of the cold weather commodity to its former sum of $5.50 per ton. But the best advice to the consumer is, buy coal while it's cheap, because it's not going to last long.

The reduction in the price of coal is not due to a "combination," but to the independent action of some of the principal local dealers. It came about this way:

For sometime past the Plainfield dealers have had to submit to the invasion of dealers from nearby towns, such as Dunellen, Westfield, New Market and South Plainfield, who were under out the regular prices from twenty five to fifty cents a ton in Plainfield trade. In their own immediate territory the out-of-town dealers have maintained the price of $5 per ton for domestic grades—egg, stove and chestnut. The custom of their own towns, however, has not always been sufficient to keep their men and wagons busy, and in lull periods they have delivered coal in this city at the reduced rate. They have preferred to do this rather than let their employes' time be unemployed at periods. The natural result has been that the trade of several of the local dealers has been considerably diminished.

Beyond the invasion of the outside dealers it is also charged by certain of the Plainfield men that members of the local dealers' exchange, which is supposed to govern the price of coal, have been cutting prices irrespective of the rules of the exchange.

Tuesday a conference of the local dealers was held with a view of arriving at some concerted action for the future, but after a deal of discussion no mutual understanding could be arrived at. When the meeting adjourned it was understood that each dealer was to act independently. The first step in this direction came yesterday when Bolce, Runyon & Co. and E. H. Holmes, two of the largest dealers, cut the price of all domestic grades $1 per ton, which is about actual cost. Several other dealers, as soon as they heard of the action, followed suit.

It is not expected that the price will be maintained at that point very long, but those indicative feel confident that it will result in the coal business being put on a more equitable basis for all the dealers concerned.

If you want to save $1 a ton on your future supply of coal order immediately. The price may be higher even tomorrow.

MONUMENT TO WINFIELD SCOTT.

Steps Taken Preparatory to Honor the Memory of the Distinguished General.

A movement has been started in Elizabeth to erect a monument to General Winfield Scott, whose home was in that city from 1828 until his death, after the close of the Rebellion. The historic old Scott mansion stands on East Jersey street, opposite the City Hall Park, in which it is proposed to erect the monument. On each side of the park run East and West Scott place, both streets being named after the distinguished soldier.

To Accept a New Position.

John J. Bhotwell, of College place, went to Lexington, Ky., last Monday where he is now making arrangements to accept a lucrative position as salesman for one of the largest mantel manufacturers in the country. The new position will in no way interfere with the one now held by Mr. Shotwell with Curtis M. Thorpe, the retail dealer of Park avenue. Mr. Shotwell will return in about a week.

Summer Garden on the Mountain.

A Plainfield party has leased property on the side of the mountain near Bradley's stone cracker, and it will be put in shape for a summer garden. A large dancing platform will be erected and the place being close to the end of the trolley, no doubt it will be well patronized. The property is owned by Charles H. Hand, of Watchung avenue.

UNION COUNTY JAIL'S WARDEN.

Charles W. Dodd Selected by Republican Freeholders for the Place.

Charles W. Dodd, formerly Chief of Police of this city, will be the next warden of the Union county jail. This conclusion was reached at a caucus held Monday afternoon at the courthouse by the Republican majority in the Board of Freeholders.

There were three candidates balloted for in the caucus, the others being former Freeholder John M. Pitcairn, of Elizabeth, the favorite of the old soldiers, and Chief of Police George W Wright, of Rahway. Only three ballots were taken. Chief Wright and Chief Dodd had five and six votes respectively on the first two ballots, when the Rahway man was dropped and part of his strength went to Pitcairn. Mr. Dodd received seven votes in the deciding ballot. He will be formally elected at the regular meeting to be held today.

The term is for five years. Mr. Dodd was warden from 1888 to 1893, when he was succeeded by John C Blore, Democrat. Blore is a veteran of the war, and it is said he will make a fight to retain the office under the tenure of office act.

PRETTY ART EXHIBIT.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH CHAPEL LOOKED HANDSOME.

The Pictures and Decorations Arranged Under the Direction of the Energetic Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters.

A very interesting art exhibition was held Tuesday afternoon and evening in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church by the Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters of that church. The chapel was arranged to represent an art room, with chairs scattered about in convenient places for viewing the pictures, and the large piano at one end of the room. The sliding partitions which form the two long sides of the room were draped with white hangings, which formed an excellent background for the pictures which were hung upon them.

The pictures themselves were deserving of careful study. On one side of the room was the "Home Journal" collection of pictures by well known modern illustrators. These were special enlarged reproductions of drawings which have appeared in that magazine, printed on heavy bristol board with wide margin.

They included drawings by Edwin A. Abbey, Charles Dana, Howard Pyle, W. T. Smedley, Alice Barber Stephens, W. L. Taylor, Albert Lynch and many others, fifty pictures in all. Edwin A. Abbey's drawing of "The Puritan Girl at Church" was perhaps one of the best. For the privilege of reproducing this picture in the "Home Journal," Mr. Abbey was paid one thousand dollars, and he now has the original for exhibition at the Royal Academy in London. The original "Gibson Girl" was shown in one of that artist's best pictures. Seven of W. L. Taylor's finest pictures appeared, including his famous drawing for Eugene Field's poem, "The Dream-Ship." This collection of pictures was one of a limited number sold by the "Home Journal" to associations who would agree to use them for an exhibition held for charitable purposes.

On the opposite side of the room was an equally interesting exhibit. This was a collection of photogravures and original etchings belonging to Mrs. Winston S. Beery, of this city. Some of these pictures were on satire, and all were finely executed and attractively mounted. They represented scenes in California. Views in the Yosemite Valley, Mount Hovel, Mount Emerson, Lyell Glacier, an Indian stampede, Deer Pass, salmon fishing on the Columbia River, were a few of the subjects treated.

During the evening music added to the pleasure of the entertainment. There was no formal programme, but piano solos by Miss Lillian Richardson, Miss Emily Runyon, Mrs. Asa Phillips and Miss Henrietta Cuming, also violin solos by Mrs. Wm. Lines, accompanied by Miss Elma H. Runyon, were given without announcement, interspersed with graphophone selections under the charge of Wesley Brokaw. A side room was used as a supper room, from which members of the circle served cake and lemonade. The committee in charge of the entertainment were Miss Elma H. Runyon, chairman; Miss Laura E. Runyon and Mrs. Winston S. Lowry.

A School Entertainment.

Arrangements are about completed for the presentation of "The Temple of Fame," to be given in the North Plainfield Public School the evening of February 17th under the auspices of the scholars of the school. The proceeds will be devoted to the library.

—Pope & Runyon have added another room to their suite of law offices in North avenue.

COLDEST DAY OF THE YEAR

MERCURY HOVERED AROUND ZERO POINT AND PEOPLE WERE SHIVERY.

The Snow Fall Ceased Last Night But a Strong and Piercing Wind Prevailed—No Great Inconvenience Caused Hereabouts.

With caps pulled well over there ears and collars turned up, the milkmen and other early risers ventured out yesterday. It was the coldest day of the winter. The predicted cold wave came after the storm and it caused the mercury to drop down into the tube until it rested close to the zero point. In different parts of the city the temperature was reported to stand four degrees above zero at 7 o'clock yesterday. There is no doubt but that it fell below that during the night.

The pedestrians who happened out early in the morning found the cold very intense. Their ears and nose were nipped and they found it necessary to move at a brisk pace to keep the blood circulating.

It was not until Tuesday that the storm was entirely cleared away. The snow continued to fall at intervals all of Tuesday, with now and then a glimpse of clear sky. The wind came out of the northwest and blew a merry blast. With the setting of the sun the wind decreased in force, but still continued to blow with sufficient sharpness to make sleighing parties glad to wrap themselves up well. The jingle of the sleigh bells continued until late at night, and there were many who felt the bit rig cold to venture out behind some high-stepping horse. The younger element arranged several strawrides for the afternoon, while their older brothers and sisters went out in the evening.

Within the city limits the sleighing was excellent. The high winds of the day swept across fields and country roads and carried away much of the snow, to pile it up in drifts about fences and buildings or in hollows. Many of the principal roads leading to neighboring cities were swept clean by the blasts, and those who ventured there on runners had to go part of the way on bare ground. It was roads running east and west that were bare, while roads running north and south were drifted in many places to the depth of three, four and in some cases five feet. This was especially so in the case of cross roads.

Those who attempted to follow some unfrequented roads found them almost impassable for the heavy drifts had not been broken, and once in the drifts the horses floundered about unable to get out.

From the mountainous districts there comes the report that several teams were stalled in the drifts and unable to get out. A two horse team from Bound Brook was stranded en route to Liberty Corners. Some of the drifts there were reported to be over six feet in heighth and to cover up the fences on both sides of the road. The sleighing in that section was very poor, the roads either being bare or terribly drifted.

Many of the farmers living in the vicinity of Warrenville, Mt. Bethel, Martinsville and Liberty Corners, who come to Plainfield, Bound Brook and Somerville every day for their supplies, were unable to reach this city in many cases on account of the big drifts that they encountered. In the vicinity of New Brunswick the drifts were in many cases very high and blocked some of the roads leading to that city. The trolley lines between New Brunswick and Metuchen and New Brunswick and Bound Brook were closed by the storm.

The snow was blown into the railroad cuts on the lines of the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley. The trains on both of the lines were delayed, but traffic was kept open, although in some cases with difficulty.

The cars of the Plainfield Street railway continued their trips Tuesday, although they were frequently behind the scheduled time. They were largely used by residents living along the route of the trolley.

Life in Persia.

Mrs. Robert Speer, of Englewood, gave an interesting address to the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon. Some of her personal experiences in Persia, while stopping there with her husband on his recent missionary tour, could not fail to awaken intense interest. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

Pleasant Party.

A pleasant party was tendered to Mrs. Covely and son, of West Second street, last Tuesday, by a number of their friends in this city. Dancing was the feature of the evening, music for which was furnished by Opie and Simpson, of New Brunswick. There were about thirty couple present, and it was early this morning when the happy event broke up.

BEWILDERED BY SMOKE.

LITTLE COLORED CHILDREN IN A BURNING HOUSE.

The Bedstricken Mother Carried Through a Window to Escape the Flames—Children Rescued by a Colored Man.

Half suffocated by the dense clouds of smoke from the burning building, two little colored children vainly groped about the room to find an exit and failing, crouched in a corner to await the arrival of their rescuers, who came just in time.

The house was a two-story and basement frame structure standing on the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Fourth street, in the heart of the colored settlement. The alarm came in at 10:40 o'clock yesterday a. m. The roads were not conducive to fast going for the apparatus of the fire department on account of the snow.

The house was the property of Miss Thickstun, of Central avenue. It was occupied by two colored families. George Carter and his wife and several small children lived on the first floor and basement. Forest Jones and his family had the second story. The heads of both families were away at the time of the fire. A son was born to Mrs. Carter last week, and she was still confined to her bed under the charge of a colored nurse.

The fire originated in the back room of the basement. There the Carters had a cook stove and prepared their meals. Close by the stove was a barrel of paper and rags. In this the fire is thought to have started, catching in some manner from the stove. The fire spread rapidly through the room and up the walls. The upper rooms were filled with stifling smoke.

The occupants of the house are too excited to give any coherent account of how they discovered the fire. The passersby heard the cry of fire and saw the smoke pouring from the windows. Charles C. Graves, of the Gazelle Engine Company, was walking along Plainfield avenue, when something in a wagon asked him where they could find a key to a fire-alarm box. He drew one from his pocket. The men pointed in the direction of the burning house. Then Graves ran to box 43, corner of Plainfield avenue and West Front street, and sent in an alarm.

Meanwhile William Laytham and Edward Connett, two colored men living in the neighborhood, had arrived at the scene of the fire. Mrs. Carter was lying on a bed on the second floor. They tried to make their way up the stairs but the smoke and flames drove them back. A garden ladder was found. The two men reached the piazza roof and thence the second-story window. Mrs. Carter was lifted out on the roof and then carried down the ladder to terra firma. She was taken to the house of a neighbor.

Then Laytham tried to find the children. He groped his way through the smoke on the first floor. After vainly hunting about the rooms, he found the children huddled in a corner, almost overcome by the smoke. They were speechless with fright. They were taken to the house of a neighbor where they recovered after a time. A greater part of the furniture was then removed from the upper floor.

The department made a quick run considering the condition of the streets. The stream from the chemical engine and one regular stream were turned into the house. The basement was all afire. The flames were just breaking out in the first and second floors. The conflagration was subdued after a half hour's hard fighting. The firemen were greatly hindered by the large amount of furniture in the small rooms.

Mrs Carter's bed was partially burned. She kept her purse in the bed. There was also a small black bag containing the savings of the family which was left in the bed. After the wreck had been thrown out by the firemen, the friends looked through it. The pocketbook was found, but the bag was missing. It is supposed to have been consumed.

The building was damaged to the amount of about $200. The other loss will amount to nearly $300.

Directly after the alarm from box 43, another alarm was sent in from box 45. It is not known who sent in the latter alarm.

George Worth Dead.

George Worth, who was a divinity student at Notre Dame College, in Montreal, died there Monday night of pneumonia. The deceased was well known in this city.

Testimony in Divorce Case.

Testimony was taken Tuesday before City Judge DeMeza, who was appointed a special master in the A. G. Hooley divorce case. Several witnesses were examined.

ALMOST A CENTENARIAN.

Mrs. Williamson Was Plainfield's Oldest Member of the Friends Society.

In the death of Mrs. Anne C. Williamson, which occurred Tuesday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Mary Marsh, 869 Sandford avenue, Plainfield loses a model Christian woman, and the Society of Friends, of which she was a member, loses a faithful and staunch supporter.

The deceased was born nearly ninety-five years ago at Carversville, Pa., and during the past thirty years has resided with her niece in this city. She was the oldest Friend in the Plainfield Society. Her husband, the late John Williamson, died about fifty years ago in Cincinnati. Mrs. Williamson retained all of her faculties up to the time of her death and was remarkably bright and active.

The funeral services were held yesterday at 3:30 from the house on Sandford avenue, where a few Friends gathered to pay their respects. The deceased bore a very life like appearance, clad in a gown of gray, and the casket, covered with a cloth of gray, was in perfect harmony. Remarks were made by a few of the Friends who testified to the life and character of the departed. The remains were taken to Buckingham, Pa., yesterday, and today interment will be made at that place.

THE SLEIGH'S THE THING

JINGLE OF BELLS AND MERRY VOICES TELLS THE STORY.

Young People Are Enjoying Sleigh Rides Galore, Despite the Low Temperature—Those Given Tuesday Evening.

Despite the low temperature and brisk north wind, the roads in the neighborhood of Plainfield were alive with the merry jingle of sleigh bells and the sound of laughter from the happy parties who were out enjoying the sleighing. Sleighs of every description were out. The sleighing was fair, but the wind had drifted it and made the going rather poor in places. There were many parties from this and neighboring towns, who spent the evening in sleighs. Several large sleighloads came from here early in the evening and returned at various hours of the morning.

The young people of the Grace P. E. church choir, thirty in all, went out in one of Captain Hand's big box sleighs, drawn by four horses, Tuesday evening. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. W. A. Freeman, organist of the church. The party drove to Cranford and returned by the county road.

The members of the Thursday Evening Euchre Club enjoyed a straw ride last Tuesday in one of Captain Hand's four-horse sleighs. They drove to Elizabeth, where they stopped for a supper and a little dance. In turning around the horses became unmanageable and nearly upset the sleigh. A stop was also made at a Westfield hotel on the return to get warm. The party returned to this city at 2 o'clock.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Will Tier, Mr. and Mrs. Will F Williams, Miss Etta Krymer, Miss Ada Chandler, Miss Etta Neuman, Miss Lottie Ayres, Miss Mabelle Force, Miss Bertha Thorn, Miss May MacLaughlin, George W. DeMeza, Hubert M. Clark, George Neuman, John MacLoughlin, Theodore Manix and David Krymer.

A merry party started from the residence of Miss Edith DuBois, of Park avenue, last Tuesday, in Conover's four horse sleigh, and drove to New Brunswick. They found the road badly drifted and were compelled to take to the fields on one occasion. It took three hours to make the trip to New Brunswick. At that city the party was entertained at the home of Miss Ida VanMiddlesworth by a number of young people from New Brunswick. The time was spent in playing games and enjoying the refreshments.

At midnight the return journey was started. They arrived in Plainfield at 3:30 o'clock next morning. The party was gotten up by Robert Davis, of East Fifth street.

Among those of the party were Mr and Mrs. Will Symons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rudolph, the Misses Eva Jenkins, Bertha Swackhamer, Elizabeth Stackhouse, Mabel DuBois, Edith DuBois, Ethel Simmons, Lucie Palmer Davis, Edna Harris, and Robert Davis, Alvah Davis, Ephraim Vail, Frank Smalley, Charles Sprague, Elmer Catling and Frank MacDonald.

A jolly load of young people from this city enjoyed a sleighride to Westfield and Springfield last Tuesday, and it was rather early in the morning when the party returned home. On the return the party stopped at "Maples on the Hill," where they were served with refreshments, after awakening the host from his sleep.

COZY, HOMELIKE ROOMS.

VERY PRETTY SURROUNDINGS FOR YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

The Club Formally Opened With a Reception Tuesday Night—Social Time Enjoyed—The Purposes of the Organization.

The Young Women's Club formally opened its rooms at 434 Watchung avenue, corner of Fifth street, last Tuesday by a reception and social given to the young women of the city. The club is a revival of the former Girl's Club, which at one time had rooms at 909 West Second street. It is under the management of an executive committee appointed by the different circles of King's Daughters.

The attendance Tuesday evening was large, and the rooms presented a very cosy and homelike appearance. They have been furnished with tables and chairs, a piano, lamps, pictures and other articles. A number of periodicals and books have already been provided for the reading tables. The evening was spent in a social way with instrumental music, singing and games. A short address was made by Fred Andrews, who expressed his pleasure at the organization of such a club in the city. Refreshments, consisting of cake and cocoa, were then served.

A permanent matron has been engaged to take charge of the rooms. They will be open every evening except Sunday evening from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock. All young women who would enjoy a pleasant hour or two in comfortable rooms where they will find good books and the piano always open, can visit the clubrooms. Someone will always be present to welcome visitors, and an effort will be made to have the place as homelike and pleasant as possible.

Classes in dressmaking, millinery, cooking, singing and the different English branches will shortly be formed under competent instructors. The executive committee in charge of the movement are in need of subscriptions to periodicals, and request that donors have them sent direct to the rooms.

LOST HIS BALANCE.

A Street Car Passenger Wasn't Prepared for the Sudden Stop.

James L. Anthony, of 1203 Putnam avenue, met with an exciting experience last Monday while he was coming from his home to town on the trolley car. The car was in charge of Motorman Walsh, and was traveling at a pretty fair pace around the many curves in the Netherwood district. It was while going around one of the curves that a team of horses ran across the track in close proximity to the car. Motorman Walsh reversed his power suddenly to prevent a collision, and a second later heard broken glass falling on the front platform. He looked around and saw Mr. Anthony's head projecting out of a window in the door. Fortunately he had on a large stiff brim hat and his face was not cut, though the glass went into innumerable pieces.

Building to Be Remodeled.

The owner of the building on Somerset street formerly owned by Mr. Bolce, dealer in feed, hay and straw, is now being remodeled, and the upper part will be converted into flats, with all the modern conveniences. Stryker Bros., contractors, are doing the work, which was started Tuesday.

A Musical Programme.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church gave an entertainment in the church last Tuesday. The attendance was good notwithstanding the severe weather. After a fine musical programme refreshments were served and a social time followed.

Street Railway Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Plainfield Street Railway Company for the election of officers and directors will be held the first Monday in March, at the offices of the company on West Fourth street, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Band's Ball.

The ball of the Queen City Band will take place this evening in the Pierce Cycle Academy. An orchestra of twelve pieces will furnish the music, and the committee is doing everything possible to make it an enjoyable affair.

Mr. Finch, of Park avenue, has returned home from an extended business trip.

Fred Sturm, Jr., of Hamden, N. J., has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hummer, of Linden avenue.

Rev. George Angleman and wife, of Hampton Junction, are visiting Mrs. Angleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cory, of West Front street.

Miss Grace Yerkes, of West Seventh street, has returned from Newton Centre, Mass., where she has been visiting her friend, Mrs. Tilney.

ARMOR PLATE FACTORY.

THE GOVERNMENT MAY ESTABLISH ONE AT LINCOLN.

Real Estate Syndicate Will Give Fifty Acres of Land for the Plan —The Location Has Many Desirable Advantages.

If the claims and efforts of Silas D. Drake, at the head of the Lincoln Real Estate Syndicate, are recognized by the United States Navy Department and Congress, the vicinity of Plainfield will become the location of one of the biggest industries in the United States—the factory for the manufacture of steel plate armor used in the construction of Uncle Sam's war vessels.

Negotiations are now pending for the Government to manufacture its own armor plate instead of using the output of the Carnegie factory at Homestead, Pa. It is planned for the Government to equip a factory of its own at a cost of somewhere near a million dollars, and officials are looking about for a suitable location. Numerous towns and cities in the east and central west are striving to have the plant located in their midst, and among them is Lincoln.

Mr. Drake told a Press reporter this morning that the company of which he is the head has purchased 100 acres of land opposite the site of Lincoln, and will give the government fifty acres free of cost for the location of the plant, besides offering other inducements.

The real estate man thinks that the land is especially adapted for the purposes of an armor plate factory, inasmuch as it is on the line of two important railways, in the heart of the metropolitan district, and sixty miles from the Cramp ship building yard, near Philadelphia, and thirty miles from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where most of the armor is used.

The establishment of such a factory at Lincoln would be of inestimable benefit to Plainfield.

Y. M. C. A. FINANCES.

The Managers Are Anxious to Lift the Debt on the Building.

The following is the annual report of the finance committee of the Young Men's Christian Association:

Your committee respectfully report that in addition to its other duties considerable attention has been given to the matter of liquidating the debt now resting on our association. This action was taken with the approval of the directors, and at the present time subscriptions have been secured amounting to $3,176. The total debt, December Dec. 31st, 1897, was $8,325, leaving a balance of $2,165 yet to be raised.

This debt has been a great burden for several years to those actively engaged in our work. In common with the large majority of all Young Men's Christian Associations, our previous methods of raising money were such we are obliged to ask our friends each year to make good this deficiency, and the interest on the debt adds very materially to the sum which we have been obliged to solicit. It therefore, we would conduct the affairs of our association on sound business principles, economically and wisely, we should rid ourselves of this annual drain on account. Moreover, the debt was not incurred through any unwise measures or injudicious management, but was rather the result of circumstances beyond our control and which could not be foreseen. Our building is not only used by the association for its own specific work, but many religious and charitable societies and committees meet for conference in our rooms. Our friends in Plainfield by their generous contributions in the past have enabled us to erect and equip this building, which is now recognized as the center of religious and philanthropic work in our city. We therefore appeal to those who have not already given to aid us in liquidating this balance of $2,165. We have accomplished much in securing what has been subscribed, and as the greater part of the subscriptions are conditional upon raising the entire amount, we believe our friends and the public also will appreciate the necessity of speedily extinguishing the balance of this debt, and thereby secure the advantage already gained by the work of your committee.

Stephen Chocon, Chairman.

150 WANTED GOBBLER MEAT.

Popularity of Trinity Reformed Church Event Did Not Wane.

The evidence of the popularity of the Women's Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church was continued last Friday when the second night of their annual turkey supper was held in the lecture rooms of the church. Not only did the good people of the church give strong support to the affair but the friends from all over the city attended in goodly numbers. The supper was excellent and even surpassed the meal of the first night. One hundred and fifty-five suppers were served last Friday In the two nights twenty-two gobblers were carved and dispersed among the visitors. The other tables were well patronized and almost everything was sold before the second evening came to an end. The members of the Ladies Christian Work Society feel very grateful to their friends for their liberal patronage during the two evenings that the supper was held.

It is not possible to give the net proceeds exactly, but the members of the society feel confident of realizing at least $180 as the result of their work.

A Chimney Fire.

A small chimney fire occurred Saturday night at 11:15 in the house occupied by Arthur Venable, of 614 West Third street. Box 43, corner of Front street and Plainfield avenue, was pulled by Patrolman McCarthy and the department made a quick response. It required two extinguishers to put the fire out and the damage was very slight. The recall sounded in about fifteen minutes after the alarm was given.

HARD LUCK OF A SPORT.

"KELLY" LYONS, TWIRLER OF BASEBALLS, ARRESTED.

Together With a Friend He Was Replenishing His Coal-Bin When Pounched Upon by a Detective—Fined $10 Apiece.

After a short but brilliant career on the baseball diamond and behind the scenes at Music Hall, Thomas Lyons, better known as "Kelley" Lyons, wound up in the police station last Friday. It was a case of hard luck rather than poor management on the part of the young man.

Lyons is an old hand at baseball playing. In this city he made his reputation behind the bat, catching the curves of Denny Kane. He played well but baseball has not flourished sufficiently in Plainfield of late to furnish a livelihood to even the best. He also played an important part behind the scenes at Music Hall, serving as assistant stage manager and various other positions. He knew the work well. Somehow Lyons and the theatre fell out and he gave up that kind of work. The pay was not munificent.

Lyons has been turning his hand at a little of everything lately but times were hard and there were none to help.

Last Friday it was bitter cold. The mercury fell 13 degrees above zero, the coldest this year. Lyons lives on West Third street, out in the West End. Daniel Kiely lives there too. The fire burned low, the coal bin was empty. So these two young men wrapped their coats about them and ventured out into the fast falling snow.

They visited the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad, near Grant avenue. A coal train stood there, the cars piled full of the needed black diamonds. It did not take long to reach the top of the car and unload a small portion of the load. Now all might have gone well if Detective Bill, of Elizabeth, had not put in an appearance at this most inopportune time. He found the young men on the coal car and placed both under arrest.

Saturday Lyons and Kiely were arraigned before City Judge De Meza. They pleaded guilty. The Judge delivered a short but forceful lecture on the necessity of teaching some people not to take what did not belong to them. To emphasize his remarks he fined each of the prisoners $10.

At an early hour Saturday Detective Dougherty found a man industriously shoveling coal off a loaded car that stood on the Jersey Central tracks between Clinton avenue and Dunellen. It happened to be just inside of the city line. The man allowed no grass to grow under his feet. He was rapidly making a fair-sized heap of coal at the side of the car.

The detective was not seen until he was too near to be left behind. Then the man with the shovel reluctantly relinquished his shovel and came down. He went to Plainfield with the detective. Later he was arraigned before City Judge De Meza.

William Madden was the name given by the man. He lived in the Eight Row on West Front street, he said. Hard luck and no work had driven him, he explained, to the cars. That was preferable to freezing to death at home. The Judge delivered a similar lecture to him as he had to the other offenders, and emphasized it with the same punishment, a fine of $10 or thirty days. Madden is seriously thinking of going to jail.

STANLEY A NAUGHTY BOY.

His Parents Have Exhausted Efforts to Reform Him.

County Detective Keron came to Netherwood Thursday afternoon and visited Florist Childs, whose son Stanley is in the county jail on a charge of being incorrigible. It was stated that there were circumstances that led the authorities to believe the parents were endeavoring to get rid of their son for some ulterior purpose, and it was to verify or disprove this belief that County Detective Keron made the investigation.

He says that he found the Childs' home to be a very pleasant one, and from sources that are reliable learned that Stanley was not so good as the lad had represented himself to be. The lad had a good home and all the comforts he could wish. Being an only child he was petted and become "spoiled." The parents told Chief Keron that they could do nothing with Stanley. Whenever he was sent to the store he either appropriated the money given him for goods to his own use, or did something else that was wrong. He would not stay at home, and persisted in stealing rides on railroad trains. After doing all that they could to reform the lad, Mr. and Mrs. Childs decided that they would turn him over to the law, and so began an effort to have him sent to the Reform School. Chief Keron said he was satisfied that the boy ought to be sent to the Reform School.

Help for the Hospital.

The secretary of the Board of Governors of the hospital acknowledges the receipt of $25 from St. Mary's church, which amount was collected on Hospital Sunday.

UNIQUE AND POPULAR CHURCH ENTERTAINMENTS.

METHODISTS CARRY OUT SOCIABLE FEATURES WITH GREAT ORIGINALITY AND SUCCESS.

The Pulpit Platform of Grace Church Utilized in Showing Living Advertisements in an Apt and Effective Way—Vincent Chapel Filled With Tableaux Illustrating the Calendar Months.

All the months of the year were present at the birthday sociable held in Vincent chapel last Friday by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church. The members of the congregation were also well represented. The programme consisted of a series of tableaux representing the different months, and readings and vocal selections. All the members of the congregation had received little invitations accompanied by silk bags in which they were asked to place as many cents as they were years old and bring them. As the different tableaux were shown, the audience was requested to guess the month represented and then those born in that month were asked to drop their bags of pennies in a basket that awaited them. Over a hundred were thus received with a contents amounting to almost $30.

The programme consisted of a vocal duet by the Misses Grace and Alice Carroll, solos by them, solos by Mrs. E. T. Douglass and a reading by Miss Susie Davies. W. E. MacClymont acted as accompanist to Mrs. Douglass.

Father Time, impersonated by Harold Whitney, was a figure in most of the tableaux; so was Hope, Miss Helen Weir. January was a winter scene, with Ray Lyman as the principal character. Miss Frances Weir sang "The Song of the Violets," for April. In July, Miss Rita Pond appeared as the Goddess of Liberty, and Miss Lillian Snodgrass, Walter McNaughton, Roland Horne, Charles Lyman and Albert Coddington as sharers in the Independence Day fun.

A charming little group of reapers, binding up the grain, represented September. They were Miss Rita Pond, Miss Helen Weir, Walter McNaughton and Roland Horne. Miss Helen Whitney carried a large red heart and deposited it at the feet of Hope as symbolic of February and St. Valentine's Day. A sweet little graduate, in cap and gown, Miss Lillian Snodgrass, was the principal figure in the tableau for June.

A scene at an election booth with a "new woman," Miss Rita Pond, as clerk, was the tableau for November. The voters were Miss Helen Weir, Miss Frances Weir, Miss Lillian Snodgrass, Walter McNaughton, Roland Horne and Charlie Lyman. That tableau was for May, of course. The "summer girl" for the August tableau, failed to materialize and the tableau was not given.

There were jack-o-like bobgoblins grouped together for October. They were Harold Whitney, Roland Horne and Walter McNaughton. December showed Ray Lyman in a nightgown patiently awaiting Santa Claus at the fire-place while that old worthy looked in at the door. A grand tableau, including all the worthy characters, ended the entertainment. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way enjoying the light refreshments that were served.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Charles H. Lyman, chairman, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, Mrs. C. C. Cokefair, Mrs. J. G. MaNaughton, Mrs. C. E. Horne and Mrs. H. A. McGee, president of the society. H. A. McGee acted as master of ceremonies.

THE BEST TALENT THERE.

An Excellent Programme Rendered at the Park Avenue Bap ist Church.

An excellent programme attracted a large attendance to the Park Avenue Baptist church last Thurs lay where a concert was given for the benefit of the church. The excellence of the talent secured for the concert was well known in the city and nobody was disappointed.

Mrs. Frank J. Smith's recitations were charmingly rendered. Her last selections were several with a musical accompaniment played by her husband.

Charles L. Lewis, baritone, and G. Morgan Strickiett, tenor, of the choir of the Crescent Avenue church, made a very good impression. It was the first appearance of Mr. Strickiett and his clear sweet voice was well liked. While not the owner of a very powerful voice, he spoke his words very distinctly so that they could be heard all over the church.

Mrs. Nelly Udell Smith was detained at home by an illness and her place as violinist was taken by Miss Ida Brandt, of New York. Miss Brandt had a delicate touch and showed herself to be mistress of the instrument. Mrs. Charles L. Lewis and Frank J. Smith were the accompanists and were very satisfactory in that respect.

An audience that completely filled Grace M. E. church gathered at that place last Friday and witnessed one of the most novel and pleasing entertainments ever given in the church. It was entitled "Popular Ads in Tableaux," and the various advertisements were correctly represented by the young people of the church.

The first advertisement was "Brokaw's Sheet Music." To represent it a sheet of muslin was stretched across the platform upon which was painted a bar of music. The notes were represented by Winnifred Carroll, Bessie Carroll, Belle DeMott, Alice DeMott, Grace DeMott, Grace Gaddis, Tillie Uhrhahn and Ethel Noe, and a pleasing ditty was rendered by the little ones. The next number, "The Aluminum Oil Heater," was represented by Mildred Long, who sat in a little rocker alongside of an oil heater. "Pearline" was advertised by Ethel Noe, who pretended to be washing a doll in a small bath tub, while Pear's soap, "He won't be happy till he gets it," was interpreted by Eva Higgins and Willie Higgins. The latter made a great effort to kiss his sister, and when he accomplished his purpose he was happy.

"Wagging Tongues" supplied, "Tired Fellows" furnished, "Wheels repaired, at Conroy's," was an amusing number as represented by Tiny Voehl, Addie Carney, Ada VanHorn, Bert Simpson, Wm. Monford and Ben. Schuck. The fellows appeared very tired, while the girls kept their tongues wagging and did not say very much. The old and familiar "Quaker Oats" sign was represented by Charley Powell, who was attired in quaker costume, while in one hand he held a package of Quaker oats, and in the other a sign on which was painted the word "Pure." "Packer's Tar Soap" was advertised in a similar way by Mildred Long. Doane's shoes was given prominence through the use of a large shoe in which was seated Edna Sebring, while Willie Woodruff was harnessed to it in horse fashion. The next number was "The Daily Press." A daily occurrence, and the representation was secured through the use of a sofa on which were seated Charley Powell and Grace Powell. They were hugging each other. The audience was very quick to see the point and hearty applause followed.

"Why not contrive to spend a five and get a Vive at Doane's," was given by Edna Sebring, who pretended to take a picture of a doll with a camera. The familiar saying, "Stop the car at Leggett's," was quickly recognized by all. A large sign displayed told the audience where the best soda is to be found in town, and John Carney, Fred Monford and Willie Woodruff loitered about the sign with a wistful eye on the all-important words.

A very clever advertisement was that of "Pond's Extract." John Carney and Fred Monford took part in this and showed the merits of the article by holding a huge cake of ice.

The advertisement of L. A. Hummer, dealer in meats, was thoroughly explained by Charley Powell and Grace Powell. The latter stated that she preferred to deal at a reliable market instead of purchasing at every new store that came to town.

An amusing advertisement was that of "Sapolio." Harry Schuck appeared with his face blackened, and Arthur Woodruff, with a cake of sapolio in his hand, rubbed the soap over a portion of his friend's face, exclaiming, "Sapolio did it!" "Glasses fitted to all eyes" was represented by Eva Higgins and Harry Schuck, who held in their hands a large pair of eyeglasses. "The '98 Chainless Safety—Our Model," was represented by a large safety pin, which was held by Margaret Dunham and Elsa Sebring. "Eat George Voehl's New England bread" was a clever advertisement. Arranged about the platform was a quantity of rye and John Valiant was lying down taking things easy, with a large piece of bread in his hand, while Anna Hoagland stood near with an expression of "I wish I had some." The last advertisement was that of "Latest styles in gents' furnishings at Crane & Clark's." This was represented by a large hat, in which were seated Fred Monford, Grover Schuck, George Conover and Percy Gaddis, while on the rim of the hat sat Arthur Woodruff. The tableaux concluded with "Mixed pickles," given by all those who took part in the tableaux.

Interspersing the tableaux there was an exhibition of the graphophone by George Voehl and recitations by Miss Eva Benton. The selections on the graphophone were thoroughly enjoyed, while Miss Benton's work was one of the enjoyable features. Every number on the programme received a cordial reception and the audience was greatly pleased. Miss May Conroy presided at the piano in her usual efficient manner, and rendered various selections during the intermissions.

The committee in charge deserve great credit for their untiring efforts in arranging the affair and no doubt a very handsome sum will be realized therefrom. Miss Mary Steiner and Miss Marguerite Schuck had the entertainment in charge, and they were assisted by Miss Della Voehl, Mrs. Elmer Winckler, Miss Tingley, Miss Elizabeth Valiant, Dyckman Winckler, Rev. H. J. Johnston, A. A. Taft, Charles Hummer, Mr. Nelson, Andrew Marsh, W. J. Conroy and E. A. Vermeule.

T. A B.'S NIGHT OF GLORY

OVER A HUNDRED VISITORS CAME FROM ELIZABETHPORT.

The Plainfielders Defeated at Bowling—A Dance Given the Visitors in Washington Hall—Fireworks and Drum Corps.

It was a rousing reception that a strong delegation from the Young Men's Father Matthew Total Abstinence and Benevolent Society, of Elizabethport, received in Plainfield Thursday night. They came amidst fire works and colored fire and marched down the street with drums beating. There was nothing too good for them. They bowled, they danced, they dined and danced again, and then, when the morning was fairly under way, they marched back to the station and departed homeward.

Some time ago, the T. A B. Society, of Plainfield, went to Elizabethport, where they were entertained by the Y. M. F. M. T. A. B. Society. It was a jolly time they had that night. One great feature of it was a bowling match in which the Elizabethport delegation carried away the glory. Last night was the time set for the return visit.

There was 118 of the Elizabeth boys that boarded the 7:34 train at the Elizabeth station. Then there were nearly two score of their fair friends who came down to attend the dance. Special arrangements had been made with the Jersey Central Railroad by which two extra cars were put on the train to bring up the crowd.

The delegation was accompanied by the Nonpariel Drum and Fife Corps, of Elizabeth. When the visitors left the train at Plainfield, they found a cheering delegation from the local society awaiting them. Then the members of both societies fell in behind the drum corps. Amid great cheering and the glare of red fire and Roman candles, the throng marched down North avenue to Park avenue, to Second street and thence to the Ulrich bowling alleys where the great game was to be rolled.

The committee headed by the president of the Elizabeth T. A B, C. J. Tipper. The committee in charge of the outing, consisting of W. J. Dunn, chairman, D. J. Leonard, Morris Levins, Edward Slattery and W. Burke, followed.

Some of the visitors went to Washington Hall, where they found some of their entertainers awaiting them. Dancing was started at once and continued all the evening. Most of the entertainers and guests went directly to the alleys to watch the game. The place was crowded. There were a number of young women who came out to watch the game. There was plenty of enthusiasm on both sides, and it increased as the end drew near. The visitors were too strong for the local combination, however, and the latter met defeat by 148 pins.

The scores were as follows:

ELIZABETHPORT.		PLAINFIELD.
Foley	180	Reville	146
O'Leary	162	Kane	78
Crawford	163	Mack	108
Murphy	139	Sawyer	102
Carey	131	Lawler	102
Seavoy	167	Holmeyer	120
Higgins	119	Higgins	146
Brennan	105	Monahan	180
Burke	161	Powell	129
	1268		1280

BY FRAMES.

Elizabeth	139	275	434	544	704	850	1008	1173	1261	1268
Plainfield	91	237	392	455	590	676	807	1029	1137	1280

After the game everybody went over to Washington Hall. The floor was soon crowded with couples and dancing was the order of the evening. Down in the basement, a grand collation had been prepared. A table was set to accommodate 200. There the visitors were treated to a bountiful repast. Then there was speech-making, songs and stories until the time came to break up.

The visitors were escorted back to the station amid the shouts of the spectators and took the 2:14 train back to Elizabethport.

Thinking of Excursions Now.

At the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M. held last Thursday, the following persons were appointed on the annual excursion committee: F. A. Long, H. M. Cooke, L. D. Townley, H. R. Thorn and Isaac Squires. One candidate was initiated and one member was elected. Superintendent W. J. Wightman, of the Borough Public School, was also received into membership.

—The new ice house of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, at Washingtonville, is completed. The structure is 150 feet square, 30 feet high and will hold fifteen thousand tons of ice.

BRIGHT LEGAL LIGHT OUT

THE END OF LAWYER DYETT'S BRILLIANT CAREER.

Death Came to Him at His Home in Netherwood Friday Morning—Sketch of His Life and Many Achievements.

After a serious illness with heart failure and Bright's disease lasting since last May, Anthony Ralnepeaux Dyett, of Belvidere avenue, passed away at an early hour Friday morning.

Mr. Dyett was a well-known and prominent lawyer in New York city, where he practiced for over fifty years. He was admitted to the bar in 1847, at which time the law firm of Townsend & Dyett was formed. He tried a number of cases at an early age before being admitted to the bar, and has always been a successful counselor.

Mr. Dyett was born in New York in 1824 and was of English-French descent. His ancestry dates back to Sir Richard Dyett and Captain Anthony who were under the reign of King Charles. Mr. Dyett studied law with Hiram P. Hastings, of New York, and sometime after he began to practice he was chosen counselor for the New York Clearing House. He introduced the original half-holiday movement in New York and succeeded in securing its adoption. In 1863-3 he was president of the Union League Club, of Kings county, New York. He was considered one of the ablest court lawyers in the metropolis, and he has written several works on law.

In the early days of Tammany Hall, Mr. Dyett was an active figure, and up to the time of his illness last May, he was always very active. He took a lively interest in affairs at Netherwood and during the five years that he lived in Plainfield he was a progressive citizen.

The late firm of which he was a member was Townsend, Dyett & Levy, with offices in the Potter building, New York.

He leaves a widow and two children, a son living in the west, and a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Hill, who lives on Belvidere avenue. The funeral services

COMMON SENSE EXPEDITION.

A Party to go to the Klondyke Region Under Direction of Conductor Royce.

Conductor Wm. E. Haynes of Somerville has been managing the details of a common-sense expedition to the Alaskan gold fields. It is called the New Jersey Transportation and Trading Co., and under the auspices of this company will be taken out to this State. A sailing vessel has been purchased, and this will be under the charge of Capt. Geo. W. Fowler, an experienced navigator who at present lives at Point Pleasant. The Captain will go on immediately and will take as many trips as possible, carrying passengers and freight to points on Cooper River and Cook's Inlet, till the arrival of the members of the company. These will leave about the first of April next. A physician will be one of the party, as will also Edward Dunn, a mining expert who has had a number of years' experience in the placer and quartz mines in Colorado. The capital was largely made up in Somerville, and several of the town's people will accompany the expedition. J. H. B. Speer is secretary and treasurer.

Miss M. W. Board, of Metuchen, is also organizing a company on somewhat different lines, but it will have virtually the same objective points as the above.

An East Fourth Street Surprise.

A surprise party was tendered to Mrs. William Winkler at the home of Mrs. F. Cones, on East Fourth street, last Friday. The feature of the evening was dancing and music was furnished by Sam France. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dooley, Mr. and Mrs. William Winkler, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watts, Miss Kate Robeson, Miss Anna Myers, Peter Robeson, John Carroll, Miss Kate Slusher, Jno. Blume, Wm. Primer, of Plainfield; J. Mohamm, Miss Amy Case, of Dunellen; Edward Jones, Miss Taylor, of Bound Brook; Joseph Dooley, Harry Doyle, of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wagner, of New York; Frank Hyser and lady, of Elizabeth.

If you cannot get beef, mutton will answer.

You may choose between milk, water, coffee or tea. But there is no second choice after Scott's Emulsion.

It is Scott's Emulsion or nothing.

When you need the best cod-liver oil, the best hypophosphites, and the best glycerine, all combined in the best possible manner, you have only one choice.

It brings prompt results in all cases of wasting, or loss in weight.

All druggists; 50c. and $1.00.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

WORK OF THE Y. M. C. A.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION THURSDAY EVENING.

Reports Presented by the Various Officers Showed That Much Good Has Been Accomplished—Board Directors Elected, Etc.

The annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held in the small hall of the building Thursday, was a very profitable one, and the various reports furnished to those present with a good idea of the work accomplished by the association last year.

President Wm. D. Murray occupied the chair, and after reading from the Scriptures, prayer was offered by E. L. Bonny.

The first report was that offered by the religious work committee, presented through the chairman, A. C. LaBoyteaux. He showed that there is an increase in this department of 43 per cent over the previous year. The average attendance at the meetings was reported to be 100 as against 70 in 1897.

Stephen Cahoone, chairman of the educational committee, reported the average attendance of the classes to be 37 in the mechanical department. The average attendance in the other classes were reported as follows: Book-keeping, 11; German, 9 Spanish, 9; stenography, 15. The average attendance of all classes was 81.

Physical Director Hedden gave a brief outline of the work in his department, and stated that the average attendance of the business men's class was 14. The evening class had an average attendance of 18, while in the boys' class the attendance was 35. Mr. Heywood said that there are 190 members of the association doing work in the gymnasium.

President Murray at this time presented his tenth and last annual report as president of the association. The report is as follows:

To the Members of the Young Men's Christian Association of Plainfield, N. J.:

Once more it is my pleasant duty to render to you an account of our work for the past association year, covering eight months. At our last annual meeting we voted, as you will remember, to change the association year so that hereafter our meeting will come in January instead of May. This is in view of the large amount of money we shall always have to raise, and it is easier to get it in the beginning of the year than at the close.

The number of members who have paid dues during the past eight months is 374, of whom sixty are in the Junior Department. Of course there are more than this. It is interesting to notice that our membership is not confined to Plainfield, for we have members residing in Roselle, Somerville, Harwood and Metuchen. It is difficult to determine just how much our members use the building, for with so many members and so many departments, it is almost impossible to see and their visits; but that the members do appreciate the privileges any one can see by a visit to the building.

The religious work of the year, even the most important, has been reported by the chairman of the committee in charge. It is gratifying to know that the attendance at our men's and Young Men's Bible meetings has been so large, the average for the meetings for eight months being 100, an increase of 42 per cent. over last year, and that the results have been so blessed. Mr. LaBoyteaux, whom is our secretary reports the interesting services held and the good accomplished by the men who receive inspiration in these meetings.

Three Bible classes have been conducted by the general secretary, physical director and president, several sessions being held.

The report of the physical director shows the condition of our physical work. And here I am led to speak of the erroneous impression sometimes produced by the prominence of the physical work. This impression is more apparent than real: it seems to be the larger work because it is more easily seen. This was brought home to me one night during the year when I went with the Bible class and there seemed to be no one in the class rooms, or reading room, or reading room, but the gymnasium was alive with men, a match looked like a game, and I had almost to a door search revealed the general secretary and assistant in the parlor with a young man, some theological student at Oberlin, now brought to see the work here. As a last resort he had come to the Y. M. C. A. for help. Could he have gone anywhere else? That night our two secretaries stood by him and were able to help him in other ways than might have where he was, and the following days he was helped further. What an erroneous impression one might have gotten of our work by a casual visit that evening.

Financially we have had a hard year. The treasurer's report shows receipts from all sources of $8,381.48, and expenditures of $8,311.79. Of this $1,000 has been received from membership fees and $2,000 from generous subscriptions from those who believe that the association meets a need of the city. The treasurer's report is attached and shows the details of the above figures.

The debt on our building is $8,335. Towards this we have subscribed $1,175, and our hope is that very soon this home of Christian work in Plainfield will be free from this burden.

This closes the last report which I shall render to the association as its president. As I look back over the more than ten years that I have been permitted to serve you, I am conscious that the Young Men's Christian Association has grown in more than I have ever been able to do for it, and that it has been a great privilege to give my time and whatever talents I may have to this noble effort to elevate young men of this city. As I retire my prayer is that He who has so graciously led us in the past may continue to lead and to bless us in the future, and I commend to you the advice of one than I ever was, "Let us arise and build." and I beg of you to remember that every man's work shall be made manifest for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is. If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward." And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

Plainfield, N. J., Jan. 27th, 1898.

Wm. D. Murray, President.

Report of treasurer from May 13th, 1897, to Dec. 31st, 1897.

RECEIPTS.

Members' dues, subsisting	$ 50.00
Do. do. limited
Junior	1,050.97
Subscriptions	2,000.00
Church collections	40.26
Membership fees	994.00
Entertainments	30.20
Special account	160.00
Loans	870.00
Miscellaneous	.20
	$5,147.67
Bal. per report May 13th, 1897	193.79
	$5,381.46

DISBURSEMENTS.

Salaries—secretaries, physical director and janitor	$2,302.83
Light	97.50
Fuel	492.50
Water	242.76
Educational account	270.97
Subscription to State and International work	75.00
Interest on loans	836.83
Coal	175.00
Fire dept.	38.78
Repairs	203.72
Insurance	112.50
Reading room supplies	44.51
Printing and stationery	66.67
Postage	75.36
Entertainment account	11.16
Sundry expenses	229.03
	$5,311.77
Cr. balance	$ 69.69

Plainfield, Jan. 27th, 1898.

R. G. Newman, Treasurer.

The next business considered was the selection of S. Kimball, H. R. Munger, Sr., H. R. Munger, Jr., H. J. Martin, J. A. Robinson and J. W. Gavett as a nominating committee to choose eighteen members of the board of directors for the ensuing year.

While the committee was considering the selection of a board, the members present adopted a new constitution, which really an amendment to the old one. There are only a few slight changes in the constitution as amended.

A pleasant feature was the presentation to the association by John Dalziel of a portrait of former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, which was the work of Mr. Dalziel. It was very gratefully accepted by the association and both the donor and Mr. Gilbert were heartily thanked.

R. G. Newman, on behalf of the association, offered a motion that the press of Plainfield be thanked for their kindness to the association in publishing items concerning the work from time to time.

Mr. Newman also made a few remarks concerning the retirement of W. D. Murray from the office of president. He expressed his opinion that Mr. Murray had been a faithful officer and member of the association and the members owe him a debt of gratitude for his efficiency and help in guiding the affairs of the association. The members concurred in what Mr. Newman said.

At this time H. R. Munger, for the nominating committee, presented the names of eighteen men whom the committee had chosen for directors. According to the new constitution the directors will elect the officers of the association. The directors chosen are as follows:

E. E. Ackerman, G. H. Batchelor, Stephen Cahoone, G. A. Chapman, G. S. Clay, J. W. Jackson, A. C. LaBoyteaux, H. J. Martin, H. M. Maxson, R. H. Radford, G. M. Rittenhouse, Nelson Runyon, Curtis M. Thorpe, W. D. Murray, E. L. Bonny, A. B. Beers, John Valiant and H. O. Newman.

This finished the business of the evening and the meeting adjourned.

LIFE ON THE PLANTATION.

A NOVEL CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.

Humor and Pathos of the Colored People Brought Out by an Interesting Programme.

"An Evening on the Plantation" was the title of a literary and musical entertainment that the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church gave their members and friends in the church Friday evening. The programme was greatly enjoyed by a large audience.

The entertainment was supposed to consist of readings describing life on the plantation and musical selections from that life. A piano solo, "Old Folks at Home," was given by Miss Alice Morgan. That pathetic story by Thomas Nelson Page, "Marse Chan," was read by Miss Mary E. Robinson and Miss Julia Beckman. Miss Charlotte Strong sang "Mason's in the Cold, Cold Ground." Then followed a recitation by Miss Marie Newman, entitled "Manny's L'il Baby Boy." A reading from Frank Stockton's "The Late Mrs. Null," telling of "Religion in the Old Plantation," was read by Rev. C. L. Goodrich. After a recitation by Miss Katherine Dwight, "Swing Low, Sweet Coariot," the programme closed with a mandolin solo, "Blue Bells of Scotland," by James Gordon Beekman.

The rooms in the church were spent in a social manner. Cake and chocolate was served to the guests and a pleasant hour passed.

The evening was arranged by the joint efforts of the social and good literature committees. The social committee was composed of Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, chairman, Miss Maude Belknap, Miss Katherine Dwight, Philip Suffren and George Fuller. The good literature committee was composed of Miss Ella Beekman, chairman, Miss Alice Morgan, Miss M. G. Morse and Miss Mary Prescott Chase.

Rev. J. Clement French Coming.

The Christian Endeavorer who reads the above announcement will at once say when and where. Through the efforts of E. E. Anthony he has consented to be present and speak at the Endeavor Day meeting of the Trinity Reformed church society next Monday evening, February 7th, at 8 o'clock. The simple announcement will be sufficient for a large attendance of Endeavorers and others.

TRINITY'S SOCIAL TIME.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY HELP TO SWELL THE CHURCH FUNDS.

The Annual Turkey Supper Given Under Their Auspices Last Week—Other Pleasant Features—Those Who Assisted.

The good people of Trinity Reformed church and their friends gave a hearty response Thursday to the invitation of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church to attend their annual turkey supper. It was the first of the delightful social events of the church life that are destined to be held in the new lecture room.

The menu was an excellent one. Of course the mighty gobbler was the centre of attraction with a multitude of side dishes on every hand. The ladies had worked hard in preparation for the supper and had secured the donation of nearly all the good things needed for the supper. There was plenty while it lasted and those who partook of the repast found it well worth the price, 35 cents, which was charged for it.

While the members of the congregation had worshipped in the room several weeks, it was the first glimpse of the place to many friends of the church since the alterations of the lecture room had been completed, and there were many very favorable comments on its appearance. They turned out in numbers and the room was crowded early with young and old.

The supper tables were arranged about the room, with several small booths on the sides. The entrance was guarded by the cashier's desk, where E. H. Bird and E. T. VanWinkle alternated in officiating.

There was a candy table covered early in the evening with a profusion of home-made candies that found ready sale as the time passed. Mrs. E. H. Bird and Miss Minnie Williams were the presiding geniuses. Then there was a table devoted to the sale of aprons Mrs. M. L. Connolly and Mrs. Julius Williams were in charge of that department. A lemonade booth proved very popular with the guests. Miss Etta Krymer and Miss Emma Gillsen looked after it. On the other side of the room was a table of a mysterious character. All sorts of mysterious packages were produced and sold. Mrs. E. E. Anthony was there in charge.

Now a very important part of the turkey supper was the preparing of it. The committee in charge of the supper took it on themselves to see that the good people of the church were well cared for, as far as the culinary arrangements were concerned.

The committee consisted of Mrs. Edward VanWinkle, chairman, Mrs. Seaman Williams, Mrs. J. Dem-arest, Mrs. F. A. Church, Mrs. J. H Krymer and Mrs. M. E Kershaw.

The tables, at which the supper was served, were presided over by other members of the society in charge. They were Mrs. P. A. Emmons, Mrs. J. F. MacDonald, Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mrs. A. L. Force, Mrs. S. C. Baker and Mrs. J. M. Tier. They were assisted by a small army of waitresses who proved very able allies during the evening.

After the supper was finished many lingered to spend a social evening together, although there was no regular programme arranged for their entertainment. The Schubert Orchestra was present and rendered a number of selections during the evening, which were greatly enjoyed.

The object of the supper was to raise a portion of the $600 which the Ladies' Christian Work Society has pledged for the upholstering of the furniture of the church.

The assistants at the different tables were as follows: Mrs. J. M. Tier's table, Miss Gertrude Tier and Miss Dora Ulrick; Mrs. J. F. MacDonald's table, Miss Jeanette Simpson and Miss Cora Laire; Mrs. P. A. Emmons' table, Miss Grace Emmons and Miss Nettie Young; Mrs. A. L. Force's table, Miss Lillian A. Force and Mrs. Will F. Williams; Mrs. H. W. Marshall's table, Miss Grace Smith and Miss Minnie Arnold; Mrs. S. C. Baker's table, Miss Edith DuBois and Miss Grace Berg.

The carving of the turkeys was done by Freeholder John H. Tier, Sr., and Mrs. Seaman Williams.

Among the tables at the side of the room was one that received much attention. On it was a display of choice cakes. Mrs. H. J. Martin and Mrs. B. D. Newell were in charge.

A coat room was established in one of the small rooms. There Will F. Williams and William Startup checked hats and wraps, realizing nearly $6.

Pleased With the New Game Law.

The Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties Protective and Propogative Game Association met last Friday in regular session and elected three new members. A copy of the new game bill that has been introduced into the Legislature was read by the members, and with the exception of a few slight points they expressed themselves as being very well pleased. The members decided to secure a small number of ring-neck pheasants, which will be put on the preserve. The other business transacted was of a routine character.

Miss Hattie King, of West Front street, is visiting friends in Brooklyn.

GOLDEN TOKEN OF LOVE.

FATHER MURPHY PRESENTED WITH $270 BY ST. MARY'S PARISHIONERS.

The Gift Made at the Reception Tendered by the Catholic Club—Felicitous Remarks of President Tobin and Clergy.

It was a happy event that took place Jan. 26th in the assembly hall of the Parochial School, when a reception was given to Rev. Father Murphy, the curate, who, after a service of five years in Plainfield, was transferred to Paterson by the bishop. The sudden departure of Father Murphy made it impossible for the members of St. Mary's church to show any appreciation of his services, and the idea of giving him a reception was conceived in the minds of the members of the Plainfield Catholic Club, who arranged the affair for last evening.

The hall was well filled with members and friends of the parish, and the choir of mixed voices from the church was present to give two selections.

It was nearly 8:30 when Father Smyth and Father McCormick, of St. Mary's church; Father Smith, of Cranford, and President George J. Tobin and Secretary J. J. Kenney, of the Catholic Club, entered the hall. As Father Murphy was escorted up the aisle there was loud and hearty applause, and at the same time the choir sang effectively "Auld Lang Syne."

After the party had partaken of refreshments on the platform and President Tobin, chairman of the affair, spoke as follows in addressing Father Murphy:

Dear Father Murphy—It has become a part of my duty as chairman of this meeting to have the honor to address you, and in doing so I wish to express to you the wishes and regrets from the people of St. Mary's church, and particularly so the members of The Children of Mary, the Sewing Circle and the Catholic Club.

Your sudden departure presented us from saying farewell and bidding you godspeed, but we ask that you accept the wish for the deed.

During your stay at St. Mary's we learned to love, first, as a priest and friend; second, as a club member and guide to all our actions relative to club matters; third and last of all as an honored citizen of the city of Plainfield. We felt from the interest you took in us that the confidence and affections were in no way misplaced.

Coming from the Seminary to this your first mission, you have labored constantly in our behalf for nearly five years. Your devotion to us before the altar of God, your willingness to answer the sick call at whatever hour it came, your kindness and patience with the erring, the confidence and affections were in no way misplaced.

Coming from the Seminary to this your first mission, you have labored constantly in our behalf for nearly five years. Your devotion to us before the altar of God, your willingness to answer the sick call at whatever hour it came, your kindness and patience with the erring, the confidence and affections were in no way misplaced.

We would have you remain with us, but the voice of authority spoke and called you to another field, and though you accept the mandate humbly submit. We leave us, but we will always think of you and hold your name and work in grateful remembrance.

May success be yours in the future for you sir, may neither time nor space sever the bonds that bind us together, and may your future career in St. John's parish at Paterson be as bright as that which was your past career in St. Mary's at Plainfield.

In conclusion we ask you to accept this small token of our affection, and in return beg a remembrance in your prayers.

As President Tobin concluded his remarks he presented Father Murphy with $270 in gold, a gift from the members and friends of the parish.

Father Murphy felt very much the expression of kindness on the part of his former parishioners, and it was no easy task for him to speak. In part he spoke as follows:

"I regretted very much to leave Plainfield, and when I went to Paterson I found that the people of St. John's parish were not pleased because Father McCormick had been taken away from them, but I assure you I had nothing to do with the change. I want to thank you one and all for your kindness and gratitude, and I take this occasion of publicly thanking Father Smyth for his kindness during my stay in Plainfield. I did not want to go away from here, but the bishop thought otherwise. However, you have a better and a worthier man as an assistant. I shall often think of you and my heart will go back to the old love."

At this time Father McCormick, the new curate, was called upon and he gave a short and interesting talk. It was evident that Father McCormick is going to be very popular, judging from the hearty reception given him last evening. He spoke in substance as follows:

"I thought that my campaign in Paterson had won everyone on my side during the five years that I labored in that field, but when I went back yesterday no one seemed to know me, and all that I heard was the name of Father Murphy. I am happy to be present tonight and add a few words to what has been said. You have known Father Murphy five years, but I have known him longer than that. We studied and were ordained together. I speak of him as a friend, I found him a great help to me and it is telling no secrets when I say that Father Murphy was the favorite in our class. Five years ago last Saturday we were ordained at Seton Hall, and five years ago tomorrow we left that seat of learning."

Father McCormick concluded by thanking all for their kind reception, and he said that he would try to be as faithful in his new field as Father Murphy was.

Father Smyth was then introduced by President Tobin, and he spoke a few pleasant words. He said that he was glad to hear Father McCormick make an admission that Father Murphy was a leader in his class, for he always understood that that class was the hardest that ever left Seton Hall. He thanked all for their generosity toward Father Murphy.

After the choir sang another selection Father Murphy gave his blessing, and after a general hand-shake the happy affair terminated. During the evening Father Murphy was presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers by one of his former parishioners.

TOASTS AT CHURCH SOCIAL.

A UNIQUE PRESBYTERIAN AFFAIR.

Given Under the Auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society—Practical Thoughts, Wit and Humor.

A unique business social was held at the First Presbyterian church last Thursday. It was given under the direction of President E. L. Gifford, of the Christian Endeavor Society, and the social committee, to members of the society.

The affair was held in the chapel of the church, where long tables were arranged in the shape of a cross. At each of the four corners a member of the society presided and poured coffee. President Gifford presided at the centre of the table.

There were many practical thoughts and suggestions advanced, intermingled with much wit and humor. Miss Petrie responded to the toast of "Music." She gave many valuable hints as regards the music at the meetings of the society. Miss Grace was assigned the topic "The Earth." Her remarks concerning the work of the society in all parts of the globe were interesting as well as helpful. "The Currency" was the subject given to E. M. Cave, and his practical suggestions on how to conduct financial matters were to the point. Mr. Gates responded to the toast "The Ladies." He gave a well-prepared talk regarding the very important field occupied by the women in the society. The last toast was "The Klondyke," and Rev C. E. Herring gave an exposition on this subject. His remarks differed from the subject in that they were far from being chilly.

During the evening Mr. Herring gave an exhibition of his phonograph, and the various selections were of an amusing character. Some of the members present sang into the phonograph and thus made a record for future use.

Another feature of the event was the flash-light picture taken of the society by William M. Miner. Two pictures were taken, and the chances are that they will both be excellent photographs.

It was late when the festivities came to an end, but those in charge, President Clifford, and the members of the social committee, consisting of Mrs. W. L. Remsen, Miss Bessie Blair, Miss Mabelle Force and Miss Lillian Glen, were much pleased with the success of the affair, as was also the other members present.

Those who poured coffee were Miss Bessie Blair, Miss Blanche Fellows, Miss Grace Petrie and Mrs. W. L. Remsen.

A QUIET MARRIAGE.

Miss Emma D. Hughson Becomes the Wife of George W. Ulrick.

A quiet wedding was celebrated Jan. 26th at 7:30 p. m. when Miss Emma D. Hughson, of East Second street, became the wife of George W. Ulrick, of East Fifth street. The marriage was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, at his home on West Front street.

The bride was gowned in French blue silk trimmed with white chiffon and point lace, and was attended by her sister, Miss Lizzie Hughson, as bridesmaid, who wore a gown of white appropriately trimmed. The best man was Herbert Felson, of New Market.

Following the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride where a wedding supper was served to the immediate family and a few friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ulrick received a number of useful and valuable presents.

They will reside at the groom's home on East Fifth street. The groom is employed as foreman at the machine shop corner of East Fourth and Washington streets. He and his wife went to housekeeping at once, and did not take an extended trip.

Slipped and Fell.

Mrs. Lemuel Cole, of Duer street, met with a painful accident early Saturday a.m. She was about to go to the basement of the house from the outside when her feet slipped on some ice and she fell to the bottom of the steps. Her groans attracted the attention of her neighbors, who ran to her assistance. She was assisted in the house and an examination showed that no bones were broken, although she received a number of bruises.

A Woman Office Holder.

It is understood that Surrogate Spencer is to retain, for at least two or three months, the services of Mrs. VanNortwick, who has been the efficient assistant of Surrogate Huff during his whole term of office.

JURY OUT TWENTY HOURS

THIRD DISAGREEMENT IN THE CASE OF BLATZ AGAINST RILLING.

Tried on Appeal in the Somerset County Court, but the Twelve Men Couldn't Agree on Verdict—Fourth Trial Necessary

There must be something remarkable about the case if twelve good citizens of Somerset county cannot come to some kind of an agreement over it after being locked in a room together for twenty hours. It was the third time that the case had come to trial. The case was that of Joseph A. Blatz against George Rilling. It came before Judge Bartine and a jury of twelve men in the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas Thrusday morning and afternoon.

The case has been a strange one from the start when it came up in Justice Mattison's court. The trouble was over the rent of a little shop, 9 Somerset street, where Rilling plied his trade as a cobbler. Now Rilling was installed in the place in 1879, and there he remained until a year ago, February 1st. For the use of the place, Rilling paid $8 a month. He sometimes turned the money over to Mr. Blatz or to his wife who receipted for it in a pass-book that Rilling kept.

Rilling claims that he had paid up to date when he left. Blatz claimed that he owed seven months' rent. Rilling refused to pay and suit was brought in Mattison's court.

In court the pass-book was produced and the last receipt shown. The book was a wreck. It was for the date of October, 1896, and was said to be for the months of April, May and June. The defendant's lawyer, Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, claimed that his client and his client's wife could neither read nor write and that they had been deceived. Rilling claimed to have paid all his rent and that it was not back rent that the receipt was for. He was given no receipt for the payment made in December, he claimed.

The jury in Mattison's court disagreed and the case was tried again. Then a verdict was brought in of no cause for action. The case was appealed. Thursday morning the trial began at 11 o'clock and continued until 3:30 o'clock. The case was well conducted on both sides. Blatz was represented by Murphy & Blatz and Rilling by Hetfield. The jury was then charged and locked up. They remained out all night and continued until 11:30 o'clock Friday a. m. They still disagreed, the jury standing 7 to 5 in favor of the defendant. The case will be retried at the next term of court.

POLITE WAY OF SAYING NO.

WESTFIELD TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

Township Committee Want the Private Capitalists to Comply With The Bergen Plan.

The Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company is meeting with many vicissitudes in its efforts to secure a franchise between Elizabeth and this city.

The latest rebuff was administered by the Westfield Township Committee at its meeting Friday night. The Committee stated that the condition upon which it would be willing to grant a franchise was, that the railway company should widen North avenue, the country road, in accordance with the plan suggested by Frank Bergen. This puts upon the company the necessity of doing what Mr. Bergen wants the county to do.

The plan if carried out would leave the present macadam on the county road intact, and would provide a cycle path and other features in addition to the trolley tracks.

The proposition made by the Westfield Committee refers to that part of North avenue which lies within the township. Over the remainder of the company's route it has no jurisdiction. Col. E. W. Hine, secretary of the trolley company, was present, and stated that his company would not accept the proposed terms. He promised to report the matter to the company.

NEW LOAN ASSOCIATION.

Branch of the National Provident and Building Established Here.

The local branch of the National Provident and Building Loan Association met at the law offices of McNabb & Clark, Thursday evening, and organized. The branch starts with 140 shares in this city. The home office is in Newark. The following officers were chosen at the meeting: President, William D. MacClymont; vice-president, George F. Brown; secretary, F. L. C. Martin; treasurer, J. Hervey Doane; attorney, R. M. Clark. The board of directors selected consist of the above officers, in addition to the following: Dr. D. C. Adams, Edward F. Randolph, F. A. Pope, Asa Randolph and Frank Fulton.

The branch will meet the second Friday evening of each month in the offices of McNabb & Clark.

—The Thursday Night Euchre Club will meet this week at the home of Miss May McLoughlin, of Somerset street, Friday evening.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force. Editor and Proprietor

FOR PROTECTION OF EDITORS.

The smart aleck with a pious face and a bland smile who vouches for information to a newspaper man that ultimately prove untruthful and libelous is the object of either suppression or castigation by a measure introduced into the State Assembly by Mr. Giedhill, of Paterson. The bill provides "that any person who delivers any libelous statement, untrue in fact, to any publisher for use, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $500 or two years' imprisonment." Your true editor is a chivalrous and courageous person who too often for his own peace of mind accepts the responsibility of an item that has been contributed by one of these stalking paragons of inconsistency, with a bent for what they term "practical joking." Though the joke is aimed at some one outside of the sanctum, it is quite frequently that the laugh is on the editor because of the untruthfulness of the informant and the consequent hot water, metaphorically speaking, that the journalist is plunged into with the offended party. This legislative proposition of Mr. Gledhill is devised to prevent and punish those who have an inclination for such serious tomfoolery, and it well deserves to be a law.

BE FAIR TO THE RECORDER.

The Bound Brook State Centre is unduly sarcastic and critical towards Recorder Thomas in commenting on the fact that eight of the nine prisoners in the Somerset county jail are from North Plainfield. It infers that Recorder Thomas is utilizing his judicial functions to increase his income when there is no warrant for it. So far as his salary goes it makes no difference to the Recorder how many persons are arraigned before him—he gets a stipulated sum for adjusting borough police court cases, be they many or few. And as for the number of prisoners committed from the borough, it is not claimed that any of those incarcerated by decision of the Recorder do not deserve the punishment. Mr. Thomas may not be possessed of all the judicial acumen that some persons demand, but it is not fair to make him the object of criticism when there is no sincerity or truth in it.

LEGAL BATTLE TO SAVE MURDERERS.

The announcement that the interests of Roesel and Manshands, both indicted for the murder of old man Pitts, are antogistic to one another, leads to the conclusion that Union county may be the scene of a struggle to save the neck of one man at the cost of the other that in a way will resemble the notorious trial of Martin Thorn and Mrs. Nack. From what is now known of the connection of the two men with the atrocious murder of the wealthy countryman, it seems that both are deep in the crime, but the confession of Manshands and his effort to throw the principal blame upon his pal, shows that he is emulating the example of the Nack woman. The fact that two of Union county's most talented lawyers—Messrs. Marsh and Bergen—will act as counsel for the alleged murderers, presages a battle royal in court to save the lives of their respective clients.

TO REGULATE DENTAL PRACTICE.

Senator Reed is doing his share of introducing new measures into the Legislature, his contribution yesterday being a bill to regulate the practice of dentistry and to repeal certain acts relating thereto. The bill provides that as the present State Examiners' terms expire the vacancy shall be filled by the Governor by appointing a dentist recommended annually by the New Jersey State Dental Society. The bill requires applicants for a license to have graduated with a dental degree, or to have the written recommendations or five licensed dentists of five years' standing. Dentists from other states are to be admitted if they have practiced five years.

Leon Abbett, son of the late Governor Abbett, will enter politics next fall. He has been slated by "Bob" Davis as the candidate for State Senator in Hudson county.

Both the ice and coal dealer rejoiceth in this weather. Such frigidity as now prevails makes the market for one and the supply for the other.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

BLOW AT TRADING STAMPS.

A blow has been aimed at trading stamps in the New York Legislature. A member of the Assembly has introduced a bill making it a misdemeanor to issue trading stamps. The author of the measure says that "it is his purpose to abolish the catch-penny devices of the tradesmen to lure the public to the support of the middlemen engaged in various manufacturing schemes."

THE GOOD OF THE CITY.

Plainfield is giving Brooklyn a close chase for the title of "City of Churches." In proportion to the size of the town, it is doubtful if there is another community in the country that has a greater number of religious societies than Plainfield. The announcement that a Catholic chapel is to be built in the east end of the city is an important addition to the list.

CONSUL DEMAREST'S RETIREMENT.

J. A Demarest, who has been United States Consul at Brockville, Can., for the past four years, will be succeeded by President McKinley's appointee March 1st.

EACH WILL STRIVE TO SAVE HIS OWN NECK.

MURDERERS' HOSTILE RELATIONS.

Craig A. Marsh Learns That the Interests of Roesel and Manshands are Antagonistic to Each Other.

George Manshands and Louis Roesel, the alleged murderers of farmer James C. Pitts, of Summit, were again arraigned in court Monday morning before Justice VanSyckel, who fixed Tuesday, March 1st, as the date for their trial.

Justice VanSyckle also announced that he would assign Frank Bergen to defend Roesel. Judge McCormick had previously assigned City Attorney Craig A. Marsh, of Plainfield, to defend both prisoners, but Justice VanSyckle said the men had different interests at stake and, therefore, he would assign Mr. Bergen to defend Roesel.

Justice VanSyckle will preside at the trial.

Immediately after being assigned as counsel for both defendants a week ago, Mr. Marsh interviewed Manshands alone and at once reported to the court that the defenses of the two men might prove antagonistic and each ought to have separate counsel, and accordingly he would not speak to Roesel at all until the court should be heard from. Monday morning Judge VanSyckle said Mr. Marsh was right under the circumstances, there should be separate counsel for each defendant.

"UNCLE DAN" A YOUNG OLD MAN.

Though His Years are Many His Spirit is Sage and Gay.

"Uncle" Dan Roberts, of North avenue, proved himself the ideal host last Monday when a large company of relatives and friends gathered at his home to help him celebrate the seventy-fourth anniversary of his birthday. The popular host seemed just as young as ever and joined with the young folks in the dancing and social features of the happy event. Music was furnished by Mr. Borroughs on the violin, and Miss Jessie Roberts on the piano.

Mr. Roberts received many useful presents, including a large and handsome arm chair from his children. He also received a collection of choice flowers.

At a late hour a delightful supper was served at which all did justice. The celebrant and his wife were the recipients of hearty congratulations from all, and when the guests departed they carried with them pleasant memories of the occasion, and wished their host many happy returns of it.

A New Industry.

John Herman, the well-known stair-builder, has purchased the old Coddington mill, on Somerset street, of the Plainfield Ice and Cold Storage Company. It is his intention to convert the old mill into a sash and stair-building factory, and he will also have a kindling wood department. The old dam, which was washed away by the freshet of several years ago, will be rebuilt and a new raceway made. The power will be secured from a turbine wheel.

A Real Catarrh Cure.

The 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm which can be had of the druggist is sufficient to demonstrate its great merit. Send 10 cents, we mail it. Full size 50c. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

A Plainfield Artist.

In the annual exhibition of the American Water Color Society that opened Monday morning in the Academy of Design, New York, prominent place has been given a picture of George Wharton Edwards', of Franklin place. The picture is of broad and vigorous design, done from a Flemish model.

LIE GIVEN IN CHURCH.

A STORMY TIME WITNESSED IN MT. OLIVE CHURCH MONDAY NIGHT.

Spencer Conway's Caustic Criticism of Church Officers Caused a Deacon's Wife to Yell "You Lie!"—Almost Blows.

The monthly business meeting of the members of Mt. Olive colored Baptist church was held in the church Monday evening.

The business of the evening was of such an exciting nature that some of the officers nearly came to blows. Daniel Brown, a local preacher connected with the church, was elected moderator, and the principal business of the evening, which was the resignation of the present pastor, Rev. James Creamer, was taken up. Mr. Creamer was not present but his resignation was in the hands of one of the members, by whom it was read.

The resignation was no sooner read than half a dozen members sprang to their feet and started to speak. The moderator rapped for order and recognized Brother Spencer Conway. Mr. Conway spoke to the effect that it was not at all necessary to accept the resignation of Mr. Creamer, as he had been irregularly called to the pastorate, and was not legally the church's minister.

His remarks became more and more sarcastic as he spoke of the high-handed and illegal methods employed by the present officers of the church. He had been connected with Mt. Olive church as an officer for over twenty years, the speaker said, but he had never seen the church's business conducted in such a loose and irregular manner as at present.

"That's a lie," suddenly screamed the wife of Deacon Shelton, and the greatest disorder reigned for a time.

One of the officers from Mr. Conway had criticised arose and invited that gentleman to "just step outside once" and have it out with him on the church lawn.

This Mr. Conway refused to do, saying that he considered it beneath the dignity of a man who has served as a church officer for twenty years to settle a dispute in the manner.

Before the meeting adjourned the resignation of Mr. Creamer was accepted. He declined to accept any pay for the work already performed.

Three members arose and asked for letters of dismissal from the congregation, and the meeting broke up in disorder.

The indignant trustee who had challenged Spencer Conway to "come outside," followed him several blocks after leaving the church, and offered him all imaginable inducements if he would "put up his dukes."

Conway refused, however, stating that he "wouldn't fight, nohow," and the belligerent party was finally taken away by his friends.

W. J. ROOME'S MOTHER DEAD.

She Resided in New York, But Was Quite Well Known in Plainfield.

Monday evening at 8 p. m. occurred the death of Mrs Adelaide M. Roome, widow of the late Wm. H. Roome, at her home, corner of Fifty-seventh street and Park avenue, New York. Death was very sudden and was due to apoplexy. Mrs. Roome was the mother of Wm. Journeay Roome, of Washington Park, and Mrs. Harbaugh, formerly of the borough, but now of New York, and they are the only two children left. The deceased was quite well known among a large circle of acquaintances in this city, and the news of her death will be a severe shock to them.

Game Arrived Before Hunter.

J. A. Smith, the grocer, returned from the south last Saturday. While on his way home he had an amusing experience. He came to Baltimore from the south by boat, and when he arrived at the B. and O. Railroad station he stopped to have his shoes polished after placing his game, fourteen ducks, on the train. He was sure he had sufficient time, but he misjudged and he soon awoke to a realization that the train had disappeared and taken his game. He was obliged to telegraph ahead and have the ducks put off at Plainfield. Hence the game arrived ahead of the hunter. When Mr. Smith reached Plainfield he found his ducks safe and sound.

STATE OF OHIO, City of Toledo, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

(SEAL) A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Y. M. C. A. TIE THAT BINDS

WONDERFUL WORK OF THE ASSOCIATION AMONG YOUNG MEN.

W. D. Murray's Interesting Address Last Sunday—He says 185 Young Men Entered Three Local Saloons in One Hour.

W. D. Murray, president of the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, spoke last Sunday at the First Presbyterian church on Y. M. C. A. work. He said in part as follows:

"The high-water mark of Y. M. C. A. work was reached last July when twenty-seven men from thirteen countries, representing ten National college Y. M. C. A. movements, met at Williamstown, Mass. They closed their conference by a meeting at the Haystack monument. Each repeated in his own language the words of S. J. Mills: 'We can do it if we will.' Each prayed in his own language and and they parted singing 'Blest Be the Tie That Binds.'

"There are 1,500 Y. M. C. A.'s in America, with $2,500,000 members, owning $19,000,000 worth of property, and spending $2,500,000 for current expenses last year. They held 66,000 meetings for men only in 1895, with an attendance of 3,000,000.

"But the great question is not Y. M. C. A.'s, but young men. The avaricious, dishonest, careless, unbelieving, impure, weak bodied, lonesome, uneducated and lazy. We must reach them; what agency shall we use? The church, that Jesus loved so much that he gave himself for it? But the men don't go to church. I counted 185 on the streets here in half an hour between 11 and 11:30 today. This morning in three of our largest churches there were 247 men, 160 of whom were over thirty, Saturday night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, 165 men, mostly young, entered three of the saloons in this city. There are certain limitations to the church. It can do little to help the ignorant, the lonesome, the weak bodied, the impure, the untrained. The Association is composed of delegates from the church engaging in this special work. It is always open; it has its gymnasium and evening classes. It can deal with the impure."

BY TROLLEY TO PHILADELPHIA.

New Jersey Electric Railway Companies Effect a Combination.

It is announced that the consolidation of all the trolley roads of New Jersey under the name of the Union Traction Company will take place shortly. Various sums ranging between $50,000 000 and $100,000,000 have been mentioned as the capitalization of the combination. The last step taken was the cessation of hostilities between the New York and Philadelphia and Brunswick Traction Companies last week. These two companies have been at loggerheads for some time over securing a right of way through the town of Bound Brook. Another gap in through lines recently filled was at Millburn, through which the North Jersey Company has at last secured a right of way. Franchises are now held by various companies for through lines between New York, Greenwood Lake, Easton and Philadelphia.

HORSE THIEF GETS TWO YEARS.

Sentence Imposed in County Court Saturday by Judge McCormick.

In Union County Court Saturday morning a large number of prisoners were arraigned on various charges and sentence imposed on them by Judge McCormick.

John Murray, a self-confessed horse thief, who stole A. D. Dixon's rig at Westfield, was sentenced to State prison for two years.

Eva Jackson, a young colored woman, who assaulted another colored girl in Plainfield, striking her with an axe, was sentenced to the county jail for six months, less one day.

Stanley Holden, the eleven year-old boy, of Plainfield, who is in jail on application of his parents for an order to send him to the Reform School, was examined by Judge McCormick and remanded again, the court directing that the mother be subpoenaed to give testimony next week.

An Athletic Honor.

New Jersey and incidentally Plainfield was highly honored at the meeting of the National Interscholastic Athletic Association, at New York, Saturday evening. George Proctor Smith, of the New Jersey Military Academy, of this city, and president of the New Jersey I. A. A., was chosen chairman of the board of delegates that will represent the National Interscholastic A. A. in the A. A. U., in governing amateur sport in the United States. Smith is a member of the executive committee of the National Association and was therefore present at the meeting Saturday. He was put on a committee to revise and rearrange the constitution of the association.

No Arc Lights in Sight.

The merchants about the city who signed two petitions asking the Council to furnish arc lights are beginning to wonder whether the Council intends taking any action in the matter. They are still very anxious to have the lights.

A

What does A stand for? When some friend suggests that your blood needs A sarsaparilla treatment, remember that A stands for AYER'S. The first letter in the alphabet stands for the first of sarsaparillas; first in origin, first in record, first in the favor of the family. For nearly half a century has been curing all forms of blood diseases—scrofula, eczema, tetter, rheumatism, erysipelas, blood poisoning, etc. There's a book about these cures—"Ayer's Curebook, a story of cures told by the cured," —which is sent free on request, by Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass. The book will interest you if you are sick or weak, because it tells not what it is claimed the remedy will do, but what your neighbors and fellows testify that it has done. Will it cure you? We say not you? We say not you? We say not

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

SIPPED BEER TO GET MAD

"PAWNEE BILL'S" HOSPITALITY WAS NOT APPRECIATED BY STRANGERS.

Ned Buffum, the Man of the Wild West Schemer, Pummelled by Two Young Men Who Had Been Invited.

"Pawnee Bill" is the sobriquet by which Paul Bekker, a little old peddler living on Liberty street, is known. He has two brothers who sometimes make him a visit. He also has a pony that nightly drags his cart about the county. Sunday night "Pawnee Bill" celebrated. What event the celebration was in honor of, it is impossible to state. The jovial good fellowship that was supposed to reign was lacking. A fight brought the party to a close and two of the participants landed in jail.

"Pawnee Bill" lives in one of Finton Stebbins' houses on Liberty street, next door to Hillsbie' own residence. That was where the trouble occurred. He moved over to the home of Chas. Terry, the tailor, on Plainfield avenue and there met several men. They were invited to take part in the general jollification. It was promised that beer should flow like water.

The party went to "Bill's" house and the fun began. Although it was Sunday night the occupants of the house sang and shouted as they pat took more and more freely of the "Jersey lightning" that was provided. The beer grew louder and the neighbors soon heard snatches.

At 5 o'clock in the morning, the timely of several hours ago were at an end. Blows were struck and then "Pawnee Bill" and two of the party renewed their quarrel in the back yard. The noise had attracted the attention of the police. Patrolmen Sellers and Saunders were in the neighborhood. When the combatants were shouting all sorts of epithets at each other in the yard, the policemen arrived on the scene. It is alleged that when they arrived, the two visitors had "Pawnee Bill" on the ground and were belaboring him in an energetic fashion to the great detriment of his face.

The visitors were arrested and locked up. They remained in the station house over night. Monday they were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in the city court. The officers gave their names as Frederick Coddington and Edward Jacobs, both of the borough. They were both twenty-two years old.

Their story was that they went to Terry's Sunday evening and were subsequently invited to the home of one of his friends. They admitted that they both drank more than they should have. Jacobs told how Coddington had lost his temper and wanted to fight his friend. They both pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. They were fined $5 each.

Verdict in Favor of Mrs. Corey.

The case of Corey against Frazee, to determine the right of property, was tried for the second time by a jury of six men in Justice Mosher's court, Monday afternoon, and a verdict was found for the plaintiff, Mrs. Corey. The action was brought by Mrs. Corey to secure the proceeds of the sale of their household furniture by the constable. The details were fully detailed in The Daily Press of last Tuesday. The attorneys were H. C. Hayes and Wm. Newcorn for the defendant, and S. S. Swackhamer and Wm. G. DeMeza for the plaintiff. The jury consisted of Isaac N. Wyckoff, E. G. Dunn, John F. Lloyd, Andrew K. Mattis, George W. Morefort and John Schoch.

Trolley up the Mountain.

There are assurances, it is said, that the trolley road will surely be built to Mt. Park Inn next summer.

For Colds

and coughs and all lung troubles

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is the standard remedy. It is now put up in half-size bottles.

HALF SIZE—HALF PRICE.

NEW CATHOLIC MISSION.

HOUSE OF WORSHIP TO BE ESTABLISHED ON BERCKMAN STREET.

The Distance of St. Mary's Church Acts Often as a Deterrent for Attendance of the Catholics Living in the East End.

Since the growth of the city has extended towards Netherwood with such rapid strides, those in charge of St. Mary's R. C. church have recognized the need of owning a house of worship in the eastern end of the city where the members of their denomination could go for worship, the distance of St. Mary's church from that section being a deterrent of times for members to attend service. There now seems every probability that St. Mary's society will build a small church and establish a mission in the other end of the town. The subject was referred to by Rev. F. H. Symth Sunday, in his morning remarks.

It is planned to utilize a portion of the land acquired for cemetery purposes on Berckman street some years ago from the Central railroad to locate the structure on. The Central made a donation of property to the church society, and at the time the understanding was that in the course of time a church or mission should be established. It is now considered that there are a sufficient number of Catholics in the eastern end of the city to warrant the location of a mission there.

William Collins, who once lived in Scotch Plains and was an attendant at St. Mary's church, bequeathed $1,000 to the society at the time of his death, and it is intended to use this sum as a nucleus for the fund to be raised to erect the building. It is thought that the remainder of the money necessary for the construction of the edifice can be easily raised.

Another important point concerning the spiritual welfare of the church, referred to by Father Smyth Sunday morning in his sermon, was the demoralizing influence which the Saturday night dances, now in popular vogue in town, wield upon the young people. Father Smyth referred in a vigorous manner to the bad effect that the dances had with the young and deplored their existence.

At the morning service, Rev. Father Smyth presented the annual financial statement of the church for the past year. The statement showed the receipts to be $9,800, and the expenditures about the same. During the year there were 99 baptisms, 23 marriages and 9 deaths. Of the latter there were 12 children, 14 of which were females.

THE LINCOLN DINNER.

Arrangements for the Next Lincoln Celebration Yet Held.

The Lincoln Association of Union county have made preparations to celebrate Lincoln's Birthday in a way to surpass any of their previous celebrations.

A dinner is to be given, as usual, on the night of February 12th, and in view of the very large attendance anticipated, the Star Theatre has been engaged for the occasion.

The speakers who have thus far consented to deliver addresses are Hon. Mahlon Pitney, member of Congress from the Fourth New Jersey District; Hon. William Maddox, former assistant secretary of the Navy, and Hon. Foster M. Voorhees, Acting Governor of New Jersey. Others have been invited.

The Lincoln Association will hold a business meeting at 6 o'clock, and the banquet will be served at 6:30 sharp. This is essential, as the night is Saturday, and it will be necessary to get through with the whole programme by midnight.

TRINITY'S DEDICATORY SERVICES.

An Effort Being Made to Get Rev. A. V. V. Raymond to Preach the Sermon.

At a meeting of the consistory of Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning it was decided to hold the dedicatory services for the remodeled edifice Sunday, February 20th, unless something unforseen happens. The officials of the church are in correspondence with Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., president of Union College, and formerly pastor of the church, with a view of securing him to deliver the dedicatory sermon. It is being planned to hold several other interesting meetings on different days in connection with the reopening of the church, which will be addressed by talented and prominent clergymen whose acceptances for the occasion have not yet been received.

Twelfth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Boehm celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary in their pretty home on Somerset street Sunday and last evening. Among the friends who were present from New York to offer their congratulations were Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Levy, Harold and Mrs. Otto Levy, Miss Alice Goldsmith, Miss Emma Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Baumgarten, Jacob Levy and Louis Levy.

Died at the Age of Seventy-six.

The death of Mrs. Dantz, of New Market, occurred Sunday morning. She was seventy-six years of age.

CYCLE CLUB BANKRUPT

CRESCENT WHEELMEN WILL HAVE THEIR MORTGAGES FORECLOSED.

At One Time One of the Strongest and Most Popular Racing Organizations in the East—Now Afflicted with Hard Luck.

At one time one of the most flourishing bicycle clubs in the eastern states, the Crescent Wheelmen now stand on the brink of ruin. The end appears to be at hand and nothing is in sight to save the club from bankruptcy and dissolution. With a chattel mortgage on all the club property about to be foreclosed and suspension at the hands of the Racing Board of the League of American Wheelmen, the climax of all the troubles of the club seems to have arrived.

The history of the famous Crescent League and its outgrowth into the Crescent Wheelmen in the winter of '93-94, is well known to most Plainfielders. The Crescent Wheelmen started in with their clubhouse located on East Second street, in the building now known as the Strich clubhouse. June 3d the Crescent Oval was opened with a grand race meet, in which many of the leading riders of the country took part. It was the opening of the national circuit. The Oval was then the fastest and best-equipped track in the metropolitan district, and here the great riders congregated to train and put in their practice work. The Crescent Wheelmen had some of the best amateur riders of the east on their racing team. The club was well known in wheeling circles and became a popular place.

It took considerable money to fit up the Oval and the clubhouse, but some of the public spirited of the members advanced the necessary money and took mortgages on the property of the club. The club went into debt, but a reorganization under the lead of A. M. Franklin, formerly of Brooklyn and now en route to the Klondyke on a tandem, infused new life in the club and everything went along all right for a time. The debt was largely paid up and the prospects for the future were very bright.

Interest began to decline and the poor support that the towns folk gave to the race-meets rather discouraged the leaders. Members began to fall behind in their dues and no one felt sufficient interest to boom the club. Reorganization was talked of, but nothing was accomplished.

The club held meetings moved to its present quarters on West Second street near Park avenue. The revenues of the club from dues and so forth declined largely and it was with difficulty that the rent could be paid. It was understood among the members that the end must come in a short time, but they allowed things to take their course.

The fabled last straw had been added. Councilman James F. Bucks holds the chattel mortgages on all the effects of the club at the clubhouse and at the Oval. The mortgage has been foreclosed through W. B. Codington and the property is to be sold tomorrow afternoon at the clubhouse. Everything is to go, grand stand, fence and all. The Crescent Oval will be left as it was before the wheelmen saw it unless somebody buys it to open it as a race track.

The last bulletin of the racing board, issued by Chairman Mott, announces that the Crescent Wheelmen are suspended from sanction privileges pending the settlement of claims. The claims are certain indebtedness of the club, incurred at one of the race meets and which has not been settled despite the attempts of the creditors to secure it. Complaint was then made to the racing board.

There are still members of the club who are trying to stave off the trouble and put the Crescent Wheelmen back into the position in the community where they belong. They believe that it is possible to run the club in such a manner that it shall be free from debt and still accomplish much. A joint meeting of the board of directors and the members was held in the clubhouse Wednesday evening to take some action looking toward the reorganization of the club on a firmer basis.

AN AGED FRIEND DEAD.

Mrs. Anne C. Williamson Passes Away in Her Ninety-fifth Year.

Mrs. Anne C. Williamson, relict of the late John Williamson, died Tuesday morning in her 95th year, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Mary A. Marsh, of 69 Sandford avenue. Mrs. Williamson was a member of the Friends' Society, and was well known among a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Death was due to old age, although the deceased had been quite well up to within a short time of her death.

Warren Rice a Newspaper Publisher.

Warren E. Rice, formerly a resident of this city, where he conducted a job printing establishment, is now the owner of a plant in Saginaw, Mich. Mr. Rice was recently elected secretary and business manager of "The Storekeeper," a weekly journal devoted to the interests of trade and manufacture. It is a very creditable journal, and Mr. Rice's many friends in this city will be pleased to learn of his success in the western city.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ECKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately subsisting between Joseph A. Blatz and Silas C. Mundy, of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of Blatz & Mundy, was dissolved on the First day of February, 1898, by mutual consent.

Dated February 1st, 1898.

JOSEPH A. BLATZ.
SILAS C. MUNDY.

2 9 4

DIED.

VAN DUYN—In this city, Tuesday, Jan. 25th, 1898, Stephen V. VanDuyn, aged 74 years.

DYETT—In Netherwood, Friday, Jan. 28, 1898 Anthony R. Dyett, in his 74th year.

FLYNN—Mrs. Mary Flynn, died Jan. 26, 1898, in the 80th year of her age.

MOONEY—At Scotch Plains, Jan. 29, 1898, Mrs. Edna Mooney, in her 31st year.

WILLIAMSON—In this city, Tuesday, Feb. 1, 1898, Abigail, relict of the late John Williamson, in her 90th year.

GAME COCKS FOUGHT; LAW'S MEN WINKED AT IT.

SHADY ACTS OF TWO CONSTABLES.

A Cockfight Main Attended by Two Officers Who Seemed Oblivious to the Violation of the Law.

Westfield was the scene of an exciting cock fight last Saturday night. The affair was planned upon a large scale by sports from this city, New Brunswick, Westfield and Scotch Plains.

The details were arranged with great secrecy, as the ringleaders were fearful lest the authorities might get wind of the matter and put a sudden end to their fun.

As originally planned, fifty birds were to be placed in the pit, but when the sports had gathered one by one in an old barn on the outskirts of the town, and they began cautiously to count noses, it was found that the New Brunswick contingent had failed to appear.

Those who had come were not to be cheated of their fun, however, and the Westfield and Plainfield sports placed their birds in the pit and fought them to a finish. There were six birds on each side and the result was a draw, each side winning three rounds. Several times the alarm was given by the watchers and the company scattered, carrying the birds with them, only to return and renew the fun when it was found that the alarm was a false one.

It is said that there are two constables implicated in the affair, besides well-known men from each of the towns represented.

All those implicated maintained a close secrecy about the affair until yesterday, when the temptation to tell became too great and it was whispered about and soon became known among the friends of the parties concerned.

POET'S DREAM OF FAIR WOMEN.

The Principal Feature of an Entertainment to be Given by Trinity Women.

The following is the programme for the musical and literary entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, this evening, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall:

PART FIRST.

Male Quartette.....Selected
Rendering—"Wee Willie Winkie."
Rudyard Kipling
Miss Mary A. Luckey.
Vocal Solo.....Selected
F. B. Cutter.
Rendering—{a. "The Kitchen Clock."
b. "Prior to Della's Appearance"
James W. Riley
Miss Mary A. Luckey.
Quartette.....Selected
Rendering—"Von Weber's Waltz" Nora Perry
Miss Mary A. Luckey.
Violin Solo.....Selected
Prof. P. Ludwig Conde.
Miss L. A. Force, accompanist.

PART SECOND.

HALF HOUR WITH DICKENS.
Representation of the early life of David Copperfield.

Characters—David Copperfield, Mr. Barkis, Mr. Grummidge, Mrs. Copperfield, Peggotty, Aunt Betsey Trotwood, Mrs. Grummidge, Emily.

Tennyson's Dream of Fair Woman.
Mrs. Edmund V. Waldorf, reader.
Prof. P. Ludwig Conde, accompanist.

Helen of Troy.....Miss Chandler
Iphegenia.....Miss Luckey
Queen Eleanor.....Miss Emmons
Fair Rosamond.....Miss Quick
Cleopatra.....Miss Simpson
Mark Antony.....Mr. Marshall
Jepthe's Daughter.....Miss DuBois
Marianat More.....Miss Gillem
Joan of Arc.....Miss Krymer
Queen Eleanor.....Miss Emmons
King Edward.....Mr. VanEmburgh
Sister Dora.....Miss Arnold

Grand Tableau.
Calcium light by J. Harvey Doane.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

My many years in the Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material and Fair Prices will be the standing rule for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms send upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

2 and 8 WEST 18TH STREET, NEW YORK.

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets,

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues.

First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles. Has removed from 124 W Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madisen avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 180, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American,

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

TEXAS' CATTLE KING.

"SHANGHI" PIERCE, WHO STARTED OUT AS A COWBOY.

He Was a Rhode Island Lad and Is Known Throughout the Entire West as One of the Most Remarkable Men of the Lone Star State.

"Way back before the war there went to Texas from the wee State of Rhode Island a tall, raw-boned youth, who wanted to make his fortune. He was not yet of age, and his stature was so unusual that it was not many days before he became known by the sobriquet of "Shanghai." The youth was earnest, painstaking and willing to work. He had nothing in the world but good health, a fair amount of strength, a common education and the clothes that he wore. To-day that tall raw-boned youth from little Rhody is perhaps the richest man in Texas, and the best-kpown stockman in the world. The sobriquet of the early days has stuck to him, and, although he signs his name, "A. H. Pierce," no body in Texas ever refers to him except as "Shanghi" Pierce. Sixty-three winters have come and gone since "Shanghi" first saw the light of day but he is as hearty and vigorous now and as earnest in pursuing his work as if he were under the twoscore mark.

There is not a town or any account in Texas in which "Shanghi" Pierce is not known. The same may be said of the Indian Territory and Oklahoma while as for Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago, the stockmen of those cities are as well acquainted with him as is he had been born and raised among them. He is a mighty traveler, and by reason of his unusual size, he is marked among men. A man who has never seen him, but has heard him described, will unconsciously recognize him.

Some great stories are told about this unique man. Most of them are fanciful or have but a grain of truth but the plain, unvarnished facts about "Shanghi's" career, if once gathered would serve for tales of adventure sufficient to keep a writer busy for many a day. But "Shanghi" is chary about telling the story himself, and few of those who know him well are fully cognizant of the happenings in the days before he became recognized as one of the cattle kings and one of the big men of the state.

His friends say that when he came to Texas he went to work on a farm but left in disgust when he discovered that a negro was worth more than a white man. It seems that the farmer by whom he was employed owned several slaves. On the plantation was a horse that only a negro named Pete and young Pierce could ride. The animal was unusually fractious one day and threw Pete, and then fell upon him. This happened near the planter's house, and his wife and daughter and a lot of attendants ran to the assistance of Pete. The negro appeared to be dead. The planter's wife, as soon as she saw the slave's body, exclaimed: "Oh, goodness, how unfortunate! Teere's an $800 nigger killed. Now if it had been 'Shanghi,' I wouldn't be so bad."

"Shanghi" tells this story himself so it is probably true.

The young Rhode Islander was a natural horseman, and his knowledge of cattle was good. When he, in disgust, left the planter he naturally drifted into the cattle business. In those days—this was in 1854—there was little else than cattle raised in Texas "Shanghi" became a cowboy, and for several years he endured all the trials and hardships of that wild life. Occasionally nowadays he tells of the times when he slept out on the black prairie in midwinter when it was so cold that rattlesnakes crept into his blankets to-get warm.

It did not take the cattlemen long to discover that the lanky fellow who rode so well was not only a remarkably good judge of cattle, but had considerable latent ability." There was a cattle merchant named W. B. Grimes who got to know "Shanghi," and he employed the young man to trave, through Louisiana and Western Texas and buy beeves for him. The cattle bought by "Shanghi" were shipped by Grimes to New Orleans, and the merchant is said to have made big profits owing to the shrewdness displayed by the young Yankee. When the war came on the reputation of "Shanghi" as a cowman was so well established that a contract was made with him to supply a Texas command with beef. It is said he was always on hand with a good supply of beeves, and that he and his herd made up the rear guard in all advances and led the vanguard on retreats.

Immediately after the close of the war "Shanghi" formed a connection with the great firm of Allen & Poole. He traveled in Texas for three years as the representative of the firm, buying droves of cattle and sending them to Galveston, where they were shipped to New Orleans. In 1869 this firm discontinued the business. "Shanghi" had saved and drew out $10,000 cash as his share of the profits. He loitered around for a year buying cattle and then, always making money, in 1871 he got a notion that a fruit he wanted him in Kansas. He moved there and embarked in business on a large scale. Three years ago—he was in the Sunflower State convinced that he was in the wrong pew, and he was only by exercising admirable business judgment that he managed to save himself from heavy loss.

"Shanghi" returned to Texas and has made his home here ever since.

Despite feuds and perils of the range, despite "guns" and hired assassins, despite "guns" and hired assassins, he attended strictly to business, and soon he loomed up as the biggest cattleman in the state. He attended to all his affairs himself, was continually on the go, visited every section in which he had cattle, took his steers to market at the right time and supervised every detail of his scattered business with a watchfulness and care that was surprising to his competitors. Somehow it seemed that "Shanghi" always did get things just right whether it was in the line of his business or the selection of land for grazing. His cattle were always as good as the best that went to market from Texas.

With his continued success "Shanghi" began to have more money than he could conveniently handle in his ordinary business. He loaned out the surplus at a good percentage, and has continued doing so up to the present time.

Mr. Pierce is big and bluff and hearty. The frugal, temperate habits he learned in the early days in little Rhody he still retains. He lives very plainly, but well. There is no ostentation about him. He drinks occasionally but sparingly. He never uses tobacco, and doesn't want anybody about him who does. He is a curious admixture of the Yankee and the Texan. Some people do not like him. If he likes any one particularly well, if he takes a fancy to a person that person has his utmost confidence. Here is an example: Some years ago "Shanghi" did his banking business in Galveston at the Island City Bank. In that bank was a young man named Ed. McCarthy. This young man attended to Pierce's affairs. He was polite, quick, accurate and sharp. In many instances he went out of his way to accommodate "Shanghi." Mr. Pierce at the time above had no evidence of this devotion. To-day that young man is a member of the big banking house of Weekes, McCarthy & Co., of this city. He runs the banking end of the establishment exclusively. "Shanghi" is the "company."

THE JUVENILE WAR WIDOW.

A Sect That is Liable to Perpetuate the Pension Department.

Commissioner of Pensions Evans has directed attention to the custom of granting pensions to young widows whose husbands were army veterans. While the nation is grateful to its defenders, and will not forget its obligations to them, the nature of its debt to girl infants born long after the war is not so clear. Mr. Evans says that while less than a dozen soldiers of the war of 1812 survive to draw pensions, the names of 2,800 widows on that period are still on the rolls. Of course, most of these are women born a generation after the second conflict with England, who married old soldiers. They still number a fair-sized army brigade, though hardly enough of the brave men of 1812 survive to make a picket post. This is doing some thing for posterity with a vengeance. There are female babes now in arms who, if this form of pensions is to be continued, will drawing the government allowance through the next century and even beyond. Thousands of veterans of the civil war will be alive in 1925. Those of their number who are destined to marry girls of 20 can now reflect on the fact that their future wives will not be born until the year 1905.

It is no surprise to hear that the old soldiers themselves, or at least that vast majority who have no romantic interest in the girl babies of the twentieth century, are protesting against this unreasonable drain upon the pension appropriations. Commissioner Evans says he is receiving many letters from veterans who favor a proposition to deny pensions to widows of veterans married after a certain date, and less this measure is adopted, tens of thousands of young women will be drawing pensions forty or fifty years from now.

A PATENT COW FOR HUNTERS.

A Man Can Stand Inside the Frame and Shoot at Will.

As deceptive and dangerous as the proverbial wolf in sheep's clothing is a patent cow just invented by a Western genius. The device presents the perfect outward semblance of a most peaceable and amiable cow, but the form fairly and the hind legs are to fit the legs of two men, who are armed with guns, and have a plentiful supply of ammunition.

The device has a flexible outer shell of canvas or other suitable material, decorated exteriorily to represent the natural hide of which it is made. The decoy is constructed, and said shell is adapted to be supported or held in its distended position through the medium of a collapsible metal framework, which allows the covering and framework of the decoy to be folded into a small space for transportation. In the sides of the frame, at suitable points, are windows or openings, protected by outward-swinging flap blinds, and through these windows the sportsman in the rear may discharge his fowling piece when the game has been successfully stalked. For the firing of the hunter in the front of the decoy there is provided a downward-swinging portion, which includes the head and neck of the animal, so that by simply releasing a small catch from the inside of the framework this swinging front portion drops by gravity, and thus leaves the sportsman free.—Chicago News.

So Dreadfully Common.

"No, we don't permit our names to go in the directory, you know."

"And why not?"

"So decsed common, don't you know. Why, last year my name was sandwiched in between a garbage collector and a city councilman! It's awful common honsh."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AN OUT-OF-DATE COUPLE.

We are so out of date, they say—
Ned and I
We love in an old-fashioned way
Long since gone by.
He says I am his helpmate true,
In everything;
And I—well, I will own to you
He is my king.

We met in a romatic way
'Twixt glow and gloom;
He wrote me on a winter's day,
And in a room.
Yet through life's hours of storm and stress
No ill has befall.
Love kept our small home-corner warm,
And all was well.

Ned thinks no woman like his wife,
But he's prejudiced;
Perhaps we view the old life
Through roseate glass.
E'en if the years have not been bright,
We've had true trust
The love was burdens may grow light
If we share and shared by two.

Upon the gilded scroll of fame,
Emblazoned fair,
I cannot hope to read the name
I proudly bear;
But happy to their even flow
The lives run by,
We are behind the times, we know—
Ned and I.

BRAVE LITTLE KYUSE

When there were no railroads west of Missouri or east of California they used to carry the mail and light freight on horseback between St. Joe and Sacramento. This service was known as the pony express. Horses swift and strong and riders brave and enduring were employed and relay stations were set, fifty miles apart, across the Great American desert.

Of course the West was wild at that time, many riders were murdered, and the letters and other valuable articles taken and destroyed. Indians would steal upon those little stations, kill the keepers and carry the horses away with them. Sometimes a weary rider arrived there was no one to take his place, and after gazing on the black ruins for a moment he would push his tired horse on toward the next station.

At first it was hard to find men who were willing to face these dreadful Indians for the pay offered by the company, and equally difficult to get men to dwell alone in these solitary stations to protect and care for the horses.

Away out in Wyoming there lived a trapper, known only by the name of Whipsaw—a name given to him by a gambler in Deadwood.

A Sioux, who had a hideous scar upon his face, had come to this trapper's camp one winter's day with a Pawnee baby, naked and nearly frozen. The Sioux wanted to sell the boy and the trapper gave him a knife and kept the child. The young Pawnee was not more than 3 years old when the trapper took him from the savage, warmed him fed him, and put moccasins on his little brown feet.

Two years later Whipsaw went to keep the station called White Horse for the pony express, taking the Pawnee with him. The little fellow grew to love his white father, and seemed to conceive a bitter hatred for all Indians. One day some friendly hunters called at the station. The little redskin slipped down the rope ladder and let their horses go. At another time he attempted to shoot an Indian who had stopped at the door, but couldn't raise the rifle. Like all Indians he was ever alert. The scratch of a prowling bear on the cabin door or the cry of a lone wolf on a far-off hill would bring him from a sound sleep. He would hear the hoofs of the incoming horses beating the plains a mile away, and long before his white master could hear the faintest sound.

"Kyuse, Kyuse," he would whisper, in the dead of night. He was an alarm clock for the station, and at his warning the rider who was resting there would get up, throw a saddle across the back of his broncho, and be ready to snatch the pouch from the man who was then galloping down the trail.

The Pawnee was never too cold or too sleepy to go out and welcome the weary rider, and pat the nose of the spent steed, saying softly the while, "Kyuse, Kyuse."

It was the boy's great fondness for horses that caused Whipsaw to call him "Little Jockey."

When they had kept the station a year Little Kyuse was known, by reputation, at least, to every rider on the entire route from St. Joe to Sacramento. Once he had warned the men who were sleeping in the cabin, and they had gone out just in time to save the horses that were about to be stolen by Indians. The story of the boy's doings reached headquarters, and the President of the Pony Express Company sent a short, light rifle to the young watchman, and before he was many days old he had killed a wolf that came to the station while he was alone.

One night Whipsaw woke and found the boy sitting up in his blankets listening.

"Kyuse?" asked Whipsaw.

"No Kyuse," said the boy, shaking his head and looking serious.

"Sleep," said the man, but the Indian shook his head.

"Wake up here, Bob," said Whipsaw, "suthin's goin' wrong."

"What is it?" asked the rider, rubbing his eyes.

"I can't make out clear," said Whipsaw, "but suthin's wrong. This kid's cockin' his ear, an' when I tell him to lay down he shakes his head.

Whipsaw lit a match and looked at his watch.

"Long time," said the boy shaking his head. "Long time—no kyuse."

Then they knew what the child meant. It was 1 o'clock; the pony express was an hour late, and the boy knew that it was no.

For another hour the two men sat and waited for a sign from the boy who listened for the sound of the horse's feet. Presently the Pawnee crawled out, put his ear to the ground, came back and shook his master.

"Kyuse?" asked Whipsaw.

"Heap Kyuse," was the boy's reply, and they understood. It was not the lone rider, but a band of Sioux bent upon mischief.

Little Kyuse seized his rifle, slipped out, and the two men followed him. To guard against surprises of this sort Whipsaw had dug short trenches, deep enough to hide a man, all about the cabin, and now, to his surprise, little Kyuse planted himself in one of these holes. Without a word the two men took places, one to the right, the other to the left of the boy, and waited. When the robbers had reached a little less than a hundred yards from the station, they dismounted, and now came creeping upon the lonely cabin. One came crouching so close to Whipsaw that he could almost have reached him with his rifle barrel. The trapper was sore afraid that the boy or Bob might shoot too soon, but was careful to know that he was waiting for the band to assemble near the cabin door before attacking them? But little Kyuse was as wise in this his first fight as a white man would be at 21. The Indians were looking and in the starlight they could see the Sioux, six of them, near the cabin door. They listened—one of them pushed open the door. Now an Indian went in, came out a moment later, and they all filed in at the very moment that Whipsaw was about to open fire. Instantly he changed his plan. They would charge on the cabin door and fight the gang which outnumbered them, even counting the boy, two to one. Without a word Whipsaw got to his feet and in stantly his companions we-- at his side.

Bob held his rifle, the trapper laid his upon the ground, and held a six shot revolver in each hand. It was to be close and rapid fighting; he would empty his six-shooters first and after that the knife. Little Kyuse grasped his rifle with fourteen shots in the magazine, and he knew how to work it, too. There was no word of command, but as Whipsaw leaned forward they all started double-quick for the cabin. Ten paces from the door they stopped, the boy still sandwiched between them. The Sioux must have heard them, for now they came pouring out. Before they had gained the open air the little party opened fire. Two of the Indians fell and the others returned the fire, but with bad aim. Another round from the white men and two more Sioux bit the dust, when the cumbering Indians fell in a ball from the cabin door shattered his right shoulder. Dropping his gun he pulled his six-shooter and continued to fight. Having emptied both of his revolvers, Whipsaw slammed one of them into the face of a Sioux, who came at him with a knife. The two men began fighting hand to hand now, while Little Kyuse kept pumping small shot into the other remaining Sioux. Seeing Whipsaw hard pressed, the boy began to watch for a chance to use his little rifle. Bob succeeded at last in stopping his assailant, and, weak from loss of blood. Whipsaw had been shot and badly cut, when his antagonist paused to get the advantage. Instantly Little Kyuse shoved his rifle as near the Sioux's left side as he could get it and pulled the trigger, and the big, bad Indian sank in a heap.

Thus did Little Kyuse reward the white trapper for his tender care and avenge the death of his father and mother, who had been killed by his captor, the Sioux.

In the sag not far away they found the horses that the robbers had ridden, and took their

THE KICKER.

Kicking in the morning,
Kicking all the day;
Finding he's busy,
Kicking at delay.
Runs the chronic kicker
Fills his life with woes,
Prowling, grumbling, wrangling,
Everywhere he goes.

Nothing ever suits him,
Always finding fault;
Every bit of pleasure
He is sure to halt.
Growling at the children,
Growling at his wife;
Turning peace and comfort
Into constant strife.

Kicking of the weather
Happens to be dirty;
Kicking when the rain is
Tumbling from the sky.
Kicking in the summer,
Heat just makes him mad;
Kicking in the winter,
Then he'd have it warm.

Kicking every mealtime,
Gluttony he needs;
Soon he is saying,
"Nothing fit to eat."
Kicking when he's reading,
Grumbling at the light;
Low and then denouncing
Every book he writes.

Kicking in the morning,
Kicking all the day;
Kicking in the evening,
Kicking when he's prey.
Kicking while he's thinking,
Kicking when in bed;
Wonder if he'll keep on Kicking when he's dead.

—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

JACK'S OBTUSENESS.

Theodora was quite sure she had settled the question at last. For a week and the waking hours had been filled with an all-important subject, or, more properly speaking, two subjects, for the problem was to decide between two men, who had seen fit to look upon her as a fitting custodian for their love and devotion.

To accompany George Hunt, she felt herself fortified by a rampart of appearing relatives and a decorous sense of propriety. As for Jack: well, she had always liked Jack. Everybody liked him. He was a genial, good fellow, and always in demand at all social functions. He was poor as all young lawyers generally are, and while people predicted a future for him, Theodora thought of the present, and decided to let Jack work out his career alone.

The clang at the door bell was the signal for the last hurried peep in the glass. Theodora felt a moment's pity for Jack as she caught the reflection. They were going to Mrs. Hathaway's alone, and the mirror gave back to Theodora's vision all the loveliness of her form, enchanced by the pretty hare and cockade crowned by the fair young face.

It occurred to her several times during the evening that Jack was not acting especially worried. Although tonight was the time she had set as the ultimate limit of her considerations, he had not importuned by look or word that he remembered this.

Theodora resolved to be severe, and it was with this resolution in mind that she suggested sitting out one of the dances which showed a scrawly "J" opposite on her programme.

"Certainly, if you will," assented Jack, arranging his cushions behind his head. "In fact, I begin to think I'm a trifle tired myself. Quite a crush here to-night."

"Yes," said Theodora.

"I should think," continued Jack, gazing out into the ball room, "that Hunt would retire from society, or from dancing, at least. Just look at him now, whirling around like a top that hasn't been wound up tight enough. He's beginning to wabble."

No response from Theodora.

"He gets terribly red in the face, too, and the way he mops his forehead is a sign of age. He's really quite bald, isn't he? I only hope I'll remember it when I get old."

"Old!" exclaimed Theodora; "Mr. Hunt is a comparatively young man."

"Compared to a centenarian, perhaps so."

Theodora did not deign to answer. After a short silence, Jack said, suddenly, arranging his head prop more comfortably, "By the way, I've been considering the question I asked you a week ago, and I've concluded to save you the trouble of calculating matters, too. It's no use, Theodora, I can't support a wife. I have figured it in every way, and I can't make both ends meet."

Theodora's face hardened. "I might have saved you the trouble of calculating by giving you my answer a week ago," she said.

"Then you weren't going to accept me anyway?" exclaimed Jack. "By Jove, I was almost afraid you would."

"Indeed!"

"Oh, now, see here, Theodora," exclaimed Jack, for the first time turning toward her. "Don't be down on me. I supposed you'd look at this thing sensibly. Neither of us believe in long engagements, and so it is better to break off entirely than to worry along for six or eight years until all the poetry has disappeared from life.

"You presuppose the case. I never denied have suggested waiting."

Theodora rose and smoothed the folds from her draperies.

"Since I'm going to marry another man I don't see the use of any further conversation on the subject."

"Marry another man!" exclaimed Jack, starting forward; "I never thought of that, Theodora."

The consternation in his voice was a satisfaction to her.

"I presume not," she said, coldly; "foolishness is not one of your virtues."

He did not answer her, and she moved toward the door.

"But, Theodora, you know that I love you. It is for your sake—"

"No, I do not know nor can you make me believe it. However, that is of no consequence."

"But it is of consequence, Theodora. May I ask who it is you are going to marry?"

"It is Mr. Hunt," she replied haughtily.

One day, about a month after Mrs. Hathaway's soiree, Jack met George Hunt on the street. "By the way, Hunt," Jack exclaimed, "I presume I'm a little behind hand, but I want to congratulate you, wish you joy, and all that sort of thing."

"My dear fellow, to what am I indebted for all this?" shaking, in a desultory manner, the hand which Jack held out.

"To the honor of being the future husband of one of our most charming young ladies'" laughed Jack.

Mr. Hunt blushed unbecomingly. "You are either laboring under a delusion or else this is a very meagre joke, I am engaged to no young lady."

"But Theodora—" began Jack, unguardedly.

"The young lady you mention did herself the honor of refusing me," said Mr. Hunt, curtly.

"I beg your pardon, by Jove, I do, Hunt. It was all a mistake. Some one misinformed me. I'm awfully sorry, but I've been behind the times lately."

"It is of no consequence," said Mr. Hunt, passing on.

Not Many days after, Theodora started for a prolonged visit to her aunt, who lived in a gay town some distance from Theodora's home. She had seen very little of Jack since the soiree, but just as the train was starting, he swung himself on, and in his hurried passage through the car tossed a box into her lap.

"Good-by," he called out, and she watched him swing himself off of the platform. For some unaccountable reason her heart was behaving strangely. She took up the box from her lap and broke the string. A note lay on a bed of deep purple, fragrant violets, and as she saw just the one word, "Theodora," in the familiar scrawly writing, her heart gave a joyous bound. She opened the note and read these words: "The fool and his money soon parted."

She stared at the line. So Jack considered himself a fool for spending a few paltry cents on her. And this after their conversation at the Hathaways! Oh, it was unbearable for any man to be so insulting, and Jack, of all men!

She took a little pencil from her pocket-book and wrote underneath the obnoxious message from Jack; "It would be wise to tack these violets onto one of those ends which will not meet."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Jack. "That borders on sarcasm. Wonder why she didn't like them? I'll take a run up Sunday and find out."

Jack was as good as his word, and quite distracted Theodora's thoughts from her prayers when his unexpected self swung rigid in the church. Sunday morning. She treated him with a dignity which smacked of hauteur, but poor Jack was entirely unconscious.

"By the way," he remarked casually, that evening, utterly unaware of, or at least not noticing the frigidity of Theodora's demeanor; "why didn't you keep the violets? I meant you should."

"Indeed, did you? I did the best I could to restore a fool's money."

"I say, that's rather hard on me, Theodora; but of course I know you only meant it as a joke, same as I did. But I am sorry you did not keep them."

"A joke!" she exclaimed; "I think your jokes are in rather poor taste."

"Oh, never mind. That's all over now. Say, I congratulated Hunt the other day, and it didn't seem to set well."

Theodora gasped. "How dare you do such a thing?" she exclaimed. "How dare you insult me in this way? I have never been treated so. First you proposed to me, and— and—"

"I didn't mean to insult you by that, Theodora."

"Oh, you know what I mean! You told me you did not want to marry me because I would be an expense, then you dared to meddle in Mr. Hunt's affairs—"

"Now, Theodora—"

"Then you send me a box of flowers so you can pester me with your excessive brilliancy of thought; then, to cap all, you come up here to taunt me with all this, and call it a joke. I never thought you a coward, Jack."

"Why, Theodora, what is the matter? Don't cry, for Heaven's sake," implored Jack, attempting consolation, and exhibiting immense awkwardness.

"Oh, I say, Theodora," he said, "I didn't think you'd take it so about it." "I don't," sobbed Theodora.

"But, my dear, you certainly do. Upon my word, I did not know that you were not engaged to Hunt. I apologized to him, and it's all right. And I sent the flowers because I knew you liked violets, and the note was only a joke. And I said that I did not want to marry you because I believed you would refuse me at first. But I didn't believe you would marry any one else or be engaged so soon. Tell me, anyway, Theodora, why won't you marry me?"

"Because you don't want me too," she said, sobbingly.

"My dear Theodora," it seems to me you are wonderfully dense," he said, taking her in his arms. — Constantia Hope, in "Peterson's Magazine.

WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL.

A Gift Which Was Remembered Through a Busy Life.

A man of sixty who had been most successful in life, at least in what the world calls success, said to me the other day:

One thing that I remember with the most pleasure happened when I was a boy of ten. I was an orphan at three years of age, and no one wanted me. I grew up in spite of neglect and ill treatment. At six, I was selling papers on the street, earning enough each day to keep me from starving, and sometimes enough to get under cover at night during the very cold weather. I slept generally in a doorway, in a box, in an old barn or out-building. By the time I was ten, I was wise in experience of the hard side of life. I was as tough, dirty, cruel and bad a boy as could be found in a city. My hand was against every man and every man's hand was raised against me. I asked no quarter and gave none.

"One day, several weeks before Christmas, I fell on the pavement struck my arm on the curbing and broke it. I was carrying my morning papers, one arm hanging helpless. I was used to discomforts and hardships, but, at last, my arm became so swollen and painful that I believed that I was going to die. I did not propose to fall where all my enemies could see and gloat over me, so I turned back toward the country. I walked a long distance, goaded on like a wounded dog by the feeling that I must find some hole where I could hide myself and die. At last I fell exhausted. When I regained consciousness I was lying on a soft, white bed, my arm was in a bandage and a man and a woman were talking in the room. I don't know how long I lay there. It seemed like heaven to me to be nursed so tenderly and to have such a beautiful, gentle woman care for me. When I began to get better, she used to bring her baby, a jolly little fellow of two, and put him on the bed, with his toys, and she would sit beside the bed and sew and talk to us. One day, as she leaned over to kiss him, she turned to me with a smile, and said:

"'Dan, I believe you have been here long enough to be my boy—and I always have to kiss my boys.'

"And then she kissed me on the mouth and on my forehead.

"That kiss was the beginning of a new life for me. It taught me that it the world was hard and cold and cruel that good women were tender, loving and pure. It dawned upon me in a dim way that she had to give what was best worth living in her kind, love, and that in order to get it, a boy or man must work for it. That was the gift of the good and pure and loving to the good and pure and loving, and is me awoke, for the first time, the desire to be worthy, to be true and good.

"As soon as he was strong enough he went to work again, and to such purpose that to-day he is a man of wealth, honored, not only by the people of his immediate neighborhood, but by his State as a man of sterling integrity and goodness.

He fought his way upward through many vicissitudes and is crowned with honors, but, in spite of the gifts that the world lays at his feet, his sweetest memory to-day is the kiss that came to him when he was hard and wretched for the lack of a mother's love. And the strongest influence in his life was the Christmas week spent in a home where love was king.—Ann Jane in the New York World.

THE FASTIDIOUS CHINESE.

Packages Rejected If Not Presenting a Neat Appearance.

I was coming through Norfolk recently and on one of the wharves saw about three hundred bales of cotton drilling awaiting shipment to China. My attention was called to it because of its neatness of wrap and the evident care with which the stuff was being handled, only expert shifters being employed to move it. This is due to the fact that the Chinese will not receive a bale of it that is not in perfect condition. If the wrapping is soiled or cut, the bale is rejected and held subject to the order of the shipper.

Because of this peculiarity of the Celestials, the cotton is beautifully packed. No other merchandise shipped from the United States equals it in packing or in the care with which it is handled. The bales are wrapped in paper, and then clean, closely-woven burlap cloth is sewed over this cover ing and tied with a number of clean cords. All of this is done in the neat est and most secure style.

Discreet Accompaniments.

"I don't know much about that politician's abilities as a statesman," remarked the worker, "but I know he's a wonder as the conductor of a campaign."

"Maybe he is," said Senator Sorghum, "but I will state right here that he couldn't be conductor in my campaign unless he put on a full fare register went with him.—Washington Star.

A Utilitarian Tramp.

The Lady of the House—Why don't you go to work? Don't you know that a rolling stone gathers no moss?

Tramp (from Boston)—Madame, not to evade your question at all, but merely to work information, may I ask of what practical utility moss is to a man in my condition.—San Francisco Call.

A Patriotic Head.

The Shaver—I never saw such George Washington hair as yours, sir!

The Shaved—What do you mean sir?

The Shaver—Why, your hair can't be made to lie.—New York World.

THE STORY OF A SUN DIAL.

Made by a Boy Who Couldn't be Turned Into a Farmer or a Carpenter.

An interesting story is told by the Philadelphia Times of an old sun-dial in Pennsylvania. In the first part of the last century an Irish emigrant named Andrew settled near Philadelphia. Among his sons was one named Andrew, whom he tried to make into a farmer and then, like his brothers, into a carpenter. But Andrew would have nothing to do with the plough or the plane. He like in corners poring over some mathematical books that had come into his possession.

One day he found the design of a sun-dial in one of them, and resolved to make one. He walked eight miles to a soapstone quarry, found a slab, and carried it home on his back. Full of zeal he went to his brothers' shop, and used their saws, and chisels in his work. When they came home in the evening the dial was finished, Andrew was triumphant, but every tool in the shop was nearly or quite ruined. They drove him into the street in a fury of anger and contempt.

He was an idle good-for-nothing, who would never fully earn his bread, bade him go and fit himself for school teaching, which he called the "lazy man's work."

Andrew gave himself to hard study for the summer, and then went to the astronomer, David Rittenhouse, and asked him to lend him a book on conic sections.

"How long have you studied mathematics?" demanded the great man.

"Three months."

"And what do you know of conic sections?" Rittenhouse rejoined, with withering contempt.

But after asking the boy a few questions, he not only lent him the book, but advised him not to waste his time in the country, but go to Philadelphia and open a mathematical school.

This poor farm boy was afterward General Andrew Porter, an officer in the war of the Revolution and an authority on mathematical science in the young republic.

INVISIBLE WARSHIPS OF FRANCE.

Covered With a Composition They Can't Be Seen Even With a Searchlight.

From it is admitted that the naval authorities of other nations, is in possession now of the most mysterious but most potent agent yet devised by science for making terrible the naval warfare of the future.

A chemist in retreat has devised a chemical composition which, applied to any solid substance, will make it invisible at night, even under the glare of the most powerful electric searchlight.

Repeated trials were made during the protracted naval manoeuvres off the coast of the working of the "invisible paint."

Torpedo boat No. 61—one of the most formidable in the French torpedo fleet—was told off to assume the role of hostile craft and endeavor to make its way into the harbor past the vessels of the defending squadron, which included the most powerful men-of-war to the French service, nearly all of them equipped with tremendous searchlights.

The trial was startlingly successful. The torpedo boat succeeded in traversing the entire reach of water patrolled by the guarding warships, and, though covered again and again by the glaring lights of vessel after vessel, made its way into the harbor three hours after the beginning of the manoeuvre was safely at anchor off the town.—Answers.

OVER-HEAD CHECK REIN.

It Causes the Horse Much Suffering—Europeans Will Not Have It.

John P. Haines, of New York, President of The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals says:

"I regard the use of the over-head check rein, Kemble or Jackson rein, as brutal. I am pleased to say that I am happy to say that the use of it is rapidly going out of fashion, a large percentage of the horses in New York City being driven to-day without check reins."

The bit draws the mouth open, is constantly cutting against the upper part of the mouth, and being short and thin, is a constant cause of uneasiness and suffering.

The over-strained, unnatural position proves at once to an artistic eye the absurdity of such artificial aids.

It has been impossible to introduce this check rein in Europe, and it would not be tolerated on account of its interfering with the natural, free movement of the neck, and placing a straight, jerking line too much in evidence.

Verily, the American people have shown an astonishing lack of taste by the adoption of this over-head check, and an astonishing lack of heart.

Veterinary surgeons declare that half at least, of their occupation would be gone if over-head and other check reins were abolished.

A Woman Elevator Boy.

Mrs. Caroline Morse runs the Custom House elevator in San Francisco, Cal. She is the widow of a sailor, and she cares for and educates her family by means of her work. She was appointed under President Harrison's Administration, and was deposed during Cleveland's last term, but San Francisco demanded her reinstatement at once.—New York World.

After the Fact.

Mrs. Spriggins—Where's your daughter, Mrs. Wiggins?

Mrs. Wiggins—She's gone to the cooking school. And that reminds me, I must go into the kitchen and get supper, for she'll be as hungry as a bear when she gets home.—New York Weekly.

TWO KINDS OF PEOPLE.

For the two kinds of people on earth I mean
Are the people who lift and the people who lean.

Wherever you go, you will find the world's full
Of the two kinds of people, the strong and the weak;
Are always divided in just these two classes.

And oddly enough, you will find, too I ween,
There is only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed lifters who toil down the road?
Or are you a leaner, who lets others bear
Your portion of labor and worry and care?

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A DETECTIVE'S STORY

I had some renown as a successful rogue-catcher, and I had some experience, too. My field of operations, as a usual thing, lay within the confines of the Department of the Lower Alps; and, though I served under the subprefect of the third arondissement, yet the Prefect of the Department called upon me whenever he chose. One morning—it was in the latter part of May—I received a note from the prefect, ordering me to come to Digne and see him with all possible haste. The message came through the office of our sub-prefect, so that I had nothing to do but get ready and start. I took an early dinner, assumed the dress of a peasant, browned my face and hands, and set forth. I reached Digne just at nightfall, and as soon as it was dark I waited on the prefect. He seemed relieved when he saw me, and took me to his private closet.

"Now," said I, "have you got work for me?"

"Yes," he replied; "sit down and listen."

We sat down, and he proceeded.

"Within a few months past there have been some of the most mysterious murders committed in this Department and in the Department of War, that have ever come under my notice. They are done mostly on the road from Castellane to Aups. The first victim was a Marseilles merchant, who had come up to Castellane to purchase dried fruit. His body was found by the roadside, near the line between the two Departments, and at first it was supposed that he must have fallen in a fit, as no marks of violence could be found upon him. His pocket-book had been rifled, however. The next one was found near Annot, and under the same circumstances. He was a merchant also, and from Nice. Since then five or six more have died on the same road, in the same mysterious way, and no marks of ill-usage have been found upon any of them, but all have been robbed."

"Have most of them stopped in Castellane?"

The prefect told me they had.

I reached Castellane in the morning and went to a woolen factory and saw the business agent. His name was Louis Casaubon, and he had come to Castellane about a year before. He

"And I suppose they must have put up at the same inn, then?" I remarked.

"Yes," said the prefect.

I then supposed that some of the landlords must be concerned. But my companion informed me that they had been narrowly watched, and that no shadow of evidence rested against them.

"But," said I, "is there not poison in this matter? Some innkeeper may administer the poison, and then send an accomplice after the victim."

"No," returned the prefect, with a shake of the head. "Experienced physicians have examined the stomachs of the dead men, but without effect; and now we mean to give a fresh thing into your hands. You must go to Castellane at once, and there you can get such further information as the subprefect can give you."

I could see that the straightforward business way, and yet he was the only man whom I had thought of suspecting. In conversation about the murders he had been a little too free and off-handed treating the subject more coolly than a man with a heart would be apt to do in such. I had also been unable to prove anything against him. On the present occasion I told him, as I had told many others, that I must return to Toulon.

I felt sure that he was not the man who had done the direct work of death The plot was deeper than that, or he would have been discovered ere this So I resolved to wait awhile and see h he returned. I would have followed him if I could have done so with safety, when I saw him leave the factory, but he might have detected me, and that would not do. However, in less than fifteen minutes he came back. He walked now with a sober, innocent air

I saw Casaubon at the desk, and then I returned to my horse. I knew I had a risk to run now, but I was ready for it. If the factory agent was at the bottom of the crime, and meant to have me robbed, he had already as his machinery in motion, and the new development would be upon the road. I examined my pistols and then left the town, taking the road along the river towards the Alps.

I had crossed the little cascade of St. Euppri, and was descending a short steep hillside, when I saw a young man by the roadside, at the foot of the decent, engaged in whipping a mule. He was a slightly built fellow, and his coarse garments were covered with mud. I knew that the mule was a mill upon a branch of the Verdon, not far back, and I supposed he might be the miller's boy. As I came nearer, I saw a large sack lying upon the ground close by where the mule stood.

"What is the matter?" I asked, as I went up near him.

This ugly mule has thrown both me and my bag of corn from his back," he answered.

"Are you hurt?" I continued.

"My left shoulder is hurt," he said, and I can't lift this sack again. If monsieur would help me, I would be very grateful."

Until this moment the idea of suspecting the young man had not entered my head; but the proposition darted upon me now. He was altogether too keen a looking fellow for a miller's apprentice. He gave me a glance from a pair of quick, sharp eyes that meant more than he had spoken. And then, if I had not been under a humiliation, I had seen him holding his mule very firmly with his left hand.

I leaped from my saddle and moved towards him, being very careful to watch his every movement.

"Now," said he, "if you will take hold of that end, we will put it on."

He lifted at the other end and pretended that it hurt his shoulder, and begged of me to lift it on alone.

I professed to be willing to comply, and stooped down for that purpose, keeping my head in such a position that I could watch him by a sidelong glance. As I bent over and took hold of the sack, I saw him carry his hand to his bosom and draw something out. I saw his dark eye flash, and heard his quick, eager breathing. In an instant I had seized his wrist and bent it upward, and as I did so I heard a sharp report like the explosion of a percussion cap, and saw a tiny wreath of smoke curl up from the hand I held. He struggled to free himself from my grasp, but I held him with a grip of iron, and fixed my eyes upon him.

"I've found you, have I?" I said, drawing my pistol and cocking it. "I will simply inform you that I am an officer of Prefecture, and that I have been hunting for you. Just offer a particle of resistance, and a bullet goes through your brain! Now give me that weapon."

The young man was frightened and trembled violently.

"It is only a tobacco pipe," he said, as he presented it to me.

And certainly it looked like nothing more; but I had seen enough of it to know that evil was in it. It appeared to me to be an ordinary meerschaum pipe, the bowl being colored as though by long use—only the amber mouthpiece was missing. I did not stop to examine it then, but turned my attention to its owner. I saw that he was still trembling with fear, and I knew that now would be the time to work upon him.

"So you are selling your soul to Monsieur Louis Casaubon?" I remarked, by way of letting him know that I was thoroughly informed.

He started, and I saw very plainly that he knew just what I meant; but he tried to recover himself, and asserted that he knew nothing about the individual I had named.

"You needn't lie to me," I sternly replied, "for I know all about you. Louis Casaubon has been watched by me when he didn't dream of it. He thought I was a tradesman. But you are powerless and I would save you. Confess everything to me, and I promise your life shall be spared."

I saw that he wavered, and followed up my advantage, and ere long I had him bent to my wishes. I made him understand that I held his life in my hands; and that I could protect him from the vengeance of any one he might criminate, and that he had everything to gain and nothing to lose by a full confession. He came to it gradually and reluctantly; but my wit finally triumphed, and I gained the secret.

His name, he said, was Henry Dupin. He was born in Paris, but never knew who his parents were. He went to live with Casaubon when quite young, and had been with him ever since. His said Casaubon used to be a chemist, and did some business in that line; and that it was in Paris he invented the infernal machine which they had used with such fatal effect. About two years before the present time they left Paris together, and spent nearly a year in traveling over the kingdom, murdering and robbing for a living. Finally they came to Castellane, where the master got his present situation, and where Dupin was sometimes to be robbed, and the young man did the work. He used various artifices to carry out his plans but the usual one was what he tried on me.

He returned to Castellane with my prisoner; having left him in charge of the sub-prefect, I took a gendarme along with me and went to the factory. Monsieur Casaubon was surprised to see me back so soon; but he was more surprised when I told him I had taken a walk with me; and when I called the officer and bade him put the handcuffs upon the agent, he was ready to sink to the floor. We had him secured before he had sense enough to resist, and the whole affair was over with almost without any trouble. At first he denied everything; but when he found that this would not avail him any, he swore that he would kill his accomplice.

In due time Monsieur Louis Casaubon was tried and condemned to death and the Prefect of Dinge took possession of the infernal machine. Before the villain was executed he confessed his crimes—told how many years he had worked to perfect the infernal instrument and produce the poison—and also owned that the young man had been driven to help him through fear of his life.

So the exact was executed. Henry Dupin, his accomplice, spent two weeks in confinement, and was then set free and commenced an honest life. As for me, I got all the praise I deserved, and perhaps more. At all events I had done the country some service, and the people were not slow in acknowledging it.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on the and has the signature of wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

March 8, 1897.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

DUTCH CUSTOMS SHOWN.

AN ATTRACTIVE EVENT CARRIED OUT BY CULTURED WOMEN.

Monday Afternoon Club Hear a Lecture on Holland History and Then Enjoy a Tea After the Dutch Custom.

The members of the Monday Afternoon Club found much to interest them in a glimpse at the Netherlands, its history and its manners and customs, Monday afternoon. It was the regular meeting of the club and was held in the Casino of the Union County Country Club. Despite the storm and the snow under foot the attendance was large.

The principal event of the afternoon was a lecture on "The Netherlands, 1584-1648," by Mrs. D. W. Pond, of this city. She treated the subject in a very interesting manner. After sketching the eventful happenings in the Netherlands during that half century, she told something of the famous characters that were prominent at that time. An idea of the methods of living in those days was pictured, and the customs of that industrious nation well treated. The lecture was well received.

After the lecture came a real "Dutch tea." The table was set in the rear of the hall, after the fashion of the Hollanders. Old Delft china and antique brasses were used, while the table decorations consisted of tulips and smilax. Mrs. Charles McCutchen, Mrs. Eugene Hatch and Miss Emily Tracy presided at the table. Tea and coffee were served with real Dutch cake and cheese sandwiches made of genuine Dutch bread. Mrs. Pliny Fiske loaned the set of old china and brasses.

In one of the alcoves on the side of the hall there was a display of many books and other articles that were from that period of the history of Holland. Some beautiful embroidered lace, belonging to Mrs. W. L. Pattop, was shown. It was 150 years old. The collection of books was under the charge of Miss Emma L. Adams, librarian at the Plainfield Public Library.

The collection included a number of volumes from the Public Library relating to the period of the history of Holland that was considered in the lecture. Many old Dutch interiors were shown. An old Dutch Bible, the property of Mrs. D. M. VanBuren, was on exhibition. There were several ancient volumes by Mrs. D. D. Lowry. One of the most remarkable was an old history of the wars of the Netherlands, printed in the latter part of the sixteenth century. The pictures in it were all colored by hand. It was loaned by C. J. Julian Scott.

Mrs. E. C. Perkins loaned several volumes of the works of Erastmus, published in Holland in 1551, 1646 and 1658. There was also a large volume containing the New Testament with commentaries by Erastmus.

The books were examined with much interest by the guests, and Miss Adams was kept busy explaining them.

Michael Nevins and Chris Wise, of the street railway, are enjoying a three days' vacation.

Mrs. Charles J. Taggart, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, is spending the week in this city.

MISS BOARD'S ALASKA COLONY.

With a Party of Fifty Persons She Intends to Mine Along the Coast.

The preparations of Miss Mary M. Board, of Metuchen, to lead a mining colony into the wilds of Alaska, are progressing favorably. The party will leave Metuchen February 23d equipped with a portable sawmill and mining supplies. Miss Board claims to have the whole plan figured out to the satisfaction of herself, nine other women and thirty five men, who have joined the proposed colony. She says that precious metal and plenty of it can be found in Alaska, and will not attempt to go to the Klondike. She has had practical experience in mining in the Dakotas, and is familiar with the use of mining machinery and appliances.

Miss Board had hoped to raise a company of 100 but will set out with less than that number. She has figured that $150 will transport each person to the site selected, thirty miles from Orca, on the coast of Alaska, and maintain that person for one year.

The founder will allow free use of mining machinery and employ the sawmill to cut lumber to use in building houses. She intends to explore the Copper River district for gold and other precious metals.

No name has as yet been selected for the colony, which is to be conducted on a strictly temperance basis. She does not divulge the names of the colonists, but say that three of the woman are from New York and three from Pittsburg. Her party includes a doctor, a trained nurse, chemist, a lawyer and a government will be established for the colony. If her party numbers fifty she will be allowed 160 acres of land under a squatter's title.

FUNERAL OF A. R. DYETT.

Episcopal Service Conducted—Beautiful Floral Tributes.

The funeral of the late Anthony R. Dyett was held Sunday afternoon from his residence, 473 Belvidere avenue. The regular Episcopal service was conducted by Rev S. P. Simpson. The floral tributes were arranged about the casket and were very beautiful. The house was filled with the friends of the late Mr. Dyett, and included many well known residents of Netherwood and Plainfield. There was a large representation of Mr Dyett's associates in the legal profession from New York.

Among them were Jonathan Marshall, David Levy, John Lynes and Solomon Swartz, of the New York Bar. President Perkins and Cashier Townsend, of the Importers and Traders National Bank, New York, were also present. Among the delegation from New York were the following prominent merchants: W. H Handford, John C Juhring, Charles Knapp, Charles O-bourne, Arthur J. Ridley, Walter Sinclair and G. W. Falk.

The remains were taken to Brooklyn Monday, a. m., where the interment will take place at Greenwood cemetery.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, has returned from a business trip out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers Hodge, of Finderne, who have been visiting Plainfield relatives, have returned home.

TRUSTS MEAN MASTERY.

PROF. SUMNER'S STRONG EXPOSITION ON AN ECONOMIC SUBJECT.

He Says That the Profits of a Trust Do Not Come From the People, But From Good Business Management.

Prof W. G. Sumner, of Yale University, gave the fourth of his lectures in the series under the auspices of the University Extension Course Monday evening in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. The severe storm did not seem to affect the attendance to any material extent, and the chapel was comfortably filled with people. The speaker devoted a large part of the time to finishing his third lecture given last week. The point under discussion was the "Trust." After he concluded his remarks on the above subject he devoted the rest of the time to a portion of the subject of the fourth lecture on "The Rich and the Poor." Prof. Sumner spoke somewhat as follows:

"The trust is a thing we hear no end of, the press is full of it, and the platform is ringing with it. What is a trust? If you apply the trust to a strict monopoly there is no doubt but what it can be made to work. A complete trust is formed when the market on a certain thing is mastered by any one person or a corporation. The Remington typewriter has not a perfect monopoly because there are other machines that are nearly like it. A man with a complete trust can demand his own price.

"Do you suppose anyone could stop the trust? You can't do it. you have got to let them come on. The profits of a trust do not come out of the people, as some people suppose.

"The Standard Oil Company has not made oil dear, but very cheap. It has come out of a wise and skillful management of a large concern. The work of preparing the oil for the market is done with an economy that gives us the cheap oil.

"There are going to be more trusts, instead of a smaller number. There is going to be a trust in banks. There are signs of it now, especially in Boston, and it will be productive of much good."

At this point Prof. Sumner spoke as follows on the subject of "The Rich and the Poor":

"Taxes have their origin in violence, and such is the case with salaries, but that is no excuse for abolishing them. It is not true that property had its origin in violence. This denunciation of property is responsible for the trouble between the rich and poor.

"We go on the supposition that politically we are all equal. Would there be any advantage in an equal division of wealth? I should say no!

"If people dress handsomely, that is luxurious, but lawful, that is if they are able to pay for it. A man has said that if the dinner given to President McKinley in New York cost $15 per plate, each one present ate a bale of cotton or a pair of mules.

"The idea that a woman who wears costly dresses is a benefactor in giving work to others, is a fallacy and a wrong, but when a woman lets her husband take that money and turn it into capital, that is when she acts rightly.

"If a rich man wants to scatter wrong and misery let him give free lunches, and instead of men being trained in labor they will become idle fellows and worthless. Thus the idea that a man furnishing free lunches to a lot of poor people is more of a benefactor that Armour, Pullman or Field, is a fallacy and entirely wrong For with the latter they are teaching men to help themselves, while in the former case men are taught idleness."

Prof. Sumner brought his talk to a close at this point, and an informal discussion f llowed. Next Monday evening Prof. Sumner will take up the subject of "The Rich and the Poor," where he left off last evening, and will also open the subject of the fifth lecture "Woman."

DON'T CARE FOR LUNCH.

Policemen Not in Favor of Being Served With a Midnight Repast.

Recently the Police Board ordered a vote taken among the members of the department for the purpose of ascertaining what they desired that coffee and lunch be served to them during the night in the winter months. The vote resulted in every man recording himself as against the plan. Not one of the men voted for it. There does not seem to be any great desire on the part of the policemen to have such a plan put in execution.

T. S. Armstrong, the druggist, and family, returned last evening from Camden, where they witnessed the marriage of Mr. Armstrong's youngest brother, Wallace Armstrong, which took place Monday.

The wife of Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the Jersey City Tabernacle and the First Congregational church, Bergen and Boyd avenues, Jersey City, is so ill of pneumonia that her life is despaired of. Mrs. Scudder is president of the New Jersey Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, a member of Sorosis, the Jersey City W. C. T. U. and other women's clubs and religious organizations.

A Tale of Divorce.

Its Author Prostrated By Overwork.

Hammersmith is a suburb of London. Its inhabitants are interested in Mrs. Ellen B. Wayne, a young woman of literary taste, who lost her health through overwork. Her color left her, her appetite gradually disappeared, she became sleepless, nervous and restless, she was so exhausted, that after working at her desk for four consecutive hours, she fainted while writing "A Tale of Divorce." Her physician said, "she has nearly divorced body from soul, she needs iron."

Five weeks later the story was published, and Mrs. Wayne, through taking Capsuloids alone, had become one of the rosiest of English women.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

There was considerable talk to the effect that the Plainfield High School would drop out of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association this year, owing to the fact that many of her athletes had gone elsewhere to school and that the interest in athletics had greatly declined. The rumor was a false one without foundation. There is no doubt but that the Plainfield High School which took the initiatory steps in the formation of the New Jersey Association, will continue to hold a prominent place in its councils. While the athletic representation may not be as large as last year, there are several athletes at the High School who will represent that institution creditably at the meet. If for no other reason, the High School will remain in the association on account of the baseball team. The promises for the High School in that direction are very high and with the new manager, Claude Edwards, who well under stands the details of the work, it is probable that the High School team will be the strongest that has ever represented that institution.

It seems that, after all, George Procter Smith is not to hold one of the national indoor records of the Y. M. C. A. It was reported in these columns several weeks ago that Smith had broken the national Y. M. C. A. record for putting the shot, with a put of 37 feet, 11 inches. The old record was 37 feet, 6 inches. The distance of Smith's put was all right, but the trouble was that the record was made in a closed competition instead of one open to all comers, which is one of the requisites of the Y. M. C. A. record rules. Then Smith was not eligible to break the record under any circumstances. The rules expressly prohibit a member of any other athletic organization from holding a Y. M. C. A. record. This is done to give the real Y. M. C. A. boys a chance and prevent the athletic sharks from coming into that organization and capturing anything while the bona fide members would not have any chance. Smith is a member of the New Jersey Athletic Club. He did not know of the rule until several days ago when he immediately stopped all attempts to secure the record.

THEATRICAL.

The claim is made for Lincoln J. Carter's new scenic play, "The Tornado," to be presented at Stillman Music Hall Thursday night, that its realisms are of such an imposing nature that even the pictorial matter used in advertising the play do not do the piece justice, that the scenes depicted by the posters are actually so much more impressive when seen, as Mr. Carter presents them in his play, that one must acknowledge that for once the printers' ink has not overdone things. This, of course, is a novelty in theatrical advertising. But we promised that there should be nothing but novelties in "The Tornado," and Mr. Carter has shown in the past that he knows how to build astonishing things for the stage.

The Herrmanns, who by years of successful entertainments and diversions, and a careful presentation of scientific and mystifying illusions have won for themselves the proud distinction of being called "the monarchs of magic and mystery," will appear here Friday night at Stillman Music Hall. Leon Herrmann will present a number of new, original and startling illusions never before seen on this side of the Atlantic, while Adelaide Herrmann, who is the only woman magician in the world, will give many of the mystifying novelties that have helped to make her so popular in many lands.

Despite the inclement weather a large-sized audience witnessed the performance at the Pleasure Palace in New York Monday night. Al Leech and the Three Rosebunds made their appearance in a bright musical comedy by Joseph Hart, entitled "Their First Lesson." Lillian Burkhardt and Caryl Wilbur scored a hit in the sketch entitled "Extravagance." Lydia Titus sang some new songs and gave several clever imitations.

The great event of the season will occur next week at Stillman Music Hall, Monday evening, Feb. 7th, when "The Sporting Duchess," that great spectacular drama, written by Sir Augustus Harris, Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton, will hold the boards.

Alex Muir, of West Fourth street, is visiting friends in Worcester, Mass.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you. If you prepare yourself to take them. Most succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 30,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar
for Medicine
until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail. 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are 50 to 1 that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

THE PEOPLE'S FAVORITE
The Hallet & Davis Piano
BUILT AND SOLD ON HONOR
FOR 60 YEARS
$300 and up
and 3 years time if you want it
Other makes—Cabinet Grands, Uprights improvements $225-$7
Easy terms
Free music and catalogue on application
THE TWAY PIANO COMPANY
89 FIFTH AVE.

ARCANUM CONVENTION PLANS.

The Annual Session to be Held in Summit in May.

Although the date is two months distant, practically all of the arrangements have been completed for the annual session of the Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum of New Jersey, which is to be held in Summit May 2d and 3d, and it is expected that about 250 officers and delegates will be present. The headquarters will be at the Beechwood Hotel and the convention will be one of the largest and most important ever held there.

The work outlined for the convention is as follows: Meeting of the Grand Council in the Beechwood Hotel May 2 d, at 2 p. m., when the annual address of Grand Regent W. Holt Apgar, of Trenton, will be presented. Any business presented will then be referred to the appropriate committees. Monday evening it is probable that a public meeting will be held in Howard Hall.

Death Benefit Discussed.

There was a meeting of the Plainfield Catholic Club held last Monday, when five new members were elected, and the question of organizing a death benefit association was discussed. The members decided practically to organize such an association and a committee, of which Mr. Hillman is the chairman, was appointed to investigate the matter and report at a future meeting. The entertainment committee of the club stated that in the near future an entertainment would be given in the clubhouse. The other business transacted was of a routine nature.

LEHIGH VALLEY MEN UNEASY.

They Say the Old Strike Agreement Is Not Kept in Good Faith by the Road.

It has developed that the Lehigh Valley employes are on the verge of another difference with the company. It grows out of the ire timent of some of the old men who were taken back when the strike, four years ago, was settled. It was one of the terms of agreement that old men were not to be discriminated against because they had been in the strike. It would, however, that this agreement has not been carried out to the satisfaction of the men. They have grumbled a great deal and have protested individually, but without effect. Some of the old men often make but eight and ten days a month, it is alleged, although many others make overtime. A joint secret meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Locomotive Firemen, Conductors and Telegraphers was held recently, and the matter was discussed at some length. A committee was appointed to wait on the company officials and ask that the matter be adjusted. A resolution approving the appointment of ex-Chief Justice Paxson as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission was also passed.

—Suit has been begun in the Supreme Court by Attorney-General Grey against the Electric Pneumatic Transit Company incorporated under the laws of the State, to recover $1,700 back taxes due. The company's charter has been declared forfeited because of its failure to pay its taxes.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1898. NO. 6.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

A GREAT TENOR HEARD

EVAN WILLIAMS SCORES A NOTABLE SUCCESS AT THE CASINO.

The Last of the Subscription Concerts Given by the New York Philharmonic Club—Artists Enthusiastically Received.

The New York Philharmonic Club gave the third and last of its series of subscription concerts in this city at the Casino Tuesday evening, and the enthusiastic reception tendered by the audience to the different artists was a flattering tribute to the success of the course.

The vocal soloists were H. Evan Williams and Miss Zotti Kennedy. Mr. Williams is accounted one of the greatest tenor singers of America, and his magnificent voice has won his unstinted praise in every large city. His success in oratorio singing has been brilliant, and his first selection last evening was "Lend Me Your Aid," from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba." He was encored tumultuously, and gave as an encore "The Young Rose" by Rosalind Parke. Later in the evening he rendered a series of three exquisite Hute songs: "Who is Sylvia?" by Schubert; "Moonlight," by Schumann, and "Merrily Heights of Tatra," by Dvorak. His encore was, "I'll Sing the Songs of Araby." There was a suspicion of hoarseness in Mr. Williams' voice, the result of a slight cold, but it was not sufficient to cast a noticeable blemish upon his superb performance.

Miss Kennedy is a young singer, a western girl who has attracted very favorable notice from the musical critics. She appeared only once upon the programme, rendering in faultless fashion "Ah forse lui" (Private), by Verdi. The performance disclosed a soprano voice of range and excellent intonation. The whole piece was given with a technical accuracy and with sufficient warmth and feeling to render it a triumph. As an encore she sang "Comin Thro' the Rye."

The work of the Philharmonic Club was fully up to its usual high standard of excellence and reflected great credit upon Prof. Eugene Weiner, the director. The club gave as the opening selection "Symphonie No. XII," by J. Haydn. In the first part of the programme it also gave two selections "Serenade Rococco," by Meyer-Helmund, and "Turkish March," Beethoven "Loves Dream," by Czibulk, was played in response to an encore. The club also closed the evening's programme with "Serenade and Comack Dance," by H. Hoffman.

The club quartette, consisting of two violins, viola and violoncello, gave two selections op. 192, J. Raff, entitled "Erkarlung" and "Die Muhle." The double bass solo executed by H. Lehman of the club, amused the audience and proved a very excellent performance. As an encore he played a chromatic scale. Both pieces were composed by himself.

Eugene Weiner, the director of the club, was given an ovation when he appeared to give his flute solo. It consisted of "Largo," Handel, and "Scherzando," Domerseeman. He responded to an encore with "Moment Musicale," Schubert.

Miss Eva M. Clarke acted as piano accompanist, executing her part with excellent judgment and skill.

The success of the concerts was largely due to the excellent management of H. O. Newman, of this city by whose efforts the club was brought to Plainfield.

WHO HIRED THE JOCKEY?

On That Decision Depends a Suit to Recover Wages.

The case of Lemenski against Gaynette, on contract, was tried in Justice Mosher's court Monday afternoon, and the Justice reserved decision until Thursday.

The plaintiff was a horse trainer and jockey in the employ of the Gaynette family, who own a number of fine racing steeds. His claim was that a balance of $32 was due him upon his salary. William G. DeMeza was attorney for the plaintiff. The defendant did not appear in person, but was represented by Attorney Robert Clark, of the firm of Clark & McNabb.

The suit was brought against Mrs. Gaynette, and the efforts of the attorney for the defense were directed toward showing that not Mrs. Gaynette, but her son Harry, had engaged the plaintiff. This the plaintiff would not admit. The taking of the plaintiff's testimony lasted several hours.

The case of Whipple & Co. against Seidloff is set for trial in Justice Mosher's court this afternoon, and the cases of Johnson against Hansen, on contract, and Allen against Sullivan, in tort, will be tried tomorrow morning.

—Extra quality French peas, in large glass jars, are selling for 30 cents a jar this week only at Neuman Bros.

POLICE SERGEANT STILL.

OFFICER KIELY NOT TO BE REDUCED.

No Important Changes to Be Made in the Police Force—Sergeant to Be in Uniform.

There has been all sorts of rumors current of late with reference to proposed changes in the police force. It has been said that the office of sergeant was to be done away with entirely and the force organized on a different basis than that of past years.

This paper is able to state authoritatively that the personnel of the police force during the coming year will be exactly the same as last, with the substitution of Flanagan for Fraleigh as regular patrolman, as has already been stated.

Sergeant Kiely will still remain in his old position, although the Police Board has made somewhat different arrangements as to his duties. Since the tapper has been put in the station house the man there can now notify Chief Grant by telephone of any trouble, and the sergeant will no longer have to remain there much of the time. The Board has now decided to have him in full uniform instead of citizen's dress, as last year.

CITY CLERK TO RETIRE.

J. T. MACMURRAY TO DEVOTE HIS TIME TO PRIVATE INTERESTS.

It is Expected That His Resignation Will Soon be Sent to the Common Council—E. A. Meeker Named for Place.

A bit of important gossip among the politicians is the talk that City Clerk James T. MacMurray will soon resign his position with the Common Council to devote all his energies to the important work which he has charge of in the Pond Machine and Tool Company's plant.

There has been a good deal of talk in this direction for some time, and it is understood that the pressure on Mr. MacMurray's time has become so great with the Pond people that he has decided to relinquish his official duties in a short time.

It is pointed out that Mr. MacMurray would have retired as City Clerk ere this had it not been for the fact that a doubt was raised as to the exact term of his office. Naturally he was not inclined to submit to a removal on the ground that the length of his term had been erroneously understood, and he has determined to stay in the office until that question had been settled either one way or the other. Mr. MacMurray felt confident that under the city charter he was serving under a three-year term, and his contention was upheld by the Corporation Counsel.

Now that this point has been decided in his favor it is expected that as soon as some of the important work of the new Council is disposed of he will send his resignation to the members.

Former Street Commissioner Bob't A. Meeker will probably succeed Mr. MacMurray. Mr. Meeker is a stalwart Republican, standing in the good graces of the powers that be and is considered thoroughly capable of making a satisfactory successor to the present City Clerk.

ANYONE SEEN A STRAY HORSE?

J. B. Johnson's Equine Slipped the Halter and Has Disappeared.

Jerome B Johnson, of 189 North avenue, is anxiously seeking information concerning the whereabouts of his wandering horse.

Johnson's son Frank went to the stable, 12 Howard street, Sunday evening, to feed and water the animal. The halter was entangled in its mane and the young man unbuckled it to relieve the horse. The stable door was open and the animal backed out and wandered about the lot.

The boy's efforts to catch it proved fruitless and it finally took fright at something and ran down Somerset street. It was last seen on East Front street, going towards Scotch Plains. The horse is a rather small animal, dark bay in color and about eight years old.

Didn't See Any Fun.

The spectators present at the City Council meeting last Monday evening were much disappointed when they learned that there was to be no great friction in the important matters to be considered. Many people attended the meeting simply for the purpose of seeing "the fun," but they were fooled.

A Change in the Firm.

The marble and granite business on Somerset street heretofore conducted by J. E. Townsend has been disposed of to C. M. Travis, of New York State. Mr. Townsend will remain at the place and will be glad to see his friends who have business in his line. The firm name will be C. M. Travis & Co.

Harry Squiers, of Watchung avenue, left this morning for the south, where he will spend a time hunting game.

FEROCIOUS FISH BIT IRISH LAD'S EAR.

A Thrilling Fish Story That Comes All the Way From Piscataway.

Patrick Culhane, a broth of an Irish lad who lives with his parents in Piscataway township not from New Brooklyn pond, is the hero of an escapade with a pickerel, whose home is in the deep pools of that sheet of water, that excels for excitement and genuine novelty the most ingenious fish story ever woven by a confirmed disciple of Izaak Walton.

Young Culhane is fifteen years old. Saturday he was one of a large number of lads and lassies enjoying the skating on the ice that covers New Brooklyn pond. Twilight was falling, and Culhane was the centre of a circle of admiring comrades while he went through dexterous tricks on his skates. He was about to astonish the other skaters by describing a circle while swiftly skating backwards. Patsy blazted some distance away from the crowd of onlookers to a place where the imprint of his steel blades could be plainly observed whereon he had performed the trick.

With a graceful swing of his legs Patsy essayed the trick. He had got about two-thirds around the circle when the watchers were astounded to see Patsy plunge into a hole in the ice and disappear beneath the chilly waters. A few of the older lads took in the situation and quickly skated towards the point where Patsy was last seen emulating the famous act of Leander. Just before the other boys got to the hole in the ice Patsy's head bobbed up from the water. After spurting water from his mouth like a baby whale, Patsy gave a yell somewhat resembling an Indian warwhoop, which interperted meant "help!"

Besides his vigorous yells, the immersed lad also made a desperate effort to get his hands up to his left ear, to which a long dark object was attached and flapping.

"Hold on, Patsy, we'll help you," screamed the foremost of the rescuers. Patsy heeded the advice with chattering lips while words of anguish slipped through them and told that Patsy's climax to trick doing on the ice was not appreciated by the performer.

When Dan Turner, the first of the boys to arrive at his side, saw what the black object was hanging to Patsy's ear his eyes bulged out with wonder. It was a pickerel—a great big one, weighing, so the veracious eye-witnesses say, close to five pounds. Courageous boy that he was Dan Turner made a grab for the fish, but the pickerel was slippery, and besides was too clever to be caught by a Piscataway farm lad. So the pickerel slyly loosened his hold on Patsy Culhane's ear and dropped back into the depths of his native element. Patsy gave a sigh of relief and a tiny stream of blood trickled down from the auricle of the lad.

A moment later young Culhane stood on the ice with a crowd of wondering comrades about him. He felt of his ear and said, "ouch, it hurts."

The icy water was beginning to harden on Patsy's clothes by this time and he skated to the edge of the pond, divested his feet of the skates and hurried home.

It is supposed that in descending into the water Patsy's feet struck the pickerel, and the fish became angered and dove at the boy's ear in a ferocious fit of revenge. Its teeth settled in the soft fleshy part of the ear and there the pickerel clung until Dan Turner attempted to grab it.

FAIR FACES IN BOOTHS.

THOSE WHO WILL SERVE AT ST. JOSEPH'S PATRONETTE.

The Assistants Will Have Permissive Ways About Them in Inducing Liberal Patronage From the Visitors to this Unique Event.

Tuesday the booths that will sustain the weight of useful and ornamental articles that will be offered for sale at the patronette, to be given by The Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church in Saenberbund Hall, were being erected and decorated. They present a very pretty appearance and their keepers are very proud of them. The following ladies have charge of them:

Ice cream and cake booth. Miss M. McCaffrey, chairman; assistants, Miss Margaret McAlvaine, Mrs. W. C. White, Mrs. Theo. Zeller, Miss Margaret Hughes, Miss Winnie Carty and Miss Katie Carty.

Fancy and china booth, Mrs. T. A. Neeley, chairman; assistants, Mrs. D. T. Kenney, Mrs. J. E. Bailey, Mrs. Herman Berkhan, Mrs. Thos. Meany, Mrs. Jas. Harper, Miss Laura Powers, Miss Justina Smith and Miss Lucy Phillips.

Tea, coffee and refreshment booth, Mrs. W. F. Hamilton, chairman; assistants, Mrs. A. E. Kenney, Mrs. J. A. Blatz, Mrs. C. H. Farlee, Mrs. A. Wilkins, Mrs. F. Laports, Miss E. Mullen, Mrs. R. H. McCullough, Miss Etta Blatz, Miss Julia Betz, Miss F. Rafferty and Miss Mary Leahy.

Novelty booth, Mrs. R. A. Boyce, chairman; assistants, Mrs. Edward Ryan, Mrs. John O'Reilly, Miss Katheryn Cooley, Miss L. Mulligan and Miss Elyda Boyce.

Lemonade booth, Mrs. Arthur Seal, chairman; assistants, Miss Alice Kennedy, Miss Maggie Kennedy and Miss Mary Seal.

A very laughable comedy, entitled "That Rascal Pat," will be presented by members of the society. The affair will continue for three nights.

Slipped and Fractured Her Ankle.

While Mrs. Michael A. Leahy, of 812 Richmond street, was passing along Franklin place Monday evening at 7 o'clock, she slipped on the ice and fell, fracturing her ankle. Warren Marsh, of 240 Franklin place, had stepped on the plazza and was hunting for the newspaper when he saw Mrs. Leahy fall. She was carried into the house and Dr. Tomlinson hurriedly summoned. A carriage was afterwards secured and the injured woman taken to her home.

Will Save the $1,300 Pacer.

The valuable horse owned by W. E. Brock, of Mountain avenue, that was severely injured last week on East Front street, is improving nicely, and the owner now thinks that the life of the animal can be saved.

NO FEAR OF ICE FAMINE.

ARTIFICIALLY WILL BE BUILT.

H. G. Runkle Wants to Organize a Stock Company for the Purpose—If He Fails Walter Scott will Build a Plant.

If the plans of several capitalists of this city pan out as they intend the Indian summer in midwinter need not be taken into consideration as likely to govern the price of a future supply of ice in dog days. For it is a fact that either a company of moneyed men or a single one of keen foresight will build a plant for the manufacture of artificial ice within the next year, and Plainfield need have no fear of a famine of the hot weather commodity.

The artificial ice plant has been a great business success in other cities, even where the facilities for harvesting the congealed water from natural sources are better than Plainfield afford. H. G. Runkle, who is interested in local enterprises to a considerable extent, is at the head of the movement to organize a stock company to build the plant. Walter Scott, the printing press man, is the one who intends to build the plant alone if the stock company fails to do so. As a matter of fact Mr. Scott has harbored the idea for some time, and before he knew there was talk of a stock company. He has been solicited to join the latter movement by Mr. Runkle and has consented. So with two such progressive spirits as Messrs. Runkle and Scott it is quite probable that the company will be formed.

Mr. Scott's purpose was to build the plant on his property at the corner of South avenue and Berkman street, but where the stock company would establish their plant it is not known.

It is said that artificial ice, which as a rule is much better than the natural product that Jack Frost makes, can be manufactured for seventy-five cents per ton. Thus it can be sold at a remarkably low price and yet afford big profits for the manufacturer.

Delegates to Athletic Association.

A special meeting of the Plainfield High School Association was held Monday afternoon. Rhey T. Snodgrass was elected delegate to attend the meeting of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association. President Carroll L. Runyon, of the High School Association, will attend. The meeting of the State association will be held at Newark Saturday, February 19th. It was decided to pay the expenses of the delegate.

Henry Wells, son of Henry B. Wells, is ill at his home on Washington avenue.

Councilman Murray Burtis, of Fairview avenue, is in Philadelphia on business.

Clifford Cooley, of Washington Park, has returned from an extended trip through the south.

KLONDYKE CHARIOT'S SLIDE

JOHN KENNEY'S THRILLING RIDE.

The Shoedealer Mounted a Cake of Ice and Rode Down the Steep Shoot to the Icehouse.

John J. Kenney, the well-known shoe dealer and baseball crank, has enjoyed a great variety of rides. He has ridden a wheel, he has been on fast trains and on coal trains, he has been on the back and behind all sorts of horses, but he had never anything quite so exciting as the involuntary ride he took on a cake of ice Tuesday afternoon. It happened in this way. Kenney went down to Tier's ice house Tuesday afternoon to watch the interesting process of ice cutting and storing at Tier's lake. The process was completely described in this paper last winter. It will be remembered that the large cakes of ice are elevated by an endless chain to a scaffold outside the ice house and then allowed to slide down an inclined plane into the house. Sometimes the cakes are sent through the first house into the second. Kenney went up to the head of the scaffold and watched the operation with interest.

The first thing the spectators saw was Kenney on his knees on a cake of ice. The ice-cake started slowly at first, but Kenney could not get off The speed increased and soon Kenney and his Klondyke chariot were speeding over the icy planks at lightning speed while the witnesses of the ride gave one mighty cheer as he passed. The cake accomplished its run to the further end of the second ice house without misadventure, Kenney still safe on top. When the ride was over, Kenney descended from his ice-cake and was congratulated on his little experience.

WRESTLED TO SAVE LIFE

HEROIC ACTION OF FLAGMAN DOYLE AT CHURCH STREET.

He Saw That James McGinley Was Liable to be Run Down and Went to His Rescue—Thought Doyle Was Fooling.

With a fast freight train thundering its way through Church street Flagman Doyle wrestled on the track yesterday morning. Doyle managed to drag his fellow combatant off the tracks just in time to allow the train to pass. The escape was a hairbreadth one.

The 11 o'clock passenger train from New York was about minutes late yesterday on account of the fog. It was about 11:14 when McGinley walked up on the railroad embankment and started to cross over. He saw the approaching passenger train and stepped over on the east-bound main track to avoid it. He did not hear the shriek of a whistle from the other direction. A fast freight to Jersey City was coming along the east-bound main track at a high rate of speed. The engineer of the freight saw McGinley and whistled.

The noise of the other train drowned the sound of the whistle. Again the whistle of the approaching freight engine sounded shrilly. Flagman Doyle at the Church street crossing, close by where McGinley was standing, heard the whistle and saw the train. He knew McGinley and made a dash for him.

The first thing McGinley knew, as he waited for the express to pass, was that somebody had seized him by the shoulders. He saw it was Doyle. Wondering what had gotten into the man, he began to struggle. Supposing that Doyle was fooling, McGinley struggled in his grasp and the two swayed about the track. At last, as the freight was close at hand, Doyle pulled McGinley off the track. Then McGinley saw what was the matter and was profuse in his thanks to Doyle for saving his life.

Cloisonne Collection Cared for.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Public Library to attend to such business as ordinarily comes before the general meeting, was held Tuesday night. There were present directors M. W. Tyler, J. Evarts Tracy, J. B. Dumont, Rowland Cox and Wm. M. Stillman. The art committee reported that the cloisonne collection had been placed in the cases, and a committee was appointed to make inquiries as to what is required to put the room in suitable condition.

Sunday-school Classes Visited.

A delightful evening was spent at the Monroe Avenue church Tuesday, when Mrs. Lowrey's class of young men from the Park Avenue Baptist church were entertained by the young men's class of the Monroe Avenue church, taught by Adam Neuman. About twenty-five were present and the time was pleasantly passed with games, vocal and instrumental music, recitations and readings.

Mrs. B. M. Day, of 35 Mercer avenue, Washington Park, is a guest at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City.

HE DEFIES THE POLICE.

MIKE WATSON ONCE MORE ARRESTED FOR ILLEGAL LIQUOR SALES.

This is His Eighth Appearance Before the City Judge—The Complaint is Carefully Drawn to Aid Watson's Conviction.

Mike Watson is in the toils again. It is the same old charge, illegal liquor selling. His familiar face looked at City Judge DeMeza over the railing yesterday morning when he was arraigned and held for trial.

In the history of the efforts of the city authorities to rout out the illegal sale of various decoctions, especially Sunday, Watson has played a prominent part. He has been arrested some eight times altogether and has appealed his cases from court to court. In all his trouble with the city, Watson has only served three days in jail. That was on the occasion of his last trial when he was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and go to jail for 30 days. After he had been behind the prison bars for three days, his lawyer, S. S. Swackhamer, found a defect in the complaint and he was released on an order from the Supreme Court.

This time the police are confident that they have a firm grip on Mike and his time has come at last. There is considerable secrecy about the case and only the bare facts that he was arrested and held under bonds for trial could be elicited from the police. It is understood that Corporation Counsel Marsh examined the complaint carefully before it was served and that it will take a bright mind indeed to find any defect in it this time.

The warrant issued by Judge DeMeza was served on Watson yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. Watson keeps a so-called restaurant on Grant avenue, just above South Second street. He also takes boarders. It is alleged that on a certain Sunday he sold liquor to some of his customers. As he has no license he has no right to sell. The warrant was served by Roundsman Flynn and Patrolman McCue at the restaurant. Watson was apparently disgusted with the turn affairs had taken but he made no opposition before the Judge and pleaded not guilty and gave a cash bond for $200 for his appearance for trial at a later date. The date of trial has not been announced.

It has been impossible to learn the names of the principal witnesses in the case, the complaint having been made by Chief Grant. Neither would the time of the alleged offence be divulged by the authorities.

The place has long been suspected and it is a known fact that a large crowd frequent the place on Sundays. The place was watched several Sundays ago and nearly fifty customers were counted going in or out the place in ten minutes.

VIOLATED HEALTH LAWS.

Heavy Fines Imposed in the Borough Recorder's Court.

On the complaint of Borough Health Inspector William N. Pangborn, Sherman Hobbs, of Warren street, and Harriett Richardson, of the corner of Warren and Race streets, were arrested Tuesday for violating the borough health ordinances.

Hobbs had covered the contents of a privy vault with earth without first cleaning out the vault. He pleaded guilty and Recorder Thomas, before whom both violators were arraigned, fined him $10 and costs amounting to $3 20.

Harriett Richardson was charged with allowing refuse and garbage to remain in her yard after being notified to remove it. The inspector stated that she was notified December 17th, and five times since that date, and each time she said that she was going to have the matter attended to. She failed, however, and the inspector called her to account. She was fined $20 and costs amounting to $3.20. Both offenders paid their fines with a check.

HORSE BREAKS THROUGH THE ICE.

An Exciting Time for Ice Harvesters at New Market.

A valuable horse belonging to Jas. Y. Wilson was nearly drowned at the New Market pond Monday afternoon. The animal broke entirely through the ice while the crop was being harvested, and in their efforts to rescue it Wm. Roantree and Lisbon Pierson, at work on the ice, also fell into the water and received a cold bath. They were fished out at once, but the task of rescuing the horse proved a more difficult one. A number of planks thrown into the water and after nearly an hour's hard work the animal was drawn out. It was in a very exhausted condition and would not have survived had it remained much longer in the water.

—A telephone has been placed in the office of City Judge DeMeza on Park avenue.

SELLING BY SIGNALS.

HOW CATTLE ARE DEALT IN AT THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS.

The Motion of a Whip as Binding as a Written Agreement—Thousands of Dollars Change Hands With Only Signs to Indicate the Contract.

The Chicago stock yards is unique among the great marts of the world. In no other place, say those who are most familiar with its daily routine, is so large an aggregate of business transacted in the language of gestures and without the "scratch of a pen" as in the noisy pens of the stock yards. A whip is held high in air, across a sea of clattering horns the signal is answered by the momentary uplifting of a hand, and a "bunch" of cattle worth thousands of dollars is sold.

There is something splendidly picturesque and even spectacular in these wordless transactions. They ignore the artificialities of the complex system upon which modern business relationships are almost universally maintained. Trade in the cattle pens gets boldly back to primitive simplicity. It is done on honor, not on paper. And the undisputed transfer of millions of dollars worth of the property here dealt in proves that a bargain sealed with the wave of the whip and the assenting gesture of the hand is quite as safe and secure as if the whole transaction were recorded "in black and white."

The trader in the wheat pit is armed with his tally card upon which he pauses to note the names of those with whom he deals and the amount, nature and price of the commodities bought and sold. The broker upon the floor of the stock exchange places equal reliance upon the quickly pencilled memoranda made at the moment when the details of each transaction were upon the lips of those concerned in its fulfillment. A mere glance at either of the yards carry whips and not pencils, and their deals are recorded in memory instead of written upon trading cards. As well try to picture the old knights making laborious written memoranda of their challenges as to think of the rough and ready traders of the cattle yards pausing in their saddles to jot down upon paper their purchases and sales. Such a procedure would bid defiance to the very nature of things and do violence to the magnificent unconventionality of every environment.

"Is there never any trouble in this kind of dealing?" a leading commission man was asked.

"If you mean, do the men go back on their bargains made by whip and hand? I can answer, never," was the trader's answer, as he brought his trim black horse to a halt in the cattle alley and leaned forward in his saddle. "There isn't another place in America, or the whole world, for that matter, where so personal integrity, without a written word to show for the transactions, as right here," he continued. "And the method beats all the bonds on earth. The whip business in these pens will run about a million and a half. And how is it done? Little talk, a considerable waving of whips and hands and no exchange of written documents between buyers and sellers!

"Here is a bunch of cattle that will figure up about $10,000. Over there in the other alley is a buyer who this morning offered me a price of $5.10 for them. I thought that I could do better, but the market has been a little off and I have decided to let the bunch go at his offer. Up to the present moment we have exchanged about a dozen words on this subject. Now, if he is willing to pay the price which he named in the morning, I'll show you how a $10,000 bunch of fat steers is sold without word of mouth or a scratch of writing at the time the bargain is really made."

The commission man then straightened up in his saddle and waited for the distant buyer to look in his direction. A moment later this representative of the packing house wheeled his horse about and faced in the direction of the seller. Instantly the commission man lifted high his rawhide riding whip and held it aloft. His attitude was as striking as that of a cavalry soldier uplifting his sabre to concentrate the attention of his regiment before making a desperate charge. The pose, however, was full of natural grace and freedom, and showed that the man was more at ease in the saddle than he could have been out of it.

Only a moment elapsed before the alert eye of the buyer caught sight of the upraised whip. The next instant he raised his hand a little above his head, held it motionless a moment and then dropped it with a forward movement. Quickly the seller repeated the motion of assent with his whip, and then, turning to his caller, said:

"That's all there is to it. To a stranger this kind of a performance looks like a long-range sign talk between deaf mutes, but we understand each other perfectly. We both know how many cattle there are in the bunch and the price at which they have been sold. Had we been within speaking distance of each other the transaction would probably have been a verbal one, just for the sake of sociability, but not because it would have made the bargain better understood or any more binding."—Chicago Post.

A scientific publication in Paris asserts that ophthalmia is increasingly frequent among bicyclists, owing to the dust and impurities raised by the wheel. According to science sharps, the bike is responsible for more evils than escaped from the box of Pandora. It may soon be held accountable for original sin.

FOUND IN THE CATHEDRAL.

Not Only Lost Pocketbooks, but Babies Are Picked Up in the Pews.

It is customary for searchers to go about among the pews in St. Patrick's Cathedral, in New York, after each service, to pick up the articles that have been dropped. Scarcely a day passes that something of value is not turned over to the information bureau by the searchers, and there is always on display at this bureau an assortment of gloves, handkerchiefs, umbrellas, and such. The most notable "finds" in this great church, however, are babies.

"There have been eighteen or twenty babies found here within my recollection," said Special Officer Rutledge at the cathedral the other day. "It is not an unusual thing to find one of them sleeping in a pew after everybody else has left the church. They are very young babies, as a rule, and are undoubtedly abandoned deliberately. I suppose that in most cases the parents are too poor to take care of the little ones, and leave them here because they don't know what else to do with them. Sometimes we take these deserted babies to the foundling asylum and sometimes to the police station. I can recall one instance where the identity of any of these waifs has been discovered.

"A surprisingly large amount of money is found in this cathedral," continued Officer Rutledge. "Women who come here to meditate and pray frequently lose their purses on the kneeling benches. Only a few days ago a little girl found $76 in one of the chapels. She handed it to one of the church attendants, and it was restored to its owner. Pocketbooks are found about the church after nearly every big ceremony. A great variety of articles are picked up after the big crowds of Christians and Easter have departed.

"I am sorry to say that some of the women that come here are not honest. Frequently we find one whose mission is evidently to pick up something. Such persons are watched very closely, and we try to keep them out of the church entirely. One day last week a woman who had been at her devotions at the side altar went away and left her pocketbook on the bench. A scrubwoman saw it and started to pick it up, but before she could get there a well-dressed woman, in a pew near by, left her seat and went into the aisle and took on the pocketbook. The cleaner waited a reasonable length of time, and then asked the strange woman to kindly move to one side, which she did without saying a word. In that way the pocketbook, which contained considerable money, was recovered."

CURIOSITIES IN GLASS.

Made of Threads Spun as Delicate and Almost as Fine as Cobwebs.

When the story of Cinderella was first translated into our language and the slippers of vair, or fur, became slippers of verre, or glass, the translator would have been amazed to know that slippers of glass were not a fairy impossibility, but a great fact, and while since in this country a patent was taken out upon glass slippers. That is really not extraordinary, since, in fact, the uses to which glass is now put are almost innumerable. There was a time, not many years ago, in Venice made of glass, with all its trimmings and furbelows, the flowers as natural as life, the ribbons with the luster of satin; and since then an actress added to her wardrobe the splendors of a dress woven out of spun glass. The glass thread is drawn out to a fineness that makes it perfectly pliable and elastic, it has no liability of breaking, and it can be almost as delicate, and as airy as the finest gauze, and can be given any color.

It is in curious contrast to this that another object has been made of glass —a coffin, whose inventor claims for it indestructibility. Of course, it is comparatively indestructible, but when we see the glass bear bottles in any collection of antiques, where decay has disintegrated the once pure white transparent glass and rendered it a mass of splendid color, one can imagine the incongruous appearance of that article after some dozen centuries, holding its dead wrapped now in a sheet of flame, and now as if in the sapphire of the heart of the sky.

Meanwhile the more modest of us may content ourselves with the imitations of gems, wonderful and not to be detected, that are now made of glass and with strings of the lovely Venetian beads where a glass bubble coated within by a solution of certain fish-scales has the many-tinted softness of the pearl, and all of beauty except the romance and poetry and pathos of the sea, which clings to the real thing. The poet, talking about the fairy tales of science, may well have had some of these simple wonders in his fancy, for while a bit of quartz is a simple and primitive substance, it is as great a wonder as some more important things that such flinty stuff can be transformed into something as light as the base that floats in the air.—Harper's Bazar.

Mr. Truly Rural—They do say your hotel be the puttiest in Ameriky. How much be your rates?

Affable Hotel Clerk—We can give you a first class room for $10 a day.

Mr. Truly Rural—Wa-al, I calculate you can put me down for an hour and a half. And how be your dinner?

Affable Hotel Clerk—We can give you a first class dinner for 75.

Mr. Truly Rural—Gewhiz! Jest put me down for a toothpick.—Judge.

"My mudder was divorced the t'ree-ing."

"And mine was married."

"Huh! gee! I'll bet it's de same man."—Truth.

THE MOST COSTLY FRUIT.

Both Ripe Grapes at $20 a Pound, and Hothouse Peaches at $3.50 Each.

Hothouse grapes are the costliest of fruits. They are never less than 75 cents a pound, and when they are most costly, in February and March, they sell for $9 a pound, sometimes going as high as $10 a pound. At prices ranging up to $2 a pound there is a ready sale for them; but the highest prices they are almost exclusively for the use of invalids. There is a sale for all that are produced, but the production at the season of highest prices is small. The cost of production is great, and the vines may die from exhaustion after a single season of forcing.

The next most costly fruit is the hot house peaches. Hot house peaches sell in February at $2.50 each. They are used mainly by invalids, but such peaches are also often sold for gifts. They are presented as flowers or as bonbons would be. Three or four peaches are packed in cotton and set off with a few peach leaves in a handsome box. Hothouse peaches run down to about 50 cents each in April and May, when we begin to get the first of the peaches from the south.—New York Sun.

A BARGAIN SALE IN ENGLAND

The Eager Hunters Gather at the Doors as Early as 5:45 O'clock.

A bargain sale is a pretty serious business in England. The Newcastle Chronicle recently contained the following item: A remarkable fatality occurred in Mare street, Hackney, on Saturday. A sale at a local draper's was announced to begin in the morning, and a large crowd of women assembled long before the doors were opened. Some were there as early as 5:45 o'clock. Among them was an old lady who succeeded in getting into the shop and fell fainting at a counter while making a small purchase. With the assistance of the police she was got out and a doctor sent for, but life was found to be extinct. The body was removed to the Mortuary. A large force of police was on duty throughout the day to control the crowds, and at intervals it became necessary to close the doors. The excitement did not subside until the place was finally sealed up at 11 o'clock on Saturday night. Some persons declared that such scenes were never before witnessed at a sale.

A Little Story with a Big Moral.

Here is a very old story that has been told time and time again, but that will bear telling again:

A man asked his neighbor why he was so careful to save a certain old horseshoe. The neighbor replied:

"I may find the other three shoes."

"And what then?"

"I may then find the horse which cast them."

"And what will you do then?"

"Why, I will build a stable for him."

"No, you won't. Your horse might kick my children, and so I won't have a stable near my house."

"Yes you will, if I choose to build one."

"No I won't."

"Yes you will."

And then they began to fight like cats and dogs.—Golden Days.

Poor Johnny.

Mr. Briggs.—Tom Rider handed me some tickets for the circus. It'll be an awful bore, but I suppose on Johnny's account we ought to go. He'll be pleased.

Mrs. Briggs—Why there are only two here!

Mr. Briggs—Well, then, that's all he gave us. Umph! Johnny'll have to stay at home then. Too bad.—New York Journal.

Pained.

Patient—Vot? Two dollars for taking' oud dem teeth?

Dentist—Two dollars if you take gas.

Patient—Mein man, I t'ought you vos a dentist. I didn't know you vos a gas gombany.—Puck.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"Did you tell that young man not to call here any more?" asked Mabel's father, severely.

"Yes—no."

"Which?"

"I didn't think that it was necessary. I don't see how he could call any more now. He calls seven times a week."—Washington Star.

Wife—You saw Mrs. Bowser last evening.

Husband—Yes; but not to speak to her.

Wife—What a story! I heard you were sitting with her for more than two hours.

Husband—That's so; but it was she who did the talking.—Up to Date.

Handel Barr—Yes, other things being equal, the larger the wheel the greater the speed.

Little Johnny—Well, then, Pa, why don't the hind wheel of a wagon go faster than the front one?—New York World.

Grocer—Well, little one, what can I do for you?

Jenny—Please, sir, mamma says to change a dollar for her as' she'll give you the dollar to-morrow.—Truth.

Mr. Hardtack—This recommendation says you drink like a fish.

Applicant for position—Do it? Wa-al, I 'spec' he mean by dat I nebber drink nuffin but watah.—Judge.

Spriggs—"Hello, old man, I'm awfully glad to see you out again. I heard the doctors gave you up."

Bowles—"Yes, I guess I'd have died if they hadn't. Cleveland Leader.

A BOY CAPTAIN.

Sixteen Year-Old skipper Piloted a Fever Stricken Ship Into Port.

With death walking the deck by his side, short handed, officers dead or disabled with fever, through seven weeks of disaster, danger and fear, a boy of sixteen years of age performed an act requiring rare force of will and character in the south seas recently. His name was William Shotton and he is the son of an English sailor.

The Trafalgar, his ship, a four masted bark of 1,709 tons, sailed from Batavia with a cargo of petroleum for Melbourne, Australia. Fever broke out among the crew even before the ship left port, and Captain Edgar was invalided. Then the command devolved upon the next in authority, Mr. Roberts. But scarcely had the ship weighed anchor, when he, too, was stricken, together with several other able bodied members of the crew. The ship carpenter next succumbed to the fever, and in quick succession Chief Officer Robe leaped overboard in delirium. The entire charge of the ship thereupon devolved upon Shotton. Luckily for all concerned, he was born of a race of born sailors, and received some instruction in navigation.

For a time the winds were moderate, but the fever still pursued its deadly course, and on December 7 the cook died, the sixth victim of the disease. Port Fairy, Australia, was the first place sighted on the mainland, but this was by no means the end of the boy captain's troubles. A few days later a fearful storm broke out, and Shotton was of the opinion that nothing could be done but run before it, since to attempt to withstand it would almost certainly mean destruction in the weakened state of the crew. All of the crew who were half fit for duty were ordered on deck and the necessary steps were taken to put the ship in order to carry out the decision. Day and night the boy captain was at the helm of the bridge, giving his orders amid the awful tempest with a coolness and calmness which would have moved many a gray haired skipper to envy. Finally the wind moderated and the vessel was able to resume its journey to the Victoria coast.—New York Herald.

HOW LEAD PENCILS ARE MADE.

No Lead Used in Their Manufacture, but the Name Clings to Them.

Once pieces of lead were used for marking and we continue to use the word, though lead is no longer a part of our pencils.

"I have to laugh at the queer ideas some people have about pencils," said a manufacturer. "You will scarcely believe it, but the opinion of people who know nothing about it seem to be divided between the melting of the lead and pouring it into the hole in the wood and cutting out the lead to fit the hole. The part that goes into our pencils other than the lead is cedar, and comes from the swamps of Florida. It is obtained from the fallen trees that lie there. There are men there who make a business of supplying to pencil manufacturers this cedar in blocks which are sawed to the length of the pencil, some thick, to receive the lead, and others thin, for the piece that is glued over the other containing the lead. The blocks are sawed for four pencils each. The groove is made by a saw, and in this the lead lies.

"I know," continued the manufacturer, "that not one out of ten thousand persons has the least idea of what this lead is. See, here is a fine black powder; that is graphite, and costs somewhere about twenty-five cents a pound. This white substance is German clay. It comes across the ocean in ballast, and all of its costs us is for freight. We mix clay and powder together and grind them in a mill, moistening the mass carefully during the process, until the two are thoroughly mingled and it comes to a paste that is about the consistency of putty. Here are the dies for the leads, into which we press this paste of graphite and clay. These leads are kept in the glue pots are placed in the grooves as the blocks are made ready. When the lead is put in there snugly and forever, the thin block is glued to the thick one and left to dry thoroughly."—Philadelphia Times.

COWS WITH EARRINGS.

Adopted in Belgium to Keep Tuberculosis Out of the Country.

A cow is the last creature one would expect to see with earrings, yet every cow in Belgium has got to wear them now. The Director-General of agriculture has made regulations that all animals of the bovine species are to wear earrings as soon as they have attained the age of three months.

This is a hygienic measure, intended to prevent the introduction into Belgium of animals suffering from tuberculosis.

Breeders are to be obliged to keep an exact account of all animals raised by them, and the ring (on which is engraved a number) is fastened in the animal's ear for the purpose of preventing—or helping to prevent—the substitution of one animal for another.—New York World.

Paradoxical.

Mrs. Swellington—Are you sure this is the fashion?

Modiste—Oui, madame! Ze ver' latest.

Mrs. Swellington—(still doubtful)—Queer! It looks well and feels comfortable.—Judge.

The Same the World Over.

Onthebumbey—"All All! why haven't feet like a centipede?"

The Grand Vizier—"What for, your plitanship?"

Onthebumbey—"My wives have all given me embroidered slippers for birthday presents."—Judge.

NEW IDEA TO STOP JAIL-BREAKING.

Doors and Windows Made of Tubular Grating that Connect with the Office.

A system of tubular grating for prisons has been invented which practically makes escape by means of sawing the bars of cell doors and windows impossible.

The system is built on the vacuum principle. The doors and windows of the prison cell are constructed of pipe, each system of cell bars having a pump at present in use. The pipes of each cell are continued from the cell to the warden's office, where they are connected with a vacuum gauge, a combination alarm and annunciator valve and a stop valve. There is a connection from the vacuum pipe and a pump, by which the air is exhausted from all the grating and a vacuum formed in the pipes. The lock used in connection with this new system is made on the same principle.

Caged behind these vacuum bars a prisoner could not escape by means of cutting, filing or sawing the bars, nor by without sounding an alarm on the warden's annunciator. Any opening made in the bars would break the vacuum and send the air rushing through the pipe to the alarm valve, indicating on the annunciator the exact spot where the opening had been made.

This system has been tried successfully and seems to afford an invulnerable protection against jailbreaking. It has been examined and pronounced thoroughly practical by such authorities as Sheriff Tamsen, Warden Sage, of Sing Sing, and Deputy Sheriff Bedell of Queen's county.—New York Journal.

PECULIARITY OF POISON IVY

Doesn't Seem to Effect Everyone Alike—Cattle Eat It Greedily.

Just what it is that induces poison ivy to play its injurious pranks on some people at some times and not on others is a profound mystery. One thing is certain, that the number of people susceptible to the poisoning influence must be extremely few, from the fact that in the vicinity of Philadelphia the highways and byways are overrun with the plant to an enormous extent, and it frequently impossible for people to go by without brushing against it, and if it is the vapor or some exudation from the plant which causes the trouble thousands of persons must be under the influence to every one who suffers from it. The writer of this paragraph lives on a tract of land on which the plant grows profusely, and on which many scores of laborers are employed. These laborers are frequently set to weeding and pulling out the plant by the naked hand, and, so far as the writer knows, none of these men were ever troubled by it. The cattle eat it greedily whenever they get an opportunity. It seems to have no injurious effect on them.—Meehan's Monthly.

STEEL INSTEAD OF WOOD.

Enormous Grain Elevators Constructed of Metal.

The uses of structural steel, which made the "sky scraper" of to-day a possibility, are constantly extending, and now it appears that the business of erecting great towering grain elevators is to be revolutionized. The costly and inflammable timber that clogs the air at the great shipping fronts on river, lake and ocean front will under the new order, have perhaps greater capacity than those of to-day.

A big grain storehouse as at present put up, requires from 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 feet of lumber; quite an item for these days of disappearing forests. Small steel elevators having proved successful, architects set to work to carry the idea further, with the result that the Canadian Pacific Railroad has built at Port William, on Lake Superior, and the Northern Elevating Company at Buffalo, grain elevators with a capacity of 30,000,000 bushels each, and it is not improbable that the last wooden elevator has been built.—New York Journal.

Gander Trips a Lively Measure.

Geese have music in their toes —or their souls, or somewhere. Start a violin and a flock of wild geese will almost invariably prance to its strains. But one never goes will dance to the music of a commonplace accordion, and when one is found who will perform a jig to its measure his doings should be duly chronicled.

In Lanesboro, Pa., one was discovered the other day which became fairly intoxicated with glee at the sound of an accordion. He danced a jig, keeping admirable time to the music.

After the experiment had been tried two or three times his taste for the pleasure became so pronounced that he would venture up to the piazza of the house with the evident intention of inviting further music.

A Cynical Proposition.

"How did you come to vote for that man?"

"I thought he would make the best official."

"But he had no experience whatever."

"That's just the point. It'll take him nearly all the time he stays in office to learn the different ways by which he can get the best of us. And then we can put in another man."—Washington Star.

The Japanese apply one of their many pretty ways to the launching of ships. They use no wine, but hang over the ship's prow a large pasteboard cage full of birds, and the moment the ship is afloat a man pulls a string, when the cage opens and the birds fly away, making the air alive with music and the whirr of wings. The idea is that the birds thus welcome the ship as she begins her career as a thing of life.

HE GOT THEM BOTH.

The Fledgling Lawyer Makes a Splendid Stroke of Business.

"My best stroke of business was when I first hung out my shingle in the West," said a lawyer who now handles none but the most important and remunerative cases.

"As I was pacing up and down the little office one morning, wondering what I could go at if my first case didn't come soon, I answered a knock at the door and in most a young lady who had all the glow and vigor of the prairie with the easy society ways of a cultured Eastern woman. While I was trying to recover my breath she told me that she was a messenger from her father, who had heard that there was a new lawyer in town, and wanted his opinion in a matter that threatened to lead to a lawsuit. I took the letter she handed me and found it signed by the rich old rancheman.

"But your father asks an opinion without making any statement of his case,' I said after reading.

"'It's evident that you don't know papa. If you sent back for further information he would denounce you as an ignoramus and have nothing more to do with you. Write something learned in language but obscure in ideas. Quote a lot of your musty old law books, and be sure to get initial, and, above all things, abuse the other man with merciless bitterness.'

"In three hours she was back from her shopping, and the 'learned opinion' was ready. The language was positively ominous. The sentences were long and involved. The Latin was injected with out reference to the context, and the abuse was underlined with red ink. She read and laughed until her sparkling eyes rained tears down her brilliant cheeks. 'You must arrange to do all papa's law business,' she warned me at parting, and I danced a boisterous solo when the door closed on her.

"Next day came a letter from papa. He had at last found a lawyer. The opinion was worthy of a Webster or a Choate. He enclosed $1,000, and made me his attorney. Later I got the daughter."

TENNYSON AND THE PEERAGE

Refused a Baronetcy Three Times but at Last Persuaded to Accept It.

Three times the baronetcy was offered to Tennyson, says Mr. Mable in the Atlantic, and as many times he refused it. When, therefore, one day in 1883, Mr. Gladstone said to the Laureate's son, 'I ask for no sake of myself, he wished to offer his father the higher distinction of a barony, there was grave doubt about its acceptance. The only difficulty which the Prime Minister thought insurmountable was the possible resistance by the wife-peers to the introduction into the House of Lords! Tennyson was still beyond the mere battery of an offer of the peerage that he took the friendly urgence of Mr. Gladstone with complain plain Mr. Tennyson to the end of his days. He was finally persuaded, however, that as the foremost representative of literature in England, he ought not to put aside a distinction which would mark the formal recognition of the place and position of literature in the life of a great people, 'it cannot but be touched,' he wrote to Mr. Gladstone, "by the friendliness of your desire that this mark of distinction should be conferred on myself, and I rejoice that you, who have shown such a true devotion to literature, by pursuing it in the midst of what seems to most of us overwhelming and all-absorbing business, should be the man thus publicly to proclaim the position which literature ought to hold in the world's work."

Insisted on Her Rights.

The Duchess of Aosta, who is closely related to the King of Italy, is a woman with a distinct mind of her own. When she first began to ride the King gave orders that she should not be insulted by a sentry as she rode by on her wheel. Obedient to the royal command the first sentry she passed ignored her presence, whereupon the Duchess promptly dismounted and boxed the man's ears. Now however, the consequence does all the other courts in the world and the sentry salutes the royal family as it goes wheeling past.—New York World.

Archer's Fine Shot.

When Fred Archer, England's famous jockey, once consulted one of England's most famous surgeons, the surgeon said:

"You must not think me rude, Mr. Archer, but I take no interest in any branch of sport, and I have never heard your name."

"Well, said Archer, I hope you won't think me rude, either; but the friend advised me to consult you, as I have heard your name talked of, and when I asked my friend who you were, he said 'He is the Fred Archer of the surgical profession.'"

A Pitiable Case.

The Mistress—I'm very careful, Marie, when you give little Algernon a bath. He shrinks from it so.

The New Nurse—Do he, ma'am? That's bad. Why, after the three more shrinkin's there'll be nothin left of him.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There is a children's theater in Pittsburg. It is diminutive but perfect in all its appointments, the stage, orchestra, auditorium, chairs, lights, scenery and policemen all being in proportion to the relative size of the members of the audience to be entertained. There is also a nursery, with cosey and neat attendants.

THE FLICKERING JET.

(An old, old story.)
Gas low,
Brave—fair—
Yet know,
Been there.

Soft eyes,
Old theme—
Long ashes—
Sweet dream.

Years pass,
Dream o'er;
Low gas
Once more.

A yawn,
Some sighs—
Exeon
O mise!

—Cleveland Leader.

THE GILKERSONS.

BY WILLIAMETTA A. PRESTON.

"Did I ever tell ye o' the Gilkersons?" asked Aunt Hility Buell, looking into the fireplace, where a cheerful fire was striving to atone for the raging elements without.

"You told us of a Gilkerson who was a laird in the old country," replied Ellen Lawton. "Wasn't there a story about their coming over from Scotland? I always wanted to know more about them."

"Tew, that was Duncan Gilkerson. He come to Brakewood an' lived an' died on the place his brother had bought an' cleared. That was the story I had in mind to tell ye.

"It was only a log house. Malcolm Gilkerson, folks said, run away from home. At any rate, he come to Brakewood when the town was fust laid out, an' bought a farm, an' built this log house. After a year or so he went off, nobody knew where, and the place went to rack an' ruin. By-and-by Duncan come with his wife and children an' all his household belongin's. But that was afore my time. Why, the fust thing I can remember was playin' with Chris. She was as pretty a picter—

"Besides Chris there was Rob. He was a master hand for music, and could play his old bagpipes like all possessed. Malcolm had a horn, and they all used to play it. I do s'pose they was a hard time gettin' a Hvin'; but they was as chirk as crickets over it. Chris looked as fresh as a rose in her new an' linen or wool gowns, allers the same plaid pattern.

"We allers asked 'em to our frolics, an' never minded that they didn't ask us back. We wouldn't have wanted to have gone if they had, for Mis' Gilkerson had the name o' bein' cross an' snappish like. Men who had worked there hinted that there was some mystery in the house. It was covered picter, chairs all sewed up in cloth, and some even went so far as to say there was a ghost in the loft that cried an' sobbed o' nights.

"Everybody could see they was bein' kinder pinchin' money. The parson called on 'em many a time an' tried to persuade 'em to be a leetle more liberal, to lay up part o' their treasure in heaven; but neither he nor the church committee, who was trying to raise money for a new building, could get a cent from them.

"Arter a spell—it was the summer Chris an' me was eighteen—they built a new house. 'Twas time, for the old one was a sight, ready to tumble in over their heads. Folks 'spected they'd put up some sort of a makeshift for a house; but no; they blossomed right out; there wasn't another house in all Brakewood that could begin to compare with theirs.

"I s'pose they might!' said Miss Pettigrew, the village tailoress. She had a sharp tongue, an' allers carried a budget o' news as she went from house to house with her goose. 'When it worked char last year—wall, I just wish ye could 'a' seen the table they set me down to! Thin, gritty cakes, oatmeal porridge, brown bread an' cold meat, an' the queerest kind o' cake. I'll warrant that was made out of oatmeal, too; not a scrap o' white bread or ginger cake nor nut cakes nor pie; an' the tea wan't even colored, sprinkled right up then—I'm real dependent on my tea—an' I told Mis' Gilkerson that it was a sin an' a shame for any one to be so miserly. I told her it was only water bewitched an' tea bewitched. My, if that Gilkerson girl hev was as red as a piny, an' she told me I might take my goose an' go an' sow to darken her doors agin'.

"Of course the story spread and grew under the house did, but for a long while Rob an' Malcolm an' Chris never hinted a word of it. One day Chris stayed to supper with me—she was goin' to a huskin' together afterwards—an' Miss Pettigrew dropped in, as she allers did, a habit o' doin'.

"When mother gave her a cup o' tea she looked at it, an' then passed it over to Chris.

"'There, that's what I call tea! If your mother's had been like that, I shouldn't ha' had a word to say. Here you only have bewitched an' tea bewitched. My, if that Gilkerson girl hev was as red as a piny, an' she told me I might take my goose an' go an' sow to darken her doors agin'.

"Of course the story spread and grew under the house did, but for a long while Rob an' Malcolm an' Chris never hinted a word of it. One day Chris stayed to supper with me—she was goin' to a huskin' together afterwards—an' Miss Pettigrew dropped in, as she allers did, a habit o' doin'.

"When mother gave her a cup o' tea she looked at it, an' then passed it over to Chris.

"'There, that's what I call tea! If your mother's had been like that, I shouldn't ha' had a word to say. Here you only have bewitched an' tea gone astray.'

"Chris got right up from the table as white as a sheet, an' got so mad she would in spite of all we could say.

"'Was the fashion then to have home-warmin's, but the Gilkersons had no pudjerky, arter they found out what folks had been sayin' about 'em that they wouldn't accept a favor from nobody; we didn't know whether we should do to give 'em one or not. I had been with Chris so much that I knowed Mis' Gilkerson wasn't nigh as as folks tried to make out. So I could say 'I told ye so' when Miss Gilkerson asked a lot o' Chris' friends an' some o' the women to a quiltin' or the young men to come to suppers or help shake the quilts.

"It was the fust time anybody had been asked there in all the eight or nine years they'd lived in Brakewood an' we took the hint at once an' got up the biggest house-warmin' ever seed in town. My brother Asel was sweet on Chris, an' he knowed it would please her to have everybody come.

"Mother an' I went over right after dinner. In them days we didn't wait until supper time if we was invited out.

"The new house was a big one, with a hip roof an' a piazzy all around. There was four big square rooms in the main part, with a hall runnin' straight threw into the L, an' six big chambers. They was furnished harnsome, too. I could hardly believe that they was the same cheers that had stood in tow antlines covers in the old house, but Chris said they was; that they had brought them from Scotland with a lot of other truck.

"'Mother expected to find a good house here from what Uncle Malcolm told them, an' when they found it as they were, she jest covered the furniture so 't would last till she had a decent place to put it. Here's the ghost.' She drew me into the front room an' showed me a spinet. 'I used to go up to the ladder in the loft an' practise nights, an' so folks thought it was a spirit.'

"They had three quilts on; one was a windin' stair an' one was a blazin' star an' the last was the clans o' Scotland. Chris told me that each block she pieced she had a letter from Widowson, in order to copy the inscription, had to lie full length upon the coffin, with his candle on the lid. The night was a wild and gusty one, and the wind, howling and roaring around the house, made a dismal accompaniment to country people than by steel, flint and tinder box, and the pair went without these encumbrances.

On descending into the vault, they found the coffin still on trestles, and Chris spent the night in Widowson's room

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force. Editor and Proprietor

COLLECTOR SPENCER'S TROUBLE.

The report submitted to the Borough Council last night by the special committee appointed to inspect the books of the collector, the most salient parts of which are published in The Press today, will prove a revelation to the taxpayers.

It is a sad commentary on the executive branches af borough government during the time that this condition has been forming itself that such faults in the conduct of so important an office as collector should not have been detected. But it is a fact that the usual auditing process in vogue in either private or public institutions is a farce so far as being able to quickly discern an error or discrepancy—the result actually being that where such conditions prevail they are not found out until massed in astounding results.

But let it be said right here that Collector Spencer's faults as disclosed by the special committee are those developing from what is simply and very aptly termed a "big heart"—his blindness of spirit permitting him to countenance certain acts and demands that one of another temperament would have avoided. No borough official harbors the thought that Mr. Spencer has acted with any intent of wrong doing.

Naturally, long association in the public affairs of the borough has brought a circle of faithful friends to Mr. Spencer, and some of these have undeservedly criticised the officials who took the initative in inaugurating the investigation which has made such a sensation. Neither Mayor Wilson nor any of the members of the Borough Council found it a a pleasant task to bring about such an investigation, but a keen and conscious sense of their duty to the borough left them no alternative. Praise should be accorded them for their act—no matter how unpleasant the result is to contemplate.

It is to be presumed that Collector Spencer will have an answer to the strictures made by the committee on his methods, and no doubt his side of the case will considerably lessen the critical feeling that the report may incur in the minds of those reading it now.

THE ACTING GOVERNOR.

Newspapers and lawyers are indulging in a very interesting discussion relative to the dual office held by Governor Voorhees. He is Acting Governor of New Jersey; he is also the president of the Senate. As the first named office accrues to him by virtue of his holding the second, he cannot relinquish the presidency without losing at once the office of Acting Governor. He is entitled, therefore, to his $666 salary as president and also $10,000 as Governor; the largest salary ever paid to the State's chief executive. The discussion referred to relates not to the salaries, but to the dual duties that may arise. To maintain his standing as president of the Senate the Acting Governor has decided to appear in the Senate chamber occasionally, answer to the roll call, and then retire to the executive chamber without taking any further part in the Senate proceedings. It will be seen, however, that while Governor Voorhees performs none of the duties of a Senator, he does not relinquish the right to do so should the necessity arise. He is not deprived of any of the prerogatives of the lesser office; he merely attends to the duties of chief executive, abstaining from his sena torial functions.

CITY CLERKSHIP.

In considering available candidates for the responsible position of City Clerk, Robert A. Meeker's name commends itself to those who know of Mr. Meeker's abilities. Mr. Meeker is fitted by natural aptitude and educational qualifications for the position, being quick and thorough in his manner and a graduate of Princeton College. Beyond these qualifications another important thing that would tend to make him a satisfactory official is the fact that he is already established in a suite of finely appointed offices in the center of the city, where he can be found during business hours, and where those having transactions with the City Clerk could do business personally with the Clerk.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

TELLING TALES.

Do school children of the present day hold in less aversion the "telltale" or "tattletale" than did those who, a quarter of a century ago, braved the master's rod rather than tell? The question is suggested by the report of a test made in the schools of Utica by Superintendent George Griffith At his prompting 3,000 children were asked to give their written opinion, anonymously, it is supposed, as to whether one pupil should testify against another. Voluntary telling or "tattling" was not meant in the test, but only 15 per cent. of the children noted the distinction, so that the result may be accepted as the children's opinion of the "tattler." The question asked was whether it was right or wrong, and it appears that the boys told more robust views (judged in the remembrance of old school days) on the matter than do the girls. Of the 2,834 who answered the question, 494 boys, or 38 per cent., and 375 girls, or 25 per cent., considered it right not to tell, the larger percentage of both regarding it as wrong. In other days the "tattler" was ostracized after having been soundly thrashed outside of the school yard, and those who aided in the thrashing can hardly understand the mental attitude of the Utica children who justify the talebearer, whether his information comes voluntarily or on request.

TO ABOLISH TRADING STAMPS.

A bill that will be regarded with great interest and importance in Plainfield was introduced into the Senate yesterday by Senator Francis. It will probably please a good many merchants and cause a wailing and gnashing of teeth among the prudhousewives of the community. The bill makes it unlawful for any person to "sell, or offer for sale, any article or merchandise of any description whatever, with the promise, express or implied, to give or deliver, or in any manner hold out the promise of gift or delivery of any ticket, check, metal or paper stamp, or any article of merchandise or other written or printed promise or assurance, express or implied, that the said ticket, check, etc., may be used in payment or purchase of, or exchange for, any article of merchandise from any person or corporation." A fine of $1,000 or six months' imprisonment for engaging in any form of trading stamp business is provided by the bill.

THE FIREMEN'S HOME.

Alive to the interests of their city, the New Brunswick Board of Trade are turning their efforts towards securing the location of the proposed home for veteran firemen of New Jersey in that community. What particular claims and advantages New Brunswick has to induce the committee in charge of the proposed home to favor the Middlesex county capital do not appear, but from a general knowledge of the town it is safe to be presumed that they can possibly compare favorably with Plainfield's offer of the Netherwood-Hunterston hotel property. The hotel property is peculiarly fitted for the purposes of providing a pleasant abiding place for the old fire laddies, and if Plainfielders urge the selection in an aggressive manner it ought to be the choice of the managers.

WELLER'S SILLY BILL.

Assemblyman Frank Weller Tuesday introduced the most silly bill of the season so far in the Assembly. It provides for a tax of $2 on bachelors in the State, as per an obsolete law of 1846. The measure is very loosely drawn, and while it was no doubt introduced as a joke, it will put the State to considerable expense before the end comes. The speaker very properly referred the bill to the committee on lunatic asylums.

DeVoe Sees Another Blizzard.

Weather Prophet DeVoe, of Hackensack, says: "There will we a severe gale at sea February 27th. At the same time a big blizzard will prevail along the middle Atlantic coast. We will have about a foot of snow, and the weather will remain cold from February 25th to the close of the month. This blizzard will close our winter and you can look for an early spring."

STATE OF OHIO, City of Toledo, } ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists. 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

HYMEN WAS SO SLY HERE

A NEW YEAR'S DAY MARRIAGE JUST MADE PUBLIC.

Minnie Farleigh and Alfred R. Trenchard Joined in Wedlock, but Relatives Didn't Know of it for Over a Month.

This year is an eventful one for Miss Minnie Farleigh and Alfred R. Trenchard, both of the borough. On the first day of the new year they went to New York together and there were quietly married unbeknown to relatives or friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William F. Anderson, pastor of the Washington Square M. E. church, at the parsonage, 133 West Fourth street, New York. The marriage took place in the evening.

Trenchard was studying law in the offices of Codington & Swackhamer until last fall when he entered Rand's stationary store where he is now employed as a clerk. He is a young man. The couple were known to be good friends and Trenchard was frequently a caller at the home of Miss Farleigh who lived with her mother, Mrs. Mundy, of Summit avenue.

The young people kept the marriage a secret until sometime afterwards.

The news was a great surprise to the relatives of the girl, but there was no opposition from them as they considered Trenchard a young man of excellent character and habits. His parents live in Warren township and have not yet learned the circumstances of their son's marriage.

The couple are now living together in the borough. Sunday there was a family gathering at the house and all was peace and quietness.

BUILDING BOOM IS NOW ON.

HANDSOME NEW HOUSES GOING UP.

Activity in the East End of the City Which Makes Business Brisk for Contractors.

The hearts of contractors will be made glad. From present indications the coming spring will be a notable one as a boom in the building trade. Already the march of improvement has commenced and by the time spring arrives Plainfield will witness a lively building period.

Among the most notabe buildings to be erected soon is one by Philip J. R. VanWyck, of Stelle avenue, who has secured plans for a dwelling house to cost $30,000. It will be erected on Stelle avenue, and will be one of the most complete houses in this locality. Councilman VanHerwerden has started the erection of a house on South avenue, which will be a handsome residence. James Guttridge, of Netherwood, has started to build two new houses on South avenue. Charles H. Hand, the progressive citizen, is now building a handsome dwelling at the corner of Belvidere and South avenues, which he will occupy himself when completed. Mr. Hand is also erecting a new house on East Sixth street, near Berckman street, and has received the contract to build an up to date real estate office opposite the Netherwood station for a new real estate firm, which will be known as the Belvidere Heights Real Estate Company.

Thomas Minford, of Watchung and Woodland avenues, has sold a large piece of property in that neighborhood and four new houses will be built thereon by Plainfield people. In the neighborhood of Charlotte road a handsome park is being laid out and four new houses will be built in that locality.

Mr. Cosgrove, of Hillside avenue, has exchanged his property for property in North Plainfield, and will move in the spring. J. H. Sorenson, the Netherwood butcher, has purchased the butcher business of John Mair at the corner of Richmond street and North avenue, and will take possession March 1st.

POPULAR YOUNG MAN DEAD.

S. Albert Fraleigh Stricken Down on the Threshold of Manhood.

Death came suddenly to S. Albert Fraleigh, of Bound Brook, as he stood on the very threshold of manhood. He was popular with the young people of that place, and his death came as a great shock to all who knew him. Young Fraleigh has been suffering from rheumatism for some time past, but his illness was not considered serious. When he awoke Saturday morning he found that he was paralyzed on one side. Soon after he became unconscious and died at o'clock.

He was born in New York city, but has lived for many years with his father, Stephen Fraleigh, on Union avenue, Bound Brook. He was employed for some time as a draughtsman in the Pond Machine Tool Works. He was well known in this city. His brother, Harry Fraleigh, is a regular patrolman on the Plainfield police force. Albert Fraleigh was twenty years of age.

Discharged From Hospital.

E. P. T. Smith, of West Fourth street, who has been confined to Muhlenberg Hospital during the past seven weeks, was discharged cured last Saturday. George Jacobson, a patient under treatment by Dr. Ard, was also discharged Saturday last.

ATHLETICS BARRED OUT.

NEW BUSINESS MEN'S CLUB FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES ONLY.

An Informal Meeting of the Interested Ones Held Saturday Night—Work of Organizing to be Started Immediately.

The germ that emanated in the ruins of the defunct Crescent Wheelmen has developed. The movement looking toward a new club for this city is steadily gaining ground. Saturday evening some of those who are specially interested in the scheme gathered in the rooms of the late club, which were kindly loaned to them by Councilman J. F. Buckle, who holds the property and lease. The meeting was one for discussion. It resulted, however, in a decision to form the proposed club on new and distinctive lines. It was also definitely decided that the first steps looking toward the regular organization should be started at once.

There were some thirty of the interested ones who gathered there for the meeting. While the support of the old club had not been so active, they missed the good times at the old club-house and the project of renewing them found universal satisfaction. There was no formal action taken. No committees appointed. It was the sense of the assembled gathering, however, that a paper should be circulated at once to secure the names of those who will pledge themselves to join the new organization. It is expected that there will be no difficulty in placing fifty names on the list. Fifty is the number which it is calculated will be sufficient to support the club. With that number it is the intention of the leaders to start the club, unless there are a greater number who wish to join at once.

The new club will in no way be related to the Crescent Wheelmen. Many of the members of the defunct organization will doubtless belong to the new club, but that will be no requisite for membership. Athletics will have nothing to do with the new club. It will be distinctly a social club for the business men of the city. The business men and not the young men will make up the membership.

Now the paper is to be circulated among the business men. Another meeting is to be held in a short time when the interested ones will meet and a permanent organization will be formed. The details of that organization will not be decided upon until the meeting.

FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

A Successful Cake Sale Conducted by the King's Daughters.

An informal cake sale was held at the residence of Mrs. H. A. Pope, 110 West Fifth street, Saturday afternoon by the members of the Advance Circle of King's Daughters of the First Presbyterian church. The object of the sale was to raise money for the charitable objects of the circle. Despite the unpropitious weather the sale was well attended and all the supply of cakes was sold before the sale was over. The only regret was that a greater supply had not been provided as the demand continued even after the stock was gone.

The sale was, in a measure, an experimental one to see if such an undertaking might be held with success. The result was very satisfactory and another one is now shoaded in than the first, will probably be held this winter.

Besides the table of cakes, there was another table where tea and wafers were served. Mrs. J. A. Haynes and Mrs. H. A. Pope presided over the latter. The other ladies who assisted at the sale were Mrs. George O. Stevens, Mrs. J. E. Beerbower, Mrs. J. A. Smith, Miss Ella Bliss and Mrs. W. W. Martin. The receipts from the sale will probably amount to over $8.

Jolly Whisters Entertained.

The Jolly Whist Club were entertained last Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Tolles, of Westervelt avenue, and the usual pleasant time was furnished the members. P. A. Emmons and E. H. Bird were presented with the first and second prizes for the men, while Mrs. E. H. Bird and Mrs. Buckle secured the first and second prizes for the women. The club will be entertained at the next meeting by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Fairview avenue.

Lucky Coover.

It Will Surprise You.

In order to prove the great merit of Ely's Cream Balm, the most effective cure for Catarrh and Cold in Head, your druggist will supply a generous 10 cent trial size or we will mail for 10 cents. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

Ely's Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio.

Agreeably Surprised.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Searing, Jr., of Westervelt avenue, were agreeably surprised Friday night by a few of their intimate friends. The evening was one of enjoyment to all, and many pleasant features were presented on the programme for the evening.

Prevent Pneumonia

Prevention is always better than cure, even when cure is possible. But so many times pneumonia is not cured that prevention becomes the natural act of that instinct of self-preservation which is "the first law of nature." Pneumonia can be prevented and is often cured by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Some years ago I had a severe cold and was threatened with pneumonia. I could neither eat nor sleep, and was in a wretched condition. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and took it according to the directions, and at the end of fifteen days as as well and sound as before the attack. I have recommended it in many cases of pneumonia since, and have never known it to fail in effecting a cure."

JOHN HENRY, St. Joseph, La.

"I was attacked with a cold that settled on my lungs, and defied the skill of my physicians so that they considered me incurable. At last I began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and was entirely cured after having taken two bottles."

FRANCISCO A. SEVERIANO, Taunton, Mass.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is put up in half-size bottles at half price—50 cents.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be obtained by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proves by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 96 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Want a New Trial.

Attorney Isaac P. Runyon, of the firm of Pope & Runyon, of this city, Saturday made a motion for a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted in the case of Scott against McVey, which was decided by Judge McCormick Friday in favor of the plaintiff. The grounds on which a new trial is demanded are that the judgment was against the weight of evidence and was excessive in amount. The motion will be argued before Judge McCormick at Elizabeth, Feb. 16th.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c, For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

Motorman Wants to Sell Liquor.

Mark Hipp, one of the applicants for a liquor license at the meeting of the City Council last Monday, is now a motorman on the street railway. He desires to open a saloon in the place owned by Michael Watson, on Grant avenue.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 3:30, 5, 8:30p.m. Close—7:00, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 2:30 p. m. SOMERVILLE and EASTON.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 2 and 6:15 p. m. Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 2 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:30, and 5:30 p. m. Close—7:00, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 2:30 p. m. Through fast mail for West and South, close 3:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:00 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.

Mail closes at 8:30 a. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Luxurious Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 14th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2 14, 3 27, 5 20, 6 58, 7 55, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 a. m., 12 30, 1 30, 2 30, 3 30, 4 30, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday 2 45, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 2 45, 4 45, 6 00, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 a. m., 12 45, 1 45, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 30, 6 30, 7 30, 8 30, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m. Sunday—At 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Plainfield at 2 27, 3 40, 5 33, 7 08, 8 08, 9 08, 10 08, 11 08, 12 08 m., 1 08, 2 08, 3 08, 4 07, 5 07, 6 07, 7 07, 8 07, 9 07, 10 07, 11 07 p. m. Sunday 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 a. m., 12 05, 1 05, 2 05, 3 05, 4 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 8 05, 9 05, 10 05, 11 05 p. m.

Leave Newark at 4 16, 7 18, 8 03 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 a. m., 12 03, 1 16, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 p. m. Sunday at 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 a. m., 12 03, 1 03, 2 03, 3 03, 4 03, 5 03, 6 03, 7 03, 8 03, 9 03, 10 03, 11 03 p. m.

Leave Elizabeth for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6 46, 7 30, 8 32, 9 32, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Sunday 8 32, 9 32, 11 02 a. m., 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 02, 7 05, 9 05, a. m., 12 05, 1 05, 3 05, 5 05, 6 05, 7 05, 9 05, 11 05 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 11 25 a. m., 12 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 24 a. m., 12 12 m., 5 35 p. m.

WARD CONNECTIONS.

6 45 a. m.—For Flemington, Ringoes, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

7 25 a. m.—For stations to Bound Brook, inclusive, Somerville, Bridgewater, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch.

8 16 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R. Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 02 a. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. (Buffet parlor car to Scranton.)

9 05 and 9 25 p. m.—West on Lehigh Valley R. R. and North on High Bridge Branch.

4 00 p. m.—For Flemington.

4 30 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, and Shamokin.

5 22 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 05 a. m. Sundays for Easton.

9 05 a. m. Sundays for Bound Brook for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Williamsport, Tamaqua.

4 00 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

4 30 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, etc., and at Junction for N. Y. & L. B. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 6 27, 8 32, 10 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Ocean Grove, 1 02 a. m. Sundays, 6 27, 8 32, 10 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Sundays, 1 32, 3 02, 5 02, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Ocean Grove, 1 02 a. m.

For Atlantic City, 9 27 a. m., 12 02 noon, 2 02, 5 02, 6 32 p. m. Sundays, 9 27 a. m., 12 02 noon, 2 02, 5 02, 6 32 p. m.

For Cape May, 9 27 a. m., 12 02 noon, 2 02 p. m. Sundays, 9 27 a. m., 12 02 noon, 2 02 p. m.

For Millville, Vineland, Tuckahoe, River and Bridgeton, 9 27, 12 02 noon, 2 02 p. m. Sundays, 9 27 a. m., 12 02 noon, 2 02 p. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 6 27, 7 32, 8 32, 10 02, 11 02 a. m., 12 02, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Sundays, 6 27, 8 32, 10 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m.

Leave Philadelphia, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 6 27, 8 32, 10 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m. Sundays at 6 27, 8 32, 10 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 32, 3 02, 4 32, 5 32, 6 32, 8 02, 9 32, 11 02 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, at 9 27 a. m. Sundays at 9 27 a. m. and 2 02 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Elizabeth.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be obtained upon application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect January 16, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 37 a.m. 1 44 and 6 20 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. and 6 25 p. m. Local for Mauch Chunk.

8 24 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 54 a. m., 3 34, 6 26 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Mauch Chunk.

12 02 p. m. daily except Sunday. Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo 2 34 and 4 40 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pittston, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & N. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 14 p. m. daily except Sunday for Stations and principal intermediate stations.

7 22 and 10 20 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 03 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Elmira, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves station New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; passengers only; does not carry baggage.

9 18 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & N. Junction.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn, local 4 46, 7 31 and 9 40 a. m., 2 25, 4 45 and 7 10 p. m. Sunday 7 15, 9 03 a. m., 2 29 and 7 10 p. m.

7 36, 8 27, 10 03 a. m., 12 17, 4 02, 7 07 and 8 02 p. m. Sunday 7 36 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 36, 7 36, 10 02, 5. m., 12 16, 2 36, 4 02, 6 07 and 7 20 p. m. Sunday 8 00 and 9 20 a. m., 7 20 and 7 10 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent, S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHARLES E. LEE, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMACHER, Asst. General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

A GREAT TROLLEY LINK.

ELECTRIC MAGNATES MAY CONSOLIDATE THEIR INTERESTS.

By the Consummation of Such a Deal Philadelphia and Jersey City Will Have Trolley Connection—Plainfield in It

It is rumored that a most important financial deal is about to be consummated as a part of an immense scheme that will affect several portions of Union county. The reported deal is the consolidation of the Suburban Electric Company of Elizabeth with the People's Electric Company of Newark. This latter company already controls all the electric plants in Jersey City, Newark and the Oranges, besides a number of others, and one of its most important contracts is the furnishing of power to the lines of the Consolidated Traction Company.

It is understood that the contemplated deal is but one move in the consummation of a plan to connect all parts of Union county with the main system of electric light and trolley systems that eventually will be linked together from Jersey City to Philadelphia, and the consummation of the Elizabeth deal, it is said, will be dependent largely upon the success attending plans in other parts of this county.

Another plan that enters into the great deal is the building and operation of a trolley line between Elizabeth and Plainfield, and if the capitalists interested in the deal between the Suburban and the Newark companies secure control of the Elizabeth Plainfield line the whole system is assured of success, so the report states. The line that is expected to be built between Elizabeth and Plainfield will be one of the most important links in the Jersey City-Philadelphia line.

If these plans are successful, the electric station in Elizabeth will be made the central supply for all the lines that converge there. That would mean that the present plant would have to be enlarged considerably, as at present it is not prepared to supply much electricity of the kind and in the quantities necessary to run trolley cars. The Rahway plant would probably be kept in operation for the supply of the Rahway-Boynton Beach line, and the Plainfield power house would be necessary for the supply of the trolley roads west of this city, but the trolley lines the east side of this city, as well as the ones in Elizabeth, with perhaps the line across Newark avenue to Newark, would be supplied from the Elizabeth power house.

NEW TELEPHONES.

Names of New Subscribers to the Plainfield Exchange.

The work of recruiting new subscribers for the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company still goes merrily on. A number of additions have been made to the local exchange during the last two weeks. Irving L. Rue, who is now so successfully conducting the campaign here, is not yet satisfied and is planning new roads to conquer. The new subscribers with their numbers are as follows: Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, 227 f; Joseph E. Home, residence, Franklin place, 243 s; D. W. Littell, plumbing, North avenue, 217 l; McDonough Bros., coal, Madison avenue, 225 l; City Judge DeMeza, law offices, Park avenue, 41; Plainfield Water Supply Co., office, North avenue, 244. The subscribers on the Plainfield exchange now number 214.

Westfield Postmastership.

The Westfield Republican executive committee held a meeting Saturday evening, and on the motion of former Assemblyman Charles N. Codding, it endorsed Luther M. Whittaker for the postmastership.

It's Trying

to the patience to keep on taking medicine that does not cure. But it is trying that leads to success. If you are suffering from eczema, boils, eruptions, etc., you will begin your cure the day you begin trying

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

ROSTER OF CITY SERVANTS MADE BY THE MAYOR.

IMPORTANT APPOINTMENTS SUBMITTED TO THE COUNCIL FOR CONFORMATION.

Slight Change in Police Force and Dr. Carman Succeeds Dr. Simpson as City Physician—Mayor Wants More Time to Appoint Overseer of Poor—Applications for Liquor Licenses Were Presented.

The great amount of important business transacted at the regular February meeting of the City Council held last Monday attracted the usual large number of spectators, and the lobby was hardly large enough to comfortably seat all that desired to gain admittance. All of the members were present and the meeting was called at 8 o'clock.

After the reading of the minutes the first important business was the presentation of the applications for liquor licenses. Among them were four new ones: James Burke, near the Pond Tool Works; Mark Hipp, for Michael Watson's place; Jack Kavanaugh, Grant avenue, and C. Book, next to Findlay's place on East Second street. The other applicants were J. Blimm, C. Smith, H. Haurand, Fred Caspar, Frank Linke, John Rafferty, A. Findlay, J. E. Beerbower, D. Galbraith, John Goff, Martin Kane, B. Goff. Mr. Kane has taken Sullivan's place, while Mr. Clark has taken the place formerly occupied by Mr. Goff. The latter has leased the place on Park avenue, opposite Mr. Rafferty's place. All of the applications were referred to the license committee and will be reported upon later.

A. C. Wyckoff and others asked for an electric light to be located at the corner of Berckman and Sixth streets. J. H. Leggett and others asked that a crosswalk be laid across West Front street, opposite Washington avenue. F. W. VanWyck and others asked for crosswalks at Stelle and Field avenues, and Stelle and Plainfield avenues. Charles H. Hand asked that the sewer be extended to Belvidere avenue, as he intends erecting three new houses on that avenue.

H. H. Moore and others asked for an electric light to be located on Washington avenue between Front street and Green brook. The bonds of several constables were presented and referred to the proper committee. F. U. Lounsbury communicated with the Council regarding a recent action wherein certain concessions were made to Mrs. Lounsbury in the claim of the city against her for back taxes under the Martin Act. He asked that the Council remove the condition that the city will appeal the case in the future from the decision of the court heretofore granted. This was referred to the finance committee. Later the committee recommended that the request be granted and it was so ordered.

A petition was received from the barbers of the city asking the Council to revoke the ordinance which closes the barber shops on Sunday. The claim that trade is cared for in North Plainfield on the above day, and their customers are anxious that the shops in the city be open on Sunday. The matter was referred to the police committee.

The Mayor, in a communication, asked for an extension of time until the next meeting to appoint the overseer of the poor, which appointment under the present law will be for three years, and he asked that the present holder of the office be allowed to remain in office until that appointment is made.

At this time Mayor Fisk made several appointments, the first of which was that of Corporation Counsel. Craig A. Marsh was appointed. All but Mr. Buckle voted for him. The other appointments were as follows: City physician, J. H. Carman; members Board of Health, two years, H. B. Newhall, Dr. B. VanD. Hodges, J. A. Smith; Commissioners of Appeal, J. H. Coward, 3 years; W. W. Corbell, 2 years; A. H. Atterbury, 1 year; poundmaster, Fred Wensel; first assistant fire department, James Martin; second assistant, J. W. Murray, Jr.; regular policemen, Messrs. Kiely, Frederickson, Flynn, McCue, Myers, Vanderweg, Saunders, Mattox, Totten, Lunger, Higgins, Saffron, McCarthy, Watson, and Flanagan to succeed Harry Fraleigh. The latter, the Mayor stated, was appointed as a regular to take Mr. Flanagan's place, while the latter was ill, and now that Mr. Flanagan had regained his health he thought it fair to place him back as regular. Mr. Fraleigh was appointed as a special in uniform with five others, which was the same as last year. The other list of special police appointed to act in citizen's clothes, which includes the sextons of churches, is the same as that appointed last year. The appointments of police were referred to the police committee. Regarding the appointment of T. C. Doane as chief of the fire department and inspector of buildings, and Geo. W. Grant, as chief of the police department, the Mayor stated that with the former he held office under the veteran act so long as he is able to fill the same, and with the latter he holds office under an act of the Legislature, under similar circumstances, and he did not consider it necessary to reappoint them. With regular policemen they have to be appointed from year to year, and can be removed for cause, as was so stated in an opinion rendered by the corporation counsel which refers to special policemen as well as the regulars.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that three sewer permits had been granted during the year, and Inspector of Buildings T. C. Doane reported the granting of twenty permits. Overseer of the Poor Mr. Marx reported that during the past three months sixteen new applicants for aid had been received and six were granted. Six deaths were reported and four beneficiaries had been helped. Mr. Marx stated that he had tried to effect a settlement with the officials of the First M. E. church, regarding a strip of land, twenty five feet, connected with the cemetery owned by the church, and he had thus far failed. The last-named matter was referred to the alms committee.

The Board of Health presented their annual report which showed that during the past year there had been 227 deaths, which was 16 2-10 per cent. on one thousand of the population. Four deaths were from diphtheria. There were 111 marriages, and 173 males were born and 178 females. The inspector had made 1,069 house visits and 651 connections had been made to the sewer. The expenditures for the year were $1,324.29, and the Board asked the Council to grant them $1,000 this year for the expenses of the department. The matter was received and filed.

Residents of Spooner avenue in the vicinity of Essex street asked for an electric light and the matter was referred to the proper committee. Mr. Andrews offered a resolution that several vouchers referred back by the Mayor be referred to the proper committees and that the claimants be instructed to make out bills in proper form. Mr Newman recommended the granting of two lights on Sycamore avenue near Front street and the changing of a light near the corner of Sycamore avenue and Front street to the opposite side of Front street. The recommendation was concurred in. Mr. Newman also reported on a matter concerning the changing of an electric light in the city park, which request had been made by the members of the Town Improvement Association, and this request was granted by the Council.

A resolution was offered by Mr. VanHerwerden that a warrant for $257.35 be drawn on account of sewer work.

Mr. Hetfield stated that of late a great many builders and contractors in the city had complained to him regarding the strictness of the building ordinance, and he asked that the Council refer the ordinance to the fire and building committee and that the committee hold an interview with the builders and contractors and get their views about the ordinance, and that the committee present a new ordinance to the Council for adoption, with such amendments as seem best to the committee. Such action was adopted by the Council.

The question of fixing the remaining salaries was laid over to the meeting to be held Thursday evening, Feb. 24th.

A lengthy discussion arose out of a desire on the part of the street and sewer committee to secure necessary power to do certain work concerning where they deemed it wise. Mr. Hetfield thought the power was too great and he had the matter referred to the corporation counsel for an opinion.

Mr Buckle made a motion that the appointment of policemen by the Mayor be confirmed, except a few specials, that they be agreed to be some objection. Mr. Buckle thought it best as the committee was not well acquainted with all of the specials. The Mayor was present and he was given the floor to tell about those whom he had appointed, among whom were Joseph Cooney and John Taynor. Mr. Taynor objected to the last two named. Mr. Barrows stated the reasons for objection in the case of Mr. Cooney, but after the Mayor had explained matters, the Council confirmed all but Mr. Taynor. After the auditing committee reported all bills as being correct and ordered that warrants be drawn for the payment of the same, the Council adjourned.

In Favor of Granting Trolley Franchise.

The public hearing, required by law, on the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company's application for a trolley franchise, was held in the opera house at Cranford Thursday night. Every citizen who spoke favored the granting of the franchise under proper conditions, and a petition, numerously signed, expressed the same sentiment. The petition favored the placing of a time limit on the franchise.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace P. E. church for January were Beg. Chandor, R. Cohen, Harry Egan and the Misses Eleanor T. VanDeventer and Sarah Ball.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. BOCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. FOX, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

SEEDS Garden and Farm ... FOR THE ...
Vegetable and Flower Seeds. All the Novelties and Specialties. Quality guaranteed, Illustrated Catalogue FREE.
WEEBER & DON, Seed Growers,
114 Cedar Street, New York City.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately subsisted between Joseph A. Blatz and Charles H. Mundt of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of Blatz & Mundt was dissolved on the First day of February, 1898, by mutual consent.
Dated February 1st, 1898.
JOSEPH A. BLATZ.
234 CHAS. H. MUNDT.

PIANOS
We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS
Catalogues, full particulars and terms send upon application.
SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.
Mason & Hamlin Co.
2 and 5 WEST 18th STREET, NEW YORK.

DIED.

SAVORD—John Savord, died Feb. 21, 1898, age 78 years, 3 months and 21 days.

MULDOON—Miss Elizabeth Muldoon, died Feb. 24, 1898, at her home, 437 West Third street, age 43 years.

VALENTINE—In this city, February 4, 1898, Martha W., daughter of the late samuel and Mary Valentine, in her 62d year.

DICKINSON—In this city, Feb. 7, 1898, Ann, widow of the late Dr. Dickinson, in her 83d year.

TENTH MASQUERADE.

The Gesang and Turn Verein Conduct a Successful Affair.

The Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein held their tenth annual masquerade ball in their hall on Somerset street last Monday, and the affair was a success in every particular.

The grand march was led by Floor Manager Charles F. Meyer and the committee, and was participated in by about seventy-five couples.

The costumes of many of the masqueraders were very unique, while enough of the ludicrous sort were to be seen, affording much amusement to the spectators.

The affair was kept up until early this morning, and thus closed one of the most auspicious events given by the above-named society.

Those who were instrumental in making it pleasant for all were: Chas. Rydell and Victor Swanland, assistant floor managers; Wm. Gartner, Emil Vieksatrom and Max Menzenbach, floor committee; Walter E. Lane, L. Fahn, Henry Elmer, Joseph Haurand and Aug. Wolff, reception committee.

NO WHEELING ON SUNDAY.

W. C. T. U. Also Favors Japan's Way of Christening Ships.

At the annual conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, of New Jersey, in Jersey City, among the resolutions adopted were these:

Resolved, That we heartily approve the anti-cigarette bill which is now before Congress and that we do especially hope that the law will be enforced with regard to selling cigarettes to minors.

Resolved, That we view with alarm the increasing desecration of the Sabbath caused by the bicycle, and that we pledge ourselves never to use it for pleasure on the Lord's Day.

Resolved, That we rejoice at the news that at Henry W. Cramp's shipyard at Philadelphia the Japanese warship was christened without the use of wine, the method used being the Japanese custom of freeing half a dozen caged pigeons.

To Furnish Their Church Parlor.

The committee of ladies of the Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church are rejoicing in a net profit of $62.43 as the result of their efforts in giving the literary and musical entertainment under the supervision of Mrs. E. V. Waldorff last Friday evening. The amount will go toward furnishing the parlor in the new lecture room of the church in time for the dedicatory services, Feb. 27th.

Shows a Live Interest.

There were 348 scholars and teachers in attendance at Sunday-school in Trinity Reformed church Sunday, the largest number in the history of the school, and the offering for missions amounted to over $18.

Druggist Who Studies Law.

G. W. V. Moy, the druggist, will go to Trenton February 16th to take his entrance examinations for the bar. Mr. Moy has been studying law in his spare moments and is now prepared to take the examinations.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT
A. M. GRIFFEN'S,
119 East Front st.
Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c
GARDEN SEEDS
fresh and carefully selected.
224 PARK AVENUE,
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's
Marble and Granite Works,
30
Somerset st., North Plainfield.
If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.
I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.
I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.
I am under very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that good Work and Good Material, at Low Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.
Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,
J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.
Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

A LOCAL Disease A Climax A Affection
Nothing but a local remedy or change of climate will cure it. Get a well-known pharmaceutical remedy
Ely's Cream Balm
It is quickly absorbed. Gives relief at once. Opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. NOT Pain. No Injurious drug. Full Size 50c.; Trial Size 10c. at Druggists or by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York
CATARRH

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS.
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 361 West Front street, one door east of Madisen avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 2jly

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

JOHN KEAN'S BIG OFFER.

WILL GIVE UNION COUNTY $100,000 FOR A TROLLEY FRANCHISE.

The Money to be Used in Widening North Avenue in Accordance With Bergen Plan—Freeholders Will Consider.

The Union County Board of Freeholders Thursday elected Charles W. Dodd, Republican, of Plainfield, warden of the county jail for five years, to succeed John C. Biore, Democrat.

The following communication was received from former Congressman John Kean:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county:

Gentlemen: In a report made on November 26th last by a committee of citizens to a meeting held at the court house, it appears that the cost of widening Westfield avenue from Sayre street, in the city of Elizabeth, to Watchung avenue, in Plainfield, would be about $100,000.

If the avenue can be widened for about that sum I think it is very important that the work should be done at once, as it will be manifestly impossible to do so except at great cost after a few years. There appears to be a strong demand for a street railroad between Elizabeth and Plainfield, along the line of the Central Railroad, and it is plain that a street railroad between those cities would be most beneficial if placed where it would be most convenient for the people.

No matter what arrangements may be made temporarily for the use of other streets by street railroads between Elizabeth and Plainfield, sooner or later the necessity and demand for a street railroad on North avenue will have to be complied with according to the experience of other localities. If the avenue can be widened and a street railroad constructed on it, substantially according to the plan reported by the committee to the meeting in November, it would be a very great benefit to Union county, and the benefit would be derived at once.

I am not in favor of the construction of a street railroad by the county, but I believe the avenue should be widened and a street railroad constructed on it at the expense of some person or company willing to undertake the work.

I am willing to give Union county $100,000, to be used in widening the avenue, for a franchise to be granted upon condition that cars shall be run on a headway of not more than twenty minutes between 6:30 a. m. and 10 p. m., that the distance between Elizabeth and Plainfield be divided into three sections, within each of which a five cent fare shall be charged, and that the fare from Elizabeth to Plainfield and return and also in the opposite direction shall not exceed 25 cents.

If you are inclined to consider this proposition favorably I would be pleased to confer with your honorable body or with such committee as you may appoint for the purpose of adjusting details. Very truly yours,

John Kean.

W. C. T. U. IN THEIR NEW ROOMS.

A Bright and Cheery Appearance and All Conveniences.

The new rooms taken by the W. C. T. U. on East Front street were formally opened last Saturday evening for the first time with a reception and tea. The affair was in every way a success and a large number of people were present to congratulate the members on the excellent change.

The rooms have been made very attractive, and the increased amount of room, together with modern conveniences, makes the place very desirable for the work of the Union. Everything about the place has a bright and cheery appearance, and the members are in a far better position to carry on their work with success.

Miss Anna Boice and Mrs. McNaughton presided at the table and poured tea, and each person present was served with tea and wafers. Various members of the union received the guests and all felt perfectly at home.

$50 FOR A DAY'S COOKING.

That is What a Court Decision Will Compel J. H. McVey to Pay.

The trouble between hotel keeper J. H. McVey and his colored cook, John Scott, has finally been passed upon by Judge McCormick of the Union County civil bench. Scott went to work at McVey's hotel one Saturday night. He and his wife were employed for $60 a month. Scott did not satisfy the proprietor and left on Monday morning. He brought suit through his attorney Councilman Walter L. Hetfield in Justice Mosher's court and secured a verdict of $40. Pope & Runyon represented McVey.

The case was subsequently appealed and retried before Judge McCormick. The Judge has just announced his verdict in the case which is for the plaintiff for the amount of $50.

Colored U. G. P. May Meet Here.

The colored Republican State committee will hold its annual meeting shortly and an effort is being made to have the meeting called in this city. The number of delegates is very large.

ART AND GRACE SHOWN

CREDITABLE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY TRINITY CHURCH WOMEN.

Dickens' "David Copperfield" and Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women" Illustrated in Tableaux—Those Who Took Part.

A creditable entertainment was given before a large audience at Y. M. C. A. hall last Thursday. The entertainment, which contained selections of both a musical and literary character, was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church. It was another step in the good work of furnishing the parlors of the remodeled church. The excellence of the programme and the popularity of the society combined to fill the hall to its utmost capacity.

The programme opened with a vocal solo by F. S. Cutter, with violin obligato by P. Ludwig Conde. Miss Lillian A. Force was the accompanist. Mr. Cutter's solo was well given while a correct accompaniment added to the effect.

Miss Mary A. Luckey made her first appearance of the evening with the rendering "Wee Willie Winkie." It was a charming little sketch and excellently rendered.

A male quartette, composed of Herbert Schutt, Edward O. Clark, Robert M. Clark and Wyatt E. Barnes, rendered a selection. Two more selections by Miss Luckey, "The Kitchen Clock" and "Prior to Belle's Appearance," followed. They were well received. Miss Luckey gave "Von Weber's Waltz" with piano and violin accompaniment. The first part closed with an artistically rendered violin solo by P. Ludwig Conde.

The second opened with "A Half Hour with Dickens," which consisted of the reading by Mrs. Edmund V. Waldorf of a portion of the first part of "David Copperfield" describing his early life. This was illustrated with a number of tableaux which followed each other in rapid succession. The characters were all well taken and the representations were excellent. The characters were as follows: "David Copperfield," Horace J. Martin, Jr.; "Mr. Barkis," Fred Stack; "Mr. Dummidge," Horace J. Martin; "Mrs. Copperfield," Miss Cora Laire; "Pegotty," Miss Grace Berg; "Aunt Betsey," Miss Minnie Williams; "Mrs. Gummidge," Miss Minnie Williams; "Little Emily," Miss Smith.

Then followed another series of tableaux illustrating Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women." Mrs. Waldorf read that poem while the different characters referred to were shown on the stage. The different parts were taken as follows:

Helen of Troy.....Miss Chandler
Iphegenia.....Miss Luckey
Queen Eleanor.....Miss Emmons
Rosamond.....Miss Quirk
Cleopatra.....Miss Simpson
Mark Antony.....M. C. VanArsdale
Jephtha's Daughter.....Miss Dubois
Margaret More.....Miss Gillem
Joan of Arc.....Miss Krymer
Queen Eleanor.....Miss Emma Force
King Edward.....H. C. VanBenthuysen
Fisher Dora.....Miss Arnold

The participants were well chosen for the parts and the costumes were very appropriate, although Mark Anthony seemed considerably more modern than most people gave the great Roman credit of being. "Joan of Arc" was shown bound to the stake preparatory to being burned. A grand tableau of all the characters was shown at the close. The tableaux were made very affective by the calcium lights which were handled by J. Hervey Deane and John Nagle. The curtains were drawn by two fair pages in Grecian costume, Miss Nettie Young and Miss Mattie Anthony.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. R. A. Meeker, Mrs. Mary E. Disbrough, Mrs. Henry VanName and Mrs. O. W. Dunham. They worked hard for weeks in advance of the entertainment, and that it was such a general success is largely due to their efforts. They were ably assisted in the arrangement of the tableaux by Mrs. Waldorf. The committee certainly deserve great credit.

Robert A. Meeker was in charge of the box office. The ushers were George W. DeMeza, John L. MacLaughlin, H. B. MacDonald, Clarence Varian and H. W. Marshall.

Interment of Mrs. Boome.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Boome were held from the home in New York Thursday, and the body was brought to this city in the afternoon for interment in Hillside cemetery. A special car was used from New York to bring the relatives to this city. The interment took place at 4 o'clock, and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, officiated at the grave. There was a very large and beautiful display of floral tributes. The body was placed in the tomb at the cemetery.

Speedy Settlement.

In less than thirty hours after the fire started the Northwestern National Insurance Company, through their special agent, Mr. Cornell, and local agent, Wm. D. Thickstun, fully paid and satisfied the owner of the dwelling house corner of Plainfield avenue and Fourth street, which was so badly damaged by the fire occurring Wednesday noon of last week.

FIRE FIEND DROVE THE FROSTS OUT INTO THE GOLD

LAMP EXPLODED IN A DINING ROOM AND MADE A HARD FIGHT FOR FIREMEN.

The House Was a Mile From Fire Headquarters and the Long Run Gave the Flames Time For Additional Headway—Building and Contents a Total Loss.

The fire alarm was sounded from box 18, at Netherwood avenue and East Front street, at 3:30 o'clock Friday morning, and people who looked out of doors saw a bright red glow in the sky to the east of the city. The fire department responded at once, and on arriving at the box saw the large dwelling house at the southeast corner of the two streets a mass of flames. The distance of the fire from the centre of the city was over a mile, and the roads were not in good condition, which gave the fire a few extra minutes additional headway before the arrival of the firemen.

The nearest fire hydrant was 1,500 feet from the burning building, and from this a single line of hose was stretched and the firemen made a heroic fight to save the barn and the windmill upon the place.

The cold was intense, the mercury registering several degrees below zero, and the firemen were soon incased in ice from head to foot, and were obliged to keep moving constantly to avoid freezing.

The barn was about 100 feet from the house, and by keeping a part of the rear wall of the house intact, it was saved. The windmill, which stood much nearer the house, was in danger of going several times, but was saved by the unceasing work of the firemen. The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. Frost, and they had a hair-breadth escape from death by the flames. Mr. Frost was ill during the night and at 2 o'clock Mrs. Frost went down stairs to prepare some medicine for him. She left a lamp burning in the dining room.

About 3:30 o'clock Frost was awakened by the crackling of flames. He saw the red lines of fire creeping up from the dining room, and barely had time to rouse his wife and with her make an escape down the stairs. They managed to catch up a few garments as they ran from the house, and these served to protect them until they could reach the home of Theodore French, where they were sheltered during the remainder of the night.

Mrs. Frost was nearly prostrated with fright, and was in a condition of nervous prostration next day.

The only theory as to the origin of the fire which seems reasonable is, that the lamp which was left burning in the dining room by Mrs. Frost exploded.

The Frosts have lived in the house only a few months, having moved to this city from Chicago. They had valuable furniture, including many fine water colors and oil paintings, and also a fine collection of books. The loss on the furniture will amount to about $4,000 which is only partially covered by insurance.

The building was owned by David Eastman, of 149 Crescent avenue, and was insured for $10,000 by local agents.

The property was only recently purchased by Mr. Eastman. It was known as the Marx place.

MAKING INTELLIGENT MEN.

WORK OF THE HAMPTON INSTITUTE.

A Meeting in Crescent Avenue Church Addressed by Graduates From the Institution.

The meeting that was held at the Crescent Avenue church Thursday, in the interest of the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, attracted an audience that nearly filled the church. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards introduced Rev. H. B. Frissell, principal of Hampton Institute, who took charge of the exercises, after Dr Richards read the Scriptures and offered prayer.

The vocal quartette of young colored men rendered a number of plantation songs to the delight of all present. Their voices were excellent and blended in sweet harmony. Principal Frissell made an opening address in which he told of the many interesting features concerning the work of education being carried on at the Hampton Institute. He told of the great need of funds, and of what had been accomplished during the past few years. He said that the Institute had thus far sent out 900 graduates, over 90 per cent. of whom have taught, and he estimated that over 25,000 children are being instructed every year by graduates and undergraduates of the school. Mr. Frissell also said that over 500 Indians have gone out from the school, 52 of them graduates. He also spoke of the very excellent work being done by Miss Richards, sister of Dr Richards, among the Indians, and he paid a great tribute to her efforts. His mention of Booker Washington, the renowned colored man, attracted considerable attention from all, and especially so when he told under what difficulties he gained his education.

The next speaker was Jesse Hill, a full-blooded Indian of the Seneca tribe, who has spent three years at Hampton Institute. He told in a few words how education had helped him and how glad he was of the opportunity to be taught. He expressed a determination, when his studies are completed, to go among his own people and try to help them to become Christians and better citizens. Mr. Hill is a very bright young Indian and talks very good English.

The last speaker was F. M. Fitch, colored, a graduate of the Institute, who told what had been done for him at Hampton. He talked intelligently concerning the work in the south among his own race. At the close of the meeting Mr. Frissell made an earnest appeal to the audience for funds to help carry on the work, which costs about $10,000 a year, and in response a good collection was received.

SHATTERED BY POLITICS.

Former Police Commissioner Welles, of Brooklyn, Ill in a Sanitarium.

Leonard R. Welles, former police commissioner of Brooklyn, has been for the past month an inmate of Dr Cooley's private sanitarium, a sufferer from insomnia and nervousness, but is slowly recovering. He is attended by his wife. When he was first taken ill, after relinquishing the duties of his office as police commissioner on December 31st, Mr. Welles desired to take a trip south, but his physician, Dr. Kevin, of Gates avenue, suggested that he should take a rest in the sanitarium.

MISSION BAND ONE YEAR OLD.

Trinity Reformed Church Society Hear Reports and Elect Officers.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church was one year old Friday and the annual meeting and election of officers was held in the new lecture room in the afternoon.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., the pastor of the church was present and delivered an interesting address upon the characteristics of a good ambassador. In his official capacity the good ambassador was described as being first a minister, secondly a defender of the faith, and lastly a worker. The personal characteristics of the good ambassador are purity, perseverance, gentleness, consecration, aptness to teach, and the desire to save souls, which is, after all, the real end of the work.

Mr. Schenck's remarks were complimentary of the work accomplished during their first year's labors and full of encouragement for even greater attainments for the year before them. The Band is steadily growing in membership and usefulness, and is a very valuable auxiliary of the church.

A symposium of papers illustrating the trials and discouragements of missionaries were next read. "Labors Among the Indians" was the first of the series. It was read by Miss Emma F. Gillem. Miss Mabelle Woodruff read an account of the trials of western missionaries, and Miss Schnellendreussler presented a paper on student missionaries. "Incidents of Rescue Work" was the title of an interesting paper by Miss Minnie Arnold.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, president; Mrs. H. W. Marshal, vice-president; Miss Emma F. Gillem, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Wikoff, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. William Startup, treasurer.

Miss Laura Emmons, the retiring treasurer, read her report for the year, showing the receipts to have been $149 and the disbursements $91, leaving the snug balance of $58 in the treasury.

Mrs. W. F. Williams, recording secretary of the band, also read her annual report which was attentively listened to.

REV. DR. RAYMOND COMING

The Noted Divine Will Preach a Sermon at Trinity Reddedicatory Services.

For several reasons it has been deemed advisable to rededicate Trinity Reformed church Sunday, February 27th, instead of the preceding Sunday, February 20th, as announced in The Press Monday. Rev. A. V. V. Raymond has accepted the invitation to be present at the dedicatory services, much to the joy of the congregation and his many friends and admirers in Plainfield. He will receive a hearty welcome.

In an Opera Chorus.

Miss Lulu Bates, formerly of Fanwood, and who is well-known here, having attended the public schools in this city for several years, is now with the Francis Wilson Opera Company as leading member of the chorus. She is said to be a favorite with Mr. Wilson who is lending his influence to the furthering of her theatrical career.

PAY FOR THE SIDEWALKS

LIENS TO BE TAKEN AGAINST DELINQUENT PROPERTY OWNERS.

February Meeting of the Borough Council Held Last Friday—Financial Report of the Clerk—Citizens to Settle Their Difference.

The February meeting of the Borough Council was held last Friday, and the first business was the presentation of the financial report of Clerk Arnold for the past month as follows: Borough balance, $6,030.14; lights, $4,363.36; roads, $402.95; fire department, $735.75; poor, $374.56; total, $11,906.76; paid county and State, $7,504.65; total balance, $4,02.11. The sum of $121.15 was reported as being collected from fines, licenses, etc.

Collector Spencer reported since the last report total collections to be $6,694.73, making a total to date of $40 438.96. He also reported the collection of $641.25 license money from the County Clerk.

A communication was received from Warren Engine Company which stated that Peter Seader had been suspended from the company for nonpayment of dues. Mr. Woolston, for the streets and public health committee, reported that during the past month $25.50 had been expended on the streets, and dirt had been sold to the amount of $19.95. Regarding the difference between W. J. Rooms and George White about the Sycamore avenue matter, Mr. Woolston stated that in the judgment of the committee the above-named men were able to settle their own differences and they were advised to do so.

Mr. Woolston offered a resolution that the act of the Council in laying walks in the borough be confirmed, and that steps be taken to effect a lien on the property for the payment of the work. Several other resolutions were offered by Mr. Woolston. One was for the renewal of the road note of $1,546 98 for one month. Another one provided for the transfer of $300 from the back tax money to the road account, and another one provided for the drawing of $100 in favor of the Board of Health, on account of a previous error. Another resolution was to the effect that the fire department note of $1,025 be renewed for one month, and that $1,518 75 be drawn in favor of Collector Spencer to meet the light account note of $1,500 due February 9th, and that $1,556 71 be drawn for the same purpose to meet the note of $1,500 due February 11th.

Mr. Burtis also offered several resolutions, which provided for the renewing of three $1,500 notes charged to borough account.

Mr. Schutt offered a resolution that the auditing and finance committee be authorized to examine the books of the collector and assessor, and report at the adjourned meeting of the Council to be held this month.

Another resolution offered by Mr. Burtis set Tuesday, March 1st, as the time for the Board of Registry to meet and revise the registry list.

At this time Mayor Wilson stated that some time ago the Council authorized the hiring of expert accountants to examine the accounts of the borough collector, and he then offered the report of Messrs. Patterson and Corwin, authorized accountants.

Mr. Burtis offered a resolution that the report be referred to a special committee. Mayor Wilson appointed Messrs. Burtis, Rogers and MacLaughlin as the committee.

The Council adjourned to February 18th.

MISS STEELE'S SHINGLE OUT.

The First Woman Commissioner of Deeds in New Jersey.

Miss Mary M. Steele, the second woman to be admitted to practice law in New Jersey, and the first woman commissioner of deeds, opened a law office in Somerville Friday.

Miss Steele is a daughter of former Congressman W. G. Steele, who served in the Thirty seventh and Thirty eighth Congresses. Three years ago Miss Steele succeeded in having passed by the Legislature and signed by Gov. Werts, the bill permitting women to be appointed commissioners of deeds in New Jersey.

Gov. Werts as a compliment gave Miss Steele the first appointment under the new law.

Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded from North Plainfield in the Somerset County Clerk's office during the past week:

Fidelity title and Deposit Co. to Aaron D. Thompson, North Plainfield, $1; Wm. J. Butfield et ux to Wm. O. Worth, North Plainfield, $1; Wm. A. Young et ux to Evelyn P. Dyer, North Plainfield, $1; Aaron L. Titus and husband to Aaron D. Thompson, North Plainfield, $800; Hobart E. Rider et ux to Alice A. Martin, North Plainfield, $1; Josephine Boice and husband to George Hummer, North Plainfield, $1; W. H. H. Wyckoff, sheriff, to Anna E. Lang, North Plainfield, $900; George B. Lang et ux to Aaron D. Thompson, North Plainfield, $1.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Delphine LeClare Bowers, daughter of Former Councilman and Mrs. Benjamin O. Bowers, of Franklin place, to Rev. William Charles O'Donnell, of West Front street, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

FAST STEPPERS CRASHED

W. E. BROCK'S VALUABLE PACER'S JAW WAS BROKEN.

The Accident Occurred During a Brush on East Front Street With C. L. Wright's Trotter—The Drivers Were Not Hurt.

A serious collision occurred Thursday afternoon in front of John Taylor Johnston's estate on East Front street, when the valuable pacer owned by W. E. Brock, of the borough, and the trotter owned by C. L. Wright, of Oak Tree, ran into each other while going at a fast clip. The horses were being driven by their owners.

Mr. Brock had been speeding his horse for some time when Mr. Wright appeared. The two were going in the direction of Scotch Plains when a certain point was reached and they both turned around for a spurt. The horses were off in an instant and down the road toward Plainfield they came. Mr. Brock keeping as nearly as possible to the middle of the road.

Lawyer Charles McNabb was on the road with his trotter, and as the runners approached he took in the situation and got out of the way. The fast steeds had no sooner passed than he was precipitated into the gutter. Mr. McNabb's horse became a little frantious and broke the shafts, throwing the driver out into a big drift of snow.

Just as Mr. McNabb recovered from his predicament he turned around in time to see the two racing horses come together with a terrific crash. Mr. Wright's sleigh was completely demolished and he was thrown out to the road. He had a friend with him, and the latter caught the horse before he got away.

Mr. Brock was more fortunate as regards himself, but his valuable horse was injured severely and he may have to be killed. In the collision the animal's jaw was fractured and the fear is that lockjaw may result. The horse's mouth bled profusely. Mr. Brock remained in the sleigh and drove to his home.

Mr. Wright was bruised somewhat, but the man with him escaped injury. The two men were obliged to lead the horse to Plainfield, and make other arrangements to get home. The sleigh was left on the road.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to who was to blame for the accident.

POEMS BETTER THAN PROSE.

Prof. Colwell Tells Military Boys on What is Good to Read.

A very interesting lecture on "What to Read" was delivered by Prof. Robert Colwell, one of the professors at the New Jersey Military Academy, in the hall of that institution last Friday. An appreciative audience composed of the pupils of the school with their families and friends, listened to the lecture.

Mr. Colwell made a strong plea that more time be spent in reading books whose worth had been proved by age. He referred to many of the writers of ancient times and the Middle Ages, as Homer, Dante, Shakespeare and many others equally famous, and said that all should read something of their works. To those who did not have the opportunity to learn the dead and foreign languages that they might read them as they were written, he advised the many excellent translations of all those standard works that can now be secured.

He characterized the great poems as being the greatest works, greater than prose. They were mostly books of the heart, filled with human feeling. It was these books of the heart, he said, that afforded the most real pleasure and really did the most good to mankind.

Mr. Colwell's manner of speaking to his audience was very pleasant, and while only a young man he handled his subject with an ability and skill that told that he was thoroughly conversant with the subject on which he was lecturing.

Will Warden Biore Fight?

Warden-elect Charles Dodd will take possession of his office February 22d, provided the present incumbent, Warden Biore, does not make a contest under the Veteran act.

Scott's Emulsion is not a "baby food," but is a most excellent food for babies who are not well nourished.

A part of a teaspoonful added to milk and given every three or four hours, will give the most happy results.

The cod-liver oil with the hypophosphites added, as in this palatable emulsion, not only to feeds the child, but also regulates its digestive functions.

Ask your doctor about this.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

BOROUGH COLLECTOR'S BOOKS A MESS OF ERRORS.

SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT OF MR. SPENCER BY THE COUNCIL'S INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

They Declare That the Collector is Responsible for Innumerable Mistakes That Have Involved Borough Accounts Into a Confused Condition—Money Loss to the Borough as a Result.

The long expected report of the special committee appointed by the Borough Council to investigate the books of Collector Spencer and his predecessor was made public Friday night. The report is a very voluminous one and contains over 400 pages of comments and figures. The introductory, and the most important part, read Friday night, is as follows:

To the Honorable the Mayor and the Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Acting under the instructions of His Honor, the Mayor, we have made an examination of the financial affairs of the borough of North Plainfield and, in a large measure, of the affairs of the township also, because of the closely intertwined relations of the borough and township. We present herewith a combined balance sheet of the borough and township showing the financial condition of both as of December 31st, 1897. Accompanying the balance sheet are numerous schedules which will explain themselves. We have reached through all the books and accounts attainable, with the following result:

The collector's books submitted to our examination were the North Plainfield township tax duplicate or record of taxes assessed for the years 1885 to 1897 both inclusive, and the township tax cash books or record of cash received for taxes for the years 1885 to 1896, both inclusive; and later, omitted further on, the borough tax duplicate or record of taxes assessed for the years 1885 to 1897, both inclusive, and the borough tax cash book or record of cash received for taxes for the years 1887 to 1897, both inclusive, borough cash books appear to have been kept for the years 1885 and 1886.

At the beginning of our investigation the collector furnished us with the only duplicate and cash books for both Plainfield Township only, stating that they included the borough in full and payments and were all of the books which were in his possession or in existence for the period 1885-1897, that all of the township items were marked "T." After a fortnight it became apparent that there must be other books for the borough taxes. The collector was then called on for certain books of the borough and reluctantly produced them from his safe, notwithstanding his previous statement that the books first submitted included the borough accounts and was all that were in his possession or within his control.

The collector has never kept any record of cash received, other than from taxes, (entered on tax cash book) and no record of payments except his check book stubs. In other words he has had no general cash book.

The Collector was called on for all paid warrants, receipts, vouchers, checks, check books, or other evidence of payments for the accounts of the borough, but stated that he thought it would be impossible to find them. The matter was referred to the Mayor, who notified the collector that all accounts not accounted for by a receipt of some sort, would be charged to him (the collector's) account. After this demur the collector surrendered a large number of paid warrants, checks, etc. from 1885 to 1897, inclusive.

A large number of warrants drawn by the collector were missing, but where a paid check was found, signed by the borough clerk's name or by the minute books of the Council, the credit was allowed.

The clerk's books submitted, consisted of a cash book, or record of moneys received and paid out by the clerk from 1885 to February 16, 1899, and ledger and journals from March 6, 1893 to December 31, 18 7.

The borough clerk also delivered for our inspection a number of clerks' warrants, warrant stub books and paid warrants paid by the City National Bank for special road account for the year 1897.

There seems to be no record of the entire transactions of the borough, prior to 1893, other than that contained in the clerk's cash book and collector's tax cash book and this clerk's cash book which is a record of cash received by the clerk for local taxes, fines, etc, only. All funds received by the clerk up to July 5th, 1897 were deposited in the City National Bank, against which deposit warrants were drawn signed by the mayor and attested by the clerk

On July 5th, 1897, the then balances to the credit of the various accounts with the City National Bank were closed by warrants drawn in favor of H. W. Spencer, collector, amounting to $387.99 which we have charged to his account.

According to the minute books and annual reports, a number of notes were issued during this period for light account, road account, borough account, etc., but no books were submitted showing any details or disposition of the funds raised upon said notes; most or all of said funds appear to have been deposited to the credit of the various departments in the First National Bank, of Plainfield.

For the period before mentioned, 1886 1891, the annual reports have been our chief guidance in the analysis of the notes, account without the verification of any books of account.

For a part of the years 1891 and 1892 we do not find any warrants, checks, or stub books showing the disposition of funds to the credit of the various borough accounts in the First National Bank. The lack of such information results in a net debt of the First National Bank of $10,858.83 as not clearly accounted for. This amount we have charged to an account which we have designated as "First National Bank Suspense Account."

On pages 34 35 is a schedule of the items composing this amount compiled from the annual reports for the years ended March 1st, 1892, and March 1st, 1893. We are not able to verify the figures contained therein, and therefore as a tentative measure, we have charged the sum total to "The First National Bank Suspense Account," as stated above, leaving the disposition to your Honorable Body.

The cashier of the First National Bank states that the accounts were balanced and all vouchers returned, but to whom he cannot say, except that he has three warrants drawn, which are still in possession of the bank and bear date April 4, 1893, in favor of H. N. Spencer, treasurer, in the sum of $125.54, which has been charged to his account.

In beginning our investigation we attempted first to balance the tax cash books to tax duplicate, but owing to the numerous errors we found that it would be necessary to check each payment noted in the cash book against the tax duplicate. This has been done and after eliminating errors, undercharges and overcharges, the result is shown by statement of unpaid taxes for the various years—both borough and township—per pages 42 and 359 inclusive, showing a total of unpaid borough taxes for the years 1885 to 1897 inclusive, of $29,260.43, and unpaid township taxes for the years 1885 to 1894 inclusive, of $8,252.41, a grand total of $37,512.84.

In preparing the statements of unpaid taxes we have for the two years 1885 and 1897 deducted from the amount of the tax duplicate the allowances made by the Commissioners of Appeals, as we have received from the borough clerk a duly certified copy of the amount so allowed for the year 1897.

And in the back of the 1885 Township duplicate we found a certified copy of deductions for 1885 for the Township, signed by the Commissioners of Appeal and the chairman of the Township Committee. We also found on the minute book of the Borough Council, April 2d, 1886, a copy of communication from Mr. W. H. Shotwell, borough collector, asking that he be authorized to deduct certain amounts from the borough tax duplicate for 1885. These deductions as reported by Mr. Shotwell were approved by the Council and we have therefore deducted them from the borough levy for the year 1885.

We have also credited deductions on the property of Wm. White and the estate of Jane Tappen for the years 1890-1891, which deductions were ordered by the State Board of Taxation. A copy of this order will be found on page 41.

For the years 1886 to 1896 both inclusive, there was not presented any authenticated reports of the amounts deducted by the Commissioners of Appeal. In the back of the tax duplicates for these years we find statements of "Deductions by Commissioners of Appeal" and "Deductions for Salaries, Firemen, etc.," but they are unsigned. We called on the Collector for his authority for these deductions, but he claimed that he was unable to find any reports from the Commissioners of Appeal bearing thereon.

In this connection we would state that the Collector has allowed deductions to soldiers, soldiers' widows, militiamen, firemen, etc. Our understanding is, that firemen are exempt only after seven years' service. We would recommend that your honor able body examine these allowances critically, as from the nature of these cases we cannot pass upon their merits.

The tax duplicate and tax cash book were found to contain numerous errors, a number of items were found entered twice on tax cash books; again the amount of cash entered varied materially from the amount shown to be due by the tax duplicate. Other amounts were entered on the cash book at various times to the credit of names that are not to be found on tax duplicate. We have adjusted all such items in what we designate as adjustment account which has been closed out into collector's account, tax duplicate, labor, etc.

We found numerous instances of taxes reported as collected per tax cash book which do not appear on the tax duplicate. We have not altered the tax duplicate, but have credited the amount in our account called tax duplicate and made a corresponding debit against the collector.

The collector stated that names were frequently omitted from tax duplicate through error, but that, on discovering such errors, he would place same on roll, based on the previous year's assessments or of his knowledge of the value of such property. On the collector's cash book for 1897, we find that George C Nelson paid $19.71, a tax on $900.60 valuation.

The Commissioners of Appeal allowed Mr. Nelson a deduction of $2 19 on $100. This would make the original assessment on Mr. Nelson's property $1,000. His name would not appear on the cash book if it had not been for the deduction made by the Commissioners of Appeal.

Quite a number of amounts were marked "paid" on the tax duplicates which do not appear on the tax cash books. Such items amounting to $313.82 on borough tax and $617.34 on township taxes we have charged to the collector as he stated that all such amounts were undoubtedly paid, and were only omitted from the tax cash books through error. On the borough duplicate for 1885 we find an assessment of $4,000 against John Dennis and R. Woglam, the tax amounting to $60 00. No receipt originally under the heading of "Real Estate," but these figures were erased and the amount entered under "Personal." This tax remains unpaid The quotation opposite this amount is "left town."

Several instances were found where township taxes had been entered on borough cash book and vice versa. These errors we have corrected in our account. From this and other commingling of township and borough taxes it became necessary to examine both sets of books, which was greatly complicated and extended the examination.

A number of entries were made on the various cash books after the beginning of our examination, Nov. 19th, 1897. These amounts were ostensibly collected at the time they were entered on the cash books, but an examination of the tax duplicates shows that they were marked on the tax duplicates as paid at various dates, ranging from 1 98 to December, 1897, proving that the amounts long since collected had been withheld from the borough treasury until this examination was in progress. It is difficult to believe that these omissions were accidental and not the result of design. It is probable that a memorandum had been kept of the dates, names and amounts; or that at the time of payment they were marked "paid" on the tax duplicate, but not entered on the cash book, and thus accounted for, until this examination was begun. We submit a detailed statement of these items, showing dates reported to the Council and the dates when actually paid. They aggregate for borough taxes $2,974.95, for township taxes accruing to the borough $2,603.30, a total of $5,578.25.

A number of these entries were recently made on the tax duplicates after we had checked the cash books against the duplicates, thereby causing us a large amount of extra labor to make a new adjustment. In at least one instance, borough duplicate for 1894 K 26 Edward Kober, the tax duplicate is changed from "paid" to "paid on account $3.82," leaving a balance due of $1.53

An attempt was made to check the Assessor's original Field Book against the tax duplicate, but owing to the innumerable errors, erasures and alterations, this was found to be impracticable. We did, however, make a comparison for the year 1894. The result is shown in statement of discrepancies, page 36-38.

Instead of preparing a new field book or tax original for each year, the practice frequently was to take the assessor's field book of a past year and enter thereon in lead pencil against the names there appearing, the new valuation and assessment for the new year or years, producing the confusion mentioned above, although this was not always the case. Doubtless the assessor might understand his memoranda, erasures, changes, etc., at the time, but, by this practice, the assessor's originals were so disfigured that it is now practically impossible to discover the actual amount of the original or successive assessments. We have deposited in the vaults of the First National Bank, of Plainfield, N. J., subject to the order of the Mayor and the Council, all the assessor's original field books, which were turned over to us by the present assessor by the order of the Mayor.

The Corporation Counsel has advised us that interest, at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, should be collected on all taxes remaining unpaid on the 20th day of December in each year, and we have computed interest from December 20th to the date of payment on all borough taxes reported as paid, but have not computed interest on all taxes outstanding and uncollected on December, 31st, 1897. We have also computed interest on all township taxes collected for account of the borough and reported to the Borough Council. We have charged the collector with this interest, and have credited the amount reported and accounted for by him, (p. 28).

In computing interest on delinquent borough taxes we have not included interest for the years 1885 and 1886, as no record was presented for the cash received during these years. The amount of interest for that period would, however, be inconsiderable owing to the tax levy.

On the township book we have charged the collector only with such interest as he reported on his own cash books, and have not computed any interest on delinquent township taxes. The balance, therefore, which is shown as due from the township collector, does not include interest other than that reported by him.

In this connection we will state that the collector informed us that the township committee have authorized him to retain any interest that he might collect, as an additional fee or perquisite for collecting delinquent taxes. He has not, however, presented any written authority for or evidence corroborating this statement.

On the borough tax cash book for 1890 we find an item of "Liquor licenses received from county clerk, $650." Later we find this same amount deducted on the cash book as No. 126. We have charged the collector in that year with the full amount of liquor licenses as per the annual reports.

The manner of issuing warrants on the treasurer or collector in payment of obligations was exceedingly loose. In the course of our examination we found an old warrant signed in blank by the mayor. The clerk's warrants at this period were, in numerous instances, signed only by the clerk, which would make a misappropriation of funds a very simple matter, had the clerk been so inclined. There are also a number of warrants which bear no signature of mayor, clerk, chairman of committee, auditing committee or even affidavit or claimant. We found a number of warrants in favor of N. B. Smalley, then chairman of the street committee, which were marked "O. K., N. B. Smalley," but bear no other evidence of their accuracy. We submit herewith the warrant book mentioned and a bundle of vouchers, irregular as to approval, signature, etc.

In the township cash book for 1890, we find entries of collections for township taxes outside the borough for years 1891 3-4-5. We have charged the collector with the total amount of such collections and credited him with the amount receipted for by the township treasurer, and the amount of the special school tax.

We have charged the collector with the full amount of taxes and interest collected, interest due but not reported by collector on tax collections, proceeds of notes discounted and deposited to his credit, monies received from the borough clerk and other persons for licenses, fines, street subscriptions dirt sold, and other miscellaneous sources. We have also charged him with the amount of the proceeds of liquor licenses received from county clerk, and as reported by the collector to the Borough Council. The collector has been credited with warrants and notes paid, the duplicate debits to cash caused by entering certain things twice on his cash book; payments to or for account of Board of Health; amounts paid county collector for county and State school taxes and amounts paid Township treasurer for Township taxes collected; he has also been credited with the amount of special school taxes collected, which should be accounted for by him as treasurer of the school funds.

We have furthermore credited him with the amount of cash in bank and on hand December 31st, 1897. We have not credited him, however, with the balance in First National Bank to credit of Township collector, as he states that this balance represents funds of school district No. 38.

Finally, we show the collector to be indebted to the borough in the sum of $5,450.87, and to the township in the sum of $1,237.58, a total of $6,718.45.

This amount is subject to such change, if any, as may be necessary by reason of entries, if any such there be, which have been made upon the old books subsequent to the time they passed under our examination.

The question has been raised regarding an entry of $2,027.51 which appears as a credit to H. N. Spencer, collector on clerk's ledger, the debit being to loss and gain account. On ledger No. 1, page 17, there is a debit to borough account of $1, 497.24, and a corresponding credit to loss and gain account.

On ledger (No. 1, page 17) there is a debit of Road Account and a credit to loss and gain account of $530.27. None of the entries mentioned appear on the journal, and are injected into the ledger without explanation or warrant. We have taken no notice of the entries in preparing our account against the collector.

We called on the President of the Board of Eduction for certain information in regards to moneys passing through the collector's hands from the State and from other sources for school purposes, but owing to the non-receipt of said information we have been unable to prepare any statement of Mr. Spencer's account as treasurer of the school fund. We noticed on the collector's cash blotter three entries of $23.34, $19.45 and $5 83 for tuition from non-resident scholars. An amount of $43.87 also entered in his school ledger as received from a like source.

In reply to our enquiry as to the disposal of these amounts he stated that these moneys were paid direct to the teachers; yet he showed no vouchers for said payments. The president of the school board informs us that all such moneys were due and payable to his board.

The first three items mentioned appear on the store blotter of the collector's along with the daily transactions of his grocery store. In the matter of liquor licenses received from the County Clerk, we have charged the collector with all amounts reported by him to the Council. We received a statement of the County Clerk's liquor licenses issued, and of payments to the collector for amount of such licences December, 1895, to Dec., 1897, but owing to the failure in many cases of collector in his reports to Council to give the names of the parties to whom licenses were issued, it is impossible to trace amounts reported to the Council.

It shows, however, that there is still due from the County Clerk the sum of $641.25.

The county clerk should be required to furnish a statement of all liquor licenses paid to or for account of the borough for 1885 to date, and such statement should be carefully checked against the minute book to ascertain neither or not all amounts contained therein have been reported by and charged to the collectors.

The Mayor called on the county clerk for such a statement, but was unable to obtain it, the clerk writing that the statement above referred to obtained all licenses during his term of office, and that the books of his predecessor were not in his possession.

We experienced considerable difficulty in obtaining the balance to the credit of the collector in his accounts in the First National Bank. Our representative called on the cashier of the said bank in company with the Mayor and requested the cashier to balance the accounts of the borough and township and write up the pass books to the close of business Dec. 31st, 1897.

The Mayor on behalf of the Borough authorized the cashier to do as requested. Notwithstanding the books of the Borough Collector were written up and balanced to January 6, 1898, including a deposit January 5, 1898, of $2,938 60 which required an adjustment on our part as of December 31 1897, showing an error of $27.50 against the Borough and of $10 against the Township.

The cashier, however, furnished us with a certificate of the Borough and Township accounts which were subsequently found to be in error to the extent of $27.50 on the Borough account and $10 on the Township account as above stated. In going through the Borough safe we found a number of important documents which certainly should not be in the custody of the collector.

Chief among the papers were the bond of the collector for the years 1893, 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894, the bonds of the Borough Clerk for the year 1893 and the Bond of the Borough Marshal for the year 1893.

The bonds with other documents, warrants, receipts, etc., belonging to the borough are now in the safety of the First National Bank subject to the order of the Mayor and Council.

We found it practically impossible to accurately check the collector's bank account for outstanding checks, owing to the fact that checks were issued for which we could find no check stubs; checks were issued and afterwards cancelled, the stubs for which were not so marked; and other checks issued, the amounts of which differed from amounts shown on stubs.

We would therefore recommend that the collector be required to give a good and sufficient bond to indemnify the borough against any checks or notes unaccounted for which may hereafter be presented.

On page 9 will be found a balance sheet showing the assets and liabilities of the borough supported by schedules giving the details of the accounts referred to therein.

In making up the various borough accounts, such as borough account, fire department account, road account, light account, etc., we have credited the said accounts with the full amount of the tax levy for the several years per tax duplicate as revised by us.

Any amounts therefore which may be deducted by your honorable body from the unpaid tax statements should be charged against the various accounts in the same proportion as they were originally credited, viz: on the basis of the tax levy for the respective years.

On pages 27-28 will be found the total amounts by years of the tax duplicates both for the borough and township as corrected.

We have made no transfers from one account to another, owing to the incomplete record and particularly in respect to amounts transferred from one fund to another. All statements of cash taxes and in fact statements of every nature contained herein are made to the close of business Dec, 31st, 1897.

The conclusion of this matter is that the financial affairs of the borough as handled by the collector, have been most loosely and shamefully mismanaged. A wrong has been committed against the borough as a whole in the withholding of funds long since collected for its accounts; in the reporting as outstanding certain already paid; and against numerous individual citizens in the withholding of credits for taxes paid. The borough's system of accounts, of collecting and paying out moneys, is utterly wrong and dangerous and demand radical reform with proper safeguards. We deem it unwise that the same person should act as both collector and treasurer

Respectfully submitted,
Patterson & Corwin,
Certified Public Accountants.

VAUDEVILLE IN PARLOR.

INTO PLAINFIELD BOROUGHOUSE

A Programme that Was Funny in Its Makeup—Artists that Brought Down the House—Great Cakewalk the Climax.

The latest form of parlor entertainment, direct from the source of all knowledge, Boston, was introduced to the people of Plainfield in the parlors of the residence of Charles T. Nightingale, of Sandford avenue, last Friday. It was "An Evening Vaudeville." The programme was as follows:

Boster & Kiala Music Hall. Herr Berthold Lauters Schlager.

Programme subject to alterations at discretion of the manager.

Mme. Strelecicky's Red Hungarian Band.

Greeting by the manager. Iats with Oscar Hammerstein.

Overture by Orchestra. Happy Days 'n Dixie.

"A Pair of Lunatics," Screaming Farce by Earl & Willard, from Daly's Theatre, London.

Tottis Cough Drop, or the second Hald. Rosie Grabenheimer, of the Music Hall Stock Co.

Banjo Wizard, of Primrose & West.

Cleo de Merode and Rossignole, Premie're dancers in Ballet Bright.

Eddie Issacstein. Australian Comedian.

Tootsie Bon Bon, Monlin Rouge, Paris.

The Klondyke Twins. Mr. McClosky and Bob Dunce.

May Irwin, Manhattan Midget.

Orchestra.

Hungarian Band engaged for weddings, dance, receptions, etc.

Ladies please remove their hats.

The famous "Red Hungarian Band," mention in the programme, consisted of Mrs. Peter Schultz and Miss Lillian A. Force at the piano, and at intervals, Fred G. Smith on the banjo.

The manager was William A. DeLong. He told in a very serious voice of the great expense that the proprietors of "Boster and Kial's" had gone to secure such an array of talent.

"A Pair of Lunatics" were taken by Mrs. DeWitt Ramsey, of New York, and H. Oscar Nightingale, of Plainfield. The second Anna Held was Mrs. Robert Dryden. Miss Rootie Bandall, of Boston, appeared in the costume of "Rootie Grabenheimer."

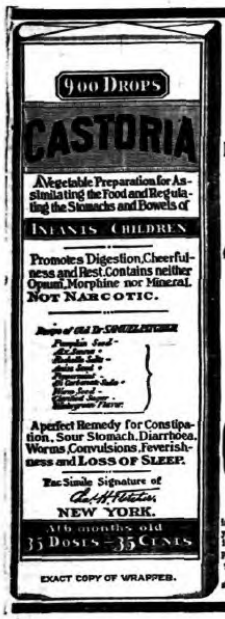
The dust from the Ballet Royal was given by Miss Hammond, of Easton, and H. Oscar Nightingale. Edwin Herring, of Baltimore, was the comedian from Australia. "Tootsie Bon Bon" was recognized as Miss Bandall.

The "Klondyke Twins" were know as John Bright and Henry Bagg, of New York.

"May Irwin, the Manhattan Midget," led the grand cake walk, assisted by seven genuine colored gentlemen, all bedecked in gorgeous attire. Mrs. Robert Dryden was the originator of this remarkable character.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Mrs. Ann Dickerson, an aged member of the Methodist church, had a paralytic stroke last Thursday at her home, 404 Fourth street, corner of Central avenue. Her condition now is very critical.



SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF

CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

A WINNING STREAK NOW

PARK CLUB BOWLERS WON TWO MORE GAMES MONDAY NIGHT.

There Opponents Were the New Jersey Athletic Club, Leaders in the League—Games Rolled on the Park Club Alleys.

There is something the matter with the bowlers of the Park Club. They won two more games, and lost their games with unanimity. Monday night they rolled three games against the team from the New Jersey Athletic Club, leaders in the Central Journal Bowling League. They astonished everybody by continuing their good bowling of the week before and carrying off the victory in two of the three games. The matches were rolled on the Park Club alleys.

The New Jersey team came here with the expectation of winning at least two of the games. They had a right to expect it, judging from the recent bowling of the Parks. But they did not count on the fact that the Parks have turned over a new leaf. The first game was hard fought throughout. The visitors took the lead from the start. They could not shake off the Parks, however. On the eighth frame the visitors were thirty pins ahead. In the next frame the Parks reduced that lead to two pins. The windup of the home team was strong and they won out by nineteen pins with a good score.

In the second game, the visitors held the lead until the seventh frame, when the Parks repeated their other experience and again won by nineteen pins.

In the last game the Parks met with a stroke of hard luck. They lead from the third frame and had the game well in hand when the New Jersey's braced up. The finish was hot, but the Parks would have won but for the fact that "Doc" Thiers drew a split and Lewis, of the visitors, made a double-header which decided the game. The visitors won by eighteen pins.

The individual scores were as follows:

PARK CLUB.	1st game.	2d game.	3d game.
Worth	136	168	132
Murphy	130	137	197
F. O. Ball	142	144	139
F. O. Ball	200	153	195
Doc Thiers	195	182	145
	803	784	779

N. J. ATHLETIC CLUB.	1st game.	2d game.	3d game.
Southard	152	152	202
Pitcher	136	161	97
Reiche	203	153	197
Day	133	164	169
Lewis	188	138	192
	814	765	797

Candy Pull Instead of Sleighride.

A party of the young people of the Seventh Day Baptist church had a sleighride planned for Saturday evening, but the rain and warm weather spoiled the sleighing and the ride was called off. Instead the party went to the residence of Dr. F. T. Clawson and enjoyed a candy pull. The evening was spent very pleasantly.

A Bible Study Drill.

Next Friday evening the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will meet. The first ten minutes of the hour will be devoted to Bible study drill, after which the regular monthly business meeting will be held, to be followed by the regular devotional meeting of the society.

PARSON'S UPS AND DOWNS

REV. P. S. G-BS-N'S TRIBULATIONS IN THE COURTS.

Second Trial Results in a Verdict Against the Minister in the Prosecution of Lucie Swain—But One New Witness Called.

If any man has had his share of the ups and downs of life, that man is Rev. P. S. Gibson, the former colored pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. Twelve citizens of Plainfield found him guilty after a trial on a serious charge. Monday he came up on the same charge before Judge McCormick and a twelve-men jury at the Union County Court, and was again found guilty.

Gibson has played the leading part in one of the greatest scandals that has disturbed the circles of colored society in this city for many a year. As a result, the once prosperous Mt Olive church has been threatened with disruption. Many of the congregation departed from the portals of that sanctury and started a new church, to the head of which pastor Gibson was called. The colored people of the city are divided in their opinions. Some believe in the innocence of the colored preacher while others are just as sure that he is guilty and that the verdict is right.

The court house at Elizabeth could not accommodate all those that flocked to it. The select circles of colored society in Plainfield were well represented, as well as those who do not stand so high. The courtroom was packed.

Pastor Gibson was on hand at an early hour with his lawyers, Former Assemblyman W. B. Cochran and S. S Swackamer. Miss Lucie Swain, the complainant, was present. She was represented by Senator Charles A. Reed. The testimony was substantially the same that was adduced at the trial in the City Court, when the case was tried in this city.

There were thirty witnesses put on the stand by the two sides and, of course, the testimony was very contradictory. Lucie Swain was still very decided in her testimony. The only evidence of importance was that of former Marshal Peter Hanson, of the borough. He swore that he saw Gibson and Lucie Swain walking over in the borough, corroborating the testimony of Lucie Swain.

After the jury was charged, it retired for half an hour to bring in a verdict of guilty.

The defence is still not satisfied with the result. The case will probably be taken to the Supreme Court of New Jersey on a rule to show cause why the verdict should not be set aside.

THEATRICAL.

The next dramatic attraction at Stillman Music Hall will be Lincoln Carter's new scenic melodrama, entitled "Under the Dome," said to be the most effective of all Mr. Carter's presentations. It will be seen here the night of Wednesday, 16th inst.

The Sawtelle Dramatic Company and Special Orchestra will play an engagement at Music Hall, week of February 21st.

Manager Mark Edwards is already booking some important dramatic novelties for the season of 1899-00 at Stillman Music Hall.

TO UPLIFT THE WORLD.

DR. FRENCH TELLS THE OBJECT OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Young People of Trinity Reformed Church Celebrate Christian Endeavor Day—Eloquent Address by Ex-President.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting in the new lecture room of the church Monday evening, in celebration of Christian Endeavor Day, the seventeenth anniversary of the organization of the Christian Endeavor movement.

The prettily-furnished room was filled by a large audience, largely composed of young people, and all present displayed a deep interest in the remarks of the various speakers.

Horace J. Martin, president of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church, presided. The meeting was opened with a short song service; E. E. Anthony, president of the local union of Christian Endeavor societies gave a Scripture reading from Isiah LXII, and Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., the pastor of the church, offered an eloquent prayer for the continued success of the Christian Endeavor movement.

The New Jersey Endeavor hymn was sung and an offering was taken for the fund to construct Christian Endeavor churches. During the taking of the offering a pleasing vocal duet was sung by Horace J. Martin and H. J. Martin, Jr.

The important feature of the meeting was an address by Rev. J. Clement French, of Newark, formerly president, and now vice-president of the New Jersey State Christian Endeavor Union. After relating a number of pleasant anecdotes Dr. French stated that in his opinion that man was guilty of what Horace Greely called "conspicuous inexactness" who should say that the idea of the Christian Endeavor movement had not been inspired by God himself. The magnificence of the Christian Endeavor movement could be realized by considering that it now covers every country on the globe except five, and embraces forty denominations, with 69,000 societies and a membership of three and one-quarter millions.

The question which he wished to bring home to every Christian Endeavorer, the speaker said, was "How can we make the most of this life?" The answer is, by allying ourselves with God and his purposes. If any one fails to make a grand success of life, it is his own fault. Every life is made for a divine purpose, and if it is devoted to mean and selfish ends it is the same as if the great telescope at the Lick Observatory, which is made for the purpose of tracing the paths of comets and searching out the satellites, should be devoted to some base or trivial use.

People who live selfish lives die unmourned and unsung. Society has a place and a need for everyone who lives with a high purpose. It should be the aim of us all to live such good and useful lives that our lives shall not go out like a candle, leaving only darkness, but rather like the sun, shall leave a fine glow of light and warmth.

The reason why there are so many worthless lives is that men and women are content to live without a fixed, definite, worthy purpose. Their garment of life has no selvage, and it frays and ravels into nothingness. The lack of a noble pattern by which to fashion life was the secret cause of failure of such bright minds as Robert Burns and Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

The world is full of suffering and it is our duty to alleviate it, not by miracles, but by patient devotion to the good of others. It is not enough to live correct, blameless lives. That is only a negative virtue. Society is a vast fabric, overlaid with moral obligations which we must fulfill. The plea that we are not responsible for the suffering around us is insanity. The great principal of divine justice which Christ laid down for the race is "Each for all, all for each; and myself for my fellow men." Do something, however small, to lift humanity to a higher level. Life will never be worth living unless we strike out and do some good to others. No one will ever miss us "when beneath the red soil we are sleeping," unless we get rid of the idea that we can live for ourselves or our own little circle, and instead fulfill the law of Christ, to bear one another's burdens.

The meeting closed with a brief prayer by President Martin and a closing hymn, after which Dr. French held an informal reception, giving a kind word and a clasp of the hand to those who remained to meet him.

Mrs. E. E. Anthony presided at the piano during the meeting.

Another Grocery Store.

John H. Blimm and Louis Henry, both of this city, have formed a partnership and opened a grocery on West Fourth street, near Park avenue, in the store formerly occupied by Schleif's bakery. Blimm formerly ran a grocery on East Third street and then on Pearl street.

Mrs. Joseph Moon, of Grandview avenue, is recovering from a slight illness.

HEALTH OF THE PUPILS.

REPORT OF MEDICAL EXAMINERS TO BOARD OF HEALTH.

Many Cases of Defective Hearing and Eyesight Discovered—The School Buildings Found to be in Excellent Condition.

The first report from the recently-appointed medical inspectors made the meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education Monday evening a rather eventful one.

All the members of the Board were present. There was the usual batch of bills to be passed. The report of the tax collector showed taxes collected to the amount of $2 541.26, with interest of $44.32, making a total of $2,585.58, which has been deposited in the First National Bank. The acceptance of Dr. Murray as medical inspector was received.

The report of the medical inspectors, Drs. Murray and Tomlinson, was read. It was reported that the examination of the pupils had begun Monday, January 24th, and that now 155 pupils had been examined as to eyesight, hearing and general condition with special reference to catarrhal diseases, skin diseases and contagious fevers with particular attention to the question of vaccination. A number of cases of heretofore undetected defective eyesight and hearing had been found. The number of unvaccinated pupils was 38, or 2½ per cent. of those examined. The buildings were examined and found in excellent condition as to plumbing, except at the Wadsworth building where the inspectors recommended that sewer connections be made and several minor changes made. The ventilation in certain buildings was not what it should be and the inspectors signified their intention of reporting on that at greater length. They spoke very favorably of the new drinking fountains.

The committee on teachers recommended the acceptance of the resignation of Miss Inez Green, of the Bryant School, and the appointment of Miss Margaret McMahon as teacher of her class. They also recommended the appointment of Miss Mary M. Griswold to take charge of an overflow class in the first grade at the Irving School.

Superintendent Maxson turned over $492.50 as the tuition of out-of-town pupils for the winter term.

AN OLD METHODIST DEAD.

Mrs. Dickinson Had Seen Four Score Years—Member of Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ann Dickinson, one of the oldest women of this city, and a charter member of the First Methodist church, died of paralysis at her home, corner of Central avenue and Third street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Dickinson was born in New York city, November 5th, 1816, and was therefore over eighty-one years of age. She was the daughter of Robert and Sarah Morris. She came to this city at the age of sixteen and became the wife of Dr. Peter Dickinson, who died in March, 1859.

Mrs. Dickinson was a member of the First Methodist church of this city from the time of its organization until her death. For many years she was a teacher in the Sunday-school, and always took an active interest in the welfare of the church. She was also a member of the Women's Temperance Union since its organization. She was an energetic and conscientious worker in the temperance cause. She is survived by one son, Caleb Dickinson, of this city, with whom she made her home for many years.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Ann Dickinson were held yesterday at 1 o'clock from the First M. E. church. There was an exceedingly large attendance of people who had known the departed. Rev. W. C. Sneddgrass, pastor of the church, officiated. His remarks regarding the exemplary life of the departed were voiced in the hearts of the present. The form of the departed bore a lifelike appearance, and there rested on the bosom her piece of white ribbon, the symbol of the W. C. T. U., to which organization Mrs. Dickinson belonged.

The floral tributes from the above organization, friends and relatives were beautiful. A large delegation from the W. C. T. U. was present in a body. During the service Miss Jessie Utter presided at the organ.

Interment was in the Methodist cemetery on Plainfield avenue. Those who served as pallbearers were W. E. Codington, Mr. Leveridge, John Cory, G. Q. Packer, P. M. French and C. H. Rugg.

"Doc" Vail's New Venture.

"Doc" Vail, foreman at Frank Day's stables, has tried a new venture. He has purchased the little store and tavern at Pumptown, on the road to Metuchen, and will conduct it for the benefit of passing wheelmen during the coming summer. He and his wife have now moved out and taken possession of the building.

A Plainfield Composer.

Dorsey W. Hyde, the well-known and talented musician who lives in Netherwood, is the author of a pretty piece of music entitled "Spirit of the Air."

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the higher places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE NEW YORK.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This must be put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent you by mail. 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

Free Distribution

Natural Iron Extracted from Fresh Bullocks' Blood.

This iron is exactly the same as the iron in your blood. It is Nature's Iron, or perfectly natural and so contains no acid. Therefore it never blackens the teeth, nor causes constipation nor indigestion, and so can be taken indefinitely by either children or adults, no matter how weak their stomachs. All other iron medicines that you have ever taken contained acids. This is the only natural Iron medicine wholly free from acid ever discovered, and the only one endorsed by the medical profession as absolutely non-irritating. The natural Iron or Hæmoglobin is put up in little soft pointed gelatine cones, and is known as

Dr. CAMPBELL'S

Red Blood Forming Capsuloids

CAPSULOIDS, therefore, being composed of natural Iron, enrich and increase the blood supply in a manner and to an extent never equalled by any other iron or blood medicine. Through this rich and plentiful blood, which always comes speedily, chronic diseases due to weak and impoverished blood are conquered, color brought to the face, lost flesh restored, weak nerves and sleeplessness disappear, appetite increases, the various organs grow strong, and general health, strength and vitality return.

To secure a FREE sample box of this new and wonderful form of Iron, you must cut this out and take it, Wednesday, Feb. 15th or Thursday, Feb. 17th, to

L. W. Randolph, Plainfield, N. J.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS ORGANIZE.

J. F. Hubbard Chosen Chairman and H. U. VanEmburgh Secretary.

The first meeting of the new Board of Assessors, appointed last November by Mayor Fish, was held Monday night All the members of the board were present as follows: J. F. Hubbard, Harry C. VanEmburgh, Harry G. Runyon and Charles Hand. The principal business was to organize, and this was done by electing Mr. Hubbard chairman and Mr. Van Emburgh secretary. The board indulged in an informal discussion as to their work, which will be commenced about the 1st of May. Another meeting will be held in the near future.

—An entertainment will be held in Monroe Avenue M. E. church Feb. 18th, at 8 o'clock.

—A luncheon social is being arranged for Thursday night by the members of Goodwill Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Scotch Plains.

—Those kid gloves were Peck's gloves, which is saying about all one what you say about money. when you say "United States money."

AN INVITATION RECEPTION.

Misses Cora Sheppard and Sadie Blimm Entertained Young Friends.

The invitation reception and dance given in the Olympia last Monday by Miss Cora Sheppard and Miss Sadie Blimm, of this city, was one of the most enjoyable of the season. There were about forty couples present, which number did not crowd the floor too much. The music was furnished by Prof. Garland, of New Brunswick, and it was one of the features of the affair. Among the guests were a large number of people from out of town. It was nearly 4 o'clock this morning when the merry dancers turned their faces homeward, but all agreed that they had enjoyed themselves immensely.

Contracts Filed.

The following contracts have been filed at the county clerk's office during the current week: Edward White and Milliken Brothers, Iron work, building on Front street, $368; Edward White and Galbraith & Walsh, plumbing, etc., building Front street, $117; Edward White and Henry H. Jessup, alterations and additions to building on Front street, $700.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1898. NO. 7.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

IN THE LEGISLATURE.

SENATOR DALY'S ACRID REMARKS ABOUT SOMERSET'S IGNORANCE.

Inspired by Senator Reed's Opposition to a Bill Providing for School Buildings—Mr. Murray's Bill Defeated.

Trenton, February 16th.—In a verbal spat in the Senate Tuesday between Senator Daly, of Hudson, and Senator Reed, of Somerset, the former gentleman indulged in some caustic remarks about the ignorance which he alleged prevailed in the rural sections of Somerset. It came about over the discussion of the measure which empowers cities to issue bonds not exceeding $100,000 annually for the erection of school houses.

Senator Reed opposed the bill on the ground that it would permit every city in the State to expend a great amount of money annually, and thus might lead to extravagance. There were cities, he said, of thirty-five hundred inhabitants, which, if the bill became a law, might plunge the taxpayers into a debt from which they would not for years recover. The children of the cities in Hudson county, he said, doubtless required such an expenditure, but it established, as he thought, a bad precedent.

To this Senator Daly tartly responded, saying that there was more ignorance in Mr. Reed's county than in his own. He ventured the opinion that in the mountainous parts of Somerset county there were hundreds of persons who had never seen a school. Generalities, however, did not affect the case, as Bayonne needed the relief and was willing to spend the money. He did not deny that there would be no reckonment shown in the issuance of bonds, for cities of 3,500 population, he was sure, would not endeavor to take advantage of the terms of the bill. The measure went over on request of Senator Stokes until the afternoon session, when it was amended so as not to allow the issuance of bonds under this act later than six months after the bill is approved. In this form the bill was passed to a third reading in Assembly, it is believed, will concur in the amendments.

Is the lower house the most important bill introduced by Assemblyman Murray was doomed to defeat.

This was the bill providing for the licensing of public accountants. It sought to create a State Board of Certified Public Accountants, who were authorized by the bill to license such persons as proved, upon examination, to be expert accountants; after obtaining such license from the State Board thereby created the accountant was authorized to examine the books of any public official in any municipality in the State. The measure also prohibited the employment of any accountant to examine the books of any public officer who did not possess a license.

For years it has been the custom of the party in power in New Jersey, in any town or city, to employ any ordinary bookkeeper who had a strong enough political pull to examine the books of the outgoing official at the expiration of his term. Such bookkeeper usually received the pay of the expert, and not infrequently his work was quite as unsatisfactory as that of the retiring official.

When the bill came up on final passage today it was opposed by Messrs Allen and Bruder, upon the ground that it was class legislation. The speakers also thought the measure, if passed, would create a trust among the expert accountants of the State, and would also prevent the young men from securing their fair share of the work and a fair chance with the older experts.

Mr. Murray, who introduced the measure, in advocating its passage, said that it was necessary to license accountants, in order to insure the services of an expert when the people called for them. The bill was defeated by a vote of 12 to 26.

Among the more important bills introduced in the House was one by Mr. Murray providing that bonds of municipal officers for security of faithful performance of duty shall be those of reliable trust and security companies only, the cost of such bonds to be paid from the treasury of the respective municipalities.

Another of Mr. Murray's bills introduced sets off parts of the townships of Woodbridge and Raritan, in Middlesex county, to the township of Clark, Union county.

Mr. Squire, of Union, presented a bill providing that any county in the state, if it so desires, may sell its trolley road franchises to the highest bidder. In Union county, John K-an made an offer of $100,000 for a trolley franchise which has not been accepted. Mr. Squire believes that if his bill becomes a law, the county may get as high as $175,000 for the franchise for which Mr. Kean made his bid. The bill provides for a public sale, and the option is left to each county as to whether it shall take advantage of its provisions.

DODD GOES TO COURT TO GET IN THE JAIL.

WARDEN BLORE WON'T GIVE UP KEYS.

The Plainfield Appointee Has Engaged Corporation Counsel Marsh as His Attorney.

The committee of the Union County Freeholders, with Director Hubbard, County Attorney Coddington, Clerk Eyre, of the Board, and Charles W. Dodd, the new warden of the county jail, and Mrs. Dodd, the recently-elected matron, met in the Board of Freeholders room, Elizabeth, Tuesday afternoon, and then proceeded to the jail, where a formal demand was made by Director Hubbard and Mr. Dodd for the keys of the jail. Their request was also backed by the jail committee of the Board of Freeholders.

Warden Blore, the Democratic incumbent, positively refused to surrender the keys or to admit Warden-elect Dodd inside the jail office. The party then returned to the Freeholders' room for further consultation.

Warden Blore is making his fight under the Veteran Rights act, and will not yield until compelled to do so by the Supreme Court.

Mr. Dodd has engaged Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh to represent him in the contention which Mr. Blore has raised. Mr. Marsh will carry the matter into the Supreme Court immediately.

AID TO GET POSITIONS.

A NEW FEATURE TO BE ADOPTED BY STATE EDUCATORS.

A Bureau to Be Established Where Teachers and Boards of Education Can Come Together Without Expense.

A recommendation of Charles J. Baxter, of this city, State Superintendent of Public Schools, designing to aid school teachers of this State in securing positions and local boards of education in obtaining teachers, will soon go into effect. Tuesday a meeting of a special committee of the State Board of Education, of which S. St. John McCutchen, of North Plainfield, is a member, was held at Trenton. Mr. Baxter's recommendation was considered and the committee decided that the proposed bureau of information for teachers and school boards could be formed without the passage of a special act through the Legislature.

The plan, as decided upon by the committee, is to have a bureau where all New Jersey school teachers can register. Then local boards can obtain their teachers by applying to the bureau without cost. Heretofore both teachers and boards have been compelled to depend on the private agencies to secure what they wanted. This plan is arranged so as to save the cost of registering with the private agencies to the teachers and the cost to the Board in finding candidates for their positions.

It is planned to have the bureau under the charge of the curator of the State museum and two members of the State board. They are to serve without compensation. There will be a great deal of work to be done, however, and it will be necessary to hire a clerk to take charge of the work of the bureau. The necessary funds for the maintenance of the bureau will be transferred from the other accounts of the Board.

FROM JAIL TO HOSPITAL.

Smedberg Suffering With Inflammatory Rheumatism.

Joseph D. Smedberg, who is completing a term in the county jail for stealing diamonds from Harry W. Marshall, of this city, was removed Tuesday afternoon from the jail to the General Hospital, to be treated for inflammatory rheumatism, with which he has been suffering for some time. Smedberg's time will be up Feb. 26th.

Pythian Delegates.

Frank Putnam, of Elm place, went to Trenton yesterday as delegate from Unity Lodge, Knights of Pythias, to attend the meeting of the grand lodge at that city. He will be absent for several days.

Charles McGinley, of East Third street, left for Trenton Tuesday to attend the meeting of the grand lodge of the State, as delegate from Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias.

Book of The Royal Blue.

A neat and attractive book is now being published monthly called "The Book of the Royal Blue." It is issued by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and contains, in addition to information, much valuable reading.

Young Woman and Society.

Next Sunday evening Rev. C. E. Herring will give the second of his series of sermons on young women, and the subject will be "Young Woman and Society."

EXTRA! EXTRA!

THE MAINE BLOWN UP AND 417 LIVES LOST.

No One Yet Able to Tell the Cause, but Supposed to be Due to Treachery.

The Explosion Occurred at 9:45 o'Clock Last Night. Only 33 of the Crew Were Saved. General Lee Conducting an Investigation.

HAVANA, Feb. 16.—The United States battleship Maine was blown up in plain sight of Havana at 9:45 o'clock last night.

Capt. Sigsbee says he is not able to state officially the cause of the explosion until he has made an investigation among the officers.

He says the magazine was well guarded, as usual.

Is It Treachery?

HAVANA, CUBA, FEBRUARY 16th.—Though there is no certainty, it is now believed that a buried dynamite mine destroyed the battleship Maine in the Havana harbor at 9:45 o'clock last night.

Consul General Lee is making an investigation. Divers will immediately inspect the hull of the wrecked vessel for evidence of treachery.

Captain Sigsbee is injured about his head, but not seriously.

All officers are accounted for except Lieutenant F. W. Jenkins and Assistant Engineer Darwin R. M. Meraitt.

The wounded are being taken on stretchers to the Casa DeLorcorro, where surgeons are in attendance.

A Naval Opinion.

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 16TH.—Captain Sumner, of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where the Maine was built, says that it would be impossible for the ship to be blown up accidentally by fault of its own.

WASHINGTON, D. C., FEBRUARY 16TH.—Navy officers at the capital do not believe that the Maine was destroyed accidentally. The belief is growing stronger every hour that the battleship was deliberately destroyed.

Press Censorship.

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 16TH.—All news concerning the explosion of the Maine passes through the hands of the press censors and such portions as reflects unfavorably on Spain in connection with the casualties are cut out,

The Spanish authorities say that guncotton exploded accidentally.

Panic in Havana.

JACKSONVILLE, ELA., Feb. 16.—Reports from Havana say that the explosion of the Maine caused a fearful panic in the city. For over two hours the most exciting kind of disorder reigned supreme. Nobody was able to locate the explosion for sometime after. All the electric lights in the city were extinguished and many windows shattered. Firemen turned out and rushed from street to street in a disconcerted sort of manner. The police were panic stricken.

The Country Excited.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Nothing definite, but conflicting reports received in New York and Washington as to number killed on battleship. One report says loss is over two hundred, and other gives only fifty survivors. Much excitement prevails throughout the country as the news spreads.

Capt. Sigsbe has cabled Washington that the Maine is a total wreck. Flags are at half mast on City Hall and other public buildings for dead. Latest advises leave in doubt whether the explosion was deliberate or accident. Government authorities at Washington are waiting for definite details before taking action.

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

DALNASHEA'S HOSTESS' PLEASANT AT HOME.

SOCIETY EVENT IN THE BOROUGH

Mrs. Charles Walter McCutchen Entertained Hospitably—Air Filled With Sweet Melodies.

In spite of inclement weather, one of the most delightful "At Homes" of the season was given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Walter McCutchen at "Dalnashea," Rockview avenue. The artistic home was very beautiful with decorations of roses and azaleas. Mrs. McCutchen received her guests in the music room which opens into the conservatory. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. Kirtland Meyers, Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, Mrs. Frederick Mead and Mrs. Rowland Cox. The color tone in the library was red. In the dining room, which is itself a picture, the light fell from pink shaded candles on pink roses and clustered ribbons. Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen, Mrs. E. J. Waring and Mrs. H B Wells presided in turn at the table. They were assisted by Miss Margaret Wilson McCutchen, Helen Phillips, Dorothy Wells and Cora Haviland. Misses Cooley, Shreve and Dumont also cared for the guests in the dining room. Music is a fitting accompaniment to Dalnashea hospitalities, and during the afternoon a band of musicians stationed in the hall, filled the air with sweet melodies. A large number of guests were present. Maresi, from New York, was the caterer. The second "At Home" will take place Tuesday, February 22n

BRIDE LATE 'FOR LUCK"

HYMEN AND GUESTS HAD TO WA T IN TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH

Marriage of Miss Cora Greenleaf Adair Dunlap to James Edward Pangborn Celebrated Tuesday—The Bridal Party

A large gathering of friends and relatives was present at Trinity Reformed church last evening to witness the marriage of Miss Cora Greenleaf Adair Dunlap and James Edward Pangborn. The church was decorated with flowers and palms, presenting an unusually pretty appearance. A slight stir was caused among those waiting to witness the ceremony by the lateness of the bride in arriving at the church. She came after a short delay, however, and it was said that the incident was contrived by the bride herself and was "for luck."

The soft strains of the wedding march were played by Miss Jessie Utter as the bride leaning upon the arm of her cousin Oliver Dilts, of Flemington, moved up the left aisle of the church. She was attired in a gown of white liberty satin, trimmed with old point lace and a white veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses and maiden hair ferns. The bridesmaids were Miss Carrie Pangborn, a sister of the groom, and Miss Hattie Dunlap, a niece of the bride. They were dressed in white organdie over pink silk, and carried bouquets of pinks. The maid of honor was Miss Lizzie, Dunlap, sister of the bride. She wore white silk and lavander chiffon, and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Little Oliver Dunlap, a niece of the bride, made a charming flower girl. She wore a dress of white organdie and canary colored satin.

At the pulpit platform they were met by the groom and his best man, Wm. J. Smythe, Jr., of Long Branch.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of the church. The ring ceremony was used.

The ushers were Charles Dunlap, Robert Jeffrey, Chauncey Colthar and George Graves, of this city. Charles Holstein acted as page.

The bride was given away by her cousin, Oliver Dilts, of Flemington. After the ceremony the party marched in reverse order down the right aisle of the church and were driven to the bride's home, 225 East Fifth street, where a wedding supper was served to a large number of invited guests. The decorations of the house included a large bell of white roses, under which the bride and groom received congratulations.

The bride presented the bridesmaids and the maid of honor with beautiful opal rings, and scarf pins were presented by the groom to the ushers and the best man.

The presents received by the bride and groom were numerous and of great beauty and value.

After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs Pangborn left the house amid a shower of rice and old slippers, and were driven to the station, where they boarded a train for Washington, D. C.

A friend of the couple, who was inclined to practical joking, caused a sign to be placed upon the coach in which they were driven to the station. It read:

"We're Just Married and Off for Boston."

As the coach passed through the city many pedestrians turned and gazed after it. It was not until the couple reached the station that the groom learned why their carriage had attracted so much attention.

ZION'S MAN TALKS PLAIN

REV. F. D. TILDON ATTACKS THE "BOY PHENOMENON" BITTERLY.

The Colored Reverend Does Not Approve of the Idea of Discriminating Against His Race as Shown By the Hosley

When the manager of "The Boy Phenomenon" came to Plainfield and advertised that "no colored people, babies or children" would be permitted at the public demonstration it was expected some of the substantial colored citizens would enter a protest against race discrimination. The one to take up the cause of the colored people is Rev. F. D Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel, who writes as follows:

There are always strange things happening around us. Some are stranger than others, while some are so strange that, for want of a better name, we call them phenomena. The latest phenomenon that has visited the city of Plainfield is the "Boy Phenomenon," now exhibiting at Stillman Music Hall.

The manager of this boy gives out a notice that "no colored people, babies or children, will be admitted to the theatre or treated at the Revere House."

This is a phenomenal statement. The world's great healer has come, but the largest part of the world is wilfully and deliberately excluded from his treatment. Why are babies and children excluded? Are they not soon to take the place of their parents? And is it not important that they should grow up to be healthy men and women? This distinction throws suspicion upon the character of the work that this boy is doing more than anything else that is said. It simply shows that the healer or his manager, one, has no faith in his own art. He does not consider it worth while to heal babies and children, although the boy himself is a child, because he knows they will soon need healing again. The rest may soon die.

But why is this discrimination against colored people? Are they not human? Have they not the same right as others to enjoy health and happiness? There is not a physician or lawyer or business man or man of any other honorable calling in the city of Plainfield, I dare say in the commonwealth of New Jersey, that would refuse to serve the colored man in his official or business capacity, simply because he was colored. But here is one who professes to be a benefactor of mankind, and in whose hands is this elixir of life, who extends an invitation to the public to come and be healed of their infirmities, yet who refuses to treat "colored people, babies and children." What a farcical invitation! Could anything be more unjust and inhuman? Could an appeal to the public be fraught with more deceitfulness, guile and hypocrisy than this? The good people of Plainfield who love their children as themselves, and to whose hearts the welfare of all classes of citizens is alike dear, will spurn such a principle with the utmost contempt.

The manager of this boy would help those who are most able to help themselves, and heal those who are least in need of healing. Were it possible, no doubt, he would gather about him the most prosperous business people and the most prosperous working people, whose wonderful activity causes them at times to be nervous and restless, and heal them. Were it possible, he would exclude not only "colored people, babies and children," but all the poor and all those who suffer the real ills of life, and would treat only the rich and healthy.

It is plain to see that this man is seeking his own ends and not the good of others. Nothing is lost, however, to those who are excluded from Music Hall or the Revere House. But it is sad to see one who is so thoroughly evil that he would withhold the greatest boon of life for the mere sake of money. Such a man would sell air, sunshine, rain and everything else, were they under his control, to the highest bidder. F. D. Tildon.

Car Traveled 35,000 Miles.

Car No. 14, of the street railway, is having a new trucks put under her. Superintendent Adleman told a reporter that a pair of trucks travel about 35,000 miles before they are worn out.

The "Rubber Necks," of the Greenpoint Athletic Club, as the team is facetiously called by its clubmates, will play basket ball in Plainfield Friday evening. The "Rubber Necks" will meet the first team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. in the gymnasium of the latter, and a good game may be looked for.

—The contract case of Giovanio against Macaroni, in Justice Newcorn's court, has been adjourned for a week.

RACED FOR A DIVORCE

HUSBAND IS THE APPLICANT, BUT WIFE WILL OPPOSE HIM.

Mr and Mrs. Abraham G. Hooley, Formerly of Plainfield, are the Warring Couple—What Each One Claims.

Anna Balen Hooley, accompanied by a maid, left at 6 o'clock Saturday night for Grand Forks, N. D., to fight her husband, Abraham G. Hooley, formerly of this city, to the bitter end in a suit for a divorce.

Mrs. Hooley is thirty years old, and still the wife of Abraham G. Hooley, a well-known figure in Wall street, who was, until he left New York to take up his residence in North Dakota, a member of the prosperous brokerage house of Bolston & Bass, of Nos. 16 and 18 Broad street. His brother is still a member of that firm.

Mr. Hooley, who is of the same age as his wife, first began action for divorce last October. At that time he went to Grand Forks, and shortly afterwards papers were served upon his wife. His attorney there was Frank Bangs, but his New York counsel were Wallach & Cook, of Wall street It is said that the plaintiff believed that Mrs. Hooley would not contest the suit, but in this they were mistaken, for she placed the matter in the hands of Hoggarth & Carruthers, and of Carroll Whittaker, of New York. The result is that for many weeks voluminous testimony has been taken in New York City; Monroe, Orange county, N. Y.; Plainfield and Elizabeth. Altogether 172 persons have given testimony for plaintiff and defendant, and 856 pages of type written evidence in the case westward last night for the use of the Dakota courts.

Mr. Hooley recited in his petition for divorce that he married the defendant, Anna Balen, at Plainfield, January 14, 1886, and that as an issue of that marriage there are now a son, George Balen Hooley, aged eleven years, and a daughter, Louise Richmond Hooley, aged eight years. He sues on the ground of habitual cruelty, and for "conduct unbecoming a gentlewoman." He says that on frequent occasions, either in private or in the presence of his friends, that his wife was proclaimed: "Oh, God, how I wish you were dead!"

"On divers and numerous occasions the defendant has assaulted me with combs and hair brushes and similar articles, all for the purpose of humiliating me and holding me up to public scorn and ridicule," says Mr. Hooley.

"In July, 1897," he goes on, "she leveled a pistol loaded with shot and powder, which I succeeded in wrenching from her, whereupon she exclaimed: 'If you had not taken it away from me I would have killed you.'" All this evidently occurred after he had separated from her, for he says that on August 10, 1895, he left the home at Plainfield, where they had resided, and had not lived with her since. He asks for the custody of his son.

Mrs. Hooley in her answer recites at length ju t who her husband is, socially and financially. She says that prior to 1890 he was a trusted and high-salaried employe of the broker age firm of Thomas B. Reed & Co. of the Mills building, but that since then he has been a member of the firm of Bolston & Bass. His income, she asserts, has for a long time been more than $5,000 a year, and that he received the sum of $8,000 a short time ago from the town of Monroe, Orange county, N. Y. As for herself she has nothing upon which to support her two children and herself. She adds that her husband's mother lives in a handsome mansion at Plainfield, and is worth $250,000, while her brother-in-law, a member of the firm of Bolston & Bass, enjoys an income in excess of $16,000 a year.

Mrs. Hooley further asserts that on October 26th, 1895, she and her husband entered into an agreement in writing, whereby they were to live apart, he to pay her $40 a week, and she to support and provide schooling for her children. She denies all cruelty, and in support of her state ment presents affidavits from some forty tradesmen in New York, New Jersey and in Monroe testifying to her gentle disposition.

Then she goes on to recite that her husband has given her great cause for jealousy, and presents affidavits that he was greatly enamored of a young woman named Alice Beatrice DeBevere. She does not allege improper relations between the two, but exhibits as testimony many gifts which Miss DeBevere gave to her attorneys, with the statement that they were presented to her at various times by Mr. Hooley. This collection of gifts includes many articles of jewelry of but little worth, a small book bound in solid silver and entitled "A Little Path to Heaven," and numerous volumes of poems. One volume, entitled "Love Poems and Sonnets," is inscribed, "To my Alice, from A."

Mr. Hooley left for Grand Forks Saturday morning, thus having twelve hours' start of his wife. But that makes no difference, for the case will not come to trial until Thursday of this week. A number of witnesses are expected to leave today, while the 855 pages of typewritten testimony are already on their way there by express.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATED

Y. M. C. A. TEAM LOST TWO BASKET BALL GAMES LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

Elizabeth A. C. Defeated the First Team on a Slippery Floor—Newark Academy Won From the Business Men's Team.

Lincoln's Birthday proved a rather unfortunate day for the basket ball teams of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. The first team of the association was defeated Saturday afternoon by the Elizabeth Athletic Club at the latter's gymnasium by a score of 32 to 9. Saturday evening the team from the Newark academy played against the Business Men's team in the Plainfield gymnasium and defeated them by a score of 15 to 10.

When the E. A. C. team came to Plainfield, it was defeated by a score of 10 to 9. The peculiar arrangement of the goals proved a handicap to the Plainfield boys, while the Elizabeth team was used to the place. It had happened the night before a dance had been held in the gymnasium and the floor was slippery as glass. Plenty of rosin was used but still the players found it almost impossible to stand up. Falls were numerous, somebody being down all the time while the play was in progress. Luckily, nobody was seriously injured.

The Elizabeth team was the first to adapt their tactics to the slippery floor and they had everything their own way for the first half. The game was very free from rough play except on the part of Eskin, of the E. A. C., who repeatedly had to be called down for unnecessary roughness. The score was 20 to 3 at the end of the first half. The Plainfield boys improved their game in the second half but the Elizabeth team was still able to hold its own, finally winning by a score of 32 to 9. Bonny was substituted for Smith in the second half. A small crowd, chiefly composed of the Plainfield enthusiasts, witnessed the game.

The team lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.		ELIZABETH A. C.
E. Moeller	right forward	Eskin
Long	left forward	Smith
Egan	centre	Cook
F. Smith	centre	Hunting
M. Moeller	left guard	Little
Bonny	left guard	Hughes

Goals from the field, E. Moeller (2), Long (2), Eskin (2), F. Smith (2), Hughes (2). Goal on foul, Long (1). Goals, Plainfield, (3); Elizabeth, (13). Referee, Ward of Newark. Umpires, C. G. Hayward and Charles B. Moore, of Plainfield. Timekeeper, Fred Smith, Plainfield. Scorer, D. Vanhorne, of Plainfield.

The game between the Newark Academy boys and the Business Men's team was one of the roughest that has been played here for sometime. The team playing of the visitors was superior to that of the home team, although the local players did put up a brilliant game. The score was 8 to 4 in favor of the visitors at the end of the first half. It was only by hard playing that the visitors managed to win, for the local men made a hard fight. The second half was more evenly contested. While the visitors fouled as frequently as the home team, the Newark umpire refused to call any fouls on his own men. As a result the playing grew rougher as the game closed. Newark finally won by a score of 15 to 10.

The teams lined up as follows:

BUSINESS MEN'S TEAM.		NEWARK ACADEMY.
E. Moeller	right forward	Young
Bonnell
Dunk	left forward	Doran
Johnson	centre	Wrightson
F. Smith	left guard	Longstreet
Moeller
Egan	left guard	Odgen

Score, Newark Academy, 15; Plainfield, 10. Goals from the field, Moeller (2), Johnson (1), Young (1), Doran (3), Anglebard (1). Goals on fouls, Wrightson (3). Fouls, Newark, (11); Plainfield, (6). Referee, Charles Chadwick, of Plainfield. Umpires, H. P. Jones, of Newark, and E. Hughes, of Plainfield. Timekeeper, A. B. Meredith, of Plainfield. Scorer, L. I. Vanhorne, of Plainfield.

Brave Woman Fire Fighter.

The bravery and presence of mind of Mrs. John Albert, of East Fourth street, probably prevented a serious fire Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Albert's daughters had put a piano lamp too near a lace curtain and the inflammable material of the curtain quickly blazed up in a threatening manner. Mrs. Albert pulled the curtain pole down and carried the flaming curtains to the front yard, where the flames were stamped out with brooms.

Pastor Gibson Remembered.

Last Thursday evening after Rev. P. S. Gib on was out to meet his official board to consider future plans for the work of his church, he was surprised to return home and find his home crowded by members of his church who had gathered to bring large donations, consisting of groceries of all kinds. After a musical programme was rendered, the pastor made a short address expressing thanks and appreciation for the kindness of his flock.

To be Given Away.

The Charity Circle of King's Daughters will give an exhibition of George Wharton Edwards' original drawings from "Old English Love Songs" and "Old English Ballads" in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon and evening, February 17th. The sketches will be illustrated by old English songs sung by Miss Rosabel Shroeder, Frank Cokefair and William Runyon. Prominent society women will receive the guests.

A Private Enterprise.

There is a scheme of a private nature to macadamize Madison avenue. The work will be done under the supervision of the Street Commissioner.

OF WASHINGTON ROCK.

HOW THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY CAME TO VISIT THE SPOT.

Edward Fitz-Randolph Piloted the General to the Rock so That He Could Watch Movements of the British.

As an historical spot, the big ledge that sticks its head up in prominent form on the Watchung mountain, two miles from this city, known as Washington's Rock, deserves some distinguishing mark for the perpetuation of its memory in the minds of future generations. It is eminently fitting that the work of providing the mark should be accomplished by that patriotic society of women, the Continental Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution. The following history of the Rock will prove interesting and reliable, as it is written by George W. Fitz-Randolph, of West Front street:

In the year 1777 or '78 Washington, with 600 men, was encamped on the ridge at Bound Brook, near and west of Bound Brook. The British army was encamped at New Brunswick, Rahway and Perth Amboy, making incursions on the surrounding country. Doubtless, with the intent of guarding against a serious incursion or surprise, Washington was on his way to the top of the mountain back of Greenbrook. Be that as it may, he, with an aide de-camp mounted, rode in the gateway and up to a group of men standing between the house and barn on the farm now known as the Jonah Vail farm.

Washington said, "Can any of you gentlemen guide me to some prominent spot on the mountain from whence a good view of the plain below can be obtained?"

Edward Fitz-Randolph, one of the group, in reply said, "I know of the best point on the mountain for that purpose, and if I had a horse I would take you to it."

Thereupon the General requested his aide to dismount and await his return. Fitz Randolph mounted upon the aide's horse, piloted the General to the rock which today bears the historic name of "Washington's Rock."

I have given the story nearly word for word as given to me by Ephraim Vail, who died a few years since, aged ninety years and over, on the farm where he was born and raised. Jonah Vail gave me the same version of the incident; indeed any of the old residents at Greenbrook would corroborate the above were they alive.

All these Vails were Quakers, owning adjoining farms, and their word is as reliable and authentic as are similar facts, which in the same way make up history.

Doubtless there is on file in the library at the State House, at Trenton, where newspapers are filed for reference, some newspaper, which at the time made mention of the event in its local column, in which event it must have been obtained verbally from some of the parties whose descendants handed it down to me.

Edward Fitz-Randolph, my grandfather, mentioned above was, at the time, a young man, unmarried, living with his parents at Piscataway, and was visiting friends at Greenbrook. On this particular day he was visiting John Vail, grandfather of Jonah Vail, whose son now lives on the farm.

He, Fitz-Randolph, was an ardent Quaker and sat with Ephraim Vail and others on the facing seat in the old meeting house by the depot, which he, being a mason, helped to build in 1758.

On the east side of the Raritan river between Bound Brook and New Brunswick is a house known as the Latourette House. This house was built in the year 1700 and remains in good condition to this day.

At one time Generals Washington, Lafayette and Steuben occupied it. I have never visited it, but a friend of mine who has says the present occupants, elderly people, are very sociable and hospitable. The capacious old fireplace remains the same, and some of the furniture in use when the Generals were there is in use now.

It occurs to me that if some of the "Daughters of the Revolution" would visit this place, if they have never done so, they might secure some data of value. In any event, if they are as fond of antiquities as I am, they will be richly repaid for their journey.

Very respectfully,

George W. Fitz-Randolph.

909 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

HEALTH OFFICERS CHOSEN.

H. B. Newhall President and Dr. Murray Secretary.

At the meeting of the new Board of Health called for last evening to elect officers for the ensuing year Henry B. Newhall was chosen for president and Dr. William H. Murray for secretary. The other members present were Dr. B. Van D. Hedges and J. Augustus Smith, the newly appointed members of the Board, and A. J. Gavett.

May be a New Pastor.

It is rumored that the new pastor of Grace M. E. church, North Plainfield, will be Rev. W. C Kinsey, formerly of Dunellen, but now of Newark. Mr. Kinsey is a young man and very popular wherever he goes.

POST ON VALENTINES.

A NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY PRESBYTERIAN ENDEAVORERS.

A Postoffice that Was a Good Thing for the Treasury of the Society—Scene of Pretty Activities for the Benefit of St. Stephen's.

The chapel of the First Presbyterian church was well filled with members and friends of the church Friday evening, when a "Valentine Social" was given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. It was a novel affair in many respects and as a means of raising funds for the society was a complete success. Miss Evelyn Searing, John Lindsey, W. L. Remsen, Miss Conover, Miss Jessie McKillop and Miss Helen Boice were responsible for the decorations, which consisted of orange and black bunting.

The first part of the evening was enjoyably spent in listening to several phonographic selections and the direction of Rev. C. E Herring, while another interesting and profitable feature was the valentine table and postoffice. Those in charge of this department were Miss Grace Petrie, Miss Edith Bond, Miss Lucie Wood and Miss Agnes Blair. The object was to have mail at the postoffice for everyone present and as each name was called the person to whom the letter was addressed went forward and paid anywhere from two cents to twenty-five cents due as postage. Of course the letters were comical and well worth the additional postage charged. Some of the letters contained excellent photographs and will be kept as souvenirs by the owners.

The other portion of the programme consisted of vocal solos by Miss Charlotte Messerschmith and Miss Kathryn Glen; instrumental duet, Miss Remsen and Miss Josephine Petrie; piano solos, Miss Mabelle Force; recitations, Miss Mary Luckey, and a reading entitled "Sam Weller's Valentine," from Pickwick Papers, by Mrs. E. V. Waldorf. Miss Mabelle Force accompanied Miss Messerschmith while she sang.

The candy table was also a source of profit. Those in charge consisted of Miss Helen Boice, Miss Remsen, Miss Jessie Pruden and Miss Jennie Abbott. The refreshment table was in charge of Mrs. W. L. Remsen and Miss Josephine Petrie, while members of the intermediate department of the society acted as waitresses. Mrs. W. L. Remsen was the chairman of the affair and to her and those who assisted is due much credit for the very able manner in which it was conducted. The society will receive a nice sum as a reward for the efforts put forth by the members. John Lindsey was the efficient cashier.

The Valentine Social at the First Presbyterian church last evening netted the Christian Endeavor Society about $30.

A charming affair was the reception given by the ladies of St. Stephen's church Friday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. William A. Wheeler, of 316 LaGrande avenue. It was given for the benefit of the church and netted a considerable sum. The members of the congregation and their friends turned out well despite the threatening weather. During the evening the house was barely able to accommodate the crowd that thronged there.

In the parlors were cake and candy tables, and each formed the centre of a merry circle of purchasers. The candy table was under the charge of Mrs. N. P. T. Finch. The cake table was looked after by Mrs. A. J. Beal and Mrs. Hugh Knox. For the young people there was a mystery table that offered wonderful attractions. Miss Bacon was in charge.

Tea, chocolate and cake were served to all the guests in the dining room. The table there was presided over by Miss Davidson and Miss Clark. In the hallway a phonograph rendered a choice variety of selections under the charge of Leroy Wheeler. Wm. Beal had charge of the door.

In the parlors the guests were received by Rev. and Mrs. D. P Simpson and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler. Miss Florence R. Beal, Miss Ethel Finch, Miss Clara Woodward, Miss Smith, Miss Edson and the Misses Bacon assisted in the parlors and dining room.

Quick Railroad Traveling.

In connecting with a new arrangement it is only a question of a few hours from Plainfield to Denver. People desiring to make the trip quick and in comfort can leave Plainfield at 9:54 a. m., arrive in Chicago at 9:20 the next morning, which will be in time to catch the 10:00 a. m. No. 1 fast express over the popular Burlington route, arriving in Denver at 1:30 the next afternoon. The B. & O. is already doing large business by this popular and quick route.

A Six-Year-Old Hostess.

Rae Warnock, of North avenue, was six years old Friday, and in honor of the event she gave a party to about twenty-five of her little friends. Games were played until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when refreshments were served, after which the little ones left for home wishing their young hostess many happy returns of the day.

TROLLEY KINGS FIGHT.

UNION COUNTY FRANCHISE HELD AT HIGH VALUE.

B. M. Shanley, the Newark Railroad Man, Intimates That He Would Rather Pay $150,000 Than Lose the Franchise.

The real cash value of a trolley franchise is likely to be established as the outcome of the fight now being waged between the magnates in Union county. The question has arisen over the proposed trolley road to be built along Westfield avenue, a county road between Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Already $100,000 has been offered by ex-Congressman John Kean, for the franchise, and it is said that B. M. Shanley, the Newark capitalist, who represents the Consolidated Traction interests, is ready to double the offer before he will lose the right to build the road.

Then a company asked the Freeholders of Union county for a franchise to build a trolley road between Elizabeth and Plainfield, Frank Bergen, an Elizabeth lawyer, jumped in and declared that Union county could take the matter in its own hands, build the road and operate it as well.

This was an entirely new proposition to the people, but they liked the idea. Accordingly a bill was ordered prepared for the Legislature authorizing the county to widen the county road and construct a trolley line on one side of it.

This determined action stirred up ex Congressman Kean, who at once offered to pay the county $100,000 cash for the same privilege. Union county might lack the funds to build and equip a railroad, he said, but he had it, and the county might spend the $100,000 in improving its other roads and public buildings.

The Freeholders of the county need money and are holding Mr. Kean's offer in abeyance.

Meanwhile B. M. Shanley, the Newark railroad man, has intimated that he would pay a quarter of a million rather than lose the franchise.

The Freeholders and the other tax payers are congratulating themselves that they are not only finding out what a franchise is worth to a corporation, but they are happy that their county is to be enriched by the failing out of the magnates.

A meeting of the Freeholders has been called for today, when Mr. Shanley is expected to say just how much he is prepared to give for the franchise. Mr. Shanley, who has been building trolley roads where the right to were there, is exasperated at the action of the Freeholders and his rival Kean, in forcing his hand, for he says it will put expensive notions into the heads of other townships where trolley lines are to be built.

FIVE YEARS OF SUCCESS.

GOOD MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE.

Encouraging Reports at the Fifth Annual Meeting of the Retail Merchants' Fire Insurance Company.

The fifth annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of New Jersey was held Thursday in Paterson. There were representatives from Newark, Harrison, Kearney, Passaic, Jersey City, Plainfield, Trenton, New Brunswick and Newton, and the session lasted all day.

The reports of the officers showed a very encouraging growth of enterprise. The volume of business written during the year exceeded any of its predecessors, and brought up the grand total of business to $1,647,000, of property located in the several cities above named, and mainly upon dwellings, the company excluding unconstitutional risks, hazardous and extra hazardous risks, such as mills, factories, carpenter shops, etc. The result of this is seen in the merely nominal loss of $363 on fires, and this also accounts for the low rate at which the company offeres insurance.

There was a confident feeling and even enthusiasm about the business of the coming year, and if the predictions are only partially realized the business will be a success. A promising feature is the number of several property owners who have taken out policies within the last six months.

The difference in premiums in this and the old line companies represents an aggregate of $12,000 and this is a saving to the policy holders. That sum remains with the insured instead of going into the coffers of the old line companies as "surplus."

These matters were reported by the officers and formed the basis of discussion by the delegates. Several amendments were made to the constitution and by-laws providing for greater safety and security by the policy holders.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, James G. Patton, of Paterson; first vice president, Arthur Greenfield, of Kearney; second vice-president, James A. Smith, of Plainfield; treasurer, J. H. Burkhardt, of Newark; secretary, J. C. Rondris, of Passaic; directors, James Gibson, of Paterson; James H. Markey, of Newark; Richard Outwater, of Passaic; J. R. Gaskill, of Trenton; Arthur Greenfield, of Kearney; W. W. Woodward, of Newton; P. S. Van Angien, of New Brunswick; J. S. Patton, of Paterson, and J. A. Smith, of Plainfield, council, Michael Dunn.

SIXTY YEARS A CHURCH.

ANNIVERSARY OF SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS FRIDAY MORNING.

The Plainfield Society Was One of the Earliest of the Denomination to the State and Has Grown to Exert Gr at Influence.

The Seventh-Day Baptist church of Plainfield was one of the earliest of that denomination organized in this part of the country, and has had a prosperous life. Last Friday, at the usual hour for service, the members of the church and their friends gathered in their beautiful house of worship to celebrate their sixtieth anniversary. The exercises were of an unusual interest, and were quite well attended in spite of the rain.

The service opened with an anthem, "I Waited for the Lord," by the double quartette choir of the church. The invocation was offered by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Main, who also led the responsive reading, but the prayer was by Dr. L. E. Livermore. During the offertory a quartette was sung by Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, Miss Nan Randolph and Mr. Wright.

A number of papers relating to the history of the church were then read. The first was by Deacon J D. Spicer, church clerk, who told of the gains and losses to the church roll, changes of pastor, and the building of the new house of worship.

Frank J. Hubbard, secretary of the Sabbath-school, followed with an account of the organization and operation of the school, the terms of office of superintendent, etc., the number of teachers, finances, the state of the library, missionary activity and the music of the school, all of considerable consideration. Miss Ida Spicer, secretary of the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor, was the next to come forward with an earnest and interesting paper regarding that society, its organization, officers, work for its own church and outside objects, such as the life saving stations, educating a student, etc., its committees and the spiritual help gained from it.

A paper by Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor, was next read by Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, giving a pleasant report of the work of the little folks and their advance in the Christian life. Mrs. A. T. Mazon followed with an account of the Women's Society for Christian Work. This report told an encouraging story of helping hands stretched out to needy ones near at hand, and to those of other lands.

Brief addresses by Dr. Livermore and Dr. A. H. Lewis were then delivered. Dr. Livermore, who was pastor of the New Market church, which was mother to this of Plainfield, spoke of the large increase of the Seventh-day Baptist denomination since the foundation of the church to the members of which he was speaking, and of the sixty years of successful work which they were celebrating. He spoke of the immeasurable influence of such a church, with its organized many-sided activity, and exhorted the hearers not to be satisfied with a successful past, but to go on to still better things.

Dr. Lewis, for so long the beloved pastor of the church, said only a few words, but they were both eloquent and inspiring. He spoke of the relation of the church to the home, from the entrance of the little child into the infant class of the Sabbath-school on the day when the last prayers of the church were offered above the body from which the spirit had fled. "Churlish the church," he said, "only is the dearer to us than all else; it is the priceless gem of the world."

Rev. A. E. Main had a few strong words for the people concerning the importance of Sabbath keeping, ministering to others, and a high standard of Christian living. If the church would see increased usefulness and growth in the future.

After the singing of the last hymn the service was concluded by prayer and benediction by Dr. Lewis.

TWO GUBERNATORIAL BEES.

Judge Fort Says He Is Out If Gov. Voorhees Is a Candidate.

Two gubernatorial booms were sprung at the reception given Wednesday night by the East Orange Republican Club to Gov. Voorhees.

Mr. Voorhees himself and Judge J. Frank Fort, of the Essex County Common Pleas, were both named for gubernatorial honors next year, although Judge Fort asserted that he would not be a candidate against Gov. Voorhees.

It was understood that there would be no political talk or speeches of any kind at the reception. Senator Scott, of Cumberland county, started the ball rolling by declaring that he was present to prevent warring between two prospective candidates for Governor next year, both his friends. He was followed by Judge Joseph Cross, of Ellsworth, who declared Voorhees to be the logical candidate, and referred to Judge Fort as "the man with the wistful eye," who should wait until 1902.

Judge Fort said he would resign as Judge if he ever became a candidate for Governor.

TO MAKE ARTIFICIAL ICE.

A LOCAL COMPANY ORGANIZED FOR THAT PURPOSE

Capitalized at $50,000, or Which $10,000 Has Been Paid In—Work on the Plant to Start March 1st—Twenty Tons a Day.

A plant, directed by Plainfield capital, is soon to be erected to provide artificial ice for consumption in Plainfield households. Friday night a meeting of interested citizens was held in the Casino of the Union County Country Club and the Hygeia Ice Company regularly organized. It is now only a question of a few months when the plant will be in working order.

Six weeks ago, a committee consisting of H. G. Runkle, A. S. Patterson and D. C. Ivins, all of this city, went to Stamford, Conn., Germantown and Philadelphia to inspect artificial ice plants at those cities. They made a careful investigation of methods used and the cost of the plant and its operating. The Plainfielders who were interested in the scheme held their meeting last night and the committee made its report. Then the new company was formed. The following are the incorporators of the Hygeia Ice Company, as it will be called: H. G. Runkle, George A. Chapman, John T. Baker, W. B. Wadsworth, Alex. Gilfert, J. S. Schoonmaker, J. W. Reinhart, A. S. Patterson, D. C. Ivins, W. G. Cook and Dr. E. W. Hedges.

The Hygeia Ice Company is to be capitalized at $50,000, of which $10,000 was subscribed last night. While the incorporators could have raised the money among a few, it is their intention to make it as local as possible and interest as many as possible in the concern. The shares are to be $100 each.

The company has purchased land on North avenue, north of Berckman street, and running to the railroad. The lot has 240 feet front and is 300 feet deep. The ice will be made by what is known as the "block" system. The plant will be erected by Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Company. The plant and all the equipment will cost. It is estimated, about $40,000. The product will be twenty tons a day, which is greater than the amount of ice consumed in Plainfield in a day. The ice will be produced at a cost of about $1 a ton.

A meeting of the incorporators will be held next week, when the directors and officers will be elected. Great interest is shown in the new company, and those who are in charge of the subscription lists are meeting with excellent success. They have no fear but that the full amount can be secured without trouble.

The work on the plant will be begun March 1st and it will take three months to build it.

FIRE IN A NEW BUILDING.

Stove Overturned in Stillman Block and Floor Set on Fire.

Friday evening at 7:20 people walking along West Front street in the vicinity of Madison avenue were startled to hear a cry of fire which came from the second floor of the new Stillman building. The repeated cries of fire attracted the attention of a man who ran to Barker's drug store, secured a key and sent in an alarm from Box No. 42, corner of Front and Grove streets.

The department reached the scene quickly and an investigation proved that on the second floor of the new building the night watchman had accidentally upset a stove which was being used to dry out the walls of the building. The stove was an old one, and when upset the fire was dumped out on the floor. This frightened the watchman who immediately gave an alarm. Two extinguishers were required to put the fire out, and the damage was trifling.

Received Many Congratulations.

William C. Ayers celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday in a pleasant manner Saturday. His friends had planned a surprise party, but decided not to hold it for fear the excitement might prove too severe for Mr. Ayers. Throughout the day and evening he received calls and remembrances from friends in the form of flowers and other tokens.

Nature makes the cures after all.

Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out.

Things get started in the wrong direction.

Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with hypophosphites can do just this.

It strengthens the nerves, feeds famished tissues, and makes rich blood.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

SIN SOUGHT TRAVELING.

PLAINFIELD HEARD ALL ABOUT CHURCHES ON WHEELS.

The Moving Worshipping Places are Established in Handsomely Fitted Railroad Coaches—Work Accomplished.

A bi monthly missionary meeting of more than usual interest was held in the chapel of the Park Avenue Baptist church last Thursday, at which time Mrs. Edwin G. Wheeler, of Philadelphia, gave a talk on the subject of "Churches on Wheels." The American Baptist Publication Society of Philadelphia have under their auspices six "Churches on Wheels," in the shape of handsomely fitted coaches which are carried on all railroads free of charge, and it was about this work that Mrs. Wheeler talked. For sometime she and her late husband carried on a similar work in the chapel car "Emanuel," and after her husband died she continued the work.

Mrs. Wheeler related many touching incidents regarding the work and how people living in the far west were led to Christ through the great agency which was brought to their very doors. The plan adopted is to have the car stop at places where there are no churches and where there are no other influences of a Christian character. Mrs. Wheeler said that there are many such places through the west. In one of these cars about one hundred people can be seated comfortably, and it contains all the necessary room for living and cooking, in addition to room for holding meetings. Each car costs about $7,500, and is thoroughly equipped. At present there are two more cars in course of construction. One is being built by young Baptist women, and the other by young Baptist men.

When in service a car remains in one place one day to three weeks, and often while en route meetings are held which are well attended by passengers on the train.

Mrs. Wheeler told of the many conversions at the meetings, and of the interesting experiences of the people who were, for the first time, led to a knowledge of Christ. She enlisted the sympathies of all present in her work and created considerable enthusiasm.

During the reading Mrs. H. S. Biden sang several soprano solos that were much enjoyed by all. At the close of the meeting a collection was taken for the benefit of the work being carried on by Mrs. Wheeler, and the speaker was heartily thanked for her excellent talk.

WOMEN WERE JOVIAL HOSTS

THE CATHOLIC CLUB ENTERTAINED.

The Affair Given in the Clubhouse—Dancing and other Pastimes Indulged In.

A pleasant social event was that which took place last Thursday at the Plainfield Catholic Clubhouse, when the lady friends gave the members a banquet, and the members in turn gave their hosts the privilege of the house and a general good time. The clubhouse was filled to overflowing with members and the fair sex. The early part of the evening was devoted to dancing, music for which was furnished by O'Reilly. Those who did not care to dance found plenty of amusement in playing pool and cards, while others sought the bowling alleys to while away the time.

It was about 10:30 when the banquet was served by the women. The tables looked attractive and were greatly admired by the members of the club and the women.

Miss May Flanagan was in charge of the committee of women who gave the supper, and assisting were the following: Mrs. Thomas Comerford, Mrs. Hilliman, Mrs. McInnerney, Miss Maggie Day, Miss Josie Butscher, Miss Quinn, Miss May Galbraith, Miss Maggie Casey, Miss Veronica O'Keefe. The house committee, of which Thomas Comerford is the chairman, also assisted the women in carrying out their plans. The members of the club were loud in their praise of the efforts of their lady friends, and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to them.

DECORATED IN PINK.

Charming Afternoon Tea Given by Clever Society Women.

A charming afternoon tea was given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Dater Drayton and Mrs. Richard Henry Depew at the residence of the former on Franklin place. The parlors were prettily decorated for the occasion, the principal color being pink. The tea was between the hours of 4 and 6. The attendance was very large, the society circles of Plainfield and North Plainfield being well represented.

Mrs. Drayton and Mrs. Depew were assisted in the receiving of their guests by Mrs Manning, of Brooklyn, Mrs. A. S. Patterson and Mrs. Augustus Kleinecke. Mrs. A. D. Drayton and Mrs. R S. Manning received in another room.

The dining table was artistically arranged in the prevailing colors. Mrs. J. W. Sandford poured tea and Miss Coe presided over the chocolate. They were assisted by a number of young women.

MEN MADE THE COBWEB.

THE STERN SEX SHOW THEIR HAND AT ENTERTAINING IN A CHURCH.

Congregational Church Men Arrange a Sociable That Scores a Great Success—Other Features of Programme Rendered.

It was the turn of the men of the Congregational church at entertaining Friday evening. A committee of them put their heads together several weeks ago and laid plans for a sociable to be given to the congregation. Last night the sociable was held and the guests found the men very pleasing entertainers.

The lecture room was converted into a mammoth spider's web of bright-colored string. All was prepared for a cobweb party. The guests were handed their strings to untangle and, after chasing all over the room following the trail of the colored cord, they found a favor at the end. To the guests, having the same colored cord who finished first, little favors in the shape of small Japanese parasols and little cane baskets were awarded.

Before the lecture room was thrown open to the public view, several selections were rendered on a phonograph, under the charge of Manager Colgate, of the Edison Gem Company. After the "cobweb" had been unraveled the guests listened to other selections on the phonograph and gramaphone. F. O. Bristol also entertained the young people with the strange and erratic movements of little dolls, formed from Japanese napkins.

Refreshments, in the shape of sandwiches and bouillion prepared by the committee, were served by waiters almost hidden by large aprons.

The committee was composed of Stacy Raynolds, chairman; Walter Raynolds, George Fuller, Harold Tomlinson and F. O. Bristol. The waiters were M. C. VanArsdale, Paul Whitall, Joseph Fuller, Joseph A. Robinson, Frank O. Bristol, Charles Steiner and Walter Raynolds.

ADDITIONS TO THE LIBRARY.

List of Books That Have Been Added During January.

The Public Library has been enhanced recently by the addition to its shelves of the following volumes:

Abbott, History of Charles II. of England.
Abbott, Bello in Holl nd.
Abbott Bello in Scotland.
Ahn, German language.
Anderson, Rob rt, reader.
Bancroft, Abraham Lincoln.
Berlitz, Method of learning German.
Blake, Biographical dictionary.
Boyrier, Law dictionary, v 1.
Buhler, Sanskrit primer.
Bunce, Poems.
Fowle, Hundred dialogues.
Holberon, Three years among mail bags.
Honeyman, Coaching in merrie England.
Honeyman, America to Russia.
Honeyman, England to Italy.
Johns Hopkins University studies—American economic history, v. 15.
Johnson, S., Life.
Leighton, History of Rome.
Lee, Dictionary of national biography, v. 53
Lee, Livre des petits enfants.
Murray, New England dictionary, D. E., v. 3.
New York State. Second annual report of the State historian.
Oldham, Humorous speaker.
Pa. R. R. Co., Catalogue of the exhibit at World's Columbian Exposition.
Richardson, Messages and papers of the Presidents, v. 6.
Sauveur, Causeries avec mes eleves.
Wheler, Morals and Christian evidences.
Woodbury, Campaign of First Rhode Island Regiment.

Also the following bound magazines: Arena, v. 7; Builder, v. 69; Century, v. 34; Chautauquan, v. 20; Chemical news, v. 75; Cosmopolitan, v 20; Electrical engineer, v. 20; Engineering magazine, v. 13; Fortnightly review, v. 67; Forum, v. 20; Geographical journal, v. 9; Iron age, v. 59; McClure's magazine, vs. 8 and 9; Popular Science monthly, v. 51; Popular science news, v. 31; Psychological review, v. 1; Review of reviews, v. 15; St. Nicholas, v. 24, pts 1 and 2; Westminster review, v 147.

WOMEN TO CLEAN STREETS.

Women's Civic Federation Is the Title Under Which They Serve Notices.

Because the city officials of Elizabeth have failed to keep the streets of that city in good condition the ladies have inaugurated a movement to that end.

An association has been formed by about 300 women, under the name of the Woman's Civic Federation, and the members have notified the various city departments of their intention to take a hand in the affairs of the city.

Clubs will be formed in every school and the children taught to pick up pieces of paper and rubbish.

Progressive Crokonole.

Miss Maude Mosher, of Division street, entertained her friends very pleasantly last Thursday with progressive crokonole. The prizes were won by Miss Mabel Maxson and George Homan. After the game was over, the guests were invited into the dining room. Mrs. F. T. Clawson and Mrs. Frank H. Smith presided at the table and Miss Ernestine Smith and Miss Louise Ayres served the refreshments.

Celebrated His Birthday.

I. N. Titus celebrated the anniversary of his birthday last Thursday, assisted by eighty of his friends from New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Rahway, Metuchen and this city. The celebration was held at the home of Mr. Titus, corner of Park avenue and Randolph road. Most of the evening was spent in dancing. Prof. Frazee furnished the music.

AGILITY AND STRENGTH.

THE FACTORS THAT COUNTED IN THE Y. M. C. A. GYMNASIUM.

F. O Bristol Won the First Three Events Contested for in the Annual Athletic Tournament—Records Made.

The annual athletic contest opened at the Y. M. C. A gymnasium last Thursday very auspiciously. The contest is to be about fifteen different events, no one scoring the most points in all the events receiving the all-round championship medal of the association. The contests are all handicap. There were seventeen candidates who came up to scratch and started in the contest. A number of spectators witnessed the games from the visitors' gallery.

The events will be held every other Thursday evening, and three events will be contested each night until the list is completed. The three events contested Thursday were the standing broad jump, the pull-up on the horizontal bar for a number of times, and the potato race. It was in the last event that the best work was done. The contestants have to carry seventeen so-called potatoes, really corks, from one box to another thirty one feet away, making a run of a quarter of a mile. Until last week the National record in the event was 1 minute and 46 seconds. The record was recently lowered to 1:41. That day Frank O. Bristol came within one fifth of a second of tying the old record. C. E. A. Heywood and Charles Burdette Morse acted as judges and timers.

The summaries of the events were as follows:

Standing broad jump—First, F. O. Bristol, 9 feet, 1 inch; second, W. L. Long, 8 feet, 10 inches; third, George Proctor Smith, 8 feet, 9½ inches.

Pull-up—W. L. Long and F. O. Bristol tied for first, 17 times; E. Moraller and Frank Marcley tied for second, 16 times.

Potato race—First, F. O. Bristol, 1 minute and 46 1-5 seconds; second, George Proctor Smith, 1 minute and 50 2-5 seconds; third, W. L. Long, 1 minute and 50 2-5 seconds.

HEROIC JUMP TO SAVE LIFE.

DENNY KANE RESCUED WM. PERRINE.

The Old Man is Deaf and Did Not Hear a Train Coming Towards Him on the Track.

"Denny" Kane was the means that providence adopted to prevent a tragedy at the North Avenue station Thursday. The man who came near being ground under the wheels of a passing locomotive was William Perrine, of East Fourth street.

Mr. Perrine is an elderly man who is very deaf. He is employed by many Plainfielders, as gardener, to look after their lawns and gardens in the summer. He is still hale and hearty.

This morning Perrine was down at the North Avenue station. He started to walk from the platform where the United States Express Company receives its goods, across the tracks of the Jersey Central Railroad. Coming down the fourth track at good speed were several freight cars, pushed by drill engine No. 69. Perrine did not see the cars and could not hear them. He turned deliberately in the path of the approaching train.

The brakeman saw him and uttered a yell, but Perrine, of course, could not hear. Denny Kane was sitting on a truck. He yelled, too. Then Denny remembered that the man could not hear. He sprang from his seat, grabbed the old man around the waist and swung him off the track just in time. As it was the freight car brushed against his coat.

Mr. Perrine was considerably shaken up over the sudden movement and his narrow escape.

MRS. COREY WANTS ALIMONY.

Marital Woes That Will Be Heard in the Court of Chancery.

Notice has been served on Judge Wm. Newcorn, as attorney for Henry H. Corey, who recently brought suit for divorce against his wife, that the wife, Mrs. Alice V. Corey, will make application to the Court of Chancery Monday for alimony and counsel fees, pending the settlement of the case.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Corey started an action in the city court, charging Mr. Corey with non-support, and that the court granted her $5 a week. At the trial Judge Newcorn objected on the ground that the case was out of the jurisdiction of the city court and that Mrs. Corey should have taken advantage of the remedy provided by law and apply to the court of equity for alimony.

His Liberty Was Short.

Just as John Baker stepped out of the State Prison at Trenton, after having served eighteen months for a burglary committed in Somerset county, he was re-arrested on a charge of stealing a check from a letter at Bound Brook. He is under indictment in the United States Court.

The Borough Educators.

The next meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education will be held Monday evening, Feb. 21st. The public meeting for the citizens to decide about the new school building will not be held until March.

BAN ON THE REPORTERS.

BOARD OF TRADE BAR OUT NEWSPAPERMEN FROM MEETINGS.

It is the Result of an Alleged Breach of Faith on the Part of a News Reporter in Publishing Certain Remarks.

The ban of the Plainfield Board of Trade has been promulgated against the reporters of all newspapers. Such action was the result of what the members of the Board of Trade consider a breach of faith on the part of a reporter of the News. The board of management of the Board of Trade, which corresponds with the board of directors of other organizations, came to such a decision at a meeting of the governing board last Wednesday evening.

The circumstances which led to this trouble with the journalists of the city occurred at the meeting of the Board of Trade, nearly a month ago. Mayor C. J. Fisk made some remarks on the gas question that it was deemed advisable to keep secret for the time being. The discussion on the subject was an informal one in which a number of prominent citizens took part. Borough Magistrate H. S. Thomas, of the News staff, was present for that paper. He was particularly solicited by the members not to say anything about that discussion as it would cause trouble if the facts leaked out before the proper time. The members of the Board allege that Reporter Thomas promised not to use anything about it.

In the News next evening, however, a complete account of those very remarks appeared to the great indignation of many of the members. The Daily Press used none of the remarks as had been requested.

A prominent member of the Board of Trade told a reporter Thursday that the members had afterwards learned the circumstances by which the objectionable part of the account had appeared. He said that Thomas had told Editor Runyon about the happenings and his promise and that Editor Runyon, who is a member of the Board of Trade, thought that the facts were too important to be with held and used the account in full.

At the meeting of the board of management Wednesday evening the matter was discussed and the members were very indignant. Although there was some opposition, the Board finally decided to refuse to allow no reporter to attend the regular meetings of the Board, but leaving it with the secretary, Harry C. Runyon, to give out such information as he considered for the welfare of the Board. There was also a discussion of various plans for the improvement of the city, the details of which the reporters were politely informed were not for publication.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Librarian's Report for January, 1898.

Vols. added during the month by purchase	3
Vols. added during the month by gift	14
" by binding
" by Babcock collection, binding	9
Vols now in library	14,056
Number of card-holders	4,921

HOME CIRCULATION.

Fiction	1,797
Juvenile	1,927
Biography	292
Travel	286
Philosophy	20
Religion	51
Sociology	82
Philology	3
Natural Science	117
Useful Arts	50
Fine Arts	97
Literature	170
History	294
Bound periodicals, etc	19
Total	4,398

Increase of 238 over number circulated at the Library in January, 1897.
Of this number there were circulated through special libraries, Irving School, 486; Y. M. C. A., 39; Hope chapel, 39 | 66
Special collections circulation, Babcock | 67
Number of visitors | 4,300
Sunday visitors, included in above | 197

EMMA L. ADAMS,
Librarian.

ACCUSED OF BURGLARY.

Clarence VanOrden, Only Eighteen Years Old, But Accused of Serious Crime.

Constable VanHorn, of North Plainfield, assisted by Sheriff J. Clark Andress, of Sussex county, succeeded in making quite an important arrest Thursday afternoon. Several weeks ago John Linn, a Hamburg, N. J., merchant, lost a quantity of stock by his store being burglarized.

Suspicion fell on Clarence VanOrden and a young man by the name of Hager. Van Orden was traced to his father's home in Washington Valley and from there to C. Ackerman's place on Clinton avenue, where he was working as a farm hand.

VanOrden, who is only eighteen years of age, was arrested while driving a team of horses at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He was handcuffed and turned over to the custody of the sheriff who took him to the Sussex county jail. The prisoner protested his innocence.

Orchestral Concerts.

The Theodore Thomas Orchestra will give a series of ten London orchestral concerts at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, during the month of March. Mme. Nordica, Ysaye, Pianoon and Josef Hofmann have been engaged as the soloists for the series. Mr. Thomas has arranged most attractive programmes, and there is no doubt as to their being the event of the musical season in New York.

NATIONS' CRADLE SONGS

ELABORATE ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN BY SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS.

Big and Little People Appeared Appropriately Attired and Sang the Baby Songs That are Heard in All Parts of the Earth.

"The Cradle Songs of All Nations" were charmingly illustrated in the chapel of the Seventh Day Baptist church February 9 in a sociable and entertainment that the Ladies' Society for Christian Work arranged. It was one of the best-conducted and most elaborate entertainments ever given by any of the societies connected with that church, while the number of visitors that attended it was the largest that ever gathered in the chapel for any social affair.

Before the programme began every seat was filled and the vacant space lined with spectators. Mrs. Buckley's ladies' orchestra was present and opened the programme with a well rendered selection. Then the banjo and guitar club from the orchestra gave a selection. Twenty little tots, all attired in nightcaps and gowns and carrying little white robed dolls, marched out on the stage and went through a doll drill. Then they sang their doll babies to sleep. Ten of them then gave a "candle song" each carry a little candle stick. A tinsel flame brightened the top of each candle. Another selection by the banjo and guitar club followed.

A quartette, composed of Miss Nan Randolph, Dr. Frank T. Clawson, Arthur L. Tittsworth and D. E. Titsworth, sang "Sleep Little Dear One." While the orchestra gave another selection a silver offering was taken up.

Then followed the "Cradle Songs." The Scotch was the first of the different nationalities to be represented. Five little girls, the Misses Edna Randolph, Olive Randolph, Bessie TeeEyck, Kizzie Naegle and Nellie Miller appeared in true Highland costume of tartan and plaid, and sang a sweet Scottish melody to the dolls they carried.

Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, in a peasant's costume with black bodice and red skirt, was the Italian mother and crooned a soft dreamy lullaby to the large doll she carried in her arms. The little French mothers, the Misses Esther Rogers, Bessie Dunham, Ethel Randolph, Ella Ayers and Beulah Rogers, appeared in gowns of white trimmed with light blue and pink ribbons. They carried parasols decorated in the same colors and wheeled their babies in little baby carriages.

The German cradle song was sung by Miss Maud Mosher, prettily gowned as a German peasant with black bodice and skirt. The very small Russian mothers were gaily attired in red trimmed with supposed ermine. They were the Misses Helen Rogers, Nettie Stillman, Grace Stillman, Eva Rogers and Evelois St. John.

From no country in particular, little George Rogers sang a lullaby in his own quaint way, and then in response to the loud encore sang "Two Little Eyes of Blue."

The Spanish senoritas were appropriately attired in a costume of black and yellow and soothed their babies to sleep with the jingle of the tambourines. They were the Misses Marie Rogers, Mary St. John, Nellie St. John, Mildred Green, Bertha Mitchell and Florence Scriven.

Five little colored children, sedately attired in gowns of red, with white caps, kerchiefs and sprons, hushed their little pickaninnies to sleep with a pretty negro melody. The little mothers were the Misses Maud Green Lillie Johnston, Anna Connett, Louise McCrey and Eva Henry. They made the hit of the evening. The quartette sang a very appropriately "Pickaninny Lullaby."

The Indian squaw with the papoose strapped on her back was Miss Elizabeth Allis. She sang a weird Indian song.

The little Japanese matrons who fanned themselves and their queer little babies so becomingly were the Misses Isabel Randolph, Edna Randolph, Bessie Randolph, Grace Weeks and Ethel Murray.

The last of all was the American mother, Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, who rocked her child to sleep in a beautiful cradle while she sang a familiar lullaby.

After each of the different lullabies had been sung, the participants returned to the back of the platform and grouped themselves about for the final tableau. Then Miss Maud Mosher sang "Rock a Bye Baby" while all the little mothers in their costumes and queer babies joined in the chorus. After another selection by the orchestra, the audience was invited to partake of ice cream and cake in the side rooms.

Everybody was delighted with the entertainment and loud in their praise of the committee which had worked so energetically and successfully to arrange the very successful programme. The committee was composed of Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth, chairman, Mrs. Alice Titsworth, Miss Lucie M. Dunham, Miss Ida F. Randolph and Miss Ida L. Spicer. By their untiring efforts the children were trained to take their parts in the programme without a mistake. Mrs. O. H. Randolph was in charge of the refreshment department which did a thriving business after the conclusion of the programme.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

NOT MOVED BY COMMON SENSE.

The board of management of the Board of Trade has overstepped the bounds of common sense in determining to prohibit newspaper reporters from attending future meetings of the organization, and seem to be pattern ing after the methods of the revengeful Weyler. Just what an organization presuming to be progressive for the welfare of the industrial and commercial interests of the city expects to accomplish by ignoring the newspapers, and compelling them to secure reports from hearsay and information volunteered by men who know nothing of the value of news, is more than we can understand. It is a foolhardy move that the Board will have cause to regret. What of it if one reporter did commit an alleged breach of faith? There is no sense or fairness in trying to discipline all the other reporters because of it. By barring reporters from the meetings of the Board the probability of erroneous reports being made is increased a hundred fold. Under this new order of things the newspaperman assigned to cover the proceedings of the meetings will be obliged to gather the facts for the foundation of the story in a hodge-podge manner; and if his informant wrongly assumes certain things or is unable to lucidly explain a subject, the reporter naturally forms a conclusion in his own mind and writes his article along that line. The conclusion may be entirely at variance with the facts, but hampered under the prohibitive ban of attendance there is no other way out of it—lest the meeting is ignored entirely, and that is not the policy of up-to-date newspapers. We hope the gentlemen of the board of manage ment will soon see the error of their way and reform.

MEANS AN EARLY DEATH.

The New Jersey editor of the New York Tribune is an observant man whose editorials are always smartly up-to date. He has noted the Weyler-like press censorship which the Board of Trade has put into force, and comments as follows:

Plainfield couldn't rest easy until it got a Board of Trade. Organizations of that kind are supposed to exist for the purpose of bringing together representative citizens to discuss public questions in a non-partisan manner, so as to foster a healthy public sentiment and arouse interest in matters affecting the municipality. To accomplish this the aid of the local press is one of the essential requisites, and it is within the bounds of accuracy to say that the Newark, Jersey City and Paterson Boards of Trade would have faded away long ago but for the powerful cooperation of the newspapers. The attendance at any of these Board meetings rarely numbers more than a dozen or two, but the speeches made generally reach thousands through next day's newspapers. Notwithstanding all this, the Plainfield Board of Trade has decided to debar reporters from its meetings. Well, if the Board can stand it the newspapers can. It would be safe, however, to bet a banana that the continuance of the exclusion policy will mean the Board's early death.

TO ENSURE PURE MILK

Senator Reed introduced a bill into the Legislature Tuesday that is the result of the crusade the Borough Board of Health conducted last summer against the local milk dealers after the scarlet fever epidemic. At the time the Board of Health declared the need of some regulation in the way of an official inspection and licensing of the milk purveyors, but there is no law on the statute book that covers the ground in that particular. Senator Reed's measure is designed to fulfill that purpose. It empowers local boards of health to license milk dealers, exacting a fee of not less than $10. It also provides for the appointment of a local inspector.

TRADING STAMP BILL.

It is probable that the bill introduced into the Legislature by Senator Francis, making it illegal to give trading stamps, will be amended. It is claimed that the bill as introduced is unconstitutional, because it prevents tea dealers, grocers, etc., from giving premiums. It may be that the bill may be withdrawn and a new bill introduced.

UNION AND SOMERSET'S SHARE.

According to the provisions of Senator Daly's bill authorizing the holding of a Constitutional convention, Union county would be entitled to six delegates. Somerset county would get four delegates. The total number of delegates would be 102.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

NO AIDING SYMPATHY.

Doubtless the majority of Plainfielders are earnestly in sympathy with the struggle of the Cuban insurgents for liberty from the despotic government of Spain, and in view of this it is strange that only the meagre sum of $55, including cash and con tributions of articles, was the result of the endeavors made among the citizens by A. de Varona, president of the Cuban-American Patriotic League, for the past two weeks.

SMALL ALIMONY ALLOWED.

COREY DIVORCE CASE IN COURT.

Chancellor McGill Orders Husband to Pay Wife $2 a Week and Allows $25 for Counsel Fees.

The question of alimony and counsel fees, prior to the settling of the divorce case of Henry H. Corey against Alice V. Corey, came up in the Court of Chancery before Chancellor Mc Gill Monday at the Chancery chambers at Jersey City. Codington & Swackhamer appeared for the applicant, Mrs. Corey, and William Newcorn for the husband.

The petition of the application was filed in which is alleged that she had filed her answer and had caused her appearance to be entered. She further alleged that she was in destitute circumstances and had no funds with which to carry on the case. She therefore made application for alimony and counsel fees, pending the trial of the divorce case

Counter affidavits were read by Mr. Corey's counsel on the financial standing of the applicant and of Mr. Corey. Lawyer Newcorn called the attention of the court that the custody in chancery had been pointed out to the applicant at the trial for non-support in the city court and that she had elected her remedy and should therefore abide by it.

After hearing both sides the Chancellor decided that under the circum stances, as Mrs. Corey was receiving nothing under the decision of the court of the City Court, the case having been appealed, that Mrs. Corey was entitled to alimony. He allowed her $25 counsel fees and $2 a week alimony.

PATRIOTIC IN SPIRIT.

Sons of Veterans Gave a Pleasant Entertainment Saturday Night.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, gave a creditable entertainment last Saturday evening in their rooms on East Front street in honor of the celebration of Lincoln's Birthday. The rooms were well filled with an interested and patriotic audience.

The programme opened with a gramaphone concert given by Prof. Sherwood, after which an address was made by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, who is a member of the camp. His eulogy of the "Martyred President" won the admiration of everyone.

Following the address two recitations were given by Mrs. Fesmeir, after which Mrs. Bellly gave several piano solos. The balance of the programme was devoted to a sleight of hand performance by Prof. Sherwood, and an exhibition of a concertino by Mr. Fraleigh.

The programme was in charge of the committee which was composed of Frank Clarkson, Louis Eaton, George Bedford, Clifford Compton and Raymond McVoy, and they were complimented for the excellent entertainment provided. Delegations from the G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps were present, besides a large number of friends of the Sons of Veterans.

ROARING FLAMES QUELCHED.

Chemical Engine Did Good Work at a Fire in the Residence.

The efficiency of the chemical engine was again practically demonstrated Saturday night when the explosion of a lamp set fire to the interior of a room. The fire was at the residence of Edward Parsons, 335 East Fourth street.

A lamp was left burning in the front room on the second story early in the evening. The family was down stairs. The lamp exploded and set fire to the woodwork and furniture. A passerby saw the flames and told the occupants who were unconscious of danger overhead. An alarm was sent in from box No. 23, corner of East Fifth street and Franklin place, at 7:25 o'clock.

When the chemical engine arrived at the scene of the conflagration, the interior of the room was all ablaze. The stream from the chemical engine was turned into the room and the fire extinguished at once. The damage from the water was very slight.

The house is the property of John Rafferty, of Park avenue. The damage to the house will amount to $30, covered by insurance. The loss to the furniture and personal property will amount to nearly $50, which was also covered by insurance.

Charged With Non-Support.

Charles Drake, of Madison place, was arrested Saturday afternon by the borough authorities on the charge of non-support. He was turened over to the custody of Chief Grant and haled before City Judge DeMesa. The Judge held him under bonds for his appearance for trial next Saturday morning.

IN LINCOLN'S MEMORY.

GATHERING OF NOTABLE MEN AT THE CLUB DINNER IN ELIZABETH.

Governor Voorhees Delivered an Eloquent Address on the Martyred President—Many Plainfielders Were Present

The annual dinner of the Lincoln Association of Union county, held at the Star Theatre in Elizabeth Saturday night, was by far the most enjoyable affair ever given by that organization. The theatre was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting artistically arranged, and a large portrait of Lincoln adorned the centre of the balcony. Covers were laid for 176 persons.

There was a pleasing innovation at the dinner this year, the balcony and private boxes being reserved for women.

County Judge Benjamin A. Vail, of Rahway, acted as master of ceremonies after the address of welcome was delivered by the president of the club, Ira. B. Wheeler.

Those seated at the guest table were Chief Justice William J. Magie, Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Judge B. A. Vail, ex Congressman John Kean, Congressman Mahlon Pitney, Mayor John C. Baxter, Jr., Judge R. St. Atwater, ex Speaker Joseph Cross, Prosecutor N. C. J. English, ex-Assemblyman William H. Corbin, Rev. A. Woodruff Halsey, Rev. J. R Atkinson, Rev. E. B. Cobb, Frank Berrien, Ira B. Wheeler and C. C. McBride.

The first toast of the evening, "The Memory of Abraham Lincoln," was responded to by Congressman Pitney, who briefly sketched Lincoln's career as a man, and praised the honesty of purpose which he showed in his every act.

"Lincoln, the Man Who Did," was eloquently responded to by Rev. John R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Elizabeth.

When Toastmaster Vail announced the last sentiment of the evening, "Abraham Lincoln, the Citizen," and Governor Voorhees arose to reply, the entire assemblage arose, waved handkerchiefs and napkins in the air, and a perfect tempest of cheers swept over the theatre. It was several minutes before the enthusiasm subsided.

Governor Voorhees had no time to prepare a set speech, but his remarks were happy and appropriate.

Among the Plainfielders present at the dinner were the following: F. W. Runyon, J. F. MacDonald, R. F. Murray, E. R. Ackerman, Alexander Gilbert, J. T. MacMurray, Leonard Smith, H. C. VanEmburgh, Andrew McCardell, F. W. Walz, William N. Runyon, J. Frank Hubbard, Charles J. Fisk, Dr. J. B. Probasco, William R. Codington, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, R. I. Tolles, J. F. Buckle, L. H. Morgan, George Tobin, E. H. Bird, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and Charles A. Reed.

BIG COCKING MAIN.

Plainfield Birds Won All of the Events Against Irvington.

The sports of this city and surrounding places were made glad at heart Saturday night by the occurrence of a successful cocking main at Garwood

The contest was between birds from this city and Irvington, and it took place in one of the Garwood hotels. The arrangements were made with great secrecy, as a former affair of this sort was raided by the authorities. When the time arrived the sports began to gather under cover of the darkness, two or three at a time. Plainfield, Irvington, Scotch Plains, Westfield and Cranford sent delegates

The Plainfield birds won eight straight fights over the feathered champions of Irvington. No bets were made after the first round, as everything was going Plainfield's way. A number of heavy bets were made before the fight began, however.

The sports were not molested by the authorities, and everyone who attended was pleased with the success of their escapade.

To Address the Endeavorers.

Clarence Schenck, superintendent of the committee on Sabbath observance for the State Christian Endeavor Union, will make an address before the local union at the meeting to be held in this city March 8th.

STATE OF OHIO, City of Toledo, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of One HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists. 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

LAID THE CORNER-STONE.

A LINCOLN STATUE TO BE ERECTED IN THE NEW MUNICIPALITY.

Mayor Drake at the Head of the Patriotic Exercises—Stone Sealed by Six-Year-Old Girl—Address by Howard MacSherry.

It was particularly appropriate that on the birthday anniversary of Lincoln the corner stone for the foundation designed to support the statue dedicated to his memory should be laid with patriotic exercises in the thriving town named after the one whose memory was being revered.

The exercises incident to the laying of the corner stone at Lincoln were commenced at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of patriotic people. At the proper moment Mayor Drake ascended to an elevated position at the side of the foundation for the statue, and in ringing tones said:

Ladies and Gentlemen—We have gathered here today to participate in exercises that are dedicated to the 12th of Feb. It calls back to our minds memories of a living Lincoln, who did so much and gave so much for his country. And where could a more fitting living monument be built than in a town or city named in honor of our lamented Lincoln. While this bronze statue that we lay the corner-stone of today may perish in time, we trust a memory will ever be here in honor of the immortal Lincoln that will never perish or fade away.

A number of articles, including a Bible, a history of Lincoln from its inception to the present time, several new coins, etc., were placed in the receptacle chiseled out in the corner stone, and then it was sealed by the six year old granddaughter of Mayor Drake.

After this the crowd adjourned to a large room in the Lincoln Steel Woks where Mayor Drake introduced Howard MacSherry, of New Brunswick, who delivered a patriotic address in honor of Lincoln.

At the conclusion of the public ceremonies Mayor Drake escorted his invited guests to the town hall were an elaborate banquet was served by McVey, of this city. Toasts were responded to by Hon. George LaMonte, Rev. T. E. Davis and J. O. Jones, of Bound Brook, and S. S. Swackhamer, of this city.

A number of telegrams and letters of regret were read from distinguished people from various sections of the country, among them being a short eeology of Lincoln, the statesman, by Governor Voorhees.

AN ALLEGED ASSAULT.

Said to Have Grown Out of a Dispute Over a Game of Pool.

Fred Snyder, an employe of the Paul T. Norton Company, of East Front street, is not able to work at present owing to some trouble he had last Saturday whereby he received severe injuries in the head.

He had been playing pool at the Manhattan Hotel, on Somerset street, with a young man named Totton, who threatened to kill him. The father of Totten was present, and seeing that his boy was getting the worst of the play, remarked to Snyder, "Let the boy off easy."

This remark, it is said, angered Snyder, and he made some provoking remark in reply. The game came to an end, and the parties separated.

Later, while Snyder was going home he claims to have been accosted and assaulted on the head. The name of the one doing the deed is withheld. Snyder is now obliged to have his head bandaged. He received some severe cuts and bruises, and it was with difficulty that he was able to get home.

So far no warrants have been issued for the arrest of anyone and it is not likely that anything will be done in the matter. The police authorities of the borough know of the case, but they have no evidence as to who is implicated, and as Snyder has made no complaint they are not supposed to act in the matter.

Whit Frazee out of Business.

Whitfield Frazee has decided to abandon the package express and purchasing business on his own account, he having become convinced that he has no legal right to use the railroad passenger trains for the private express business. He will probably connect himself with some responsible company in the near future, of which due notice will be given He desires to thank his friends for their kind support and patronage in the past.

An Opportunity You Now Have

of testing the curative effects of Ely's Cream Balm, the most positive Cure for Catarrh known. Ask your druggist for a 10 cent trial size or send 10 cents, we will mail it. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

My son was afflicted with catarrh. I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Rumored Railroad Change.

It is rumored that beginning at an early date the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company will take twenty-four trains off their road running between Jersey City and Phillipsburg, some of which will be abandoned and some will be run on the Central Railroad between Jersey City and Phillipsburg.

Dandruff is Dangerous

When dandruff appears it is usually regarded as an annoyance. It should be regarded as a disease. Its presence indicates an unhealthy condition of the scalp, which, if neglected, leads to baldness. Dandruff should be cured at once. The most effective means for the cure is found in AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It promotes the growth of the hair, restores it when gray or faded to its original color, and keeps the scalp clean and healthy.

"For more than eight years I was greatly troubled with dandruff, and thought a young man, my hair was fast turning gray and falling out. Baldness seemed inevitable until I began to use

Ayer's Hair Vigor

The dandruff has been entirely removed and my hair is now soft, smooth and glossy and fast regaining its original color.—L. T. VALLE, Alleston, Mo.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general debility and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as obtained by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving postoffice and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

TROLLEY WAR ENDED.

Bridgewater Township Grants a Franchise to Cross State Line.

The Bridgewater Township Committee ended its long-continued war with the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company Monday by granting it a franchise to run its cars over the Bridewater turnpike between Somerville and Bound Brook. This annuls the litigation now pending in the Supreme Court on the old franchise. The terms of the franchise require the traction company to pay the township about $900 a year. Manager MacAfee says that the cars will be started on the turnpike next week.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

One of the Incorporators.

James Clark, of 404 West Seventh street, is one of the incorporators of the new Hygeia Ice Company.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:20, 8:40, 11:30 a. m., 2:05, 5, 8:30, m. Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 1:30, 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA, Direct.

Arrive—8:40, 11:30 a. m., 1:50, and 8:30 p. m. Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m. Through fast mail for West and South, close 4:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—12:30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. Mail closes at 9:30 a. m.

H. M. HETFIELD, P. M.

Central R. R. of New Jersey

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insures Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty and Whitehall Streets.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 14th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 24, 6 20, 6 55, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 07, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Sunday 5 24, 6 20, 6 55, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 07, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty street, at 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday at 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m.

Leave New York from Desbrosses street, at 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday at 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND ELIZABETH.

Leave Plainfield at 5 55, 6 20, 6 55, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 07, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m. Sunday at 5 55, 6 20, 6 55, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 07, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 p. m.

Leave Elizabeth at 6 00, 6 25, 7 00, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 1 05, 2 12, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 p. m. Sunday at 6 00, 6 25, 7 00, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 a. m., 12 05, 1 05, 2 12, 2 35, 3 05, 3 35, 4 05, 4 35, 5 05, 5 35, 6 05, 6 35, 7 05, 7 35, 8 05, 8 35, 9 05, 9 35, 10 05, 10 35, 11 05, 11 35 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield at 5 55, 6 20, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m. Sunday at 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m.

Leave Somerville at 6 15, 7 15, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 1 00 night. Sunday at 10 15, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 1 00 night.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 55, 8 10, 9 54 a. m., 2 35, 4 55, 5 35, 6 40, 8 51 p. m. Sunday at 8 10 a. m., 12 15 p. m., 4 55 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 05, 7 05, 9 00, a. m., 12 15, 3 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 10 00 p. m. Sunday at 7 35, 11 22 a. m., 5 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield at 8 54 a. m., 12 08 and 5 10 p. m.

WARNER AND CONNECTIONS.

6 40 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

7 10 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge inclusive, Flemington, Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

8 12 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

12 08 p. m.—For Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Pittsburg, Ringoes, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Branch Chunk.

2 35 p. m.—For Easton, Lambertville, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Pittsburg, Ringoes, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Sunbury, Williamsport, Wilkesbarre and Branch Chunk.

4 55 p. m.—For Easton, Lambertville and Flemington, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and High Bridge Branch.

6 05 and 8 15 p. m.—For Flemington, Lambertville, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Reading, and Intermediate stations.

9 23 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem and Allentown.

8 40 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 00 a. m. Sundays—For Flemington, Lambertville, Easton, Harrisburg, Reading, Manch Chunk, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

5 00 p. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, Pittsburg, Ringoes and Branch Church.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 7 30, 9 00, 10 30 a. m., 1 35, 3 51, 4 55, 6 35, 8 54 p. m. Sundays at 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 7 50 a. m., 12 20 p. m.

Long Branch, 7 50, 10 30 a. m., 1 35, 4 55, 6 35, 8 54 p. m. Sundays at 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 9 00 a. m., 1 35, 4 55, 8 54 p. m. Sundays at 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 9 00, 10 30 a. m., 1 35, 4 55 p. m. Sundays 9 00 a. m.

FOR ASBURY PARK, BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 7 30, 9 00, 10 30 a. m., 2 35, 6 35, 8 54 p. m. Sundays at 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

Asbury Park, 7 50 a. m., 12 20 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Bound Brook, 7 30, 9 00, 10 30 a. m., 2 35, 6 35, 8 54 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Philadelphia, 7 30, 9 00, 10 30 a. m., 2 35, 6 35, 8 54 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m. Sundays, 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

For Bethlehem, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, 9 00 a. m. Sundays at 9 00 a. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, 9 00 a. m., 4 55 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (a) change cars at Elizabeth.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at Plainfield.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect January 16, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 48 a. m. 1 44 and 6 18 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 8 01 a. m. and 6 35 p. m. Local for Manch Chunk.

9 10 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 54 a. m., 8 34, 6 38 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 59 a. m. Local for Somerville.

12 23 p. m. daily except Sunday. Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 34 and 4 48 p. m. daily except Sunday. Express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pittston, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

7 14 p. m. daily except Sunday for Slatington and principal intermediate stations.

7 33 and 10 30 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 03 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Manch Chunk, Sayre, Elmira, Canandaigua, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and intermediate stations. South leaves stations New York to Manch Chunk inclusive daily except Sunday; stations west of Manch Chunk daily except Monday; passengers only; does not connect for Bangor.

2 15 p. m. Sundays, local for L. & B. Junction.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 46, 7 35, 7 48 and 9 40 a. m. and 1 44 and 7 30 p. m. Sunday 7 15, 9 08 a. m., 3 29 and 7 30 p. m.

7 25, 8 27, 10 03 a. m., 12 17, 5 02, 7 07 and 9 09 p. m. Sunday 7 25 a. m., 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 6 36, 7 38, 10 03, a. m., 12 16, 2 25, 5 02, 7 07 and 9 09 p. m. Sunday 8 00 and 9 10 a. m., 7 28 and 7 10 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent,
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. NONNEMACHER,
Asst. General Passenger Agent,
South Bethlehem, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d street.

Makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

TABOO THE TROLLEY ON EAST FRONT STREET

A Remonstrance Started and Signed By Property Owners.

WILL SPOIL IT FOR A DRIVEWAY.

James T. Clawson and John K. Large are at the Head of the Movement—It is the Favored Route of the Trolley Promoters for the Extension of the Railway Line to Scotch Plains.

Now that it is decided that East Second street is going to carry the trolley line from Scotch Plains to Richmond street, the question that is bothering the Plainfield Street Railway is how to connect the present line with the new road from that point. East Second street, between Watchung avenue and Washington street, is narrow, and the trolley line met with opposition. Then Front street and Third street were proposed. The idea of running the tracks down Richmond street to East Front street and thence to Watchung avenue pleased the Street Railway Company some of the property owners along, but proposed line are not pleased, however. These property owners have now declared war against the traction company and are going to fight the case to the bitter end.

There has been very little said about the Front street route, as the railway company was not anxious to give the scheme any more publicity than was necessary until all the consents had been secured. Agents of the company were quietly put to work among the property owners to secure consents of the owners of two-thirds of the property, which is necessary to secure the franchise. Some of the property owners signed at once. Others held off for more favorable terms, while yet others refused to sign at any price. They objected altogether to having any trolley road on East Front street.

A week ago the most strenuous objectors to the trolley road on that thoroughfare decided that they must up and doing or else the corporation would get ahead of them. So they started a remonstrance against any trolley line which will be brought before the Common Council. The leaders in the movement are James T. Clawson, whose palatial residence stands at the corner of Richmond and East Front street, and John K. Large, who lives nearly opposite.

Among the others who own property along the line of the proposed trolley and who object to it are Dr. O. L. Jenkins and City Judge G. W. De-Mott. The principal objections against the trolley are that Front street is now one of the principal driving thoroughfares in Plainfield and that the trolley would destroy it all. Then the trolley cars are objected to on account of the noise and dust. It is claimed that the street railway has not made any attempt to keep the street sprinkled where the tracks are at present.

Allowed the Set Off.

The case of Mrs. Ella C. Bloom, of this city, against Henry Burnett, of Stirling, was tried before Justice Kelsey, of Stirling, last week. The suit was on two notes of $150 each. $70 was allowed. The defendant had a set off amounting to $260.74. Codington & Swackhamer represented the plaintiff, and McNabb & Clark the defendant. The Justice has now rendered his decision allowing the defendant the full amount of his set off.

Bound Brook Honored.

Mrs. Charles W. Thomas, the president of Nathan Hale Society, Children of the American Revolution, has received the appointment of State director of the Societies of the Children of the American Revolution of New Jersey, succeeding Mrs. Chas. H. Mann, of Plainfield.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is the best remedy that I know of for La Grippe."

Rev. J. K. CHASE,
South Hampton, N. H.

HALF-SIZE BOTTLES, 50c.

ADIEU TO THE SANCTUM.

REV. L. E. LIVERMORE RETIRES FROM SABBATH RECORDER AS EDITOR.

For Thirty-two Years He Has Been Active in Business Circles—Rev. A. H. Lewis Will Temporarily Fill the Place.

Rev. L. E. Livermore will retire from the editorship of the Sabbath Recorder March 1st, and Rev. A. H. Lewis will take his place. For thirty-two years Rev. Mr. Livermore has been in active service. He has been a faithful worker as editor of that organ of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination and considers that he is now entitled to a rest for the remainder of his days. He has been considering the matter for sometime and at last decided to present his resignation.

The resignation was brought before the American Sabbath Tract Board Sunday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the board and accepted with regret. The resignation will take effect March 1st. The board decided to place Rev. Dr. Lewis, who is now corresponding secretary of the board, in the editorial chair until the annual meeting of the American Sabbath Tract Society in August when the selection of a regular editor will come up.

After his retirement, Rev. Mr. Livermore will take an extended trip through the Holy Land and then return to Lebanon, Conn., where he will take up his residence.

It has been known among the congregation of the Seventh-Day Baptist church that Rev. Mr. Livermore was to retire sometime before the board took formal action on it. So a farewell reception was arranged for Saturday evening by a committee from the congregation. The reception was held in the rooms of Mr. Livermore in the Babcock building.

Mr. and Mrs. Livermore have many friends in this city who were glad of the opportunity of attending the reception although they were sorry to bid them farewell. The reception was largely attended, there being fully 200 guests present during the evening.

The reception was arranged by a committee composed of Mrs. J. P. Allis, Mrs. T. C. Smith and Mrs. J. F. Hubbard. In the dining room, the table was presided over by Mrs. J. P. Mosher and Mrs. Amanda T. Maxson. The table decorations were green and white. Chocolate, tea and wafers were served to the guests by the Misses Ida Randolph, Bessie F. Randolph, Ernestine Smith, Mabel Mitchell and Mabel Maxson. The guests were received by Rev. and Mrs. Livermore and their daughter, Miss Florence Ely.

DIDN'T OFFER $200,000.

B. M. Shanley Says He Won't Compete With John Kean for Trolley Franchise.

General Manager B. M. Shanley, of the Newark and South Orange and North Jersey street railway companies, denies emphatically having agreed to offer the Union County Board of Freeholders $200,000 for the trolley franchise on Westfield avenue, for which John Kean has made an offer of $100,000. It has been stated that Mr. Shanley proposed to make such an offer.

"Mr. Kean's offer," said Mr. Shanley "can hardly be said to establish a precedent in the way of bidding for a public franchise, because the case is unlike others in which similar franchises have been sought. A desire exists to widen Westfield avenue before granting a franchise to operate a trolley there, and Mr. Kean's offer is in the line of helping to bear the cost of such widening."

JUNIOR WORK.

Endeavor Superintendents Hear of Methods and Work.

The superintendents of the Junior Christian Endeavor Societies of this city held a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. Eight societies were represented. A paper on "Junior Methods and Work," was read by Mrs. H. M. Maxson, and a brief discussion followed. The resignation of Walter J. Harris, of South Plainfield, was accepted with regrets. The different committees of the union rendered interesting reports of the work.

The next meeting of the union will be held April 11th, and will be in charge of the lookout committee.

The New Trolley Line.

The New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, which recently effected a compromise with the Brunswick Traction Company, settling its difficulties in Middlesex and Somerset counties, is now pushing on towards Trenton. Vice-President McAfee has been looking after his company's interests in Princeton, and at the March meeting of the Princeton Borough Council he will apply for a franchise. The route to be asked for will be on Nassau street, as far as Witherspoon street, turning north on Witherspoon street to the borough limits, where the company intends to run on a private right of way to Lawrenceville and Trenton.

—The Lenten season will commence Wednesday, February 23d, and Plainfield's society will therefore be more than usually quiet.

WORKSHOP FOR THE GOOD

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF DEDICATION OF VINCENT CHAPEL.

The Event Observed With Special Services Last Night—Letters of Greeting from Former Pastors—Some of Remarks Made.

The tenth anniversary of the dedication of Vincent chapel was celebrated last Sunday by the congregation of the First M. E. church. The evening service was held in the chapel instead of the church. A large congregation was present.

The opening service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, assisted by G. M. Rittenhouse. Dr. Snodgrass made a few explanatory remarks. He said that the chapel was unrivaled for its purpose in this State and an ideal "Sunday-school workshop." There was a time when it was thought that any place was good enough for the Sunday-school. That idea was passing away. The movement against it had no better supporter than Bishop Vincent, for whom the chapel was named.

J. W. Jackson briefly sketched the history of the movement in the church that led to the erection of the chapel. He then read a telegram from Bishop Vincent at Topeka, Kansas, with a greeting to the meeting. It was received by the congregation with the Chautauqua salute. Letters of greeting were received from Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, at Cincinnati, and from the following former pastors: Rev. Dr. C. H. Barnes, at Jersey City; Rev. Dr. Charles B. Mitchel, at Minneapolis; Rev. John D. VanMeter, at Baltimore, and Rev. A. H. Tuttle, at Newark.

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll made a short address in which he particularly called attention to the fact that the church was a place free from all evil influences. He compared the church and the saloon as direct opposites. He dwelt on the need of keeping the young people in the church to come under the good influences there.

The other speaker was James McGee. He spoke of progress and possibilities. A church must be progressive and aggressive, he declared, to retain the life a church should have.

DIDN'T EXPECT ANYONE.

Therefore When Louis H. Hammer's Friends Came He Was Surprised.

Louis M. Hummer, one of the popular young men of the borough, was agreeably surprised last Monday when a party of young folks called at his home, 159 Somerset street, and spent an evening of pleasure. The affair was very successfully planned by Chauncey Colthar and Chauncey Stout, friends of the host. When the jolly crowd of young folks gathered at the house they took possession completely. The chief feature of the evening was dancing. Music was furnished by Bert Naylor. There were guests present from Scotch Plains, Dunellen, Flemington, Elizabeth and Bound Brook. At 12 o'clock supper was served, after which the festivities were continued.

When the guests departed they carried with them pleasant memories of the event, and all wished the host many happy years of success and happiness.

ROYAL GOOD FELLOWS.

Arcanumites Enjoyed a Social Session After Lodge Business.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met last Monday and had its usual good time, one feature of which was a smoker. After one candidate was initiated the members enjoyed themselves in the "good of the order." Orator S. C. Baker gave a laughable recitation entitled "The Man Who is Always Late for his Train."

There were several good addresses by other members of the order, after which the inner man was provided for bountifully by the good and welfare committee. The members who do not attend the meetings have no idea what they are missing. The council has taken on new life and good times are provided for every meeting.

A Plainfield Incorporator.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Trenton Monday of the American Mail Steamship Company, with an authorized capital stock of $1,000,000. The company is authorized to do a general steamship business, and to own and operate steamships, etc. The incorporators are: Henry P. Booth, Alfred G. Smith, Robert A. C. Smith, Henry D. Hackono, all of New York, and Henry G. Runkle, of Plainfield.

Eloped.

A man in Plainfield claims his wife eloped with Vick's Garden and Floral Guide. He says: "The Guide beats the band all right this trip; it is not only a daisy but a whole floral garden. My wife eloped with it after dinner and did not return until tea time."

A Colonial Residence.

Building Inspector Doane has passed on the plans for a handsome residence for W. J. B. Thiers on Watchung avenue, near Woodland avenue. The house is to be full colonial style.

College Actors Coming.

The Senior Dramatic Club of Amherst College will give a performance of "All the Comforts of a Home" in this city, Easter Monday.

DIME
Savings Institution,
Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

PIANOS
We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of our pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos in stock rather for new stock.
ORGANS
Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.
Mason & Hamlin Co.
3 and 5 WEST 18TH STREET NEW YORK.

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

SEEDS ... FOR THE ... Garden—Farm
Vegetable and Flower Seeds. All the choicest and best varieties—quality 50% surpassed. Illustrated Catalogue by mail.
WM. HENRY MAULE,
Seedsman and Importer,
144 Chambers St., New York City.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately existing between Joseph A. Blatz and Elias C. Mundt, of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of "Blatz & Mundt" was dissolved on the first day of February, 1898, by mutual consent.

Dated February 1st, 1898.

JOSEPH A. BLATZ.
ELIAS C. MUNDT.

234

DIED.

MOREL—At Scotch Plains, Feb. 8, 1898, Florence E., daughter of Louis and Caroline Morel, aged 6 months.

HARRIS—At New Market, Feb. 9, 1898, Simion Harris, in his 94th year.

O'KEEFFE—In this city, Feb. 12, 1898, Michael O'Keeffe, aged 44 years.

RICHARDSON—At Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 12, 1898, Maggie D., wife of Joseph H. Richardson, aged 47 years and 11 months.

MILLER—Mrs. Esther Kent ster Miller, died at her home, 929 LaGrande avenue, Nethervood, N. J., on Wednesday, 16 h inst.

THEIR PURPOSE IS SOCIABILITY.

The Dominoe Club Organized Under Pleasant Auspices Last Night.

The Dominoe Club met last Monday at the home of H. L. Martin, of West Front street. Officers were elected as follows: President, H. L. Martin; vice president, Miss Jessie Saxton; treasurer, Miss Jennie Saxton. The chairman of the meeting was Charles Johnson, and those present who joined the club were Miss Jessie Saxton, Miss Jennie Saxton, Miss Margaret Coriell, Miss Laura Holder, Miss Sarah Risley, Abe Holder, John Holder, Morris Sutphen, Chas. Johnson and H. L. Martin. The next meeting will be held at the home of Charles Johnson, of East Fifth street.

After the above business was transacted the balance of the evening was devoted to dancing, singing and having a good time in general. H. L. Martin recited several original poems.

An Exciting Chase.

While the family of Michael Soulouski, a farmer living at Hamilton were absent from the house Thursday, two tramps effected an entrance and stole $360, which they found hidden in an old clock. Mrs. Soulouski discovered her loss about an hour later, and, with her neighbors, gave chase and overtook the thieves near Hopewell. After a short tussel they were bound hand and foot and given to a constable.

A Joke on Mr. Clark.

E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, returned Saturday from Europe. He was a passenger on the St. Louis, and his friends are now enjoying a good laugh at his expense. The joke is that Mr. Clark slept so soundly while on the steamer that he knew nothing about the rescue of the passengers and crew from the ill-fated Vesedam.

A New Meat Dealer.

Edward Brown, who is now employed by J. M. Smalley, the Somerset street butcher, has leased the store at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street, formerly occupied by Benjamin Crane, and will open a butcher shop there at an early date.

Congressional Petitions.

Congressman Howell Monday presented petitions to Congress for immigration restriction from Tennent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and many citizens of Elizabethtown, Italian and Hungarian citizens of Raritan and many other citizens of New Jersey.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT
A. M. GRIFFEN'S,
119 East Front st.
Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,
Dealer in
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES,
FRUITS &c
GARDEN SEEDS
fresh and carefully selected.
224 PARK AVENUE,
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.
Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's
Marble and Granite Works,
30
Somerset st., North Plainfield.
If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.
I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the party purchasing.
I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.
I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon it from this light, that Good Work and Good Material at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.
Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,
J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.
Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,
Counsellor-at-Law
Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS.
Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies
141-145 North avenue.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS
100 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.
CONTENTS:
Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.
Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

CARNEY BROS.,
MADISON AVENUE,
Between Front and Second streets.
Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,
Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,
Fire and Life
INSURANCE AGENT,
OFFICE,
corner Front St. and Park Avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.
Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,
Brick and Portable Furnace
Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,
Etc., Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 113 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN
Livery & Boarding Stables
FOURTH ST.,
between Watchung and Park avenues.
First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,
Manufacturer of
CIGARS.
And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and cigarettes articles, has removed from 23½ W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale or to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willetti's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 N. Front street, corner Elm street. 8jly

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts.
Address, MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!
My new barber shop at
143 NORTH AVE.
is now open ready for business
All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.
EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.
CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.
Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts.
Address, MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

WAITING.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind, nor tide, nor sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
For what avails this eager pace;
I stand amid the eternal ways,
And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day
The friends I seek are seeking me;
No wind can drive my bark astray,
Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up the fruit of tears.

The waters know their own, and draw
The brook that springs in yonder heights
So flows the good with equal law
Unto the source of perfect delights.

The stars come nightly to the sky,
The Tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.
—John Burroughs.

A MONTH.

"You can't do it, Mab; you can't hire a furnished house only for a month. It would be a chance in a hundred."

"I can try, and I am going to, Ethel. To stay stifling in this lonesome boarding house all the vacation is unbearable, and country board wouldn't be better, cooped up in little chambers with the scent of fried doughnuts in all the closets. People who have pleasant country-places do leave them sometimes in the summer, for the lakes and the mountains; and the use of such a house would be a godsend to us."

"Yes, dear. Well, what do you propose to do?"

"Go down and see the house agents." "I'll go with you."

These two young ladies were charming sisters of about twenty—school-teachers in the city. They had no home but the large boarding house where they had dwelt for the last year, and this was cheerless enough when dampened by the nicest people who had hied away to green fields and pastures new at the first breath of sultry air.

Ethel was a pretty blonde—Mab, a bright brunette; but just now their beauty was shaded by overwork. They needed rest and escape from the monotonous round of school teaching.

The house agents listened and shook their heads.

"We have no furnished houses to let for so short a time as for a month. For two months now, or for the season—"

"We have only a month's vacation, and would need it only for that time," said Mab.

"Can give you no encouragement, positively. Sorry! Would be glad to accommodate you, ladies. And you might leave your address, and if any opening occurs we will let you know."

"I told you so," said Ethel.

So they turned away.

A handsome, buxom lady, richly dressed, passed in as they came out.

"Here's the key to the Pansies," she said. "I shan't need it for a month. I am going to the seashore, where it is livelier."

"But you hired the cottage for the season, Mrs. Willoughby."

"Well, all you have to do is to let it for me. I am responsible for the rent, of course, in any event. I prefer to have it let. There is the garden, horse and phaeton, poultry and cow. Somebody may as well have the good of them."

"Is the place quite vacant?"

"No. My boy Pixie is there."

"Fortunately we have a chance to let it at once for you, Mrs. Willoughby," said one of the agents, seizing his hat and hurrying after Mab and Ethel.

"Well, we have got the hundredth chance, sure enough, Mab."

"Isn't it a gem of a place, Ethel? And the strawberries and the flowers!"

"And the charming rooms!"

"And the pony phaeton!"

"And the Jersey cow that gives real cream! Fresh eggs every day, too. That boy, Pixie, seemed glad to see us. I expect he was lonesome."

"Everything is just delightful!"

The girls may well have congratulated themselves. The Pansies had every comfort and convenience for country life, but Helen Willoughby, being especially fond of society, and her brother being absent on a yachting trip for a month, had tired of its quiet and seclusion. But the retirement was just what Mab and Ethel needed and desired.

The pure, balmy air gave them refreshing sleep and good appetites. With their own fair hands they cooked the daintiest meals, trimmed the room with flowers, lunched off strawberries and cream, drove about the green country roads in the luxurious phaeton, and every night sang in the cool parlors—for there was a piano and plenty of music at their disposal. So happy and contented were they that they could think of the month ending only with a groan.

They put the unwelcome thought aside and enjoyed the present. They had no neighbors and they didn't want any. They wore cool wrappers all day, read in the hammocks, braided their hair down their backs, and lingered for two mortal hours at their meals.

But in these days of liberty and abandon came the long rain-storm. The rain came down in sheets—torrents. It was a deluge.

The girls watched it from their chamber window.

From a direction beyond their ken two sturdy pedestrians, protected by a single umbrella, marched arm in arm through the merciless fall of water.

"Very stupid of me, Alan; but I thought we could make the six miles and get to my sister's house before the rain fairly set in. But here we are blowing our way through the water like a couple of porpoises. If you hadn't been sick—I'm afraid you'll get your death."

"Never mind, Lance. I'm dry as yet. I see a glimpse of white among the trees. Is that the house?"

"Yes, that's the cottage. Helen is a master hand at a hot negus. You'll be all right in a minute, my boy."

"You're browned up so by your sea trip, Lance, I don't believe your sister'll know you."

"Salt water agrees with me better than fresh—that's a fact."

By the time they had reached the Pansies, the rain storm had increased to such violence that Mr. Laurence Leighton burst open the door without much ceremony, and hurriedly relieved the virgin gold from the hills and shoes and dripping coats in the hall where they proceeded to the parlor where the open piano, flowers and books about gave the apartment the air of which Mrs. Willoughby's brother was accustomed.

"Helen is somewhere about, Alan. I'll find her in a minute."

Meanwhile the girls had heard the sounds of intrusion with unspeakable dismay.

"Robbers!" breathed Mab.

"Lunatics!" whispered Ethel.

Ethel looked as if she was going to faint. Mab's black eyes flashed. She picked up a parasol and marched down stairs. Ethel, catching the spirit of resistance, caught up a poker and followed.

Lance, who was about leaving the parlor in search of his sister, retreated in dismay before the appearance of these fair but very eccentric-looking strangers.

"Sirs!" cried Mab, "What does this mean? What are you here for?"

"Madam — ladies —" stammered Lance, looking at the parasol and poker.

"A mistake," murmured Alan Westford.

"What mistake?" demanded Mab. "This is our house. By what right are you here?"

"Pardon, but I left my sister, Mrs. Helen Willoughby——"

"She vacated the premises more than a month ago."

"Then pray excuse me! I am intruding. I am Mr. Laurence Leighton; this is my friend, Mr. Westford, in whose yacht I have lately taken a sea-trip. We landed only this morning, and have had no late news of my sister's movements. I supposed she was here. We have just walked from Harborside, overtaken by the storm, and Mr. Westford has hardly yet recovered from an attack of pleurisy; but we will go to the village—to the hotel—at once, of course."

Mab's black eyes looked into Alan Westford's blue ones; and Lthel's blue eyes looked into Laurence's black ones. There was a pause.

"If Mr. Westford is sick—" said Mab, dropping her parasol.

"Of course he can't go out into the rain," said Ethel, putting away her poker.

"No, and I hope you will pardon us," said Mab.

"And stay to supper. We are not inhuman," said Ethel.

"And Pixie shall drive you over to the hotel in the phaeton this evening," concluded Mab.

The supper was very nice. The young ladies wore their most becoming dresses and put up their long braids. Alan thought that Mab was the prettier; Laurence thought Ethel was.

The gentlemen spent the most delightful evening of their lives at the Pansies, and found their way back there, by invitation, the next day.

Quickly two engagements followed. These young people evidently counted time by heart beats. When, in the following spring, Laurence and Ethel were married, they purchased the Pansies as their summer home, while Alan and Mab took their wedding trip in the former's beautiful yacht.

CHEATING GAS METERS.

The New Automatic Kind Very Popular on New York's East Side.

The automatic gas meters which were placed on the east side by the Consolidated Gas Company are not doing their work satisfactorily. The machines are so constructed that when a 25-cent piece is dropped in the slot a valve is opened which allows 200 cubic feet of gas to be used before it closes again. Several thousands of these meters were placed in the tenements of the east side. At first everything went all right, but soon the company's agent noticed that although a great deal of gas was being used the coins were being dropped in the slot. An investigation disclosed the system by which the gas company was being cheated.

The quarter used was attached to a string and lowered into the slot. There it was worked up and down until the valve had been opened four or five times, when it was allowed to drop. By this means more than 1,000 feet of gas was obtained for 25 cents. To meet this trick the company placed a small knife in the machine in such a way as to cut the string. This, however, was soon got around by the use of wire instead of cord.

The east side, in a blaze of lights, now awaits the next move on the part of the gas company.—New York Sun.

The High Hat of England.

In London silk hats are worn in the afternoon by all sorts of men with all sorts of suits. It is therefore not surprising to learn that 12,000,000 of them are made annually in the United Kingdom.

MAKING LINCOLN PRESENTABLE.

Mrs. Lincoln "Fixed Up" the President to Meet the Delegation.

In narrating "When Lincoln Was First Inaugurated," in the Ladies' Home Journal, Stephen Fiske writes interestingly of the memorable journey from Springfield, Ill., to the national capital, and tells of Mrs. Lincoln's efforts to have her husband look presentable when receiving a delegation that was to greet them upon reaching New York city.

"The train stopped," writes Mr. Fiske, "and through the windows immense crowds could be seen; the cheering drowned the blowing off steam of the locomotive. Then Mrs. Lincoln opened her hand bag and said:

"'Abraham, please fix you up a bit for these city folks.'

"Mr. Lincoln gently tilted her upon the seat before him; she parted, combed and brushed his hair and arranged his black necktie.

"'Do I look nice now, mother?' he affectionately asked.

"'Well, you'll do, Abraham,' replied Mrs. Lincoln, critically. So he kissed her and lifted her down from the seat, and turned to meet Mayor Wood, courtly and suave, and to have his hand shaken by the other New York officials."

Lincoln's First Inauguration.

The contrast in the condition of the country between the time of Lincoln's first inauguration and that of McKinley is vividly portrayed in an article by Stephen Fiske for the Ladies' Home Journal. In telling of "When Lincoln Was First Inaugurated" Mr. Fiske graphically describes Mr. Lincoln's journey from Springfield, Ill., to Washington, and the incidents of the inauguration and the attending festivities. There were grave fears that Lincoln would be assassinated as he rode in the inaugural procession to the Capitol, and every possible precaution was taken for his safety. Mr. Fiske recalls the safeguards placed around the President. Special officers and detectives in citizens' clothes were stationed in numbers among the crowds that lined the sidewalks, and sharpshooters occupied positions of vantage on housetops, etc., along the route of parade. The military escort of the President-elect was heavily armed, ready to promptly meet any hostile demonstrations, and "between his duties as deputy surveyor the state was kept at a distance from the President's carriage—so far that they could not distinguish Mr. Lincoln from Mr. Buchanan, who rode beside him. The police were instructed to arrest all persons making opprobrious threats against Mr. Lincoln, or uttering disloyal sentiments. The tension was great and the whole country was in a state of suppressed excitement.

ALLAN PINKERTON AND LINCOLN.

Lincoln and the Colored Troops.

While visiting the Union forces before Petersburg, President Lincoln was asked by General Grant to visit the colored troops that had distinguished themselves in Smith's attack on the works in front of Petersburg.

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Lincoln, "I want to take a look at those boys. I read with the greatest delight the account given in Mr. Dana's dispatch to the Secretary of War of how gallantly they behaved. He said they took six out of the sixteen guns captured that day. I was opposed on nearly every side when I first favored the raising of colored regiments, but they have proved their efficiency, and I am glad they have been given a fair trial in the white troops in the recent assaults. When we wanted every able-bodied man who could be spared to go to the front, and my opposers kept objecting to the negroes, I used to tell them at such times it was just as well to fight a nigger-bullet. I think, General, we can say of the black boys what a country fellow, who was an old-time abolitionist in Illinois, said when he went to a theater in Chicago and saw Forrest playing 'Othello.' He was not very well up in Shakespeare, and, hazy about the play, said: 'Why, that tragedian was a white man who had blacked up for the purpose. After the play was over the folks who had invited him to go to the show wanted to know what he thought of the actors, and he said: 'Well, layin' aside all sectional prejudices and any partiality I may have for the race, derned if I don't think the nigger held his own with any on 'em.'" The Western dialect employed in this story was perfect.—Facts and Fancies.

Baby Frances, three and a half, mentioned all the members of the family in her prayers. There had been a change in the servants during the day, but the name of the old servant was included. "Now, there, I've made a 'stake and have to say it over. 'Dear Jesus, you needn't bless Annie, 'cause she's gone, but just bless Betty, 'cause she's first come and needs it worser, 'cause she's the last one, Amen!"

LINCOLN'S BAD LUCK.

HIS OPPOSITIONS SO GREAT THAT HE CALLED THEM "NATIONAL DEBT."

The Great Man's Business Experiences in Early Life Were Most Disheartening—His Entire Personal Effects Once Sold on an Execution.

"When Lincoln was young," writes Miss Tarbell in McClure's Magazine, and postmaster, he had little leisure for the store, and its management had passed into the hands of the partner Berry. The stock of groceries was on the wane. The numerous obligations of the firm were maturing, with no money to meet them. Both members of the firm, in the face of such obstacles, lost courage; and when, early in 1834, Alexander and William Trent asked if the store was for sale, an affirmative answer was eagerly given. A price was agreed upon, and the sale soon made. Berry, neither Alexander Trent nor his brother had any money; but as Berry and Lincoln had bought without money, it seemed only fair

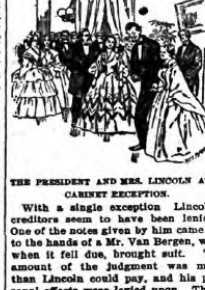
LINCOLN IN 1859.

From a photograph in the collection of H. W. Fay, De Kalb, Illinois. Mrs. Lincoln pronounced it the best likeness she had ever seen of her husband.

that they should be willing to sell on the same terms. Accordingly the notes of the Trent brothers were accepted for the purchase price, and the store was turned over to the new owners. But about the time their notes fell due the Trent brothers disappeared. The few groceries in the store were seized by the creditors, and the doors were closed, never to be opened again.

Misfortune now crowded upon Lincoln. His late partner, Berry, soon reached the end of his wild career; and one morning a farmer from the Rock Creek neighborhood drove into New Salem with the news that he was dead.

The appalling debt which had accumulated was thrown upon Lincoln's shoulders. It was then too common a fashion among men who became deluged in debt to "clear out," in the expressive language of the pioneer, as the Trents had done; but this was not Lincoln's way. He quietly settled down among the men he owed, and promised to pay them. For fifteen years he carried this burden—a load which he cheerfully and manfully bore, but one so heavy that he habitually spoke of it as the "national debt." Talking once of it to a friend, Lincoln said: "That debt was the greatest obstacle I have ever met in life; I had no way of speculating, and could not earn money except by labor, and to earn by labor eleven hundred dollars, besides my living, seemed the work of a lifetime. There was, however, but one way. I went to the creditors, and told them that if they would let me alone, I would give them all I could earn over and above my bare living. I could earn it." As late as 1848, so we are informed by Mr. Herndon, Mr. Lincoln, then a member of Congress, sent home money saved from his salary to be applied on these obligations. All the notes, with interest at the high rates then prevailing, were at last paid.



THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. LINCOLN AT A CABINET RECEPTION.

With a single exception Lincoln's creditors seem to have been lenient. One of the notes, signed by nine men, fell to the hands of a Mr. Van Bergen, who, when it fell due, brought suit. The amount of the judgment was more than Lincoln could pay, and his personal effects were levied upon. These consisted of his horse, saddle and bridle, and surveying instruments. James Short, a well-to-do farmer living on Sand Ridge a few miles north of New Salem, heard of the trouble which had befallen his young friend. Without advising Lincoln of his plans, he attended the sale, bought in the horse and surveying instruments for one hundred and twenty dollars, and turned them over to their former owner.

The Facts Against It.

Hojack—I don't believe in heredity, Tomdik—Why not?

Hojack—The Father of his Country could not tell a lie, but look at his children's successful efforts in that direction.

HOW SECRETARY GAGE PROPOSED.

He Used the Telegraph and Beat His Democratic Rival by It.

It is not generally known, but the Secretary of the Treasury proposed to Mrs. Gage by wire. It happened this way:

Mrs. Gage was one of the charming widows of Denver, and her name at that time was Mrs. Gage. She was admired par excellence. She had added to the attractiveness. She was a reigning favorite, and many a man with a large bank account entered the contest for her best favor. A word of this came to Mr. Gage, and he was nervous. He found that his chances of winning his modest suit seemed failing by reason of distance. It was a far cry from Chicago to Denver, and the rivals on the spot had all the advantages. Mr. Gage was too much engaged with a big bank to make more than occasional trips. He had known Mrs. Gage for many years, but it did not occur to him that he wanted her for his wife until the news came from the West that she was hesitating on the promise to give another man a final answer. This brought the Secretary to a crisis. He put on his hat and slipped around to the telegraph office.

Mr. Gage took his pencil in hand and dashed off about the briefest and most businesslike proposal of marriage. It read thus:

"Mrs. Gage, Denver, Col.: Don't do anything until you see me. By first train. GAGE."

He counted the words—exactly ten—and paid the toll. The bank gave him leave, and he tore across the continent "by first train." There was a very quiet wedding a few days after that Mr. Gage had been married, and he and his bride in due time received the congratulations of everybody. The Denver man who was waiting is still waiting, also wondering how the man so far away got him in the race for what he supposed he was over the line. But, like the tales in books, the romance ended beautifully, and they have lived happily ever afterward.—Chicago Journal.

TAPESTRY COPY OF A PAINTING.

It Will Take More Than Three Years to Finish This Work of Art.

When the Empress Alexandria visited Paris she became deeply enamored of Mme. Vigee Lebrun's painting of Marie Antoinette and her children, which hangs at the Elysee. M. Faure made a note of this, and asked the Fine Arts Minister to consult with the director of the Gobelins as to the best way to secure a good copy. Three of the best artist-weavers were set to work last February, and it is hoped the tapestry copy will be finished by May, 1900.

The weavers work alternately, so as to be busy only two days in the week, and thus keep their eyes fresh. They are now at the figures. The dyeing and sorting of the wools was a tedious and troublesome work. In the painting Marie Antoinette has a child on her knee. The first Dauphin and Mme. Royale press against her. An empty cradle is on the floor near them. It is that of Mme. Sophie, the infant, who died a short time before the revolution. The picture was hung at the Salon in 1788, but Marie Antoinette was so unpopular that it had to be withdrawn.—London Sketch.

REVENGING HIMSELF ON DEITY.

Strange Vow Made by a Man When His Wife Died.

Basil Hayden, of Bloomfield, Ky., who was a confederate soldier in the late war, has not been outside of his house since 1863, though in perfect health, having taken an oath that he would never again put his foot on the ground.

He says that the Lord treated him harshly in allowing his negroes to go free, and that in revenge he will never place his foot on the Lord's earth again.

He is a successful farmer, notwithstanding his many peculiarities. He has kept his vow and lived the life of a hermit since the war.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Wheel of the Constitution.

The Constitution was a beautiful ship, and wherever she went excited the most favorable comment. After the war she was visited by an English officer of high rank, who, after making an inspection, said: "This is one of the finest frigates I ever saw, if not the finest, but I must say that her wheel is the most unique and unworthy of the vessel." The Yankee captain replied: "Sir, that wheel is the only English thing in the ship. During her action with the Java her own wheel was knocked to pieces by a shot. After the Java was captured we took her wheel and fitted it to the Constitution, and, although we think it is as ugly as you do, we have kept it as a trophy."—Argonaut.

Uncle Wales Insists on Politeness.

While the little boys of Princess Henry of Battenberg and tiny Prince Edward of York were playing one day in one of the most courtyards, the Prince of Wales noticed that one and all omitted to return a sentry's salute. His Royal Highness immediately called the children to order, and sent them back to the soldier to remedy the omission.—New York World.

Inference.

The Groom—The minister seems to think he knows more about you than I do.

The Bride—How's that?

The Groom—I gave him a ten and he handed back five of it.—New York Town Topics.

A shallow man may always see the face of a fool by looking into a deep well.

FOUNDLINGS IN RUSSIA.

An Institution Supported by the Manufacture of Playing Cards.

The idea for an institution for foundlings in Moscow first arose in greed and the institution was founded by Catherine II.

After the tender-hearted Empress had long worried over her inability to take care of the babies of little girls, she thought of a brilliant idea. At that time the playing cards in the country were manufactured by private monopoly for the benefit of the crown, and with the profits accruing from the sale of the cards, she would found the institution a comfortable home for friendless babies. It was impossible to express anything in the Empire, but it was thus turned to the benefit of a noble cause.

The crimes of malpractice and infanticide are rare in Russia, and the penalty is exile to Siberia for life. And there is no need of a resort to crime, there are numerous institutions throughout the country where babies are taken charge of. But of the many foundlings' homes the largest and most finely equipped is the one established by Catherine II., where fifteen thousand babies are taken care of every year. The conditions for admission are the easiest possible. No embarrassing questions are asked. Only three queries are made: "Is the baby baptized?" "Is it vaccinated?" and "What is its age?"

The new inmate receives the name of the saint whose name appears in the calendar for the day of its admission. It receives a Christian name from the doctor who is in attendance. A receipt is given to the person who brings the child, upon which appears the number given to it. A careful record is made on the institution's books, and the corresponding number is placed on a tag, which never leaves the neck of the infant. In case it is ever desired to reclaim the baby, it would be an easy matter.

This is the only institution in the world where no artificial food is used. There are eight-hundred wet-nurses, each of whom receives the care of a child in turn. After registration the baby is treated to a bath and dressed in the uniform, which is of fine white material. The child is then measured and weighed, and a record made of the numbers.

One of the things which shows how carefully the children are treated is the fact that the cribs are padded and lined with flannel to prevent colds. Children prematurely born are put in to individual cribs. These fit into a larger crib, in which water is kept at the temperature of the body.

The children as they grow up are fitted for useful occupations. The girls become seamstresses or nurses in the institution which cared for them in their youth.

No mention of parentage is ever allowed. It is said that some of the most talented and brilliant people in the kingdom have been raised in the foundlings' home in Moscow. Their secret, however, is religiously kept.—New York Tribune.

HER WEIGHT OF MUCH UTILITY.

A Unique Way of Printing a Newspaper When a Press Was Not at Hand.

General Joseph S. Smith, of Idaho, tells how he published a paper without a press in Bath, Me., many years ago: "When I'd get my page all set up and ready for the press, I'd lay the type on a washstand, get it all levelled down well in the chase, or the frame in which 'twas locked up, and then I'd call the hired girl. She weighed about two hundred and ten pounds when she sat down. That's what I wanted—sitting down weight. So, after the hired girl came in I inked the type, laid over it the sheet of paper, and on that I put a blanket, and then I politely invited the hired girl to sit down on the washstand. Two hundred and ten pounds, remember. The result was just as good an impression as you could get on any $100 hand press in the United States. My office in those days was about two hundred copies, and the hired girl was paid for the job at one sitting—so, two hundred sittings. And she took to it, sent in it, too, and was just as ready for business every publication day as a $20,000 Hoe perfecting press would be."

Barred Shop Windows.

Shopkeepers often find their fine display of goods hidden from the public eye by the frost forming on the inside of the panes. A simple remedy for this is a thin coat of pure glycerine applied to the glass. This will prevent any moisture forming there, and last until so much dust collects upon it as to make the window look dull. Surveyors use it with advantage on their instruments in frosty or misty weather.

In fact it can be used to prevent moisture forming upon anything, and engineers find it particularly useful to keep their windows clear from steam as well as cold or mist.

He Didn't Understand Bees.

A Greene (Me.) man, who evidently was unacquainted with some of the ways of bees, took fifty pounds of honey from the hives of his farm and left it in the packing house, with the door open. When he looked for it a few days later every drop was gone, nothing but the comb being left. The intelligent little insects had promptly discovered the honey and carried it all back to the hives.

It is said that some of the Venetians—those who have never been to the mainland—have never seen a horse in all their lives. A showman once brought one to a fair and called it a monster, and the factory hands paid a shilling each to see the marvel.—Answers.

HONEY AS FOOD.

ITS HEALTH AND LONG LIFE IN THE USE OF IT.

Adulteration Refuted That It Is Sometimes Adulterated in the Comb—Differences in Flavor According to the Flowers From Which It Is Obtained.

The assertion refuted that it is often adulterated in the comb. Differences in flavor according to the flowers from which it is obtained.

A pound of honey will go as far as a pound of butter; and if both articles are of the best quality the honey will be the less of the two. Often a prime article of extracted honey, equal to the best in every respect except quality, can be obtained for half the price of butter, or less. Butter is in fact only when "fresh," while honey, properly kept, remains indefinitely good—no need to hurry it out of the way for fear it may become rancid.

Honey is much used in hot drinks, as in coffee and tea. The substitution of this flavored honey in such use may be a very profitable thing for the bees. Indeed, it would be better for the bees if the only hot drink were that called in Germany honey-tea—a cup of hot water with one or two spoonfuls of extracted honey. The amount of great age has in some cases been attributed largely to the free using use of honey-tea.

Many people think "honey is honey," and let it go at that. This is a great mistake. Honey may be of good heavy body, and bee keepers call "well ripened," weighing sometimes twelve pounds to the gallon, or it may be quite thin. It may also be granulated, or candied, more solid than lard. It may be almost as colorless as water, and it may be as black as the darkest molasses. The flavor of honey varies according to the flower from which it is obtained. It would be impossible to describe in words the flavors of the different honeys. The different flavors in honey are as distinct as the colors in paints. Among the lighter-colored honeys are white clover, linden (or basswood), sage, sweet clover, alfalfa, willow-herb, etc., and among the darker are found heartsease, magnolia (or gallon), horsemint, buckwheat, etc.

Clover honey is the best as well as is all other things. White clover is so generally preferred to buckwheat, with its very dark color and strongly marked flavor, that buckwheat honey always rules lower in price than white clover, yet there are some who prefer buckwheat to any other honey. Somewhat fortunately, one generally prefers the honey to which he is most accustomed. A Californian thinks nothing of white sage, white a Pennsylvanian thinks white clover the best.

Witness days of prevailing adulteration, when so often "things are not what they seem," it is a comfort to know that when one buys comb honey he may know without question, he is getting the genuine article. The silly stories seen from time to time in the papers about artificial combs being filled with glucose, and deftly sealed over with a hot iron, have not the slightest foundation in fact. For years there has been a standing offer by one whose financial responsibility is questioned of $1,000 for a single pound of comb honey made without the intervention of bees. The offer remains unclaimed, and will probably always remain so, for the highest art of man can not compass such a delicate workmanship as the skill of the bee accomplishes.

With extracted honey the case is different. When you see in the grocery a tumbler of liquid honey with a small piece of comb honey in the center, you may be pretty sure the liquid honey is not honey at all, but pure glucose. If not familiar enough with honey to detect it by the taste, your only safe course is to buy of the producer direct, or of some one who knows as to the source, and upon whose honesty you can rely.

Aside from its use in an unchanged state as a direct accompaniment of bread, or biscuit, honey is used by bakers in manufacturing some of their delicate wares. An advantage in using honey for anything in the line of cake is its keeping qualities. Even if the cake should become dry, close it up in a tight tin for a time and its freshness will return.—Dr. Miller in Gleanings in Bee Culture.

An Interesting Punishment.

A pretty story is told of Sir Edward Burne-Jones and his pet grandson. The little fellow's fits of childish naughtiness are usually punished by the time-honored penalty of standing in the corner with his face to the wall. Sir Edward, who has the common grandfatherly weakness in the matter of discipline, hit upon an excellent and legalize his favorite during the period of penance. The next time the wee man was sent to the invariable corner, he found it charmingly decorated with fairies and elves, flowers and trees, birds and bunnies. "If he has to go into the corner," commented Sir Edward, "he shall at least have something agreeable to look at while he is there."—Di Bits.

Matter Enough.

Billikin—What's the matter, Willikin?

Willikan—Matter enough. You know some time ago I assigned all my property to my wife, to—to keep it out of the hands of—of people I owe, you know.

"Yes."

"Well, she's taken the money and gone off—says she won't live with me because I swindled my creditors."—New York Weekly.

LINCOLN'S "SELFISHNESS."

In Order to Save His Peace of Mind He Rescued the Ships.

Mr. Lincoln once remarked to a fellow-passenger on the old-time mud-wagon coach, on the corduroy road while antedated railroads, that all men were prompted by selfishness in doing good or evil. His fellow-passenger was antagonizing this position when they were passing over a corduroy bridge that spanned a slough. As they crossed this bridge and the mud-wagon was shaking like a Sucker with the chills they espied an old razor-backed sow on the bank of the slough making a terrible noise because her pigs had got into the slough and were unable to get out, and in danger of drowning. As the old coach began to climb the hillside Mr. Lincoln called out "Driver, can't you stop just a moment?" The driver replied, "If the other feller don't object." The "other feller"—who was no less a personage than at that time "Colonel" E. D. Baker, the gallant General who gave his life in defense of Old Glory at Ball's Bluff—did not object, when Mr. Lincoln jumped out, ran back to the slough and began to lift the little pigs out of the mud and water and place them on the bank. When he returned Colonel Baker remarked, "Now, Lincoln, you have selfishness come in on this little episode?" "Why, bless your soul, Ed," that was the very essence of selfishness. I would have had no peace of mind all day had I gone on and left that suffering old sow worrying over those pigs. I did it to get peace of mind, don't you see?"—Springfield Monitor.

A Desk and a Pettleman.

A correspondent of the Swiss Landwirth-schaftliche Zeitung describes a scene he witnessed in his chicken yard. Two hens seemed to hate each other and took every chance to engage in a sparring match. Among the inhabitants of the yard was an old duck, which seemed to look on itself as a self-appointed policeman; for every time the hens begin to fight it waddled between them and kept them apart until their anger had abated.

An Imputation Resented.

Major Bloodgood—Did she openly cha'ge yo' with a fondness fo' watah?

Colonel Bourbons—Not openly, but she kep' callin' me "duckie" until mah self-respec' made me break off the engagement.—New York Journal.

He Doesn't Keep Late Hours Now.

The Husband (late from the club): I—er—didn't s'pect you would be sitting up for me, dear.

The Wife (tearfully): "I haven't been sitting up for you, dear. I've just come in myself."

Twin Difficulties.

Fair Visitor—I suppose, Mr. Palette, that true art is very difficult to understand?

Mr. Palette—About as difficult to understand, madam, as it is to sell.—Detroit Free Press.

One of the Firm.

"Oh, I wanted to ask you about that society novel you were reading. Did he marry her, after all?"

"No; he was one of the first to marry her."—Detroit Free Press.

An Unexpected Answer.

Mrs. Schussman (at a summer resort) —Gottlieb, the paper says that the natives of the Sandwich Islands pay about $5 for a wife.

Professor Schussman (absent minded)—Hm! hm! So much, Jenny!—Das Echo.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"Why, papa," said Frances, who was looking at the family album, "surely this isn't a picture of you?"

"Yes," replied papa, "that is a picture of me taken when I was quite young."

"Well," commented the little girl, "it doesn't look as much like you as you look now."—Harper's Bazar.

The camel's foot is like a soft cushion, peculiarly well adapted to the stones and gravel over which it is constantly walking. During a single journey through the Sahara, the horses of British officers have worn out three sets of shoes, while the camel's feet were not even sore.

"There is one idea that you can never get out of the average man's head."

"What is that?"

"The idea that his wife hasn't anything to do, and that she could lounge in the hammock all day if she wanted to."

"My daughter is spiritual; she kept up her church work through all the hot weather."

"What kind of church work?"

"She went to the seashore and came home engaged to a clergyman."—Chicago Record.

"I don't see how a brilliant man like Professor Dusentrals can put in so much time talking to that insipid Mrs Mokialque."

"Oh, he's only stropping his intellect."—Chicago Journal.

"Yes, Grandma, when I graduate I intend following a literary career—write for money, you know."

"Why, Willie, my dear, you haven't done anything else since you've been at college."—Boston Traveller.

Mrs. Gabber—You say she is proud? Mrs. Gossup—Proud? Why, that woman wouldn't read a serial story because she'd have to buy it on the installment plan.—New York Herald.

SOME MEXICAN WAYS.

They Would Seem Hardly the Proper Things in a Yankee Household.

An American woman would grow gray-headed in a month if she attempted to keep house in Mexico on the same plan pursued by the native housewives. There are no water mains in the average town, and water for domestic purposes is drawn from the public fountains and sold from door to door by leather-aproned venders, who may be the picturesque vocation of hide or pottery. Pulque and milk are brought to market in skins of sheep, pigs, and goats, which are stripped off the carcass by cutting only the neck and legs and turned inside out, all the openings but one being tied up securely. The natives do not object to the flavor of goat hide and swine skin in the milk, but visitors do.

The washerwomen have no faith in modern methods. They get 25 cents a day and are satisfied. The washer-woman all in her work kneels by an open stream of water in a trough or stone or wood, a piece of home made soap and their strong hands. No hot water is used.

The average Mexican cook is as primitive as the washerwoman. No matter how many times the use of a modern cook stove were explained to her, it is probable that she would build the fire in the over and put the bread to bake in the fire box. What she would do with the bra-ero. Among the poor this is an ura-shaped affair of pottery with a hollow base, where a tiny charcoal fire may be kept alive by constant fanning, the whole being not much larger than a common flower pot. The cook of the upper classes uses the brasero is built in of brick, mortar, and piles, its surface as high as an American cook stove, with holes a foot square, under each of which a charcoal fire is kept burning. Some of these stoves have five or six thirty evens and the operation of cooking is so laborious that the cook has a relay of assistants to prepare the vegetables, wash the dishes and attend the fires.—Chicago Journal.

FRATERNAL ORDER 500 YEARS OLD.

King Humbert a Member—Formed from All Classes of Society.

It is more than five hundred years since the fraternal society known as the Florentine Brothers of Mercy was organized in the beautiful Italian city of Florence. The chief object of this strange body of men is to relieve the sick and injured of their native place. These benevolent workers are called collectively La Misericordia. They are not priests, as has frequently been erroneously said and written. The Society is formed of men from all classes—aristocrats and common folk. They give their services gratuitously. Any Florentine who is a respectable man may belong to the hooded brotherhood. King Humbert of Italy is an honorary member. La Misericordia does not believe that the left hand should know the good deeds of the right. Only in one way at a Florentine know anything of the identity or social standing of one of these brothers, and that is by his boots. Often in a long processions the heavy boots of one workman are seen beneath his robe next to the polished ones of a gentleman. They are heavily cowled, cloaked and masked, and their presence suggests death. Their headquarters are in the Church of the Misericordia. When an accident occurs in Florence or a man or woman falls ill upon the streets the bell in the steeple of this church tolls twice. Three strokes of the bell means the accident was fatal. This masked fraternal order was founded early in the fifteenth century. It has always been a mysterious body and one of the best conducted societies in all Italy.—New York World.

A PERILOUS REMEDY FOR PEARLS.

A Necklace of the Jewels Immersed in the Sea to Restore Their Color.

As a rule crowned heads do not voluntarily cast their court jewels into the sea. Yet this is exactly what the Empress of Germany has recently done.

Among her jewels was a very fine necklace of large pearls, exceptional in size and re markably pure in color. For some time it had not been called into use, but had lain in its dark case shut away from the light and air. One day, however, the empress had occasion to call for the gems. To her surprise and horror, she found that the color of the pearls had faded away, all their life and beauty departed. The court jeweler, when consulted, gave it as his opinion that nothing would restore the pristine purity of the stones save a very long immersion in the sea. Accordingly, a glass case was made, with holes to admit the water, the necklace was placed therein, and the treasure sunk "full fathoms five" in the waters of the North Sea. The spot is near the shore, and is watched night and day by guards. In the meanwhile the empress is obliged to "possess her soul in patience."

Practically Intact.

The populist who escaped himself out of the railway wreck and took account of damages.

One foot was twisted out of shape, something was the matter with his right hip, his left elbow refused to work, one of his shoulder blades appeared to have slipped over the other, his left knee was bruised and swollen and part of his scalp was gone.

He emitted a loud groan.

Then his face brightened.

"Thank heaven!" he exclaimed. "My voice isn't injured! I'm all right!"—Chicago Tribune.

Grocer—"Was it Joglin's ability that got him that five thousand dollar position?"

Hoover—"Yes; his ability to get it."

A FREE PARDON.

A Characteristic and True Story of Abraham Lincoln.

"Old John L. Helm was a famous character in Kentucky. When the civil war came on Helm was a rabid secessionist. He could not praise the South too highly, and could not heap enough abuse upon the North. He was too old to go into the war with his sons, and remained at home, doing all he could to help the Confederate cause and harass the Yankees who invaded the State. Finally, he became so obstreperous that the Federal general who was in command near Helm's home put him in prison. Even President Lincoln was appealed to and asked to commit the ardent Southerner to an indefinite confinement in order that he might be curbed.

"Lincoln listened to the statement of the case with more than usual interest. Then he began to think," with a smile upon his face. "You are talking about old man John Helm? Well, did you know that I used to live, when a boy, in Helm's town? He was kind to me. He seemed to like me as a boy, and he never lost an opportunity to help me. He seemed to think," said Lincoln, with another of his almost pathetic smiles, 'that I would probably make something of a man. Why, when I went out to Illinois, poor and unknown, that man gave me the money to pay my way and keep me until I got a start. He helped me, yes, I know him, and I know what I owe him. I think I can fix his case."

"And then," said Senator Mills, "Lincoln went to a desk and wrote a few words. The bit of writing is treasured in the Helm household to this day. This is what the President wrote:

"'I hereby pardon John L. Helm, of Kentucky, for all that he has ever done against the United States, and all that he ever will do.

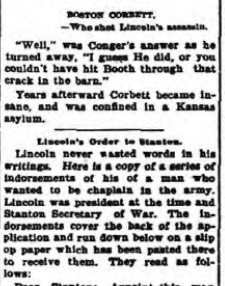
"'ABRAHAM LINCOLN.'"

Boston Corbett, Booth's Slayer.

J. Wilkes Booth, the assassin of Lincoln, was traced to a barn near Bowling Green, Va., by his pursuers. To dialodge him the barn was set on fire. Just as Booth was about to spring through the doorway, Boston Corbett, an eccentric character, placed his revolver between two boards and fired the fatal shot.

After Corbett had shot Booth, and just as day was breaking, he was crossing the lawn in front of Garrett's house. Conger called him, and demanded the reason why he had fired *against orders. Corbett took the posi*tion of a soldier, saluted, and pointed heavenward.

"God Almighty directed me," he said.



BOSTON CORBETT.
—Who shot Lincoln's assassin.

"Well," was Conger's answer as he turned away, "I suppose you did, you couldn't have hit Booth through that crack in the barn."

Years afterward Corbett became insane, and was confined in a Kansas asylum.

Lincoln's Order to Stanton.

Lincoln never wasted words in his writings. Here is a copy of a series of indorsements of his of a man who wanted to be chaplain in the army. Lincoln was president at the time and Stanton Secretary of War. The indorsements cover the back of the application and run down below on a slip of paper which has been pasted there to receive them. They read as follows:

Dear Stanton: Appoint this man chaplain in the army.
(Signed) A. LINCOLN.

Dear Mr. Lincoln: He is not a preacher.
(Signed) E. M. STANTON.

The following indorsements are dated a few months later, but come just below:

Dear Stanton: He is now.
(Signed) A. LINCOLN.

Dear Mr. Lincoln: But there is no vacancy.
(Signed) E. M. STANTON.

Dear Stanton: Appoint him chaplain-at-large.
(Signed) A. LINCOLN.

Dear Mr. Lincoln: There is no warrant of law for that.
(Signed) E. M. STANTON.

Dear Stanton: Appoint him anyhow.
(Signed) A. LINCOLN.

Dear Mr. Lincoln: I will not.
(Signed) E. M. STANTON.

The result was that the appointment was not made, but the man was evidently told that his papers would be kept on file, for they are to be seen in the War Department now, testimonies to the nerve of Stanton and the friendship of Lincoln.

Just Like a Man.

Mrs. Benham—What did the bride wear on?

Benham—I didn't notice; I was looking at the bridegroom's hired dress suit.—New York World.

VICTOR EMMANUEL AS A HUSBAND.

Strange Relations with His Wife of the "Re Galantuomo"—A Double Life.

A curious account of Victor Emmanuel's married life, taken from the Autobiography of Gen. Morozzo della Rocca, who died recently as Senior-General in the Italian army, is printed by the London Daily News.

"The wedding took place in April, 1842, and magnificent festivals were instituted on the occasion by Charles Albert. The incomparable kindness and sweetness of Maria Adelaide did a great deal to soften the manners of the court. As soon as he had made the acquaintance of his wife Victor Emmanuel loved her ardently, and the affection he bore her continued tender until the end. But she could not fill the life of her husband, who was entirely deprived of mental occupation, for Carlo Alberto never permitted his children to share in the least in state affairs. So Victor Emmanuel still kept his bachelor habits, and after his marriage had still more liberty than before. He created a life of his own, as a recompense to himself for the monotony of that imposed upon him in the royal palace. He hunted and shot in the mountains and in the marshes, undertook lengthy rides and walks, and was away from home not only all the morning, but very often during several days. In the palace Victor Emanuel was the Crown Prince, a loving husband, a respectful son; no sooner away from the house than his natural instincts and repressed tastes burst out violently, and he became a species of monquetaire of the lowest category, of whom he had the physical type and wore a similar costume. But he had nothing of the *rudeness of manners and vulgar pas*sions given by Dumas to his heroes. Though Victor Emmanuel was by no means proud or haughty, but rather familiar in the intercourse with his service, he was most jealous of his personal dignity and would not have compromised it in the least degree. His heart—and this is true, though it may appear strange—was entirely devoted to Maria Adelaide. He entertained for her a respectful and passionate admiration, placed in her unbounded confidence, and his tenderness toward her was such that he had none to spare for other people, not even for the woman *who during many years was the com*panion of his life, the mother of his children, and to whom, finally, he was united in a morganatic marriage. He reserved for Maria Adelaide the best of himself without pretending to be other than he was. He had no secrets from her, and even avoided giving her details which might have proved inconvenient for her chaste ears. Maria Adelaide, however, knew a great deal which she not only condoned but justified, a mystery of supreme indulgence and kindness which is not easy to understand or even imagine by any one who was not, like myself, placed between the double existences of Victor Emmanuel—that in the palace and that without. The only person who had the right of condemning in him abstained from doing so, and I dare to say that she did well."

PROPHETIC.

Nelson's Desire to Figure in as Fine a Picture as the "Death of Wolf."

Benjamin West's picture of the "Death of Nelson" is closely connected with another picture of the great sailor, says the Youth's Companion. Just before he went to sea for the last time he was present at a dinner, during which he sat between the artist and Sir William Hamilton.

Nelson was discussing to Hamilton his regret that he had not, in his youth acquired some taste for art, and some discrimination in judging it.

"But," said he, turning to West "there is one picture whose power I do feel. I never pass a shop where you 'Death of Wolfe' is in the window without being stopped by it."

West made some gracious answer to the compliment, and Nelson went on "Why have you painted no more like it?"

"Because, my lord," West replied "there are no more subjects."

"Ah!" said the sailor, I didn't think of that."

"But, my lord," continued West, "I am afraid your intrepedity will yet furnish me with another such scene; and if it should, I shall certainly avail myself of it."

"Will you?" said Nelson. "Will you Mr. West? Then I hope I shall die in the next battle!"

A few days later he sailed, his strangely expressed aspiration was realized, and the scene lives upon canvas.

Controlled by Colored People.

There is a hospital for colored people in Savannah which is wholly supported by the colored people. Connected with it is a training school for colored nurses, and a number of well trained sick-bed attendants have been taught there. The management of the hospital has never called upon the white citizens for aid, but has been supported solely by the colored people.

The Cause of Confusion.

"Isn't it strange the way people make mountains out of mole hills?"

"Oh, I don't know; when you aren't big enough to see over them there isn't much difference."—New York World.

It is recorded that once Senator Mason propounded a query to Senator Morgan. "How long could you talk," asked Mason, "on a subject of which you knew absolutely nothing?"

"Well," answered Morgan with a smile, "if it was a matter about which I knew absolutely nothing, I do not think I could talk more than two days." —Washington Post.

CRANBERRY RAISING

HOW THEY GROW AND ARE PREPARED FOR THE MARKET.

Picked by Hand, Sorted by Machinery and Transported, Sold and Stored in Ice—Not Injured If Frozen—Often Sold in the West Imbedded in Ice.

The business of raising cranberries is a peculiar one in all its aspects. It requires a special kind of ground, considerable capital and a vast deal of labor, and it is a special trade, more or less irregular in its returns, like all of its kind. It is the chief industry of two sections of this country, where nearly all the cranberries used in America and Europe are raised, and which it has transformed from waste bog lands into rich farming communities.

The land on which cranberries will flourish is seldom fit for anything else. In the state in which it is usually found it requires about $300 per acre to make it fit, so that the transformation of a swamp into productive cranberry bog makes it a very valuable piece of property. The first requisite is a peat bottom. This is dressed by spreading over it a coating of seashore sand, into which the slips are stuck, and left to grow at their own sweet will." In connection with the bog there should be an irrigating ditch to preserve it, from which it can be flooded at any time. It requires several years to determine the worth of a marsh for producing cranberries, and the slowness of returns, together with the amount of capital required, have brought all the largest marshes into the control of stock companies.

It requires hand labor throughout to raise cranberries. The chief expense, once the crop is started, is in the picking, which is largely performed by women and children, who receive from one to one and a-half cents per quart, for the work, and are able to earn from 75 cents to $1 per day through the season. The experienced picker works on her knees, unmindful of the wet moss, which soaks her garments. She thrusts her hands through the moss and vines, lifting up the whole mass and rapidly stripping off the berries with a dexterous movement, acquired by much practice. The sight of a long line of men and women, half a hundred in a group making their way on hands and knees across the level field is picturesque in the extreme, an effect heightened by the tattered and variegated attire of the workers.

As fast as the berries are gathered by the pickers they are measured out by the "boss," and unless they are to go at once to market are packed away in boxes for storage. This packing is done in what is called "chaff," the moss and leaves picked up in the field, in boxes with slatted sides to allow a free circulation of the air. In this *way the berry "sweats" without de*caying and will keep for a long time.

When the berries are to be marketed they are screened. The screen is like an old-fashioned fanning mill and serves the double purpose of removing the chaff and sorting the berries. Beneath the hopper into which the berries are poured are a number of steps leading down like a flight of stairs, with openings between them. The chaff is blown out at the side, and, as the berries fall from the hopper, they bound from one step to another until they reach the bottom, where they fall into receptacles placed there to receive them. The hardest berries will bound more than the others, and run the whole course of the steps, falling into the last box, while the softer ones drop through the nearer spaces, and in this way the berries are easily graded. The softer ones are shipped to the nearest markets for immediate sale, and the hardest ones are sent abroad or to distant points.

Island takes thousands of barrels of American cranberries every year, and the west has become a great market for them on account of the scarcity of other small fruits. At present more cranberries are sold in Chicago than in New York or any other eastern city.

Cranberries are not injured by freezing, and so it is an easy matter to ship them in cold weather. They are often sent as far as Manitoba in ordinary open box cars. When they arrive they are frozen into solid blocks of ice. The sides of the cars are boxed off and the berries are exposed in a solid mass, like cakes of ice, except that they are much more beautiful from their rich red color. They are chopped off exactly like ice, and the citizen of Winnipeg is so accustomed to buying his cranberries in that way that he doesn't mind it in the least, though an easterner would probably object to taking them in that way, thinking, in his prejudiced mind, that the berries are spoiled.—Washington Star.

Fire Mask for Horses.

For the purpose of removing horses from burning buildings, a fire mask has been placed on the market, consisting of a hood to cover the eyes and nostrils to prevent the horse from seeing fire or smelling smoke, the device being easily slipped over the animal's head and fastened with a strap. A mask is supposed to be kept hanging in the wall of a horse's stall for instant use in case of need.—New York Journal.

Accounting for It.

"George Windrig is an enigma to me. Being a preacher's son it would naturally seem that he ought to be wild and worthless, but, as you know, he is one of the finest fellows in this city."

"Still it must not be forgotten that the old gentlemen isn't a very good preacher."—Chicago News.

THE MAINE BLOWN UP.

CONTINUED FROMP AGE 1

Congress Hears of it.

Washington, D. C., February 16th—General Lee, consul general at Havana cables to the State department that calm judgement should prevail until an investigation has been made.

President McKinley sent the facts as received of the disaster to Congress, this noon.

The News In Plainfield.

The first news of the destruction of the Maine was received in this city with incredulity. The word was passed from mouth to mouth, but it seemed impossible. A bulletin was posted in front of The Daily Press office as soon as the news was confirmed, and The Daily Press was the first to authentically inform the excited people that the dreadful rumor was the truth.

A crowd soon gathered in front of The Press office and all stopped to read the first details of the explosion. As the first readers passed on after perusing the contents of the bulletin, others took their places.

When it was learned that the news was surely true, expressions of great indignation were heard on every side. It seemed almost the unanimous opinion that the Spaniards must have been implicated in the horrible tragedy.

TASSE UN UNTER TASSAY

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN IN MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

These Partaking of Supper Were Given a Cup and Saucer—Pleasing Musical and Literary Numbers Given at the Opening

"Tasse un Unter Tassay" was the very novel name given to a cup and saucer social held in Monroe Avenue church last Tuesday. Notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a good-sized crowd present to enjoy one of the best entertainments ever given in that church. The interior of the church was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Batson had charge of the programme and announced the various numbers, the first of which was a song by Charles Lewis, of the Crescent Avenue church choir. Mr. Lewis sang in his usual pleasing manner and was obliged to respond to an encore. The next number was a recitation by Miss Foot, who proved to be a favorite. She gave a selection about two girls wearing bloomers to ride a wheel, and how they shocked the residents of a rural village through which they passed.

Following, Mr. Petrie delighted his audience by giving several violin solos of unusual merit. Miss Fillmer then gave a soprano solo. This was followed with recitations by Miss Amee Emmons. A feature was a reading by Mrs. Grannatt, and the last number was a song by Miss Fillmer.

Mr. Batson then announced that supper would be served in the dining room. The feature of this part of the programme was that everyone partaking of the supper was presented with a dainty cup and saucer as a souvenir.

Mrs. Anna Forster was the chairman of the affair, and the entertainment committee consisted of Miss Anna Stafford, Miss Lydia Ackerman and Miss Alice Forster. Those who looked after the supper were Mrs. Arthur Pearson, Mrs. VanPelt, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Brouer, Mrs. Haff, Mrs. Grannatt, Mrs. Wenzel, Miss Lizzie Smith, Miss Forster, Mrs. Kriney, Mrs. LaRue and Mrs. Eagans. The waitresses were Miss Lizzie Smith, Miss Anna Stafford, Miss Alice Forster and Miss Elizabeth Forster. Mr. VanPelt and John Praed had charge of the ice cream, and Stephen Haff was on the door. The affair was given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and was for the benefit of the church.

PASSING COMMENT.

All the pleasures of a burglar scare were enjoyed the other evening by a family residing not far from Grant avenue. It was late at night and all the family had retired when there was a violent peal at the front door bell.

One of the women hurried down stairs without stopping to dress, fearing that there was trouble. She was met at the door by a policeman who told her that he had heard their burglar alarm ringing, and so had come to the door, finding all the windows closed. At the mere mention of a burglar, the terrified woman nearly went into hysterics. The whole household was aroused. When the man of the house inquired as to the cause of the trouble the policeman repeated his story.

"But there is no burglar alarm in the whole house," replied the house holder with surprise. It was after wards discovered that the vigilant officer had mistaken the sound of an alarm clock. The alarm had accidently gone off in the middle of the night.

Reserved Decision

The case of John O'Brein against Amata Wolf, on contract, has been tried in Justice Smalley's court. The suit was for $32 for wages. The Judge reserved his decision.

Mr. Eyer, of Orchard place, seems to be slightly improved from his severe illness.

MART OF PRETTY THINGS

BAZAAR OF THE T. A. B. SOCIETY OPENED IN AUSPICIOUS MANNER.

The Interior of the Building Arranged With Cosy Booths in Which Fair Faces Abound to Persuade Visitors to Patronize.

The Total Abstinence and Benevolent Society opened T. A. B. Hall last Monday with a bazaar which will continue during the week. The place has been made very attractive through the use of flags and bunting which have been arranged about the walls and ceiling.

The committee in charge has provided several attractions. There is a large fancy and novelty booth that is filled with pretty and useful articles The arrangement of this booth is admired a great deal. Those in charge consists of Miss Kittie Mack, chairman; Miss Lizzie McInerney, Miss Minnie Welsh, Miss Nora Flynn, Miss Lizzie Keefe, Miss Nellie Begley and Miss Maggie Begley.

An attractive place is the refreshment booth, which is in charge of Miss Margaret Lawler, Miss Nellie Lawler, Miss Bridget Reville and Miss Nellie Keefe. Then there is the fishing pond that is sure to be a winner during the week. Hugh Higgins is in charge. Being an expert fisherman, he is able to assist all in getting something for their money.

Dancing will be a feature every evening. C. A. Shannon and James Monahan will serve as floor managers, and music will be furnished by Eugene O'Reilly.

Patrick Casey & Son presented a gold-headed cane to the society, and this will be voted for and given to the most popular man in St. Mary's parish. C. J. McCarty and D. J. Mack are contesting for a gold watch, while Miss Margaret Beville and Miss Mary Pender are the contestants for the gold ring.

John Newman has charge of the booth where soft drinks are sold, and Richard Birmingham is in the box-office. William Spencer is in charge of the door. The committee that had charge of the decorations consist of William Spencer, Richard Birmingham and Clarence Waldron.

The attendance last Monday was excellent for the first night, and in the way of additional attractions there were songs by Mr. O'Brien, and an exhibition of black art by a member of the society. Each night there will be different attractions. Patrick Reville, president of the society, is chairman of the affair and has a general oversight of the bazaar.

STILL ALARMS OF FIRE.

Two Chimneys on Fire and the Department Called Out.

Employes in the new Woolston & Buckle building very imprudently tapped a flue in the chimney of the building adjoining and owned by D. S. Roberts. As a result volumes of smoke poured into Mr. Roberts' house, and it was at first thought the house was on fire. No damage resulted. Hose carriage, No. 2, and the chemical engine responded to the call by telephone, but they were not needed.

A still alarm was sent in yesterday at 11:15 a. m., by telephone, for a fire at the home of Sergeant Patrick Kiely on West Fourth street, near Liberty street. The Sergeant was awakened by his wife who told him that the house was on fire. He sent in the alarm.

The fire was in the chimney. Chief Doane and No. 2 hose wagon responded to the alarm. The fire was extinguished with a hand extinguisher. The damage was slight.

Want a Pipe Organ.

An effort is now being made by the members of All Souls church to secure a pipe organ for the church, as the one used at present is much too small. A choir of mixed voices will also be organized very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Barnes, of Grove street, are visiting out of town relatives.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the diseases, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Gripings, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
17	Piles, External or Internal	.25
18	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
21	Asthma, Difficult Breathing	.25
22	Ear Discharges, Earache	.25
23	Scrofula, Swellings and Ulcers	.25
24	General Debility, Weakness	.25
25	Dropsy, Fluid Accumulations	.25
26	Sea-Sickness, Nausea, Vomiting	.25
27	Kidney Disease	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker	.25
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
31	Painful Menses, Dysmenorrhea	.25
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitations	1.00
33	Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance	1.00
34	Scarlet Fever, Quinsy, Diphtheria	.25
35	Chronic Congestions, Headaches	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price, Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL "THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Itching or Ulcerating. Relief and Cure in Every Case. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.

PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.

Sold by Druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HOSE TOWER TUMBLED.

TERRIFIC GALE BLOWING AND MUCH DAMAGE RESULTS.

Old Boreas Was on a Rampage and the Way He Scattered Fruit Objects Was a Sight to Behold in This Community.

Old Boreas came down from the north-west this morning with such a blast of wind that chimneys, signs, awnings and everything else he could lay hands on succumbed to his power. Early Wednesday the wind began to rise until it has attained the velocity of a hurricane.

Reports are coming in from all sides regarding damage done by the wind. Out in the country where the wind has full sweep, trees are twisted down, fences blown over and much damage wrought about the barns and outhouses of the out-lying farmers. In the city considerable damage was done by the gale. Many signs, large and small were blown out of their fastenings. Awnings were ripped and torn. Arbors, window blinds and doors were torn away.

The fierce gusts that came whirling around corners played havoc among the hats of the struggling pedestrians. Many a man had to throw dignity to the winds and go chasing down the street in pursuit of his derby or soft hat. The dust on North avenue was particularly bad, half blinding all who tried to walk against it.

The wind threatened to unroof the Cory building, corner of Park avenue and West Front street. The tin roof was partially lifted at the northwest ern end of the building and the tin rolled back.

A large brick chimney on the building, 116 Park avenue, the first floor of which is occupied by P. Casey & Son, was slightly damaged by the fall of brick.

The large sign of the Plainfield Business College hanging from the third floor of the City National Bank building, corner of Park avenue and Front street, fell early yesterday with a loud crash. It narrowly missed striking a passing vehicle.

The wind blew down the large billboard on Park avenue, near Cedar brook bridge. The sign of Lawyer W. Gordon Williams on the Marsh building, Park avenue, fell and just missed the head of a pedestrian.

An immense limb of a tree on West Fifth street, between Central avenue and New street, was split off by the gale.

The large plate glass window in the Central Hotel, East Front street, broke this morning during the heavy wind. The window had been cracked by the settling of the building and the heavy wind completed the work.

The most serious accident in the borough as a result of the high wind was the blowing over of the hose tower in the rear of Warren Engine Company house on Somerset street. For rometime past this tower has been in an unsafe condition and it was intended by the Council to have it strengthened. The tower went over about 11 a. m. yesterday and the crash was heard some distance away. Very fortunately no damage resulted except to the tower which was a total wreck. Not for away a large number of men were working on the old Boice building, which is being turned into flats. At first it was thought that they would be in danger, but they were warned in time. There was no hose in the tower and in its shaky condition it was a comparatively easy matter for it to go over. The tower will probably be rebuilt on much stronger lines.

At Brookside Retreat a large tree was uprooted and blown over a fire alarm wire which caused the fire bell to ring at an early hour. Electrician Stahl was out bright and early and kept close watch of the fire alarm system. Thus far the system is all right.

In various parts of the borough small trees were blown over and panes of glass were broken.

At the Central cafe a window was blown out and every glass broken. No one was passing at the time and no damage resulted.

A very unusual accident occurred ing to a freight car on a passing east bound train when the entire top of the car was blown off and carried for a considerable distance into a vacant lot. The train did not stop, and it was not long after that a large number of people living in the vicinity of Richmond street, where the accident occurred, were out in full force making way with the wood for fire purposes.

TO CONTINUE LECTURES.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SERIES DECIDED ON FOR NEXT YEAR.

Howard C. Tracy at the Head of the Movement—Professor Sumner's Final Lecture Was About Immigration.

The last of the very enjoyable series of lectures which have been delivered during the past weeks by Professor W. G. Sumner, of Yale University, and which have been so much enjoyed by all who are interested in the University Extension movement, was delivered Monday night before a large and interested audience.

Before the lecture began, a little business was transacted, it being decided to carry on University Extension work in Plainfield during the following year, and the following officers were elected: President, Howard C. Tracy; secretary, Albert B. Beers; treasurer, Samuel F. Kimball.

Professor Sumner's lecture had as its subject "Immigration," and his remarks were somewhat unexpected in their nature, and probably did not find an echo in the mind of everyone present. He said that nearly everyone was in favor of restricting immigration to some extent, and he was going to take the directly opposite side. A new country, said he, cannot quarrel with its labor supply; neither can the man with land to sell bar out those who might come to occupy it.

History is full of the migrations of nations, trying to find easier conditions of life, and they are doing it today. We, all immigrants, moving where we think we will be better off. Our ancestors came here for the same reason which brings the most dispised immigrant today; we have turned out well, and why should not the grandchildren of these people turn out well also? A man has a right to put himself on that part of the earth's surface where he thinks he can fight the battle of life best. As to our own point of view, the sober fact is that immigration into an overpopulated country raises wages, not lowers them. Does the immigration of women who come here to become household servants lower their wages? More and more households come to employ servants, and wages go steadily marching up. Another large part of the immigrants are farmers and day laborers; if a man becomes a farmer he helps to add to the production of things we all need, thus making wages go further; if a man is a rough laborer he helps to the dirty work needed in every civilized community. We can't spare them, for we can't get this dirty work done any other way. The newcomers always begin at the bottom, thereby setting free those who have been here longer, to move up a peg in the social scale. The wages of laborers have gone up, not down, in recent years, as our civilization expands. Every one thing helps to build up another.

The contract labor law, the speaker continued, was an inexcusable piece of legislation, and the proposed $100 club, though put forward soberly, was a most absurd thing. What is a free country unless it is one which a man may enter and leave undisturbed, so long as he obeys the laws? The west suffers the same wrong, if there is any, from the migration from the east, that the United States suffers from immigration from Europe; all our social failures go west, and they have as much right to set up a barrier against Europe. If you don't want these immigrants to vote till they have been here fifty years, that is a different matter and purely a political one. The question of education might have some weight where citizenship is concerned, but why, on account of illiteracy, should be kept out of our country those who come here purely to make a living? Naturalization is not the matter that is up; it is a question of letting them come in to work for themselves and us. My belief is that there should be no restriction on immigration except police regulations, excluding criminals, those with contagious disease, or against whom some equally clear reason can be proved.

Lemuel Perry Operated Upon.

A very successful operation was performed on Lemuel Perry, the tonsorial artist, last Saturday at the hospital, for appendicitis. There is every indication that Mr. Perry will recover.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on and has the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"

BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having

The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar

for

Medicine

until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail or 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you. If you prepare yourself to take them. Men succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman

NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the highest places and thus earn better pay. During its 40 years of life, more than 40,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE New York.

Ordinance Not Adopted.

The trolley ordinance was not adopted at the meeting of the Dunellen Council held last Tuesday, as was supposed. The failure in the passage was due to the fact that one important signature has not yet been obtained, that of Mr. Sandford's name. He is in South America, and while his wife signed for her share, it cannot be as certained whether he will be willing to sign. It will now be necessary to wait until Mr. Sandford is heard from. The other two ordinances, relating to water and the grade of North avenue, were adopted. The books of the collector, treasurer and other borough officials were examined and reported correct."

Mired on West Front Street.

A beef wagon in charge of Robert Hamilton, of the Arnelson Beef Co., came dangerously near being stuck in the mud on West Front street, near the end of the trolley, Monday afternoon. The street is in a terrible condition, and Mr. Hamilton had a large load of meat on board which made it very difficult for him to get through.

Died After Long Illness.

Mrs. Joseph N. Richardson, aged forty seven years, died last Sunday after an illness lasting for several years past. She leaves a husband and one daughter. The funeral services were private.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1898. NO. 8.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

SHARP ANSWER FOR COLLECTOR SPENCER.

Councilmen Who Are Investigating Report Write Plainly.

CHARGES AND OPEN ACCUSATIONS.

Say Charge That the Collector Has Plenty of Information About the Report and That He Never Availed Himself of the Opportunities to Aid and Explain When the Books Were Being Examined.

Collector Spencer seems determined to try his case in the newspapers, and he struck upon the committee in charge of the investigation at its public stage, contained in his letter of February 21st, has led that committee to answer him once for all. It is not fair that he should be allowed to obscure the facts in the public mind. His complaint that he was not given an opportunity to explain before the accountants' report was published. The truth is, that before that report was made, he was called upon at least eleven times to explain. The committee was appointed to investigate, called Mr. Spencer before it on several different occasions, and tried in every possible manner to induce him to explain, but without success. Later in the meeting of the Council was called for the express purpose of going over the books with Mr. Spencer, and spent hours trying to get him to explain, but again without success.

Then the accountants endeavored to get him to explain, but with no better success.

Instead of explaining, Mr. Spencer saw fit to obscure the facts, and interposed all possible obstructions to the examination. He protested that certain books had never existed, which later he reluctantly produced from his safe. He denied any knowledge of certain missing vouchers, until the Mayor said in substance: "If those papers are not produced by tomorrow, I'll know the reason why, or have you before the Grand Jury," then in one hour he produced the papers.

Mr. Spencer believes, as he stated in his first public letter on the subject, that the yearly audit of his books was final, and that there could be no going behind the returning board.

After he found this would be done, which was when the experts actually went to work, Nov. 13th, 1897, he turned into the borough treasury over $5,000 of back taxes, a large part of which had been in his hands for years, as shown by his own hand writing on the duplicates.

This was plainly stated in the accountants' report as published in both newspapers, and Mr. Spencer has never publicly denied it; and yet he claims to have been ill-treated.

The accountants state that he owes yet nearly $7,000, and for nearly two weeks he has been in possession of a statement of the whole account as made up by the accountants, showing exactly what he is charged with and the source from which it came, and every dollar for which he is allowed.

He has in his possession the same books from which the experts made up this account, and yet he charges the committee with having refused him information of what he is charged with. Let him publish the "four pages" to which he refers and allow the public to judge whether or not his statement is true.

For months he failed to explain to the committee and the Council, and now he fails to produce the vouchers showing what he did with the $10,000 and more which the experts show in the "suspense account," and yet he charges the committee with not placing him in possession of all the evidence it has of what he terms "errors and omissions." Before doing that the committee must have time to examine into a few important items. For instance, the $37,000 delinquent taxes which are reported as outstanding.

Mr. Spencer and his friends claim that he has not been fairly treated. There are two sides to that question. There is but one side to the real question involved, whether or not the borough has been ill treated. There is no doubt about that. There is no doubt that because the investigation was started, the borough has received over $6,000, much of which would still be with a large part of the $7,000 balance which the accountants show is still due from Mr. Spencer.

The collector need not be so insistent for explanations from the committee, he has enough to explain himself to occupy his time for the present.

He has no occasion to complain of ill treatment.

The taxpayers are the persons to whom explanations are due, and Mr. Spencer is the person to make the explanations. He kept the books, and has them yet. He has the state-

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8.

ARTISTIC BEAUTY AND EXQUISITE MUSIC.

MRS. McCUTCHEN'S SECOND AT HOME

One of the Largest and Most Fashionable Given in Plainfield Society This Winter.

The second of Mrs. Charles Walter McCutchen's receptions held Tuesday afternoon at Dalnashee, the beautiful home in North Plainfield, was one of the largest and most charming receptions ever given in Plainfield. Artistic beauty was on every hand and exquisite music made an undercurrent of delicious sound. The entrances and open wood work were interlaced with southern smilax, and flowers were everywhere. Mrs. McCutchen was assisted in receiving by Mesdames Samuel St. J. McCutchen, Frederick Mead, George Dupee, William E. Lowe, William L. Saunders, Misses Cook and Tweedy. Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers and Mrs. J. Doull Miller presided at the tables, which were decorated in white and green. Favors of tiny hatchets and tri-colored ribbons were given the guests. The assistants in the dining room and halls were Misses Margaret Wilson McCutchen, Jessie Munger, Mary and Dorothy Wells, Emma Gertrude and Cora Haviland, May Shreve, Janet Studdiford from Orange, Mabel VanDeventer, Frances Phillips and Miss Huntington from Smith College.

AROUND THE WORLD.

Ernest R. Ackerman Took Many Minds on a Long Trip.

The Parochial School Hall was well filled with an appreciative audience last Monday night when former Councilman E. R. Ackerman gave his illustrated lecture "Around the World." He was assisted by John Naegel, who operated the lantern. The pictures were all very fine and the audience was much interested. Mr. Ackerman exhibited several views of Havana and Cuba, and one of the fated Maine warship. These views called forth the heartiest applause from those present.

During the evening there were vocal selections by Miss Mary Smith, Miss May Flanagan, Miss Sullivan and Miss Keeley and a soprano solo by Miss Keeley. Father Smyth introduced the lecturer and expressed the thanks of the parish to Mr. Ackerman for his kindness in giving the lecture. The lecture was for the benefit of the poor of the parish.

The ushers were Charles J. McCarthy, M. J. Mack, John Madden and Charles McCann.

SLATE FOR BOROUGH OFFICERS.

Conference of the Leaders Held at the Office of Senator Reed.

Last Saturday night a number of the Republican leaders of the borough held a caucus, at which time a slate was fixed for the coming spring election. The caucus was held at the office of Senator Charles Reed and was in every sense a harmonious one. The situation in general was discussed at some length, and after a long debate, pro and con, it was decided to place in nomination at the primary the following persons: Assessor, John G. McLaughlin; collector, Geo. F. Brown; councilman, P. A. Emmons, to succeed Mr. Schuit. Mr. Rogers will be renominated and will no doubt be elected. The primary will be held next Friday evening in the school building.

Successful Ball.

The second annual ball of the Plainfield Street Railway Employes' Association was held last Monday evening in the Crescent Rink, and the affair was largely attended. Complete success attended the efforts of the members and especially the officers of the association. Music for dancing was furnished by O'Reilly, J. J. McCorkle was general manager, and the floor managers were F. F. Maguir and M. J. Nevins. Their assistants were M. J. Walsh, C. C. Weiss, D. Williams, M. K. Hipp and J. Nolan. The reception committee consisted of J. H. Mowen, J. Deady, H. McCarthy and J. McCormick.

An Informal Dance.

Miss Mary Collier, of East Sixth street, gave a charming informal dance at the Olympia Monday evening in honor of her guests, the Misses Kate and Julia Ketcham, of Brooklyn. There were thirty guests present. The evening passed very pleasantly with dancing and conversation. The Olympia was prettily decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns. Mrs. Asa Collier chaperoned the dance.

Identified the Phantoms.

A "progressive ghost" party was given by Miss Helen Brainard last Tuesday at her home, Central avenue. In guessing the identity of the "phantoms" Miss Carolyn Campman and Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., were the most successful and received the prizes. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

GAILY DANCED ADIEU TO DELIGHTS OF SOCIETY.

PARK CLUB'S FANCY DRESS BALL AND THE LAST COTILLION WERE BRILLIANT AFFAIRS.

Uniquely Designed Costumes on Pretty Figures and Handsome Faces—Several Novel Innovations Carried Out on the Casino's Waxed Floor.

The Park Club fairly surpassed itself Monday evening at the closing event of the social season before the beginning of Lent. It was a departure from the usual run of dances of the club in that the guests were asked to come in fancy dress. Coming, as it did just before the National holiday, it was the formal Washington's Birthday Eve dance.

The week was not exactly propitious for such an affair, but, nevertheless the hall in the clubhouse was crowded from an early hour with the gliding, whirling couples. As long as the inspiring music continued, there were plenty who were glad to take advantage of it and the smooth floor. The members and their friends turned out in large numbers, many of them following the request of the committee that they appear in fancy dress. While there were a few who appeared in a costume as representing some distinctive character, many took pains to add a touch here and there to their gown in honor of the day. Many of the ladies and gentlemen powdered their hair for the occasion.

Of all the beautiful gowns worn during the evening, that of Miss Bertha Clark was one of the most effective. With a large Gainsborough hat and gown to match, she made a charming picture. Miss Edna Leonard, Miss Sarah Long and Miss Adelaide Ball were attired as gypsies. Miss Sadie Howell made a charming little Mother Goose. Miss Marion Bowen was gowned as a Spanish peasant girl. Mother Hubbard was represented by Miss Ethel Bowen. Miss Edith Clapp was gowned in a costume of a century ago. Miss Helen Phillips and Miss Marion Henderson wore Empire gowns. Miss Elizabeth Hull made a very pretty dairy maid. Miss Dater Seberg was attired as a French peasant. Orville T. Waring, Morgan Townsend and Irving Clark were the only ones among the young men to appear in anything besides the sober dress suit and frock coat. They wore the costumes of the Dance of the Pages worn at the Spielkartenfest.

The patronesses of the dance were Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen and Mrs. E. T. Douglass.

Among the members and guests present were Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Theiss, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. R. Thiess, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. McGee, Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. H. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. B. Huntsman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowley, Mrs. H. B. Phillips, Mrs. G. T. Rogers, Dr. and Mrs. W. Kempton Browning, the Misses Mabel VanDeventer, Eleanor T. VanDeventer, Sarah Long, Edith Clapp, Edith Gilbert, Marion Bowen, Ethel Bowen, Sadie Howell, Helen Phillips, Marion Henderson, Alice Thompson, Elizabeth Hull, Adelaide Ball, Lydia VanHerwerden, Daisy Elsberg, Bertha Clark, Ethel Green, Edna Leonard, Agnes Smith, Florence B. Beal, Fannie Pelletreau, and John VanHerwerden, Allen B. Laing, Carroll L. Runyon, McCready Sykes, Henry W. Brower, Allan Wilson, Aubrey Hull, Charles Dupee, Orville T. Waring, William Townsend, Morgan Townsend, Irving Clark, Everett W. Peck, Carl Stedman Brown, Willis West, Meredith Dryden, Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., Morris Dumont, Dr. Charles Matthewson, Godwin Beard, Charles Lee, Hugh Reed, George Worth, Arthur Murphy, Frank O. Bristol, Percy Long, Mr. Shattock, Robert A. Suffern, Phillip Suffern, Herbert Pendegast, Percy Timpson, Charles S. Cook and Raymond Cook.

CLEVER ENTERTAINERS.

Patrons of the Star Course Hear Some Good Numbers.

A large audience attended the Star Course entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last Tuesday. Royal C. Goldsbery, the impersonator, proved himself to be a very clever entertainer. His stories were very funny and his manner of telling them particularly so. His impersonations of the different characters showed his great ability in that line. He closed with his "Christopher Columbus," one of his own humorous compositions.

Miss Addie Parker Jackson was well known to the audience as a reader of unusual capabilities. Her selections were well received. Charles L. Lewis, the baritone, sang very acceptably. Howard Cass accompanied him.

—H. Kohn will sell the balance of his furs, millinery goods, store fixtures and showcases at a sacrifice, in order to close out.

Tuesday the social season came to an end with the beginning of Lent. Monday night the Cotillion Club ended its season with the last of its series of dances at the Casino. The dances have been made more elaborate this year than ever before, and they have proved unusually successful. In honor of the holiday, on the eve of which the dance was held, the ball room was decorated in the national colors.

The Casino presented a charming appearance for the cotillion. A large picture of George Washington was hung above the open fireplace, while tri-colored bunting and American flags were artistically draped about the walls and from the ceiling. The orchestra was stationed on the stage, half-hidden in a bower of palms and potted plants.

The cotillion was led by Thomas VanBoskerck. There were about seventy-five present, including a number of guests of the members from out of town. The patronesses were Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. George VanBoskerck, Mrs. J. W. Reinhart and Mrs. J. Parker Mason.

Several new figures were introduced into the cotillion, of which the "golf" figure was the most unique. The ladies were provided with golf clubs and balls. They drove the balls to one end of the room where the men, arrayed in the red coats of the golf players, secured them and danced with the ladies according to the golf balls they had.

The favors were all new and appropriate to the patriotic occasion. Among them were medallions of George Washington, little hatchets, flags, tri-color ribbons and the like.

The cotillion ended with an old fashioned Virginia reel to the tune of "Yankee Doodle." An elaborate supper was served by Max Wirth.

PUTTING GOWN ON THE NEW WOMAN

A New and Novel Game Played at a Gathering of Social Spirits.

Monday evening Miss Louise Sneider, of Grove street, gave a reception at her home in honor of Miss Hattie O'Dell and Theodore O'Dell, of Nyack, N. Y. There were about twenty young people present who entered heartily into the festivities of the occasion.

A feature of the evening was playing a new game, "Putting the Gown on the New Woman." In this game Edward F. Randolph won first prize, and Miss Lillie Powers secured the booby prize.

Another interesting game was guessing the names of authors of books. In this contest Charles McNabb was presented with the first prize and John Auten won the booby prize. After the games dancing was indulged in and continued until a late hour. Music was furnished by Prof. Fitzgerald, of Newark.

Entertained Scholars.

Mrs. Chas. Hummer entertained the members of her Sunday-school class at her home on Linden avenue last Tuesday. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served. Those belonging to the class are Master Chas. Powell, Irvin Harned, Harry Martin, Leonard Mance, Clarence Francisco and David Fairchild.

Bicycle Thief Pleaded Guilty.

Before Judge McCormick, in the Union County Court yesterday, Halsey Wilsey, of Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to the charge of grand larceny, preferred by George Gould, of this city, from whom the prisoner hired a bicycle under an assumed name last May and never returned it.

Wouldn't Go Home, so Went to Jail.

Edward McCann, of the West End, was arrested by Chief Marshal Wilson on Reed street last Monday afternoon. McCann was in an intoxicated condition, and after being told to go home he refused. He was arraigned before Recorder Thomas Monday evening and fined $10.

A Dog Killed by Trolley.

A dog owned by Mr. Sutterich, of the borough, was killed by a trolley car on Somerset street yesterday. The dead animal was removed and buried later in the morning.

Old Merchant to Retire.

B. R. Force has sold his entire stock of boots, shoes and rubber goods to M. Abrams, Mr. Force retiring from business.

—The Borough Board of Education held a meeting last Monday evening and considered routine business only.

A CALL TO THE DUTIES OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

MAYOR WILSON'S PROCLAMATION.

Everyone Who Has the Welfare of the Borough at Heart Should Attend Political Primaries.

Mayor Wilson, of the borough, issues the following proclamation today:

To the voters of North Plainfield:—Permit me to call your attention to a very important subject.

Municipal affairs should be conducted upon approved business principles.

In the selection of managers of private interests experience has taught that it pays to exercise great care.

The same is true regarding the men to be chosen to manage the affairs of our municipality.

Our officers should be men, not only of character and fitness, but men who will take an active interest in their work and devote to it all the time and energy necessary to its proper performance.

The place to select these men is the primary. Every citizen who has at heart the welfare of his town should attend the primary of the political party with which he affiliates, and see to it that the selections of such party are made from the true men to whom he would be willing to confide his own private interests.

If this is done by all parties it makes little difference to the unofficial affairs which political party succeeds election day.

The primary is the fountain head, and water cannot rise above its source.

I call upon every citizen of the borough to attend his primary, which will be held this week, and do his duty.

Respectfully,

J. H. F. Wilson, Mayor.

AN EXCHANGE OF TOKENS OF ESTEEM

Mrs. Charles Stephens Surprised Others and was Surprised Herself.

Last Monday evening Mrs. Charles Stephens, of West Second street, entertained the past officers of the Woman's Relief Corps, of which organization she is past president. The officers were given a complete surprise when Mrs. Stephens presented each one with a handsome painting neatly framed. The painting was the work of Mrs. Stephens, who is an artist of considerable ability. The pictures were tokens of remembrance and were gratefully received.

In return Mrs. Stephens received from the officers a handsome rocking chair as a token of esteem. After the presentations the balance of the evening was devoted to social affairs, during which there was vocal and instrumental music. It was late when the happy gathering dispersed, but all carried home with them many pleasant remembrances of the event.

JUST ENJOYED THEMSELVES.

Jolly Germans Had a Good Time In Saengerbund Hall.

The members of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society, their families and friends enjoyed last Monday evening another one of the family gatherings which have been held from time to time in the hall. One feature of the affair was the dancing, music for which was furnished by Claus, Wallander. Near midnight a repast was served. There were sixty four who sat down to the tables. The affair continued until the early morning hours and everybody decided that they had enjoyed themselves immensely. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Willie Gartner, Asa. Roth, Max Messenbach, Paul Postler, Henry Haurand and Louis Moraller.

Lenten Services.

Thursday evenings during Lent there will be special services held at Grace P. E. church and noted preachers in the denomination will preach as follows: February 24th, Right Rev. Leighton Coleman, Bishop of Delaware; March 3d, Rev. H. C. Swentzel, D. D.; March 10th, Rev. W. D. Dale; March 17th, Rev. F. B. Reazor; March 24th, Rev. J. O. Mitchell; March 31st, Rev. W. A. Bowney; April 7th, Rev. C. M. Belden.

Repeating the Performance.

The scholars of the Borough Public School repeated the entertainment entitled "The Temple of Fame," last Monday evening, and the attendance was fully as large as the one of last week Thursday evening. The entertainment was greatly enjoyed, and it is estimated that the net profits of both entertainments will be about $100. This money will be devoted to the school library.

Story of a Woman's Travels.

All who last spring heard Mrs. Chas. Darrow, of New York, tell of her great experiences in traveling through Japan, will no doubt be pleased to listen to the story of her journeys in Java and Burmah, which she will relate in the Crescent Avenue church this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Evangelistic Services.

Special evangelistic meetings are being held by the congregation of the Calvary Colored Baptist church in their rooms on West Front street. The services are under the leadership of Rev. P. S. Gibson, and will be held every evening this week.

—Frank Haurand, of the borough, has secured a position as conductor on the Somerset street line of the trolley.

DOWN AND DOWN GOES THE PRICE OF COAL.

Local Dealers are in for a Big Cut Rate War.

SERIES OF CUTS IN PRICES TODAY.

Started at $4.25 For Ton and Fell to $3.80, When the Competitors Determined to Maintain the Lowest Rates—Upper Lehigh Domestic Grades are Not Concerned in the Reduction in Price, However.

The local coal dealers are now fying at each others throats, figuratively speaking, and the price of coal is steadily declining. The New Jersey Retail Coal Dealers' Exchange, which had up to two weeks ago, governed the price of coal in this vicinity, is a nonentity as far as Plainfield is concerned at present. The local dealers have introduced a new kind of coal on which they are lowering the price at rapid bounds.

For years the Exchange has held the price at one point. All the local dealers combined to keep the price as set by the Exchange and competition, as far as the cost was concerned, was a dead letter. The first break was on the part of C. H. Bagg, who underbid his competitors for the supply for the Plainfield public schools. The dealers were greatly incensed and charged Bagg with breaking his agreement. Bagg, in response, claimed that he had made no agreement.

Two weeks ago the price of upper Lehigh coal fell from $4.50 a ton to $4.25. All the dealers followed the lead of the few who started the cut-rate war. Many tons of the coal at the reduced price has been ordered since the drop and all the dealers have found the trade brisk. It was understood that the price was likely to rise again at any moment and all were anxious to lay in a supply at the reduced rate.

There were rumors afloat, however, that the cut-rate war was not yet over. It was not until Tuesday that any new step was taken. D. C. Ivins & Company, whose large yard is on Watchung avenue, offered their customers a grade of domestic hard coal at $4.25 a ton. It is claimed to be as good coal as there is mined although not said to be upper Lehigh.

E. H. Holmes, George O. Stevens & Co., and Boice, Runyon & Co. took a hand in the fight at once. They set the price for a good domestic hard coal at $3.80. They also claimed it to be of exellent burning quality, although not upper Lehigh. Stevens was the only one to name the grade. He places Melville coal, a well-known grade, at the price already named.

Not to be outdone by their competitors, Ivins & Co. immediately lowered their price to $3.85. At noon E. H. Holmes, Boice, Runyon & Co. and George O. Stevens reduced their price to $3.80.

There seems to be considerable hard feeling among the dealers now in the cut rate war. Several have declared their intention of fighting the others to the bitter end. New developments, one way or the other, may hourly be looked for.

At a late hour yesterday D. C. Ivins & Co. declared open war by refusing to set any stated price.

DON'T KNOW HOW HE WAS HURT.

Mysterious Condition of a Central Railroad Brakeman in the Hospital.

Reuben Hoats, of Mauch Chunk, a brakeman employed by the Central Railroad, is now confined at Muhlenberg Hospital with injuries which he cannot account for.

It was 1:40 a. m. yesterday when the night operator at the North Avenue station telephoned for the ambulance and had Hoats taken to the hospital. He had been brought to Plainfield on a train and left alone at the station until the operator took an interest in him. Hoats had a head wound, a cut in the mouth and his chest was badly bruised.

He was wholly unable to account for his injuries. He said that when he came too he was in a caboose and the conductor of the train had him put off at Plainfield.

Hoats cannot remember having met with an accident, but so far as can be learned it is the general opinion that he was struck by a train and was picked up and brought to this city. Those in charge at the hospital have thus far failed to learn how Hoats sustained his injuries and they have no means of finding out. Hoats says he is married and is 32 years of age. His injuries are not considered serious.

Borough Primary.

The North Plainfield Republicans will hold their primary in the school building Friday evening of this week. The Democrat primary will be held in the basement of the public school building Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

DETAILS OF RUNNING A TOWN FOR A YEAR.

Annual Reports Submitted to the Borough Council.

THE FINANCIAL STANDING SHOWN.

Collector Spencer and Clerk Arnold Report in Figures—Recorder Thomas Has Disposed of 147 Arrests—Fire Department in Good Condition, but Alarm Whistle Wanted Instead of the Bell.

The adjourned meeting of the Borough Council held last Friday was an interesting one in many respects. Among the most important business presented was the annual message of Mayor Wilson, the reports of the borough officers and the report of the special committee on the report of the work of the expert accountants.

Clerk Arnold presented his annual report of finances as follows: Borough, balance, $3,223.75; fire department, $1,084.77; roads, $1,418.10; light, $1,505.68; poor deficit, $431.44; balance, $6,800.88; paid county and State, $5,229.74; cash balance, $1,571.13

Collector Spencer's report since the last report was as follows: 1895, $53 26, less special account, $17.06 and Board of Health account, $1.10; 1896, $308 51, less special and Board of Health accounts, $110.68; 1897, $1,137.27, less special and Board of Health accounts, $433.73; total to February 18th, $1,570 99; previously reported, $40,488.96; balance, $41,999.95.

Recorder Thomas reported that during the year 147 arrests were made Of that number 85 were fined, 33 sent to jail, 21 sentence suspended, 5 held for the Grand Jury, 1 turned over to Plainfield police, and one was sent to the asylum.

The report of Chief Marshal Wilson was substantially the same as that given by Recorder Thomas. In addition he stated that the borough lockup is in good condition and inspection is invited.

Overseer of the Poor David R. Weaver reported that during the year $1,400 was received from the borough, and $315 from the sale of effects. The expenditures amounted to $1,68.13, leaving a balance of $570.

Chief Bodine, of the fire department, reported that no deaths had occurred during the year, but on the contrary the department had been strengthened by nineteen more men and 1,000 more feet of hose. He recommended that the Mayor and Council have the fire-alarm boxes painted, and that three new boxes be located, one in the East End, one in the West End and one on Watchung avenue near Whitewood avenue. Following this report, Borough Electrician Stahl reported that the fire-alarm system of the borough is in first-class working order.

Mr. Woolston, of the street committee, reported that the expenditures on the streets during the year, including new work, amounts to $5,618.15, and that all receipts, including subscriptions, amounts to $1,084 80. Four crosswalks at $310 was expended. The actual expenses in this department which was paid by taxes amounts to $4,022 92.

Mr. Rogers, chairman of the fire, water and lamps committee, submitted the annual report for this department. He reported the fire department to be in good condition. During the year there has been twelve fire alarms, with an average attendance of sixty-three members at each call. The chief of the fire department reported through the committee the total loss of property to be within $2,300, fully covered by insurance. The present active membership of the department is fifty-five. Continuing, the report states as follows: "Your committee takes great pleasure in stating that the fire department of the borough is officered and manned by capable and energetic citizens, a very large proportion of whom are intensely interested in their work and the welfare of the department. It is to be hoped that at an early date some arrangement can be made for the fire alarm to be sounded by a steam whistle, instead of by the present insufficient bell."

The committee also reported that there are 77 water hydrants located within the borough at an annual rental of $15 each. There are 330 electric street lights, at a cost to the borough of $16 per each, of which number 15 were added during the year. The committee reported that with the exception of $850 they have been able to meet all bills. The above amount was inherited from the previous year, but the committee has been able to reduce it somewhat.

Mr. Carey, of the license and marshal committee, stated that he would make his report at the next meeting, as he had left his report at his office by mistake.

Mr. Rogers reported on the destruction of the hose tower, and said that plans are now in the hands of the committee to have the tower rebuilt and strengthened.

The report of the Board of Health will be presented at the next meeting of the Council.

The auditing and finance committee stated that the books and accounts of the borough officials had been examined and all were found to be correct except those of the collector. In the case of the latter they stated that they were unable to strike a balance.

Mr. MacLaughlin, of the committee on printing and stationary, reported that the committee had completed its work for the year, and he offered a resolution that the Mayor and clerk be authorized to have the report printed in pamphlet form and distributed to every citizen in the borough. He said that at a later meeting he would offer a resolution to provide for the purchase of a numbering stamp. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned.

VIGOROUS MIND TO THE END

DEATH OF A BRILLIANT WOMAN

Though Past Four Score of Years Mrs E. K. Miller was Never in Her Dotage Period.

The death of Mrs. E. K. Miller, whose funeral took place Saturday, removes from the Congregational church one of its most valued members. Frequently after she was eighty years of age she made addresses and read papers at church meetings. When eighty-three she wrote and read an original poem at one of the society's entertainments, which was published at the time by The Press; and many will remember her representation of the part of the Great-great-grandmother in a series of tableaux given at the Casino two or three years ago.

Mrs. Miller was born in London, Eng., in 1812. In that city from girlhood up she was connected with church and charitable work. After marriage she came with her husband to America in a sailing vessel, steamship navigation then being in its experimental stage. She settled at Rochester, N. Y., and subsequently went west, conducting a private school in the young, during several years in Lansing, Mich.

About eleven years ago she came to Netherwood to make her home with a son and daughter, and soon became known beyond the circle of her immediate friends because of her interest in church and general affairs. She wrote a number of hymns and was an occasional contributor to current periodicals.

Her appearance was striking, with the bearing of a lady of the old school. She had a pleasing, intelligent countenance, with white hair invariably disposed in curls about her forehead. Although so advanced in years her mental powers were unimpaired. Always cheery, those who met her even casually felt the influence of her genial nature. The mother of a large family she was devoted to her home duties and trained her children carefully for the duties of life. As advancing years relieved her of family cares, she was enabled to increase the sphere of her usefulness and the ratio to be helpful to others became the controlling motive of her life. She kept in touch with questions of the day being particularly interested in those having a religious and moral bearing. She interpreted religion in joyous strains and believed that life was worth living if well lived. In being the exponent of such a religion teaching by example, as well as by faith and words, she laid the sure foundation for the love and esteem of those who knew her best. A woman greatly and deservedly beloved has gone to rest.

The funeral of Mrs. Esther K. Miller was held from her late residence at 919 LaGrande avenue, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich. Rev. S. P. Simpson made the address and spoke in beautiful terms of the love and kindness of the departed one. The floral tributes were very lovely. During the service there were several songs by a quartette composed of Mrs. F. T. Clawson, Miss Nan Randolph, E. E. Bunyon and B. T. Barnes.

The funeral was largely attended, but the stormy weather kept many friends of the late Mrs. Miller away. The bearers were L. C. Batson, A. J. Clarkson, L. B. Morgan and A. J. Winckler.

The interment was at Hillside cemetery, where services were conducted.

"DON'T BE UNEASY."

The Message Received by a Sailor's Lass From Far Off Cuba.

Miss Berth Clum, of 705 LaGrande avenue, whose sailor sweetheart, Alfred Johnson, was one of the surviving crew of the ilfated battleship Maine, late Saturday afternoon received the following letter from Mrs. Sylvester Scovell, the wife of the well-known newspaper correspondent:

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 16th, 1898.

Miss Clum:

Alfred Johnson asked me to write and tell you that he was on the Maine, but escaped with a few bruises. He is in the hospital here and is being well cared for. Don't be uneasy at all. I will try to write you again but if you don't hear from me don't be uneasy because everything is being done for the remaining crew. Mrs. Sylvester Scovell.

Johnson seems to be blessed with good luck. He was one of the crew of the U. S. S. Kearsage, which foundered at sea a few years ago, but escaped.

—The Laire Hardware Company are daily receiving spring goods, embracing flower, lawn and garden seeds, fertilizers, etc. Goods the best, prices very low.

FOUNDATION OF SOCIETY

DOMESTIC FIDELITY IS COEXISTENT WITH NATIONAL LIFE.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson Expounded Some Interesting Ideas in His Lecture on "Evolution in Human Society" Last Friday.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson delivered another lecture in the course on "Evolution" in All Souls' church last Friday. The attendance was large and the lecture the most interesting that has yet been delivered in the series. Its subject was "Evolution in Human Society."

The family was declared by the lecturer to be the foundation on which all social afflictions rest. The strength of national life has been proved to be coexistent with domestic fidelity, and the moral integrity of the State seems proportional to the sacredness of the family relationship. The fundamental characteristics of social progress are illustrated for us by the family origin and growth.

Much was said of infancy and motherhood, following Fiske and Drummond, and emphasis was placed on prolonged infancy in man as "the most wonderful chapter in creation." In dividuality of character, cranial activity is the distinguishment of mankind. The best cared for physically survive. The family itself was probably the coming together of one man and many women in primitive times, for the old theory of development through polygamy, and polyzamy is now discredited. Our race was so started by perception of the numerical proportions of the sexes, by love of children and by jealousy. Monogamy has been a moral evolution. The strong civilizations have developed this type.

After deploring the too great prevalence of divorce, the lecturer passed to the consideration of the mechanic arts.

The evolution of marine architecture was then interestingly dwelt upon, with a brief treatment of modern as contrasted with ancient mechanism.

The evolution of law was next taken up. The first laws were undoubtedly customs which usage had made valuable and sacred. The father of a family or a tribe was also the religious head and legal authority. With the dethronement of the head, such as patriarch or king, law became more flexible and a thing of the people.

As in the first laws men gave up their will to the common law, so now the law yields to the remodeling of consecrated minds. Thus law is a never failing evolution.

The lecturer next took up the evolution of language. No one knows how human language began. It was probably first imitative, as with birds and animals, and was surely monosyllabic. The first language was probably largely a gestural language. The development has been not only from words of one syllable to those of a number of syllables, but also a process of differentiation as derivative races have broken off from the original stock and scattered widely. Language forms the barrier between man and the lower animals. In the lowest languages abstract terms are wholly wanting. The ordinary European peasant has about three words in his vocabulary.

The lecturer then passed to evolution in religion. Going back far enough we find records of tribes who had no religion. The oldest traces of religion among savages tell of religious rites, but do not enlighten us concerning the religion itself. The first religious thought is worship of the dead. The first belief in deity was the belief in a power which sent evil to man. The first worship was a placation. As tribes advance in civilization their deities advance in dignity. The Hebrews illustrated the advance. The worship of principles is an advanced stage in the development of religion. Today we say that the more extended the sympathy the more ethical is the relation.

"RUBBER FIVE" TOO TOUGH.

Local Y. M. C. A. Basket Ball Team Went Down in Defeat.

Defeat visited the basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. for the first time in their own gymnasium Friday evening. The "Rubber Five" of the Greenpoint Y. M. C. A. came with a good reputation but the home team was not expecting anything quite so lively The "Rubber Five" defeated the local team by a score of 27 to 13.

The visitors played a swift hard game that completely bewildered the local boys for the first half. The "Rubber Five" led by a score of 18 to 4 at the end of the first half. Then the home team braced up and held their own in the second half but could not overcome the forminable lead that the visitors had secured. The game was an excellent one and free from rough plays. The visitors showed remarkable skill in throwing for the goals.

The Plainfield team made four fouls and the visitors five. The Plainfield team was composed of E. Moraller, Long, Egan, Smith and M. Moraller.

THE WARRIOR'S WORDS.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD ADDRESSED THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS.

Reminiscences of Lincoln Told by the General—He Told to War the President Who Helped Him to His Position.

Washington's and Lincoln's Birthdays were jointly celebrated at the Plainfield High School in t Friday by special exercises. General O. O. Howard, who has recently been retired and was one of the great generals of the Civil War, was the speaker of the morning.

General Howard was introduced by Principal I. W. Travell and gave a short and interesting address of his personal experiences with Lincoln. He told of his impressions of Washington when a boy and how he had always been his hero. He first heard of Abraham Lincoln through the newspapers. Then the General made a few remarks on the comparison of the newspapers of the time of the Civil War and the present day. They were not as abundant as at present, he said, neither were they as sensational He did not think the newspaper of today was as truthful but they were so multitudinous that it was difficult to judge.

Then the General related some reminiscences, telling of his different meeting with the great war president. He described his appearance. The General gave a short account of some of his personal experiences with the army in eastern Tennessee. He told how, when some of his "friends" were trying to have him removed from his command, Lincoln stood by him and thus enabled him to rise to the high position he finally attained.

ATTACKED WITH A HATCHET.

An Exciting Time in the Boiler Room of the Elkwood Building.

Down in the boiler room of the old Elkwood building there was trouble Saturday night. Orlando Holmes is the fireman and Howard Doty is his assistant. While Holmes was away Saturday evening Doty was in charge of the furnace.

Orlando Holmes, his brother, Merton, and John Morcroft were together during the evening. Then they came back to the Elkwood building. Morcroft says that he was invited in, Holmes says that he was not. At any rate Morcroft went down where the fires were.

After a time Holmes ordered him away. Holmes says that Morcroft turned to assault him and he picked up a hatchet in self defence. Morcroft says that the assault was unprovoked. Holmes used the hammer end of the hatchet on the side of Morcroft's head with considerable force. A serious wound was the result. The witnesses say that both men had been drinking heavily.

Patrolman McCarty heard of the trouble and arrested both men. Morton Holmes was wanted as a witness. He swore at the policeman and was locked up too.

Monday morning the three were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza. Orlando Holmes was fined $15 and Merton Holmes $10. Morcroft was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and go to jail for sixty days.

DECORATED IN YELLOW.

Charming Reception Given by Mrs. Wilson W. Smith and Daughter.

A charming reception was given by Mrs. Wilson W. Smith and Miss Smith Saturday afternoon at their residence, 144 East Seventh street. The house was artistically decorated for the occasion. Yello w was the prevailing color of the parlor decorations while long chains of smilax were used with effect. The dining room was decorated in red, in which red tulips of unusual size were prominent. Palms were used in the decorating of the rooms and halls.

Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Ernest L. Wale, Mrs George Streig, Mrs. Charles M. Corwin, Mrs. Harlot Barton Ford and Mrs. Israel C. Pierson. The affair was largely attended considering the inclement weather. An elaborate supper was served to the guests by Max Wierts.

GAVE UP THEIR CHARTER.

Local Degree of Pocohontas Didn't Want to be Divorced From Red Men.

Although it has not been generally known, Paughcaughnaughsinque Council, Degree of Pocohontas, surrendered its charter several weeks ago. The affair was kept quiet, particularly as to the cause of the surrender. It is understood, however, that a majority of the members were decidedly apposed to the project of separating the Degree of Pocohontas from the Improved Order of Red Men of which it has been an auxiliary organization since it was formed. When it was decided to make the change, the members of Paugheaughnaughsinque Council gave up their charter.

A Property Transfer.

The following property transfer was recorded at Elizabeth during the past week: W. T. Kirk, sheriff, to Edward Smith, south westerly side of Central avenue, 75 feet to point, Plainfield, $5,000.

BOROUGH YEAR'S WORK.

MAYOR WILSON'S ANNUAL MESSAGE TO THE COUNCIL.

In It He Reviews the Improvements and Important Acts of Government, and Touches on Collector's Inspection.

The following is the annual message of Mayor Wilson to Borough Council, submitted last Friday:

Gentlemen of the Council:—As we near the close of the first official year during which I have had the honor of presiding as your Mayor, it affords me pleasure to congratulate you upon the careful and successful manner in which you have discharged the duties entrusted to you, and review briefly, what has been accomplished.

The first, and probably most important factor in the success of a community, is the public health. In this respect we have enjoyed during the past year exceptional prosperity. It may be said by the thoughtless that this results from chance rather than from care, but such is not the case. Contagious diseases constantly appear, and only the unceasing vigilance of our health officers is required to prevent their spread. This was illustrated in our neighboring city within the past year, and our borough has reason to be grateful that due to the efficient work of our Board of Health.

Second possibly in importance is the protection of the individual a life, limb and property. That enjoying good health, he may always feel assured that he is safe, both in person and property.

The fulfillment of this condition depends largely upon the efficiency of the police and fire departments. It gives me pleasure to say that during the past year these departments during the year has been performed effectively and with judgment, and highly deserves commendation.

Within the year permanent improvements of concrete walks have been made. One block of sidewalks have given way to substantial flagging on 21,000 feet, or nearly four miles of our streets, and if our citizens will keep up this good work for a year or two more we will be justly proud of our walks.

In some cases it may appear a hardship to be compelled to lay walks, but there is only one fair rate, and that is to treat all alike, and it is impossible to make exceptions without doing injustice.

Nearly 1,600 feet of our streets have been macadamized during the year, and nearly 600 feet of crosswalks have been laid, besides a large amount of necessary repairs having been done, and our streets are, as a whole, in better condition than ever before. With about 25 miles of roadbed within the borough to keep in repair, it is not difficult to understand that with our limited means we are obliged to proceed slowly with the macadamizing.

Through the efforts of certain of our public-spirited citizens, Mountain Avenue has been given a first-class pavement by the county Board of Freeholders, to the great advantage of the borough.

Other progressive citizens have dedicated and opened Sycamore avenue, from Myrtle avenue to Front street, and procured the building of a county bridge across Green Brook, thereby giving us two additional entrances to that portion of the borough.

The great work of laying out and opening Watchung avenue, begun a generation ago, has at last been crowned with success and is now an accomplished fact. It was a large enterprise and involves large amounts of money. The settlement, by the property specially benefited, of the assessment for the cost of the improvement, has not yet been reached, but it will doubtless be accomplished in an equitable manner in the near future. In the meantime the street is open to the enjoyment of the public and will unquestionably prove of great benefit.

The subject of taxation is full of interest to our citizens, and in this matter much has been developed during the year. The amount ordered raised for all borough purposes this year was $40,000. This amount was appropriated as follows:

For street lights	$ 5,000
Police department	3,300
Fire department	1,500
Street department	1,500
Sidewalks	1,500
Water	1,500
Incidentals, borough account	1,000
Payments of fire bond and interest	675
Interest on certificates issued for construction of Watchung avenue	1,700
	$19,450

The annual reports of the various committees in charge of the several departments will show in detail the manner in which the money has been expended, and the taxpayer should carefully examine them.

In this connection mention should be made of the result of suggestion made in my first official communication to your body, that upon the careful and systematic collection and handling of the taxes depends the financial success or failure of our municipal government.

A committee of your number, appointed for the purpose, considered the subject of delinquent taxes for the purpose of ascertaining the amount due, and devising means for collecting the same, and in the course of such investigation discovered the fact that nothing short of a thorough and exhaustive examination of all the books and vouchers of the borough since its organization, by expert accountants, could determine whether or not the borough had received its due, and what account was still owing from taxpayers, and enable the closing of the borough accounts from a debtor and creditor basis. This involved the expenditure of a large sum of money, as it required nearly three months' labor of several trained accountants, but the public good and justice to taxpayers demanded that it. Accordingly the expenditure of $750 for this purpose was authorized.

Since that time nearly $2,000 has been turned into the borough treasury, which had been previously regarded, to a large extent, as uncollectanble. This in itself was gratifying proof of the wisdom of the action in authorizing the employment of experts. The report of the accountants, submitted to you, is most complete and comprehensive, and demonstrates the most careful attention to the business methods in municipal affairs. Much as we may regret the necessity of any disclosures which tend to discredit the efficiency or integrity of any of our officials, yet we are but the servants of the people, who have entrusted to us the management of their municipal affairs, and the knowledge is theirs, not mine. We have no right to withhold it nor to shield any public officer. Our duty is to see to it that the public money is used only for the benefit of the public, and upon this I know you will insist.

Respectfully submitted,

J. F. Wilson.

Post Graduate Course for Nurse.

Miss Palmer, a nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital, went to New York Feb. 15th to take a special three months' course at the Lying-in Hospital, corner of Second avenue and Seventeenth street. All of the nurses are obliged to take this course, and as soon as possible the nurses are sent to New York.

DEDUCTIONS ARE NOT IN ALLEGED SHORTAGE

A Partial Report on Collector Spencer's Accounts.

SUBMITTED TO BOROUGH SOLONS.

The Councilmanic Report Shows That the Deductions Claimed by Spencer's Friends to Reduce Alleged Shortage Have Been Accounted as Delinquent Taxes—Other Points of Interest.

The following is a copy of the partial report submitted by the special committee of the Borough Council who are going over the report of the expert accountants who examined Collector Spencer's accounts:

To the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield.

Gentlemen—Your special committee, to which was referred the report of the expert accountants, presented to the Council at its last meeting, finds itself unable to make any final report to you at this time. The matter referred to is one which will require weeks of hard and careful work to enable your committee to intelligently report upon all branches of the subject. Your committee therefore, at this time, is able to make only a partial report as follows:

In response to the request of the collector for a copy of the report of the experts, he was promptly furnished with a duplicate of his account, as shown in the expert's statement.

In view of the rumors which have been circulated to the effect that the balance of $6,718 45, which appears according to the report of the experts to be due from the collector, is made up largely of deductions allowed to soldiers, firemen, etc., and deductions allowed by the commissioners of appeals, your committee has given particular attention to the makeup of that reported balance, and is able to state that such rumors are entirely unwarranted. Not a dollar of such claimed deductions is included in that balance, as far as your committee can discover. On the contrary, the amount of all such claimed deductions, for the making of which the collector furnished no authority to the experts, were returned by said report as delinquent taxes, which the collector had never received.

Your committee has examined with care into the makeup of the $6,718 45 which the report of the accountants stated was entered in the cash book after the beginning of their examination and reported to the Council as having been collected after that date, although entries in the duplicate show part of it had been paid to the collector before the examination began. Analysis of the report shows that it contains items of this kind, extending as far back as 1895, amounting to about $2,000. In addition to this there are items without date of payment in the duplicate amounting to about $600, and interest without date of collection amounting to about $500 more, bringing the total to about $3,000.

There are also included in said total of $5,578.95 items simply marked "various," reported as having been collected in November, 1895, without names of tax-payers or other exposition, amounting to $1,146.26, which makes up over $4,000 of the amount entered in the cash books after the examination began. The remainder appears to have been collected from other sources, including the Fire, Warman and other large items.

Your committee will devote to its work as much time as possible, and endeavor to report further at the regular meeting, March 4th.

Your committee desires to give the collector a hearing at the earliest possible date, and will do so February 18th., 1898.

Respectfully submitted,

Murray Burtis,
Geo. T. Rogers,
John MacLaughlin.

Mr. Spangenberg Also.

The report that Leonard Spangenberg and Elmore D. Moffet had formed a partnership to conduct a real estate business is erroneous. Mr. Spangenberg has branched out into that business alone, but has an office in the same building with Mr. Moffet.

After coughs and colds the germs of consumption often gain a foothold.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites will not cure every case; but, if taken in time, it will cure many.

Even when the disease is farther advanced, some remarkable cures are effected. In the most advanced stages it prolongs life, and makes the days far more comfortable. Everyone suffering from consumption needs this food tonic.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

FEAST FOR ART LOVERS.

GEORGE WHARTON EDWARDS' CREATIONS ON EXHIBITION.

They Were Beautiful in Conception and Brilliant in Finish—Under the Auspices of the Circle of King's Daughters.

Among the well-known illustrators of to-day, few have received more well-deserved appreciation than the gifted author, George Wharton Edwards, whose home is in this city, and whose articles in the magazines are always read, while his illustrations are always distinguished by beauty of execution and exquisite delicacy of touch. The announcement of an exhibition of a number of Mr. Edwards' original drawings, to be given by the Circle of King's Daughters in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon, naturally attracted a good deal of attention, and the affair was one of the pleasantest of the season.

The parlors presented a charming appearance to the incoming guests The large room was arranged as the art room, the walls being covered with red hangings, on which the pictures, fifty-five in all, were hung. They were the original pen and ink drawings from "Old English Ballads" and "Old English Love Songs," including among many others the sketches for "Chevy Chace," "King Cophetua," "Barbara Allen's Cruelty," "Flodden Field," "David and My Campaspe," "The Passionate Shepherd," "Sigh No More, Ladies," "Under the Greenwood Tree," "Gather Ye Rosebuds While Ye May," and "To Althea From Prison." Artistic little catalogues of the drawings were sold, and the room was filled through the afternoon and evening with a throng of art lovers, who thoroughly enjoyed the unusual opportunity for examining the exquisite work of their gifted fellow townsman.

For those who wished to sit and chat with their friends, there were comfortable curved seats all about, covered with oriental looking hangings, and with an abundance of pretty cushions. For those desiring sweet things, a tempting variety was displayed on a long, narrow table at the end of the room. The table was pretty in color scheme, with red the prevailing color of the room. Those in charge of the department were Mrs. Slauson, Mrs. I. Wiothrop Travell, Mrs. Garrigues, Mrs. Clay, Miss Florence Kean, Miss May Tracy and Miss Kellman.

The smaller room at the side was arranged as a tea room, with a table charmingly decorated in red. A great bowl of beautiful double red tulips occupied the centre of the table, while three blossoms were strewed carelessly about. The color of the tulips, which were much admired, as they are seldom seen so early in the season, reappeared in the candle-shades, making an unusually attractive picture. In this room Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Stockton, Mrs. Julius Ericson and Miss Green, presided, while the young women who assisted in serving were Miss Gertrude Baker, Miss Hyde, Miss Negley, Miss Zaldee VonBoskerck, Miss Hunter and Miss Margaret Tracy.

In the art room the guests were received by Mrs. L. H. Bigelow, Mrs. G. M. Bardell, Miss Julia Scribner, Miss Emily Tracy, Mrs. William Stillman and Mrs. J. Machado. A large number of the prominent society people were present during the afternoon and evening. Mr. Edwards himself was present with his wife, and received many compliments and kind words concerning his work.

A very pleasant feature of the affair was the singing of old English ballads and love songs by Miss Rosabel Schroeder and Frank Cokefair.

The credit for the charmingly arranged rooms belonged to the decorating committee, which was composed of Miss Zaldee VonBoskerck, chairman, Miss Annie Vreeland, Mrs. Stillman, Mrs. Ware, Miss Margaret Tracy, Mrs. Garrigues, Mrs. Clay, Mrs. Kinney and Mrs. Ryce.

Lively Red Men.

There was a lively time at the meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men last Friday. Large delegations were present from this city, Lincoln and Raritan. Good pale face was adopted and one brave was received and cued from the Raritan tribe. A programme of vocal and instrumental selections was given after the meeting. Great Sannap Newcorn gave a talk on his recent travels with the big chiefs. Remarks were made by the chiefs of the visiting tribes.

Street Improvements.

Great street improvements are being planned for the southern section of the city. The residents of Madison avenue, from Ninth street to Belle avenue, Stelle avenue, from Plainfield avenue to Madison avenue, and East Ninth street, from Park avenue to Watchung avenue, have determined to have those thoroughfares properly macadamized, they to stand their portion of the expense.

To Be Appealed on Writ of Error.

The case of Robinson against Randolph, in which damages were awarded the plaintiff in the Union County Court recently, is to be appealed by the defendant on a writ of error.

SLUMS AND HOSPITALS.

SALVATIONISTS EXPLAIN THEIR WORK TO PLAINFIELDERS.

Workers Go Into Most Abandoned Places and Do a Good Work—Many Local Salvationists Were in Attendance.

A delegation of Salvation Army workers from New York city, under command of Staff Captain Caroline Frost, presented the slum and hospital work of the army to a Plainfield audience in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last Thursday.

Captain Frost is in charge of the slum work in New York and Brooklyn, having command of five corps of workers. She was accompanied last evening by Captain Mary Hansen, Cadet Nellie DeGart and one other slum worker.

The meeting was opened by F. H. Martin, of this city; Beely Edsall made the opening prayer, and Captain Frost was then introduced and gave a vivid account of the slum work in Greater New York. She described how the workers went into the most abandoned places in the city and established their headquarters, making the acquaintance of the people and gaining their confidence as a preparation for the work.

Captain Hansen, who belongs to the army's corps, was dressed in her nurse's costume. She spoke interestingly of the work, telling a number of the experiences which come to her and her associates in the discharge of their duties.

A delegation of about twenty Salvation Army workers from the local post were present and assisted in the services. A collection for the work was taken at which time Miss Weir, of Yonkers, sang a pleasing vocal solo.

After the addresses a prayer meeting was conducted in the manner of the Salvation Army. Testimonies and prayers were offered by the different workers, and members of the audience also participated.

HELPED THE BUILDING FUND.

Clever Entertainment Given by Women of Church of the Redeemer.

A novel entertainment was given in the Park Club auditorium last Friday for the benefit of the building fund of the Church of the Redeemer.

The entertainment consisted of a series of tableaux advertising popular articles. The stage was prettily draped with curtains having a setting like a frame for the tableaux A pretty background was secured by palms.

The entertainment began at 8 o'clock with a selection, "Blow Ye Gentle Breezes," by a chorus of twelve young people. "Ivory Soap" was the title of the first tableau. The parts were taken by Miss Margaret Townsend and Morgan Townsend. "H. O." was represented by Miss Anna Edwards; "Gold Dust" by the Misses Kate and Mary Barlow, who posed with dishpans as mirrors.

Miss Kate Barlow sang a pleasing vocal solo entitled "Jack Frost;" Miss Edith Clapp represented "Ivory Soap" as a charming summer girl; "Kodak Cameras" were represented by a pretty tableau entitled "Look Pleasant," in which Miss Lucy Hepburn photographs her doll. "Packer's Tar Soap" was represented in an amusing fashion by Miss Barbara Townsend and Douglas Waring.

William Holmes sang a pleasant solo, to vary the programme, and a series of three military pictures were shown by ten cadets from Leal's High school. The pictures were "Picket Guard," "The Attack," and "Crowning the Victor." Miss Iola Moore in the pose of "Cleopatra," appeared in the next tableau. She held a tureen which was supposed to contain Armour's Extract of Beef. Miss Rita Pond gave a recitation in a pleasing manner, and the first portion of the entertainment closed with a representation of "Sapollo" by George F. Edwards, attired as a United States soldier.

A "Chorus to the Audience" opened the second part. The tableaux were Miss Alice Barlow as "Vogue;" Miss Minnie Wilson and Charles Matthews in a tableau advertising a cigarette; Mrs. Francis Phillips as a bicycle girl who rode the Liberty bicycle; Miss Helen Phillips, Charles Barlow and Morgan Townsend for the "Kombi Camera;" Miss Rita Pond, "Witch Cloth;" "Gondola Picture," by Miss Francis Phillips, Miss Edna Moore, Miss Dora Waring, Harvey Curtis and Morgan Townsend.

William Holmes sang a vocal solo and Miss Daisy Elsberg gave the "Gondola Song," both of which were well received. In the last tableau, the gondola picture, Harry Curtis played Schubert's serenade upon a mandolin.

Says Her Husband Deserted Her.

Mrs. Lena Mueller, of New Providence township, has petitioned the Court of Chancery for a divorce from her husband, Nicholas Mueller, on the ground of desertion. The petition has been filed and the citation issued. The couple were married at Milltown November 17th, 1893. January 23d, 1894, the petitioner alleges that she was deserted by her husband and compelled to support herself. Wm. Newcorn represents the petitioner.

ROYAL FAVOR THE PRIZE

SPECTACULAR ENTERTAINMENT BY BOROUGH SCHOLARS.

"Temple of Fame" Given by Gayly Costumed Performers Who Acquitted Themselves Favorably Before Audience.

Everything to delight and please the fancy was presented in the entertainment given by the teachers and scholars of the Borough Public School last Thursday. The object of the affair was to raise money to assist in the library work of the school.

Long before the entertainment commenced the hall was filled to overflowing with scholars, parents and friends of the school. The platform was enlarged for the occasion and pretty decorations were arranged around it.

The programme opened with a piano selection by Miss May Conroy, which was followed with a recitation by Miss Kathryn Dwight. Then a pretty hoop drill was given by a number of the younger scholars, followed with a burlesque drill by an equal number of boys, gally attired and each one carrying a high hat. The next number was a song entitled "The Spinner," which was given by Misses Dwight, Morse, Emmons, Smith, Noe and LaBoyteaux.

The concluded the first part, and following the "Temple of Fame" was presented in a highly creditable manner. The part of Queen was taken by Miss Dorothea Wells. Her maids were Miss Helen Phillips and Miss Susan Milne, while the pages were Lester Hallock and Edward Suffern. The idea was that the Queen was to crown one of many characters represented after she had exercised her good judgment. Each character presented made great effort to secure the royal favor. The pages introduced the characters which were exceedingly well represented throughout and caused great laughter.

The characters and those who represented them are as follows: "Sappho," Miss Grace Osgood; "Ben. Franklin," Wm. McCullough; "Barbara Frietchie," Miss Mabel Stevens; "Ruth," Evelyn Henderson; "Alex. Selkirk," Ben. Schuck; "Priscilla and John Alden," Miss Grace Powell and C. Bryan; "Diogenes," Howland Horne; "Maid Marian," Mabel Miller; "Miller lass and Maids," Miss Kathryn Dwight and children; "Sister of Charity," Miss Nellie Valiant; "Socrates and Xanthippe," Fred Bach and E. Hoagland; "Cleopatra," Miss Francis Phillips; "Joshiah and Samantha," J. Farlee and Miss Alice Emmons; "Columbus," Donald McGee; "Lief Erickson," Richard McCullough; "Jenny Lind," Miss Agnes LaBoyteaux; "Susan B. Anthony and her peers," Miss Ida Franch and children; "Robert Burns," H. George; "Pocohontas and Capt John Smith," Miss Elsie Brokaw and Thos. Armstrong; "Mrs. Stowe, Topsy and Mrs. Feely," Miss Lillian Osgood and Maud Emmons; "George Washington and Martha," Charles Dolliver and Miss Julia Williams; "Old Black Joe," Oscar Critz; "Santa Claus," Walter Emmons; "Mrs. Partington and Ike," Miss Margaret Hoagland and A. Clark; "Local Champion," Edward Bellis; "Mother Goose and children," Miss Elizabeth Curtis and children; "Joan of Arc," Miss Clara VanFleet; "Wm. Tell and son," Fred Williams and Edward Overton.

At this time the Queen made the presentation of the crown. After much persuasion on the part of some it was given to "Mother Goose and children."

One of the best characters was that of "Topsy," taken by Maud Emmons. All of the other characters were excellent and the costuming fine. Bert Simpson presided at the piano during the evening and his playing was a feature.

IT WAS ALL SMOKE.

Heat From a Chimney Made Cloth Saturated With Turpentine Smoke.

The borough firemen were called out at 9:30 Friday night by an alarm. The fire was at the home of Former Councilman Tell Beguelin on Fair view avenue. When the scene was reached Chief Bodine and the firemen made a search through the house which was filled with smoke. A large piece of cloth saturated with turpentine was found in the bottom of the closet on the second floor close to the chimney which passed through the house at that point. The heat from the chimney had made the cloth smoke fiercely. The firemen immediately threw the cloth out of a window and opened the windows to allow the smoke to pass out.

The house was not damaged and no water was used. The cloth was used to clean furniture and had carelessly been thrown in the closet.

Death From Consumption.

The death of Miss Katie E. Savord, aged 30 years, occurred Friday a. m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Curren, 609 Division street, after a long illness with consumption. About three weeks ago Miss Savord's brother died of the same disease. Death was rather unexpected, for Miss Savord's condition was not considered so very critical.

TALKED CONSOLIDATION.

FIRST MEETING OF JOINT COMMITTEE OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Senator Reed Advocates The Union as Part of Somerset County—Will Ascertain Necessary Steps for the Consolidation.

A direct step toward the formation of Greater Plainfield was taken last Thursday. The committee of citizens of the city and borough, as proposed by the new Board of Trade, held its first meeting.

The members of the joint committee were Former Mayor Alex. Gilbert, S. A. Ginns, J. A. Smith, Former Mayor W. L. Saunders, Rev. H. K. Carroll, Senator Charles A. Reed, Councilman L. B. Woolston and Frank W. Runyon. Former Mayor Gilbert was chosen chairman and Former Mayor Saunders secretary.

Senator Reed believed the only practicable way was to have Greater Plainfield in one county or the other, and he personally favored the transfer of Plainfield to Somerset county. His arguments in favor of having Greater Plainfield in Somerset county was that while at present neither Plainfield nor North Plainfield held a prominent position, if the consolidated city went to Somerset county it would be the largest in the county. He also explained that Union county, with its 90 000 people, could give up Plainfield Plainfield better than Somerset, with its 40,000, could give up the 6,000 in the borough. The advantage of the lower tax rate in Somerset county was also advanced. Other members of the committee spoke in favor of the consolidation in one county or another.

Senator Reed made a motion to the effect that the committee should express itself in favor of consolidation. Senator Runyon the only one to vote against the motion, explaining that he only favored consolidation if Plainfield should become a part of Somerset county.

Former Mayor Saunders presented the committee with a complete map of Plainfield and North Plainfield, a large map of the State and the proceedings of the Plainfield Consolidation Association that was recently formed in the borough.

It was decided to have a committee ascertain what change would be necessary to form a new city of Plainfield and North Plainfield without changing the county line. The committee was composed of Senator Reed, Rev. H. K. Carroll and Frank W. Runyon. The joint committee then adjourned to meet again at the call of the chair, when the sub-committee should be ready to report.

ENDEAVOR SOCIABLE.

Pleasant Gathering of Young People in Trinity Reformed Church Thursday.

A Christian Endeavor social of more than usual pleasure was held Thursday in the new lecture room of Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Endeavor Society of the church. The rooms were prettily decorated with the Endeavor colors, green and white, and in each room there was a parlor game which all were invited to play. The large number of people present joined heartily in the games, and especially enjoyable was the spider web game.

A programme of choice music was rendered during the evening. Piano solos by the Misses Krietling, Mrs. Jed Mills Smalley and Miss Edith Hulburt, were all thoroughly enjoyed, as was also the singing of George Rogers, Jr., accompanied on the piano by his father. The little fellow entertained the audience in a masterly manner.

Sociability formed an important part of the affair and everyone present enjoyed themselves. During the latter part of the evening refreshments, consisting of cocoa and cake, were served by the social committee in charge of the chairman, Mrs. H. J. Martin. Mr. Martin, president of the society, assisted materially in making the social a success.

Dinner for Dunellen Officials.

Last Friday the Watchung Water Company gave a course dinner to the Mayor and Council, of Dunellen, and Town Committeemen, of Piscataway township, at Taylor's Hotel. Covers were spread for forty people and every seat was taken. Manager Charles Debrine of the water company, sat at the head of the table and presided in an efficient manner. Speeches were made by Mayors Brakeley, of Dunellen, and Drake, of Lincoln; Lawyer Wertz, Lawyer Robert Clark, Lawyer W. R. Codington, of Plainfield; P. M. Ising, of Dunellen, and several others. The dinner was given in recognition of the granting of the franchise to the company to supply the borough with water.

New Lodge of Elks.

A preliminary meeting of the Elks was held Thursday evening. Owing to the rainy weather the attendance of the evening the attendance was not large. Those who attended paid their initiation and made arrangements for another meeting.

New Sidewalks Proposed.

A meeting of the street committee of the Common Council was held Thursday evening. The committee is preparing a list of crosswalks needed in different parts of the city, which will be submitted to the Council.

RYE CAUGHT FIREMEN

THE FIRE BURNED WHILE THEY HELPED THEMSELVES.

A Scandal in the Somerville Fire Department Because Former Senator Keyes' Forty-Year-Old Whiskey Was Liked.

Some good old rye whiskey, which was kept in a closet in the residence of former Senator William J. Keyes when it was burned several weeks ago, has brought a number of the Somerville firemen into disgrace.

Some of them went home in a wagon after the fire and this led to an investigation.

Former Senator Keyes, before the committee, said he did not care so much about the firemen taking his whiskey, but it was forty years old and very choice.

The committee finds in its report that the firemen in the proper discharge of their duties and in order to remove all valuables as far from danger as possible broke open a closet in the second story front, in which were kept at least five demijohns and several bottles of whiskey and also several decanters.

The Chief ordered the Captain of the Police to clear the room, whereupon the Captain went up and ordered the men out. All left the room except two. Several after this the Chief, with a dozen others, went to the room and helped themselves. A little later another fireman went up to this room.

The fire was still in progress and the streams were playing on the building, yet the witnesses were unable to get into the room, as it was packed full of men. All were drinking, including the Chief, and five demijohns were passed around. All the bottles of whiskey disappeared; likewise all the cut-glass decanters. All the demijohns were left empty or carried away.

The committee censures the Captain of Police and the Chief of the Fire Department for permitting such merriment during the fire, but say little about the men for drinking the forty-year-old whiskey.

TROLLEY BILL APPROVED.

FREEHOLDERS URGE ITS PASSAGE.

Frank Bergen's Plan for a County Trolley Considered Favorably by County Legislature.

The Union County Board of Freeholders Thursday afternoon, by a vote of 14 to 1, approved of Frank Bergen's trolley bill, which was introduced in the Assembly last Monday night.

Speeches in opposition to the bill were made by Freeholders Roll, of Springfield; Clark, of Westfield, and Robinson, of Fanwood; while Freeholders Farrell, of Rahway, and Miller, of Elizabeth, championed the measure. Mr. Bergen explained the bill in detail. When Mr. Bergen concluded his remarks Freeholders Roll and Clark withdrew their opposition to the bill, but Robinson stood firm. Two members of the Board were absent, but they are said to be in favor of it.

The Freeholders passed a resolution requesting the Union county representatives in the Legislature to do all in their power to secure the passage of the Bergen bill.

Mr. Bergen after the meeting expressed himself as being sanguine that the Boulevard trolley road and bicycle path, which he has projected between Elizabeth and Plainfield, would be constructed.

YOUNG MEN ENTERTAIN.

They Arrange a Novel Sociable at a Methodist Parsonage.

The young men of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church took their turn at entertaining last Friday. They gave a sociable at the parsonage on Central avenue and furnished a very pleasant evening for all despite the stormy night. The sociable was well attended.

During the first part of the evening the names of historical characters were pinned on the backs of the guests and they were asked to guess the names from the conversation of the rest. Then followed a violin solo by Clarence Mills, a reading by J. R. Joy and a piano solo by Frank MacDonald. The game of "Conversation" occupied the remainder of the evening. Refreshments were served by the young men during the evening.

The reception committee was composed of Clarence Mills, William Symons and Arthur Peck. The entertainment committee was Rhey T. Snodgrass, James A. Stafford, Robert Davis, Forrester Hartpence, Charles Sprague and Elmer Cutting. The refreshment committee was composed of Bert Steiner, Harlan Snodgrass, Harold Whitney, Alvah Davis and D. S. Dunavan.

To Return to New York.

L. R. VanBuren, of the firm of VanBuren Bros., of North avenue, who have sold their business to E. M. French & Co., will after March 1st return to business in New York. Previous to entering business in this city Mr. VanBuren was in the real estate and insurance business in New York for eight years.

Boomers for Plainfield.

An aggressive real estate firm have has been formed by the partnership of Leonard Spangenberg and Councilman Elmore D. Moffett.

SCRANTON EXPRESS HIT A TRUCK HARD.

Scattered Garden Truck and Wearing Apparel.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN A BAD WRECK.

An Express Truck Stalled on the Passenger Track in Front of the North Avenue Station Was Struck With Terrifying Effect—No Serious Damages or Injuries Resulted From the Accident.

The shrill shriek of an engine while sent a feeling of terror to the hearts of many people who were at the North Avenue station February 16th about 5:30 p. m. Those who were quick to learn the cause shut their eyes with the expectation that the lives of a score of more of people would be killed in a frightful manner.

The local train to New York due in this city at 4:54 was standing on the fourth east-bound track. While people were getting on and off the train, the employes of the U. S. Express Company had a load of vegetables, butter, trunks, etc., on a truck, which they wheeled across the tracks to the baggage car of the train for the purpose of transferring it to the car for New York. In some way the wheels of the truck slipped off the platform and were standing close to the main east-bound track.

The employes and the passengers were unconscious of the approaching Scranton express, which passes through this city at 5:15 going east. The express was late and was making up lost time. When the train reached the Park avenue bridge the engineer blew his whistle shrilly several times and everyone felt at once that danger threatened. The brakemen of the local succeeded in getting the passengers out of the way of danger just as the train flew past.

The express employes were not so fortunate in getting their consignments out of the way, although they escaped themselves. The result was that the truck and the contents thereon was quickly and completely demolished. Butter in firkins was seen flying in all directions, while bunches of radishes were scattered for several hundred feet on both sides of the track. A trunk, in which were the clothes of a servant girl recently employed by Charles Hyde, of East Front street, received rough treatment. The cow-catcher of the locomotive was gaily decorated with dresses and laces, while articles of other kinds were left at other places along the tracks. Other goods of more or less value were given a lively shaking up.

In the meantime the engineer of the express had applied the emergency brakes and when the train passed by the station the wheels were sliding over the rails. The train reached Church street before it came to a standstill By this time the people had recovered from the excitement and the work of picking up the goods commenced. Down the tracks at a considerable distance a quantity of specially prepared milk for M. S. Ackerman, of this city was found. It had been ordered by Mr. Ackerman for his children, who are ill with scarlet fever. The vegetables were shipped by William Mackey, of South Plainfield, who keeps a farm, but they were eaten last evening by Plainfield people instead of supplying the New York market. "Tommy" Martin made an effort to capture the butter, and he succeeded admirably.

So far as the blame is concerned it seems that there must have been a misunderstanding. It would appear that when the engineer of the express saw what was ahead of him he should have stopped his train and, not endangered the lives of many people who were boarding and leaving the local train. On the other hand, some people believe that the local should have waited beyond the station for the express to pass. As yet the blame has not been fixed by the express company or the railroad.

A VITIATED INSURANCE.

Henry Ostermoor's Health Not Good When Insurance Was Written.

The trial before Justice Beach in the Supreme Court of an action brought by Edwin A. Ames against the Manhattan Life Insurance Company to recover $10,000 on a policy issued Dec. 9th, 1895, on the life of Henry A. Ostermoor, of Netherwood, who died Dec. 24th, 1895, resulted Thursday in a verdict for the defendant. In Ostermoor's application, dated Nov. 15th, 1895, he warranted his health at that time as good, and also the fact that he had not consulted any physician since the previous January. He further agreed that the policy should take effect only in case of his good health at the time of its delivery, which was Dec. 9th, 1895. The evidence showed that Mr. Ostermoor had consulted physicians since January, 1895, which fact he suppressed, was under treatment before and at the time of his application, was suffering with serious and fatal diseases which caused his death, and that he received the policy while on his deathbed. George W. Miller was for the plaintiff, and Edward S. Rapallo and L. C. Lewis for the defendant.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force, Editor and Proprietor

THE WAR TALK.

We can have no patience with those persons who are clamoring for war and bloodshed irrespective of whether or not the catastrophe that befell the battleship Maine was due to accident or design. Just now the country is full of men who go about with a braggadocio air proclaiming their thirst for war, seemingly totally ignorant and unconscious of the complications, horrors and sufferings that would ensue from such a recourse, and it is to the everlasting credit of the administration at Washington that action resulting from the loss of the Maine and the most of its crew is tempered with conservatism and reason. Any other policy could have already precipitated the country into strife and conflict with another nation for which, when the true condition of affairs becomes known, there might not have been the slightest pretext or cause. It is time enough to declare war when it is known that the tragedy of the Havana harbor, in which the people of the United States are the actual and chief mourners, is the result of the machinations of the nation against whom all this outcry is directed. The sympathies of this country are beyond a doubt firmly associated with Cuba in its struggle for independence from Spain, but a deep-seated antipathy against the latter country should not be carried into a resolve to direct our naval and military power against it until, at least, the suspicion of treachery has been confirmed. The true patriot is the one who loves the peace and goodwill of his mother country with all the rest of the world—not the peace that comes at any cost, but the harmony that is molded in justice and understanding.

A TICKLISH SUBJECT.

The abolition of railroad grade cross*ings throughout the State is a matter* which ought not be tinged with politics, as it is a measure designed for the preservation of life and the good welfare of every community. Yet it seems a ticklish subject for legislators to express decided opinions about, as is seen in the experience of the Summit Record's endeavor to secure from the Union county Assemblymen an understanding of their position towards the measure. Editor Lane wrote a letter to all of the Union county representatives, stating that inasmuch as both the Democratic and Republican county conventions had declared in favor of the enactment of such a law as is proposed by the Johnson Bill, he would be pleased to hear if the Assemblymen favored the bill in its present form; and if not, then what amendments they would suggest. Assemblyman Murray, of Plainfield, was the only one to answer the letter, but his letter did not disclose his sentiments. Mr. Murray's letter was as follows.

Plainfield, February 19th, 1898.

Hon. Thos. F. Lane, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I trust you will pardon my delay in answering your letter of the 14th.

Regarding Senator Johnson's Bill I would say I have only read parts of the bill; however, I will try and get over the entire bill and let you know what I think of it.

I have adopted the plan of only reading such Senate bills as are passed over to the House. Yours truly,

R. F. Murray.

The other members of the Union county delegation are George A Squire and Robert G. Houston, both of Elizabeth.

COLLATERAL-INHERITANCE TAX.

Considerably more than half a million dollars has thus far been netted to this State from the collateral-inheritance tax established in 1892, and the receipts are likely to continue at the rate of more than $100,000 a year. The law under which this large sum has been turned into the State treasury provides that when a person dies leaving an estate worth more than $500, 5 per cent. of its appraised value shall be paid over to the State, except where the property goes to any of the following relatives: Father, mother, husband, wife, son, daughter, brother, sister, or lineal descendant, or to the wife or widow of a son or the husband of a daughter. Property left to religious, charitable or benevolent institutions is also exempt from the tax. Since the passage of the law, $181,548 50, or nearly one-third of the receipts, has been paid by seventeen estates. The largest tax paid by any one estate is that of Warren Ackerman, amounting to $12,044 20. The estate of the late George H. Babcock paid $6,507.50.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

MAYOR WILSON'S MESSAGE.

In his first annual message submitted to the Borough Council, Mayor Wilson shows that he is a close student of the various details of local government. Important improvements have been consummated across the brook during the past twel e months, and their relation to the welfare and progress of the community are dwelt upon in the proper spirit by His Honor. In contravention to the usual Mayoralty message, Mr. Wilson does not indulge in elaborate suggestions for the future but confines himself to concise and terse observations as to the work of the past. He believes, no doubt, that the future prevails with the same proper conception of the duties of public office as the past year's record shows, it is enough to be expected.

MAYOR WILSON'S GOOD ADVICE.

Mayor Wilson's record, as the chief executive of the borough government, is not one that smacks of partisanship in any sense, and when he issues a proclamation such as is published in the news columns of today's paper, it is inspired wholly by a desire to bring profit to the community in acquiring officers who will perform their duties conscientiously Mayor Wilson is particularly alive to the necessity of having good co-workers in public office, and his admonition to voters to exercise their right of suffrage in the primaries with the best interests of the borough at heart ought to be heeded.

ONLY GOT 4 OUT OF 400.

COLLECTOR SPENCER THINKS HE HASN'T BEEN TREATED RIGHT.

He Asked for a Copy of the Report Making Charges but Says He Received a Very Condensed "Evitative" Statement

Friday evening last the committee of the Borough Council made a "partial report" concerning "the report of the expert accountants" upon my books as collector, which committee's report was published in ful in your Saturday night's issue.

This report, like the original report of the accountants, was made to Council without my having been heard by the committee in my own behalf, or without my knowledge that such a partial report, or any report whatever, was to be made to Council I understand the committee has had one or more private sessions, but I was not invited to it or them, and the committee has neither shown to me, nor given to me a full copy of the accountants' report.

The committee say: "In response to the request of the collector for a copy of the report of the experts he was promptly furnished with a duplicate of his accounts as shown in the experts' statement."

On the contrary I have only received a four page "tentative statement" (as the Mayor, who certifies to it, terms it) of what is said to be due from me to the borough. Just four pages out of 400. And these four pages give me no clue to what particular items of disbursements heretofore made by me are disallowed, nor what other items of my accounts, pro and con, are to be disputed.

Until I am furnished with a full and complete copy of the accountants' report, just as I requested it, it is impossible for me to set about my vindication, as collector, either to Council or the public.

I am sure your readers and all in*terested will agree with me that I am* entitled to a complete knowledge of the details of the report which charges me with derelictions of duty, and then a fair opportunity to be heard, before any more "partial" or other reports upon my case are made or published.

That there may be during my twelve years of bookkeeping as collector for the borough and township some clerical errors in figures, I would not claim to dispute, since no collector or bookkeeper is infallible. If there are such, however, the Borough Council know I shall only be too happy to correct them as soon as I have their existence regularly pointed out.

Heretofore the public has been asked by me to suspend judgment on all points until I have been fully heard, and this seems to me still to be a reasonable request, which not only my friends, but my enemies, if I have such, should, in common fairness, observe.

North Plainfield, Feb. 21, 1898

H. N. Spencer.

Mission Band's Cake Sale

The Young Ladies Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church held its monthly cake sale at the home of Mrs. Oscar W. Dunham, 325 East Fifth street, Saturday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock. The storm did not interfere with the success of the sale, as the entire stock was disposed of. The committee in charge of the sale was Miss Emma Gilen and Miss Jennie Quick. The neat sum which was realized from the sale will be appropriated to help in furnishing the parlors of Trinity church.

—A trolley wire broke last Monday evening on West Fourth street, near Grant avenue, and the cars were delayed for over a half hour.

VESTRYMAN'S PEEP CAUGHT SEXTON PILFERING.

AN EXCITING EVENT THAT WAS NOT DOWN ON THE CALENDAR OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

Vestryman Clay Hid Himself in a Closet and Through a Crack of the Door Saw Assistant Sexton Fisher Take a Handful of Collection Money.

There happened in the vestry room of Grace P. E church Sunday morning something that was not in the regular course of events. The result of this unexpected happening has been the summary discharge of Wm. Fisher, the colored assistant sexton of the church. The vestrymen have tried to maintain the utmost secrecy in the matter, but the facts have leaked out somehow.

For some time there has been a suspicion that someone was tampering with the collection money. There has been an unexpected shortage in the amount that could not be accounted for by the vestrymen At last the suspicion fell on William Fisher, who assists in looking after the church, taking care of the fires and doing such odd jobs about the church property as are necessary. Fisher is a special officer and ranks as one of the leaders of the colored Republican voters. He has taken an active part in all the recent elections.

Sunday the vestrymen planned to discover, if possible, the author of the depredations on the collection plates and their contents. Now it is the usual custom for Arthur A. Freeman to bring the collection plates into the vestry room after the collection and leave them on the table there until after the service when the treasurer collects the money and takes it home with him. It was between the time that Freman left the plates in the vestry room and when the treasurer took possession that the light-handed thief was at work.

So it was that George S. Clay, of LaGrande avenue, one of the vestrymen of the church, was not in the congregation when the collection was being taken Instead he was in hiding in a closet that opens out of the vestry room. He looked the side r om that leads out doors to prevent the escape of his prisoner.

There is a passage from the vestry room that leads to the cellar stairs, and through this way the "wanted" man was expected to get entrance Mr. Clay was cramped up in the closet with his eye to the crack of the door, keeping a vigilant watch.

As usual Freeman brought the collection plates and left them on the table in the room. Then Clay watched. He heard a stealthy step on the cellar stairs, then along the passageway. At last the dusky visage of the assistant sexton appeared around the corner. He did not see the eye of the vestryman peeping out of the closet.

Now Vestryman Clay alleges that Fisher deliberately walked up to the table and helped himself to the contents of the collection plates. With a bang the door of the closet flew open and Clay sprang at the colored man. Clay says that Fisher threw down the money and made a break for the side door. Finding the door locked Fisher turned and made a dash down the passage for the cellar stairs. Clay followed They descended the stairs four at a time and the colored sexton made a desperate rush for the doorway that leads to the open air.

Now it happened that Vestryman George M. Randall was in the conspiracy and was waiting about the front of the church for something to happen. Thinking that it was almost time that the capture had been made if it was to be made at all, he strolled around to the side door opening into the vestry room He found it locked. Then he went to the entrance to the cellar.

As Randall reached the stairway leading to the cellar and started to descend, Fisher came flying along and darted up the stairs. He landed squarely in the arms of the astonished vestryman.

Randall held on and in a moment Clay was at his side. Together, after a hard struggle, they forced their prisoner down cellar. Fisher made desperate efforts to escape but without avail. Twice he slipped out of his coat and made for the entrance only to be stopped after the fashion of a football tackle by one of the vestrymen. Then he was led upstairs to the vestry room and the vestrymen held a council of war, the service being over.

The result of that conference has not been made public. It is understood that in some manner the vestrymen learned that Fisher had made several former raids. On one occasion the collection was diminished to the amount of $3, the next time to the amount of $7 53 Fisher has been discharged from his position but the vestrymen would not state whether they intended to push the matter any further and have him arrested.

TRINITY'S DEDICATION.

SPECIAL SERVICES ARRANGED FOR THE CHURCH EVENT.

The Exercises to be Continued for Four Days—Principal Services to be Held Next Sunday—Full Programme of the Services.

The following is the programme of exercises arranged for the dedication of the remodeled edifice of Trinity Reformed church:

Sunday, February 27th, 1898.

10:30 a. m.—Dedicatory services. Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., president of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., formerly pastor of the church, will preach the sermon

7:30 p. m.—Special service. Rev. Dr. Raymond will preach at this service also.

Monday, February 28th.

8:00 p. m.—Rev. Cortelius Brett, D. D., president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, will deliver the addr..ss.

Tuesday, March 1st.

8:00 p. m.—Rev. Wm. Justus Harsha, D. D. pastor of the Harlem Collegiate Reformed church, New York, will deliver the address.

Wednesday, March 2d.

8:00 p. m.—Rev. Wm. F. Hager, D. D., of New Brunswick, will deliver the address.

Thursday, March 3d. Fellowship Service.

8:00 p. m.—Three-minute addresses by the pastors of the churches of Plainfield and North Plainfield, followed by a reception by the pastor and consistory of the church to the pastors, officers and congregations of the churches of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

To all of these services a most cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

To give you an opportunity of testing the great merit of Ely's Cream Balm, the most reliable cure for catarrh and cold in the head, a generous 10 cent trial size can be had of your druggist or we mail it for 10 cents. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City. It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

To Visit the Soldiers' Home.

The members of the Woman's Relief Corps, of this city, will make a visit to the Soldiers' Home at Kearney, Wednesday, March 9th. A large number of the members will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the home.

Will Talk on Good Roads.

David Bowden, of Grant avenue, has received an invitation to attend a banquet to be given by the city officials of Springfield, Mass., Thursday evening. He will speak on "Good Roads."

DEAD IN HIS YOUTH.

William K VanDeventer, a Popular Young Fellow, Buried Sunday.

At the very commencement of his carreer in manhood, William K. VanDeventer passed away last week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William VanDeventer, of 336 East Fifth street. The eighteen years of his life were spent in this city where he was born. He was known by many and was popular with all his friends.

Saturday afternoon the funeral services were held from his late home. They were largely attended. Popular, kind-hearted as he was during the part of his life when his health permitted him to mingle with his friends, it was during the long days of his illness that he gave himself to Christ. Miss Mabel Wilson, who had been his teacher at the Sunday school of the Trinity Reformed church, was a frequent visitor at his home during his illness. Through her ministrations and those of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, his pastor, he took the important step.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Schenck. He dwelt on the comfort of accepting Christ as a Saviour and told of the peace and happiness that the departed one had found in his choice. The floral tributes told of the regard in which he was held by those who knew him A wreath of flowers was sent by the Christian Endeavor Society, of which he was a member. There was also an offering from the members of his Sunday school class. His former employers of the C. & C. Electric Company, of Garwood, sent a handsome floral piece, while another came from his fellow workmen there.

At his special request, four of his young friends, Henry W. Brower, Herbert F. Martin, Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr., and Alvah Davis bore the casket to its final resting place. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

Rev. Goodrich's Father Dead.

Rev. Lewis Goodrich, father of Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church of this city, and Rev. Lincoln B. Goodrich, formerly of this city, and now of Marlboro, Mass., died at the home of his son in Marlboro last week. The funeral was held from his late home at Manchester, N. H., where the remains were interred. Rev. C. L. Goodrich returned to this city Saturday, after attending the funeral.

John Mair, of Duer street, is very ill at his home with typhoid pneumonia.

A Common Cold

and common carelessness can make a combination strong enough to defy all the healing skill of the physician. Common carelessness lets the cold root and grow. Common carelessness says, between paroxysms of coughing, "It will be all right in a day or two," and the common end is confirmed lung trouble, perhaps consumption. The common-sense treatment of a common cold is a prompt dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most efficient and reliable cure for colds and coughs, and is constantly prescribed by physicians.

S. Haynes, M. D., Saranac, N. Y., says:—

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my practice since 1853, and have always found it reliable for the cure of colds, coughs, and all lung diseases."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

is now put up in half-size bottles, for half price—50 cents.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrat*ing his discovery of a reliable cure for* Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving postoffice and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

ARRESTED FOR STEALING A WHEEL.

Wilsey Admitted Hiring a Bicycle from Gould Under an Assumed Name.

Halsey Wilsey was arrested in Brooklyn and brought to this city Saturday on the charge of stealing a wheel from George Gould, the Park avenue bicycle dealer. He came up for a hearing Saturday afternoon before Justice Newkirk.

He admitted hiring a wheel from Gould last May under the name of Swain and not returning it. The wheel was an Empire bicycle. Wilsey was committed to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

Married at St. Joseph.

The marriage of Miss Catherine D. Burke and Charles G. DeCamp was performed by Rev. W. H. Miller, at St. Joseph's church, last Thursday evening. Dennis Burke was best man and Miss B. Ryan bridemaid,

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:45, 11:30 a. m., 2:30, 4, 5:30, m. Close—7:00, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Arrive—8:30 a. m., 2 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:45, 11:30 a. m., 2 and 5:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:30 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 4:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—2:30 a. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.

Office open from 9:00 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 4:15 p. m.

J. M. HETFIELD, P. M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty Street, North River.

Ferry and Whitehall Streets, South Ferry.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT FEB. 20th, 1898.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 34, 8 01, 8 36, 9 06, 10 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 36, 2 06, 3 36, 4 06, 5 06, 6 06, 7 36, 8 06, 9 36, 11 06 p. m., 12 01 night. Sundays, 5 34, 8 01, 8 36, 9 06, 10 00 a. m., 12 02, 1 36, 2 06, 3 36, 4 06, 5 06, 6 06, 7 36, 8 06, 9 36, 11 06 p. m., 12 01 night.

Leave New York from Liberty St., 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night.

Leave New York from North River, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night.

Leave Plainfield for Somerville, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night. Sundays, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 m., 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 10, 11 30 p. m., 12 30 night.

Sundays—All trains stop at Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville and Bridgewater.

Sat. at 10 55, 5 56, 6 56, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 01 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield at 5 37, 6 56, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night. Sundays, 5 37, 6 56, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night.

Leave Newark at 6 36, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night. Sundays, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night.

Sundays—All trains stop at Elizabeth, Roselle Park, Roselle, Cranford and Westfield.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5 37, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night. Sundays 8 00, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night.

Leave Somerville at 6 00, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 a. m., 12 06 m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night. Sunday at 9 36, 9 46, 10 36 a. m., 12 36, 1 06, 1 36, 2 06, 2 36, 3 06, 3 36, 4 06, 4 36, 5 06, 5 36, 6 06, 6 36, 7 06, 7 36, 8 06, 8 36, 9 06, 9 36, 10 06, 10 36, 11 06, 11 36 p. m., 12 06 night.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 5 15, 8 01, 9 54 a. m., 2 21, 4 25, 6 46 p. m. Sunday at 5 15 a. m., 4 00 p. m.; 2 52 6 56 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 45, 7 05, 9 25 a. m., 12 30, 4 05, 7 15 p. m. Sunday at 7 15, 12 30 m., 4 05 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 54 a. m., 12 05, 6 56 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 15 a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Williamsport and Sunbury.

7 14 a. m.—For stations on Belvidere Division, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazleton, Mauch Chunk, Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton and Manch Chunk.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, Lambertville, Bridgeton, Millville, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport and Harrisburg.

2 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport and Scranton with buffet parlor car.

4 25 p. m.—For Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D., L. & W. R. R.

7 11 p. m.—For Easton.

5 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Sunbury, Williamsport and Scranton with buffet parlor car.

6 56 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on the Bridge Branch.

8 00 p. m.—For Flemington.

8 36 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Williamsport and Sunbury Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

9 21 p. m.—For Easton.

10 36 p. m.—For Flemington, For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 06 a. m. Sundays for Easton.

8 36 a. m. Sundays—For Flemington Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Williamsport and Sunbury.

4 06 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

8 36 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Tamaqua, etc., and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield at 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 2 21, 4 25, 5 56 p. m. Sundays, 8 36 a. m., 4 25 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 8 36 a. m., 2 30 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 2 21, 4 25, 5 56 p. m. Sundays, 8 36 a. m., 4 25 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 8 36 a. m., 12 p. m.

For Freehold, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 4 25 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 4 25 p. m. Sundays 8 36 a. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 8 15, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 2 21, 4 25, 5 56, 7 06, 10 36 p. m. Sundays, 8 15, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 4 25, 5 56, 7 06, 10 36 p. m.

For Trenton, 8 15, 7 06, 9 54, 7 06, 10 36 p. m. Sundays, 8 15, 8 36, 10 36 a. m., 4 25, 5 56, 7 06, 10 36 p. m.

For Bristol, 8 15, 9 54, 5 56 a. m., 12 m., 4 25, 7 06 p. m. Sundays, 8 15, 10 36 a. m., 7 06 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 12 01, 2 00, 3 40, 7 20, 9 30 p. m. Sundays, 12 01 night.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week-days at 9 54 a. m. 1 02 p. m. Sundays, 9 54 a. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked thus carry all Round Trip tickets.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. R. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect February 20, 1898.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 26 a. m. and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sunday for Bound Brook.

8 09 a. m. daily for Easton local.

8 19 a. m. daily for Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 54 a. m., 2 34, 6 26 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday for Bound Brook.

12 39 p. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 56 p. m. daily except Sunday. "The Diamond Express" for Southern and Western points. Buffalo, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

4 06 p. m. daily local for Wilkesbarre.

4 38 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

5 30 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 5 26 p. m. Local for Mauch Chunk.

7 26 and 10 26 p. m. daily. Solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 06 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Manchester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Jamestown Bridge. This train leaves station New York to Mauch Chunk inclusive, except Sunday; stations west of Mauch Chunk, except Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and intermediate points 4 26, 7 45, and 9 40 a. m., 2 20, 4 45 and 7 50 p. m. Sunday 7 45, 11 07 a. m., 2 50 and 7 50 p. m. Express for Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 26, 9 50, 10 02 a. m., 12 17, 3 50 and 6 26 p. m. Sunday 7 26 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 26, 10 02, a. m., 12 16, 3 50 and 6 26, and 9 20 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 10 and 11 06 a. m., 3 50 and 7 07 p. m.

For further information call on or address Peter Grant, Superintendent, Allentown, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. SONNEMACHER,
Asst General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Food makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

GETTING INTO SOCIETY.

REV. C.H.P. HERRING'S SERMON TO THE YOUNG WOMEN.

Young Women Should be Cultivated and Have Higher Views, and Should Do Something Besides Shine in Society.

Despite the severe storm last Sunday the First Presbyterian church had a good sized audience, when the pastor, Rev. C. H. Herring, delivered his second sermon in the series to young women. The subject was "Getting into Society." In part he spoke as follows:

"Getting into society is a very common expression, and it seems to be the chief aim of some people to ascend to a little higher plane than that of the neighbor. Society is indispensable if it is the right kind, but we make a mistake if we think that it is only for wealth or pedigree.

"Culture, it is said, is a cure for gossip. Conversation should be profitable. Sometime women get together and what miserable stuff they talk about. Young women should talk about lofty things. They should have a teachable spirit. They should not waste all their time thinking or talking about millinery.

"It has been said that woman wou'd lose half her charm if she should fail to clean golly. She has the power to make her soul shine out through her face. The rose is nothing more than condensed sunlight.

"A young woman should be cultured and broad in her views. She should aim to help others and not be selfish. Young women in Plainfield have something else to do besides getting in society. They have a grand mission to perform. It is to be useful in the moral field of battle. I don't believe that Plainfield is wholly consecrated to the Lord, and it should be the aim of those who are saved to help in the Master's Vineyard to save others."

DEATH OF MRS. HEATH.

She Was a Resident of Plainfield on Watchung Avenue Prior to 1868.

Mrs. Sarah Heath, widow of the late Robert Heath, of 384 Pennsylvania avenue, Newark, died last Friday at her home. She was 78 years of age, and was very feeble. She was an aunt of Mrs Robert Clark Jr., of Washingtonville. The deceased was a resident of Plainfield prior to 1868 and lived in the house on Watchung avenue back of J. Fred MacDonald's bakery.

The funeral services were held at the late residence in Newark last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Monday morning the interment was made in the Presbyterian cemetery, North Plainfield. Rev. Dr. Allen, pastor of the New York Avenue Reformed church, Newark, conducted the services.

One son and two daughters survive Mrs. Heath. The son, Chas. Heath, is the editor of the German paper in Newark. Mrs. Anna Chase, one daughter, is a resident of Fall River, Mass., and the other daughter, Miss Belle Heath, resided with her mother in Newark.

Improving West Second Street.

The Jersey Central Railroad is making a decided improvement to its embankment along West Second street. The street is being widened to its original width and a cement masonry wall built along the side of the embankment. The best of the gravel is being carted away by the city carts and dumped in the mud holes of West Second street, west of Central avenue.

Case of Scarlet Fever.

Miss Cora Belle Gibson, the young daughter of Rev. Philip S. Gibson, is ill with scarlet fever. The house on West Third street has been quarantined by the health authorities.

"Catarrh

was my great affliction for a number of years. Doctors did not help me. By a friend's advice I began using your medicines, and was perfectly cured after taking three bottles of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

J. MURPHY, 173 Mulberry St., Newark, N.J.

MAN HONORED AND HAPPY ONCE; NOW A SUICIDE.

LEONARD F. WELLES DELIBERATELY ENDED HIS LIFE IN AN ISOLATED SPOT.

Henry Farlee, Looking to Secure the $250 Reward, Discovered the Dead Body of the Missing Man in Hyde's Woods at Dusk Sunday Evening.

Lying in a small depression of ground a few feet from the little brook that winds its way through Hyde's woods, the frozen remains of a distinguished and once influential man was found just at dusk last Sunday—the victim of suicidal mania, developing from disappointment in failing to secure political preferment.

The body was that of former Police Commissioner Leonard R. Welles, of Brooklyn, who wandered away from the sanitarium of Dr. J. H. Cooley on Westervelt avenue, last Wednesday afternoon. Until the news of the grewsome find was announced, the absence of Mr. Welles could not be accounted for any more than if he had been suddenly swallowed up by the earth.

Induced by the chance of gathering in the reward of $250 offered by the relatives of Mr. Welles for information leading to the discovery of the missing man, dead or alive, Henry Farlee, a drayman, of Manning avenue, started out Sunday afternoon to see if he could secure a clew that might be followed out to success. Farlee knows the outlying territory of North Plainfield like a book, and the thought was immediately suggested to him that in the isolated patch of trees known as Hyde's woods some evidence of the missing man might be gained which would result in the reward falling into his hands.

Towards that point Farlee directed his footsteps, meantime keeping his eyes open and alert, but without result till he wandered along the bank of the little brook He was just thinking about giving up the hunt as a fruitless one, when his eyes fell upon an object on the ground. He started, halted and looked again. Sure enough it was the body of a man, and presumably that of the missing Welles.

Farlee hurried back to Dr. Cooley's sanitarium, on Westervelt avenue, and notified the latter. The doctor returned to the spot where the body had been seen, piloted by Farlee. Arriving at the scene the doctor discovered a condition of things that plainly told of Welles' deliberate intention to commit suicide.

It was evident that Welles had selected the spot for his deed because it was an isolated one. He threw himself on the ground and with some sharp instrument—presumably a razor—he cut a great slit in his throat. Then he coolly pulled the bottom of the long ulster and covered his death—as if conscious that though his life was ended by his own hand there was yet due to the solemnity of death a feeble effort, at the least, to hide its ghastly work from the heavens.

The night that Welles wandered off, and probably when he committed suicide, was extremely blustering and cold. That he ended his life soon after leaving the sanitarium was shown in the fact that his body had been frozen stiff. Because of this latter condition it had been preserved remarkably well.

It was a sight to elicit the pity of those who hastened to the spot to see the body of this man, once a power in a great city and supplied with all the comforts of the world in a material sense, lying dead in the depression of the ground with a few inches of water that had gathered from the rains of the past three days.

The remains were transferred to Runyon's undertaking establishment, Park avenue, until Monday, at Somerset coroner gi ving the necessary permission as it appeared to be a clear case of suicide.

Saturday, Frederick Welles, a son of the dead man, came to Plainfield with a number of Pinkerton detectives to conduct a thorough search. Incidentally the reward of $250 was offered, and it was this offer that attracted the attention and endeavors of Farlee, who has earned it.

Dr. Wagoner, the county physician of Somerset county, came to Plainfield Monday and viewed the remains at the undertaking establishment of Runyon & Son on Park avenue. He did not deem that it was necessary to impanel a jury and hold an inquest, as it was perfectly clear in his mind that Mr. Welles had taken his own life. He made out a permit for burial and some time Monday the body was taken to the home of the deceased in Brooklyn.

Early Monday morning some of the Pinkerton detectives who have been working on the case, went to the place where Welles was found. They discovered a razor bearing the name of Welles. It was covered with blood and was lying close to the place where the body was discovered. In the opinion of Dr. Wagoner, Welles took his life with his right hand. The razor was taken to New York by the detectives, but it will be brought back to Plainfield at the request of Chief Marshal Wilson, of the borough, and Dr. Wagoner, who did not consider that the detectives had any right to take the instrument until after it had been examined.

ALLEGED THIEF COMMITS SUICIDE.

Charles Boughtes, a Former Plainfielder, Couldn't Face the Charges.

The following news dispatch was sent out from Gloversville, N. Y., last Saturday:

Gloversville, N. Y., Feb. 29th.—Charles W. Boughton, of this city, who was arrested in New York, last Tuesday, charged with embezzling from Littauer Bros.' store in Gloversville, where he had been a trusted bookkeeper for many years, committed suicide in jail at Johnstown today. The Grand Jury yesterday found five indictments against him, charging grand larceny and forgery.

Boughton will be remembered as a former resident of Plainfield. In the seventies he conducted a furniture store on East Front street, and about twenty years ago was bookkeeper in The Constitutionalist office. Those who remembered him then as one against whom no suspicion of dishonesty was held, will be surprised to hear of his ignoble end.

PAST FOUR SCORE YEARS.

Aaron Allen Passes Away After 82 Years of Life.

Another old and respected citizen of the borough passed away last Monday. It was Aaron Allen, of Mountain avenue and Somerset street, and the cause was paralysis. Mr. Allen was about eighty-two years of age. He was born at Washingtonville and during the largest part of his life lived at that place, where he conducted a prosperous farm. Not long ago he erected a handsome house on Somerset street at the head of Mountain avenue, and had not lived in the house very long. His illness was of short duration. He leaves a wife and one daughter. The latter is Mrs. Harrison Coddington, of the borough.

Three Baptized.

The revival meetings are increasing in interest at the Dicipies church, Grove street. Three persons were baptized Monday. J. B. Cleaver and T. D. Tully will assist the pastor, H. W. McKane in the meetings this week You are invited to come.

A Quiet Marriage.

Miss Sarah C. VanFleet, of Elizabeth, and Winfield E. Seals, of Whitehouse, were united in marriage at the residence of Nathaniel Conklin, on East Second street, Tuesday by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

"FREDDIE" JONES DEAD.

The Popular Baseball Player Has Been Dead for Over a Month.

In the heyday of baseball in Plainfield, when every man, woman and child was a crank on the sport, "Fred die" Jones was one of the most popular players on the famous Crescents It will bring sadness, then, to reminis cent minds to hear that 'Freddie" is no more—is dead.

A few days ago B. A. Mumford, manager of the present baseball team wrote a letter to "Freddie's" Broonly home to see if he could not get him to become a member of Plainfield's team next year.

What was his surprise and sorrow Monday a. m. to receive a mourning envelope containing a brief epistle from Miss J. S. Jones, "Freddie's" sister, who wrote that her brother died January 18th, 1896, after an illness of about a month.

An Old Resident Died.

Hugh Shotwell, of Hempstead, L. I., who resided in this city for many years, died at his home Saturday. He was an uncle to J. T. Vail, of La Grande avenue.

Rite of Confirmation.

The Bishop of the Diocese of the Episcopal church will administer the Rite of Confirmation on St. Mark's Day, April 25th, at 8 o'clock in the evening at Grace P. E. church.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Morely, of West Second street, is detained at home by illness.

A young son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coffee, of West Third street.

Mrs. E. E. Marshall, of Fairview avenue, is slowly recovering from her illness.

Charles Whitall, of East Second street, is confined to his home with illness.

A bright baby son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Western, of Fairview avenue.

Israel C. Pierson, of Watchung avenue, was one of the guests at the dinner given by the United Alumni of the University of New York at the Hotel Savoy last Friday night.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President,
GEO. W. ROCKFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

SEEDS ... FOR THE ... Garden and Farm

Vegetable and Flower Seeds. All the newest and best varieties—qualities the surpassed. Illustrated Catalogue FREE.

WEEBER & DON, Seed Importers, 114 Chambers St., New York City.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately subsisting between JOSEPH A. BRATZ and MICHAEL C. MUNDY, of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of BRATZ & MUNDY, was dissolved on the 1st day of February, 1896, by mutual consent.

Dated February 1st, 1896.

JOSEPH A. BRATZ.
MICHAEL C. MUNDY.

924

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALLMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

2 and 4 WEST 18TH STREET, NEW YORK.

DIED.

MILLER—Mrs Esther Kemster Miller, died at her home, 329 Lafayette avenue, Nether-wood, N. J., on Wednesday, in her 82nd year. aged 81 years.

VANDEVENTER—In this city, February 25, 1896, William K., son of William and Margaret VanDeventer, aged 19 years.

SAYORD In this city, Feb. 28, 1896, Cathe ine M. Sayord, aged 28 years, 9 months and 22 days.

HAND—At Scotch Plains, Feb. 29 h, 1896, John Hand, at son Mr. Adelaide Edwards, Nether-wood, N. J., on Feb. 28, 1896, by Rev. C. reption Edwards, D. D., Winfield E. weds of White-house, N. J., and Sarah C. VanFleet, of Elizabeth, N. J.

MARRIED.

SEALS—VANFLEET—At the residence of Nathaniel Conklin, No. 19 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 26, 1896, by Rev. C. reption Schenck, Ph. D., Winfield E. weds of White-house, N. J., and Sarah C. VanFleet, of Elizabeth, N. J.

THE GREAT JOKE OF PARIS.

The Perpetrator of It Made $2,400 by His Obstinacy.

Paris has been laughing over a comedy in real life, entitled "Le Locataire Recalcitrant," or "The Obstinate Tenant."

M. Dauphin insisted on occupying his flat on the fourth floor when all the rest of the building except a modicum of wall had been removed. When he finally went away, it was with much pecuniary profit.

Early in July the owner of a house in the Avenue de Clichy decided to pull it down and build another on the site. The occupants of the various flats accepted notice to leave on October 15. Subsequently the landlord found it would be to his advantage to have the house pulled down at once, and he offered his tenants $200 compensation apiece if they would remove before July 15. All agreed except one, M. Dauphin, a lawyer's clerk, occupying a flat on the third floor in the back of the house. He stood on his rights and declined to budge before October 15. Nevertheless, the contractor was called in and his men began to pull down the premises. The gas and water were cut off, and the whole of the front part of the house was demolished, but the lawyer's clerk remained obdurate.

Then the workmen attacked the back of the house, and one by one took away all the floors above the third. M. Dauphin's ceiling suffered a good deal, but he spread a tarpaulin over it and appeared as contented as ever.

Then the staircase between the ground and the second floor was removed, but the tenant replaced it by a ladder. Fully appreciating the humor of the situation, he hung out a placard bearing the words, "Comfortable flat to sub-let." Occasionally the "Plaster Hermit," as he was dubbed in the neighborhood, would invite his afternoon dinner cup of coffee outside his front door and beam upon the crowd below.

The contractor was obliged to stop work, and for three days M. Dauphin remained in undisputed possession of the ruins. The proprietor was forced to come to terms. M. Dauphin pocketed $2,400 compensation, and retired with all the honors of war.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless all parties that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customers of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am using very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the largest portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in the light that Good Work and Good Material, and Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade. I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS

500 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.

CONTENTS:

Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.

Same book in better binding 50 cts.

HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

Ask your Druggist for a generous 10 CENT TRIAL SIZE.

Ely's Cream Balm

contains no cocaine, mercury nor any other injurious drug. It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once It opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full Size 50c.; Trial Size 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS 56 Warren Street, New York.

CATARRH

COLD IN HEAD

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing,

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanlike manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running my own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers articles, has removed from 23½ W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madisen avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 160, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9jly9

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the business line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address,

MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

ABOUT MRS. LEASE'S HUSBAND.

A Good Man in His Day and His Day Is Not Ended Yet.

Among the slurs recently cast at Mrs Lease, it is not generally known that her husband is a man who has not only the willingness to fight when occasion requires it, but who has the requisite brawn to do battle to a successful conclusion. Charlie Lease was a mighty good man in his day, and his day has not ended yet. He has had only about two fights in the last ten years, and unless somebody who doesn't know him runs up against him he won't have a fight in the next ten years.

The following instance will illustrate Mr. Lease's make up to a dot. He was a salesman in the wholesale drugstore of Ben Aldrich. One day a bully, who wanted to start a joint in a neighboring town, came in to buy some drugs to put in front. He was a mean chap and swore at Mr. Lease frequently and applied disgraceful epithets to him repeatedly. Mr. Lease smiled and treated his customer with the utmost affability all the time. In due time the sale was made, the goods loaded on a dray and carted away. Mr Lease took the money from his customer, gave him the change and thanked him most kindly for his patronage

As the fellow went out on the side walk Mr. Lease followed and hailed him. "What's the matter?" said the bully roughly, "isn't everything settled?" "Not quite all," said Charlie "we haven't yet settled for those names you called me," and so saying he mopped up the sidewalk and had a block of the gutter with his customer.

Saturday night, when the store was about to be closed, a cash boy told Mr. Lease that he was wanted at the desk of Mr. Aldrich. He though sure that his cake was dough, but when Ben Aldrich said "Charlie, your wages are increased $5 a week," he felt better toward himself and the world and even the man he licked.—Kansas City Times.

NOVELIST CAINE'S WIFE.

An Enthusiastic Helper in His Work—Their Domestic Life a Happy One.

While Hall Caine is famous for his books, which have placed him in the front rank of the writers of the nineteenth century, but little is known of his domestic life. It has been told that he has residences in London and other places, but that his best work is done at Greeba Castle, in the Isle of Man. Few know that the novelist is not a Manxman by birth. He was born in England, of Manx parents, and in his youthful days spent much of his time in that little bit of the universe which teems with lore.

Greeba Castle is situated in the most picturesque part of the beautiful island close by the sea, and surrounded by the very places which he has made famous in his novels.

In his domestic life Mr. Caine is very happy. His wife belongs to the island, and was his companion in his youthful days. She is an ardent helper to her husband, and the two may be seen any pleasant day or evening taking bicycle rides in the beautiful country roads which abound in the northern part of the island.—New York Herald.

PLEASANT FOR THE GOVERNESS.

The King of Siam Evidently Wished Her to Make Herself Useful.

The King of Siam was educated in his youth by an English governess named Mrs. Leonowens; hence the fluency of his English. When Mrs. Leonowens arrived at Bangkok the present King's father said to her, to her great surprise: "I have sixty-seven children, and you shall educate them, and as many of my wives as may wish to learn English. And I have much correspondence in which you must assist me. And, moreover, I have much difficulty in reading and translating French letters. You must undertake these. And, furthermore, I have by every mail, foreign letters whose writing is not easily read by me. You shall copy them in roundhand for my ready perusal." This was a small order, even smaller than the average English governess's share. —New York Journal.

He Lost the Wrong Leg.

Abraham Sprawls was a veteran of three wars, and he used to live in wiregrass Georgia. He had lost one leg in battle, and walked around on a wooden stump. One day he got in the way of the fast mail and the engine ran over him.

One of his sons—and he had a family of fifteen—had witnessed the accident, and, running toward him, shouted:

"Train's cut off dad's leg, an' he'll git damages!"

He held the old man to inspect his wounds, but suddenly let him fall, saying, in a tone of disgust:

"Durn it all! It's his wooden leg they've cut off."

"Yes," groaned the old man as they wheeled him home, "it's jest my durned luck. Can't see, ter save me, how the cuss missed the good leg!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The New Version.

Mr. Benedict—I want to tell you, dear, that when you are on your wheel you make horrible faces.

Mrs. B. (savagely)—I suppose they're not as good as the ones your mother used to make.—New York Journal.

Wickwire—Do you know that this is the third time you have tackled me to-day? You must take me for an electric button.

Dismal Dawson—Electric button? Wickwire—Yes, electric button. You seem to think you can get a drink by touching me.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Sundringham Toilette.

An exceedingly neat and becoming morning gown is here illustrated, made of pale pink and white spotted zephyr, trimmed with pink ribbon. The skirt consists of five gores, which are lined with batiste to match, or, if preferred, this may be dispensed with, and the lower edge finished with a deep hem of the material, interlined with muslin. It is slightly eased to the figure in front and over the hips, while the fulness at the back is gathered and secured to the band, which is neatened with a strip of material. The bodice foundation is fitted to just below the waist; over this the material is arranged, the seamless back being pleated to meet in the centre, then stitched to the foundation at the waist. The front foundation fastens down the centre with hooks, the left side being covered by the perforated line with material. The full right overfront is gathered and secured at the neck and waist, where it slightly droops. It is trimmed lengthwise from the shoulder with two gathered frills of material, and decorated with three small bows of ribbon. Under the edge of this it fastens invisibly with hooks, also on the shoulder. The neck is completed with a collar-band, headed with a frilled collar of material. A full band of the same matches the waist. The coat sleeves are cut in one with the puff, the fulness being gathered and secured on the inside, where the back seam terminates, and the fulness at the top is gathered into the armhole. The wrist is finished with a frilled cuff of material, and finished with a twist and bow of ribbon 8 to 10 yards of 31-inch zephyr and 2¾ yards of ribbon will be required. The pattern is in 12 parts—half front, side gore and back gore of skirt, half front, underarm sidepiece and back of bodice foundation, full overfront and half back of bodice, half collar-band, frilled collar, half full waistband, upper and under part of coat sleeve cut in one, with puff and frilled cuff.

A Mother's Mantle.

A dressy and becoming design is here illustrated, made of drab cloth of a light texture, lined with shot silk, and trimmed with accordion-pleated silk and satin ribbon. It is cut in one and fitted smothly to the neck without darts. The lower part is trimmed all round with a frill of accordion-pleated silk, headed with a box-pleating of satin ribbon. The neck is completed with a ripple collar of double cloth, interlined with stiffening, and arranged in flutes over a ruche of accordion-pleated silk, which is continued in a cascade down each side of front, where it fastens in the centre invisibly with hooks. A pretty bow of ribbon is secured on each shoulder, 1½ yards of 12-inch cloth will be required, 2¼ yards of 20-inch silk for pleating, and 8 yards of satin ribbon. The pattern is in four parts—half of cape and collar, which consists of three shaped gores.

He was a man of simple habit and evidently from a far distance, and he had wandered into a large city museum. The attendant found him looking with interest at a meteorite, and he asked the attendant what it was.

"That," said the attendant, "is a meteorite."

"Hum. Where'd it come from?"

"It fell from the sky."

"Fall near here?"

"No, it fell on a farm out in the country."

"Anybody hurt?"

"No, there was nobody about when it fell."

"Might have been, though."

"Yes."

"Well," he said finally, "the Lord's child, but it does seem if sometimes He was mighty keerless.—Boston Transcript.

BEST OF HUNTING DOGS.

The Beagle in the Future to be the Sports man's Delight.

Beagles are useful little hounds, and not at all common in this country, although bound to be in the near future, that is, where hunting is a sport. The beagle may be kept with little trouble at no expense outlay. This in itself is one of the reasons that they are the hunting dog of the future.

You must have three couple at least, but to take a fair average, five couple is the best, and with this number one may have many a stirring run. Indeed, there is no member of this noble species with which so much may be done as the beagle. He is a very clever dog; his qualities are patience, reflection and endurance; invariably the pack hunt in a lump, and seldom straggle away from their companions.

The great thing is to let him have his own way. He understands far better than you do the twists and the doubles, the shift and dodges, to which the hare resorts when pursued.

When it is purposed to take the beagles out hunting on the following day, they should be fed about 1 o'clock, and then be shut up until they are wanted. The start should not be delayed a moment later than 10:30 o'clock. The sooner you are at work the better, as, if your beagles have been fed at the proper hour on the preceding day they will be quite ready for their work.

Judiciously handled, many a day of most delightful amusement may be obtained with a few couple of beagles, but do not, on any pretense whatever, allow people on horseback.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

ECCENTRICITIES OF A CAT.

Always Ascends in the Elevator When Wishing to Visit an Upper Floor.

A slender black cat in the Boston Postoffice building has developed a number of traits that make her a most interesting study. She is fearless and independent, and yet quite as tame as a lady's pet. She has a number of places in the building to visit, particularly on the third floor, where there is a young lady whom she likes to call upon at frequent intervals, and instead of running up and down the stairs, as other cats naturally would do, she takes an elevator. With an air of imposing dignity, she takes up a position among the rest of the passengers waiting for the elevator and when she gets on board the elevator she looks earnestly through the door as the elevator ascends. Lacking means to signify where she intends to get off she remains in the car until it stops at her desired destination, and even force, unless it is irresistible, cannot make her leave the elevator until it reaches the floor where she wants to go. The elevator men know her habits so well that if she happens to be the only passenger going up they generally offer her the third floor first. As she returns from a visit, she again avails herself of the elevator service, whether she wishes to go up or down for it is a matter of course with her to complete her round in the upper part of the building while she is up that way.

ELECTRIC HAIR CUTTER.

An Instrument Which Will Crop the Head in Ten Minutes.

You may have your hair cut by electricity now. David Seide, of Hartford, Conn., has just patented a little instrument which will do the trick in a few twinklings without the use of scissors or of the flame which is sometimes used as a substitute in up-to-date barber shops.

It is a compact metal tool, consisting in part of a comb. Of course, the tonsorial artist must always use a comb in this sort of work, inasmuch as it gives him a gauge for making the hairs of each length as they are drawn through the teeth.

The instrument in question is connected with a little battery by a couple of wires. When he wishes to administer a hair cut, the barber presses his thumb upon a certain part of the tool, thus completing a circuit. The electricity instantly heats white hot a platinum wire which runs the length of the comb. Then all that is required is that the operator shall comb the hair of the customer with a few graceful waves of the little appliance, the incandescent wire burning it off at the proper length.—New York Journal.

The Church Maid.

The up-to-date churches now employ a church maid. One who enters a sanctuary in New York nowadays may see a slender figure in a plain black gown, with white cape and apron, moving around among the pews. She is, perhaps, dusting the hymnals, arranging the prayer books, or noticing in the racks. She will, however, come forward, answer your questions, direct you to the sexton, tell you the minister's hours, or advise you to whom you should apply for other information than she can give. It is a part of her duty to remain respectfully near visitors, for strangers have been known to "lift" anything that strikes their fancy and walk off with it. The maid also cares for the minister's study and gives to the edifice many touches of which the janitor is incapable. The church maid has her hands full.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Tompion—"Was Locke much of a fighter when he was in the army?" Hammer—"No, hardly that. In fact, he managed to keep out of battle altogether. But, then, you know, he was full of fight before he got to the front, and he had worked it all out by the time the war was over. In the antura of things, a fellow must have a rest some time or other."—Boston Transcript.

THE DISCOVERY OF PORCELAIN.

First Made in Europe in the 18th Century by Secret Obtained by Accident.

Notwithstanding the fact that a great many people have spent their entire lives in pursuing the elusive phantom of the philosopher's stone and the secret of perpetual motion which might have been employed to much better purpose, these pursuits have occasionally proved of great benefit to mankind.

The art of making porcelain was familiar to the Chinese and Japanese for ages, but it was not made in Europe until the early part of the eighteenth century, when John Bottger, a German from Schlaiz, in Voigtland invented the art. Bottger was apprenticed to a Berlin apothecary where he fell in with an alchemist who, in consequence of some services which Bottger had done for him, offered to teach him the art of making gold. The young apprentice, thinking his fortune was as good as made promptly ran away from his master into Saxony, in the year 1700. He was pursued, but found protection in that country, where the people who befriended him urged him to give a specimen of his newly found skill.

The poor fellow had, however, been grossly imposed upon, and the secret from which he had hoped so much proved valueless. He still believed in the possibility of making gold, and worked at the matter incessantly. It so happened that having mixed a number of different kinds of earth together for the purpose of making durable crucibles, in the course of baking them he accidentally stumbled upon the art of making porcelain, and suddenly found himself transformed from a poor alchemist into a prosperous potter. The first porcelain was manufactured in Dresden in 1706, and was brownish-red in color, having been made chiefly of a brown clay.—Harper's Round Table.

THE JUDGE WAS CONVINCED.

His Ride of 60 Miles an Hour and a Sand Bath Were Quite Enough.

The town of Victoria, Mex., has one just judge. A little while after the railway reached the village the usual drunken Mexican was killed on the track in the usual way. The trainmen were promptly arrested and the train held. They argued that they were running within the statutory speed, and it was impossible to stop in time to avoid the man's death. The alcalde said he would see about that. He ordered the engineer to get up steam and back down the road to a point two miles beyond the place where the death had occurred. He took a seat in the cab. Reaching the desired spot, he said: "Run at the speed you had the other day, and when you come in sight of the place where the man was killed put on the brakes." It was not to the engineer's interest to run too slowly, and the throttle was thrown open. The train went down the line at sixty miles an hour. It was the alcalde's first ride, and he stood at the left of the cab window, delightedly looking at the rushing country, when the air brakes were slammed down for all that there was in them. He described seven or eight somersaults and lit on his back twenty feet away. He rose, brushed the sand out of his hair and eyes, and looked at the locomotive, which was standing some yards further on and quietly puffing. "Valga me dios!" ("Well, dang my buttons!") was all he said. He decided that the trainmen were not to blame, got on board and took them all to dinner with him. —Chicago Times-Herald.

SWINBURNE'S FAD.

Master of Greek and French but Desires to be Considered Illiterate.

Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne, the poet, is one of the most eccentric individuals in England. He is a perfect master of Greek and French, but it is his delight to pretend to be entirely illiterate, and though he left Oxford with a great reputation, he never took his degree. Mr. Swinburne lives near London, but he rarely sees any society. One of the most pleasing traits in his character is his devotion to children. However absorbed he may be, he always remembers to bring some sweets out of his pocket for any little ragged urchins who may chance in his path. He is said to be one of the very few versifiers of the present day who make an income out of their work, and a great many people were astonished that he did not become Poet Laureate.

Fort Ancient.

Fort Ancient, which is picturesquely situated on the high bluffs overlooking the valley of the Little Miami River, near Lebanon, Warren County, Ohio, is one of the most interesting prehistoric works preserved and most interesting work of the Mound Builders. It has been visited and studied by leading archeologists of Europe and America, and models of it are now on exhibition in the museums of London, Paris and Berlin.

The fort, which covers about one hundred acres, and one hundred and eighty-seven acres outside of the walls, is now the property of the State, part having been purchased in 1890 and the remainder in 1896.

Never Touched Them.

Jay Ceede—How was it th' frost didn't hurt your garden stuff?

Reuben Gassaway—My wife planted it, an' th' rows wuz so gol' durned crooked th' frost couldn't hit em!—Up to Date.

"When the little girl is naughty," says Miss Jessie M. Fowler, giving a mother directions for curing her small daughter's bad temper, "put on her best gown, and you will see that she cannot withstand its influence."

The Mantle Dress.

A pretty and effective combination of fancy silk and wool suiting in azure blue and nut-brown, with azure blue silk to match, is shown in this stylish model. The plain skirt is lined throughout, the lower part being interlined with stiffening. It is fitted to the figure in front with darts at the waist, while the fulness at the back is gathered and secured to the band, which is neatened with a strip of material. The stylish bodice just turns the waist line, the front foundation being covered with a pointed vest of silk, which is gathered and secured at the neck and again at the lower edge. The cross fronts of material are secured to the shoulder and under-arm seams, the left front is then pleated and secured to the centre of foundation, and the right front is draped across diagonwise and secured to the edge of bodice at the under-arm seam on the left side It then joins the plain backs, which fastens down the centre with small buttons. The waist is neatened with a full band of silk to correspond with the full collar, which is headed with a frill collar of double-pleated silk. The shoulders are outlined with a small fichu of silk, edged with a pleated frill of the same, then secured at the bust on the left side with a pretty bow, and fastened with a hook on the right side. The coat sleeves are trimmed at the wrist with a pleated frill of silk, and the upper part is completed with a full puff, gathered on over the perforated lines, and again into the armhole, 4¾ to 5¾ yards of 45-inch material will be required and 2⅝ yards of 22-inch silk. The pattern is in fifteen parts—half front side gore and back gore of skirt, half front foundation, right and left over-front and half of bodice, half full vest, waistband, collarband, full overpart and half fichu, upper and under part of coat sleeve and full puff.

A Fall Effect.

A handsome fall gown is here pictured. It is made of heavy green cloth, handsomely trimmed with braid. The five-gored skirt has the braid put on so that it leaves the garment perfectly plain in front.

The stylish doubled breasted jacket is also trimmed profusely with braid. It is made with the latest coat sleeve, tight fitting to the elbow and coming well over the hand. The high standing slashed collar comes stiffly around the neck and the tailor made effect is softened by a tie of soft dotted silk brought around the neck twice and tied beneath the chin. This very becoming costume is set off by a pretty hat, tam-o-shanter effect, with a soft crown of dotted silk to match the tie, and trimmed altogether on the left side, with wings and bows of green ribbon.

A West End citizen, noticing that the bark was leaving his pear trees, called an old negro gardener and asked his opinion.

"Hit look mighty curious," he said, "I never see nuttin' des lak dat at dis time er year. I dunno what make it."

"Do you think it can be the San Jose scale?" asked the owner of the trees, referring to a species of blight the country had suffered from.

"De 'San Joses scale?'" exclaimed the old man, "I never heah tell of it; out I shouldn't wonder in de leas', kase Sam Jones wuz projickin' roun' heah mightily las' winter, en I heah him say mo'n once dat he gwine take de bark off!"—Atlanta Constitution.

NEW YORK LETTER

The Astoria will always be a close place—a place where the luxury will reign and beauty in silk attires dance in rose apartments furnished and decorated by the masters of the arts and the crafts. It will be under the sole management of George C. Boldt, who has already made a famous name in connection with the Waldorf, and will be run in conjunction with that hotel.

It takes 15,000 employes to run the Astoria-Waldorf.

Of these there are 300 clerks and assistants, 400 waiters, 100 chambermaids and 100 cooks and kitchen workers. No attempt is made to lodge this regiment of employees in the hotel. The girls sleep there, but not one male employee has quarters in the hotel.

As everybody knows, the Astoria is the sole property of John Jacob Astor. It is the most costly hotel in the world. The land, at a fair market valuation in the building and the furnishing make its estimated cost about $4,000,000. That is, the hotel must make a net profit of $1,000 a day to pay the fair interest on the investment. The Waldorf, owned by William Waldorf Astor cost only about $2,000,000.

The opening of Delmonico's new restaurant, at Fifth avenue and Forty Fourth street, is an event of more than local interest.

The original Delmonico was a notion not in fact the only Eden restaurant of the world with several of its graduate cooks—and was brought in this country by Thomas Addis Emmet, who emigrated from Great Britain immediately after the hanging of his brother Robert Emmet. The first establishment of any pretension—and here the famous name was in the building was known as the Stevens House, on lower Broadway. Although the Delmonicos have kept pace with the upward trend of the city, and have moved their banner successively up Broadway Street, Fourteenth street, and Twenty Sixth street, certain rules laid down by the founder of the house have been rigidly followed by each of his successors. It is a curious fact, by the way that in this family the same is always ways been from uncle to nephew.

An old time Delmonico rule forbids the serving of a meal in a private dining room to a gentleman and lady without the presence of a third guest, no matter if they be known to be man and wife. The strictness with which this rule is enforced may be inferred from a story which sounds almost incredible, though it is strictly true, for one evening, more than a date of a century ago, Mr. and Mrs. Belmont, at that time, perhaps, the most prominent people in New York society, entered one of the small dining rooms in the Fourteenth street house—that where they had previously dined a dinner for four, and sat down to await their guests. The latter did not arrive. Finally Mr. Belmont turned to the waiter with the remark that he would not wait any longer, and ordered him to serve for two. But the waiter demurred, and, under strict orders, and Mr. Delmonico, who was appealed to by the amazed banker, sustained his employee, with the remark that his patrons took their dinner in the public dining room. It is further recorded that Mr. Belmont characteristic ally ragged, turned the matter to good account, that winter, by making bets with other gentlemen of wealth and prominence that they could not dine alone with their wives in a Delmonico private dining room.

CYRUS EBERT.

Debt Twenty-two Years Old.

A case of rather remarkable commercial honesty has just come to light. In 1878 one of Springfield's well-known shoe firms found himself so embarrassed by depreciation in value of stock and the difficulty in collecting accounts that he failed, and made a compromise with his creditors of 50 cents on the dollar.

After twenty-two years the merchant now considerably over seventy years old, has settled all these old claims in full, paying the balance unpaid at the time, amounting to several thousand dollars. There was no claim on him other than that of his conscience.

A Determined Schoolmarm.

Scientifically trained schoolmarms in these times are not to be trifled with. Miss Babylon, a young teacher undertook to punish a stout boy pupil While thus engaged, the boy's older sister, who is larger than the teacher dashed upon the scene, and the two combined to reverse the order of discipline. But the schoolmarm seized the girl's hands, tripped her up, sat on her and then the boy howled for mercy Evidently there are some things taught in a normal course that are not illustrated at the graduating exercises.

The most exciting game at Klondike is when the miners play poker with beans for chips. The man who wins twenty beans is sure of a meal.—Chicago Journal.

WASHINGTON'S DEATH.

Inconsistency Probably Hastened His End.

George Washington died December 14, 1799, at his seat, Mount Vernon. His body was placed in the family vault on the estate three days subsequently. For many years there were memorial services in Boston on the anniversary of his death, but it passes now unnoticed, the popular anniversary—his natal day being remembered.

MARTHA'S PORTRAIT OF WASHINGTON.

Recently a party was chatting at a gentleman's house, in which there were three noted physicians and surgeons of the capital. The conversation turned to the subject of Washington's death and its causes, ultimate and immediate, the sum total of which was inevitably, but rather sensational as stated by the views of the gentlemen present, is medical practice, for the reason that Washington's death was the result of homicide."

"No, I cannot view it otherwise. Washington's death was nothing less than homicide, and were I to treat a patient as Washington was treated I would not be surprised to be brought before a Coroner's jury or even a petit jury, and have a true bill of medical malpractice made out against me."

Dr. Washington's private secretary, Tobias Lear, made notes of the occurrences of the last illness of his chief, writing them of the Sunday following his death, which occurred Saturday night, December 14, between the hours of 10 and 11. He states that the General on Thursday, 12th, rode out to his farms about 10 o'clock and did not return home till past 3 o'clock. After he went out the weather became very bad, rain and hail and snow falling alternately, with a cold wind. When he came in his coat appeared to be wet and snow was on his hair. He went to dinner without changing his clothes. In the evening he appeared as well as usual. On Friday, 13th, a heavy fall of snow took place, which prevented the General from riding out. Anyway he had caught a slight cold and hurried himself in his study, when he wrote the last letter, given herewith. Mr. Lear records the doctor's treatment of Washington's cold:

"1. A mixture of molasses, vinegar and butter was given him to gargle.

"2. The artery in his forearm was opened and the patient bled and a half pint of blood taken.

"3. His throat bathed externally with liniment.

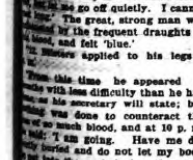
"4. A blister of cantharides put on the throat.

"5. More blood taken from him and a clyster administered.

"6. Inhaled hot vinegar vapor.

"7. Gargle of sage tea and vinegar given.

"8. More blood taken 11 o'clock p. m.



THE HOME OF WASHINGTON.

"9. More blood taken 3 o'clock p. m. Pulse slowly and very thick.

"10. Calomel and tartar emetic given [illegible].

"Patient at 4:30 was so weak he asked for the two wills. Destroyed one and said, 'I find I am going.'

"At 5 p. m. the patient said to the doctor: 'I find myself going. You had better not take any more trouble about me, but let me go off quietly. I cannot last long.' The great, strong man was subdued by the frequent draughts of blood, and felt 'blue.'

"Cataplasms applied to his legs 8 o'clock.

"From this time he appeared to breathe with less difficulty than he had done, as his secretary will state; but nothing was done to counteract the effects of so much blood, and at 10 p. m. he told him 'I am going. Have me decently buried, and do not let my body be put into the vault in less than two days after I am dead. Do you understand me?' he asked the secretary, who replied he did, and the great man closed his last words: 'Tis well,' and in a few minutes afterward.

"About ten minutes before he expired his breathing became much easier, but he was exhausted, his vitality, his blood gone, and he was a victim to phlebotomy. He bled to death!"

LEE'S GREAT ORATION.

Extracts from Gen. Lee's Eulogy of the Immortal Washington.

In obedience to your will, I rise, your humble organ, with the hope of executing in part the system of public mourning which you have been pleased to adopt, commemorative of the death of the most illustrious and most beloved personage this country has ever produced; and which, while it transmits to posterity your sense of the awful event, faintly represents your knowledge of the communate excellence you so cordially do honor.

Desperate, indeed, is any attempt on earth to meet correspondently this dispensation of Heaven; for while, with pious resignation we submit to the will of an all-gracious Providence, we can never cease lamenting, in our finite view of Omnipotent Wisdom, the heart-rending privation for which our nation weeps. When the civilized world shakes to its centre—when every moment gives birth to strange and momentous changes—when our peaceful quarter of the globe, exempt, as it happily has been, from any share in the slaughter of the human race, may yet be compelled to abandon her pacific policy, and to risk the doleful casualties of war—what limit is there to the extent of our loss? None within the reach of my words to express—none which our feelings will not disavow.

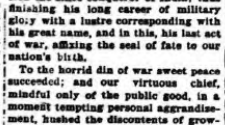
The founder of our federate republic, our bulwark in war, our guide in peace, is no more! O that this were not questionable! Hope, the comforter of the wretched, would pour into our agonizing hearts its balmy dew; but alas! there is no hope for us. Our Washington is removed for ever! Possessing the stoutest frame and purest mind, he had passed nearly to his sixty-eighth year, in the enjoyment of high health, when, hastened by the care of his negroes of himself, a slight cold, disregarded, because inconvenient on Friday, oppressive on Saturday, and, defying every medical interposition, before the morning of Sunday, put an end to the best of men. An end did I say? His spirit was not bounded only by the limits of the earth and by the extent of the human mind. He survives in our hearts, in the growing knowledge of our children, in the affections of the good throughout the world and, when our monuments shall be no more—when even our young and far-spreading empire shall have perished—still will our Washington's glory unfaded shine, and die not, until love of virtue cease on earth, or earth itself sink into chaos.

How, my fellow citizens, shall I single to your grateful hearts his pre-eminent worth? Where shall I begin in opening to your view a character throughout sublime? Shall I speak of his warlike achievements, all springing from his obedience to his country's will—all directed to his country's good?

Will you go with me to the banks of the Monongahela to see your youthful Washington supporting, in the dismal hour of Indian victory, the ill-fated Braddock, and saving, by his judgment and by his valor, the remains of that defeated army, pressed by the conquering savage foe? Or, when oppressed America, nobly resolving to risk her all in defence of her violated rights, he was elevated by the unanimous voice of Congress to the command of her armies, will you follow him to the high grounds of Boston, where, to an undisciplined, courageous, and virtuous yeomanry, his presence gave the stability of system, and infused the invincibility of love of country? Oh shall I carry you to the painful scenes of Long Island, York Island, and New Jersey, when, combating superior and gallant armies, aided by powerful fleets, and led by chiefs high in the roll of fame, he stood the bulwark of our safety, undismayed by disaster—unchanged by change of fortune? Or will you chuse to view the precarious fields of Trenton, where deep glooms, unnerving every arm, reigned triumphant through our thinned, worn down, undaunted ranks, himself unmoved? Dreadful was the night! It was about the time of winter. The storm raged, the Delaware, rolling furiously with floating ice, forbade the approach of man. Washington, self-collected, viewed the tremendous scene; his country called. Unappalled by surrounding dangers, he passed to the hostile shore; he fought—he conquered! The morning sun cheered the American world. Our country rose on the event, and her dauntless chief, pursuing his blow, completed, on the lawns of Princeton, what his vast soul had conceived on the shores of Delaware.

Moving in his own orbit, he imparted heat and light to his most distant satellites; and, combining the physical and moral force of all within his sphere, with irresistible weight he took his course, commiserating folly, disdaining vice, disarming treason, and invigorating despondency, until the auspicious hour arrived, when, united with the intrepid forces of a potent and magnanimous ally, he brought to submission the since conqueror of India; thus finishing his long career of military glory with success corresponding with his great name, and in this, his last act of war, affixing the seal of fate to our nation's birth.

To the horrid din of war sweet peace succeeded; and our virtuous chief, mindful only of the public good, in a moment tempting personal aggrandizement, hushed the discontents of growing sedition, and, surrendering his power into the hands from which he had received it, converted his sword into a ploughshare, teaching an admiring world that, to be truly great, you must be truly good.



CROSSING THE DELAWARE.
—From a famous painting.

Was I to stop here, the picture would be incomplete and the task imposed unfinished. Great as was our Washington in war, and much as did that greatness contribute to produce the American republic, it is not in war alone his pre-eminence stands conspicuous; his various talents combining all the capacities of a statesman with those of a soldier, fitted him alike to guide the councils and the armies of our nation. Scarcely had he retired from his martial toils, while his invaluable parental advice was still sounding in our ears, when he who had been our shield and our sword was called forth to act a less splendid, but more important part.

Possessing a clear and penetrating mind, a strong and sound judgment, calmness and temper for deliberation, with invincible firmness and perseverance in resolutions maturely formed, drawing information from all, acting from himself, with incorruptible integrity and unvarying patriotism, his own superiority and the public confidence alike marked him as the man designed by Heaven to lead in the great political, as well as military events, which have distinguished the area of his life.

WASHINGTON IN CONTINENTAL UNIFORM.

Washington Sharp at a Horse Trade.

Col. Lee was once dining at Mount Vernon and in the course of conversation Washington asked him if he knew where he could purchase a pair of good carriage horses. "Why, yes, General," answered Lee. "I have a fine pair, but you can't get them."

"Why not?" demanded the astonished Washington.

"Because you never pay more than half price for anything, and I want full price for them."

Mrs. Washington was so tickled at the hunter that she fell to laughing, and was joined by her favorite parrot, perched near by.

"Ah, Lee," said the General, not at all ruffled, "you are a funny fellow. See, even that bird is laughing at you."

That there was a suspicion of truth in Lee's implied accusation of closeness at a bargain is borne out by the well-known fact that Washington was one of the keenest men at a horse trade.

It is also told of him that, having settled for a job of plastering at his home, he afterward found that he had overpaid the laborer by 15 shillings. Meanwhile the man had died and his widow had married again, but the General collected the overplus of her second husband.

One had to be careful in marrying widows those days. If a widow wished to clear herself of all her deceased husband's obligations, the second time she must be married with nothing on but her shift. It is supposed that this unfortunate woman were something besides at her second nuptials.

A Modern Washington.

The only descendant of prominence of George Washington alive to-day is William d'Hertburne Washington, a hydraulic engineer of New York city. The latter Washington was a member of the state tenement house committee of 1894 and is active in charitable affairs. By an intermarriage of first

W. DE H. WASHINGTON.
A prominent Civil Engineer of Greater New York.

cousins, who were the great-great-grandparents of William d'Hertburne Washington, two lines of Washington blood were united. Betty Washington Lewis, wife of Fielding Lewis, and sister of General Washington, is his great-great-grandmother. Nearly all Mr. Washington's colonial ancestors were men of high importance.

ABNER'S PROPOSAL.

"Well," said Abner Mullins, surveying the interior of the kitchen with evident disfavor, "a wife would come in kind o' convenient just now!"

It did look as if a woman's hand was needed to bring order out of chaos. Boots, clothing, dishes and fishing tackle littered the floor. A basket of cleaned fish occupied the only chair, while the table and sink were piled with an accumulation of articles too varied for description. As for dirt—dirt was everywhere!

"Folks say I'm untidy," continued Abner as he eyed the disorder. "But I ain't. It ain't that I like dirt; it's that I don't like cleaning up. I love to see things kept nice as well as anybody. I hate dirt worse than poison, but I hate getting rid of it a heap sight more," and he drew a long sigh as he set about his unwonted task.

"There ain't a doubt about it," he went on aloud, a habit which his solitary life had developed. "It takes more'n one to run a schooner, land or sea. It's been growing on me ever since I was hauled up in dry dock with rheumatics that I'd have to get a mate. She can boss the galley and I'll man the ropes. If there's foul weather, I can take to the dory till the storm's blowed out." Here Abner attacked his breakfast dishes, a task he particularly detested.

"There will be a lot of things that ain't pleasant about it," he said, as he thought of his lost freedom. "But I'll take care what kind of a one I get. I don't want a master hand at anything but swabbing the scrubbing decks. I'm captain, and I won't step down in rank for anybody."

The notion of getting married had been presenting itself to Abner for some time.

He found he was lonely; he felt no need of a companion. His idea of a wife was one to keep his house clean, mend his clothes and cook his meals. No more tender emotion stirred in his breast.

He was getting along in years, and his rheumatism was increasing upon him. One of these days he would need some one to take care of him. His wife must be young, strong and capable and amenable; that was all he asked.

Abner Mullins had lived alone for many years. The Hermit of Beachville he was called by the young people, who regarded him with awe and suspicion. To their minds a mystery hung over the rude dwelling. Did they not hear Abner talking loudly to some unseen listener.

The truth was, Abner, taciturn to all fellow-beings, was fairly garrulous with himself, and his conversations were prolonged monologues.

Abner had not proceeded far in his domestic occupation when the cheap little clock on the shelf struck ten. He dropped his dishcloth with evident relief.

"Mess or no mess, those fish have got to be carried to the boat," he said.

He took his basket on his arm and went down the rocky lane to the village and through the one straggling street bordered by houses, white painted, but with green blinds and gay little dooryards, bright with flowers.

The street led to the wharf, admired by artists and by tourists with cameras, but which was regarded by the natives from a purely utilitarian standpoint.

The old schooner had been firmly grounded, propped by stout piles, its cabin converted into a wharf-house, and a flight of steps cut into its side for the landing of passengers.

The Mary Dillen had made many a hard voyage, but now she lay at rest. Leisurely feet trod her planks, and the little waves plashed gently against her weather-beaten sides—a peaceful ending of a sea-tossed existence.

As Abner sauntered along the shaky structure which bridged the space between the schooner and dry land, the little steamer slowed up to make its daily landing, and a bevy of village girls flocked to the wharf to see the boat come in, the chief excitement of the day.

The young women were in high spirits, laughing, shrieking and chewing gum vigorously. Abner's gaze was critical.

"None of them for me!" he remarked to himself. "Gadding down here at this hour in the morning, when they ought to be doing their work! A parcel of giggling females!"

About two weeks after his condemnation of the Beachville maidens the hermit rowed around the Point to the sleepy old town of Bayport with a load of clams and oysters. Bayport was a bustling metropolis to Abner, and he felt on his guard when he ventured there, for he had a vague notion that his path would be beset with sharpers. But nobody tried to take advantage of his simplicity, and it was not very long before he was returning to his boat with his empty baskets.

On his journey back he stopped at a humble little house near the wharf to ask for a drink, and a young woman of perhaps twenty-five answered his knock. She willingly brought to him a dipper of clear, cool water. The dipper was of tin, but it was as clean and shining as silver.

Over its rim Abner eyed the giver with interest. She was little, plump and dimpled, with a trimness about her which especially pleased Abner. He thanked her civilly.

"May I ask your name?" he ventured, wiping his mouth on his shirt sleeve.

"Susie Brown," answered the girl, a pretty pink coming to her cheeks.

"Mine's Abner Mullins—and I'm much obliged to you," responded Abner, with unwonted gallantry; then he turned and went on his way.

"Trim little sloop," he said to himself; "kitchen looked shipshape, too; I don't object to good looks if there's something to ballast them," and Abner cast off his painter and pulled for home with long, steady strokes which carried him swiftly through the dancing sparkling waves.

Somehow Abner's little house seemed actually lonely to him that night, and the next day the same feeling possessed him. He could not understand it.

On the day following Abner persuaded himself that it was necessary to take a load of fish to Bayport, and he expended unaccustomed care on his toilet before he started. Usually he went from his fish-cleaning or clamdigging over to a thought of his appearance, but now he put on a clean flannel shirt and even trimmed his beard. After his cargo was disposed of he again rapped at the little door. Susie opened to him and quickly brought him his drink, with a smile of recognition. This was all, yet somehow Abner felt that his acquaintance had advanced a step.

After this it became an accustomed thing for Abner to go to Bayport to do his trading, and he never failed to stop at the house by the wharf to quench his thirst.

At last came a morning when Abner spoke. Susie was unusually bewitching that day, in a fresh print gown and a distracting little sweeping cap.

"Susie," he said, swallowing hard in his effort to speak naturally; "Susie, I want you to marry me!"

Susie dropped her broom and stared.

"Don't say a word!" said Abner in great haste. "I've got a thousand dollars laid up, and I'll be a good husband to you. You won't find the work hard, and I'll fit you out well. Think it over, and I'll be around day after to-morrow." Abner was off before Susie confused and blushing, could utter a word.

That evening Abner sat on his doorstep and looked out over the bay.

"I expect I'll miss being alone," he said. "But I reckon it'll be smooth sailing. I'll keep the tiller."

The next day he began to clean house. "It's only fair to give her a clear start," he said, as he scrubbed vigorously.

He was down on his hands and knees, mopping up the floor when a shadow fell before him. He looked up. His doorway was filled by the figure of a middle-aged woman, very stout, and very much out of breath.

"Well!" she panted, "it's a pull up this hill of yours, but it's a slightly place when once you get here. You Abner Mullins?"

"Yes," stammered Abner, too much astonished by the invasion to get up from the floor.

"I've come over from Bayport on purpose to see you," continued the visitor. "I'm Mrs. Brown. You've been courtin' my Susie?"

There was a note of interrogation in the last sentence which seemed to demand of Abner some response. He slowly gathered himself up, and once on his feet ventured to look at Mrs. Brown. She was a comely, wholesome woman, with bright black eyes, before which Abner's wavered and fell.

"I—I asked her to marry me!" he managed to utter.

"Well, now, that's all nonsense!" continued Mrs. Brown, stepping in and looking about. "Mercy sakes! What a hole! You see, Susie is only nineteen, and you must be full onto forty-five. Besides, she is going back to Lewistown to work in a factory—she's only been at home while I was visiting my folks here. There's a young fellow there who is paying her attention. I don't wonder you want to get married, though, livin' in this mess!"

Mrs. Brown picked up a rag from the floor, rolled it into a ball and sat down. Abner stood awkwardly before her, conscious only of a desire for her departure.

"Now look here, Abner Mullins!" went on Mrs. Brown. "I've heard a good deal about you, and I know you're an honest man and no drinker, except from Susie's dipper," she added with a cuckle. "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll marry you myself!"

The floor cloth dropped from Abner's hand.

"Yes," continued Mrs. Brown, "I've been a widow for fifteen years, and I begin to feel I like to have somebody to fend for me. I'll keep you tidy as wax—you need it bad enough, goodness knows—and I'm a master cook. I've got five hundred dollars in the bank. Susie's got her pa's money and ain't dependent on me. My rent's up next week, so we might as well get married then. There ain't anything for us to wait for. We're old enough to know our own minds."

But Abner, standing helpless in the middle of the floor, felt that he should never know his again!

About six weeks later Abner was coming down the lane with a basket of fish, when a Beachville acquaintance accosted him.

"Hello, Abner! How do you like being married?"

"It might be worse," said Abner, slowly, as he climbed the lane. "Yes," he continued to himself, as he looked into his neat kitchen and saw the figure of his wife stepping briskly about, preparing a savory supper and singing cheerily as she worked. "Yes, it might be a deal sight worse."

"Sammy Snaggs," asked the teacher, "what part of speech is the word 'maledictior'?"

"Noun," replied Sammy.

"What gender?"

"Masculine gender."

"Indeed?"

"Yes'm. If it was feminine it would be 'femaledictior'."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

JERSEY'S GOOD ROADS

REASONS WHICH LEAD FARMERS TO ADOPT THEM.

The Highways Are Such That Double Loads Can Be Hauled, thus Saving One-Half the Expense of Marketing the Produce—A Creed for the Road Builder.

New Jersey is famous throughout the country for its good roads. It is almost equally famous for the enthusiasm of its farmers over them. They have found that they pay. State aid to building such roads, State organization, and a perpetual preaching of the gospel of good roads have brought it all about. The Commissioner of Public Roads believes in agitation. He keeps at it all the time. Here are a few of the arguments he uses, taken from his fourth annual report, which has just been issued:

It costs 9½ cents per bushel to ship wheat from Chicago to New York, a distance of 900 miles; it costs 3 cents a bushel to haul wheat on a level road a distance of five miles, and on a sandy road it would cost at least 9 cents per mile to haul it. The saving on a bushel of wheat with good roads for a distance of five miles would be about equivalent to that of 600 miles of transportation by steamer or canalboat, or of 375 miles of railroad. One mile of good roads would make a saving equivalent to 75 miles of railroad transportation. Thus every mile of good roads places the producer 75 miles by rail nearer to the markets. It is estimated that the cost of hauling 500,000,000 tons of farm products to market is $2 per ton, or just about $1,000,000,000; it is also estimated that 40 per cent of this last amount, or $600,000,000, would be saved each year if farmers were able to do this hauling over good roads.

We have demonstrated by building numerous stone highways under the State aid law that if we have good roads without overloading with taxes this class of smallest income. The farmers' returns are comparatively small compared with those in other pursuits; therefore, at first they hesitated to subscribe for the building of these improved highways, but they are rapidly learning that by the use of these they can very much add to their net returns by the lessened cost in serving the cities with their products.

You can haul 505 pounds more on good, hard, sandy roads with a four-inch tire with the same amount of power exerted than you can with a one-and-a-half inch tire. You can haul 471 pounds more on level gravel roads with a four-inch tire with the same amount of power exerted than you can with a one-and-one-half inch tire.

The object of all legislation should be the greatest good to the greatest number; therefore legislation should be liberal toward good roads, as they are more generally useful than any form of public improvement.

Good roads in the end will not cost as much money outlay as poor ones. No tax is as great as one of bad roads. A bad road is a heavy tax on those who use it, and the worse the road the heavier the tax.

Improved roads bring better prices for farms and farm products. Double the cost upon transportation.

Can market over good roads when commodities are scarce; can always ship despite the weather.

Rural homes are more sought after along good roads.

Cannot sell lands advantageously along poor roads. Good roads make brisker demand for farms.

Bad roads cause a decay of agriculture; they impose the greatest of all burdens on the farmer.

Bad roads cause people to gather into cities

Wagon highways are the greatest arteries of commerce.

The splendid condition of the roads of Switzerland and France is due to perpetual attention.

Experience over a series of years demonstrates a stone road is cheaper than a gravel, although the first cost of gravel is much less.

The trained road builder is just as necessary as the trained doctor, manufacturer, or educator.

Result of improved roads: Tremendous increase in value of farm property; facilitates business; greater happiness for farmer, wife, sons and daughters; shortens distance to be traveled. He who shortens his distance to market gains a great advantage.

Poor roads wear out the horses very rapidly, thus detracting very largely from the profits of the farm.

Civilization is to be judged by the condition of the roads.

His Last Hope.

"Well, old man, did your son pass the Civil Service examination?"

"No, suh, dey turned him down."

"What was the trouble?"

"Short on 'rithmetic, suh."

"Anything else?"

"An geography."

"Yes?"

"An' spellin'."

"Nothing more?"

"Nuthin' more, suh, 'ceptin' grammar an' hist'ry, an' a few other things."

"Well, what will he do now?"

"Well, suh, he's des 'bout decided ter teach school."—Atlanta Constitution.

Salted.

Juneau Jake—How about that mine of salt some of the boys found up the gulch the other day?

Sitka Sam—Turned out to be nothin' but a gold mine. The thievin' scoundrels had salted it.

HYMEN'S HOLIDAY EVENT

FASHIONABLE WEDDING CEREMONY IN FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Marriage of Miss Emma Finney Gamberton to John Sherman Hobbs Celebrated Last Thursday—Social Events and Ceremony.

A fashionable wedding was that of last Tuesday when Miss Emma Finney Gamberton, of 45 Pearl street, was united in marriage to John Sherman Hobbs, a prominent lumber dealer of Newark. The wedding was celebrated at 7:30 in the First M. E. church. The edifice was crowded with relatives and friends of the contracting parties. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony according to the custom of the M. E. church.

The ceremony was a pretty one and was admired for beauty of arrangement. Previous to the appointed hour, Herbert Pangborn, organist, rendered a number of pleasing selections.

The decorations, which were in charge of Mrs. L. J. Denton, were very attractive. Around the pulpit platform was arranged a large bank of palms and ferns, while through the use of choice flowers an admiring effect was obtained.

At 7:30 o'clock the bridal party entered the church while the Mendelssohn wedding march was being played. From the front of the church came the ushers, Dr. E. A. Miller, John Tiger, H. C. Miller, of Newark, and Dr. B. W. Giveans, of East Orange. They proceeded up the centre aisle. Following was the bride gowned in white corded silk trimmed with lace and ribbons. She also wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms and a diamond brooche, the gift of the groom to the bride. She entered the church through the centre leaning on the arm of Thomas Bolton, of Newark, who gave her away in marriage.

At the same time the other members of the party entered from the right side of the pulpit platform. The maid of-honor, Miss Alice Bolton, of Newark, came first. She was gowned in white, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Following her came the bridesmaids. They were Miss Susan Lowry, of Dover, N. J., Miss S. Louise Giles, of Dunellen, cousins of the bride; Miss Ida M. Place, of Brooklyn, and Miss Kathryn Bennett, of Manasquan. Each of the brides maids carried bouquets of choice roses and were gowned in pink and white, while the flower girls, who followed, carried baskets of roses. The flower girls were Viola Tineman and Ethel Tineman, cousins of the bride, of Dunellen. One was gowned in white and the other in pink. The groom and best man, Arch Arnold, of Newark, of Newark, entered the church soon afterward and took their position at the altar. The other members of the party proceeded down the centre aisle and met the bride. They then reversed and escorted the bride to the altar, where the entire party formed a circle about the platform, where the officiating clergyman, groom and best man were waiting to receive them.

The vows in this service were very clear, and after the contracting parties were pronounced husband and wife, they left the church by the centre aisle while the Lohengrin wedding march was being played.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was given at the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs, 45 Pearl street, which was attended by the near relatives and friends of the bride and groom. At 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs left for a three weeks' wedding trip through the east and west, and on their return they will reside at 45 Pearl street.

The large collection of gifts received is evidence of the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their many friends. In addition to the diamond brooch given the bride by the groom, he also gave her a ring with four diamonds.

ANSWERS COLLECTOR

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

ment of his accounts, which show how the balance is made up, and with that in his possession tried to give the impression that he had been charged with amount of deductions allowed firemen, soldiers and the like, which the report plainly stated was not the case. Let the issue be understood, it is not whether the Council did right in investigating Mr Spencer's books, and informing the taxpayers of the results. It is whether or not Mr. Spencer has dishonesty and fairly performed the duties of his office.

Murray Burtis,
Geo. T. Rogers,
John G. MacLaughlin,
Committee.

An Expression of Sorrow.

There will be a meeting of the W. C. T. U. in their room this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. All the officers and vice presidents are urged to attend this meeting. As an expression of sorrow for the loss of their leader, Frances E. Willard, every member will wear a white ribbon entwined for thirty days.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Former Senator John James Ingalls of Kansas is largely responsible for the world-wide belief that "Washington is the best governed city in the world." Mr. Ingalls made this important announcement either in the course of a speech in the Senate or in an article published over his signature at a time when he was chairman of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, and, therefore, especially well informed on matters of municipal government at the national capital. In some respects his words were true; in others they were not. And if he will cast his eagle eye over matters and things in the Washington of to-day, he will undoubtedly find many reasons for believing that his now famous remark is open to amendment.

There is no gainsaying that the streets of Washington are broad, well paved, well shaded, and generally clean, or that its public parks are models of beautiful breathing spaces, well cared for by the Government, but if Mr. Ingalls or any other keen-witted, fair-minded man will examine the matters of street lighting, telephone rates, water supply, gas and electric lighting and side-walks, he will admit that the three solons (one a Republican, one a Democrat, and the third an army officer supposedly without any political bias) who, under the direction of Congress, manage the municipal affairs of the District of Columbia, might profitably take lessons from the Common Council of many an insignificant village.

It is a common thing nowadays for one Washingtonian to say to another, "Will you have a glass of Potomac mud?" Instead of asking him to take a drink of water, and notwithstanding all the Government reports piled desk high in the engineer's offices, the fact is that the water which the citizens of Washington have been compelled to drink such as would cause even a citizen of St. Louis, who has swallowed Mississippi River water all of his life without a qualm, to turn up his nose in disgust. When Potomac water gets real muddy, it defies the cleansing powers of even the most modern filters, and must be taken solid if at all.

There are only half a dozen streets in Washington and the business thoroughfares which are lighted by electricity, and it is only within the last few months that the Commissioners have revoked the ancient order that required the streets to be lighted in any manner only on the nights when, according to the almanac, the moon did not shine. If the almanac happened to be wrong several nights in each month the citizens were left to grope their way about the streets as best they could in the dark.

Having reached the point of lighting the streets after a fashion every night, regardless of whether the almanac happened to predict a cloudy or a clear sky, it might be supposed that the Commissioners would go a step further and have the old brick sidewalks in the residence portion of the city replaced with walks of a more durable, sightly and smooth material. But they appear to believe that the humble citizen returning home late at night should be sufficiently grateful for the sickly, yellow gleam of the gas lamps, and not ask protection from the bumps and hollows of brick sidewalks, bunched up in one place by tree roots and hollowed out in another by sinkholes. They console themselves, no doubtedly, with the thought that if the taxpayer does not like the sidewalk he can take the middle of the street, a choice which, of course, is always open to him. There is a regulation that property owners of both vacant and occupied lots shall keep the sidewalks in front of them clear of snow and mud, but the regulation is seldom, if ever, enforced. During the occasional snowstorms the Washington pedestrian must wade through the snow, and in rainy weather through the mud washed over the sidewalks from vacant terraces while yet congratulating himself that he lives in "the best governed city in the world."

The telephone in a private residence in Washington costs $75 a year net; in a business office, $100, both being in advance.

But bumpy sidewalks, half-lighted streets, muddy water, unswept snow, unshovelled mud, and high telephone charges are as flies on a barn door to the hardships that the Washington taxpayer suffers at the hands of the company that owns and controls the gas plant of the city. The lighting of the streets is bad, but that of the houses is worse. The gas companies have things all their own way, and nobody is more keenly aware of that fact than they. Probably less than 2 per cent. of the houses in the District of Columbia, including Washington, Georgetown and the many suburbs, are lighted by electricity. This is not because gas is popular and cheap, but rather that electricity is not within reach of the general householder. Until about a year ago the one electric company had as complete a monopoly in the electrical line as the gas company enjoys. It had not been able to reap such tangible and valuable benefits, however, because of the sensible law that compels it hereafter to lay wires underground. It could not get such authority as it desired for tearing up the streets and so as a rule only the streets in the business part of Washington are lighted by electricity. As to prices, however, and such other conditions as the company could control it had a "cinch" complete and unquestioned.

First Tramp—What luck did yer have lookin' for work?

Second Tramp—Iverted p o Found a job first house I went to

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	DISEASES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facedache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
17	Piles, External or Internal	.25
18	Ophthalmia, Weak or Inflamed Eyes	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
21	Asthma, Difficult Breathing	.25
22	Ear Discharges, Earache	.25
23	Scrofula, Swellings and Ulcers	.25
24	General Debility, Weakness	.25
25	Dropsy, Fluid Accumulations	.25
26	Sea-Sickness, Nausea, Vomiting	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker	.25
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
31	Painful Menses, Pruritus	.25
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitations	1.00
33	Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance	1.00
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria	.25
35	Chronic Congestions, Headaches	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or by mail free.
Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles, External, Internal or Bleeding; Itching or Blind Piles. Relieves Pain in Back, Kidneys and Bowels. Cures Fistula and Fissures. Prevents Malignant Tumors.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

IN HONOR OF GUESTS.

A Pleasant Time Afforded to Visitors by Mr. and Mrs E. F. Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Randolph gave a harlequin party at their home on West Front street last Tuesday, in honor of some guests from Nyack, N. Y. It proved to be a very successful affair. The first prizes were won by Miss Hattie M. O'Dell, of Nyack, and Al. K. Gray, of Paterson. The booby prize was won by Mr. Charles J. McNabb. During the evening there were a number of selections rendered on a phonograph.

Those present were Miss Hattie O'Dell, of Nyack; Miss Bertha Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McNabb, Miss Clara Williams, Miss Lizzie Livesay, Miss Louise Studebaker, Miss Sadie Randolph, Miss Lulu Randolph, Thomas O'Dell, of Nyack; Alex. Gray, of Paterson; Wm. Lowrence, Wm. Cozzell, Walter Clark and Walter Mantel.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. had no trouble in defeating the team from the Newark Y. M. C. A. in a game played in the Plainfield gymnasium Tuesday afternoon. The score was 27 to 9 in favor of the Plainfielders. The game was witnessed by a large audience. Fred Metz, Jr., champion Indian club swinger of the A. A. U., and winner of international honors, gave an exhibition. There was also an excellent exhibition of gymnastic work by a class from Newark under the charge of Physical Director Leonard M. Smith.

AT THE TRAPS.

Tuesday afternoon the second rifle contest among the members of the Irvington Schuetzen Corps was held in Hyde's woods. There will be four more contests, and at the end of the year prizes will be given to those having the highest scores. Nearly all of the members took part yesterday and good scores were made. After the above contest the trap shooters of the club enjoyed several sweepstake shoots. Those who took part were Messrs. Robinson, Frentz, Goodman, Darby, Pearson, Henry Haurand, S. B. Wheeler and Louis VanDyke. All of the above contestants made good scores and broke about even for the stakes.

READY TO FIGHT AGAIN.

Veterans of the Civil War Willing to Answer Their Country's Call.

At a meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Tuesday, resolutions were passed to be forwarded to President McKinley signifying the willingness of the veterans to promptly answer the call of the country the same as in 1861 if war should be declared against Spain.

Family Gathering.

A number of friends met at H. VanMiddlesworth's, on West Front street, Tuesday. Those from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davis, Mr. and Mrs. L. Wooley, A. Gray, Miss Annie Fenner and Miss Ella Fenner, Mrs. Geo. W. Chickner and Mrs. E. Bailey, of Manasquan; and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. VanMiddlesworth, of Brooklyn. The day was spent in conversation and singing.

STATE OF OHIO, City of Toledo, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of Hall's Catarrh Cure

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D., 1886.

{ SEAL } A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The burden of a rumor that is stirring the domain called society in New York is that Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Henry T. Sloane are constituted themselves the joint successors of the late Ward McAllister, and are engaged in the delicate duty of blue pencilling his famous list of elegibles.

Ward McAllister fenced in an enclosure which would accommodate four hundred and not one more. In later life he contracted the boundaries, so that only 150 could be sheltered inside, while the remainder were permitted to look over the fence.

Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Henry T. Sloane are more arbitrary than the arbiter who has passed away. Or, at all events, rumor credits them with the intention of cutting the 150 in half.

Hence a fluttering in society dovecotes. Who are to be shepherded within the pasture, and who are to be left without? That is the question which is just now productive of much heartburning.

Rapid Transit.

The fact that the courts have decided that New York can have an under ground road does not insure this desirable means of rapid transit for the people. It makes it possible—that is, removes one of the barriers imposed, but there are others.

It was in 1875 that the first Rapid Transit act was passed by the Legislature. Under that act commissioners were appointed and elevated roads were approved, and their construction began. But within less than a dozen years the "L" roads were found to be inadequate to deal with the traffic and more radical improvements were seen to be required.

A tunnel under Broadway was planned and a company formed, but the plan was fought bitterly in the courts, and the act under which the company assumed to work was declared unconstitutional.

SECTION OF PROPOSED RAPID TRANSIT.

Other schemes were proposed, and Hugh J. Grant, when Mayor, planned a rapid transit road east of Broadway. His idea came to nothing, nor did the plan of the City Railway Company, which proposed to purchase the right of way through the blocks and close up the superstructure with fire proof buildings.

In 1890 Mayor Grant, acting under the Rapid Transit law of 1875, appointed a Rapid Transit Commission consisting of John H. Starin, Charles Stewart Smith, William Steinway Orlando B. Potter and August Belmont. The first two of these has the satisfaction of being members of the Commission who have won their final victory in the courts.

Then began a contest that for quite a while seemed almost hopeless. Either the Legislature voted down plans that were proposed or else there mysteriously rose the blocks and close up the superstructure with fire proof buildings.

The Chamber of Commerce entered the field and succeeded in getting a new Rapid Transit law through the Legislature in May, 1894. It provided for a commission and the submission of the question to the people. In the Fall of 1894 the people voted in favor of expending $50,000,000 of the public money in the construction of the road, and after much negotiation authorized the construction of $5,000,000 more.

The new commissioners were Mayor Gilroy, Comptroller Fitch, Seth Low, John Claflin, William Steinway John H. Starin and John H. Inman and Alexander E. Orr.

Plans were prepared and approved by a board of experts. A commission appointed by the Supreme Court also approved the plan. But the plan, on account of the opposition of Broadway property owners, was blocked.

The entire ground was again patiently gone over, entirely new plans were prepared. These are the ones that have received the approval of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

The underground road is to begin at City Hall Park and pass through Park row, Elm street and Fourth avenue to 42d street. There the tracks will go westward to Broadway thence north to 59th street and thence via the Boulevard to 104th street. Thus far there are to be four tracks.

From entrances to the stations will be by broad staircases leading down to the platforms for local trains, and there will be separate platforms for those waiting for express trains.

The tunnel will be so near the surface that the engineers do not believe that it will be necessary to resort to artificial ventilation. Each station will in itself be a huge ventilator.

The cars will be brilliantly lighted with electricity. The cost will not be more than $35,000,000, and the city expects to get this sum back in fifty years, and then own the tunnel besides.

CYRUS THORP.

9 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr. SCHULTZ PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed
Alx. Senna
Rochelle Salts
Anise Seed
Peppermint
Bi Carbonate Soda
Worm Seed
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
NEW YORK.
4 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

SEE THAT THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher IS ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE OF CASTORIA

Castoria is put up in one-size bottle only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow anyone to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on the wrapper of every bottle of Castoria.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tablets for Five Cents.

This sort to put up cheaply to gratify the universal present demand for a few pills

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tablets At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent you by mail. 12 cartons will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tablets are the very medicine you need.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of the success depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. You can succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of $50 a week places begging for good men, and millions of $3 a week men begging for poor places. If you are worth $50 a week you will get it—sure. The best equipment a young man can have who expects to make his own way in the world is a course in

Eastman NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill good places with honor and profit to themselves. Graduates and students, more than 4,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, have been aided to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn to how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK.

END OF T. A. B. FAIR.

Those Who Were Rewarded With Prizes in Various Contests.

The fair of the T. A. B. Society, which was continued in T. A. B. Hall Tuesday afternoon was a most successful affair. Dancing and other diversions were indulged in, but the chief interest centered in the different voting contests for prizes. The result of the contests was that Miss Margaret Reville was awarded the diamond ring; Charles McCarthy received the gold watch, and Daniel McNamara received a gold-headed cane as the most popular young man in St. Mary's parish. Miss Kate McNamara won a large doll by guessing its name, which was "Levina." The proceeds of the fair will be used to furnish a pool room and bowling alleys for the club.

Mrs. Wilson, of Somerset street, has received from her slight illness.

Patriotic Exercises.

Exercises in honor of Washington's birthday were held at the Irving School last October. The programme consisted of recitations by Miss Mabel Gilbert, Miss Lillie Gessil, Miss Nellie Whitely, John Kenney, Miss Mary Belcher, Miss Margery Phillips, Frank Cooke and Miss Johnson presided at a dialogue entitled "George Washington's Soldiers." A vocal duet was given by Lillie Cooke and Miss Johnson. The exercises came to an end with a song by the school entitled "George Washington."

—In prescribing glasses sound judgment is of the first importance. Our work is guaranteed. Prices moderate. Examination free. Leeds, Stiles & Co., every Thursday at 107 East Front street.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1898. NO. 9.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

LEGISLATORS HEARD HUM OF TROLLEY TALK

Over a Hundred Union County Men at Assembly Hearing.

PROMINENT MEN URGE THE BILL.

Nearly All the Speakers Disagreed With Some Portion of the Bill as Drawn, Though Approving its General Purpose—Farmer Martine Had Radical Opinion—Chandler Bilker Rose in Opposition to County Ownership.

Trenton, N. J., March 2.—Legislators were given an opportunity yesterday to witness the great interest of Union county people in the proposition of Frank Bergen to sell a trolley franchise for a big sum of money to be used in widening the county road as proposed by his elaborate plan. The hearing before the railroads and assembly committee brought a large crowd of both supporters and opponents to the bill, though the former were much in the predominance.

The Assembly Chamber was thronged with residents of Union county, who came to Trenton on a special train to urge the passage of the bill.

There were over one hundred people in the party, led by John Kean and Frank Bergen. Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, and many city and county officials were on hand, besides officers of the Elizabeth Street Railway Company.

From Plainfield were Director J. Frank Hubbard, of the Board of Freeholders; Freeholder Tier, County Attorney Codington, James E. Martine, Sheriff W. P. Kirk and others. West Field sent James Clark, and Fanwood as Sheriff Kyte.

Cranford was represented by Freeholder G W. Little, Col. J. Furguson and E. W. Austin. From Rahway were County Clerk Howard, Freeholder John Farrell, Mayor Holmes, Judge B. A. Vail and Postmaster H. B. Bollinson. Union township also had a large delegation on hand.

Assemblyman Squier, introducer of the Bergen county trolley road bill, acted as master of ceremonies at the hearing, and introduced several officials and citizens from Union county.

The feature of the hearing was the fact that few of the speakers agreed with the provisions of the bill as introduced, and all wanted it amended to provide for absolute municipal ownership.

Mayor Rankin, of Elizabeth, was the first speaker, and he confined his remarks to an explanation of the condition of Westfield avenue and the benefits to be derived by having that avenue widened under the terms of the bill before a trolley was constructed upon it. A. B. Carlton, comptroller of Elizabeth, and ex-Senator Vail followed in the same vein.

John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth, suggested an amendment that the franchise to be granted be limited to twenty five years, at the end of which time the municipality might have the right to pay the original cost of the road and sell the franchise anew to the highest bidder.

"Farmer" Martine went even further, and asked an amendment that would provide for direct municipal ownership. He favored municipal ownership of all public works, and said there was no better time to take the initiative step in that direction than now.

William H. Corbin spoke briefly in favor of the bill. Lawyer James O. Shiff, of Westfield, said the bill would be advantageous to his township. The people of his township wanted a wide boulevard and the trolley for rapid transit. It would greatly improve the value of property.

John Kean spoke of the fine system of county roads in Union and which the people wanted to preserve. The trolley was inevitable, he said, and the people, knowing this, wanted the road from Plainfield to Elizabeth widened. It would preserve the fine county road, if this bill was passed Mr. Kean said he felt a little delicacy in speaking on the matter because of the offer he had made of $100,0.0 for the franchise.

Chandler W. Bilker, of East Orange, spoke against the bill. He said that he was interested in an opposition trolley road. Mr. Bergen's scheme for municipal ownership had been rejected, he said, by every municipality to which it had been submitted. He denounced the proposition to allow a majority of the Board of Freeholders to make a deal with a trolley company.

The speaker then attacked John Kean's offer and said he had laid tracks on Morris avenue, Elizabeth, years ago that he had never run a car over. Mr. Bilker declared it would cost $1,000 to widen Westfield avenue through the country districts, and to widen it through the different municipalities would cost a million dollars.

IS SMEDBERG'S MIND TOTTERING IN JAIL?

Friends Claim Imprisonment Is Making Him Crazy.

WILL TRY TO SECURE HIS RELEASE

Charge is Made That He is Illegally Held and an Application for a Habeas Corpus is to be Made so as to Get Him Released—The Move to Have Him Extradited to New York for Trial Will be Fought—Just Discharged from the Hospital.

An effort is to be made to secure the release of Joseph D. Smedberg from the county jail at Elizabeth. He is at present confined there for a term of thirty days in order to permit the authorities of New York to secure extradition papers for his removal to that State, where he is wanted on a charge of having stolen a surveyor's outfit.

When Smedberg completed his term in jail Saturday for having stolen diamonds from Harry W. Marshall, of Plainfield, he was arrested as a fugitive from justice. On this charge he was arraigned before Police Justice Hall, who committed him to jail for thirty days in order to give time for the preparation of the necessary papers.

It was announced Saturday that Smedberg declined he was not guilty of any crime in New York, and intended to fight the case. Yesterday morning Lawyer C. N. Trimble appeared at police court and secured a copy of the document that charges Smedberg with being a fugitive from justice. Mr. Trimble told a reporter that he intended to make application before Judge VanSyckle for a writ of habeas corpus, demanding Smedberg's release on the ground that the prisoner is illegally confined in the Union county jail. Another reason for asking for the young man's release is said to be that his friends claim he is gradually losing his mental faculties, because of his imprisonment. It is asserted in this direction that Smedberg has not been well physically or mentally for several months, and the fact that he was removed from the jail to the hospital a few weeks previous to the day of his release from custody is offered as evidence of this fact. At the time Smedberg was taken to the hopital it was said he was suffering with rheumatism.

It could not be learned whether any effort would be made to prevent the release of Smedberg, but it is probable that some steps in that direction will be taken.

COLLECTION OF GARBAGE.

MONOPOLY WILL NOT BE ALLOWED.

Board of Health Will License a Limited Number of Collectors—Inspector Addis Reappointed.

The Board of Health of this city held a meeting Tuesday, and after some discussion passed an ordinance providing that permits be issued to a certain number of collectors of garbage within the city limits, for the space of one year. All such permits will be issued with the understanding that the maximum charges shall be fixed by the Board, and that all existing rules relative to the collection of garbage shall be complied with. The license fee required from each collector will not exceed $10.

The effect of this action of the Board of Health will be to prevent any corporation like the Plainfield Sanitary Company from securing the exclusive privilege of collecting ashes and garbage.

A number of people residing in the vicinity of DeKalb avenue, near the cremating plant of the Plainfield Sanitary Company, made complaints to the Board concerning the stench from the plant.

The Board also discussed the question of abolishing the fat house situated on French's mill race. The matter was referred to Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, for his opinion.

William Addis was reappointed to the office of health inspector for another year at a salary of $50 a month.

Louis Callman to Go to Elizabeth

Louis Callman, who has been engaged in the fancy goods business in this city for several years on West Front street, will retire as a Plainfield merchant this week, and move his stock of goods to Elizabeth, where he will enter into partnership with his brother, who has an established business in the county seat. Mr. Callman's jovial ways will be greatly missed by his numerous friends hereabouts.

Mission Worker to be Heard

The men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon will be led by John Acker, of East Orange, formerly superintendent of the Bergen Rescue Mission. Other workers will assist in the meeting.

CHRISTIAN LIFE IS GLORIOUS TO BEHOLD

Its Effect is Uplifting On the Community at Large.

UPON CHRIST'S TRANSFIGURED LIFE.

Rev. William Justin Harsha, D. D., a Celebrated Divine of New York, Gave a Spirited Treat to the Audience That Gathered in Trinity Reformed Church Last Tuesday—A Service of Song Preceded the Regular Meeting.

The dedicatory exercises being held at Trinity Reformed church this week were continued last Tuesday with good success. The attendance was fully as large as Monday evening and the audience was thoroughly appreciative.

After a brief song service conducted by the choir, in charge of H. J. Martin, Rev. Mr. Chambers, of this city, read the Scripture lesson and offered the opening prayer. While the evening offering was being taken a beautiful vocal solo was rendered by H. J. Martin.

The audience certainly realized the treat in store in having present Rev. William Justin Harsha, D. D., of the Second Collegiate Reformed church, of Harlem. He delivered a grand sermon. He was introduced by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the church, who voiced the sentiments of all when he spoke to Dr. Harsha the feeling of gratitude experienced by those present at having so eminent a man with them.

Before commencing his sermon, Dr. Harsha congratulated the members of the church on behalf of his church in New York. He also showed his appreciation for the action of the members of the choir in pushing aside the curtains separating them from the audience, thus showing that they were ever ready to listen to the word of God.

The text selected by the speaker was "The Transfigured Life," as found in the twenty first verse of the second chapter of First Peter. A substance of the remarks follow:

"With business men it is often true that their motive may be right and the action wrong. If we lead a transfigured life we cannot hope to escape suffering. All men suffer. Some in their minds and so live, while others suffer through their families and friends. People who walk with Christ know how to bear these sufferings. We may all rejoice in being called by Christ to a particular service. No man is a perfect teacher until he has suffered.

"We are impelled to suffering by the divine example. For some time past I have been endeavoring to get my people to carry their Bibles to church. Now I am told that the members of my church are known on the street by this one act which they have been led to do. Christ is our example, and we are to follow after His footsteps. That is our whole duty.

"We have many instances of how Christ led a transfigured life. When He was on earth He was brought before many people, and their universal opinion was that He was a perfect man and that no guile was to be found in Him. He was persecuted and troubled on every hand, and yet He withstood all. A large part of our transfigured life comes in being able to withstand persecutions and revilings.

"We want to look at Christ and see how He lived a transfigured life, and that will help us to follow Him. While we are in this body we can scarcely hope to be free from sin, but we may reckon ourselves as dead unto sin and alive unto righteousness. If we are alive unto God we shall live righteous lives. I rejoice tonight in the great fact that Christ came to seek and save that which was lost. When we become members of the sheep-fold I believe we shall always be of that fold. Christ will go before His sheep and lead them safely along.

"The last thought is that Christ is the bishop of our souls. While the troubles of life last He is always throwing His arms around us and helping us. This He will always do if we only trust Him fully. Then we shall not be conformed to this world, but transformed, and we shall lead transfigured lives."

The services will be continued this evening, when the people of this city will have an opportunity of hearing Rev. James F. Riggs, of Rutgers College. Dr. Riggs is no stranger in this city, and no doubt a crowded house will greet this favorite speaker.

Floating Christian Endeavorers.

Friday evening of this week an interesting meeting will be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Mrs. Jane Cassers, of New York, who has charge of the floating Christian Endeavor work on board of ships, will be present with several sailors, who will sing and tell of their work.

RIGHT OF COMMUTERS TO CARRY PACKAGES.

The Question Pending in Court of Errors and Appeals.

THE EXPRESS MESSENGER FIGHT.

It is the Action of Elmer Runyan, of Elizabeth, Against the Central Railroad of New Jersey—Now Being Considered—An Opinion Filed in the Case of the Central Railroad Against Jacob Smalley, of Somerset County.

The March term of the Court of Errors and Appeals opened in Trenton Tuesday with all the judges on the bench except Justice Lippincott. The list was called, a number of motions for dismissal of appeals heard and the hearing of arguments was commenced.

A number of cases were heard, but the only one of interest to Plainfielders was the argument in the case of Elmer Runyan against Central Railroad of New Jersey. This case grew out of the express messenger war in December, 1896, in which Plainfield took an active part.

Runyan, who is president of the Elizabeth Nurseries Company, bought a regular ticket to that city. He was carrying parcels, and was evidently mistaken for a messenger. He was prevented from boarding his train, on the one way, was followed about by railroad hirelings, even when he went to another station; was roughly handled, and finally had to return home by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He brought suit for damages, and was nonsuited by the Judge because, by the strict terms of the ticket, he was not permitted to carry parcels. The Judge followed the Supreme Court decision in the case of Thomas C. Bullock against Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company in nonsuiting, but both cases are now in the Court of Errors and Appeals.

Several opinions were filed Tuesday in cases decided Monday.

An opinion was filed in the case of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, plaintiff in error, against Jacob S. Smalley, defendant in error, by Judge Adams. The case came up from Somerset county. Smalley waited at a crossing for a coal train to pass, and then started over. He was struck and injured by a passenger train coming up from the opposite direction. He could not hear it because of the coal train, nor see it because of a bank and bushes.

The trial judge was held in error for denying the motion of a nonsuit for contributory negligence. It is held that a person's "duty to look and to listen before crossing a railroad includes the duty to do that which will make looking and listening reasonably effective.

"If there is a permanent obstruction to sight that would make danger in visible, and a transient noise that would make it inaudible, it is negligence to go forward at once from a place of safety to a place of possible danger. Prudence requires delay until the transient noise has abated and hearing again becomes efficient for protection."

A BOOK SOCIABLE.

A Pleasant Lenten Affair Held at the Park Club.

One of the most novel and pleasant affairs of the Lenten season was held at the Park Club last Tuesday. It was called a "Book Party," and was arranged by Mrs. Charles A. Reed and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen. Each person present, and there were about seventy, represented the name of a book in some way and the novelty attached to it was a source of great pleasure.

Much amusement was afforded those present by guessing the names of books through the symbols used, and after the conclusion of this part of the programme, all adjourned to the room below where a dainty supper was served.

Y. M. C. A. Committees to Meet.

The newly-appointed committees of the Y. M. C. A. will hold their first meeting in the association building next Monday. Supper will be served by the ladies at 6:30, and a conference will follow.

Shown His New Quarters.

Hans Schultz, of Pondville, who was arrested in the borough and sentenced to twenty days for being drunk and disorderly, was taken to Somerville Tuesday afternoon.

Case Was Postponed.

The Case of Neilson against Johnson, on contract, which was to have been tried in Justice Nash's court Tuesday morning, was postponed one week.

—A mile bicycle track has been completed around Lake Lilly, at Cape May Point.

NAVAL RESERVES WILL NOW BE ON THE ALERT.

Ordered To Hold Themselves in Readiness For Duty.

DRILLING ON THE PORTSMOUTH.

Order Calling the Men Together Stated That Foreign Complications Demanded It—Entire Batalion Will be Called Out Next Monday—The Reserves Notified to be Ready to Respond to an Immediate Call if Found Necessary.

In response to an order from Lieut. Hart, in charge of the Third Division, New Jersey Naval Reserves, the members from this city went to Hoboken last Tuesday for practice on board of ship Portsmouth. There were about 175 men present. The drilling officer was not only well pleased with the attendance, but with the work of the men as well.

The order to appear caused not a little excitement among the men. The members in this city were recently given orders not to leave the State without permission, and were required to give their home and business address. They were given to understand that they might be called at any time. The order received last Monday evening gave as the reason for calling the men together that foreign complications demanded it.

A further move of significance has been made. Next Monday evening the entire batalion, consisting of about 400 Reserves, are to report to the Portsmouth for drill and inspection. The drill will be in charge of a high naval Government officer. It is the purpose of the Government to have the Reserves so drilled that in case of necessity they will be able to take a ship and man it completely. There is a general feeling in Reserve circles that the officials will expect considerable of the men if they are called into action.

A newspaper reporter has interviewed some of the members of the Reserve in this city, and learned that they are willing and anxious to go on duty. Each one seems to be filled with patriotism and to be only too anxious to be able to prove their worth to the Government. In all there are about fifteen members of the Reserve in this city, and they are all well fitted for duty.

NO HURRY ORDER RECIEVED

WORK AT POND'S THE SAME AS EVER.

The Sun's Report That Work on the Disappearing Gun Carriages is Being Pushed, is Not so.

The New York Sun's war correspondent in Plainfield is not an enemy but success as a promulgator of truth, if that term be applicable to that paper under a Plainfield date line is a fair sample of his work as a veracious chronicler. The item read:

HURRY WORK ON GUN CARRIAGES.

EXTRA MEN EMPLOYED IN THE LAST FEW DAYS ON AN ORDER AT PLAINFIELD.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., March 1.—The Pond Machine Tool Company has received notice to hurry the work on its order for disappearing gun carriages for coast defence, and it is now working extra men in order to finish the job. The present order is the second that has been placed with the Pond Company for these carriages within the past year. The last order was for eighteen carriages. Until a few days ago the work was carried on in the usual way, but since then all the available help at the works has been pressed into service to finish the carriages.

One of the heavy guns from the Sandy Hook proving grounds has been brought here, and with it the carriages are tested as soon as finished. They are being sent to the proving grounds as fast as ready. From there they will go to the points where they are needed for coast defence.

Enquiry at the works of the Pond Company Wednesday proved that there was not the slightest reason for sending out such a report. No orders have been received to hurry the Government contract and no extra men have been employed on that line of work. The construction of the disappearing gun carriages, in fact, has been prosecuted during the late "war scare" with just the same amount of perseverance and vigor that has characterized the fulfillment of Government contracts ever since they have been awarded to the Plainfield company.

Another error of the Sun correspondent is the reference to the gun carriages being sent to the proving grounds at Sandy Hook from the factory. This is not so. They are proved at the factory and shipped direct to the points where they are to be used.

Street in Bad Condition.

The roadway on West Second street, from Central avenue to Liberty street, is in such a bad condition that at a recent fire on Orchard place the firemen were obliged to go two blocks out of their way to escape the mud. Recently several loads of dirt have been placed on the street, but it only makes the roadway worse. This street is traveled very much since the introduction of the trolley on Front street, and it should be repaired properly.

STREET RAILWAY TO GO THROUGH FANWOOD

Franchise Granted to Private Capitalists Tuesday Night.

TO CONNECT WITH PLAINFIELD LINE.

Under the Terms of the Franchise the Line is to be in Operation by December 1st, 1898—Will Pay the Township About $1,000 Per Year After Five Years—First Franchise of its Kind to be Granted in Union County—Little Success Elsewhere.

An important development in the trolley situation in this county was brought about Tuesday by the action of the Fanwood Township Committee in granting a franchise to the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company to lay its tracks through the township.

The route granted is the same as was originally asked for by the trolley company. The line will come from the Westfield township line, along North avenue, through the old railroad cut, along Park avenue to Scotch Plains, then on Ridgeway avenue to the extension of Second street, and along Second street to the Watchung avenue line, in this city.

In return for the franchise the company will pay the township $100 per mile annually during the first five years of operation During the second five years an amount equal to three per cent of the gross earnings of the line will be paid, providing such an amount shall exceed $250 a mile. If it does not exceed that amount, then that sum will be paid the township. During the third term of five years a sum equal to five per cent of the gross earnings of the road, or not less than $250, will be paid. Former Assemblyman W. R. Codington, the township counsel, states that the conditions are most favorable to the township, and that after the first five years the revenue derived from the road by the township will exceed $1,000.

Under the terms of the contract the line is to be constructed and in operation by next December.

The action of the Fanwood officials makes that township the first in the county to grant a franchise to the Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company. The corporation has been putting forth efforts to this end in all the townships from Elizabeth to this city, but it has met with but little success in other places.

CAN CALL ON UNIFORMED RANK.

Knights of Pythias Warned to be Ready to Respond to Army Duty

Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, of this city, has received a communication from General Reese, of Phillipsburg, the officer in command of the New Jersey Knights, requesting that the members hold themselves in readiness for service in the event of war with Spain. The order calls for a detailed statement of the number of men available for service.

The organization is recognized by the United States Government as an auxiliary to the regular army and the militia, and in case of hostilities with a foreign power, it would be called into service as a reserve force. The organization has an available force of 60,000 well drilled men.

Firemen Nominate Officers.

A regular meeting of Warren Engine Company was held last Tuesday, at which time officers were placed in nomination for the coming election to be held next May. As usual every member of the company was nominated for one or more of the offices, and the proceedings caused considerable fun. After the transaction of business, the good and welfare committee provided an oyster supper for the members. This was the most enjoyable feature of the evening, and the supper was served finely. A vote of thanks was extended to the committee, consisting of Walter Bennett, Horace Adams and William Debele. This was the last supper for the year, and it was the desire of the committee to make it in every way a success.

McAll Auxiliary Elect.

The annual meeting of the McAll Auxiliary was held Wednesday at the Public Library. The recording secretary, Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead, read a report of the past year's work. The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: President, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller; recording secretary, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Myers; treasurer, Mrs. John Gray Foster; acting vice presidents from the various churches of the city, Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. James Petrie, Mrs. Alexander Gilbert, Mrs. J. U. VanSyckle, Miss Minnie Wood, Mrs. Snodgrass.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

The case of Sternberg against Grobes, which was set for trial in Justice Newcorn's court Wednesday was brought to a settlement before coming to trial.

—Next Friday evening a meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps will be held.

SMEDBERG HAD BUT A FEW MINUTES LIBERTY

He Is Now Wanted in New York For Grand Larceny.

ARRESTED ON FUGITIVE WARRANT

Released From the Union County Jail Today and Soon After Remanded to Await Requisition Papers—Has Been in Elizabeth Hospital For Sometime and Is in Bad Health—Hardly Recognizable.

James Duncan Smedberg, the young draughtsman employed in Scott's Press Works of this city, who confessed stealing over $600 worth of diamonds and jewelry from the home of his friend, Barry W. Marshall, of East Fifth street, last June, and was sentenced to the Union county jail for six months by Judge McCormick after great influence had been brought in his behalf by Governor Voorhees, who acted as his attorney, was released Saturday and was rearrested by Chief of Police Tenney, of Elizabeth, on a fugitive warrant issued by the police of New York.

At the time of Smedberg's trial he also admitted having committed several thefts while a resident of New York a year ago, among them being a gold watch from a woman he boarded with and a set of surveyors instruments from the Standard Gas Light Company, 125th street. For these thefts he was indicted for grand larceny by the grand jury of New York and Friday a detective went to Elizabeth and left the warrant for his arrest in the hands of Chief Tenney. Before releasing Smedberg Warden Blore telephoned the Elizabeth officer and he was on hand to re-arrest the young man when he gained his liberty.

Smedberg was remanded to the jail until requisition papers can be secured and then he will be taken to the Tombs prison in New York, to await trial.

Smedberg's confinement has made severe inroads on his health, and two weeks ago he was transferred from the jail to the hospital in Elizabeth for treatment. He recovered sufficiently Thursday to be returned to his cell. When arrested again Smedberg was taken completely by surprise. During his imprisonment he has grown a Van-Dyke beard, and Plainfielders who have seen him recently did not recognize him.

Smedberg admitted that the theft for which he was convicted was committed so that his wife, with whom he eloped from Salt Lake City, Utah, might live and dress fashionably. When he was arrested he used every endeavor to shield her from complicity, although it was proven that she knew all about the Marshall theft.

After his incarceration in jail Smedberg's wife completely deserted him. She went to live in New York and is now a member of a comic opera chorus. A month ago she visited the jail and secured his signature on separation papers. Since then the young man has not heard a word from her.

PAID $20 FOR A BASS.

Patrick Moran Convicted of a Game Law Violation.

Patrick Moran had to pay dearly for the pleasure of catching a bass from Hoagland's pond, West Front street, between Girard and Grant avenues on last Friday.

Some person who saw Moran with the bass in his possession wrote a letter to Game Warden Sebring, notifying him of the facts in the case, and the Warden, accompanied by Special Policeman Albert Wilson, arrested Moran today on the charge of violating the State game law.

When arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nash, the prisoner did not deny having caught the fish in question, but said that he did not know that it was a bass.

Witnesses who saw the fish in Moran's possession swore that it was a bass, and the Justice, after hearing the evidence, sentenced the prisoner to pay a fine of twenty dollars. The fine was paid.

Realty Changes.

The following tranfers have been recorded during the past week as published by The New Jersey Contractor and Gazette: The Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company to Vincent W. Nash, southwesterly side of Prescott place, 120 feet southeastly from Second street, Plainfield, $10; Elston M. French to George W. Munday, southeasterly side of West Third street and Spooner avenue, Plainfield, $1.

Wagons Left in the Road.

The attention of the authorities of the borough is again called to the fact that ice, stone and hay wagons are left standing on Coddington avenue almost every Sunday and every night. There is a borough ordinance which prevents this, and it should be enforced at once.

Thrown from His Horse.

William Coriell, of Fairview avenue, while out horseback riding yesterday, lost control of his horse on the road from this city to Scotch Plains. After running a considerable distance the animal threw Coriell. He struck on his head, receiving a scalp wound. Dr. Hodges dressed the wound.

MAKES GOOD CITIZENS.

FOURTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE REFORM CLUB OBSERVED.

Exercises Attended by a Large Audience—Congratulatory Remarks by Rev. Cornelius Schenck and Others—The Pledge.

After fourteen years of good work the members of the Reform Club celebrated their anniversary Thursday in an appropriate manner. President W. O. Smith was in the chair and had charge of the programme. There was a good attendance of members, and delegations were present from the W. C. T. U., Sons of Temperance and several other temperance organizations. The programme opened with singing by the audience and a prayer by M. F. Marcley, after which President Smith made an address of welcome. The next number was a piano solo by Miss Jennie Smith.

The main feature of the programme was the address by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The remarks by Mr Schenck were to the point and helpful. He extolled the efforts of the club in advancing the cause of temperance and thus helping both men and women to be of more service in this world. His address was based on Scripture and presented many valuable illustrations in showing the advantages of being sober and righteous. Following his address was a vocal solo was given by H. J. Martin. Then a short address was given by Mrs Parse, president of the W. C. T. U., which was followed with another address by Miss C. R. Yates.

A vocal duet was given by Mrs. J. Newton Honeyman and Mrs. Cole, and their singing was pleasing to all. Other remarks were made by M. F. Marcley, first vice-president of the club, Rev B. W. Hand and John Bayres. The remarks by each were of a congratulatory nature. Another number on the programme was a recitation by Miss Scriner.

After the rendition of the programme an invitation was given to all to sign the pledge, and as a result three persons came forward and placed their names to the roll. The exercises came to a close after Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pronounced the benediction.

THROUGH A STRANGE LAND.

An Audience Conducted Therein by the Descriptions of Mrs. Darrow.

Under the auspices of the Boys' Band of Earnest Workers of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church an interested company of tourists were "personally conducted" through Java and Burmah Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Darrow, of New York, who has recently visited those countries.

Mrs Darrow is a charming speaker to listen to. Her lectures are not at all formal affairs, but are delightful narrations of personal experiences, and descriptions of scenes visited. She brought with her yesterday a number of photographs and sketches illustrating her talk She told of the beautiful scenery and the climate of Java, and described the interesting people of the country and their strange customs.

Burmah, Mrs. Darrow found to be another interesting country. She gave her hearers a vivid account of the strange sights she had witnessed there, and especially delighted the small boys present with her description of a herd of wild elephants feeding on the banks of the Irrawaddy.

MACCLYMONT GOES TO NEW YORK

After May 1 He Will Have Charge of Music in Holy Trinity Church.

William E. MacClymont, who has been organist and choirmaster in the First Presbyterian church for the past four years, will assume a like position in Holy Trinity Episcopal church, 122d street and Lenox avenue, New York, May 1st. Mr. MacClymont presented his resignation to the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian church yesterday.

Holy Trinity church is one of New York's fashionable and largest congregations. Dr. Bridgman, a well-known divine, is the rector. Mr. MacClymont will have entire charge of a paid quartette and vested choir. The church spends $4,000 a year for its music.

Mr. MacClymont will continue to reside in Plainfield.

A Memorial Service.

A memorial service for Frances Willard is being arranged for Sunday, March 6th, by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, a National superintendent and county president, will have charge of the arrangements.

Pastor Got a Good Donation.

Rev. George Angleman, well-known in this city, and holding a charge at Junction, Hunterdon county, was given a donation party last week. He was presented with $70 in cash and about $10 in provisions.

Wants to Get Into the Navy.

George Frazee, of this city, has been given assurances that he will be admitted into the navy. He has been endeavoring for some time past to get sufficient pull to get through.

ATTEMPT TO CRACK A WESTFIELD SAFE.

Isaac Lambert Caught the Desperadoes in the Act.

THEY RAN AWAY AND SHOT AT HIM.

Lambert's Flour and Feed Store Was the Point of Attack—He Was Coming Home From a Dance When He Made the Discovery—Nothing Besides the Safe Was Tampered With in the Store.

After having enjoyed several months of security and almost forgotten its troubles from the depredations of cracksmen, which caused a reign of terror in the pretty town last summer, Westfield is in danger of being again rudely awakened to the fact that there are bold, bad men prowling about, who will attempt any feat that would shrink from the light of day, from chicken stealing to the cracking of a safe.

The excitement which exists in the town at present is caused by the attempt of three rogues to crack the safe of Isaac H. Lambert's flour and feed store on North avenue Saturday morning.

Lambert, who is a musician, was attending a dance in the town hall Friday evening, in company with George Rogers, of this city. It was long after midnight when the two musicians jumped into their carriage and started for home. On their way they passed Lambert's store. It was then about 3 o'clock.

Lambert pulled up the horse and got out with the intention of entering the store for some article. As he alighted he was surprised to see a man standing at the front door. The fellow walked up to Lambert and asked:

"Are you the owner of this store?" Without waiting for a reply he wheeled about and shouted:

"Get out of there—the game's up."

Instantly from the window at the side of the store leaped two men. All three then took to their heels down the road. When a short distance away one of the three wheeled and fired at Lambert The bullet flew wide of its mark.

An examination of the office showed that the safe had been drilled through and the cracksmen were preparing to insert a charge of powder to blow it up. Nothing else about the office had been disturbed. Entrance had been gained by prying open the window at the side of the office with a chisel.

Lambert is able to give a fairly good description of one of the men, whom he describes as being short and dark, and wearing a long overcoat. He thinks that he has seen the fellow loitering about Westfield before.

It is thought by the authorities that the men are the same parties who broke into the Union News Company's stand at the railroad station last week and stole $50 worth of cigars.

TALKED OF LOWELL'S CHARACTER.

Leon Vincent's Talented Remarks in the Y. M. C. A. Yesterday.

Leon Vincent gave the first of a series of three lectures upon literary subjects in the Y. M. C. A. Hall Friday afternoon.

The subject of the lecture was Lowell, and the lecturer gave an entertaining talk illustrating the famous man's character as a critic, a letter writer and an American. As a critic Lowell was easily the first among his American contemporaries. He found a magazine of his own at the beginning of his career, but it died at the somewhat early age of three months. He afterwards was one of the founders of the Atlantic Monthly and was also one of the editorial staff of the North American Review. His "Fable for Critics" is a rhymed primer of American literature. All its predictions concerning contemporary authors came true, showing the fine insight of the author in literary matters.

Lowell's letters are among the best that have ever been written, combining an exquisite humor with a closeness of expression that is really marvelous. As an American he was true to the literary interests of his country by his refusal to praise anything and everything written by Americans. His essay "On a Certain Condescension in Foreigners" was a stinging rebuke to those critics across the water who believe that no good thing can come out of America.

To Practice in New York.

Henry L. Maxson, of this city, has opened an office for the general practice of law in the Postal Telegraph building, 253 Broadway, New York city, having for several years past been managing clerk in one of the busiest law offices in New York, engaged in commercial litigation.

Enlisted in the Navy.

Robert Mazo Edwards, son of Mazo E. Edwards, the well-known theatrical manager, was Wednesday accepted as a naval apprentice in the United States navy, at Brooklyn, and will at once be sent away to one of our war ships at the south.

—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be held in the Crescent Avenue church next Sun lay.

SILK MILL MAY BE A NEW LOCAL INDUSTRY

A Connecticut Company Want to Come to Plainfield.

WROTE TO THE BOARD OF TRADE.

One of the Biggest Firms in the Country and the Factory Which it Would Build Here Would Employ Between 300 and 400 Hands—Grian Pickle Company Would Locate Here.

A bit of good news has come this week to those who are actively interested in the further growth of the city by the intelligence that a large silk mill may shortly be erected here. The intelligence of the intention of capitalists to erect such a factory first came to the new Board of Trade, which received a communication some days ago from the Moosehead Silk Company, of Willimantic, Conn., stating that the company desired to erect a plant here, if suitable arrangements with the Board of Trade can be made.

The Moosehead Silk Company is one of the most extensive silk manufacturing firms in the country. The factory which it proposes to erect here will occupy a ground floor space of 75 x 200 feet, and would accommodate 300 or 400 hands

No definite action has been taken in the matter as the Board of Trade, and the matter is now in the hands of a committee, and will be brought up at the next meeting of the Board The concessions demanded by the company are considered reasonable by those who have given the communication their consideration, and efforts will be made to come to an agreement which will result in the erection of the plant in this city within a few months' time.

The Heinz Pickle Company has also signified to the Board of Trade a desire to locate a factory in this city if it can secure from the farmers in the surrounding country a guarantee of 500 acres of cucumbers each year for the factory.

THEIR LAST NIGHT.

Jubilee Songs a Feature of the Affair Held in the Olympia

The closing concert and entertainment in the series given by the congregation of the Fillmore Baptist church, took place in the Olympia Sycamore street, last Friday, and proved a very successful affair.

The entertainment began with an old folks' concert, consisting of jubilee songs and other interesting features. Among those taking part were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson, Miss Ida Barnes, James Scott, Miss Ella Randolph, Mrs. Ellen Randolph, Miss Mary Swain, Miss Francis James, Miss Alice Wallace, Matthew Wallace Mrs. Emma Webster, David Thomas Mrs. Annie Thomas, Mrs. Sophie Russell, Henry Russell, Miss Viola Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robinson, Miss Emma Barnes, Mrs. Jennie Bushrod, Miss Grace Manning, Miss Ada Wood and Miss Nora Williams.

Recitations were given by Miss Mary Swain and Miss Mary Hatburn The other features of the affair consisted of a talking pond in charge of Matthew Wallace, a postoffice at which Herbert Doyle officiated as postmaster, and a donkey party in charge of Matthew Roy. The part of Rebecca at the well was taken by Miss Rebecca Roy.

May Stay in Jail For Life.

Because he failed to support his child, six years old, Charles Anthony, colored, of Kingston, has been in the Middlesex county jail for two and a half years. About three years ago his wife became insane. Anthony did not know what to do with the child. When his neighbors made a complaint against him for not supporting the child he was arrested and committed to jail for one year. At the termination of the first year he was sent to jail for another year. According to the law this can be continued until the victim dies from old age. Anthony is serving his third year, and so accustomed has he become to the life that he does not mind it in the least.

Pink and Green Luncheon.

A delightful little social affair was the luncheon given Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. P. Homan, 118 West Fifth street, by Mrs. S. W. Clark in honor of Miss Maude Mosher. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and green, and covers were laid for twenty two guests.

Monument for Battle Ground.

Congressman Gardner has introduced a bill appropriating $30,000 for a monument on the Princeton battle ground, with a proviso that the money is not to be paid until the Princeton Monument Association has raised a like sum. The design is to be approved by the Secretary of War.

Luncheon in Honor of Engagement.

At a luncheon given Thursday at the home of E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, the engagement of his daughter, Miss Helen Clark, to Mark Cheney, of Manchester, Conn., was announced. The wedding of Miss Bertha Clark to Mr. Williams will take place early in April.

YOUNG MEN WERE HOSTS

AND GAVE THEIR GUESTS A BAND CONCERT OF NATIONAL AIRS.

The Affair Held in the Park Avenue Baptist Church and Much Enjoyed—Noted Men at the Supper Table.

An epidemic of entertainments arranged by young men appears to have broken out in Plainfield, and Thursday the Park Avenue Baptist church took the contagion. A very pleasant entertainment and social was given in the church parlors, under the charge of a committee of young men, and the affair was much enjoyed by all present.

The Queen City Band had a prominent place on the programme, and rendered several instrumental numbers in an excellent manner. The National spirit engendered by the loss of the Maine appeared to have gotten into their beats, on their instruments, for the "Star Spangled Banner," with variations, "Yankee Doodle," and a medley of other National airs, all found a place on the programme, and were enthusiastically received. The vocal music was by Mrs. H. E. Rider, whose beautiful singing of two soprano solos was much enjoyed. Frank O. Rider always popular with a Plainfield audience, was also present and gave a number of recitations and impersonations.

When the hour for refreshments arrived, the guests had the remarkable honor of being served by George Washington, Oliver Cromwell, two sailors, and a native of Africa. The father of his country was personated by Arthur Heath, the Protector by Thomas Cumming, the two boys in blue by Ferd Dorman and Frank Clarkson, and the African by Joseph M. Hankins. Since every well appointed banquet must have its chef, George Watts acted in that capacity.

The committee in charge of this pleasant and successful evening was composed of Nelson VanWinkle, Frank Vail, Ferd Dorman, Frank Clarkson, Joseph M. Hawkins, Arthur Heath, Thomas Cuming and George Watts.

WERE WEDDED ON THE QT.

PARENTS HAVE JUST FOUND IT OUT.

New Market Lass Went Visiting Ostensibly, but Instead Became the Wife of Fred Ward, Grocery Clerk.

Three weeks ago Miss Carrie Davis, whose father keeps a grocery store in New Market, left home ostensibly to visit friends in a neighboring town. Previous to the young woman's departure Fred Ward, who had been employed as a clerk in the grocery store, resigned and left for Somerville, where he intended to engage in the bakery business.

Young Ward and his employer's daughter had been considered good friends, the former calling on her once in a while and escorting her to church sociables and parties in the neighborhood, but it was not thought that the couple were matrimonially inclined. However, after Miss Davis had been gone from home for over two weeks and her mother received no letter from her, the former wrote to the relatives the young woman was supposed to be visiting. She was astounded when she received a letter saying that her daughter had not been seen.

She immediately commenced an investigation to learn where the missing young woman was and was completely surprised, and withal somewhat angered, to learn that her daughter now bears the name of Mrs. Fred Ward. She was married, it seems, in New York a short time after leaving home and accompanied her husband to Somerville where they have taken up their residence.

Fearful of parental wrath, the now Mrs. Ward had not sent word to her parents of her marriage. Mr. and Mrs Davis are much put out over the affair.

No Change in Route.

A rumor that the trains of the Lehigh Valley Railroad would run over the tracks of the New Jersey Central Railroad is denied by officials of both companies. At the office of the Central it was said they had no information to the effect that their road was to be used by the Lehigh, and the officers of the latter company declared that a new time-table will show that their trains run over the Pennsylvania route as heretofore. The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has a contract with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the use of the tracks of the latter that will not expire until 1900, and a change prior to then is not probable.

Annual Local Endeavor Union.

The annual meeting of the local union Christian Endeavor will be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Tuesday, evening March 8th. Features of the meeting will be two addresses. One will be given by Mr. Fox, of New York, who will speak concerning the fresh air camp work at Westfield and elsewhere. The other address will be delivered on the subject of "Sabbath Observance," by Clarence Sebenck, of Newark. Following the business of the evening there will be a social time *and refresh-*ments.

BOROUGH G. O. P. ITES UNUSUALLY AROUSED.

A Red Hot Primary Held to Nominate Candidates.

TWO FACTIONS IN THE FIELD.

With the Exception of Four Ballots Laughlin for Assessor the Same Result in Senator Reed's Office Went Through. But it Came Dangerously Near Being Cracked—Proceedings in Detail.

Never before in the history of the borough has there been such a large attendance at a primary meeting as there was Friday evening when the Republicans met to make their nominations for officers for the spring election. The primary was held in the basement of the public school building and the large room was simply packed with men.

Of course, it was a Republican primary, but there was a sprinkling of Democrats. Some of the latter were heard to remark that they were going to vote at the primary and the vote as they pleased on election day.

John Goodwin was present and attempted to challenge several persons, whom he claimed were not legally citizens, but his efforts proved fruitless. Considerable amusement was furnished the crowd when Mr. Goodwin made his ballot. He was challenged by N. B. Gumby and the latter had a great deal of fun at the expense of the former. Mr Goodwin claimed to have the last of his ballots and no one seemed to contradict him.

The primary was called to order by B. A. Hegeman, Jr., a member of the county executive committee, and he was also chosen chairman and filled the position with dignity. Borough Clerk Arnold was chosen secretary. Stephen B Joseph and Frank Bowby were chosen as tellers.

The primary afforded some surprise and there was a good deal of cutting in the party ranks. The biggest vote was cast for the nominees for councilmen. Messrs. John Vallant, George T. Rogers and W. C. Smith. Vallant received 206 votes, Rogers 163 and W. C. Smith 135. In this ballot six blank votes were found. The two successful candidates for three years were Messrs. Vallant and Rogers.

For the position of Assessor, for three years, the present incumbent, J. H. Cooley, was renominated. J. G. MacLaughlin was named in opposition. Mr. Cooley secured the nomination with 168 votes, while his opponent received 142.

A close contest was for the nomination for Collector. The two nominees were G. F. Brown and Albert Hayes. The former received 158 votes and the latter 144. This position is for one year.

The remaining fight was for the nomination for Freeholder. The contestants were Andrew Lutkins and Lewis Barkalow. The latter at present holds the position, but he failed to secure a renomination. His vote was 119, while Mr. Lutkins received 185. This position is for five years.

The other nominations were decided by the secretary casting the ballot. They were as follows: Justices of the Peace, five years, T. R. Crosley; three years, Eli Long; surveyor of highway, John Worth; and James Lonsway, who are at present holders of the positions and their term is for one year; commissioner of appeal, three years, J. P. Emmons; two constables, three years, J. W. VanHorn and Alex Wolf.

On the question of appropriation for the Board of Health the sum of $580 was voted, which is the same as last year. After the nominations had been made, Senator Reed moved that they be made unanimous, and the motion present was decided. Senator Reed, P. J. Emmons and Thomas Doud were appointed a committee to fill vacancies, if there should be any.

A Live Councilman.

In justice to Councilman VanBerwerden it is only fair to state that it is through his efforts that the people in the Netherwood district are to receive the crosswalks they have asked for. This member of the Council is to be commended for good work, and at the meeting last Thursday evening he urged the adoption of the resolution granting the walks.

What is Scott's Emulsion?

It is the best cod-liver oil partly digested, and combined with the hypophosphites and glycerine. What will it do? It will make the poor blood of the anæmic rich and red.

It will give nervous energy to the overworked brain and nerves. It will add flesh to the thin form of a child wasted from fat-starvation.

It is everywhere acknowledged as The Standard of the World.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

NO NEW LIQUOR LICENSES GRANTED.

Important Meeting of the Common Council Last Week.

THE LOSSY OUT IN GREAT FORCE.

It Took the Council an Hour in the Absence of the Whole to Decide on the Question of Granting Any New Saloon Licenses—Two Officials Not Changed—Numerous Petitions Received

There was scarcely sufficient sitting room in the lobby of the City Council room last Thursday for all that desired to learn what disposition the Council would make of the number of applications for liquor licenses. There was a good feeling of unrest evidenced until the matter was finally settled. The saloon men were represented by their friends, while the friends of temperance were conspicuous by their absence.

In the first place James Burke asked the Council to return his application for a liquor license, and the same was ordered returned. A petition was presented signed by several city barbers asking the Council not to repeal the ordinance relating to the Sunday closing of barber shops. Residents of the Fifth street asked for a crosswalk at the corner of Richmond and East Fifth street, Geo. O. Stevens and others asked for crosswalks on West Front street at the corner of Albert street, Compton avenue and Grant avenue.

H. C. Compton and a large number of other residents west of Plain had drawn in a petition protested against the licensing of a saloon in that territory. It was referred to the license committee and later filed. In a communication J. H. Hubbard asked that the tax of $6 19 charged to T. Harris was an error, and he recommended that the amount be returned to Mr. Harris. It was so ordered.

E. H. Randolph and other residents of lower Park avenue petitioned the Council to change the name of Cemetery avenue, which runs from Park avenue to Hillside cemetery. They suggested the name of Bellevieve avenue. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Mr. Silvestine, owner of the all-night lunch wagon, asked the Council to refuse his license fee owing to the hard times. John Keenan petitioned Council for crosswalks at the corner of East Fifth and Richmond streets. Mayor Fisk presented a communication giving the opinion of the Corporation Counsel regarding the rights of the city and Board of Freeholders over North avenue from city line to Richmond street, from North avenue to Third street to Watchung avenue. In the opinion of Mr. Marsh the Freeholders have priority of right with all city streets so long as they keep them in repair or do any work thereon. Otherwise the city have first right.

Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution that the salaries of the City Collector and Treasurer remain the same, and that the question of fixing the City Clerk's salary be laid over till the March meeting. The reason for leaving the above two salaries as they are, is, that Mr. Marsh in an opinion said the city has no right to change an official's salary during his term of office. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Barrows stated, in regard to Chas. Hand's request for sewers on Berkley avenue, that he had seen Mr. Hand and informed him that he would have the services of the Street Commissioner, and would probably be able to lay the sewer at the same price furnished the city. Mr. Hand decided to accept the offer and will lay the sewer at his own expense. It will be necessary to locate a flush tank on South avenue, and this will probably be done by the city.

At this time Mr. Barrows moved that the Council go into a committee of the whole to discuss the question of license and any other matter that might come up. Mr. Hetfield was chosen chairman of the committee, and the members and injured to the ante-room. Fully an hour elapsed before the members returned, and during this time those in the lobby became somewhat weary. Finally, the Councilmen returned, and Chairman Hetfield, of the committee of the whole, made a report on the applications for licenses. The result of the discussion was that all of the old applications were granted. Not one of the new applicants received a license. Mr. Andrews voted against all licenses, while Mr. Moffett voted against all applications for a saloon license, and in the affirmative for the applications for licenses to run a hotel.

Those who secured licenses were Jacob Bilmm, J. E. Beerbower, Fred Casper, Bernard Clark, Alex. Findlay, John Goff, D. Galbraith, Henry Haunad, Martin Kane, Frank Linke, John Rafferty and Charles Smith. The applications of Chris. Beck and Mark Hipp were tabled, and it is not likely that they will be granted. The idea in placing them on the table was that the applicants might have an opportunity of withdrawing them before the next meeting. The application of John Kavanaugh was reported to be incorrect and was referred back for correction. Those who voted for the licenses entire were Messrs. Baker, Barrows, Homan, VanHerwerden, Banyon, Newman, Hetfield, Buckle and Liefke.

After the licenses were decided upon the crowd in the lobby made themselves scarce, and the little business left was quickly transacted. Several back licenses were granted, and Mr. Liefke stated in regard to the request of Mr. Silvestein for a reduction in his license fee to run the all night lunch wagon, that the Council had no right to make a reduction as the fee is fixed by ordinance. He instructed the Clerk to notify Mr. Silvestein to that effect. The appointment of an assessor of the poor will come up at the next meeting. As soon as possible the members concluded the business and adjourned the meeting.

SOMERVILLE IS SELFISH.

AFRAID OF PLAINFIELD'S POWER.

The Democrat Says That There is No Place for This Beautiful City in Somerset's Realm.

While not to be unexpected from selfish Somerville, it is a bit surprising to see the Somerville Democrat openly oppose the annexation of the city of Plainfield to Somerset county in order to accomplish the consolidation of the borough and city into one municipality. After quoting an article from The Daily Press, announcing that direct steps had been taken to make a Greater Plainfield, The Democrat of las tweek says:

As will be seen by the above item, the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield are agitating the question of consolidation, and as a preliminary step they want to bring Plainfield into Somerset or North Plainfield into Union county. The people of Somerville and Somerset county in general are opposed to annexing Plainfield to Somerset county. While we admire the push and enterprise of that people, we are opposed to have the highest respect for its citizens, still we do not want the city annexed to Somerset county.

The politicians of Plainfield don't like it because the politicians of Elizabeth can outvote them, and even quietly gobble most of the important offices. We don't blame Plainfield politicians for not liking that, but if that city is annexed to Somerset, Somerville, Raritan, Peapack, Bernardsville and every other section of the county would be in the same fix that Plainfield is now in. The politicians of Plainfield would have votes enough to gobble everything they wanted. It would not be long before they would want to make Plainfield the county seat, and thus trouble would begin.

This matter should receive serious consideration. Unless our people act they may be annexed to some Plainfield—but Somerset county whether they want to or not. Don't keep quiet, thinking that your neighbor will do all the talking.

We want every reader of The Democrat in Somerset county to send us an answer to the following questions. Don't delay until too late to get it out at once:

First—Are you in favor of annexing Plainfield to Somerset county?

Second—If you are in favor of annexing Plainfield to Somerset county, give your reasons for the same.

Third—If you are opposed to annexing Plainfield to Somerset county, give your objections to same.

TO SELL OLD SCHOOLHOUSE.

North Plainfield Township Educators Are Numerous in Their Remarks.

The Board of Education of North Plainfield Township met last Friday in the Borough Council rooms for the purpose of settling up accounts for the year and paying all bills. It was stated that the school building in Washingtonville is completed, except the furnishing, and they were ordered last evening. At the next meeting of the Board arrange ments will be made to sell the old schoolhouse in the Valley. Some of the members expressed the idea that the structure would be just the thing for a chicken house, and no proposition was given the members to buy it if they so desired.

The meeting for the election of trustees will be held on Tuesday evening, and the Minutes of the business considered last evening was of a routine nature, and it was after 10 o'clock when the session adjourned.

There was some argument also regarding the kind and style of seats to place in the new school-house. The matter was finally left to the building and supply committee with power to act. Bills were ordered paid for the furnishings and report at a future meeting. It was announced that there was sufficient money to pay bills and a little was left in the treasury besides.

OLD-TIME SPELLING MATCH

An Enjoyable Feature at the Sociable in All Souls Church.

The second of the series of four sociables at All Souls church was held in the church parlors last Thursday under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. E. Burr Smith. There was an exhibition of colored stereopticon views by Philip Van H. Van Wyck, one of the trustees. Geo. D. Patten read a selected ballad and Miss Graves played a piano solo, after which an old-fashioned spelling match, with Mr. Smith as teacher and Mr. Nickerson and Mr. Lunsford choosing sides, continued an hour. Mrs. R. L. Wells outspelled both sides. Refreshments were then served. The rooms were decorated with American flags and bunting and a large engraving of Washington, as the sociable was first planned to be held Feb. 22.

Death of Mrs. Bilyeu.

The death of Mrs. Elizabeth Bilyeu, widow of the late Henry Bilyeu, occurred Saturday at her late residence, 27 Somerset street. The deceased was sixty-three years old, and for many years has been an invalid and confined to the house. The funeral services were held from the house last Monday afternoon at 2:30. Interment was in the Methodist cemetery this city.

A PRETTY RIBBON DRILL.

HARMONY IN COLORS AND MOTION AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Ladies' Aid Society Scores a Success in Arranging Novel Features—A Bazaar and Those in Charge of the Tables.

The Martha Washington bazaar and ribbon drill, which were given at Grace M. E. church last Thursday, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, proved a gratifying success, both financially and socially.

The entertainment began at 8 o'clock with a chorus, "America," which was rendered by a choir of twenty boys and girls from the Sunday-school. Miss Mabel Garey gave a recitation entitled "My Grandma;" the chorus sang "Suanee River;" Miss Ada VanHorn recited "Our Flag;" the recitation entitled "I'm Fifteen Today," was given by Miss Lottie Benner, and the chorus again sang. Its last selection was "Yankee Doodle."

The ribbon drill, which came next upon the programme, was a very pretty exercise consisting of six tableaux and some clever drill work. Twenty young ladies taking part were the Misses Nellie Valiant, Mabel Stevens, Addie Carney, Winnifred Carroll, Grace Gaddis, Sadie Winckler, Carrie Pangborn, Eva Doeringer, Florence Conroy, Mary Hoagland, Ida Watterson and Belle DeMott. Miss Alice Carroll presided at the piano during the drill.

After the ribbon drill the entertainment portion of the programme was succeeded by a delightful affair in the form of a bazaar and sociable. The church was prettily decorated with American flags, and tables were arranged about the room at which guests were served with ice cream cake, lemonade and other good things. The committee in charge of the ice cream was Mrs. John Carney, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Edward Sebring and Mrs. John Kulp. Coffee was served by Mrs. E. A. Vermeule and Mrs. L. G. VanNest, and cake by Mrs. Isaac Shepard, Mrs. Noe, Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Vanderbeck. At one side of the room was a table laden with fine candies, in charge of a committee of which Mrs. S. M. Most was chairman. In another portion of the room was a popcorn table, in charge of the members of the Queen Esther Band of the church. The lemonade booth was prettily arranged to secure a snowy effect, with the lemonade dispensed by a snowman and snow bank. The booth was in charge of the King's Daughters. At the fancy goods table was a fine selection of artistic novelties made by the ladies of the church. The committee in charge was Mrs. H. K. Carroll, Mrs. Ezra Loomis, Mrs. Lewis Hummer, Mrs. Andrew Lutkins, Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. A. A. Taft. The committee in charge of the entertainment portion of the programme was Miss Alice Carroll and Mrs. A. M. Most. Mrs. John Valiant was chairman of the general committee in charge.

A DOLLAR SOCIAL

Trinity Church Women Tell Their Experience of Earning a Dollar Each.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church is aiding in the work of furnishing the new church parlors and Thursday evening held a "Dollar Social" in the new lecture room, at which each member was required to bring a dollar and relate how the money was earned.

The plan proved a success in more ways than one, and the different accounts which were given of the way in which the money was earned proved very interesting. One member stated that she had earned her dollar by selling and saving car fare; another had saved the money from household expenses; one had folded circulars for her husband. Rev. Cornelius Schaeffer, pastor of the church, was present, was called upon to state the manner in which he had earned his dollar. He stated that he had earned it by setting that amount aside Thursday, the dollar

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force. Editor and Proprietor

CAN DEFY THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Now that Plainfield is a second class city the following comment from the Newark News will prove very interesting reading, inasmuch as it is knowledge which the average citizen is ignorant of:

It is true that the law now permits any telegraph or telephone company to erect poles and string wires wherever it sees fit in the streets of every second-class city, regardless of the Common Council or the wishes of the people, and that law can be amended or repealed too quickly. In New Brunswick a telephone company asked the City Council for a franchise. The Council thought the city already had wires and poles enough, and refused to grant it. Then the telephone company filed a plan of its proposed route and calmly notified the Council that under the law it had the right to go ahead and construct its line and proposed to do so. The City Attorney looked up the law and, according to the New Brunswick newspapers, discovered that the telephone company was making no unfounded boast, and that the Council was powerless to prevent the corporation from carrying out its intention. Now it is said the city will take the matter into the courts and endeavor to have the law declared unconstitutional. It would seem that there should be no difficulty in establishing the fact that a grant to private corporations in derogation of the rights of municipalities is clearly beyond the power of the Legislature, and has been so decided in countless cases. But is there no question about the existence of this law?

VOTERS EXERCISED THEIR RIGHTS.

The Republicans of the borough responded nobly to the admonition of Mayor Wilson, in which he urged that they exercise their rights of suffrage in the political conventions of the party with which they are affiliated. For several years the primaries in the borough have been but perfunctory affairs, little life or interest being manifested by the rank and file of either party, but the caucus of last night showed a spirit on the part of the voters that is conducive to the best government in municipal affairs. Friction in political affairs is always a good thing for the public—that is, if the people at large take a hand in it.

BETTER STREETS NEEDED.

Plainfield is urgently in need of better streets, and there should be no cutting of the appropriation for that purpose to sum less than that allowed by the Common Council of last year. Sixteen thousand dollars was appropriated last year, and in reality it should be increased for the ensuing twelve months. Approximately, there will be $7,000 spent on work where there will be no show of improvement in macadamized roads, and deducting this from $16,000, it leaves a sum that will not nearly accomplish the improvements that every section of the city is demanding.

The Paterson Press highly commends Assemblyman Murray's plan of saving the Palisades. It says: "One of the really practical suggestions as to how to stop the destruction of the Palisades comes from Assemblyman Murray, of Union county, who proposes a heavy penalty for blasting rock within two hundred feet of any navigable stream. The despoilers of the noble crags would be willing to turn them over at a more moderate figure for a State or National reservation if this check were applied to their mercenary business.

John Wanamaker divided nearly $18,000 among his Philadelphia store employes as their share of the holiday profits. And this is the prince of advertisers, who says: "I never in my life used such a thing as a poster or a dodger or handbill. My plan for twenty years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up as I wanted. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper of 500 circulation for $5,000 dodgers or posters."

The observant editor of the High Bridge Gazette voices this sentiment which applies not only to High Bridge but also to Plainfield:

Over thirteen hundred dogs are on exhibition in Madison Square Garden, New York, this week. Several High Bridge dogs will not be there. They ought to be there though, or somewhere else besides here, as this town can get along very well without them.

Dollar wheat and dollar gas seem to show that the American farmer is forging ahead of the grasping capitalist.—New Brunswick Fredonian.

Just what relation dollar gas has to the farmer we profess much ignorance. The agriculturists are usually content to help along the Standard oil trust by being steady customers.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

CHURCH SANCTUARY DEDICATED IN JOY AND FERVOR

A HAPPY AND AUSPICIOUS EVENT FOR THE MEMBERS OF TRINITY REFORMED SOCIETY.

Dedication of the Remodeled Edifice Held Sunday Morning and Attended by a Large Concourse of People—Sermon by Dr. Raymond.

An audience numbering nearly 1,000 people thronged Trinity Reformed church to the doors Sunday morning at the first of the series of services in connection with the dedication of the remodeled edifice.

The beauty of the newly decorated and furnished audience room was enhanced by a lavish display of palms and potted plants, which were arranged with artistic effect about the pulpit platform. Upon the platform near the pastor of the church, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., and Rev A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., the church's first pastor, and now president of Union College, at Schenectady, N. Y.

Shortly after 10:30 o'clock the tones of the big organ pealed forth the familiar strains of the doxology, which the audience joined in singing. The invocation, Lord's prayer and salutation were given by the pastor. He also read a selection of Scripture, and the hymn, "O Thou Whose Own Vast Temple Earth and Sky Adore," was sung by the congregation, led by a large choir of mixed voices under the direction of Horace J. Martin, the chairman of the music committee of the church.

The dedication service proper began with a responsive reading of the 132d Psalm; a gloria was sung, and the audience arose and stood during the declaration, the recital of the Apostles' creed, and the prayer of dedication. The prayer was a responsive one, participated in by both the pastor and the congregation. It ended with the Lord's prayer, given in unison.

It was the intention of those in charge of the services to have the report of the building committee presented at this point in the service, but owing to the illness of B. A. Begeman, treasurer of the committee, it was necessary to omit the report. In making the announcement of Mr. Begeman's illness the pastor expressed the appreciation of the congregation for the valuable services rendered by that gentleman, and hoped that he would shortly be restored to health again. Dr. Schenck also took occasion to mention the debt of gratitude which was due to different individuals and organizations in the church for their valuable assistance and unselfish devotion in furthering the work of remodeling the church. The hymn "O Jesus, Our Chief Corner Stone," was then sung, and an offering was taken, during which the choir sang an anthem—gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

In introducing Rev. Dr. Raymond as the preacher of the morning, the pastor referred to the valuable work which had been done by the church's first pastor, and also spoke of the continued interest which Dr. Raymond has shown to the present day in the church's welfare.

Dr. Raymond paused a moment as he faced the great audience, as if struggling with thoughts and memories which he could find no words adequate to express. "It is a great, an indescribable pleasure," he said, "for me to stand in this place today. What memories throng upon me here, tender and sacred memories which I cannot, would not banish, because they are of the best that life has given me. Pardon me for referring to the memories of seventeen years ago. I know that you will when I say that those years contain the deepest part of my life.

"We were a feeble folk then. But how strong our faith! There comes to me at this time the memory of a Sunday in 1881, when a small number of us gathered together here to take an offering for foreign missions. There were only seventy-five people in the room, but our offering amounted to $115. I recall when shortly afterward the Consistory passed a resolution that no fairs or bazaars should be resorted to to raise money for the running expenses of the church. Where was the money to come from? It seemed as if the Lord answered that question for us, for within the next month two contributions of $500 each was received, and our income increased from week to week thereafter. We trusted God and were not confused. Have we lost our faith of the old days? Or do we see still more clearly that if we seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness all these other things shall be added unto us? And what men they were in the old days! It is a constant source of pleasure for me to think of the men of God, many of them now dead, who stood by the side of their pastor and upheld his hands in those early days.

'But we must not linger in the past. The old days were no better than these days. True, the old church is gone, but a new church, such as we never dreamed of having, stands in its place. Change does not mean a loss, or if it does the loss is one which results in gain. This beautiful new church in which we worship today is but a part of the larger life into which you have grown."

Turning then to Dr. Schenck, the speaker continued: When I think of all that you have done here, my brother, I feel like giving thanks unto the Lord for his goodness to this people. May the Lord lift up his countenance upon you and give you peace."

The text of Dr. Raymond's sermon was Psalm XXVIII:4, "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord, all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple."

It was surprising, the speaker said, that one place should have seemed so desirable to the psalmist. All creation sang to him, but he loved the house of the Lord His soul seemed to draw its strength from the sanctuary of God There is an underlying reason for this. For the development of any deep feeling there must be an abiding place. All the world may be a home, and love is everywhere, but they love best to whom one sanctuary is sacred. One holy place makes all places holy.

But, granted that one place should be held sacred, in order to secure the best worship, the question presents it self, is a religious life necessary after all? Does religion belong to a past age—to the childhood of the race? In answering this question let us call to mind the fact that morality is a necessity in the progress of the race. All men will agree that in human life the right is eternally strong that righteousness is fibre and sin is rottenness. But morality will not take care of it self. Our country is now subject to peculiar dangers, such as the love of riches, licentiousness and intemperance, and government cannot cure these. Government, which is force, can compel but cannot cure a man Force does not reach the heart, and out of the heart are the issues of life.

Intellectual culture is the panacea of some for the sins of the world, but education will not bring a change of the heart. Without doubt many of the crimes of the age are the result of the growing intelligence of the race. Education deals only with the head, and this accounts for its failure to cure the sins of the world. In truth the whole question is studied the more it becomes evident that only as a man is given the truth as it is in Christ Jesus will there be any proper apprehension of morality. Only as a conviction of the existence of a higher world touches home upon our hearts and consciences do we come to respect the law of God. Blot out our apprehension of the spiritual and eternal world, and what is man?

Between morality and spiritual truth there is a bond fixed and eternal. If all that has glorified our nation in the past is to survive as anything more than a memory, there must come home to the men of the present that apprehension of things spiritual which will enable them to give up the sacrifice for the unseen and the eternal. We can now see why the church is so important a factor in the welfare of the race. It is because upon the church depends the development of religious life, and upon the development of religious life depend those virtues upon which society rests. The church stands for the things holiest in our thoughts and most sacred in our memories. Wherever a church spire points heavenward it tells the community that there is the home of the most sacred of human aspirations. There the problem of earthly sorrow and the mystery of earthly suffering are made clear in the shining light from the eternal world. Keep this place holy, and it will indeed be for you the home of God.

The service closed with the singing of an appropriate hymn, written by a member of the church consistory.

Visited the Sunday-school.

The officers, teachers and scholars of the Sunday-school, to the number of 349, were much pleased in receiving a visit from Dr. Raymond at the session of the school in the afternoon. He made a short address in which he congratulated the school on its possession of well-apportioned quarters, and remarked that his memory of the schoolroom in former days were likened unto a hole in the ground. He rejoiced with all in the gladsome exercises which marked the new era in the history of the Sunday-school as well as the church and wished them God-speed.

The remarks of Dr. Raymond were well received, and in recognition of his presence the scholars of the primary department sang a favorite hymn in commendable manner.

Evening Service.

The evening service in connection with the dedicatory exercises far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of all in attendance. Some time previous to the opening of the church doors people began to gather and it was but a short time a'terward that the beautiful edifice was thronged to the limit. The seating capacity was scarcely sufficient to accommodate all and many were obliged to stand throughout the service.

The church, illuminated for the first time by electricity, presented an attractive sight together with the decorations, and the transformation was greatly admired. The opening exercises were in charge of the pastor. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., and Dr. Raymond assisted by reading the Scripture lesson taken from the second chapter of first Corinthians. There was a short song service conducted by the large choir under the leadership of Horace J. Martin, and there was also an effective solo by Miss Etta Krymer, assisted by a double quartette selected from the choir.

Dr. Raymond, who delivered the sermon, took his text from the fourth chapter of the Gospel of St. John, verses 31 34 and the words upon which he based his remarks were "I have meat to eat that you know not of," and "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent me, and to finish my work." The speaker, in part, said:

"I cannot but recall a sermon I preached from these words many years ago when I was among you, and to bring back many recollections of those days You know the story in which the words of the text are contained. Our Lord was journeying through Samaria, and coming to Jacob's well he sat down, being weary with his journey. His disciples were with Him, and he sent them into a nearby city to secure some food. While sitting by the well a woman of Samaria seeking water approached the Master, and He speaks to her. He tells her of that water which comes from the Spring of life. She received the truth into her heart and being so joyful she forgets that she came after water from the well.

"By this time the disciples returned and prepared a meal. It was then that the Master said, 'I have meat to eat that you know not of,' and 'My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish My work." We have the picture before us, Christ, the Son of God, unconsciously drawing strength from above, and the disciples standing near, not comprehending His sayings. The aim of the disciples was personal gain and ambition. Their only thought was as to who would sit nearest to the Master on His earthly throne which they thought He was soon to establish. It is then He tells them the meaning of our text. Above the intellectual life there is a spiritual life. This is the meaning of the Gospel, the fact on which Christianity stands.

"Men of high intelligence often ask what the spiritual life is, and they appear to know little about it. It is not strange that they are ignorant of these things, for spiritual things are only spiritually discerned. It is impossible to argue a man into the faith Faith is a reasoning power and the Spirit of God convicts.

"During the hour that the Master sat by the well while the disciples were absent in the city securing food, He was nourished, and it was the 'meat to eat that you know not of' that was supplied. He did not partake of the water from the well, and at the end of the hour He was refreshed and had new vigor in His being. The man who believes in God is nearer the truth about the destiny of the world than a man who loses faith. No man is able to lead a great moral reform unless he has great faith. The man with great faith is a spiritual leader among men. This is individual experience, not ancient history. In order to walk with God one must work with God. It was while doing God's work that the Master was strengthened. If you will do as Christ did you will know by experience what Christ said in the words of our text tonight, 'I have meat to eat that you know not of.'"

Thousands suffer from Catarrh or cold in head and have never tried the popular remedy. There is no longer any excuse, as a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm can be had of your druggist or we mail it for 10 cents Full size 50 cents.

ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y. City.

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm an after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy. —Joseph Stewart, 634 Grand Avenue Brooklyn, N.Y.

Training School Method.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church an illustrated lecture prepared by the Baptist Training School for Christian work, will be given in the church next Friday evening by Mrs. J. O. Robinson, a graduate of the above-named school. Eighty-five slides will be shown, illustrating the work of the students in the slums in the home and foreign fields. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

—Wall paper from 3 cents per roll up. Send for samples. S. Wolf, 747-783 Ninth avenue, New York city. See advertisement.

Bad Blood is a Good Thing to be rid of, because bad blood is the breeding place of disfiguring and dangerous diseases. Is your blood bad? It is if you are plagued by pimples or bothered by boils, if your skin is blotched by eruptions or your body eaten by sores and ulcers. You can have good blood, which is pure blood, if you want it. You can be rid of pimples, boils, blotches, sores and ulcers. How? By the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It is the radical remedy for all diseases originating in the blood. Read the evidence:

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me by my physician as a blood purifier. When I began taking it I had boils all over my body. One bottle cured me."—BONNER CHAPT, Wesson, Miss.

"After six years' suffering from blood poison, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and although I have used only three bottles of this great medicine, the sores have nearly all disappeared."—A. A. MANNING, Houston, Texas.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting ways, will send THREE FREE BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by "heartfelt letters of gratitude," filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death.

Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

PATRIOTIC INCORPORATION.

Washington Camp Ground Association, of Bound Brook, Files Its Articles.

The Washington Camp Ground Association, of Bound Brook, has been incorporated under the act of April 3d, 1897. The organization has 130 members. Its objects are to collect and perpetuate the memory of the proceedings and achievements of the American army during the Revolutionary War, and to establish headquarters where Washington and his army encamped near Bound Brook.

The officers of the company are: President, George LaMonte; vice-presidents, Wm. H. Whiting, C. How ard Perry and Wm. Henry Ayres; secretary, Wm. H. Dunham, and treasurer, Frederick Cornell.

No Cure—No Pay,

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by R. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

Death of Mrs. TenEyck.

The death of Mrs. Sophia TenEyck, wife of Jeremiah TenEyck, of South Plainfield, occurred Tuesday a. m., in her forty seventh year.

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—7:30, 8:40, 11:00 a. m., 2:30, 5, 8:30, p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.
SOMERVILLE and EASTON.
Arrive—8:40 a. m., 5 and 6:15 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.
PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.
Arrive—8:40, 11:00 a. m., 5 and 9:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 4:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 4:00 p. m.
WARRENVILLE.
Arrive—12:30 p. m. Close—7:30 a. m.
SUNDAY MAILS
Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 6:15 p.m.

U. M. HETFIELD, P M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively. Insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, Cortlandt and Christopher Streets.

Ferry and Whitehall Stands.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT FEB. 28th, 1897.

PLAINFIELD AND WAY TRAINS.

Leave Plainfield 5 34, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Liberty St., 8 15, 9 00, 9 45, 10 00, 10 30, 11 00, 11 30 a. m., 12 00 m., 12 30, 1 00, 1 30, 2 00, 2 30, 3 00, 3 30, 4 00, 4 30, 5 00, 5 30, 6 00, 6 30, 7 00, 7 30, 8 00, 8 30, 9 00, 9 30, 10 30, 11 30 p. m.

Leave New York, foot Cortlandt St., 8 30, 9 15, 10 00, 10 15, 10 45, 11 15, 11 45 a. m., 12 15, 12 45, 1 15, 1 45, 2 15, 2 45, 3 15, 3 45, 4 15, 4 45, 5 15, 5 45, 6 15, 6 45, 7 15, 7 45, 8 15, 8 45, 9 15, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 6 15, 7 15, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 1 15, 2 15, 3 15, 4 15, 5 15, 6 15, 7 15, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 15 p. m.

Leave Newark 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 a. m., 12 45, 1 45, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 45, 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6 15, 7 15, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 15 a. m., 12 15, 1 15, 2 15, 3 15, 4 15, 5 15, 6 15, 7 15, 8 15, 9 15, 10 15, 11 15 p. m.

Leave Somerville 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 a. m., 12 45, 1 45, 2 45, 3 45, 4 45, 5 45, 6 45, 7 45, 8 45, 9 45, 10 45, 11 45 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND STATION ON MAIN LINE.

Leave Plainfield 6 15 a. m., 6 15, 9 15 a. m., 12 15, 3 15, 6 15, 9 15 p. m.

Leave Station on Main Line 6 45 a. m., 6 45, 9 45 a. m., 12 45, 3 45, 6 45, 9 45 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 34 a. m., 4 16 p. m., 9 10 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 18 a. m.—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Reading, Harrisburg, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Pottsville, Shamokin, Lewisburg and Sunbury, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

9 14 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting at High Bridge for stations on D. L. & W. R. R.

9 34 a. m.—For Flemington, D. L. & W. R. R., Easton, Phillipsburg and Belvidere.

9 34 a. m.—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Shamokin, Tamaqua, Pottsville, Manheim, Lancaster, Columbia, Manheim and Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, 4 o'clock buffet parlor car to Harrisburg.

1 06 p. m.—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Shamokin, Lewisburg and Sunbury.

2 11 p. m.—For Flemington.

2 31 p. m.—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Shamokin, Lewisburg and Sunbury, Wilkesbarre and Scranton, with buffet parlor car to Harrisburg.

4 05 p. m.—For Flemington and Easton, connecting at High Bridge for stations on Main Line of D. L. & W. R. R.

5 11 p. m.—For Flemington.

5 31 p. m.—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Shamokin, Lewisburg and Sunbury and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R.

6 31 p. m.—For Somerville.

6 46 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre and Scranton.

7 30 p. m. Sundays for Easton.

9 00 p. m. Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg and Intermediate stations.

9 15 p. m. Sundays—For Flemington.

9 30 p. m. Sundays—For Bound Brook, Somerville, Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Reading, Harrisburg, Pottsville, Shamokin, Lewisburg and Sunbury.

THE LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC., ROUTE.

Leave Plainfield at 3 27, 6 34, 10 20 a. m., 1 10, 3 51, 5 04, 6 44 p. m. Sundays, 8 34 a. m., 4 39 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 4 15, 7 22, 11 08 a. m., 2 00, 5 42, 6 52, 8 32 p. m. Sundays, 9 22 a. m., 5 27 p. m.

For Perth Amboy, 3 27, 4 56, 6 34, 10 20 a. m., 1 10, 3 51, 5 04, 6 44 p. m. Sundays, 8 34 a. m., 4 39 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 7 27 a. m., 1 10 p. m.

For Freehold, 11 15 a. m., 5 04 p. m. Sundays, 8 34 a. m., 4 39 p. m.

For Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 5 27, 9 13, 10 00 a. m., to Lakewood 1 15, 5 04 p. m. Sundays 8 00 a. m.

ROYAL BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 2 30, 4 00, 7 30, 8 44 a. m., 12 07, 1 56, 4 56, 7 00, 9 30, 11 57 p. m. Sundays, 2 30, 4 00, 7 30, 8 44 a. m., 12 07, 1 56, 4 56, 7 00, 9 30, 11 57 p. m.

Leave Bound Brook, 2 45, 4 15, 7 45, 8 59 a. m., 12 22, 2 11, 5 11, 7 15, 9 45, 12 12 a. m. Sundays, 2 45, 4 15, 7 45, 8 59 a. m., 12 22, 2 11, 5 11, 7 15, 9 45, 12 12 a. m.

Leave Somerville, 2 51, 4 21, 7 51, 9 05 a. m., 12 28, 2 17, 5 17, 7 21, 9 51, 12 18 a. m. Sundays, 2 51, 4 21, 7 51, 9 05 a. m., 12 28, 2 17, 5 17, 7 21, 9 51, 12 18 a. m.

Leave Bridgewater, 2 56, 4 26, 7 56, 9 10 a. m., 12 33, 2 22, 5 22, 7 26, 9 56, 12 23 a. m. Sundays, 2 56, 4 26, 7 56, 9 10 a. m., 12 33, 2 22, 5 22, 7 26, 9 56, 12 23 a. m.

Leave Dunellen, 3 00, 4 30, 8 00, 9 14 a. m., 12 37, 2 26, 5 26, 7 30, 10 00, 12 27 a. m. Sundays, 3 00, 4 30, 8 00, 9 14 a. m., 12 37, 2 26, 5 26, 7 30, 10 00, 12 27 a. m.

Arrive at Philadelphia, 6 05, 7 30, 10 55 a. m., 2 40, 4 30, 7 30, 9 30, 11 30 p. m., 2 30, 5 30 a. m. Sundays, 6 05, 7 30, 10 55 a. m., 2 40, 4 30, 7 30, 9 30, 11 30 p. m., 2 30, 5 30 a. m.

Passengers for Philadelphia should change cars at Dunellen.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application to agents.

Jokei agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P. BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent.

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect February 28, 1897.

LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.

WESTWARD.

7 37 a.m. and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 8 01 a. m. Easton local.

9 38 a. m. daily; 1 35 p.m. daily except Sunday, for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Mauch Chunk, Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Phillipsburg, Belvidere, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 54 a. m., 8 24, 8 38 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 29 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 32 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

4 06 p. m. daily local for Wilkesbarre.

4 38 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & B. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

5 20 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 6 36 p. m. Local for Mauch Chunk.

7 03 and 10 08 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

9 08 p. m. Express for Easton, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge. This train leaves station on New York to Mauch Chunk included daily except Sunday; connects at Mauch Chunk every Monday; carries sleeping car passengers only; does not carry baggage.

EASTWARD.

For New York and Intermediate local 6 05, 7 45, and 9 02 a. m., 2 29, 4 45 and 7 39 p. m. Sunday 7 55, 11 07 a. m., 2 10 and 7 39 p.m. Express 7 26, 8 25, 10 03 a. m., 12 17, 2 20 5 02, 7 07 and 8 46 p.m. Sunday 7 30 a. m. and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 26, 10 03, a. m., 12 16, 2 20 5 02, and 7 12 p. m. Sunday 8 06, 9 10 and 11 06 a. m., 2 05 and 7 07 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR, General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent.
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. RONNEMACHER,
Asst General Passenger Agent.
New York City.

NEW YORK TERMINALS—Foot of Cortlandt Desbrosses and West 23d streets.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THIS DICK TURPIN WANTED A TIMEPIECE

A Young Man Held Up on West Front Street.

VICTIM ESCAPED HIS CLUTCHES.

The Footsteps of Approaching Men Frightened Off the Desperado, and the Boy Ran Home and Told His Mother—Pistol Not Returned and Now the Younger, but He Escaped on a Bicycle Our Evening at the Moment.

A daring attempt at highway robbery was one of the incidents of life in the city last Friday night. The most ambitious disciple of Dick Turpin who attempted to play his art at that time exhibited his coolness and daring by choosing one of the most frequented thoroughfares in the city, and after the escape of his intended victim the latter lingered nonchalantly around as spot until forced to flee.

Edward Neal, a clerk employed in Smith's art store on West Front street, was on his way home about 9 o'clock in the evening in question. While passing along West Front street in the vicinity of Liberty street, Neal was accosted by a highwayman, who stepped out suddenly from behind an electric light pole and laid his hand upon Neal's shoulder.

"Let me have your watch, young fellow," was the greeting which he got.

Neal drew back and attempted to wrest himself loose, but the heavy hand upon his shoulder tightened its hold.

"I have no watch. Let go," he pleaded.

At that point in the little drama two pedestrians happened along, and attracted by the loud tones of Neal's voice quickened their pace to discover what the matter was. The highwayman heard the sound of approaching footsteps, and reluctantly gave up his hold upon his intended victim. He walked off just in time to be lost in the darkness when the two men arrived and heard what had happened.

When Neal reached his home at West Front street and Plainfield avenue and related his adventure to his father, the latter insisted upon returning to the scene of the holdup and if possible make a capture of the highwayman. Father and son accordingly set out. When they reached the place of the holdup young Neal saw a figure standing in the shade of the electric light pole, which he recognized at once as that of the robber.

"That's him, father," said the boy, pointing to the silent form, and the two made a break for the man.

Fortune seemed to favor the fellow, however, for at that instant a trolley car passed, going east, and before the Neals could reach him he leaped upon it and was whirled out of their reach. The highwayman is described by young Neal as a dark, heavily-built man. He wore a long overcoat and dressed well dressed. The authorities have been notified and will keep a lookout for the man.

End of the Revival.

The last of the series of evangelistic services under the direction of S. H. Kelloge, of the Water Street mission of New York city, was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms Saturday night. A number of the converts from the Water Street mission accompanied Mr. Kelloge and assisted in the meeting. The attendance was very large.

Exchange of Real Estate.

Through the real estate agency of Tuttle V. Miller, Isaac P Runyon has acquired the ownership of the home at 127 Liberty street, giving in exchange three building lots in Elizabeth to Mrs. Sarah M. TenEyck. Mr. Runyon will make material improvements to the house.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral
promptly relieves the cough, stops the tickling in the throat, and induces quiet and refreshing sleep.
½ Size ½ Price.

A MODERN CHURCH HOME

IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN THE EDIFICE OF TRINITY'S PEOPLE.

The Auditorium Remodeled So as to Be Practically New in Furnishings—The Ladies' Parlor is Pleasantly Arranged.

An important work in connection with the remodeling of Trinity Reformed church is the improving and beautifying of the main audience room, which now presents a most gratifying appearance as a result of the changes.

The interior walls have been repainted and decorated tastefully by Marsh, Ayers & Co., and the organ rebuilt by Midmer & Son, and provided with a water motor. As a result of the energetic labors of the Ladies' Christian Work Society the church pews have been newly upholstered and cushioned in maroon color, and the entire audience room provided with a carpet of olive shade, and the pulpit furniture reupholstered and provided with covers. The pews have also been renumbered, and the wood work of the pews and the organ has been given a walnut finish.

The room has been provided with two large 25 light gold-finished chandeliers in the centre, and the side rows of cut glass chandeliers have been thoroughly overhauled and made like new, and a row of small lights have been placed on each side wall. The lighting is by both electricity and gas. A pair of hymn boards have been presented by Mrs. W. A. Woodruff.

An easy access is gained to the audience room by two spacious entrances, one at each extremity of the front elevation. These entrances are wide, and the steps in them are of moderate rise, making the passage from the room to the street comfortable and quick.

The church parlor has also been furnished entirely by the Ladies' Christian Work Society. It is a pleasant room on the lower floor of the church, connecting with the new lecture room. The floor has been clothed with a new velvet carpet, lace curtains have been placed at the windows, and numerous chairs have been provided. Two handsome large tables, and a small stand help to furnish the room. On the walls are a number of pictures, noticeable among which is a painting of Ruth and Naomi, the work of Mrs. R. A. Meeker. Portieres grace the doors of the room, and the light is provided by electricity from a chandelier suspended in the centre of the room. The parlor can be connected with the lecture room by rolling back the folding doors which are placed between the two rooms.

HANGING LAMP FELL.

The Oil Spread and Ignited and Threatened to Destroy a House.

Monday evening about 6 o'clock an alarm of fire was sent in from Box 153, corner of Linden avenue and Grove street, by William Neil, coachman for Mayor Wilson, of Greenbrook road. The fire was in a house on Grove street occupied by Mrs. Margaret Wilson. The hanging lamp in the kitchen fell from its position and the fire ignited with the oil from the lamp. In an instant flames were shooting in every direction and the total destruction of the house was threatened. Mrs. Wilson fought the flames bravely until from exhaustion she was obliged to call for help. It happened that Mr. Neil was passing and he sent in the alarm.

In the meantime he assisted Mrs. Wilson in doing what she could to check the spread of the fire. As it was, considerable damage resulted to the kitchen and dining room, before the department arrived. The firemen did not put any water in the house, but depended wholly on the hand extinguishers. Just what the loss is has not yet been determined, but the house and contents were fully insured. The department was very quick to respond and to them is due the credit of saving the house.

An Open Letter to Mothers.

We are asserting in the courts our right to the exclusive use of the word "CASTORIA," and "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," as our Trade Mark.

I, Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now bear the fac-simile signature of CHAS. H. FLETCHER on every wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA" which has been used in the homes of the mothers of America for over thirty years. Look carefully at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought, and has the signature of CHAS. H. FLETCHER on the wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company, of which Chas. H. Fletcher is president.

SAMUEL PITCHER, M. D.

March 8, 1897. c

In Honor of Her Birthday.

Miss Emmons entertained about thirty friends in a pleasant manner at her home on Duer street last Monday, in honor of her birthday. The evening was passed in the playing of games and other amusements, and refreshments were served.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS NAME THEIR MEN.

Harry M. Cooke and John Vetterlein Named for Councilmen.

JACOB VOEHL FOR COLLECTOR.

Seven Declinations Received for Councilmanic Honors, But the Committee Will Supply the Vacancy—The Votes on Collector and Freeholder—$550 For the Board of Health—Elston M. French Named as Nominee for Assessor.

The Democratic primary held in the basement of the borough public school last Saturday evening was not so largely attended as the Republican one held the night before, but there was a much larger crowd present than was anticipated, and the meeting was strictly harmonious. One noticeable feature was that there was no prepared slate. The Democrats came to the primary unpledged and there were no axes to grind

The meeting was called to order by H. O Hance and former Mayor W. L. Saunders was made chairman. The secretary was Lambert Bodine. There was some difficulty in securing two persons to take the nomination for Councilmen, and as a result only one nomination was made. That was Harry M. Cooke. The committee on vacancies will attend to filling the other place on the ticket for Council man. There were seven declinations, as follows: L. H Brown, R. Ostrewin, E. M. French, R. H. McCullough, John Case, W J. Conroy and John Goodwin. The secretary cast the ballot for H. r. Cooke and he was the unanimous choice of the caucus.

For assessor, E. M. French was the only nominee and he was also the unanimous choice of those present, notwithstanding his desire to give everybody a chance to secure the nomination.

In nominating a collector, John Vetterlein placed the name of John H. Whitenack before the caucus. He said that Mr. Whitenack had served the Government for twelve years, was a native of Somerset county, a thorough Democrat, a fine accountant, and in every way fitted for the office. In opposition to Mr. Whitenack, Jacob Voehl was nominated. A peculiar circumstance regarding the vote for the office was that on the first ballot each nominee received 27 votes, and another ballot was necessary. On the second ballot Mr. Voehl received 30 votes and Mr. Whitenack 28. The nomination was made unanimous. In regard to the next nomination for freeholder, L. M. Bird and Andrew Love, Sr. were also tie, each receiving 23 votes and one blank vote. On the second ballot Mr. Love secured 27 votes and Mr. Bird 24. This nomination was also made unanimous.

At this point it was moved that the balance of the ticket be filled out by the committee on vacancies, consisting of A. E. Faber, Jr., Andrew E. Dempsey and D. D. Smalley. The caucus decided on an appropriation of $550 for Board of Health purposes. The committee on vacancies has three days in which to complete the ticket, and they will decide who is to run for the remaining positions within that time. Those who served as tellers for the evening were D. D. Smalley and Joseph Newman.

The balance of the ticket was filled out late Saturday night. John Vetterlein was named for the Council. No opposition was made to Justice Crosley for justice of the peace for the five year term. L. W. Hammond was nominated for justice of the peace for a term of three years. For surveyors of highways Herman Hansen and John Emmons were nominated. W. J. Pearson was nominated for commissioner of appeal. The two con stables nominated were E. F. Titus and William N. Pangborn.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, 75c. per bottle.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Death Came Suddenly.

Mrs. M. S. VanPelt died suddenly Sunday morning at the home of Mrs. Margaret M. Cock, 235 East Fifth street. The cause of death was an apoplectic stroke, which came while Mrs. VanPelt was attending to her duties about the house as usual. The death of Mrs. VanPelt was a great shock to Mr. and Mrs. Cock, to whom she had been a very faithful companion. The remains were taken in charge by A. M. Runyon & Son, and were sent to the home of the deceased in Raritan.

Ask your Druggist for a generous 10 CENT TRIAL SIZE.

CATARRH

Ely's Cream Balm contains no cocaine, mercury nor any other injurious drug. It is quickly absorbed. Gives Relief at once. It opens and cleanses the Nasal Passages. Allays Inflammation. Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Full Size 50c.; Trial size 10c. at Druggists or by mail.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FELIX HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

WALL PAPER

Do you expect to do any papering? We will send you free a large selection of samples from 3c per roll up, all new colorings and novelties up to date. WE PAY FREIGHT. We want an agent in every town to sell on commission from large sample books. No capital required. For samples or particulars address

S. WOLF.
747-753 Bia h Ave., N. Y. City.
3 23 29

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM

SEEDS ... FOR THE ... Garden or Farm
Vegetable and Flower Seeds. All the newest and best varieties—quality unsurpassed. Illustrated Catalogue FREE.
WEEBER & DON, Seed Merchants
114 Chambers St., New York City.

Dissolution of Partnership

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately subsisting between Joseph A. Blatz and Silas C. Mundy, of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of "Blatz & Mundy" was dissolved on the First day of February, 1898, by mutual consent.

Dated February 1st, 1898.

JOSEPH A. BLATZ.
SILAS C. MUNDY.

2 24

DIED.

BILYEU—In this city, Feb. 26th, 1898, Elizabeth Bilyeu, widow of the late Henry Bilyeu, aged 83 years, 10 months and 24 days.

ROSS—In this city, Feb. 25, 1898, Marjorie, beloved child of Louis H. and Sarah C. Ross, aged 7 years and 9 months.

TEN EYCK—In South Plainfield, March 1, 1898, Sarah, wife of Jeremiah F. TenEyck in her 67th year.

MAY DENY REQUISITION.

Gov. Voorhees Said to Doubt if Smedberg is Guilty of This Last Charge.

Joseph Duncan Smedberg, who was arrested Saturday as he was coming out of the Union county jail at Elizabeth, may escape the New York courts.

The new charge against him is of stealing a surveyor's level, valued at $40, from the Standard Gas Company, of New York.

Smedberg's counsel in his former trial, Gov. Voorhees, does not believe him guilty of this latest charge, and, it is said, will refuse to sign requisition papers for his removal to New York.

The prisoner, who was taken back to the county jail, denies the accusation. Some suspect it is spite work.

Smedberg came from San Francisco, and was educated at Portsmouth College, O. He married a handsome woman at Salt Lake City, whose parents are wealthy. She visited him while he was in jail on Jan. 28th, to obtain his consent to a divorce. He gave it. With her was a man who claimed to be a United States Army officer. It was understood at the jail that she wanted the divorce so that she could marry the military man.

Twelfth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Campbell, of Park avenue, celebrated the twelfth anniversary of their wedding Sunday by entertaining a dozen of their friends at dinner. The affair was a very informal one, and was much enjoyed by all present.

Patronage Proceeds Nearly $600.

At the morning service at St. Joseph's church Sunday, Father Miller announced the net proceeds of the Patronage, recently given by the Holy Name Society of the church, to be very nearly $600.

Miss Barber's Mother Dead.

The many friends of Miss Caroline A. Barber will be pained to know that her mother whom she has tenderly cared for since the first of October, passed away Monday, Feb. 21st, at her home in Bernardston, Mass.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER. Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS

fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do all my own cutting, and will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the parties purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the prices of my work to the customer, of the commission generally paid to agents.

I am also saving small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that Good Work and Good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertise for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. B. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in-Chancery, Notary Public. Office, Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS

500 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.

CONTENTS:

Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.

Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, IF DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

2 and 5 WEST 18th STREET, NEW YORK.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners,
Plumbers
Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work always gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting. Tin Roofing.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and wormanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Parkavenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 234 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madison avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders left by postal, P. O. box 140, or left at Willett's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 201 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 4jly

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of information concerning the Laws and the cost of obtaining patents sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts.

MUNN & Co. NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

MR. LEITER'S WHEAT

HE AND HIS DESCENDANTS COULD NOT EAT IT IN TWENTY YEARS

His Possessions Would Make a Pile Three Times as Big as Chicago's Masonic Temple—Other Comparisons of the Gigantic Deal.

Joseph Leiter, who has secured control of the wheat market, has in his possession the food supply of many millions of people. Maybe Mr. Leiter doesn't know it, but if he should choose to divert his 15,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels of wheat to foreign channels bread would double, possibly quadruple, in price in Chicago, and the temptation to make short-weight loaves would be offered every baker. Every man who owned a bushel of wheat would be tempted to buy corn to grind and mix with his wheat flour, and the chances are that consumer would be so anxious to procure bread that he would wink at the adulteration even if he knew of it.

Fifteen millions of bushels of wheat! The words do not convey the immensity or importance of Mr. Leiter's speculative venture. Never before has one man, or any combination of speculators, held such an enormous amount of the bread grain in control. Seventy millions of people are directly and vitally interested in this gigantic venture. It would be difficult to say what this young Napoleon of the wheat pit would do with his purchase if he hadn't a nation of hungry mouths back of him. He and his descendants for twenty generations couldn't consume it. There are not mills enough in Chicago to grind the grain into flour in ten years, or bakers who could mix, mold and bake it into crisp loaves in another ten years.

LEITER'S WHEAT AND CHICAGO'S MASONIC TEMPLE.

Fifteen millions of bushels of wheat! A bulk nearly three times that of the Masonic Temple—the highest and largest building of its class in the world. In that gigantic pile, towering twenty-four stories and covering one fourth o fa block of the most valuable real estate in Chicago, there are 5,762,294 cubic feet of space—so say the architects. But Mr. Leiter's little pile of wheat would fill that structure if it were placed beside it, reaching almost three times higher, with the same ground dimensions, occupying 18,600,000 cubic feet.

The highest authority says there are 7,000 grains of wheat to the pound. Therefore as Mr. Leiter owns 15,000,000 bushels, each weighing sixty pounds, the total weight of his possessions would require a counter-balance of 900,000,000 pounds—a total that would keep a family of five persons counting steadily for two years at the rate of 200 per minute without intermission to check off the weight, and the total number of grains of wheat in this huge purchase is only 63,000,000,000,000. This sum is sufficiently large to puzzle even astronomers, who measure distance of stars by the millions of miles—but trillions—never! The star gazer guesses after he passes the ninth row of ciphers in his computations.

Let us suppose that Mr. Leiter wanted to move his wheat to some other point, and determine approximately how many cars he would need if he shipped it all by rail. He holds 900,000,000 pounds, or 450,000 tons. The average capacity of freight cars is 40,000 pounds, or twenty tons. Therefore, 22,500 cars would be needed to transport this bulk of grain. The average length of such cars, including the space between for the coupling apparatus is thirty-six feet. This train load of grain would be 810,000 feet, or 153 1-2 miles long. That is to say, Mr. Leiter choose to ship all his grain in one train, he will have a string of cars reaching almost from Chicago to the Mississippi River at Quincy, Ill.

But if Mr. Leiter doesn't want to ship his property, but chooses to grind it up and put it on the market to sell down with pencil and paper and figure that as four and one-half bushels of wheat will make a 200-pound barrel of flour, he can place 333,333,333 loaves of bread within the reach of the hungry. At 5 cents per loaf, Mr. Leiter could obtain $16,666,666.65 for his property. As his brokers have claimed that he purchased his wheat at an average of 70 cents per bushels, his profits as a baker would be a hundred thousand or so over $6,000,000.

It may be that Mr. Leiter is not aware of the fact, but he has in his control the food mainstay of the nation. The nutritive value of wheat is not fully recognized by most persons who are fond of the "heel" of a crisp loaf. Mr. Leiter's pile of wheat contains more of the brain, muscle and bone-forming food than a dozer train loads of equal length bearing beef, pork, eggs, milk, butter, potatoes cabbage and fruit. Three-fourths of Mr. Leiter's wheat is starch and sugar and almost one-fifth is albumen—a quantity equal to the albumen in beef or eggs. Without knowing it, the youthful speculator has cornered the brain and muscle food of the world. People who are in a position to know say that wheat is worth more than money in some places. If Mr. Leiter were to be generous he could give his waiter tips in orders on his wife's houseman for a bushel; could carry some of the grain loose in his pocket to hand out to street beggars; could carry a small bag to drop in the contribution box on Sunday—and be more generous than in distributing the cash.

But Mr. Leiter doesn't seem to be weary of his load, nor does he show any present intention of distributing his accumulated grain in charity. He's not worrying about the cars to ship his property, neither is he speculating on how many biscuits his wheat would make if ground into flour. His wheat is stored in elevators and boats and practically off his hands. Therefore Mr. Leiter is not interested in information which shows what might be done with his own particular Klondike.—Chicago Times-Herald.

SINGING INTO THE PHONOGRAPH.

The Young Woman Whom People All Over the World Listen to.

Miss Estella Louise Mann is a pretty young woman of this city who makes her living singing into the phonograph. She used to be a concert soloist, but now it pays her to go up into the recording-room of the puonograph company and "talk" into the machine several hours every day. Miss Mann likes it, and is said to find that the five hundred of the receiver seem like old and appreciative friends to her now.

It is not a very cheerful outlook to stand and sing with all your might and all your best talent and technique into several hollow tubes with reverberating sides and not to face a responsive eye or ear. Yet that is what this young person is fond of doing every day, and people all over the world afterward listen to her.

Miss Mann began some time ago, and has grown to be quite an expert in her art, for it takes especial art to sing in this extraordinary fashion to this dumb audience. There are all sorts of bothering technical whys and wherefores in this business, but the main thing is that the tones have to be more forceful and higher. It is no easy thing to be able to fill without a falter or false note all five instruments, for a mistake and the whole thing has to be done over again. It is something of a strain on the strongest tones to throw them into this hungry set of receivers, that are waiting to snatch and carry them, just as they heard them, across continents if need be.

You have to have a fine voice that has carrying influence, for the phonograph is not going to be anxious to reproduce it. Miss Mann was soloist for Sousa's Band for some time, and studied in the College of Cincinnati under Prof. Tino Mattioli, and won a gold medal for excellence.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Miss Mann sings for the "talking machine" the most classical music—"Faika," "The Barber of Seville," Italian and Latin music and sacred songs. "The Huguenots" is one of her favorite selections, and she says she has a hundred and fifteen songs, thirty operas and ever so much that she calls "just practice."—New York Journal.

Camp Outfit of Aluminum.

Among the new things which are being made of aluminum are camping sets of culinary utensils, advertised as Klondike outfits, which are marvels of lightness. An outfit for six persons consists of thirty-nine separate pieces and weighs complete but thirteen pounds. It comprises four cooking pots, a coffee pot, two frying pans, six cups, six knives, six forks, six spoons and six plates, a salt shaker and a pepper shaker. The pots are all in a form. The biggest one measures ten and one half inches one way by seven and one-quarter inches the other, and the whole set is made so as to pack into this one. An outfit for three persons, consisting of twenty-one pieces, weighs six and one-quarter pounds only, and an outfit for two persons, containing fifteen pieces, weighs only four pounds.—New York Sun.

Leaf Design Centrepiece.

The cut shows a centrepiece worked in conventional leaf design. The leaves should be worked in shaded green silk floss, the stems in golden brown and yellow. Work the outer border in silk floss, the large scrolls in white and the smaller ones in yellow. Individual taste may suggest other colors and combinations.

THE LEAF DESIGN.

The Dead-Line Path of Politics.

"I got a note from the Bugle, asking me for an interview," said the junior statesman. "I think I will send them word that if they will send around a reporter who is not a liar I will grant it."

"No, no," said the senior statesman. "Let them send the biggest liar they've got. His reputation will be too much for me when you want to deny the interview."—Indianapolis Journal.

"So you think Agnew is a pig-headed fool, eh? What has given you that opinion?"

"We talked for half an hour this morning and couldn't agree on a single point."—Chicago News.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The "social promoter" is carrying things with a high hand in Washington. For a cash consideration it is quite possible for anybody to become "introduced." The only requisite is sufficient money to make your entry worth while to some Washington society woman who will take you under her wing. Women of national repute have adopted the profession, and one of them has even gone so far as to advertise in the newspapers for clients.

It's the easiest thing in the world to get into Washington society if you know how to do it and if you can pay the price. The "social promoter" has never been so much in evidence as at the present time. She is even advertising in the newspapers for desirable clients. She has never done that previous to this season, and it goes to show how the business—a prosaic word but the only adequate one—is flourishing.

Like London and Paris, the capital is a place of liberal views, and has long winked at the efforts of widows of distinguished generals or admirals who cautiously fish for fallen fortunes by offering the ambitions of nouveaux riches mammas. "Social promoting" has heretofore been regarded as the legitimate industry of these widows, a sort of perquisite of the surviving relict, and has been conducted with the greatest decorum.

It has long been an open secret that the widow of a famous general has made a livelihood by piloting the daughters of the rich through Washington seasons, and has even extended her operations to London and Paris, where she holds the open sesame. Nor is she alone in this. It has come to be regarded as a legitimate profession. Of course it is all supposed to be sub rosa, but it really isn't. From the clippings she is taught a knowledge of happenings of past seasons, and an inkling of things "not to be said."

The day having arrived for the launching of the trim craft, the social promoter brightens her eyes and steadies her nerves with a cup of tea or a glass of champagne, and the two become a part of the passing show. Clothed in the latest mode, wearing gowns that have been subjected to a second inspection far more keen than that of the Custom House, the debutante poses the rounds of "tres to all" Washington houses, the White House, Cabinet homes, Senators and Representatives are all included, and the aspirant is convinced by the titles she encounters that she is getting her money's worth.

A season reached, to the satisfaction of all parties, small dinners and horseback riding are resorted to, with chats a deux in a corner all Turkish rugs, pillowed divans and jewelled gold cigarette holders. Result—"Good man gone" from the ranks of eligibles to join the benedicts, ambition satisfied, a very large cash payment to the clever authoress of mutual bliss.

Finesse is the watchword of the social promoter. She must not allow her profession to be apparent. Consequently the lady who has reduced her calling of introducing persons to society for revenue to an ordinary business encompassing by means of a newspaper advertisement, must not be surprised to meet with ostracism. It is not her profession that will call down upon her head the anathemas of her former friends, but the fact that she has put a trade-mark on her sleeve. Hypocrisy is not so great a sin in Washington society as vulgar honesty!

Washington society, as I said before, is quite unlike that of any other city. Official life is run "wide open." No qualifications of birth, education or wealth are necessary there. The social promoter is quite unnecessary as a pilot. With the diplomatic set, however, the difficulty in the line is not easily broken, and the pork packer's daughter must have some one to stand sponsor for her. If she has the money, it is an easy enough matter. With the local Washington society the promoter must move with caution and must exercise the best of judgment. If her client is not equipped to stand the test, the venture had better not be made.

The diplomatic set is the most important from most largely. It is quite the thing for a girl to have members of the foreign legations tagging at her heels and dancing attendance upon her. These attachés are, as a rule, most young men of good family. Some boast noble blood, and little else. Many of them are on the lookout for a rich American girl who is willing to exchange her wealth for the doubtful honor of a foreign aristocracy.

The debutante who is socially ambitious and is eager for a Washington season, having satisfied the promoter by an "exchange of references," usually appears in Washington some time during November. The real season lasts from the first of January to the end of March, but there is much preliminary training. Of course she lives with her chaperon, and is "the daughter of my old friend, Mrs. So-and-so, a most charming girl."

There is probably no place in the world where money will buy a social position so readily as in the nation's capital. The future of the real promoter is an interesting field for conjecture.

In Congress.

"I wonder why it is that Senator Biggun has been so quiet lately? He hasn't made a speech this session."

"Oh, hadn't you heard? His secretary has pneumonia, and the doctor won't let pen and ink be taken within his reach."—Cleveland Leader.

"I don't understand how Bilger gets his poems into the magazines. He must have a strong pull somewhere."

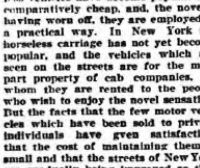
"Why? Aren't they any good?"

"That's just the point. Every poem he writes actually means something!" —Chicago News.

NEW YORK LETTER.

There are young men in New York who can remember when the only telephone line in the city connected a room in The Tribune Building with the American Institute. People used to come to that room and listen to others talk, sing or whistle at the other end of the line, and exclamations of wonder and surprise were heard when ever the imperfect instrument was examined. The telephone was looked upon at that time as a scientific toy and its use in the daily light of the more perfected vehicle is regarded by many people at this time. But the telephone has become a necessity, and, in the same way, many people predict that the horseless carriage will cease to be looked upon as a novel plaything and take its place among the necessities.

In some parts of Europe the horseless vehicles have become popular and comparatively cheap, and, the novelty having worn off, they are employed in a practical way. In New York the horseless carriage has not yet become popular, and the vehicles which are seen on the streets are for the most part property of exhibition companies. But they are invented to the people who wish to enjoy the novel sensation But the facts that the few motor vehicles which have been sold to private individuals have given satisfaction that the cost of maintaining them is small and that the streets of New York are gradually being improved so that the vehicles will run without jolting make manufacturers believe that there will soon be a boom in that direction



W. R. BUZBY'S VICTORIA.

Among the few people in New York who drive motor vehicles are Oliver H. Payne and W. R. Busby. Mr. Belmont's turnout created some excitement at Newport last summer, and was one of the sights of the place Mr. Busby guides his horseless vehicle along Riverside Drive nearly every day. The carriage is kept in Mr. Busby's stable, where its motor is supplied through the regular Edison current at the regular rates. The bill for charging it the first month it ran was $10.35, or about 600 miles in that time The average cost for electricity is two cents a mile, but the price would be considerably less if the owner of the vehicle had his own electric plant This fact has been demonstrated by J. R. Willitz, of Stamford, Conn., who has an electric generator for lighting his house. His horseless vehicle is charged by this generator, and this brings the cost down to less than one cent a mile.

New York's Corrupt-practice law does not incommode the spoilsmen in the East. They simply ignore its provisions and treat it with derision. The act requires every candidate to give an itemized statement of his expenditures, setting forth the name of each person who has received money from him, "the specific nature of each item and the purpose for which it was expended or contributed." The inspector return under this act was made by a candidate for a city office in Syracuse In a total expenditure of $1,135 he disclosed that he paid for newspapers $200," and *"for renewing old acquaint*ances and forming new, $900." His surveyor, by the law, said the bill in his return was a failure as an itemized statement, it is valuable as showing by its contempt for the law, the low tone of political morality which makes such offenses possible. There is, moreover, a defect in the law which would prove fatal even if the people were not apathetic as to its enforcement. A candidate may escape making an itemized statement by turning his contribution over in a lump to the Campaign Committee, which is not required to make sworn returns. The successful Tammany candidate for Justice of the New York Supreme Court escaped the inconvenience of accounting for the sum of almost 9,000 election expenses, which he swears he contributed as election expenses, by handing the money to the Tammany Committee. Those attacked for this contribution the Supreme Court Justice-*elect actually de*fends his course on the ground that he was not willing to assume a judicial office under the odium of pecuniary obligation to any individual or organization." If politics has become so rank in New York that candidates for Justice of the Supreme Court shrink from aspiring to office unless they have $9,000 to contribute to campaign Committees, it is evident that the Citizens Union can spend years of effort no wholly in vain. CYRUS THORP.

An Artesian Well in the Desert.

The Arabs of the Nubian Desert supposed they knew all about their country, but an engineer recently bored a well seventy-five miles from the Nile and 1,000 feet above the river and found an abundant supply of water at a depth of fifty-sixth feet. When the well was begun the Arabs stood by and jokingly assured the engineer that he would reach water when he go down to the Nile level. There are such discoveries waiting to be made by most of us in the field of our own lives and characters.

"How did you manage to reel off so many thousand miles on your cyclometer?"

"I attached it to my gas meter."

A RARE PIECE OF GOOD LUCK.

A Turquoise Mine Discovered in Death Valley, California.

A mining expert who seven years has been employed by a rich mining corporation visiting mining sections in Central and South America, is reported to have recently discovered a turquoise mine in Death Valley, California, which, it is believed, will bring him a fortune.

As there are but two other turquoise mines on the American continent—one in Northern New Mexico and the other in Southern Nevada—the next nearest being in Persia, it is probable that the owner will to a certain extent have a monopoly in the sale of these gems.

The formation in which turquoise is found is a tale containing aluminum. In this vein the turquoise is embedded like pebbles in white clay. In some parts of the mine it was discovered having veins of bauxite, which is a form of raw aluminum, and this of itself will prove to be of value when raw aluminum can be converted into the merchantable article.

It was at a depth of at least twenty feet that the best turquoise were found —stones in the peculiar shade which makes them quite rare and eagerly sought for by experts not being found nearer the surface. Turquoise is composed of aluminum, sulphurous acid, copper and water. The proportion of component parts are about forty-nine per cent. aluminum, eighteen per cent. sulphurous acid, from two to three per cent. copper, and the rest water. It is the copper that gives the peculiar blue shade, almost pale green, and upon the percentage of copper depends the degree of blueness.—New York Herald.

ASLEEP BUT STILL DOING DUTY.

Though Unconscious He Rang the Bell for Two or Three Hours

"We have some pretty long stretches of duty," said a locomotive engineer the other day, "and it isn't an uncommon thing for a man to go for forty-eight hours without sleep. Of course, it isn't the best policy for the railroad company to allow such a thing to happen, but sometimes it can't be helped. It would be a pretty serious thing for an engineer to go to sleep at his post. You think it would be hard for a man to sleep under such circumstances, eh? Well, I never heard of the engineer doing it, although sometimes they come pretty near dozing, but my own fireman went sound asleep during one of my runs recently. The poor fellow had been kept on the jump for three days without a wink of sleep, and when we started on the run in question he was simply dead tired. He managed to keep awake, however, until we reached the outskirts of the city. It *was his place then to ring the bell con*tinuously from there into the yard. He kept that bell going with regularity, and I wondered at his vitality. When I ran my engine into the round house he never moved out of his seat, but still yanked the bell rope. Then I saw that he was asleep. I called the other fellows, and we watched him for two or three hours, sleeping away, and yet pulling dutifully at the bell. When we finally woke him up his arm was sore, and he was mad as a hatter."—Philadelphia Record.

Her Identification.

"There," she said, as she finally got the check properly indorsed and handed it to the paying teller; "I'd like to have my money, please."

"Before I can let you have the money you will have to be identified."

"But the friends I am visiting took a trip out into the country with my mother this morning."

"Then you will have to wait till tomorrow."

"Well, I suppose I can manage it. Will the bank be open for an hour?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll hurry home and put on my evening gown. It's a great deal of trouble, but the only way. I have a strawberry mark on my right shoulder, and everybody who has read anything at all knows there isn't any better identification than a strawberry mark.—Washington Star.

San Francisco a Waifless City.

There are no "waifs" in San Francisco. Occasionally a family is discovered struggling in dire poverty, but as soon as their condition is known they are cared for. If any of the members of the family are capable of self-support they are put in the way of earning a livelihood; and if they are too young to work or the natural bread-winners are incapacitated by sickness or other affliction a ample provision is made for their necessities. There are hundreds of boys and girls in San Francisco, children of parents who are poor, earning money with which they assist to support their families, but there is not one of these who would answer the description of "waif."—San Francisco Post.

Conflicting Evidence.

"Was that a man's valise or a woman's that the police found down by the railroad track?" asked the city editor.

"I dunno," answered the police reporter. "There was nothing in it but one of Zola's stories, a copy of 'The Dolly Dialogues,' a paper sack of caramels and a pack of cigarettes."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Chicago Times-Herald says that an Evanston woman the other morning instructed her new cook to order certain provisions of John, the market-man. "Did John have frog legs this morning?" asked the mistress, upon her next trip to the culinary sanctum. "Sure, I don't know, mum," was the semi-apologetic answer of Bridget. "He had on rubber boots and an ulster."

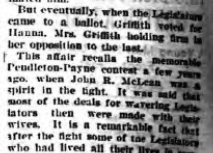
SHE TRIED TO UNDO HANNA.

Mrs. John E. Griffith Entered Ohio Politics to Defeat Her Husband.

Mrs. John E. Griffith was in Ohio politics during General Hanna's fight for re-election. Her political career was brief, exciting, and so far as it can be was successful. Mrs. Griffith's husband is a Representative from Marysville, and, notwithstanding the instructions of his constituents, he decided to vote against Senator Hanna. Later he seemed convinced that his course would be wrong, and so joined the Hanna colleagues. About then Mrs. Griffith jumped into the arena. She was enjoled, kidnapped, threatened, but to no purpose. Griffith resisted the persuasion that had been attempted on his wife, and came out in a public card declaring his intention to vote against Mr. Hanna notwithstanding he had been pledged by his constituents in the Convention that nominated him.

Incidentally, when the Legislature came to a ballot, Griffith received for Hanna. Mrs. Griffith holding firm in her opposition to the last.

This affair recalls the memorable Pendleton-Payne contest a few years ago, when John R. McLean was a spirit in the fight. It was about most of the deals for wavering legislators then were made with their wives. It is a remarkable fact that after the fight some of the Legislators who had lived all their lives in comparative poverty became possessed of suddenly acquired wealth.



MRS. JOHN E. GRIFFITH.

One Legislator's wife built a $10,000 house and furnished it sumptuously, another, ostensibly very unexpectedly, fell heir to an estate in Kentucky, she, too, moved into a more pretentious residence. A Legislator who is said to have been approached with a proposition from one of the opposing candidates in the fight, said:—

"I must talk about it—you must see my wife."

His wife was seen, and the family is said to have been well to do ever since.

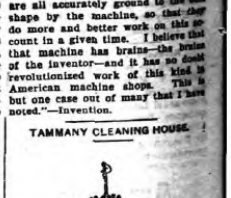
Heretofore, it is said, the price of a vote in the Ohio Legislature for the United States Senatorship has been $5,000, but the advent of women in the political contest has been the means of raising the limit to $7,000.

ONE TRAIT OF YANKEE INVENTIONS

What a Frenchman Noted in Travels Through the United States.

A French engineer who has been on a tour of inspection in the States was not impressed by the big things of the country. "I shall report to my department," says he "that one trait of things in America are the little things. The French people are *experts in do*mestic economy, and live comfortably by saving what average families in the States throw away. But Americans are, on the other hand, experts in industrial economy. They save money by large methods. In business and in some of it by wastage in domestic economy. The attention paid to small details in big works is amazing to me; I have visited some establishments where I believe that the profits are made not in the manufacture proper, but in the saving of materials and labor by close attention to details that are with us unconsidered trifles. For example, I saw a little girl at work in operation at a big works automatically sharpening pencils and placing them. This machine costs probably as much as a hundred of our ordinary lead pencil stones cost, but I see that automatically grinds all the pencils for three hundred high-priced machines, and it only works a few hours each day. The skilled mechanics in our country frequently stop their regular work to grind their own tools, and then they do it imperfectly. In the States most are all accurately ground to the same shape by the machine, so that they do more and better work on this score in a given time. I believe that that machine has brains—the brains of the inventor—and it has set the revolutionized work of this kind in American machine shops. This is but one case out of many that I have noted."—Invention.

TAMMANY CLEANING HOUSE.



—New York World.

PLANTING THE TREE.

[illegible] you plant when we plant the tree?
[illegible] ship which will cross the sea,
[illegible] mast to carry the sail;
[illegible] thanks to without and the gale—
[illegible] keelson, and beam and knee;
[illegible] the ship when we plant the tree.

[illegible] you plant when we plant the tree?
[illegible] the doors, the floors below,
[illegible] the rafters, the shingles, the floors
[illegible] the moulding, the lathe, the doors,
[illegible] the additions, all parts that be—
[illegible] the home when we plant the tree.

[illegible] you plant when we plant the tree?
[illegible] things that we daily see—
[illegible] ships that controul the crag,
[illegible] the staff for our country's flag,
[illegible] the land, the sea and the main—
[illegible] times when we plant the tree.

New York Evangelist

THE MORAL CENSOR.

I had watched her for some moments as she rolled slowly down Piccadilly, and was greatly taken by her appearance. The pavements and the carriages were full of well-dressed and handsome women; but somehow I seemed to have eyes for no one but that girl. She wore the sweetest costume—clinging in blue picked out with white at the collar and cuffs, and I finally, while on the front of the bodice, as she was steering her bicycle with skill and boldness through the five o'clock traffic, and I longed to see her face clearly—felt convinced, would please my eye. But this, of course, I could not do as she was riding steadily some ten yards in front of us.

I leaned forward to the driver, handing him my open tobacco pouch.

"Do you think," I said, "you could hurry up a bit and pass that lady ahead? I want to see her face."

He turned, and, jerking his head in her direction, said,—

"Lady on the bike—blue dress—cut away?"

"You've guessed it," I replied.

He winked. Then he brushed his horses with the whip, and passed the vehicle in front ahead. The girl, seeing a clear space before her, quickened up and held her own.

"I don't think we can do it," I said, beginning myself to disappointment.

He held his pipe between two fingers and filled it with the remaining two while drawing the reins with his thumb for guidance. I gave him my match-box.

"I'll all right," he said, as he lurched to fixing match in his fist and puff of his pipe into action, "there's a block at the corner."

The girl slowed down and stepped daintily and surely from her bicycle, she stood upon the curb at the corner, waiting on her machine.

As the 'bus drew up by her side, I leaned over and saw her face. I was not disappointed. It was as I thought she was, to me, amazingly beautiful.

"You will excuse me, sir," said a voice at my side, "but you have gained your object."

I looked around at my neighbor and saw in a lady, by no means ill-looking person of thirty. She was regarding me with much apparent aversion.

"You have seen the young lady's face, and now, perhaps—that's right, coachman, drive on."

The 'bus moved slowly forward. I objected a moment, for I had not finished my neighbor before, and was a little startled at her implied reproof.

"Excuse me," I said, "I haven't quite gained my object. I want to make her look at me, and she won't. Now, what is the etiquette in such cases?"

I turned and waved my arm at her as the 'bus moved on. But she was mounting her machine, and, being occupied with the arrangement of her dress, took no notice of me.

"May I ask," said my neighbor, "is the young lady is your sister, or your cousin, or—?"

"Certainly not," I replied. "Why do you ask?"

"Then, sir, I feel it my duty to tell you that you are no gentleman."

"I know that," I replied and sighed "But I always pretend to be, and the public is so gullible. How did you find me out?"

"No gentleman," she said, "would look at a lady in the street, especially a lady who, clearly, does not wish to notice him. And I can see that she is persistently avoiding you."

"Oh, is she?" I said. "Just wait a moment. She'll be as pleased as anyone when she sees that I have not."

"Nothing annoys a woman like being ignored."

"A good—and unprotected—lady."

"She should be all the more pleased to see me," I said.

"I am abreast of the 'bus again and I leaned over the side, waving my hat. She looked up with a glance of surprise. I nodded pleasantly. She lifted her eyebrows and smiled. But the young hansom took her attention and she fell behind again.

"There!" I said. "If ever a girl looked as pleased—there she is. Who am I that I should refuse a momentary satisfaction to a lonely girl?"

I turned with a smile to my neighbor. Her face was flushed with anger as I had clearly proved her to be it.

"It is men like yourself who are the curse of our vaunted civilization," she said. "Such a sweet, innocent face too."

"Yes, isn't it?" I said. "I am so glad you agree with me. It's the sort of face I've always admired; and as soon as I caught a glimpse of her I felt sure she would have that sort of voice. That's why I wanted to get a look at it."

"Such men as you—" began my neighbor.

"Now, if I were not a married man," continued, reflectively, "that is the very girl I would marry at once. As it is, of course, I can't. But that's no reason, is it?"

"You are married?" said the lady.

"I am," I replied.

"That makes it much worse," she said.

"On the contrary, it is my excuse," I said. "It is all owing to my wife. If it were not for her I should be—well—very different."

"She must be a miserable woman," said the lady, "if she knows of your conduct. My heart bleeds for her."

"Not at all," I said. "She is quite happy—as happy as that girl. Now did you ever see a more charming girl?"

I turned and sent a nod in the direction of the girl who was pedalling along quietly just behind the 'bus. She lifted one hand from the handle-bar and waved it to me in friendly response.

"Under the circumstances," I said, "I think I shall speak to her; otherwise I might miss her when I get off at Sloane Street. Do you think she would mind?"

"Let me implore you," said my neighbor; "if you do, I shall speak to the conductor."

"It would be grossly improper," I said, "unless he happens to be your brother—or your cousin—or—"

The lady sniffed and looked round. But the conductor was not in view.

I leaned down, and the girl looked up inquiringly, riding to the side of the 'bus.

"I am going to get off at Sloane Street," I called to her; "will you stop there?"

She nodded, and bending, slightly over the handles, quickly outstripped the 'bus and rode on down the slope. I leaned back in my seat and watched her appreciatively as she floated away.

"Never in my life," I murmured, "have I seen any one whom I admire more. A most delightful girl!"

"A most disgraceful incident!" said my neighbor.

"You see," I said, affably, "two people meet—'twas in a crowd—and their hearts rush together like magnets, or poles, or whatever the things are. It is quite clear to me that we were made for one another. Don't you believe in affinities? They are true."

"It is not a matter for jesting: it is a very serious matter to tamper in this way with the innocence of—"

"I think it is rather a joke," I said.

"It may be a joke for the man—or, rather, he may think so, mistakenly; but a woman never by any chance thinks of the girl. And I feel it my duty as a woman to protest against—'

"Bless my soul!" I exclaimed, "I think of the girl always. She is never out of my thoughts."

"The girl!"

"Yes, the girl—that girl. Didn't I explain? Oh, here we are!"

"Sloane Street!" said the conductor.

I jumped up.

"Well, we've had a most interesting conversation," I said. "You see, she's waiting for me there at the corner. I knew it. I never underrate my attractions."

As I descended to the pavement, Celia greeted me with a smile of welcome, while the eyes of my late neighbor bored two holes in my back.

"How lucky to meet like this," said Celia. "Where did you see me first?"

"Oh, in Piccadilly," I replied. "But it couldn't be sure it was you until I saw your face. I wanted to get some tobacco here, and then we can walk along home."

"Had an amusing day?" said Celia.

"Excellent," I said; "more particularly the ride down."

"You seemed very much interested in the lady on the 'bus," said Celia, as we stepped on to the tobacconists. "Did you know her?"

"Never saw her before," I said.

"Right under my very eyes, too."

"I couldn't help it," I said. "She seemed to have some objection to me, or to you, or to something or other—seemed to see something wrong in our behavior."

"Didn't she know I was your wife?"

"She didn't know me," I replied.

"But didn't you tell her?" asked Celia.

"Well," I said, "now I come to think of it, I don't believe I did."

A Definition of Bridlers.

Reading a volume of eighteenth century memoirs, we came across this sentence: "Pauline is not yet so genteel as Jackey, because she is very fat, but she bridles very well." Do you think that Pauline bridled with indignation or pride? No, and yet few fictionwriters give any clue to the meaning. To bridle properly was regarded as a great accomplishment. The word refers to a certain manner of carrying the chin well up in the air when a young woman enters a room to salute company. There are men to-day who "bridle" in the street, but such chin exhibitions are deceitful; the bridlers are generally men of extreme timidity and irresolution.—Boston Journal.

His Proudest Moment.

"This," remarked the newly elected Congressman, as he stepped into the Capitol, "is the proudest moment of my life!"

"But you are only getting started," protested his wife.

"That's just it. I'm thinking about the things I'm going to accomplish, instead of the things I tried to do and couldn't."—Washington Star.

Of Course He Wouldn't.

"You wouldn't marry a girl solely for money, would you?"

"Oh, dear, no—that is, not if I could get money with a girl who had some other attraction also."—Chicago Evening Post.

ART AT SING SING.

WARDEN SAGE'S BEAUTIFICATION OF THE NEW PRISON.

The Art School for Convicts Who Display a Taste for Art—The Two New Chapels, Their Decoration and the New Organ All Made in the Building.

Some criminologists who have given that part of the subject much attention have written essays and delivered addresses in which they urged severe simplicity, unattractiveness and even repellant style of architecture for prisons, and argued in favor of making such places so gruesome in appearance that the picture would be a warning to the incipient malefactor, and one which might arrest the development of criminal tendencies. It is evident that Warden Sage of Sing Sing is of a different opinion, and in his efforts to beautify the institution which is in his charge he has robbed it in a measure of the horrors which always attach to such places.

WARDEN SAGE.

Some months before contract labor in prisons was abolished, and when idleness and consequent insubordination, disease and insanity seemed to stare the officials in the face, a new building was begun, which is now finished and ready to be put to the uses for which it was erected. It was planned, constructed, decorated and furnished by convict labor. From the unskilled workmen who broke and transported the stone to the artist who directed the handsome ornamentation, the accountants who kept record of the time employed in the various parts, the mechanics who raised and furnished the building, all wore the black and gray stripes of the convict.

On the southern end, over the bath department, is the unique art school, where convicts who have a talent in that direction are taught to draw, model in clay, carve and paint by convict instructors.

Some fine drawings and other works of art have been turned out by the convicts who have been admitted to the school, and the office of the Superintendent of State prisons at Albany and the Warden's office in the Sing Sing Prison contain artistic specimens of furniture which were made in the "art department" of the prison since the school has been in operation.

CONVICT-MADE ORGAN.

One of the convicts has built, unaided, two organs, one each for the Protestant and Catholic chapels. He volunteered to build them, and said that they would cost the State nothing but the material. The proposition was looked upon with doubt and misgiving, because of the intricate and difficult class of work required, and the convict was asked to draw plans of the organs which he proposed to build. This he did. The plans were submitted to the best organ builders in the country, and were pronounced good in every respect. A room was then fitted up for the organ builder, where he worked industriously. He had no outside assistance, and the cost of the material for the two instruments was less than $500.

Practical Missionary Work.

Five hundred invitations were sent out for a novel reception by the Wisconsin Audubon Society awhile ago. One of the directors sent a large, handsome house, and six milliners were invited to send hats showing no egrets or birds. Ostrich plumes, quills and cocks' tails were admitted. Twenty-five other milliners applied for space, "everybody" in the city went, and a great many hats were sold. The affair was, of course, described in the newspapers, and people who had never before heard of the Audubon Society became interested in its object. The Milwaukee milliners, too, came into a "realizing sense" of the fact that the "best" people are really down on wearing birds. They are practical as well as sentimental in the West—when they take hold of a new idea.—Boston Transcript.

He—Who is your favorite writer?

She—My guardian. He signs all my checks, you know.—Detroit Free Press.

CANNIBALS OF HAYTI

A FRAGMENT OF DARKEST AFRICA ON THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

Voodooism in Its Worst Form the Religion of the People of the Interior—The Great Yellow Snake an Object of Worship.

Hayti is little more than a fragment of darkest Africa close by the shores of the United States, its inhabitants being largely given up to the practices of the infamous rites of voodoo, while the cannibalism incidental to that perverted form of superstitious worship prevails to an astonishing extent in every province.

So slight are the relations, commercial or otherwise, which connect Hayti with the United States that such matters have obtained little notice in this country. The worship of the Great Yellow Serpent, with its incidental anthropophagy, as practiced on the island, has attracted only occasional "press notices," as it were. Yet, there is evidence to prove that scores, if not hundreds of human victims, nearly all of them children, perish annually. The whole republic is actually rotten with this strange moral disease, and the best authorities who have written about it assert that the government itself supports the abominable cult, using its sectaries as a secret police.

The people of Hayti—the mass of them, that is to say—have advanced very slightly beyond the absolute savagery of their African ancestors. The latter, when imported in the eighteenth century as slaves to work the great sugar estates, brought with them their religion, which—variously known as "Voodooism, "Obeahism," "Fetishism, "Ju-Ju" and "Mumbo-Jumbo"—is one of the most ancient faiths in the world. Practically all of the natives of the Dark Continent, barring the Mohammedans, believe in it. The worship of the serpent is its most conspicuous feature, and the Great Yellow Snake—a harmless specie of Ophidian indigenous to Hayti—was promptly adopted as a god by the imported negroes. It is supposed to be an incarnation of the arch fiend.

The religious idea of the savage is the propitiation of the powers of evil, lest they injure him. This requires sacrifices, and the most acceptable sacrifices, from the view point of the fiend, is a living human being. In Hayti the Great Yellow Snake is never thoroughly satisfied unless gorged with human flesh, and infants are particularly acceptable. Hence the frequent slaughterings, even in various provinces of the Black Republic, particularly at certain seasons.

The population of Hayti is about 1,000,000, and consists almost exclusively of blacks, with hardly a trace of white blood. Of late it is almost as Africa as the most remote interior of the Dark Continent. Here is the true Western home of Obeah—a religion which exercises a most powerful influence all over the West Indies, even the best educated white people being infected with a dread of its mysterious and truly diabolical powers.

A brotherhood of sorcerers and poisoners extends all over Africa. Their fraternity is of most ancient origin, and concerning many things they possess unusual knowledge. In particular they are acquainted with vegetable and mineral poisons, including some drugs unknown as yet to science. By means of certain mysterious decoctions they are said to be able to produce insanity, paralysis, idiocy, or slow decay of body and mind in a victim. In Africa these priests of Fetish commonly act as secret police for the native chiefs, smelling out as witches any persons whose destruction may be desired. The same brotherhood runs the machinery of the Voodoo faith all over the West Indies, and it is represented in many cities of the United States by "doctors" who enjoy a large "practice" among the colored people, their prescriptions consisting mainly of "love potions," "spells" to destroy enemies, "hoodoo" charms, and other "material" of witchcraft.

In Hayti this system of superstition is known as Vaudoux, the word signifying an all-powerful and supernatural being, namely, the Great Yellow Serpent. All traditions past and present dwells in the reptile, but its will can only be communicated through its priests and priestesses. These personages are generally distinguished by a peculiar knotting of their curly wool, which must be worn in order to qualify them. Commonly they lead most depraved lives. Such is the terror inspired by the priests that few women of the lower order dare resist their advances. Next to unrestricted licentiousness, the highest happiness from the view-point of the voodooist is unlimited rum, and in this luxury the offerings of his followers enable the witch doctor to indulge to his heart's content.

In Africa the sacrifices to Obeah are always of human beings; in the West Indies the fetish worship has often brought about the substitution of chicken cocks and goats for such purposes. In Jamaica, during the last twenty years, only two instances of human sacrifice in voodoo worship have come to light. On the other hand the killing of children by the negro fanatics of Hayti is extremely common, and no recent government on the island cared to grapple with the evil. Indeed, a late Prime Minister was himself one of the brotherhood of witch doctors. The head of the police of the republic, Salnave, joined the fraternity for political reasons, bathed himself in the blood of goats, took part in the most fearful debaucheries incidental to the "sacred" rites, and even sacrificed human victims, it is alleged.—New Beache in St. Louis Globe Democrat.

AN ACCOMMODATING GUIDE.

The Interesting Adventure of Two American Girls in Germany.

A pretty story was told the other day of two American girls who visited the palace at Potsdam and had the unusual honor of being escorted about the ugly old building by the Emperor himself. It illustrates a trait in his character that is not often talked about, but is shown frequently. The imperial palace is open to visitors only when the Emperor and his family are absent; but, without knowing this fact, the American ladies made the journey out there, and were repulsed by the usher at the door. They understood very little German, and he could talk no English, but, with the usual persistency of the American tourist, they were trying to induce him to admit them. While they were in the midst of the controversy a gentleman in the uniform of a soldier came rapidly up the steps, much to the confusion of the doorkeeper, and, addressing the ladies in English, asked if he could be of any service to them. They explained that they had come up from Berlin to see the palace, and were very much disappointed because they were not allowed to enter it.

"I think I can let you in," he answered, "and will show you around myself."

So he escorted them through the various rooms and corridors, and explained everything in a most entertaining manner. Then he followed them out to the portico, where one of them, who had a kodak, asked permission to take his photograph. She hadn't the slightest suspicion who he was, but during the hour they had been together in the palace they had laughed and joked familiarly, and felt very well acquainted. The Emperor graciously consented, and posed for three snap shots. Then he bade them good morning, hoped they would enjoy their visit to Germany, saluted them in the German way and re-entered the palace.

The young ladies were delighted, and related their experience with great gusto when they returned to their boarding house. That afternoon they took their kodak to a photographer to have the films developed, and when they brought home the first prints of the handsome officer their German landlady exclaimed: "Gott in himmel! Der Kaiser!"

The young ladies, being sovereigns in their own country, were not abashed at the discovery, although they cannot understand why it is not good to recognize him. Nevertheless, they had a print of each film handsomely mounted, and sent them to the Emperor, with their compliments and the explanation that they were not aware of the identity of their guide or they would have made the formal acknowledgment of the honor conferred upon them.—W. E. Curtis in Chicago Record.

THE EAGLE OF TENNESSEE.

In a Single Night and Day a Full Grown Bird Can Fly 1,000 Miles.

Eagles are often seen near their nests together, when the sun is shining they frequently take their majestic flight straight toward it until they disappear from sight. Sitting upon the mountain side their vision is so keen that they can see far down in the valley a sheep or young goat, a big turkey or rooster, a small pig, a rabbit, or partridge, and almost instantaneously they descend upon their victim. Often, when a large calf or goat is to be attacked and carried off, four or six of the great birds will unite and remove the carcass to a safe spot, when they will immediately begin to fight it out to see which of them is entitled to the choicest bits, and it is truly a survival of the fittest in such combats as these. But an eagle is always conscious of his strength, and rarely overreaches himself in such conflicts or in his desire for prey. When lingering by the mountain rivers, watching for ducks or geese, or even fish, a pair of eagles will display their natural shrewdness. They swoop from opposite directions upon the fowl, which tries to escape by diving, and could outwit one eagle, but suddenly, as the bird comes to the surface of the water, the second eagle seizes him.

With its wonderful power of sight, covering a radius of miles, the eagle combines a swiftness of flight equally marvellous. In a single night and day a full-grown eagle can fly 1,000 miles. Oftentimes the visitor in the Tennessee mountains can just see him like a little speck in the sky, and yet restlessly and rapidly in majestic circles about the crest of a far-away peak. The sightseers and mountaineers who love to watch the eagles always choose the break of dawn or a calm sunset. Then they are wheeling in large circles and gliding about in horizontal sweeps, just before starting out on a day's hunt or settling for the night.

It it Nye's Long Search.

When Nye was a boy he and his brother once had a great time searching after a calf that had got lost in a piece of woods. The search was kept up for days. Finally it had to be abandoned. Everybody but the humorist forgot all about it, and he said nothing of it to any one for more than twenty years. One day his brother—the same who had helped in the search—got a letter from Bill, in which a pending long trip to Europe was described.

The letter wound up something like this: "You see, I'm going a long ways and shall be away some time. While I'm gone I shall keep a sharp lookout everywhere. Maybe I'll find that darn calf. I've looked for it everywhere in the United States without success, and I'm now going to try the old world."—Philadelphia Press.

STARVING STUDENTS.

PRESIDENT HARPER SAYS FOOD IS SCARCE AT CHICAGO UNIVERSITY.

Young Men and Women Struggling to Obtain Enough to Eat While Pursuing Their Studies—They Manage to Graduate but are Physical Wrecks.

Of the five deaths that have occurred at Chicago University in five years, three may be attributed directly to starvation. This statement was made by President Harper at the twenty-first convocation of the university, on the third of January. By investigation, it has been proved that hundreds of students, men and women, are living very close to the line where starvation begins. Two sisters from Iowa live together in one room, and their combined weekly expenses do not exceed two dollars. There are many similar cases. Sometimes three or four young men share one room, living on bread, with meat once a week.

PRESIDENT HARPER.

They cannot afford to join a club; they have not money enough to go to a boarding house, or to take their meals at a restaurant; and the fraternity halls are far beyond their purses. At the various clubs that have been established at the university, it costs from two and a quarter to three dollars per week for meals, and at the fraternity houses, considerably more.

"The university," says President Harper, "is turning out men of strong intelligence but weak bodies. Some of them are moral and intellectual dyspeptics. It cannot be expected that they will be of much use in the world, if the body is not properly nourished the mind will refuse to act as it should, and I therefore hold that it is as necessary to take care of and cultivate the one as the other."

"This is a subject upon which I have thought deeply, and nothing but the lack of funds has prevented me from carrying out some of my ideas. What is needed is a place where the students can get good food cheaply. By good food, I mean wholesome food that is well and properly cooked. Some of them board at restaurants which is not so bad; others live at the fraternity houses, where the food is excellent, but others 'bach it,' and live on the smallest sum they possibly can."

"The ambitious student will deny himself food to get books; but, if the idea I have in mind is carried out, they can get wholesome food as cheaply as the insufficient food they are now buying. It would not take much money to meet the need I have spoken of, and I hope soon to be able to see the establishment of university dining rooms for male students such as now exist for women."

Hundreds of poor girls and boys are in attendance at the University of Chi*cago, and scores of them are struggling* to obtain the necessities of life. Very few have wealthy parents. Every year graduates are practically paid their way by doing outside work.

The university, being in the World's Fair district, has been able to hire at a low rate, a number of houses which were built at the time of the Exposition. Many students manage to pay the small rent asked for rooms in these buildings, and their great struggle is for food.

A Nebraska Bank President.

This is a true story, but for several reasons names and localities are changed:

A few years ago some financiers concluded to organize a national bank in a city not more than 11,000 miles from Omaha. In order to secure the confidence of the people of the community a number of well-to-do farmers were interested, and one, whose name will be given as Fitzmaurice, was elected president.

In due time the bank was ready for business, and one day it received from the government a lot of national bank notes, printed four on a sheet, and ready for the signature of the president and cashier. The cashier signed up the notes and laid them upon the president's desk for the latter's signature.

President Fitzmaurice stirred up the fire in the grate which warmed his little office, and set to work placing his signature on the notes. In due time he completed his task, and laid the notes back upon the cashier's desk. The cashier cut the notes and counted them, finding the pile several hundred dollars short. He supposed that the president had taken the money and would in due course of business leave a memorandum. But after several days had gone by without the president speaking of the missing bills the cashier asked about them.

"Oh, them bills," said the honest old farmer-president. "Why, I made a bad fist signing a lot of them, and as I didn't want folk to see 'em I just chucked 'em into that grate."—Omaha World-Herald.

AN OPEN LETTER To MOTHERS.

WE ARE ASSERTING IN THE COURTS OUR RIGHT TO THE EXCLUSIVE USE OF THE WORD "CASTORIA," AND "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," AS OUR TRADE MARK.

I, DR. SAMUEL PITCHER, of Hyannis, Massachusetts, was the originator of "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," the same that has borne and does now Chas. H. Fletcher on every bear the fac-simile signature of wrapper. This is the original "PITCHER'S CASTORIA," which has been used in the homes of the Mothers of America for over thirty years. LOOK CAREFULLY at the wrapper and see that it is the kind you have always bought Chas. H. Fletcher on and has the signature of wrapper. No one has authority from me to use my name except The Centaur Company of which Chas. H. Fletcher is President.

March 8, 1897. Samuel Pitcher, M.D.

Do Not Be Deceived.

Do not endanger the life of your child by accepting a cheap substitute which some druggist may offer you (because he makes a few more pennies on it), the ingredients of which even he does not know.

"The Kind You Have Always Bought"
BEARS THE FAC-SIMILE SIGNATURE OF

Chas. H. Fletcher.

Insist on Having
The Kind That Never Failed You.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

WOMAN SLEPT WHILE MAN LAY DEAD BY HER

A Colored Man Found Dead in Bed Tuesday Morning.

HAD RECEIVED NO MEDICAL AID

In Company With a Married Colored Woman He Lived in Squalor and Destitute Circumstances—Half-an-Hour Before He Was Found Dead He Was Still Alive—County Physician Notified—Mrs. Connett Notified She Must Move.

Just what caused the death of John T Scudder, colored, aged 22 years, is a mystery. He had been living at 22 Race street, in the borough, with a colored woman named Mrs. Irene Connett, who is a laundress at Mc Vey's restaurant, on North avenue.

Scudder died at 7 o'clock Tuesday a. m. under most peculiar circumstances. Last Thursday he complained of having a severe pain in the pit of his stomach, but aside from taking Jamaica ginger nothing else was done until early Tuesday morning when Dr. Clawson was sent for. It happened that the doctor was out on a case and could not answer the call and Scudder died without any medical attention.

Scudder, formerly worked for Geo. T. Harris, of Clinton avenue. He rented a room at 22 Race street upstairs, and lived in the one room with Mrs. Connett. There is only one bed in the room and that consists of a mattress laid on the floor with a few quilts and blankets for covering. Otherwise the room was without any furnishings worth speaking of.

It was generally known that the couple were not married. Mrs. Connett at present knows nothing of the whereabouts of her husband. In fact she says he may be dead for all she knows. Scudder's mother, Mrs. Addison, lives at Atlantic Highlands, while his stepmother, Mrs. Agnes Scudder, lives on Fourth street, this city. His father is dead, and it is supposed that when living he left his first wife and married the woman who now professes to be his stepmother.

Since last Thursday Scudder had been growing worse in spite of attempts made to relieve him by patent medicines. Monday evening about 10 o'clock Mrs. Connett came in from work and found a colored man named James Miner, who is a neighbor, watching by his bedside.

Tuesday morning about 6:30 o'clock Mrs. Connett awoke and found her companion all right. She then went to sleep again. Shortly before 7 o'clock Miner called to see how Scudder was, and he was greatly frightened to find that he was dead. He immediately awakened Mrs. Connett and informed her what had happened. Shortly afterward word was sent to Undertaker DeMott and Chief Marshal Wilson. The undertaker arrived first and the Chief soon afterward The latter questioned Miner and Mrs. Connett and learned the story.

Chief Wilson informed Mrs. Connett Tuesday that as soon as Scudder was buried she would have to move from her present quarters and live a different life.

County Physician Wagoner viewed the remains Tuesday afternoon, and decided that the cause of death had been colic. A burial permit was given.

RELIGION IN THE CIT.Y

TERSE CHRISTIAN THOUGHTS HEARD IN TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Churches Do Not Keep Pace With the Growth of Cities, and to Spread Religion Therein is a Great Problem.

The special services in connection with the dedication of the new edifice of Trinity Reformed church, were continued in the church last Monday.

The service began at 8 o'clock with a short service of song led by Horace J. Martin. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of the church, made a short opening prayer; E. C. Martin sang a solo; and the Scripture reading from Luke 21:36, was given by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church.

After a prayer by Rev. A. F. Todd, D D., of Dunellen, the pastor introduced the preacher of the evening, Rev. E. G. Reed, D. D., pastor of the Reformed church of Somerville. He said that before turning to the discussion of his text he wished to congratulate the pastor and people upon the beautiful edifice which they now possess, and expressed a hope that it would prove a help and lead both pastor and congregation to a more extended usefulness in the Lord's service.

The text was Genesis 4:17, "And he builded a city, and called the name of the city after his son Enoch."

"Many will wonder," the speaker said, "Why Cain builded a city for only himself, his wife and his son. We may say, however, that the building was a gradual process, and that as the descendants of Cain multiplied it became a real city, although at the first it was nothing more than a wall for protection. It is regarded as a reproach to Cain that he built a city, for cities have already been regarded as the homes of vice and crime, as Sodoms from which man should flee.

"The question of the day is what can religion do for the city? The tendency of men to congregate in cities is not a new tendency, as is shown by the text.

"All the large cities of history illustrate the gergari nature of men. In our own day one fourth of the entire population lives in large cities, so that they have become dominant in social matters and politics. There is a necessity of evangelizing work in the great cities. While small towns are overcrowded with churches, in the cities there are sections with population as large as whole territories, with only two or three churches. In cities the number of churches does not keep pace with the growth of population.

"The difficulties of evangelizing the cities are great, but the rewards are also great. Much opposition is encountered from the Romanists and from the saloons. If, however, we can succeed in the cities, there will be success all along the line. Christ and his disciples set the example by spreading the Gospel among the crowded throngs of men. This is why Christianity made such rapid strides. Let us not forget, then, to bend our best efforts towards evangelizing the cities."

—It puzzles many people to know why so many women allow their hair to become ruffled by the March breezes, as they do, when they can buy such a durable brush and comb at L. W. Randolph's.

IT IS WAR NOW AMONG THE LOCAL ICEMEN.

Competition in Winter and Summer Commodities is Lively.

OVER SUPPLY OF ICE BEING SECURED.

The New Ice Company Wanted to Lessen Competition With Dealers Already Established, but the Latter Declined to Arbitrate—Too Much Stock Will Probably Result in Low Prices During the Heated Season This Year.

The tradesmen of this city have apparently forgotten how desirable a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity, for while the battle is still raging fiercely among the coal dealers there comes the rumor that a fight is impending among the local ice dealers which promises to be of such a fierce nature as to cause the scrap of the coal men to be altogether forgotten.

The causes of the present ominous outlook in the camp of the icemen are many. The fact that the ice supply this season has been rather plentiful has undoubtedly had something to do with the present state of affairs. A prominent dealer in this city is authority for the statement that there is at present more ice in Plainfield than there will be a demand for next summer. Constant additions to the stock are being received daily, and the end is not yet.

Another disturbing factor in the situation is the presence of a large prospective supply of artificial ice, which will be placed on the local market by the Hygeia Ice Company, of this city. The company was incorporated Thursday with a capital stock of $50,000; and it will turn out twenty tons of artificial ice a day, which is said to be more than enough to supply the entire demand which exists in this city.

It is stated that when the company was forming its representatives went to some of the leading dealers in natural ice in the city and asked to be allowed to supply them with certain quantities of ice. The old companies refused to treat, however, and the result is a state of open hostility and a disposition to cut rates in a manner unheard of in former years. The indications are that ice will be sold in this city next summer for less than the cost of bringing it here.

A NOTED MAN DEAD.

Dr. W. A. Rogers Passes Away in his Home in Waterville, Me.

Dr. W. A. Rogers, professor of natural philosophy and astronomy at Colby University and a scientist of National reputation, died at his residence in Waterville, Me., at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. Professor Rogers had been ill for several weeks, and his death was not unexpected. Dr. Rogers married a daughter of Isaac Titsworth, of Dunellen, and was quite well-known in this vicinity. Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, was a student at Alfred University while Dr. Rogers was a professor there.

Dr. Rogers was a fellow of the Royal Society of London, a member of the National Academy of Sciences and served as one of the vice presidents of the American Society of Microscopists. He published more than fifty papers in scientific journals and the transactions of learned societies upon his specialties.

At the age of sixteen years Prof. Rogers taught school at New Market, and for one year he served in the same capacity at South Plainfield.

His wife survives him, also two children, Dr. Alfred Rogers, of Providence, R. I., and Arthur K. Rogers, a teacher in the Chicago University.

Prof. Rogers expected to take charge of the Babcock Hall of Physics at Alfred University March 1st, and to superintend the construction and arrangement of the interior apparatus

The funeral services will be held from the home of the late I. D. Titsworth, Dunellen, Friday after noon at 1:15 o'clock. Interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

THEATRICAL.

The Godsales Comic Opera Company will give five performances, three nights and two matinees, during their coming engagement at Stillman Music Hall, the opening opera to be the ever popular favorite, "Mikado." Popular prices—10, 20 and 30 cents—prevail during the entire engagement. Reserved seats will be on sale at box office tomorrow morning.

"Beautiful Jim Key" arrived in town yesterday, and has been visited by a large number of our leading people, who are loud in praise of his artistocratic appearance. Of course, our readers know we are speaking of the wonderful educated horse, whose public appearance and performances are announced to take place at Stillman Music Hall Friday and Saturday of this week. In this connection, the management desire to call attention to the fact that all seats, excepting in the rear balcony, are reserved this same as at any regular dramatic performance, and "Beautiful Jim" begins his performances promptly at 8.15 p. m. Friday.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

No.		Cents.
1	—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhœa, of Children or Adults	.25
5	—Dysentery, Gripings, Bilious Colic	.25
6	—Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bad Stomach	.25
11	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	—Salt Rheum, Blind, Humiliating, Eruptions	.25
15	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
17	—Piles, External or Internal	.25
18	—Ophthalmia, Weak or Inflamed Eyes	.25
19	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	—Whooping-Cough	.25
21	—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing	.25
22	—Ear Discharges, Earache	.25
23	—Scrofula, Swellings and Ulcers	.25
24	—General Debility, Weakness	.25
25	—Dropsy, Fluid Accumulations	.25
26	—Sea-Sickness, Nausea, Vomiting	.25
27	—Kidney Diseases	.25
28	—Nervous Debility	1.00
29	—Sore Mouth, or Canker	.25
30	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	—Painful Menses, Promises	.25
28	—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitations	1.00
33	—Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance	1.00
34	—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria	.25
35	—Chronic Congestions, Headaches	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists, or sent free.
Sold by druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price.
Humphreys' Medicine Co., cor. William and John Sts., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL "THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding. Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate after the first operation.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HOT WORDS WERE HEARD

SAMUEL DREIER CAUSED THE ARREST OF HIS FORMER TENANT.

Joseph Hordes Called Dreier Out of His Name and the Prisoner Made a Counter Charge—Lively Trial in Court.

Joseph Hordes, who lately conducted the "Blue Front" clothing store, West Front street, and Samuel Dreier, who owned the building in which the business was located, had a quarrel Monday that resulted in a lively trial before Judge DeMeza in the afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The two men met in the store Monday morning when Hordes asked Dreier for $1.25 alleged to be owing for a hat. The latter was not in a particularly amiable mood towards Hordes because of the latter's attempt to move out quietly in the early morning, and in a few minutes there was a hot war of words. Finally Dreier became exasperated and ejected Hordes from the store. During the process the irate landlord alleged that Hordes called him a number of vile names. He thereupon appeared before Judge DeMeza and swore out a warrant for the arrest of the clothing merchant.

Hordes was arrested only to be bailed out by Morris Abrams, the shoe dealer.

Lawyer Nowcorn represented Dreier, and the proceedings were enlivened by the vigorous prosecution shown by the lawyer.

Warren Davis, a colored man, was the first witness. He was working in the store when the scrap began, and fearing results he had run forth for a policeman. Joe Block, who lives over the store, Harry Jaquett and R. Phillips, who were looking at the store with a view of renting it, were also sworn. All of them had heard high words, but were unable to tell just which one of the disputants was to blame.

Both Hordes and Dreier testified that each had been called hard names by the other, and Hordes also claimed that Mrs. Dreier had heaped serious allegations upon his head.

Mrs. Dreier made a passionate appeal for justice, and for a few minutes the court was tumultous with a babel of voices.

After hearing all sides, the Judge suspended sentence.

A GOLD G. A. R. BADGE.

A HANDSOME PRESENT GIVEN TO REV. L. E. LIVERMORE.

Presentation Made by His Comrades of Winfield Scott Post—Reception Responded Feelingly—Social Time Followed.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, who holds the office of chaplain in Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was surprised last Saturday night when Commander E. C. Morse and the officers of the Post called at his home in the Beckcock building, and presented him with a handsome gold Grand Army badge.

The badge was presented to Chaplain Livermore by Commander Morse on behalf of the Post, and he made a few remarks expressing the warm and cordial feeling of the members of the Post for their chaplain. Mr. Livermore was so greatly surprised that it was several minutes before he was able to respond. Finally his deep feelings of appreciation found expression in a well-worded speech in which he heartily thanked the donors for their handsome gift. He said that he would always hold in remembrance the donors and the many pleasant gatherings of the Post both in session and social meetings.

After the presentation a social time was enjoyed by all, and Mrs. Livermore entertained the veterans by telling them an interesting incident in her younger life. She exhibited a piece of a tree upon which she was seated during the war times, and upon which she wrote a letter to the officials at Washington. Mrs. Livermore's story was enjoyed by those present, and it recalled many other incidents which were also related.

To Describe Mission Work.

At the meeting of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church, to be held in the church parlors Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, of the Plainfield Branch of the McAll Auxiliary, will describe the work of that organization.

—Some sportsmen in the lower end of the State propose to liberate some guinea fowl as an experiment. They are hardy, swift flyers and, it is thought, will make good gunning.

BOYS What sort of start are you going to make in life? Are you going to make money and be successful business men? Or are you going to wear yourselves out in the cheerless drudgery of hard labor? Half of this depends on your parents, the other half on you.

YOUNG MAN Wealth and honors await you if you prepare yourself to take them. You can succeed WHO ARE READY. If you want to be paid a good salary you must make yourself worthy of it. There are thousands of good places begging for good men and millions of dollars await particular people who are worth big wages. Be one of them and you will get it—sure. The best equipment for training men and boys for success in business and has done more to make his own way in the world than a course in

Eastman
NATIONAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

The most celebrated practical school in America. The special effort of the College is to give young people such training for business as will enable them to fill the highest places and command larger salaries than they could possibly get elsewhere. During its 40 years of life it has given more than 60,000 persons, mostly young men and boys from the country, a thorough fitted to fill the best positions in the world.

A grand school, whose diplomas and recommendations are recognized everywhere. Situations promptly secured for all worthy graduates of its Business and Shorthand courses.

Send for free catalogue—a beautiful book giving much helpful information. You will be surprised to learn in how short a time and at what small cost a good education may be had. Address as above (mention this paper)

CLEMENT C. GAINES, President, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Don't Spend a Dollar for Medicine

until you have tried

RIPANS TABULES

You can buy them in the paper 5-cent cartons

Ten Tabules for Five Cents.

This sort is put up cheaply to supply the universal demand for a low price.

If you don't find this sort of

Ripans Tabules At the Druggist's

Send Five Cents to THE RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York, and they will be sent to you by mail; or 12 cents will be mailed for 48 cents. The chances are ten to one that Ripans Tabules are the very medicine you need.

Two Ounces of Blood Daily are added to your veins by taking one of Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids with each meal three times daily. This is the only Natural Iron known. It is the Natural Iron extracted from the blood of healthy bullocks.

Results in a case of severe kidney trouble after only four weeks' treatment.

Mr. Fred Latimer has written us as follows:

THE CAPSULOID COMPANY, UTICA, New York.

GENTLEMEN:—"Twelve years ago I had my first attack of kidney trouble, during a heavy cold. The pain in the back was severe and there was smothering over the kidneys. I rapidly lost in strength, weight, and color. I got over my acute attack, but my kidneys were left weak and tender. Several small attacks since further troubled my kidneys, and about a year ago I had the worst attack of all. I was confined to my room for eight weeks. My doctors attended me constantly, and by their aid I pulled me through; but when I got around again I found my kidneys were in the same state. A friend of mine, a doctor, told me to try Capsuloids. A month ago I commenced taking them. Now everyone of the bad symptoms have disappeared; the pain is gone, an I scarcely ever feel any smothering. I have gained three pounds, my appetite has improved, I have lost that sallow kidney complexion, and have a good, strong appearance with lots of color in my face. Best of all, all the kidney symptoms that so worried me have disappeared. It is hard even for me to believe, but it is positively true. I feel thankful to the Capsuloid Company." Gratefully yours, FRED LATIMER.

DR. CAMPBELL'S
RED BLOOD FORMING CAPSULOIDS

are sold at 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50 by L. W. RANDOLPH, Druggist, 143 West Front Street, or sent by mail on receipt of price by THE CAPSULOID COMPANY, 146 Fifth Ave., New York.

This is not a patent or secret medicine. It is prescribed largely by doctors.

A Reliable Newspaper.

The manner in which the Evening Post has handled the news concerning the recent disaster to the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana is a credit, not only to that newspaper, but to American journalism as well. It is the only New York evening paper that printed absolutely accurate reports of the disaster, including the correct names of the killed, wounded and survivors. In these days of sensational journalism, it is a relief and a source of great satisfaction to read a paper like the Evening Post—a thorough and complete newspaper which prints all the news in black and white.

Widening the Street.

A valuable improvement is being made on West Second street between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, in the widening of the street and the erection of a substantial stone wall along the railroad embankment on one side of the street, to keep the loose earth in the embankment from encroaching upon the roadway. The work is being done by the Central Railroad Company.

—Oak Grove, Hunterdon county, is to have a soap factory.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XXXI. PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1898. NO. 10.

"Support the Constitution, Which is the Cement of the Union, as Well in Its Limitations as in Its Authorities."—Madison.

REPUBLICANS GET ALL BUTT HEIR ASSESSOR.

ELSTON M. FRENCH THE ONLY VICTORIOUS DEMOCRAT—COUNCILMANIC CANDIDATES OF REPUBLICANS HAD GOOD-SIZED MAJORITIES.

Dr. J. F. Cooley was the Republican Candidate Sacrificed—Westfield Had a Hot Fight All Around, With the Democrats on Top—Democrats Won at New Market —G. O. P. Victory in Fanwood and Scotch Plains— Former Sheriff Kyte is Now Mayor.

With one exception, the Republican ticket in the borough had a sweeping victory over the Democratic opponents, though the defeated ones put up a stiff fight and are resting content with having captured the important office of Assessor for Elston M. French.

Not in several years has the strife and interest been so manifested between the two parties, and a heavy vote was polled as a consequence. Issues that were the result of conditions prevalent in municipal affairs at present figured largely, though ubiquitously, in the fight for votes. The partisan rule of voting straight tickets seemed to be observed more in the breach than anything else, and as a result split tickets poured into the ballot boxes in a manner that caused considerable surprise.

There seemed to be a determined fight to trade off Justus H. Cooley, Republican candidate for assessor, for E. M. French, his Democratic opponent. By doing this the votes of many Democrats were thrown over to help elect G. F. Brown collector on the Republican ticket There was scarcely a ticket that was not scratched.

In the first district it was late in the evening before Brown, for collector, managed to get even with his opponent, Jacob Voehl, but once even, it was not long before he gradually, but surely, gained a lead In the second district, Mr. Brown kept ahead of his ticket throughout.

For councilmanic honors, George T. Rogers and John Valiant, Republicans, kept ahead of the ticket and won against Harry M. Cooke and John Vetterlein, Democrats, by good majorities

E. M. French made a great fight against Justus H. Cooley for the office assessor During the early part of the day it was thought that Cooley would be elected, but as the day grew older the lat er's chances grew smaller.

The contest for freeholder between Andrew Lutkins, Republican, and Andrew Love, Sr., Democrat, was very close. Mr. Love was defeated by a majority of 41.

In the first district the Republican vote was 285, while the Democrats polled 167. In the second district there was a total vote of 459. The Republicans received 314 votes and the Democrats 163.

The vote throughout was one of the heaviest ever polled in the borough, and it was nearly 2 o'clock this morning when the count was finished.

The following are the detailed returns from North Plainfield borough:

FOR COUNCILMEN.

First Dist.
George T. Rogers, R. 272
John Valiant, R. 277
Harry M. Cooke, D. 167
John Vetterlein, D. 167

Second Dist.
George Rogers, R. 309
John Valiant, R. 314
Harry M. Cooke, D. 169
John Vetterlein, D. 162
Valiant, 141; Rogers, 136.

FOR ASSESSOR.

First Dist.
Justus H. Cooley, R. 162
Elston M. French, D. 286
Second Dist.
Justus H. Cooley, R. 156
Elston M. French, D. 227
French, 194.

FOR COLLECTOR.

First Dist.
George F. Brown, R. 279
Jacob Voehl, D. 174
Second Dist.
George F. Brown, R. 198
Jacob Voehl, D. 176
Brown, 122.

FOR FREEHOLDER.

First Dist.
Andrew Lutkins, R. 240
Andrew Love, Sr., D. 213
Second Dist.
Andrew Lutkins, R. 192
Andrew Love, Sr., D. 179
Lutkins, 41.

FOR JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

First Dist.
Edward R. Crosier, (5 years,) R. 260
Jos. G. Ayers, D. 204
Crosier, 56.
Second Dist.
Edward R. Crosier, (5 years,) R. 211
Jos. G. Ayers, D. 212
Plainfield—Crosier, 160; Crosier, 172.

FOR SURVEYORS OF HIGHWAYS.

First Dist.
John Wyrtz, R. 264
Frank H. Longer, R. 263
Charles Hampton, D. 157
Jacob Bush, D. 160

Second Dist.
John Wyrtz, R. 219
Frank H. Longer, R. 213
Charles Hampton, D. 163
Jacob Bush, D. 169
Longer, 108; Wyrtz, 106; Longer, 188.

FOR COMMISSIONERS OF APPEAL.

First Dist.
Thomas Simmons, R. 293
Jesse Pearson, D. 159
Second Dist.
Thomas Simmons, R. 310
Jesse Pearson, D. 164
Simmons, 184.

FOR CONSTABLES.

First Dist.
Charles Van Horn, R. 270
Jacob Voehl, D. 155
Wm. H. Pangborn, D. 156

Second Dist.
Charles Van Horn, R. 302
Jacob Voehl, D. 159
Wm. H. Pangborn, D. 174

APPROPRIATIONS.

First Dist.
For Board of Health, $650, R. 214
D. 164

Second Dist.
For Board of Health, $650, R. 129
D. 62

STUBBORN FIGHT IN WESTFIELD.

Democrats Scored a Victory Over Republicans and Independents.

The election in Westfield was a stubbornly-contested one, and the situation was complicated by the presence of an independent third ticket in the field, of which L. G. Cohen was the animating spirit.

The important offices were those of freeholder and township committeeman, and both offices were captured by the Democrats by large majorities M. M. Scudder, Democrat, was elected freeholder over Freeman Bloodgood by a majority of 128. J. A Dennis, Democrat, received 159 plurality for town committeeman over his Republican opponent, L. E. Hart. L. G. Cohen, the Independent candidate, ran close to Hart, polling 133 votes. E. R. Collins, Republican, and Addison S. Clark, Democrat, were elected justices of the peace. J. N. Wilcox and Dr. S. Cooper, Republicans, were elected surveyors of the highways, and C. A. Smith, John J. Coger and J. N. Wilcox, Republicans, were elected commissioners of appeal.

The constables elected were George Davis, Republican, and Gustave H. Koester, Democrat, and J. M. French, Republican, was elected poundkeeper. The suggestion to increase the number of the Township Committee from three to five, was carried, and the following appropriations were voted for the ensuing year:

Appropriations—For roads, $5,000; for street lighting, $2,800; for poor, $600; for fire department, $800; for fire alarm system, $200; for hydrants, $700; for maintenance of sewer system and interest on bonds, $3,000; for township expenses, $2,500; for police, $1,500.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY IN FANWOOD.

John Robinson Elected Freeholder by a Good Margin.

In Fanwood township the Republicans captured every office but one, justice of the peace. John Robinson, Republican, received 43 majority over Charles French, Democrat, for the office of freeholder. William Terry, Republican, was elected town committeeman over his Democratic opponent by a majority of 47. Cook, Republican candidate for commissioner of appeals, defeated Radin, Democrat, by 44 votes. William Traynor, Republican, received a majority of 14 for constable over H. Guerrier, Democrat. Chas. Haberle, the Democratic candidate for justice of the peace, received a majority of 9 votes over his Republican opponent, William H. Turton. The total number of votes cast in the township was 255.

AT BOUND BROOK.

A Fight Between Traction Companies Was the Issue of Election.

The election in Bound Brook was the hottest ever held there. The fight was between the Philadelphia and New York Traction Company and the Brunswick Traction Company. Both companies had avowed candidates in the field. Almost every vote in the borough was polled. The result was close, and the count proceeded slowly. The Philadelphia and New York company won. Its candidates—William Taylor, Howard Moore and William Smalley—were elected by two majority over the Brunswick company's men. When the result was announced the adherents of the Philadelphia and New York company began to celebrate with a brass band, fireworks and free drinks.

DEMOCRATS WON AT NEW MARKET.

Elected Freeholder and Town Committeeman by Small Majorities.

The Democrats and Republicans of Piscataway Township each placed a ticket in the field Tuesday, and the voting was very close considering that there were no great issues. The Democrats succeeded in securing two of the most important offices, freeholder and town committeeman. The vote was as follows:

Freeholder, Alex. Manning, D., 192; Calvin Drake, R., 182; Manning's majority, 10. Town committee, Jos. V. D. Field, D., 192; Clinton F. Randolph, R., 180; Field's majority, 12. Surveyors of highways, R. DeWitt Giles, D., 175; Lewis Harris, D., 173; Albert L. Boice, R ,200; Samuel Giles, R., 200; Boice's majority over Giles, 25; Samuel Giles' majority over Harris, 27. Commissioner of appeal, Lewis D. Walker, D., 181; Wm. T. Dayton, 194; Dayton's majority, 13. Constable, Francis Mulvey, D., 172; Thomas Wrench, R., 200; Wrench's majority, 28. Justice of the peace, Frederick Holden, D., 175; Alfred L. Storms, R., 195; Storms' majority, 20. The appropriations received the entire support of both parties.

QUIET IN DUNELLEN.

Slight Contest Between Frank Wynkoop and Joel Giddis for Council.

Election day in the borough of Dunellen was a quiet one and the only contest was for councilmanic honors between Frank Wynkoop, Republican, and Joel Giddis, Democrat. The ticket was nominated by the citizens, Democrats and Republicans, but for some reason a few of the boroughites evidenced a dislike for Mr. Wynkoop. There were 223 votes cast. For Council, Lewis Schneider received 187; Frank Wynkoop, 122; Frank Humpston, 188, and Joel Giddis, 92. The first three were elected, Albert W. Warden, for justice of the peace, received 170 votes and Joseph Maier, 160. John P. Apgar, for commissioner of appeal, received 218 votes. The appropriations of $1,500 for borough purposes, and $150 for support of poor received the vote of the entire ticket. As complimentary votes, J. E. Henry received 38 votes and Samuel Merrill 14 for council. Thomas Cady received one vote for Justice of the peace.

TIE ON CONSTABLE.

Another Election Will Be Necessary in North Plainfield Township.

In North Plainfield township where

CONTINUED ON PAGE 8

FIFTIETH YEAR OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Their Semi-Centennial Celebrated at the High School.

APPROPRIATE EXERCISES HELD.

A Sketch of the Origin and Growth of the State and Local System Presented by O. B. Leonard—Dr. Yerkes Spoke of the Great Advantages of Education and the Progress Made in the Last Half Century—Supt Maxson in Charge

The semi-centennial of the founding of the public school sytem in the city of Plainfield was fittingly celebrated, Wednesday, at the High School. Special exercises were held and a large number of friends of the school were present to hear them.

Superintendent H. M. Maxson was in charge of the exercises and made a few remarks of introduction. The school assisted in the programme by rendering several songs. Principal I. W. Travell led the singing.

A very interesting sketch of the history of the school system was read by O. B. Leonard, of this city. He spoke as follows:

The first Constitution of New Jersey was adopted July 2d, 1776, but no provision was embodied for educating its citizen youth. The irregular and uncertain contributions of the people for the support of school masters which had been observed all through the colonial period still remained unchanged. Nor were there any alterations to this first charter of our liberties, tending to the intellectual training of the children, till a new State Constitution was agreed up in 1844. But the cause of education towards the close of the last century received encouragement of sufficient importance to merit a passing consideration. On the 9th of November, 1794, the Legislature of New Jersey passed "An act to incorporate societies for the promotion of learning."

Under this law any association of persons were authorized to be formed into a body politic by electing trustees (not more than seven) who might take a name by certifying the same and recording the certificate in the county clerk's office. This law operated as a stimulus for about thirty years, for starting grammar schools, academies and literary institutions which sprang up in different parts of the State. Though in every instance of short career, these societies proved a useful incentive for encouraging and promoting an interest in the public mind on the subject of education.

Of some twelve or thirteen such institutions, one existed in this town. Desiring to form a company for literary purposes, a number of the inhabitants of this village chose as trustees John Wilson, Samuel Manning, John Manning, Benjamin Laing and Frederick Vermeule, to manage the undertaking. They organized under the name of the "Plainfield School Society" on the 4th of June, 1811. Subscriptions were made that summer and an academy building erected during the fall and winter on the site of Mr. Leal's present school on West Front street. Here several teachers were employed at first as private ventures in training the children of the village years. The enterprise flourished and continued till the beginning of 1836, when a fire burned off the roof and second story, and the school was closed.

That the names of those who taught our parents and grandparents may not be forgotten let them be recorded:

Joseph F. Randolph, 1812-16; William Marsh, 1817-20; William Coles, 1820-22; Professor Delamater, 1822-24; Pierrepont Potter and Ruth P. Cook, 1825-27; William Marshall, 1827-30; Peter F. Bunyon, 1831-33; Buckley C. Morse, 1834-35.

In 1833 a "Classical Academy" was built from funds solicited the previous decade, chiefly from persons of the Presbyterian persuasion. Within a year after the First Presbyterian church was completed and occupied for public service, in 1834, the classes in the academy were taught in the basement of the new church. The institution at the time the building was erected was a lot adjoining the meeting house, was called the "Plainfield Seminary." The school flourished for ten years or more after this. It became known subsequently as the "Greenbrook Family School," and later as the "Plainfield Female Institute." In 1845 the property became the residence of the late Cornelius Bolce, Esq.

During the years 1834 and 1835 there arose a rival seminary of learning in the lower end of town, located on the corner of West Front street and Central avenue. This was called the "Plainfield Classical Institute" and was largely under the patronage of the Baptist denomination of this State and New York. This new enterprise lasted about ten years. The establishment of a few excellent private "family schools" in the different parts of the village weakened the material support of both the uptown seminary and this down town. Institute and discouraged the maintainance of all subsequent educational efforts of an academic character.

By this time, 1835-40, the town had grown into some consequence with a younger population engaged quite extensively in manufacturing pursuits, mainly hats and clothing. It had during this decade had a steam railroad was running through the place, the first regular trip to New York by cars and boat being made on Saturday, December 26, 1835. The inhabitants then numbered about 1200, with some 200 children who ought to be attending school. Still there were no suitable accommodations for their free education, especially for the younger ones of the town unable to patronize private schools.

The organization of the public school in town during 1847-8 continued uninterruptedly the intellectual training of the youth of Plainfield.

Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion. He told something of the great advantages in educational lines at the present day and of the wonderful progress that had been made in the last half century. He also touched on the necessity of taking advantage of all these helps. He interspersed his remarks with anecdotes.

MISSIONARY WOMEN ELECT.

And Hear Returned Missionary Talk of Her Work.

The Presbyterian Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue and the First Presbyterian churches, held its annual meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church.

The annual report of the treasurer showed that the society had raised in the last year $1,083.51 for the cause of foreign missions. The meeting appropriated $132 to aid a mission school in Tokio, Japan. The balance of the surplus remaining in the society's treasury was appropriated to the general foreign mission fund of the United States.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. Ford, was an interesting document. The society has always taken a special interest in mission work in Brazil, and the progress made in that country was well set forth. The society held ten meetings during the year, with an average attendance of 31 The death of Mrs. Silas Yerkes, an active member, during the year, was a great loss to the society, said the report.

The annual report of the work of the Young Ladies' Mission Band was presented by Miss Ethel Holmes.

The society appointed Miss Scribner, formerly its president, to attend the twenty fifth annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church to be held next month, and convey to that society the greetings of the members of the Presbyterian society.

Miss M. E. Holmes, a returned missionary from Syria, was introduced and delivered an interesting talk on "The Bible and Foreign Missions."

"There must be a foundation stone for missionary work," the speaker said, and that foundation stone is the Bible. The inspired Word of God was remarkable and unique among other sacred books such as the Arabic Koran and the Vedas, in the fact that it will bear translation into any language. When put into any tongue it at once becomes a classic. The Bible is the key and the only key which will unlock the door of hope to the Nations which are setting in darkness. There should be a more thorough study of the Bible at home by those who are anxious to know about missions, for that is the only authority and text book on missions. There are people who say that missionaries are under the necessity of vindicating missions. No one but God is compelled to vindicate missions. He has given us the command in His Word. The debt of the foreign missionary board had in many instances caused a stoppage of important work in many places. In one station in Syria, where the preacher was at work, it became necessary through through the reduction in the board's means to close up nineteen preaching stations."

The following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Samuel Millikin, president; Mrs. Wilson W. Smith, first vice-president; Mrs. James Petrie, second vice-president; Mrs. Harriet Burton Ford, secretary; Miss Addie Dietrich, treasurer; Mrs. William Bemsen and Mrs. Groendyke, collectors; Miss Sarah Hazes, secretary of the literature committee.

At 5 o'clock a collection was taken which included the contents of the mite boxes. Tea was then served to the members.

TO CRUSH OUT ROWDYISM.

Order and Decency Will be Maintained in Music Hall.

The matter of order and decency at the several performances at Stillman Music Hall has ever been a study and effort on the part of Manager Maze Edwards, who has certainly done much during his short incumbency as lessee and manager, to elevate the moral, intellectual entertainment and theatrical interest of this community. It has been hard for him, however, to control a certain element which attend at times, who delight apparently in "guying" and who are lawless in every sense of the word. Remonstrance and admonishment having failed, Manager Edwards has finally arranged for the presence nightly of a uniformed policeman and Edward Martin is now on duty, as guarantee for order, both in the lobby and body of the house.

Officers Re-elected.

At the meeting of the directors of the Plainfield Street Railway held last Monday all of the old officers were re-elected as follows: President, Thomas Nevins; vice-president, Dr. T. J. Fritts; secretary and treasurer, Adrian Riker; directors, Chandler Riker, Thomas Nevins, Jr., Dr. Fritts, J. B. Brown, Thomas Nevins, Sr., Courtland Riker, Adrian Riker. John Adleman was elected superintendent for another year. Nothing was done at the meeting looking for an extension of the road in this city.

Spencer Goes to the Penitentiary.

George Spencer, alias John Reed, of Plainfield, was Tuesday at Cambridge, Mass., sentenced to a term of not less than four nor more than five years in the State Prison, for swindling S. D. Hardy, of Framingham.

Jacob Glaser, a prospective Democratic candidate for Sheriff of Union county, is seriously ill at his home on North avenue, Elizabeth. Pneumonia is threatened.

ENDEAVORERS PLAN FOR FUTURE WORK.

Annual Meeting of City Union Held Tuesday Night.

MISS HAWKINS CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

Secretary's Report Showed What the Seventeen Local Unions Have Accomplished—Vigorous Remarks About Sabbath Observance—Talk of Establishing a Summer Home in Plainfield for Poor Girls of the City of New York.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union was held Tuesday in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. E. E. Anthony, president of the union, presided. The meeting opened with a service of song, led by Horace Martin, Jr., after which Rev. A. E Main read the scripture lesson and offered prayer. Miss Florence Genevieve Hawkins, secretary of the union, then read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were approved as read. The annual report of the secretary followed, giving much interesting information concerning the seventeen societies of the union and their work.

The various departments of the union, such as evangelistic, press, etc., were also mentioned, as well as the younger societies, the Junior Endeavor organizations. The whole report was full of encouraging records of past endeavor, and of inspiration for the future.

The election of officers for the coming year was the next item of business, the following officers being elected: President, Miss Florence Genevieve Hawkins; vice-presidents, E. E Anthony and E Lake; secretary and treasurer, Miss Ernestine M. Smith.

I. Winthrop Travell moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president and secretary, which was unanimously passed. Miss Hawkins said a few earnest words concerning her appreciation of the honor conferred upon her, and her desire, "trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength," to worthily fill her new position.

She then introduced the first speaker of the evening, Clarence Schenck, of Newark, who gave a most vigorous and practical address on "Sabbath Observance." He spoke of man's need, physical, mental and social, of a day of rest, and of the various ways in which the sabbath is broken in New Jersey. Sunday bicycling, with danger to morality from the frequenting of low road houses, was spoken of with especial plainness. Mr. Schenck, who is the head of the N. J. State C. E. Sabbath Observance Department, is anxious to have a subdepartment organized in every local union, which should see to every individual society at the work of promoting sabbath observance in their own immediate vicinity.

At the close of Mr. Schenck's address, Miss Hawkins spoke of a suggestion which had been made to the union, of opening in Plainfield a summer home for the poor girls of New York. Rev. Mr. Fox, pastor of a mission church in "darkest New York," had been invited to speak on the work which might be done by such an organization, and was now introduced. He described the conditions of life amid which the poor of great cities live, and what might be done for them by fresh air, wholesome food, contact with nature, and with friendly Christian people. If such a movement could be started in Plainfield, many mothers who cannot now come to the Westfield Camp because they cannot leave their older children, could come out from the city at the same time with them.

At the close of the address Miss Hawkins announced that the question would be acted upon by the union at a later date.

After the singing of "Blest be the tie," and the benediction, pronounced by Rev. A. I. Martine, of Dunellen, the Endeavorers adjourned to the parlors of the church, where refreshments were served and an informal sociable was held.

Leaves One Office to Take Another.

Supt. Robinson, of the Public Schools of Rahway, has resigned. It was accepted with regret by the board. The resignation takes effect March 31st. Mr. W. M. Swingle, principal of the High School, will be appointed superintendent for the school year. Mr. Robinson has lately been appointed postmaster.

Putting the Streets in Condition.

At the first suggestion of spring time, the street department has started out vigorously to place the city streets in better condition for the opening of the season. Gangs of men have been started on East Front street, Grant avenue, Central avenue and West Fifth street, and Watchung and Belvidere avenues. They will clean off some of the superfluous mud and dirt and patch the macadam in such places as are necessary.

—Shad this week at Rogers' sea food market on West Second street.

EFFECT OF MIRTH.

CONSIDERED BY FRENCH SCIENTISTS AS A CURE FOR DISEASE.

Queen Anne of Denmark Advised to Dance to Assuage Her Grief at the Death of the King—Severe Case of Fever Allayed by a Laugh.

Some French science men have been discussing and endeavoring to dispose of the question of mirth as an agent for the cure of disease or of states of mind which favor the progres of certain diseases. At the convention of the French scientific press, so reproduced in the Journal d'Hygiene, it appears that seems very novel views were advanced on the subject of mirth as a therapeutic, and the case was recalled of Lord Lanesborough, a victim of gout, who, on the approach of an attack began dancing, not as if from the spasm of pain but with the lightness of joy executing, so to speak, a pas seul that might be applauded in the academy. Lord Lanesborough, according to the statement of the Frenchmen who spoke in praise of his action, was as steadfast a believer in the merit of mirth as a cure for ills that at the death of the Prince of Denmark, the husband of Queen Anne, he requested a special audience of her Majesty in order that he might explain to her the advantage of "ordering the fiddlers to tune up," that her grief at the loss of her consort might be by this method assuaged and that she might woo gracious forgetfulness at a time of sore personal trial by dancing, as the Frenchmen describe it, the reel of Virginia. Dr. Dennis Prudnet-Roy, another Parisian, commended mirth as a cure for bronchial catarrh. He averred that laughter was a beneficial alveolar stimulus, giving useful shocks to the chest, and it was a wise, cheap and satisfactory substitute for cheosate and other drugs. Unfortunately there are in every community some persons unable to avail themselves of the advantages of medication for illness; but as Dr. Denis Prudnet-Roy pointed out, there are no persons in any community so poor in means, if not in temper and fortitude, that they cannot laugh, if by laughing they can promote a cure of their ailments.

Another learned man told of an historical incident in which laughter had figured as a cure. When the Duke of Angouleme was in service in the army of Henry IV. he was stricken with illness in the camp and his life was despaired of. The surgeon of the army came to him to appeal was made, recommended (the medical chest was probably empty) laughter. He secured the co-operation of the Duke's bailiff, his secretary, and the captain of the Royal Guards. These came to the bedside of the Duke dressed in white, and wearing, each of them, red hats with cocks' features. All three were men of demure aspect; all three were between 60 and 70 years of age. Each one endeavored, in the Duke's presence, to knock off the hat of one of the others, and the Duke of Angouleme was so convulsed with laughter at the antics of his visitors that the fever which had beset him for more than three weeks diminished. He recovered his health, was restored, and he resumed command of a portion of the King's army.

In case of intermittent fever, too, according to some of the French experts, unrestrained and unrestrainable mirth produced by the perusal of an almanac or joke book in a language which the patient understands will restore where medicine has failed to. An instance is told where a patient who was cured by attending the Theatre Francais and enjoying a performance of "Le Marriage de Figaro," presented with much animation. In fact, the instances of recovery caused by the magical influences of mirth poured in. Even non-doctors in the congress were eager to add their quota, whereas the medical men seemed loath to admit that laughter—either unbridled mirth or "the guarded laugh," as it is now sometimes called —could be used as a primary hygienic agent rather than as an aid to convalescence.

"Laugh and grow fat" has long been a homely adage, the merit of which has not been disputed seriously even by scientific men or by the uninated in the mysteries of hygiene, but "laugh and grow well" is a new version of the ancient admonition, and it will require, probably, much more than the assurance of any French lights of science, however accomplished professionally and however desirous of promoting hilarity and good cheer, to establish the principle that any serious bodily ailment may be cured radically by a simple prescription of laughter. For such a simple matter as toothache, the policy of "laughing it off" has frequently been tried without success; it is believed in by every one but the man with the toothache. But there is a novelty on the side of the Paris scientists—novelty and originality, too. Good cheer aideth medicine. Might it replace and abolish it?

Collegiate Education.

A father recently wrote to Oxford university: "What are your terms for a year? And does it cost anything extra if my son wants to learn to read and write as well as to row a boat?"—London Tit-Bits.

"Why," asked the Bold Spirit, "do you wear that?"

"It's what everybody wears," answered the Woman.

"But why don't you wear this?" the Bold Spirit persisted.

"Oh, because everybody is wearing it," objected the Woman.—Detroit Journal.

ON TO THE ANTARCTIC.

In a Steamship Especially Built for Exploration.

During the past few years, whilst public attention has been directed to North Polar exploration and its counterpart in the Antipodes, without any practical results as regards the latter, a Belgian Antarctic Expedition has been quietly fitted out at Sandefiord, Norway, under the able superintendence of Captain Adrient de Gerlache, its promoter, and Lieutenant Danco, of the Belgian Artillery, one of the scientific members of the expedition. The object of the enterprise is to penetrate those waters of Antarctica which have hitherto proved impenetrable to the unsuitable craft which endeavored to navigate them, chart the coast line if any be found, effect a landing at Cape Adare, where a house and observatory will be erected and left in charge of the above-named officers, to gether with a suitable number of men who, during the course of their sojourn, will traverse the ice cap, or interior of the continent, as far as possible, endeavor to discover the true position of the south magnetic pole make constant records of the climatic, magnetic and astronomical conditions etc., and add considerably to our present very slight and unsatisfactory knowledge of those regions. For this purpose the ship Belgica will, after completing her coal supply at Punta Arenas, touch at Graham's Land, work through Waddell Sea to Enderby Land, continuing her way along the shores of Wilkes Land to Cape Adare to Victoria Land, where the shore-going party will land and winter, the Belgica herself, unless compelled by circumstances to remain, proceeding to Melbourne for a time, returning in the following year either to re-ship or re-

S.S. BELGICA IN THE ANTARCTIC.

CAPTAIN DE GERLACHE.

victual the explorers at Cape Adare. The Belgica is a Norwegian-built steam whaler, which is sufficient guarantee of her fitness for ice navigation, but she has been still further strengthened and prepared for her present purpose by her purchaser, Captain de Gerlache. She measures 263 tons, steams seven knots, is barque rigged, and appears to be a fine seaworthy vessel. The outfit is of the very best, comprising deep sea trawls for dredging, worked by special steam winches, patent sounding lines, whale guns and, in fact, every kind of instrument and appliance necessary for marine, terrestrial, atmospheric and astronomic investigation. This well-equipped expedition is the only one that has ever sailed for the Antarctic in a steamship especially built for ice navigation.

A Dressing Gown.

If there is one thing a woman admires, it is a becoming dress gown. The one dress shown is made of old rose challie, dotted with white. It is made very loose and full, trailing slightly on the ground. The bodice which is worn blouse fashion is girdled at the waist with a silver link belt.

DRESSING GOWN.

The neck is cut V style and is devoid of trimming, but from the shoulders there extend long strips of heavy cream embroidery, insertion ending in a point about 2 inches above the waist line. The sleeves, slightly fulled at the top, fit tightly at the wrist and are finished with a full of soft lace.

CURRENT COMMENT.

A New Yorker who died lately left $60,000 to his housekeeper for "good and faithful service." That tends to prove that household work is a career as well as a science.

An advertisement of the day runs thus: "Pedigrees and proofs of eligibility to membership in various *patriotic, revolutionary and colonial so*cieties prepared." It is understood that strict confidence is observed in case undesirable incidents are discovered.

Canada will probably plead in regard to Klondike exactions that she is deeply in debt and needs the money. The Canadian per capita of debt is $47.51, while that of a citizen of this country is $14.63. At the same time it is rough on the argonauts to expect them to pay off a national debt.

An English critic says of the "Book of Beauty of the Victorian Era," published not long ago, that the most agreeable types are the American ladies, who, by dint of dollars, have made their way into the peerage; while the English beauty of the present day "looks discontented, almost disgusted, and bored to death," because she has "a wearisome sense of the uselessness of shining before noblemen whose dreams are all of dollars.

The old notion that the separation of the United States from Europe by several thousand miles of ocean would render this country safe from all possibility of serious attack is effectually destroyed by Spain's achievements in the transportation of troops and munitions of war in the Cuban conflict. An official statement recently published at Madrid shows that between November, 1895, and May, 1897, Spain sent 181,738 enlisted men to Cuba, with 6,261 officers, including forty generals; 212,542 guns, 220,406 kilogrammes of powder, 92,988,870 cartridges, 16,712 swords, 91 cannon, 12 mitrailleuses and 29,500 shells. During five or six months of that time, too, according to the same statement, Spain sent across a still broader expanse of ocean to the Philippine Islands 27,500 soldiers and 881 officers, with all needed equipments of war.

A few days ago London woke up to the fact that the entire equipment of its new electric underground railway must come from America. The trams and appliances offered in England are inferior and more costly. Electric transportation has reached by far its highest development in the United States, and our manufacturers may be depended on to hold their ascendency in this important field. Our bicycles the world over are preferred to any others. American steel rails can be delivered in India at a price shutting out the British mills. Japan, which is not at present disposed to be friendly, has, nevertheless, recently ordered fifty locomotives to be built in Philadelphia. Their equal can not be obtained in Europe, and that settled the matter as a business transaction. British consuls in Uruguay and Brazil report that the Americans are taking the lead in iron-mongery, cotton goods and silver-plated ware. A colonial blue book states that in Australia there is a general demand for American implements, clocks and boots. Our agricultural machinery has captured the Australian market, and it easily takes the lead everywhere.

The policy of the Illinois Central Railroad Company in encouraging its employees to buy stock of the company, paying for the same in instalments, seems to have proved successful in more ways than one. Since the employees were invited to become stockholders, about four years ago, they have purchased and paid for nearly 2,000 shares, and partial payments amounting to nearly $60,000 have been made on 1,624 additional shares. As the shares were offered to them at par, and as the stock is now quoted at about $8 above par, it will be seen that the employees have made a paying investment. But more important than any pecuniary returns to the employees of the company is the fact that their ownership of the company's stock will do more than anything else to allay possible irritation between them and the company. Both employer and employee will discover that their interests are identical, *and that they will be equally bene*fited by any policy that helps to strengthen and enrich the road. A man who owns stock in a company of which he is an employee is not likely to consort with those who falsely denounce that company as an oppressor, and, on the other hand, a business concern whose employees hold a large block of its stock is not likely to treat those employees with harshness or injustness. There is little doubt that if the employees of all the great railways in the country had been stockholders also, to however limited an extent, some of the most costly and disastrous contests between railroads and railroad men would have been avoided.

CURRENT COMMENT.

A hatpin in the hand of an excited woman routed two thugs who had held up a street car in Chicago. This is an unexpected vindication of the hatpin and a justification of the Rev. Phoebe Hanaford's plea for women on the police force. Nothing was ever known to stop a Chicago highwayman before.

The more that faulty dry-dock at New York is investigated the more defective it appears. It is now said that the whole structure is weak, that it is set on quick-sand, and that even the $75,000 coffer-dam built to enable repairs to be made is a failure. The whole thing, history and all, looks like a gigantic job. It seems to be a costly lesson in Government contract work, but the pity is that this country is not likely to profit by it.

Commissioner Powderly is doing good work in tracing out and sending back to Europe men who are sent to this country in violation of the contract labor laws, but it is to be regretted that he has not the authority to stop undesirable immigrants when they come into port, instead of having to follow them to destination, in order to secure evidence that they have violated the law. This is a matter that Congress should provide for.

The bulk of England's great ocean tonnage is made up of what is known as "tramp" steamers—staunch but slow freight carriers, economical in maintenance, which seek cargoes wherever they are to be found. There may *be much significance in the announce*ment that the first American steamer of this character is under contract with the Bath Iron Works of Bath, Me. This vessel is for a New York house It is to be completed next May, and will at once compete with the foreign "tramp" steamers.

Postmaster-General Gary points out that the weak point of our postal system is the low rate of postage on second class matter, which includes newspapers and other publications. He says it costs the Government 7 cents to carry matter of this class, for which the sender pays 1 cent. Perhaps it does; but the Government can afford to spend something for the dissemination of intelligence. The really indefensible drain on the postal revenues is the carrying of all sorts of matter free for people who have no more right to any such gratuity.

On good authority the peanut crop of the United States is said to be diminishing. This should not be allowed to happen. The normal crop is 4,000,000 bushels, and Americans are so fond of the nut that they spend upon it $10,000,000 a year. Chemists say the pea nut contains 50 per cent. of fat and over 30 per cent. of nourishing compounds, and it is commended by physicians as an article of food. No doubt it can be improved by judicious culture. In any case, it can not be spared for it finds a place of its own.

The Wisconsin Forestry Commission has hit upon what seems to be an excellent plan for reforesting that State from which its wealth of timber is disappearing so rapidly. It has induced the "lumber barons," who own the vast tracts of land valuable only for their timber, to replant the denuded tracts with trees one year old, the only condition being that the State shall strictly enforce its laws relating to forest fires. It is estimated that the replanting can be done at the rate of $1 an acre, allowing 1,000 trees to that space.

England uses American paper in her public offices, finding it of the best quality made. Its decrees, before which foreign nations and tribes all around the world bow, are inscribed over the watermark of the eagle instead of the lion, which ought to stiffen and reinforce their validity. It has never been remarked of Great Britain that she didn't know a good thing when she saw it, or that she did not promptly reach out and annex it when it was possible. In the case of stationery, there is no impediment and Uncle Sam will cheerfully extradite any quality of it on her requisition as he has been doing for some time past.

The queer people who are running the State of Kansas are determined that no one outside the State shall insure their lives or their property. If they die or burn up, it shall be at their own risk. A similar notion took possession of Chicago people a number of years ago. They though the Eastern fire insurance companies were taking too much money out of the State, so on, while that great insurance centre of panics themselves. One day Chicago burned down. The policies issued by the home companies turned out to be not worth the paper they were written on, while that great Eastern centre of the East—Hartford—paid in full every dollar of its losses, which ran up into the millions. It's a self-supporting dog that lives by eating its own tail, but the source of subsistence is always more or less precarious, and liable to become exhausted.

Yabsley—Think you'll get a chainies, wheel?

Mudge—If I do it will be at the cost of wearing a watchless chain.—Sitsesman.

GOSSIP OF THE NEW YORK STAGE.

Press Stories and Criticisms from the Metropolis.

At a reception which Mrs. John A. Logan gave in honor of Jessie Bartlett Davis, the hostess introduced the fair contralto as follows: "This is the little girl who used to sing in the choir of my Chicago church in a calico frock because she had no other, and she is just as sweet now as she was then."

"What does anything matter?" says Richard Dudgeon, the reckless American patriot, whom Richard Mansfield impersonates.

Once upon a time Yvette Guilbert was what is technically known as a "dummy." When she first had to set about making her own living she obtained a position at Worth's, the great dressmaker's, as a lay figure. Tall, slight and elegant, she looked extremely well decked out in fine clothes for customers to admire and purchase. But she found that by continuously *standing she became very much fa*tigued and she therefore left Worth's for the music-hall stage.

Madge Lessing insists that no blame is attached to her if she becomes a confirmed cigarette fiend. The pangs and pains of such a dire disaster she might have to suffer, but her conscience is clear. She didn't want to do it, but was coerced in this way: When the stage director, one Teal, gave out the business for "Jack and the Beanstalk," he ordered Miss Lessing to smoke a cigarette in the third act. She objected and begged, but Teal insisted. Early next morning she called on the manager, Mr. Erlanger, in his private office. She was almost a physical wreck in appearance. "Mr. Erlanger," she said, "when I went home from rehearsal yesterday I sent for a package of cigarettes to practice smoking, so that I might be able to comply with Mr. Teal's directions in my scene with

MADGE LESSING.

Mary. Well, I hadn't taken but three or four puffs when I became deathly sick. I kept at it, though, disagreeable as it was, but try as I might I could not overcome the awful feeling of dizziness. When I went to bed everything in the room seemed to swim around, and I could not get asleep. So, I just lay there and cried all night long. Now, can't something be done to help me? I don't want to give up the part, but really, Mr. Erlanger, I'm afraid I must if the cigarette is insisted upon." Mr. Erlanger said orders would have to be obeyed, and after some argument, he said: "Now, Miss Lessing, I will tell you what I will do. Mr. Teal says that Jack must smoke a cigarette, and that settles it. But I will overcome your repugnance to tobacco by having a cigarette expressly made for you. It shall be small and of the finest and mildest tobacco. You will be able to smoke these without getting sick, I am sure. As to your objection on the ground of shocking ladies, there is no more reason that this should shock ladies than it would be shocked at Rosalind dressing as a boy."

Somewhat mollified, Miss Lessing departed. In the course of a week or two she received a box containing 1,000 dainty cigarettes made of tobacco of the color of the lightest flax, with a gold foil mouthpiece, and on each was stamped in gilt the words: "Expressly made for Madge Lessing."

This story is credited to Leander Richardson: "The late John McCullough, once on a time, for a benefit performance in Syracuse, played "Claude Melnotte," in order that Mary Anderson, for whom he had a great liking, might be seen as Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons." The day before the performance McCullough sent me a dispatch reading, as I remember it, about as follows:

"'If you want to see such a Claude Melnotte as you have never dreamed of, drunk or sober, be in Syracuse tomorrow afternoon.'

"I didn't go to Syracuse, but McCullough chuckled over that performance every time I met him for three months.

"'I have seen some tough actors,' he would say, every once in a while, 'but I never knew how raw a man could be till I heard myself bellowing through those love speeches.'"

Her Inference.

"Goodness alive!" ejaculated good old Mrs. Hinds in horror, looking up from her newspaper; "I didn't know there were cannibals out in Kansas."

"Cannibals!" snorted her husband. "What in the world are you talking about, Debby?"

"Why, I have just been reading an item in this paper that Cousin Eli, who lives out there, sent us, which says that "The Imperial Hotel had a couple of Chicago capitalists for dinner yesterday.'"—Puck.

Used to Whistling.

"Does my whistling disturb you?"

"Oh, not in the least. I'm used to hearing men whistle. I'm a collector for a millinery house."—Yonkers Statesman.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

With the return of Congress comes the lobby. There are always claims before Congress and claimants waiting for Congress to favorably act upon support in case of illness will not have to be supported in any hospitals at them. There are always claims for servatism, fought for twenty years to supposed to do so. But it is just as difficult to classify the subject as it is to classify any other subject in politics or business. The lobby is a necessary mixed evil. The commerce about the Washington lobby are like other romances, a few grains of fact going a long way and doing great service in sustaining the fabric of fiction. These romances have at times done much to prejudice the people who never see Congress in session, and give them exaggerated ideas of the corruption that gathers beneath the dome of the National capitol. There may have been a time when money played an important part in legislation, and it may be more or less present now, but no one will look in vain about the capital for a lobbyist who carries a checkbook with him or has rolls of greenbacks bulging out his pockets, *ready to influence Con*gressmen. He will also look in vain for the fascinating beautiful woman who captures legislators with her smile and hypnotizes them into voting as she wishes. These are creatures of fiction. The lobby is made up of very different people. And the men and women who make up the lobby are more often victims than those looking for victims.

The coarse and vulgar purchase of votes found in fiction and on the stage does not resemble in the least the ex-Senator who walks past the doorkeeper and takes a seat on the floor or in the rear of the Senate chamber. Once a United States Senator, always a free admission to the Senate chamber, the most exclusive place in the whole United States. No man, however popular, who is not a Senator, a Congressman, or a member of the Supreme court may enter the Senate chamber when the Senate is in session. The ex-Senator always retains that right. He carries it into private life with him, and when he comes to Washington he walks proudly over the floor as he did when a member of the Senate. There are a good many ex-Senators in the United States. A number of them live in Washington. They are lobbyists. The name does not jar on their nerves. They are possessed of certain proposed legislation, and they regard it no more dishonorable or undignified than they would the profession of the law and the employment of counsel for corporations or individuals.

A tariff bill brings out many members of the lobby. They represent special interests and are paid to present the demands and needs of those interests. It is honorable and often necessary. They act as counsel for such interests and show why they need a high tariff or no tariff.

A minister of the gospel may be a member of the lobby. In fact there are often ministers in the lobby watching the legislation which interests them or their churches. They are not corrupt lobbyists. They would consider it foolish but their services may be paid for by the churches or schools that are seeking appropriations, and they employ the same means that other members of the lobby employ who have never been known to accept a dollar. They argue, plead the cause of the church and morality, use personal influence, and ask for votes on the ground of friendship if they cannot make it appear that the bill in that which should be passed on the grounds of exact justice, and in accord with political policies. They will even encourage "log-rolling," which is held up by theoretical moralists as one of the evils of modern legislative assemblies. They will ask their friends to go it even with others who are not active friends and help along another bill in which they have no interest, providing this will help the bill wanted.

Political influence and church influence may go hand in hand in the lobby. One of the most interesting of the Southern war claims is that of the book agents of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. When Buell's army entered Nashville in 1862 the great publishing house of the church in that section, the property was libelled for confiscation. While the question of confiscation was before the court the army made use of the plant. The paper designed for the books was used to print quartermaster's blanks, and the bindery turned out regimental rolls instead of Bibles. The church wanted something like $300,000 for the damage done, and presented evidence to show that it was loyal during the war. Several war claims committees of Congress favored paying the claim, but it has never been paid, and Congress has not made the appropriation. This claim brings ministers of that church, bishops and other church officials to the lobby to work for the appropriation. There are many such claims still in the hands of Congress, and at each session of Congress the clerical lobbyists to mingle and associated with all others who oppose the enactment of laws that will help some cause. They may be the heaven to see the lump, but they all go in together and are so classed as part of the lobby. SENATOR.

N. P. Willis was usually the life of the company he happened to be in. His repartee at Mrs. Gales's dinners in Washington is famous. Mrs. Gales wrote on a card to her niece at the other end of the table: "Don't flirt so with Nat Willis." She was herself talking vivaciously to a Mr. Campbell. Willis wrote the niece's reply:

Poem 4 lines.

BELOVED BY WOMEN.

EDWARD W. BOK SUPPLIES THEM WITH FASCINATING LITERATURE.

He Is Not Pretty and His Name Is Horrid But He Has Made the Ladies' Home Journal the Greatest of Magazines and the Most Profitable.

Mr. Bok is not pretty and his name is horrid, but he has made the Ladies' Home Journal the greatest of magazines and the most profitable.

Edward W. Bok, best known to the reading public as the editor of the Ladies' Home Journal of Philadelphia, is a notable example of a young man who has won success in this country, and by the use of a language other than his own. He was born in Holland some thirty-three years ago, but came to this country with his parents while still in his teens, and learned the English language at a Brooklyn school. His father had been one of the wealthiest citizens of Amsterdam, where the Bok family had enjoyed an enviable position socially and politically for centuries, but he lost his fortune, and it was as the penniless son of a poor man that young Bok first attracted attention to himself by originality and success as an amateur collector, his correspondence with famous authors making friends of many of them for himself and causing his collection to be much written about in the newspapers.

EDWARD W. BOK.

At twenty-one years of age, Mr. Bok was in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company in this city as a stenographer. He soon afterward entered the publishing house of Henry Holt & Co., where he established his first connection with the business end of literature. A year later he became associated with Charles Scribner's Sons. He soon displayed an aptness in the art of writing advertisements which caused the firm to place him in active charge of that department of their business, and, reaching out for himself, he utilized his acquaintance with authors and his knowledge of the publishing business to start a weekly letter of literary news and gossip which soon became a feature of many leading American newspapers.

Quickly grasping the possibilities of the syndicate idea, he began to handle the work of other writers, in which he also met with success. Henry Ward Beecher was one of the first men to befriend their literary wares to him, and it was Mr. Beecher's verdict that Mr Bok was the only man who always made his work "go." Mr. Bok was among the first to realize the value of the "Woman's department" now so common in newspaper features, and his syndicate was the first to supply matter of special interest to women.

Mr. Bok was just twenty-five years old when he left the Scribners to take charge of The Philadelphia Ladies' Home Journal, then a fifty-cent-a-year monthly, with 300,000 circulation. He doubled the price, raised the standard of the magazine, and made it the periodical success of the decade in this country. He gave it an individuality bought the best work of the best writers, used the highest class of illustrations procurable, and advertised unstintedly, with the result that both The Home Journal and its editor are now known wherever an English printed paper is read. Much of this success is attributed to Mr. Bok's happy faculty of detecting, as if by instinct, the wants of his women readers. His own writings are popular with them, and his judgment of what they like to read has come to be regarded as almost infallible.

Mr. Bok has written a series of papers intended especially for young men, which have developed a faculty, not pronounced in that direction before. These are "The Young Man in Business," "The Young Man From the Employer's Standpoint," and "The Young Man and the Church," all of which were published in The Cosmopolitan Magazine, where their success was assured, and they have since been republished in book form.

Personally, Mr. Bok is an engaging talker. He has a strong, clear-shaven face, is fond of society, though he goes out little, is an appreciative and considerate host, a lover of good wine and liquors in any form. He was married last October to Miss Mary Curtis, the only child of the publisher of The Ladies' Home Journal.

Newspapers in Constantinople.

In Constantinople daily and weekly papers are published in a dozen different languages, but they must submit all advance proofs to a Government censor, who permits nothing to be printed without his mark of "harmless." One of the censor's rules is to cut out all news of assaults on crowned heads. The death of President Carno was given to the Turkish public as caused by an illness lasting several days.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

CHIPPENDALE PIECES.

Two Hundred Pounds Recently Paid for Two Pieces of This Work in Auction.

At an English auction recently many hundred pounds were paid for two pieces of work by the greatest furniture maker, the world has ever known, Choffendale, who flourished in the last century. The two cabinet pieces pictured here show the style of his work. He generally commenced by producing a thoroughly sound piece of work, perfect in all its mouldings, jointings, and veneerings, and then he plastered on to it, or added to it, the well "Louis Quinze" decoration as appears upon this design. In a sentence, he dressed up good, honest English work with the scrolls and frillings of his more volatile French competitors. It is important to notice, when attempting to distinguish Chippendale cabinet work from that of his successors, how he always introduced, if possible, the serpentine line.

CHIPPENDALE CABINET

A CHIPPENDALE PIECE

An Elephantine Wall Piece.

One of the most unique exhibitions in England is that collected by Mr Selous, the great African hunter. The picture shows only a small portion of the elephants exhibit, a group of tusks, antelope heads and an elephant's foot.

Probably the first thing which attracts the attention of all visitors to the museum is the group of lions' heads and skins which monopolise almost all the wall space at one end of the room. There is one corner to which there are eight heads, five of lions, two of lionesses, and one—that at the top—of a cheetah or hunting leopard. The opposite corner is similarly decorated, one of the lion's skins there shows being a gift from King Lo Bengula to Mr. Selous. Hunting upon the subject of lions it may be noted that there are in the collection no fewer than sixteen heads and skins but these by no means represent all the havoc the great African hunter has wrought among this the most terrible of all game to encounter. Mr. Selous has himself accounted for no fewer than twenty-five, and he has taken part in killing ten others.

ELEPHANT-TUSKS-AND-FOOT-

Old Joe's Graveyard.

Englishmen are somewhat disturbed over the prospect of losing the famous Dickens landmark at Birkenhead known as "Old Joe's Graveyard." It is about to be torn down to permit of the construction of a new thoroughfare. Those who have followed the tribulations of Joe and the story of Lady Dedlock, will hear with sorrow of this latest encroachment into Dickensdom.

OLD JOE'S GRAVEYARD

"Wait a year, my son, and you may feel very different," said the father.

"I've tested my love for Miss Higgins thoroughly, and I know it cannot change," the son confidently replied. "I've played golf with her and still I want her for my wife."

Miss Smiley—There goes Mr. Sparks. He's dreadfully soft, isn't he?

Miss Scorcher—Yes. He's the softest man I ever ran over.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Netting Stitch.

These are two pretty designs for stitching. The first shows a pretty stitch, which is very easily executed. The use of it may be inferred from the fact that it is worked of equal lengths of single Berlin wool and purse silk wound together on the shuttle. The requisite number of rows are worked in plain netting, care being taken to keep the different strands even and work them together as one. When the netting is finished, the wool is cut exactly half way between the knots, and the ends of it are unravelled, fluffed out and clipped in till they set like little chenille spots on a silk lattice. The effect, for suitable purposes, is very pleasing.

NETTING STITCH

The second shows a pattern which, when a worker has gained a little facility, can be varied greatly. Here worked it is begun with one row of plain netting, worked into a stirrup or foundation. For the second alternate them thus all along. Net back in plain netting, gathering the three loops of the previous row into one knot. For the fourth row begin with a triple stitch, follow with a plain one, and continue thus to the end. After repeating from the first (plain) row as often as required, end with a plain row and fasten off. Instead of three, as many as five stitches can be worked into the loops of the previous row, and if liked, these increasings can be made in each stitch instead of every other one, the alternating rows being plain. Whichever variety is selected an even number of stitches should be set up as foundation.

KNITTING STITCH

A Regal Handkerchief Case.

The handkerchief sachet given here may be worked in several ways. Many persons like exclusively to use the colors of the country, red, white and blue; but these require nice management, and do not always look in such good taste as a less crude combination. A more suitable coloring for the sachet would be to have satin of a delicate shade of blue, the crown to be worked in gold, with the cap of crimson and its band of ermine. Some tiny jewels should also be added. If applique be used instead of embroidery the shape of the crown should be cut out in cardboard and covered with gold gauze; a simulated cap of crimson velvet should be neatly put on underneath this, and the ermine band should be made of white fur, with tiny pieces of black fur added to represent the ermine tails.

If this method be considered too complicated, the crown might be embroidered in gold and crimson. The monogram should in that case be embroidered in crimson and outlined with Japanese gold to match the embroidered crown. When the ornamental stitching is finished the case should be carefully made up with a soft lining of white or cream satin, nicely quilted. Some scent powder should be sprinkled upon the wadding before the lining is put into its place, and the case should be edged at each side of the opening as well as along the four sides with pale blue cord. The corners may be decorated with loops of cord as in the model; or, if preferred, with bows of ribbon, or small blue tassels.

A REGAL HANDKERCHIEF-CASE

A Strange and Pretty Charity.

A London society woman, of charitable disposition, has discovered a singular way of carrying relief to the sick children of the great metropolis of the world. She has for a pet a very pretty cockatoo, called "Kitty." The bird is trained to perform many amusing feats, with great address. This pretty creature is taken by its owner on a tour through the poorest quarters of the city, where there are sick children, whose addresses and conditions have been reported to her. Kitty performs in each poor little room to the great delight of the young invalid, and so carefully is the bird trained that it never makes too much noise or excites its small audience unduly.—New York Journal.

Husband: "What did you think when you heard the chandelier fall in the night?"

Wife: "I thought that you had been detained on 'business' again, and were putting upstairs as quietly as you could."

The Devil's Dyke Railway.

The Devil's Dyke, situated about six miles to the north-west of Brighton England, is a remarkable chasm, having on one side a table-land over 700 feet above sea-level, from which a splendid panoramic view is obtainable On its southern side the table-land is easy of access, but the approach from the north is barred by a forbidding escarpment, and can only be achieved by a roundabout route. To do away with this detour, and to make the tableland of the Dyke as easy of access on the north as on the south side, a railway of a novel character has been constructed. The new line descends direct from the top of the hill to the plain below at a point about a quarter of a mile from the village of Poyn

THE DEVIL'S DYKE RAILWAY

ings. It is only 340 feet long, and claims to be the shortest public railway in England. Two cars are used for the service, one ascending while the other descends. The cars are open and are fitted with four sets of steel-jaw brakes, possessing grip sufficient to stop and hold the car steady at any point of the line. A three-minutes' exciting ride suffices to convey the car from the top of the hill to the terminus at the bottom. The cars are hauled by stout wire cables, worked by engine. The permanent way is laid on a solid bed of concrete, and throughout, the construction has been modelled on the principle adopted in the mountain railways of the Rigi and Mount Pilatus.

Cornucopia Panel.

This consists of a panel 12 inches by 12 inches in size, suitable for a blotter, cushion or screen. The choice of material is left entirely to the fancy of the worker, but the design must be carried out in silks. The use of gold thread is allowed, for it is satisfactory to raise it in tolerably high relief, and to make the securing stitches carry out the idea of the rounded shape of the fruit. There is a considerable amount of labour involved in the flowers and fruits which spring from the horn, and those who try it, will have to summon all their knowledge of correct shading to their aid in order to do it full justice.

A CORNUCOPIA PANEL

The "Laughing Jackass."

While the famous "Laughing Jackass" of Australia, has found a place in most zoological gardens, it has remained for Mr. Saville-Kent, the great naturalist to discover a new species in North Queensland. The picture shows this peculiar "Laughing Jackass" in the act of having killed and snapped up a mouse, whose delicacy of flavor he is anticipating by meditative contemplation, preparatory to swallowing it whole. This bird is not the true "laughing jackass," as well known to visitors at Zoological Gardens. Indeed, Mr. Saville-Kent is inclined to think its name somewhat inappropriate, since "it can scarcely be said to laugh, and its 'smile' at close quarters is so loud and ear-piercing that unsympathetic neighbors most uncharitably defined it as a compromise between the shriek of a locomotive engine and a trolley car buzz."

LAUGHING JACKASS

Material surroundings are a great help to real life, as this dialogue from an English paper will show:

"Do you always say your prayers at bedtime, Mary?" asked the Sunday school teacher affectionately.

"No, miss, not regular, I don't," was the reply.

"Why, Mary, are you not afraid to go to sleep at night without asking a blessing?"

"Not when I sleep in the middle. I ain't miss."

"They tell me, Grimley, that your daughter sings with great expression."

"Greatest expression you ever saw. Her own mother can't recognize her face when she's singing at her best."—Detroit Free Press.

MANY NOVELTIES IN DRESS GOODS.

Latest Cloth Street Costumes Are Made With Long Coats.

(By special arrangement with the N.Y. Sun)

Transparent fabrics are conspicuous among the materials displayed for summer wear. Grenadines, with dots or loops similar in design to the bouclé or wool materials, which have been so fashionable, are among the novelties, in company with a wonderful variety in flowered patterns, open lacelike stripes, and bayadere woven tucks of some bright color on a black ground. Grenadines with a check as well as the plain mesh, will be worn, besides all sorts of canvas weaves in wool and silk and wool mixtures.

Watered silk, with large satin polka dots and waved or pointed cross stripes, is shown among the new goods, a wonderful sheen being its chief attraction. Shaded silks are among the novelties, and the old-fashioned crystal silk, with a gloss like satin, has come back again.

One article of dress very much in demand just now is the fancy waist for the theatre and semi-dress occasions, and it must be light in color or of black net glittering with spangles. The combination of two or three materials in one bodice is preferred, and lace insertion alternated with tucked bands or puffs of chiffon make a very pretty waist over a satin lining with velvet in some bright color for the collar and belt. In black there are net insertions closely jetted which are used in alternation with lace for the entire bodice, either running up and down or around, as you like.

The very latest street costumes in cloth are made with a long coat or redingote effect, completed with sebelt, and variously trimmed with wide oddshaped revers of velvet spreading out into a collar over the shoulders. The front is blousad a very little, and the skirts are usually trimmed down the seams on one or both sides to give the long look so much desired.

EDISON, JR., WIZARD.

SON OF THE FAMOUS ELECTRICIAN TO SHIFT FOR HIMSELF.

He Is Twenty-One Years Old, and Many Men of Twice His Age Have Learned in the Last Few Months to Watch Him with Much Interest.

Thomas A. Edison has need to look to his laurels. His son and namesake, sent forth from the shelter of the paternal roof and beyond the influence of paternal guidance, expects to make things warm for his father in the line of electrical research and invention.

Thomas A. Edison, Jr., is something of a "wizard" himself. He is twenty-one years old, and many men of twice his age have learned in the last few months to watch him with much interest.

THOMAS A. EDISON, JR.

Thousands of persons to whom the name of Edison is familiar have never heard of this youthful scientist, yet he has had a large part in experiments and discoveries that have startled the world. For years he has spent most of his waking and many of his sleeping hours in the laboratories of his father, those incubators of mysterious things born to amaze. All these matters he has known from his youth up, and enters upon his manhood with a wonderful equipment of knowledge. But why did he not stay with his father? Why not be a partner instead of a rival?

The explanation calls up a curious picture. Figuratively speaking, one bright morning last August, Edison called the young man to him and spake thus:—

"Thomas, my son, you know almost as much as your father, but what you know will never be of use to you until you know men. Get out, Thomas, and study men. Brush up against the world for a while and let us see what you are made of. You have good ideas. Work them. Good morning."

So the young man started out, with a head full of ideas, and a lusty desire to make himself heard in the world's noisy traffic. To-day he has an office in a big building in New York amid the big electrical manufacturing companies with the long titles and the capital of many millions are studying this young man with great care, while pretending that they are not aware of his existence.

This is a very hollow pretence, however, for he has attacked them in their own strongholds. He has invented a device which, he says, is only the first of a series of improved appliances in various lines of electrical work. It is an incandescent lamp, similar to the one now in use to the inexperienced eye, but possessing, it is said, many advantages. He calls it the "Edison Junior," with conscious pride, and claims for it superiority over all others in the important details of vacuum and filament.

To achieve these results the young man designed his own pump, and says that with it he can exhaust ten lamps to a high degree of perfection in less time than is required by the ordinary vacuum pumps generally used to exhaust one lamp. The filament is his own invention also—a chemical combination carbonized at 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit, making it as near absolutely pure carbon, as it is possible to obtain. Curiously enough, neither the pump nor the filament has been patented.

"My father's experience has taught me to steer clear of the Patent Office. He has taken out scores of patents, but he has spent as much money and time fighting to uphold them, I guess, as they are worth. I'm going to keep my ideas to myself. Secrecy is a better safeguard than a patent any time."

Undoubtedly young Edison believes in secrecy. The ideas for this lamp came to him four or five years ago, but he quietly stored them up against a rainy day. This having come, he puts them to excellent use.

Young Edison is highly gratified with the result of his business venture. His father, it should be observed, has nothing to do with it, though, yet it is being manufactured and sold in large quantities. The young man declined to say where his financial backing came from, but as he speaks of travellers on their way to South America, of Pacific coast agencies, and of the Japanese and Chinese trade, it is to be presumed that large amounts are interested, and the big companies employing his respected father must wake up.

A Distinction.

Stranger—"Are you the religious editor?"

The Editor—"I cannot tell a lie, I am only the editor of the religious department."—Indianapolis Journal.

A New Sort.

Weary Wauker—What do you consider the fiercest cross of dog, Dusty?

Dusty Beers—One between you an' de fence!—New York Journal.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

PUBLISHED AT

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Terms—$2.00 per year.

A. L. Force. Editor and Proprietor

A NEARSIGHTED POLICY.

Plainfield is near enough to Somerville so that it ought to impress the citizens of that sleepy town with the fact that if the Eldorado of the East was in the realm of Somerset municipalities it would be a good thing for all concerned, but it seems to be a lamentable condition that such is not the case. Sad to relate, Plainfield looms up to the behind-the-times people of Somerset as a terrible apparition of high taxes and political jugglers and grabbers, bound to overawe and overpower the good people of that bailiwick if it should be annexed. Of course, it is not quite sure that Plainfield wants to go over to Somerset, but the proposition for such a consummation is a means of making a Greater Plainfield ought not to be so repugnant to the rural residents of the county as some of them presume. This week the Somerville Democrat contains the following anent the subject:

Our article last week on the annexing of Plainfield to Somerset county seems to have been misunderstood by some of our readers. We have no objections to the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield. In fact we think it would be a good thing, as the interests of the two places are almost identical and they are as one place now, except that they are under two distinct governments. But we do object to annexing Plainfield to Somerset county for many reasons.

Somerset county is purely an agricultural county. Its interests are entirely foreign to that of either Plainfield or North Plainfield. North Plainfield being in one corner of the county, it is so far away that it is not in sympathy with the rest of the county. The interest and sympathy of North Plainfield is altogether with Plainfield.

In a letter received from A. P. Stephen, Esq., he says: "Annexation would increase the tax rate of Somerset county to almost if not quite double, and thus burden the farming community. Better leave Somerset county as it is. By economy our taxes are as low as the lowest, and our debt small. Let us keep it so." James L. Griggs, Esq., writes: "We are pleased to have the handsome city as a near neighbor, but I doubt the advisability of adding it into our financials." On every hand the citizens of Somerville express themselves as opposed to annexing Plainfield to Somerset county.

RESULT IN THE BOROUGH.

It was pretty well settled before the polls opened that the Republicans, with the exception of the candidate for assessor, would be victorious in the borough. The Democrats, however, made a fight that put the Republicans on their mettle, and great interest was shown in the struggle. The men elected are entirely worthy of the confidence that has been placed in them by the voters, and the municipality across the brook is assured of a continuance of the present good government.

NO POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE.

The borough and township elections held throughout this section Tuesday were not sweeping enough in favor of either one party or the other to have any general political significance. Each section had different issues at stake, all of which were purely local and in no way indicative of a drift of sentiment that may affect the body politic at large. The returns published in this paper today, which have been gathered carefully and authentically, will show this to be true.

Senator William M. Johnston has introduced two bills which comprise the report of the commission appointed by Governor Griggs to codify and revise the election laws. One of the bills introduced was a general law relating to elections. The volume of laws now on the statute books is reduced about half by the bill. The most important changes relate to the County Boards of Elections. Their term of office is increased to two years. No voters can be registered by these boards except by personal appearance. The boards cannot sit on election day to register voters as they have done heretofore.

The Cranford Citizen is the journalistic baby of Union county. It made its debut under the editorship of E. R. Clyme, late of the Westfield Standard, last Saturday. Casual observation would indicate that Cranford is a pretty small town to support two newspapers. Editor Potter and The Chronicle are well-intrenched in the local field and it does not seem probable that they will take a back seat in favor of the infant.

A Plainfield officer, who was found off post counting a servant girl, has been suspended from duty. Thus does the iconoclastic hand of reform deprive the policeman of a privilege which he has enjoyed from time immemorial, and which has been celebrated in song and story.—Newark News.

Many Boards of Freeholders in the State are sending petitions to the Legislature asking for an increase in the appropriation for improved roads from $100,000 to $300,000.

A GROUP OF FIVE HOSPITAL BUILDINGS PLANNED

BOARD OF GOVERNORS TOOK AN IMPORTANT STEP MONDAY EVENING.

Architect Alfred E. Barlow, of New York, an Expert on Hospitals, Submits Plans—Committee Appointed to Devise Ways and Means to Raise Necessary Money.

The time has come when Plainfield should give her strongest support to one of her greatest institutions, Muhlenberg Hospital. A new hospital is planned, a new one, not in the name, but in reality. It is still to be the Muhlenberg Hospital but a new and improved structure built on the lines of the most up-to-date plans. While the present hospital has done good service, it has fallen behind in the rapid march of progress. Built as it was, it was more of a temporary structure than a permanent one. The project to enlarge and equip the hospital in most modern fashion is not a sudden scheme. For several years, the members of the board of governors have been considering it and the present plans are the outgrowth of long consideration.

Monday a special meeting of the board of governors of the hospital was held. Alfred E. Barlow, of New York city, appeared before the board and presented the plans and details of the proposed changes to the hospital. The evening was spent in a careful examination of them. Mr. Barlow explained the details very convincingly. After a discussion, the board unanimously approved of the scheme. Of course, the necessary funds for the building of the new buildings was an important matter. A committee on ways and means was appointed to look into the matter and report at the next meeting of the board.

Briefly described, the system consists of five buildings. The administration building is central, flanked on either side by a connecting service and ward building, one side for the men and the opposite side for the women. The ward buildings include in each case the separate medical and surgical wards.

The dominating principle of the wards and, indeed, of the whole pavilion system, is to obtain for the patients the maximum of sunlight and air. Every other condition is relegated subordinated to them, affording the patients the uttermost of the favoring natural and scientific conditions.

The wards are therefore so placed as to be constantly in the sun and subject to the fresh air circulation. They are simple rooms providing for each bed 1,800 cubic feet of air space and 125 feet of floor space, to be perfectly warmed and ventilated, abundantly lighted, with all surfaces to be of perfectly smooth, polished and impenetrable textures, admitting of the most perfect scientific cleanliness. These rooms are constructed upon arches open underneath during all weathers except when unduly inclement or cold.

The ward rooms communicate with the "quiet lobby" and to the line of main corridors, extending from end to end of the entire system and connecting the administration building with the wards. Across this corridor is the service building. This separation affords complete quiet for the wards.

The service building contains an examination room, toilets, baths, drug and linen stores, special diet kitchen, a dining room for the convalescent patients, and a special or children's ward of four beds. The second story of the service building contains rooms for five pay patients, necessary toilets, and a maternity ward of three beds. In the basement of this building are found the kitchen, heating apparatus, disinfecting room and clothes storage. By this division of the building, it affords complete separation of all functions of service from the wards propers. This description for both wings lacking the administration building with such differences as may arise from the occupation of the different sexes.

The administration building has on the first story a visitors' room, matron's office, staff dining room, medical board and library. The second story is devoted to pay patient rooms and the third story to dormitories for the attendants.

While the principal entrance will be from Muhlenberg place, the ambulances will enter from the South Second street side, communicating with the operating system which occupies a wing connecting the administration building with the eastern wing. The operating system includes an examination room, etherizing room, operating theatre, recovery room, X-ray, sterilizing and apothecary rooms, beyond which is an accident or emergency ward.

Of the present structures it is proposed to move both to the South Second street side, devoting the annex to isolating and contagious cases. Separated from this, the present building will be devoted to dispensary or out-door patients and to the medical and surgical clinics. These are to be entirely separate from the hospital system proper, and are to be reached only from the South Second street side. The Nurses Home is to remain in its present position.

The board of governors hope soon to begin the construction of one of the service and ward buildings and continue the work as soon as possible.

PLANNED THIS YEAR'S WORK.

Y. M. C. A. Committees Feasted and Talked Business.

A pleasant affair took place in the Y. M. C. A. building Monday evening, when the newly-appointed committees of the association held their first meeting and conference.

The members, to the number of about thirty, assembled at 6:30 o'clock and were treated to a supper by the ladies' social committee. The tables were placed in the small hall, which presented a very pretty appearance.

The ladies in charge of the supper arrangements were Mrs. J. W. Gavett, Mrs. A. B. Beers, Mrs. Henry W. Rankin, Mrs. J. H. Manning, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. LeRoy H. Gates, Miss Carrie C. Dewey and Miss Adele Kirby. The artistic dinner service and lamps were furnished by J. W. Gavett, chairman of the social committee.

After the supper the company adjourned to the parlor of the building, where a conference upon the work of the different departments was held. The topics and speakers were: Social work, J. W. Gavett; religious work, George M. Bittenbouse; physical work, S. B. Joseph and C. E. A. Heywood; educational work, I. W. Travel and John Leal; lecture committee, J. A. Robinson; boys' work, John Daniel; and membership work, Curtis M. Thorpe and W. D. Murphy. Stephen Osborne, the president of the association, presided at the conference.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of the Grace P. E. church for February were: H. Meuser, Schmidt, H. Egan, D. Murphy, Reg. Chandler, W. Hockridge, A. Fehring, L. Adams, B. Cohen and the Misses Clara Woodward, Eleanor T. VanDeventer and Sarah Ball. Douglass Murphy and Raymond Cohen received the Grace church cross.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

DIED AT BROOKSIDE RETREAT.

A Resident Succumbs to a Delirious Attack Following the Grip.

The death of John VanBenschoten, aged forty years, occurred Tuesday a. m. at Brookside Retreat. The deceased was a resident of Orange. About a week ago he was taken ill with grip which made him delirious, and his family had him removed to the retreat, where he died rather suddenly early Tuesday morning. He was a salesman for a firm at Orange. Later in the morning the body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Henry DeMott, on Somerset street, and Tuesday it was be taken to Orange for burial. The deceased leaves a wife and family.

A LARGE FUNERAL.

Rev. C. E Herring's Remarks Impressive at Mrs. Deitrich's Sier.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Deitrich were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 from the house on Grove street, and were largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated, and he spoke from the text "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled." The speaker addressed his remarks chiefly to those present, but his reference to the life of the departed was very impressive. He said that she was known home and abroad as a true Christian woman.

The floral tributes were beautiful. There was a bunch of lillies and a sheaf of wheat, while the latter was covered with white and pink pinks. Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Dover, N. H., Oct. 31, 1896.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—The Balm reached me safely and in so short a time the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. I have a shelf filled with "Catarrh Cures" Tomorrow the stove shall receive them and Ely's Cream Balm will reign supreme. Respectfully, Miss Franklin Freeman. Cream Balm is kept by all druggists. Full size 50c. Trial size 10 cents. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City.

Mike Watson's Trial Postponed Again.

The trial of Michael Watson, on the charge of selling liquor illegally, was to be held Tuesday afternoon. The case has now been adjourned by the City Judge with the consent of both sides. The trial is now set down for March 15th.

CATHOLICS READY TO FIGHT FOR COUNTRY

Put Themselves on Record in a Set of Resolutions.

OFFER SERVICES TO GOV. VOORHEES.

Catholic Club Feel That the Affairs of the Country are at a Crisis and They Pledge Their Allegiance—If War Should be Declared and the State Forces are Not Sufficient the Club Members are Willing to Respond to a Call of Duty.

The knowledge of impending wars and rumors of war has stirred the patriotic fires within the breasts of the Catholic citizens of Plainfield. They have been wishing for many days, while the war fever has raged, for an opportunity to express their allegiance to the government, but not until last Monday did a suitable opportunity present itself. The chance was offered at the monthly meeting of the Catholic Club, held that night in the club house corner of Liberty and West Sixth streets

The rumor that a resolution expressive of the club's patriotism was to be offered at the meeting called out a large attendance. Over 150 members were present, which is almost double the usual number in attendance.

President George J Tobin called the meeting to order, and went to the point in a speech calling attention to the critical state of affairs now existing between this country and Spain It was the duty of every American citizen, he said, to support the Stars and Stripes in an hour of need, and he knew that the Catholics of the land would not be found wanting if their services should be needed by the Government.

The following patriotic resolution was then adopted unanimously:

Whereas, Serious questions have recently arisen between the United States and the Kingdom of Spain, which may try to the utmost the patriotism and unselfishness of the citizens of this country, and

Whereas, The settlement of such questions has been embarrassed by a calamity which has filled the civilized world with deep grief. Now therefore, we the members of the Catholic Club, of Plainfield, N. J., in regular meeting assembled, for ourselves and for the Catholic community that we represent, desire to express in the strongest terms our unswerving loyalty to this Nation, and to render their support to the authorities of the Government in this crisis, and be it further,

Resolved, That the gratitude of the country is due to the chaplain of the battleship, Maine, Rev. Father Chadwick, for his untiring efforts to relieve the distress and to recover the bodies of the dead who perished in this disaster, and be it further,

Resolved, That we extend to the grief stricken families of the heroes who perished in the disaster to the battleship, Maine, our sincere sympathy.

After the passage of the resolution the members arose and sang American patriotic airs.

PASSED THE $1,000 MARK.

Liberal Contributions Given to Missions by Presbyterian Women.

The interest felt by the women of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church in their Home Missionary Society was well shown by the large attendance seen at the annual meeting Friday afternoon.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. William Myers, showed the benefi cences of the society during the year to have passed the thousand-dollar mark. The annual report of the secretary, Miss Mary Ketcham, gave an encouraging record of work done. The election of officers for the ensuing year took place as follows: President, Mrs. I. C. Pierson; vice-president, Mrs. S. R. Struthers; treasurer, Mrs. William Myers; secretary, Miss Mary Ketcham; secretary of literature, Mrs. Henry R. Halloway.

The address of the afternoon was by Miss Lincoln, treasurer of the Woman's Board. She spoke very interestingly of mission work, and especially of the work done by Rev. Louis Wais, formerly of this city. Miss Lincoln is a small woman, with a very soft voice, but such close attention was paid to her address that even those farthest from her did not lose a word.

SPECIAL CERTIFICATES.

To be Granted School Teachers For Eff ective School Work.

State School Superintendent Baxter, of this city, has made an innovation in granting teachers' certificates which he thinks will be an incentive to teachers to do effective work and a guide to school boards in securing only good teachers.

He has provided for the granting of special certificates to holders of regular certificates whose school work is found to warrant special commendation for the superintendent. This special certificate is of the same grade—first, second or third—as the regular certificate obtained, the number of years taught and a statement of the subjects the holder is especially qualified to teach.

Somerset Postmasters.

The following postmasters in Congressman Howell's district were appointed Saturday upon his recommendation:

At New Sharon, Monmouth county, F. P. Wetherill, in place of A. S. Hall, removed.

At Pluvilla, Somerset county, Mattis Griggs, in place of the late C. W. Wyckoff.

At South Branch, Somerset county, D. W. Bowman, in place of G. V. Agar, removed.

Get More and You Get Less

Why is it every sarsaparilla which tries to sell itself, ranges itself against Ayer's as the standard? Why is it that all have to offer extra inducements—bigger bottles, fancy wrappers, cheaper price—anything, everything, but the one inducement of quality?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

has never been equaled by any cheap imitation of it, and quality tells, just as blood tells.

It is the Standard.

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than twenty-five years, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. It is a preparation must possess great merit to maintain such a reputation. I believe your sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier that has ever been introduced to the general public. I often hear other manufacturers say that this is "as good as Ayer's," but no one ever yet heard that Ayer's was "as good" as any other kind. They always set Ayer's up as the standard of excellence."—S. F. Boyce, Duluth, Minn.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

Lung Troubles and Consumption Can be Cured

An Eminent New York Chemist and Scientist Makes a Free Offer to Our Readers.

The distinguished chemist, T. A. Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for Consumption Pulmonary Tuberculosis), bronchial, lung and chest troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal affections general decline and weakness, loss of flesh, and all conditions of wasting away, will send FREE TRIAL BOTTLES (all different) of his New Discoveries to any afflicted reader of this paper writing for them.

His "New Scientific Treatment" has cured thousands permanently by its timely use, and he considers it a simple professional duty to suffering humanity to donate a trail of his infallible cure.

Science daily develops new wonders, and this great chemist, patiently experimenting for years, has produced results as beneficial to humanity as can be claimed by any modern genius. His assertion that lung troubles and consumption are curable in any climate is proven by heartfelt letters of gratitude, filed in his American and European laboratories in thousands from those cured in all parts of the world.

The dread Consumption, uninterrupted, means speedy and certain death. Simply write to T. A. Slocum, M. C., 98 Pine street, New York, giving post-office and express address, and the free medicine will be promptly sent direct from his laboratory.

Sufferers should take instant advantage of his generous proposition.

Please tell the Doctor that you saw this in The Constitutionalist. 8 19 1y

Juniors to Attend Divine Service.

Sunday afternoon, March 13th, the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will attend divine service at the Y. M. C. A., and listen to a sermon by Rev. G. W. Smith, D. D., presiding elder of the Elizabeth district of the M. E. church.

No Cure—No Pay.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for Malaria, Chills and Fever. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c. For sale by B. J. Shaw. 12 2 1y

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS

100 PAGE BOOK MAILED FREE.

CONTENTS:

Part I.—Diseases of Horses.
Part II.—Diseases of Cattle.
Part III.—Diseases of Sheep.
Part IV.—Diseases of Hogs.
Part V.—Diseases of Dogs.
Part VI.—Diseases of Poultry.

Same book in better binding 50 cts.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

Arrival and Departure of Mails.

NEW YORK MAILS.

Arrive—1:20, 5:05, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, 5, 10:50 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 6:00 p. m.

SOMERVILLE AND EASTON.

Arrive—7:30 a. m., 2 and 6:10 p. m.
Close—7:30 a. m., 12:15 and 6:00 p. m.

PHILADELPHIA.—Direct.

Arrive—8:05, 11:20 a. m., 2:20, and 7:30 p. m.
Close—7:30, 9:30 a. m., 12:15 and 6:00 p. m.
Through fast mail for West and South, close 6:00 p. m.

WARRENVILLE.

Arrive—12:20 p. m. Close—9:30 a. m.

BURNT MILLS.

Office open from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m.
Mail closes at 9:30 a. m.

I. M. HETFIELD, P M

Central R. R. of New Jersey.

Anthracite Coal Used Exclusively, insuring Cleanliness and Comfort.

Stations in New York, foot of Liberty, and South Ferry Whitehall Stations.

TIME TABLE IN EFFECT NOV. 15th, 1896.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 5 14, 5 57, 6 26, 6 58, 7 26, 7 55, 8 26, 9 02, 10 02, 11 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 02, 2 02, 3 02, 4 02, 4 44, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m., 12 02 night. Sunday—5 14, 5 57, 6 26, 6 58, 7 26, 7 55, 8 26, 9 02, 10 02, 11 02 a. m., 12 02 noon, 1 02, 2 02, 3 02, 4 02, 4 44, 5 02, 6 02, 7 02, 8 02, 9 02, 10 02 p. m., 12 02 night.

Leave New York, foot of Liberty St., 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 00, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night. Sunday—8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 a. m., 12 40, 1 40, 2 40, 3 40, 4 40, 5 00, 5 40, 6 40, 7 40, 8 40, 9 40, 10 40, 11 40 p. m., 12 40 night.

Leave New York, South Ferry, Whitehall St., at 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m., 12 00 night. Sunday—8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Sundays—At 7 00, 8 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 6 27, 6 56, 7 56, 8 56, 9 56, 10 56, 11 56 a. m., 12 56, 1 56, 2 56, 3 56, 4 56, 5 56, 6 56, 7 56, 8 56, 9 56, 10 56, 11 56 p. m., 12 56 night.

Leave Newark 6 15, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Sunday—7 15, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 p. m., 12 00 night.

Passengers for Newark please change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 6 10, 7 45, 9 45, 11 45 a. m., 2 11, 3 31, 4 56, 6 56, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

Leave Somerville 6 45, 8 20, 10 20, 12 20 p. m., 2 46, 4 06, 5 31, 7 31, 9 31, 11 31 p. m.

Sunday—7 45, 9 45, 11 45 a. m., 2 11, 3 31, 4 56, 6 56, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

Leave Somerville 8 45, 10 20 a. m., 12 20, 2 46, 4 06, 5 31, 7 31, 9 31, 11 31 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield at 8 15, 8 21, 9 54 a. m., 2 15, 4 56, 6 56, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

Leave Easton at 6 02, 7 05, 9 15, 11 30 a. m., 2 30, 5 00, 7 00, 9 00, 11 00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND LAKE HOPATCONG.

Leave Plainfield 9 54 a. m., 2 15, 4 56, 8 56 p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

8 15 a. m.—For Flemington, Bound Brook, Allentown, Manch Chunk, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mahanoy City, Pottsville, Harrisburg and Manch Chunk.

7 14 a. m.—For stations to High Bridge, connecting for stations on High Bridge Branch D. L. & W. R. R., Phillipsburg, Delaware, Water Gap, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and Pittston.

9 54 a. m.—For Flemington, Bethlehem, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mahanoy City, Pottsville, Harrisburg and Manch Chunk.

2 15 p. m.—For Easton, connecting at Junction for station on D. L. & W. R. R.

2 21 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mahanoy City, Pottsville, Harrisburg and Manch Chunk. Through buffet parlor car to Scranton.

4 56 p. m.—For Flemington.

8 56 p. m.—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mahanoy City, Pottsville, Harrisburg and Manch Chunk.

10 56 p. m.—For Easton, for and Easton connecting at High Bridge for stations on High Bridge Branch.

EASTWARD CONNECTIONS.

6 10 p. m.—For Flemington.

9 00 p. m.—For Bound Brook, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Lehighton and Hazleton and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R. stations.

7 45 a. m.—For Bound Brook, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton.

9 45 a. m.—Sundays—For Easton.

2 05 p. m.—Sundays—High Bridge Branch for Easton, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Shamokin, Mahanoy City, Pottsville, Harrisburg and Manch Chunk.

4 56 p. m.—Sundays—For Flemington.

8 56 p. m.—Sundays—For Bound Brook, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton. Manch Chunk, Hazleton and Allentown. Manch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton.

11 31 a. m.—For Bound Brook, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton. Manch Chunk, Hazleton and Allentown. Manch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton.

Parlor cars, and at Junction for D. L. & W. R. R. stations.

9 54 a. m.—Sundays—For Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton.

5 45 a. m. Sundays—For Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Mauch Chunk, Hazleton and Scranton.

FOR LONG BRANCH, OCEAN GROVE, ETC.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m. Sunday—5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 5 14 a. m., 2 11 p. m.

For Point Pleasant, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m. Sunday, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 5 57 a. m., 2 11 p. m.

For Bay Head, Mantoloking, Lakewood, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 5 02 p. m.

Sundays, 6 58 a. m.

Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 2 27, 5 13, 10 08 a. m. to Lakewood; 1 16, 5 13 p. m. Sundays 5 02 p. m.

FOR CLIMATE BLUE LINE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m. Sunday, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

Ocean Grove, 5 14 a. m., 2 11 p. m.

For Point Pleasant, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m. Sunday, 5 14, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56, 10 56 p. m.

For Atlantic City, 5 57 a. m., 2 11 p. m.

For Bay Head, Mantoloking, Lakewood, 6 58, 10 56 a. m., 5 02 p. m.

Sundays, 6 58 a. m.

Lakewood, Toms River and Barnegat, 2 27, 5 13, 10 08 a. m. to Lakewood; 1 16, 5 13 p. m. Sundays 5 02 p. m.

For Baltimore and Washington at 5 57, 8 00, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56 p. m. Sundays, 5 57, 10 56 a. m., 5 02, 8 56 p. m.

For Trenton, 5 14, 6 58, 8 00, 10 56 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56 p. m. Sundays, 5 14, 6 58, 9 00 a. m., 2 11, 5 02, 8 56 p. m.

For Buffalo, Chicago and all points West, week days at 9 54 a. m. 2 15 5 02 8 56 p. m. Sundays 8 56 p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked (*) change cars at Bound Brook.

Through tickets to all points at lowest rates may be had on application in advance to the ticket agent at the station.

J. H. OLHAUSEN,
General Superintendent.

H. P BALDWIN,
General Passenger Agent

LEHIGH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Time table in effect February 30, 1896, LEAVE SOUTH PLAINFIELD, N.J.

WESTWARD.

7 27 a.m. and 7 14 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 7 01 a. m. and 6 p. m.

9 36 a. m. daily; Express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

11 31 a. m., 2 34, 6 38 and 7 34 p. m. daily except Sunday. Sunday 11 39 a. m. Local for Bound Brook.

12 39 p. m. daily except Sunday. "Black Diamond Express" for Rochester and Buffalo.

2 06 p. m. daily local for Wilkesbarre.

4 36 p. m. daily except Sunday, express for Wilkesbarre, Scranton, Pottsville, Hazleton, Shamokin, L. & H. Junction and principal intermediate stations.

5 30 p. m. daily except Sundays. Sunday 6 06 p. m. Local for Bound Brook.

7 08 and 10 00 p. m. daily, solid vestibule express for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago and principal intermediate stations.

8 08 p. m. Express for Baston, Bethlehem, Manch Chunk, Sayre, Geneva, Rochester, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Pacific points. Pullman Sleeping Cars to Buffalo.

For New York and Brooklyn local 6 05, 7 01, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00, 11 00 a. m., 12 00 noon, 1 00, 2 00, 3 00, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00 p. m. Sunday 7 55 a. m., 12 00 noon, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m. Express, 12 17, 2 50 and 7 07 p. m. Sunday 7 55 a. m., 12 00 noon, 4 00, 5 00, 6 00, 7 00, 8 00, 9 00, 10 00 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 55, 10 03 a. m., 12 17, 2 50 and 7 07 p. m. Sunday 7 55 a. m., and 7 07 p. m.

For Perth Amboy and intermediate stations 7 55, 10 03 a. m., 12 17, 2 50 and 7 07 p. m. Sunday 8 00, 9 00 and 11 06 a. m., 2 50 and 7 07 p. m.

For further information call on or address Ticket Agent, South Plainfield, N. J.

Col. ROLLIN H. WILBUR,
General Superintendent.
S. Bethlehem, Pa.

CHAS. S. LEE,
General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. W. SONNEMACHER,
Assistant General Passenger Agent,
Philadelphia, Pa.

NEW YORK TERMINAL—Foot of Cortlandt Dashrosses and West end streets.

OVERSEER OF POOR IS CHRISTIAN HANSEN

Nominated by Mayor Fisk and Confirmed by Council.

BUT NOT WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Councilmen Hetfield, Moffett and Liefke Opposed to Confirmation—Applications for Liquor Licenses Taken Up and Disposed of—The Public Library Wants $1,200 for the Fiscal Year—Other Matters Transacted by the City Fathers.

The programme of business presented at the regular March meeting of the City Council held last Monday was nothing out of the ordinary. It was expected that the appropriations for the year would be made. They were not, however, and the matter was laid over until the next meeting, which will be held two weeks hence. The licenses laid on the table at the last meeting were taken up and, as will be seen further on, they were withdrawn by the attorney for the applicants. The question of confirming the appointment of the Mayor's nominee for an overseer of the poor brought out opinions as will be noted in the proceedings. Other matters of more or less importance are considered in a routine manner as reported below.

James F. Burke presented a new application for a license to sell liquors at his place on West Third street. The application was referred to the license committee.

E. E. Whitney, of East Front street, asked for permission to erect a sign in front of his dry goods store, the same to be placed ten feet above the sidewalk. Residents of West Front street, between Grant and Clinton avenues, asked the Council to macadamize the street, as the property owners have complied with the city ordinance as regards the laying of walks and curbing. Geo. O. Stevens and others asked for an electric light on Compton avenue, between Dunellen avenue and Front street. The Electric Light Company notified the Council that the lights ordered have been located on Sycamore avenue.

Mason W. Tyler, for the directors of the Public Library, stated in a communication that $3,200 would be needed this year for the support and expenses of the library. The matter was referred to the finance committee. A communication was received from residents of Plainfield avenue and West Second street, asking the Council to provide proper sidewalks, crosswalks and drainage at that point, where the crossings are often impassable.

Mayor Fisk appointed as special policemen, Franklin P. Gedney, Aaron Mattox, Edwin Dobbs and James Babbitt, and they were confirmed by the Council. The Mayor then appointed Christian Hansen as Overseer of the Poor to serve for three years. The appointment was referred to the nine committee and later was presented by Mr. Andrews, of the committee, who made a minority report. On the other hand, Mr. Hetfield, of the same committee, presented a majority report and moved that the nomination lay on the table. He said that he did not favor having a superintendent and matron at the City Burial Home, and an overseer of the poor besides. He thought it was useless. He did not wish to antagonize the Mayor or Council but thought it would be best to have one person to whom the committee could look.

On the ballot to confirm or lay on the table Messrs. Buckle, Hetfield, Liefke, Moffett and Neuman voted to lay on the table. There were seven votes for confirmation and Mr. Hansen was finally confirmed by a vote of 8 to 4. Those voting in the negative were Messrs. Hetfield, Liefke and Moffett. All but the last three named spoke in the highest terms of Mr Hansen and favored his appointment.

Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported the granting of six permits during the month, and Street Commissioner Gavett reported the granting of seven sewer permits during the same time. The reports of the Collector and Treasurer were received and filed.

Mr. VanHorwerden offered a resolution that the bills of $1,400 for the Watchung avenue extension account be paid, and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Barrows offered a resolution that the committee on streets and sewers be authorized to advertise and receive bids for the furnishing of crushed stone and material for crosswalks and culverts for the year, the same to be received at a meeting of the Council, March 24th, at 8 p. m. Another resolution by the same member provided for the city macadamizing streets when the property-owners agree to pay their share for the work. Both resolutions were adopted, and Mr. Barrows stated that the streets would be macadamized in the order in which they were petitioned for.

An ordinance changing the name of Cemetery avenue to Belliview avenue was introduced by Mr. Hetfield, and was adopted on its second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised.

The petition of E. M. French asking the Council to change the grade of West Fourth street, West Third street and Spooner street was granted on a motion offered by Mr. Hetfield, and an ordinance to that effect was introduced and the same was ordered advertised.

Mr. Hetfield made a motion to reconsider the liquor license application of John Kavanaugh. This was done, and the application was then laid on the table.

Mr. Barrows then moved that the Council go into a committee of the whole to consider the liquor license applications of Chris. Bock, J. F. Burke, John Kavanaugh and Mark Hipp. Such action was taken and Mr. Hetfield was made chairman of the committee and the committee then took a recess, but in a few minutes the committee returned, and Mr. Hetfield moved that the petition of the applicants' attorney to withdraw the applications be granted.

Mr. Buckle made a motion that the fire and building committee be authorized to act with the special committee having under consideration the securing of new quarters for a city jail, police station, etc. The motion prevailed, after which a motion was made that when Council adjourn it be to meet in two weeks Council then adjourned.

HALF YEAR PROMOTIONS

SUPERINTENDENT MAXSON URGES UP-TO-DATE SCHOOL METHODS.

It is the General Sentiment That Promotions Should be Made at Half Year Intervals Instead of a Whole Year as Now.

There was little to occupy the attention of the Plainfield Board of Education at their regular meeting last Monday. President Probasco did not arrive until the meeting had started. Mr. Lovell acting as president pro tem until his arrival. Mr. Lounsbury, the secretary, was detained at home by illness and Dr. Jenkins acted in his place. The other members were present.

There was the usual routine business to be transacted. The report of Collector Bird showed that school taxes to the amount of $829.97, with interest amounting to $35.70, making a total of $865.67, which had been deposited in the First National Bank.

The report of the medical inspectors showed that they had examined 497 during the month of February, making 653 pupils examined to date. Of these, 179 were unvaccinated, about 27 per cent. Among the pupils, 34 cases of defective eyesight were detected for the first time, as well as 21 cases of defective hearing. In each case, the parents of the children had been notified by letter and advised to consult their family physician.

Superintendent Maxson presented a check for $436 for the tuition of out-of-town pupil. Superintendent Maxson made a verbal report of a convention of school superintendents recently held at Chattanooga which he attended. He gave a brief synopsis of several of the most important papers, and pointed out the principal points that found favor with the superintendents in attendance. He called attention particularly to the discussion on the subject of grading and promotion, and how it was the general sentiment that the promotion should be made at half-year intervals instead of a whole year as at present. The Board extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Maxson for his interesting report. The Board then went into executive session.

Adopted New By-laws.

The Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church held a business meeting, last Tuesday. The committee on by-laws, of which James McGee was chairman, made its report and the new by-laws were adopted without objection.

WAR THAT MADE A NATION

WILLIAM W. ELLSWORTH DESCRIBES REVOLUTIONARY BATTLES.

Divided the Engagements Into Five Groups, and Illustrated His Remarks With Stereopticon Views—Salient Points

A large audience was present at the lecture given by William W. Ellsworth in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Monday evening under the auspices of the Continental Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of this city.

The subject of the lecture was "From Lexington to Yorktown," and the lecturer handled the mass of matter relating to the battles of the Revolution in a manner which proved him a conscientious student of that period of history.

He simplified the subject considerably by dividing the battles of the Revolution into five groups. Those fought in the vicinity of Boston, including Lexington and Bunker Hill, with which the war opened, made up the first group. The difficulties of Washington in holding together an army of men enlisted for only one or two months, in the face of a well-drilled British army, were dwelt upon.

The stereopticon views, of which there were 175, were well chosen, and include reproductions of many original drawings made by officers in the two armies during the progress of the war. The scene of the battle of Long Island was illustrated in admirable style, the old sketches and prints being supplemented by snap shot pictures of the same places taken at the present time.

The third group of the Revolutionary battles was fought in the vicinity of Trenton and Philadelphia, and included the two winters, full of hardship, which the little band of Continental soldiers passed in winter quarters at Morristown and Valley Forge.

The last series of battles was fought in the states of Virginia, and North and South Carolina, and it was this series which culminated in the capture of Yorktown and the defeat of the British attempt to subdue the colonies.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Driver Caught His Feet in Reins and Frightened the Team.

A lively runaway was witnessed last Saturday afternoon on North avenue. A team of horses employed by James Wilson, dealer in crushed stone, was driven up in front of Smalley Bros. meat market, and the man in charge caught his feet in the reins while getting off the wagon. This threw him on the sidewalk and at the same time frightened the horses. They ran down North avenue toward Park avenue, and as they turned the corner one horse slipped in the mud and was thrown down. At the same time the wagon struck an ash cart owned by Alfred Hankinson. Mr. Hankinson and wife were seated in the wagon and were greatly frightened, although they were not injured. The ash cart was damaged somewhat, and the horse in falling cut his legs severely. The team was caught by John Dunn on Park avenue, who prevented any further damage. The driver of the team soon put in an appearance and took charge of his rig.

At the corner of North and Park avenues a number of people were passing and it was considered miraculous that they escaped without injury. The runaway attracted a large number of people who surely expected to see serious results.

DEATH OF JESSE R. DUNGAN.

A Prominent Son of Veteran Dies While Yet a Young Man.

The many friends of Jesse R. Dungan in this city will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred about 5 o'clock Monday a. m. at his home at Harlingen, Somerset county. Mr. Dungan was Division Commander of the Sons of Veterans of New Jersey. He was a faithful and zealous member of the order. Last year he attended the National Encampment at Indianapolis and won distinction for New Jersey by being placed on several important committees. In December last he went from Somerville to his home at Harlingen to spend Christmas. While home he was taken ill and he finally went into consumption.

He was a brother of Nelson Y. Dungan, prosecutor of Somerset county. He was a promising young lawyer. He studied for several years with Judge Bartine and was considered to be one of the brightest law students in the county. He was a faithful Christian and devoted much time to religious work when able. The funeral services were held at Somerville Tuesday.

Reducing a Church Debt.

The pastor and congregation of the German Lutheran church on Grove street are making successful efforts to pay off the mortgage on their church property. The Ladies' Aid Society of the church has recently given $200 toward reducing the debt, and the congregation has given $100 for the same cause.

—Work for putting in order the grounds of the Hillside Golf Club, on Woodland avenue, between Prospect and Highland avenues, will be started in a few days. There are quite a number of applications for membership, and by the first of April the club will number about fifty members.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	CURES.	PRICE.
1	—Fevers, Congestion, Inflammations	.25
2	—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
5	—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic	.25
6	—Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting	.25
7	—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	—Neuralgia, Toothache, Facedache	.25
9	—Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	—Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	—Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	—Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
17	—Piles, External or Internal	.25
18	—Ophthalmia, Weak or Inflamed Eyes	.25
19	—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	—Whooping-Cough	.25
21	—Asthma, Difficult Breathing	.25
22	—Ear Discharges, Earache	.25
23	—Scrofula, Swellings, Hard Lumps	.25
24	—General Debility, Weakness	.25
25	—Dropsy, Fluid Accumulations	.25
26	—Kidney Disease	.25
27	—Kidney Diseases	.25
28	—Nervous Debility	1.00
29	—Sore Mouth, or Canker	.25
30	—Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
31	—Painful Menses, Pruritus	.25
32	—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitations	1.00
33	—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance	1.00
34	—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria	.25
35	—Chronic Congestions, Headaches	.25
77	—Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL "THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Recent or Chronic; Weeping or Dry; Itching or Painful. The relief is instant. A sure remedy.

PRICE, 50 CTS. 1.42 RIDE, 50 CTS.

Sold by Druggists, or sent on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

PIANOS

We are now closing out at a sacrifice several odd styles of new pianos, and a great variety of slightly used organs and pianos to make room for new stock.

ORGANS

Catalogues, full particulars and terms sent upon application.

SOLD ON INSTALMENTS, OR DESIRED.

Mason & Hamlin Co.

BOSTON NEW YORK CHICAGO

PLANT CATALOGUE FREE
All Kinds of PLANTS

BULBS, TREES, VINES, SMALL FRUITS, etc., of a reliable, first-class character. Our specialty. New GRAND GIANT LATANA "HOME" always blooming, all colors mixed. Strong rooted plants, 25c. for 75c. The most beautiful ORCHID FLOWERING CANNAS. Italian and Austria Pampas Plumes, finest colors, 15c. each. BISMARK APPLE TREES. Some Dwarf Trees, only two to 6 ft. high. Bear large apples this season in pots or in the garden. $2 by express. Our price, 75 cents. One plant of all these, and large, handsome, complete, illustrated catalogue, for 65 cents.

Vick's Floral Hill Gardens, Newark, N. J.

ROYAL WORCESTER CORSETS
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM

SEEDS ... FOR THE ... Garden and Farm
Vegetable and Flower Seeds. All the best varieties. Best quality. Prices reduced. Illustrated Catalogue FREE.
WEEBER & DON, Seed Growers, 114 & 116 Nassau St., New York.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership lately subsisting between Joseph A. Blatz and Silas C. Mundy, of the City of Plainfield, Union County, New Jersey, under the firm name of Blatz & Mundy, was dissolved on the First day of February, 1898, by mutual consent.

Dated February 1st, 1898.

JOSEPH A. BLATZ.
SILAS C. MUNDY.

234

DIED.

ROGERS—Prof. William A. Rogers, of Watervliet. Mass., died March 4th, 1898.

SCUDDER—In North Plainfield, Tuesday March 1st, John C. Scudder.

DEITRICH—In North Plainfield, on Friday, March 4, 1898, Sarah A., widow of the late Jeremiah Deitrich, aged 78 years.

VAN DEVENTER—In North Plainfield, March 6, 1898, Mrs. Cornelia, widow of the late Jeremiah Van Deventer.

OBJECT TO BERGEN BILL.

New England Society Condemns the County Trolley Road Scheme.

At the meeting of the New England Society of Orange Saturday Assembly bill No. 125, granting Boards of Freeholders the right to grant trolley franchises on county roads, was brought up by John O. Heald. A resolution was passed that the society disapproved of the bill. The secretary was directed so to notify the Senator and Assemblyman, and a committee of three was appointed to represent the society at the hearing on the bill next Wednesday. The chair appointed as the committee Hamilton Wallis, A. P. Boller and John O. Heald.

Mrs. T. J. Carey, is now boarding at the home of Samuel Boss, of Central avenue.

HEAT YOUR HOUSE

with Sunshine Parlor heater or stove; there are NONE BETTER, Othello, the highest grade portable range, Canopy and Manhattan ranges are the favorites at moderate prices.

FOR SALE AT

A. M. GRIFFEN'S,

119 East Front st.

Telephone Call, 6.

JAS. M. DUNN,

Dealer in

GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, FRUITS &c

GARDEN SEEDS fresh and carefully selected.

224 PARK AVENUE,

OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

Everything usually found in a first-class grocery.

Goods delivered free of charge.

GEORGE W. DAY,

General Auctioneer.

Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

Townsend's

Marble and Granite Works,

30

Somerset st., North Plainfield.

If you have not engaged your work I should be pleased to do it for you.

I buy only first-class Marble and Granite and do not sell unless at prices that will enable me to put up the work with credit to myself and justice to the customer purchasing.

I employ no agents and therefore am enabled to make a reduction in the price of my work to the customer, as the commission generally paid to agents.

I am under a very small expense in running my shop, myself and my son doing the larger portion of the work, and we personally attend to the setting of all work, and look upon business in this light, that good work and good Material, at Fair Prices, is a standing advertisement for my business, which will tend to build up trade, and I feel safe to warrant that no dealer can sell you the same work and same stock any cheaper than I can.

Hoping to be favored with your patronage, I am yours respectfully,

J. E. TOWNSEND, Manager.

Branch yard, Westfield, N. J.

W. R. CODINGTON,

Counsellor-at-Law,

Commissioner of Deeds, Master-in chancery, Notary Public. Offices Corner of Park avenue and Second street.

Woolston & Buckle,

PAINTERS.

Wall Papers, Painters' Supplies

141-145 North avenue.

WALL PAPER

Do you expect to do any papering? We will send you free a large selection of samples from 3c per roll up, all new colorings and novelties up to date. WE PAY FREIGHT. We want an agent in every town to sell on commission from large sample books. No capital required. For samples or particulars address

S. WOLF.

747-753 Ninth Ave., N. Y. City.

23 3m

DIME

Savings Institution,

Of Plainfield, N. J.,

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest, allowed on all sums from $5 to $3,000.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, President.
GEO. W. ROCKEFELLOW, Vice-Pres.
J. C. POPE, Treasurer.

Money deposited on or before January tenth will draw interest from the first.

CARNEY BROS.,

MADISON AVENUE,

Between Front and Second streets.

Tinners, Plumbers Gas Fitters,

Grates and bricks for all kinds of stoves can be found here at Jobbers' prices. Bring your tinware mending to us. The best tinners, the best plumbers, and the best gas-fitters in this section. We use none but the very best of materials, and our work gives satisfaction. Keys of all kinds are made here. Tinware made to order. Ranges, brick and portable furnaces. Sanitary plumbing.

Wm. A. Woodruff,

Fire and Life

INSURANCE AGENT,

OFFICE,

corner Front St. and Park Avenue,

Plainfield, N. J.

Real Estate for Sale and Exchange. Money to Loan on Approve Security.

Sanitary Plumbing,

Brick and Portable Furnace

Gas Fitting, Tin Roofing.

Etc., Etc., Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class sanitary and workmanship manner.

Having associated myself with the Master Members Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business, at all times and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,

No. 112 North Ave., Plainfield, N. J.

ALBERT HEDDEN

Livery & Boarding Stables

FOURTH ST.,

between Watchung and Park avenues. First-class Livery. Horses boarded by week or month. Telephone call, No. 114.

A. WOLFF,

Manufacturer of

CIGARS.

And dealer in all kinds of Smoking and Chewing Tobacco, and smokers' articles, has removed from 231 W. Front street, to 261 West Front street, one door east of Madisen avenue and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. box 1161, or left at Wilkes's shoe store, No. 107 Park avenue, will receive prompt attention. Residence 301 E. Front street, corner Elm street. 9197

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & Co., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

NEW IN EVERY DETAIL!

My new barber shop at

143 NORTH AVE.

is now open ready for business. All the latest appointments in the tonsorial line.

EDWIN B. MAYNARD.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & Co., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

Is your hair Green?

It's only another way of asking, is your hair growing? For green means growing. You can MAKE hair grow by using

Ayer's Hair Vigor

TROLLEY SPUR MAY COME FROM LEHIGH.

Plainfield Likely to Be Invaded by Another Electric Road.

SCHEME OF NEW YORK CAPITALISTS.

The Proposition is to Build the Line Over Private Property From South Plainfield to Arlington Avenue in This City—New Road Would be Capable of Handling Lehigh Passenger and Freight Cars—Cheaper Freight Rates.

A party of New York capitalists are now figuring on a project which, if carried out, is likely to prove of great importance to Plainfield and its business men. The proposed scheme is no other than an attempt to connect Plainfield and South Plainfield with an electric railroad. Differing from the usual trolley line, it is proposed that not only passenger cars, but freight and coal cars as well, are to be transported by the connecting link of railroad. It is claimed that the proposed company has no connection with the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

The proposed changes from the usual trolley road scheme are so radical as to attract unusual attention. At present Plainfield can be reached directly by only one railroad, that is the Jersey Central Railroad. The Lehigh Valley is now three miles away at South Plainfield. According to an agreement between the two railroads, the Jersey road will make no attempt to enter Plainfield. If, however, an outside concern should connect the Lehigh Valley with Plainfield, the situation would be entirely different.

The present freight rate between Plainfield and New York is 14 cents per hundred weight by the Jersey Central. The rate on the Lehigh Valley to South Plainfield from New York is 9 cents for the same amount. The promoters of the new scheme think that the difference between the two rates will allow them to bring the freight to this city and still keep the rate lower than that of the Jersey Central.

The proposed electric railway is to start from South Plainfield right by the freight yards of the Lehigh Valley and turn northward toward Plainfield following a line parallel to Plainfield avenue. The line will not follow any public thoroughfare but pass through the district. It will be remembered that after crossing Arlington avenue, Cedar brook flows southward to finally empty into the South Plainfield or New Brooklyn pond. Al*most all the way it is* surrounded by swamp lands that have heretofore been put to no use. These lands merely add to the tax rate of their owners and breed mosquitoes by the million, at present. The plan is to secure a right of way following the line of swamp land for the road. If necessary the brook could be confined by stone walls and the reclaimed lands filled in. Otherwise, an embankment could be built through the swamp for the railroad.

While the motive power would be electricity, the motors would be of sufficient strength to draw passenger coaches and loaded freight and coal cars. The track would be of the standard guage and the regular T rail is planned to be used. A double track line of about two miles in length is projected. The line will follow the course of Cedar brook around the curve to Arlington avenue. In its entire length, there are only two roads, one at South Plainfield and Randolph road, that the tracks would cross. The freight yard would be placed just west of Arlington avenue, with an entrance from that thoroughfare. The tracks would be continued over to Park avenue, if possible, where the passenger station would be located.

Property owners along the line of the proposed electric road have been interviewed. Some have stated their willingness to give the required amount of land for the sake of opening up the remainder of their property. Most of the property owners look with satisfaction on the scheme and have promised their support.

TO SING IRISH BALLADS.

St Patrick's Day Concert to be Given in Fashionable Society

A novel and interesting entertainment will be given at the Casino Thursday evening, March 19th. It is to be a concert devoted exclusively to the singing of the best Irish melodies. Among them will be "Mavrtrel Boy," "Boy O'More," "Irish Emigrant," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Kathlyn Mavourneen," and others equally well-known.

Frank J. Smith, the organist of the Crescent Avenue church, will have charge of the music, and the songs will be rendered by four good singers from New York. The tickets are offered first to the subscribers to this University Extension lectures, and to the patronesses. Any tickets not taken by them before next Thursday will be on sale at Armstrong's pharmacy, or may be ordered in advance by writing to A. B. Atterbury, 318 West Seventh street. The number of tickets are limited to 300 and the price is 50 cents.

It will certainly be a most enjoyable entertainment.

An Endeavor Scribble.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church held a sociable Friday afternoon in the church parlors Rev. C. L. Goodrich, the superintendent, was in charge. The afternoon was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served.

CLIMB UP MOUNT HOOD.

DR. WILDING'S EXPERIENCE TOLD GRAPHICALLY AND HUMOROUSLY.

Description of the Costumes and the Start Was Very Funny—They Reached Wayne Rock Climb by the Crater.

Mountain climbing appeared in an entirely new light to those who braved the storm of Friday evening and heard Rev. George C. Wilding, D. D., the well known lecturer, deliver his lecture "To the Top of Mount Hood," at Vincent chapel. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E church. A silver offering was taken up at the close and a goodly sum was received. The attendance was good despite the inclement weather.

It would be almost impossible to give a condensed account of Dr. Wilding's lecture. A principal feature of it was the humor with which it abounded. It was a humorous and graphic sketch of Dr. Wilding's trip to the summit of that great mountain peak of western North America in 1893, with a party of fifteen others. The description of the costumes and then the start were very funny. Dr. Wilding had something to say on the methods of climbing and something of the discomforts that the members of his party endured.

Dr. Wilding had several graphic descriptions of the magnificant scenery that was visible from various points on the mountain slope. The strange scene at the camp on the edge of the snow belt, where the party spent the night, was well described. He also told of their visit to the crater of a live volcano and how they lunched on the warm rocks close by the crater. The crevasses, the steep declivities, and finally the ascent of Mt. Hood were all touched upon in the lecture. Throughout his lecture Dr. Wilding moralized on the various strange sights and scenes and pointed out a humorous application.

AT HEAD OF COMMITTEES.

Y. M. C. A. Directors Meet and Organize For the Year's Work.

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A., held Thursday, the following officers and directors were present: Stephen Cahoone, E. L. Bonny, Curtis M. Thorpe, E. B. Ackerman, A. B. Beers, George S. Clay, A. C. LaBoyteaux, H. M. Maxson, R. H. Radford, George M. Rittenhouse and John Valiant. H. K. Carroll, L. L. D., was elected a director for one year to fill a vacancy. Reports were presented.

President Cahoone has appointed the following gentlemen chairmen of committees for the year 1898: Executive committee, W. D. Murray; religious work, A. C. LaBoyteaux; physical work, John Valiant; social work, J. W. Gavett; room committee, Nelson Runyon; lecture committee H. H. Maxson; finance committee, S. F. Kimball; membership committee, Curtis M. Thorpe. The chairmen of committees on educational and boys' work have not yet been appointed.

Librarian's Report for February, 1898.

Vols now in the Public Library..... 16,614
Number of registered borrowers..... 4,366

HOME CIRCULATION.

Fiction	1,799
Juvenile	880
Biography	224
Philosophy	31
Religion	47
Sociology	52
Philology	5
Science	105
Useful Arts	88
Fine Arts	30
Literature	210
Travel	210
History	116
General works	21
Total	3,972

At reference desk in Y. M. C. A. Inst.

Daily average circulation	167
Number of Sunday visitors	85
Total number of visitors	4,366

EMMA L. ADLER, Librarian.

Wants to Save an Appropriation.

Dr. Scott, president of Rutgers College, and head of the State Agricultural Experiment Station, is on a visit to Washington to see what can be done to save intact the appropriation which that institution and other State agricultural colleges and experiment stations receive annually from the Government from the sale of public lands.

Taxes Received for 1896.

After the Borough Council meeting adjourned last Friday, and while the members were in executive session, Collector Spencer submitted a report of taxes received in 1896. The amount received was $248.87 and from that is deducted $65.78 for Board of Health and special school tax, leaving the general tax amount collected to be $183.09.

$10 for the Cubans.

The monthly business meeting and committee conference of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held at the home of Miss F. G. Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue, Thursday evening. The reports of the committees were received. It was voted to give $10 of the missionary fund to the suffering Cubans.

An Engine Disabled.

The engine drawing the Royal Blue Line due in this city about 5:12 in the afternoon, going east, became disabled at Bound Brook last Saturday afternoon, and engine No. 175 took the train as far as Roselle. From the latter place engine 450 took the train into New York.

THEY WOULD FIGHT HARD IN THE SADDLE.

Union County May Put Forth a Troop of Cavalry.

GOVERNOR VOORHEES INTERESTED.

It Would be Necessary to Secure Legislative Permission, and it is Thought That This Can be Attained—Organization Would be Known as "Union Troop"—Westfield Men Interested in It—Conditions of Organization—Meeting at Westfield.

Union county is soon to have a crack cavalry troop, provided a sufficient number of eligible young men can be enlisted to warrant organization. The initiative step in the enterprise was taken at Westfield last week, when an informal meeting was held by a number of the young men of that and neighboring places to consider the matter. After discussing the matter at length the interested parties decided to proceed at once with the work of enlisting members. At least forty men are necessary to form a cavalry troop, but it is expected that this number will be enlisted without trouble. Any respectable young man of twenty-five or over is eligible to enlistment. This State now allows only one cavalry troops, and there are that number already in existence, but it is said that through the influence of Governor Voorhees there will be no difficulty in securing the passage of a legislative act admitting the new troop to the roll of the State National Guard.

The organization will be named the "Union Troop." As soon as the necessary number of names is enrolled a temporary organization will be effected and the troop will commence drilling. Immediately upon the passage of the act admitting the troop to the National Guard, the members will be furnished with the necessary uniforms and arms by the State.

A number of young men from Elizabeth, Roselle, Cranford, Westfield and this city have already signified an intention to join the troop. The work of enlistment is in charge of Dr. B. B. Sinclair, Dr. T. B. Harvey and George B. Dickerson, of Westfield.

DID MICE COMMIT ARSON?

Supposed That Rodents Ignited Matches and Set Fire to a Sofa.

Patrolman Andrew Saffron was walking toward the Grant Avenue station at 3 a. m. last Friday when he was startled to hear a woman's voice crying fire. The officer hastened to the corner of Muhlenberg place and South Second street to send in an alarm from Box 44. As afterwards returned to the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street, from whence came the cry of fire, and discovered that a sofa located in a sitting room occupied by Jack Kavanaugh was on fire. The boarders in the house were soon aroused, and in a few minutes the fire was extinguished. The sofa was a complete wreck. The solution as to the origin of the fire was given to Chief Doane by Mrs. Kavanaugh. She said that she was inclined to believe that her children had poked matches inside of the sofa and that mice had been at work.

The fire was out by the time the department arrived, and the firemen had nothing to do. For some reason there was only one round of the box sounded, and many people alumbering soundly did not hear the alarm.

There Was No Fire.

Saturday evening about 8:50 o'clock Chief Grant was notified that there was a fire in a house located on Third place owned by Craig A. Marsh. Chief Doane gave orders for No. 2 hose carriage to go to the scene of the fire. When the firemen arrived there they learned that paper hangers and painters had been at work in the house, which was not occupied, and that they had started a fire in the furnace. The neighbors knowing that the house was unoccupied and seeing smoke coming from the chimney were at once led to believe that it was on fire. Investigation proved that everything was all right and the firemen had nothing to do.

Fast Four hours Years.

Mrs. Sarah A. Deitrich, widow of Martin Deitrich, died at her home 58 Grove street, Friday afternoon between 12 and 1 o'clock. She had been ill for a long time. She leaves two daughters who resided with her. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church which she attended regularly when her health permitted. She was a woman of considerable property and leaves a substantial fortune to her children. She was in her eighty second year and has been a resident of the borough for many years.

An Improved Sidewalk.

A substantial board crosswalk has been laid by the borough across Duer street at the head of the street which is the extension of Steiner place. The residents in the neighborhood have been trying for a long time to secure a walk, and the efforts of the present Council are appreciated.

William Dood, of Duer street, is confined to his home with a serious illness.

LIVELY SENSE OF HUMOR

REAL CHARACTERISTICS OF OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES SHOWN.

Leon Vincent, in Full Sympathy and Acquaintance With His Subject, Pictured the Noted Man Entertainingly.

Leon Vincent is so popular a lecturer with a Plainfield audience, and American literature such a fascinating subject, that even the wet, driving snowstorm which began Friday afternoon did not prevent a good attendance at the lecture on Oliver Wendell Holmes, which was given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Mr. Vincent's lecture was no dry chapter of commonplace biography, but a bright, sparkling, humorous *account of the most important or en*tertaining facts connected with the life and character of the genial autocrat. His experiences as a lecturer were dwelt upon, the price paid him, $15 and expenses, his preference of a public house over someone's "spare refrigerator," his manner of stopping after a telling remark for the audience to laugh, all being mentioned. His remarks on success as the very difficult art of writing occasional poetry was also given prominence and "The Boys," one of the best of his poems, written for an anniversary of the Harvard class of '29, was read by Mr. Vincent.

